Such specifications shall include an estimate of the aggregate amount of the cost of the work inclusive of incidental expenses and of the procedure. Such specifications shall be signed by the person designated to furnish them and be filed with the clerk of the board of supervisors. [Amendment of June 10, 1915. In effect August 9, 1915, Stats. 1915, p. 1394.]

Resolution of intention.

§ 3. Before ordering any work to be done under this act, the board of supervisors shall pass a resolution of intention so to do. Such resolution may, in form, and shall, in substance, be (filling all blanks) as indicated following, to wit:

Form of resolution.

In the matter of road district improvement No. Resolution of intention No. (the same number for both blanks).

Resolved, That it is the intention of the board of supervisors of the county of, State of California, proceeding under and by virtue of the road district improvement act of 1907, and in the matter of road improvement district No. on the day of, 191., at the hour of in. of that day or as soon thereafter as the matter can be heard, at the chambers of said board, to order work to be done, as follows: (Here insert a description of the work, stating the territorial extent thereof with all reasonable exactness, and in other particulars generally, yet so as to indicate fairly and approximately its probable cost), the said work to be done in accordance with the specifications therefor filed with the clerk of said board on the day of, 191., except as the boundaries of the district and grades therein specified may be changed at the hearing of the matter hereinafter mentioned, which specifications are made part hereof, and to which all persons are referred for further particulars as to said work. For the costs and expenses of the work and the proceeding bonds will be issued to the amount of the same, bearing interest at the rate of per cent per annum, payable semi-annually, and one part of the principal annually, all in gold coin and the aggregate principal of said bonds shall be paid and discharged within "....." years from the issue thereof.

A special fund for the payment of said bonds is to be constituted by the levy of special assessment taxes upon all land within a district to be known as "road improvement district No. of the county of, " (and it may be added, "and partly by transfer of moneys from county road funds").

Such district (as proposed) being all that territory in the county of, State of California, within exterior boundaries as follows, to wit: (the blank to be filled with a careful statement of the exterior boundaries of the district).

Notice is hereby given that at the time specified hereinbefore for ordering the work, the matter of said road district improvement No. will come up for hearing, and all objections, which are, under the provisions of said road district improvement act of 1907, entitled to be heard or determined, will then be heard and determined, and the boundaries of said district and grades therein be finally determined and established.

The (here insert name and character of newspaper), is hereby designated as the newspaper for making publication of this resolution and for making all other publications in the proceeding.

....., a competent person, is hereby appointed superintendent of work with compensation at the rate of dollars per diem for days actually spent in the performance of duty under this appointment, (or, in lieu of the paragraph last preceding, it may appear, "....., a county officer is hereby appointed superintendent of work without compensation").

The foregoing resolution was, on the day of, 191., passed by the board of supervisors of the county of, State of California.

Attest
 Clerk of the board of supervisors of said county of
 By Deputy Clerk.

Principal and interest.

The principal and interest of the bonds representing the cost of work done under the provisions of this act, shall be payable in gold coin of the United States of America, and the board of supervisors is authorized to determine the time, not to exceed twenty years, in which bonds issued to represent the cost of the work shall be paid, and to determine the rate, not to exceed seven per cent per annum, of the interest to be paid thereon, which interest shall be payable semi-annually, and to make such bonds in all respects as indicated by the form therefor, in this act hereafter provided. [Amendment of May 31, 1917. In effect July 30, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 1370.]

Publication of resolution. Copies posted.

§ 4. Such resolution of intention shall be filed, and be published by at least two insertions in the newspaper therein designated, which shall be a newspaper published and circulated in the county, or, if there be no such newspaper, then in any newspaper designated by said board of supervisors in such resolution. Printed copies of such resolution, headed, "notice of road district improvement," such heading to be in letters not less than one inch in length, shall be, by the superintendent of work, or by some person appointed by him for the purpose, posted along the line of the work described in said resolution, at not more than one hundred feet in distance apart, but not less than three in all.

Power to proceed.

Affidavits in proof of such publication and posting shall be filed with the clerk of the board of supervisors. When, before the day of the hearing specified in the resolution of intention, twenty days have elapsed since the posting and the first publication (they need not be simultaneous) of the resolution of intention, the board of supervisors shall have acquired power to proceed with such hearing and to take all other action in the proceeding as is in this act authorized.

Evidence of facts.

The determination of the board of supervisors to proceed with such hearing, whether evidenced by an express declaration or by its proceedings to make other determinations at such hearing, shall be presumptive evidence, at least, of the existence of all the facts upon which the power of the board to proceed depends, except such as are required to appear of the record in the proceeding, and except, also, in so far as such presumption is rebutted by the record in the proceeding. [Amendment of May 31, 1917. In effect July 30, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 1372.]

Objections to work.

§ 5. At any time before the day in the resolution of intention specified for ordering the work and the hearing of the matter, any owner of land within the boundaries of the district as set forth in said resolution, may, severally or with other such owners, file with the clerk of the board of supervisors written objection to the ordering of the work, as an entirety and not merely to some part thereof, as described in the resolution of intention.

If upon said hearing it appears that a majority of the owners of land within the district, as set forth in the resolution of intention, have so in writing made objection going to the entirety of the work described in the resolution of intention and to the ordering of the same, the board of supervisors shall, by a resolution, to be entered in its minutes, so find; and thereupon such board shall have no power to proceed further under said resolution of intention, or to pass any resolution of intention for doing the same work, during a period of one year, next after the time of such finding; and the accrued costs of the proceedings shall be a charge upon the county. But if the fact be that a majority of the owners of land lying within the district, as set forth in said resolution of intention, have not so in writing made objection going to the ordering of the work, as an entirety, the board of supervisors shall so find, and thereupon proceed with the hearing; but such finding need not then be in writing and may, for the purpose of proceeding with the hearing, be a mere announcement of the board, to be noted in the minutes by the clerk.

At the conclusion of the hearing, however, the said finding shall, severally or with other determinations of the board, be made in writing to be filed and entered upon the minutes of the board.

Owners of land within the meaning of this section are those and those only, who appear to be such upon the records in the recorder's office of the county in which the district is situated, on the day before the day for said hearing, and an executor or administrator shall be deemed representative of his decedent, and a trustee of an express trust in land other than as security for the payment of money, of the land held in such trust, and a trustee in bankruptcy, of the bankrupt.

Next after in order of hearing, the board shall proceed to hear such objections as may be made to the grades specified in the specifications.

Thereafter, in the order of the hearing shall be heard such objections as shall be made to the boundaries of the district as set forth in the resolution of intention. Objection to the grades or to the boundaries of the district may be made by an owner of land lying within the district upon the hearing without any written statement of the same.

The hearing may be continued from time to time by the board of supervisors by an order to be entered in the minutes of the board.

Declaration of findings.

§ 6. Unless the power to proceed shall have ceased, as hereinbefore provided, the board of supervisors shall in conclusion of the aforementioned hearing, and as a sufficient determination of all questions arising thereat, by resolution or resolutions to be entered upon its minutes, declare its finding that a majority of the owners of land within the district described in the resolution of intention have not before the day of the hearing filed written objection, going to the ordering of the work to be done, and determining the boundaries of the district to be benefited by the improvement, and the grades thereon. If no changes be made in the boundaries of the district as the same are set forth in the resolution of intention, it shall be sufficient to state that the boundaries of the district are those set forth in the resolution of intention, but if any change of such boundaries is made, the boundaries of the district, as finally determined, shall be fully set forth.

Grades and boundaries determined.

If no change be made as to the grades, as set forth in the specifications on file, it shall be sufficient to state that the grades of the same, as finally determined, are those set forth in such specifications. In either case, the boundaries of the district so determined shall be the boundaries of the district for all purpose[s] of the proceeding and until any bonds to be issued for the cost of the work shall have been fully paid and discharged; and the grades so determined shall be the grades of the district for all the purposes of the proceeding and the "official grade" within the meaning of section one of this act; provided, however, that the boundaries of the district, as the same are set forth in the resolution of intention, shall not be so changed as to include within the district any territory not within its boundaries as set forth in that resolution, nor so that the place or locality of any work described in such resolution of intention shall be excluded from the boundaries of the district as so finally determined.

Time for receiving bids.

In like manner the board of supervisors may order the work to be done, and if it so do, shall fix a time for receiving proposals or bids for doing the work, and direct the clerk to give notice accordingly, inviting sealed proposals or bids. Such notice shall include a statement that the work is to be done "under the provisions of the Road District Improvement Act of 1907," and according to the specifications on file therefor, except in so far as the grades specified therein shall have been fixed otherwise by the board of supervisors in conclusion of the hearing in said act provided; to which said act, to the resolution of intention and all proceedings had thereunder the intention of bidders is hereby directed, and by this reference made a part of this notice. [Amendment of June 10, 1915. In effect August 9, 1915. Stats. 1915, p. 1395.]

Publication of notice inviting bids.

§ 7. The notice inviting sealed proposals or bids shall be published by at least two insertions in the newspapers designated in the resolution of intention and, not necessarily simultaneously, a copy or copies of the same be posted and kept posted for five days, at or near the chamber door of the board of supervisors. All proposals or bids shall be accompanied by a check, payable to the order of the presiding officer of the board of supervisors, certified by a responsible bank for an amount not less than ten per cent of the aggregate of the proposal or bid, or by a bond for said amount running to the presiding officer of the board of supervisors, signed by the bidder, with two sureties qualifying each in said amount over and above all statutory exemptions before an officer competent to administer an oath.

Consideration of bids.

Said proposals or bids shall be delivered to the clerk of said board, and said board shall, in open session, examine and declare the same, but no proposal or bid shall be considered unless accompanied by said check or such bond in terms satisfactory to the board. The board may reject any and all proposals or bids should it deem this for the public good, and shall reject all proposals or bids other than the lowest regular proposal or bid of any responsible bidder, and may award the contract for said work to the lowest responsible bidder at the price named in his bid.

Notice of award to be published.

A notice of such award, attested by the clerk of the board of supervisors, shall be published two days and posted for five days in the same manner as hereinbefore provided with respect to the notice inviting proposals or bids.

Bonds accompanying bids.

The check or bonds accompanying such accepted proposals or bids shall be kept by the clerk of said board until the contract for doing said work, as hereinafter provided, has been entered into. If said bidder fails, neglects or refuses to enter into the contract for said work, as hereinafter provided, then the certified check accompanying his bid, and the amount therein mentioned, shall be declared forfeited to the county, and may be collected by it and paid into its road fund, and any bond forfeited may be prosecuted, and the amount thereof collected and paid into said fund.

Successful bidder to pay for advertising.

Before being entitled to a contract the bidder to whom the award thereof has been made must advance and pay to the clerk of the board of supervisors, for payment by him the costs and expenses of publishing and posting resolutions, notices and orders required under this act to be made, which have been made, given, posted or published in the proceeding. [Amendment of May 31, 1917. In effect July 30, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 1373.]

Owners may file notice of irregularity.

§ 8. At any time within ten days from the date of the first publication of the notice of award of contract any owner of, or other person having any interest in any lot or land within the boundaries of the assessment district who claims that any of the previous acts or proceedings relating to said improvement are irregular, defective, erroneous or faulty may file with the clerk of the board of supervisors a written notice specifying in what respect said acts and proceedings are irregular, defective, erroneous or faulty. All objections to any act or proceedings prior to the first day of publication of the aforesaid notice of award in relation to said improvement not made in writing, and in the manner and at the time aforesaid, shall be waived. It is the intent of this section that any person failing to file such notice within the time specified shall be deemed to have intentionally waived every objection to the regularity or validity of such acts or proceedings. If, for fifteen days after the first publication of said notice of award, the bidder to whom the contract was awarded, fails, neglects or refused to enter into the contract, the board of supervisors may direct the clerk of the board to give notice inviting sealed proposals and bids and thereupon the board shall proceed as in the first instance, and as in the case of the default of the first awardee, so also in the event of the second. [Amendment of June 10, 1915 In effect August 9, 1915. Stats. 1915, p. 1396.]

Terms of contract. Bond of contractor.

§ 9. The presiding officer of the board of supervisors is hereby authorized, in the name of the county to execute the contract with the awardee of the same, and to receive and approve all bonds by this act required on the part of such awardee, and shall, by the terms of said contract, fix the time for the beginning of the work, which shall not be more than twenty days from the date thereof, and the contract shall provide that the work be prosecuted with diligence until completed, and a time for such completion shall be in the contract fixed, but such time of completion may be extended from time to time by the board of supervisors, in its discretion, and by resolution, which shall be entered by the clerk in the minutes of said board, a copy of which shall be by said clerk indorsed upon or annexed to the contract.

Before entering upon such contract, a bond shall be executed and filed, running to the county, in an amount not less than one-half of the contract price of the work, signed by the contractor and two or more sureties, who shall aggregately, unless surety companies, qualify before an officer entitled to administer the oath in a sum equal to the amount of the bond, each surety in the amount for which he becomes surety. Such bond shall be conditioned for the faithful execution of the contract by the party contracting to do the work, and the payment by him for all labor and materials furnished for or in the doing of the work. The form and sufficiency of said bond shall be passed upon by some member of the board of supervisors, and such bond shall inure as well to the benefit of any and all persons furnishing labor or materials for the work as to the county.

Said contract shall undertake on behalf of the county that the board of supervisors will, upon the fulfillment and performance of the contract on the part of the contractor, and under the provisions of the "Road District Improvement Act of 1907," take all steps, in or by said act authorized to be taken, to effect the issuing by the county treasurer of the bonds in said act authorized to be issued, and provide a fund for the payment of the same, as in or by said act prescribed; and it shall be in such contract stated that in no case shall the county be liable under the contract, nor any officer thereof be thereunder holden except for the discharge of official duty under the law.

If contractor fails to carry out contract.

§ 9a. If the contractor shall fail to begin in good faith the work provided for in said contract within the time in said contract set forth, or shall fail thereafter to prosecute said work in a workmanlike and diligent manner, or shall fail in any other respect to carry out the terms of said contract, then the board of supervisors shall cause written notice to be served upon said contractor, specifying the particular or particulars in which he fails to fulfill the requirements of said contract and if for a period of three days thereafter said contractor shall fail to remedy the defects set forth in said notice, and to prosecute said work thereafter with diligence and in a workmanlike manner, then the board of supervisors shall either take over said contract and complete said work, or shall relet said contract, without the necessity of advertising for bids, and cause the work to be completed, and shall declare the bond given by said contractor forfeited and order suit brought thereon, and all moneys collected therefrom shall be paid into the general road fund of the county.

Action to recover on bond.

If the contractor shall fail to pay for any labor or material furnished for, or in the doing of said work, by any person, such person shall have and hold a lien against the bonds to be issued to cover the cost and expenses of said work. Such person may at any time prior to the issuance of said bonds file with the county treasurer a verified statement of the fact that he has not been paid for such labor or material. The county treasurer shall withhold from the contractor or any one claiming under him as assignee or otherwise, sufficient of said bonds to satisfy such claim, and costs which can reasonably be anticipated. Such claimant, if he so elects, and if he has not received the said bonds, may as an alternative, at any time within six months after the filing of such statement bring an action on the bond of the sureties in his own name, or if he has assigned his claim, the action may be brought in the name of the assignee; provided, however, that the right of the county to recover on said bond shall be superior to the rights of such claimant to recover thereon. [Amendment of May 15, 1919. In effect July 22, 1919. Stats. 1919, p. 558.]

This section was added May 31, 1917, Stats. 1917, p. 1373.

When work is completed, declaration to be filed. Notice of hearing whether work shall be accepted. Hearing.

§ 10. As soon as may be done in good faith, there shall be filed with the clerk of the board of supervisors a declaration that the work has been completed according to the contract, together with an itemized statement of all the incidental costs and expenses of the work and the proceeding inclusive of the estimated cost of publishing the notice of final hearing hereinafter mentioned.

The aggregate of such items shall be stated, and, also, the amount due as of the contract price; and also the gross sum for a bond issue representing the entire amount thereof, as claimed by the contractor. The said declaration and statements shall be signed and verified by the superintendent of work, and by the contractor or some person cognizant of the facts, signing on behalf of the contractor, and stating why he, instead of the contractor, so signs and verifies. Either signer may except from his signature and verification any amount or item to which he does not assent.

The presiding officer of the board of supervisors is hereby authorized to fix a time and give notice for a hearing for the purpose of determining whether the work shall be accepted as being completed according to the contract, and for determining the aggregate amounts for which bonds shall be issued representing the total cost of the work, and the amount of the incidental costs and expenses of the work, and the proceedings which is to be charged to and paid by the contractor.

Such hearing shall be known as the final hearing. The notice of such hearing may, in form, and shall, in substance be (filling the blanks) as follows:

Notice of Final Hearing.
In the Matter of Road District
Improvement No. —

Notice is hereby given that a final hearing of the above named matter will be had at the hour of — m. on the — day of —, 19—, at the chamber of the board of supervisors of the county of —, State of California, for the purpose of determining whether the work done under the contract made with — under Resolution of Intention No. — in Road Improvement District No. — of the county of — shall be accepted as being performed according to the contract, and for determining the aggregate amount for which bonds shall issue representing the cost of such work, inclusive of the incidental costs and expenses of the work and the proceeding, of which a statement has been filed with the clerk of said board of supervisors of the county of —, to which statement the attention of all persons interested is hereby directed.

Deputy Clerk

(If so the fact be.)

Such notice shall be signed by the presiding officer of the board of supervisors and attested by the clerk of the board of supervisors and published by at least two insertions in the newspaper designated in the resolution of intention, and copy or copies thereof, posted and kept posted for two days at or near the chamber door of the board of supervisors, the first day of such publication and that of such posting (they need not be simultaneous) to be not less than five days before the day in said notice specified for the hearing.

Proof of such publication shall be made by affidavit or affidavits, and the same shall be filed. If a quorum be not present at the time in the notice specified for the hearing, a member or members of the board then present may continue the hearing from day to day, and at all stages thereof the hearing may, by resolution, to be entered in the minutes, be continued from time to time.

At any time before the day in said notice specified for the hearing, any owner of property not exempt from taxation within the district, as finally established, may solely or with any other such owner or owners, file written objection to the acceptance of the work on the ground that the work has not been completed or done according to the contract, specifying in ordinary language the particulars in which the contract has not been so completed or done.

Any person interested in the proceeding, as of the interest of the contractor, shall be presumed to take issue with such objection, and be heard accordingly.

Questions going to the incidental costs or expenses of the work or the proceedings may be raised orally by any owner of property not exempt from taxation, situated within the district.

Evidence may be adduced going to any of the matters to be determined, and in such order as the board may summarily direct.

If, when the matter has been fully heard, whether under or in the absence of objections, the board of supervisors is of the opinion that the work has not been completed or done according to the contract, it shall in writing, specify what must be done in order to complete the work, and shall, by an order or resolution to be entered in its minutes, continue the further hearing of the whole matter to a specified day, expressly stating that such continuance is for the purpose of enabling the contractor to complete his contract.

On said continued hearing the objections filed before the day of the first hearing shall continue in force as against the work, and evidence be received, if offered, as to what has been done by way of completing the contract in the particulars specified in the order of the board on the said continuance of the hearing.

If, upon such continued hearing, it is the opinion of the board that the work is still uncompleted, in the particulars as to which it was ordered to be completed, it shall be discretionary with said board to order or refuse a second continuance of the hearing. If the board do order such second continuance, it shall be ordered in the same manner and with like effect as provided aforesaid, upon the first continuance.

And as provided aforesaid for a second continuance so of any other or further continuance.

Objections to any item of incidental costs and expenses, shall pend and be heard on said day, or at any continued hearing had, as in this section aforesaid provided.

Every continuance of said hearing for the purposes of enabling the contractor to complete his contract or the work shall continue or revive such powers of the board to supervisors had, under the provisions of this act, in the proceeding, at the time of the filing of the contractor's declaration that the work was completed, as provided aforesaid, and also operate to extend the time for the completion of said contract in such manner that its completion within the time to which the hearing is continued, shall be as valid performance of such contract as if completed at the time of filing such declaration or statement.

Resolution of acceptance. Decision final.

§ 11. Whenever upon the hearing in section 10 aforesaid provided, whether at the first or any continued hearing, it shall be the opinion of the board of supervisors that the work has been completed and done according to the contract, said board shall by resolution to be entered upon its minutes so declare, and that the work is accepted, and shall in said resolution state the amount of the contract price for the doing of the work specified and performed, and the amount of the incidental costs and expenses of the work and proceedings which are to be charged against and to be paid by the contractor and the aggregate amount for which bonds are to be issued as hereinafter provided, inclusive of said contract price and said incidental costs and expenses. The decision and determination of said board of supervisors at the hearing provided for in section 10 hereof shall be final and conclusive as to all matters determined at said hearing, and as to all errors, informalities, irregularities, or omissions which said board of supervisors might have avoided or remedied during the progress of the proceedings, or which it can at that time remedy, upon all persons entitled to be heard before said board on said matters, and no assessment or tax thereafter levied for the payment of the bonds to be issued for said work and expenses shall be held invalid by any court for any error, informality, omission or other defect in the proceedings where the resolution of intention has been actually published as in this act provided, before the said board shall have ordered the work to be done. [Amendment of June 10, 1915. In effect August 9, 1915. Stats. 1915, p. 1396.]

Bonds to be issued in road districts.

§ 12. Upon the expiration of twenty days from the making of the final order mentioned in section eleven of this act, the clerk of the board of supervisors shall transmit to the county treasurer of the county an attested copy of said final order, and upon receipt of the same the treasurer shall proceed to issue bonds amounting in the aggregate to the principal sum for which bonds are to be issued as the same is stated in said final order. Said bonds, when issued, shall be dated as of the day when said final order of the board of supervisors was made. A bond may be issued in any amount, provided that the aggregate of the bond or bonds made payable in any one year is the proper part of the whole principal of the bond issue as specified in said final order, and that the interest thereon shall be payable as hereinafter provided. The said bonds may in form and shall in substance be as indicated following, to wit:

Road district improvement bond.

ROAD DISTRICT IMPROVEMENT BOND.

County of....., State of California.
Road Improvement District No.....

$..... Bond No.....

Under and by virtue of an act of the legislature of the State of California, known as the "road district improvement act of 1907" (here may be inserted a further designation of the act, if desired) the county of....., State of California, will pay to the bearer, out of the fund hereinafter designated, at the office of the treasurer of the said county, on the.....day of....., 19....., the sum of.....dollars in gold coin of the United States of America, with interest thereon, in like gold coin at the rate of.....per cent per annum, payable semiannually on the second day of January and the second day of July of each year from the date hereof (except the last installment thereof, which shall be payable at maturity of this bond) upon presentation and surrender, as they respectively become due, of the proper interest coupons hereto attached, the first of which is for interest from date hereof to the next date of interest payment, and the last for interest to maturity hereof from the last preceding date of interest payment.

This bond is issued under and in conformity to the provisions of the above mentioned "road district improvement act of 1907" and the amendments thereof, and is one of a series of bonds of like date and effect numbered from one to.....consecutively, amounting in the aggregate to.....dollars, issued in behalf of road improvement district number.....of said county, which constitute the only indebtedness of said district. It is hereby certified, recited and declared that all proceedings, acts and things required by law precedent to or in the issuance of this bond have been regularly had, done and performed, and this bond is by law made conclusive evidence thereof.

This bond is payable out of road district improvement fund number..... exclusively, as the same appears on the books of the treasurer of said county, and neither said county nor any officer thereof shall be holden for its payment otherwise; but in accordance with said act the board of supervisors of said county will annually, at the time of levying other taxes, levy upon all the land in said road improvement district a special assessment tax in an amount clearly sufficient to pay the principal and interest of said bonds as the same shall become payable.

In witness whereof said county has caused this bond to be signed by the chairman of its board of supervisors and countersigned by its treasurer and the seal of said board to be hereto affixed and said interest coupons to be signed by the said treasurer thisday of....., 19.....

Chairman of the board of supervisors of the county of [Seal of board of supervisors.]

Countersigned:

Treasurer of the county of.....

Signatures on bonds.

Said bonds shall be signed by the chairman of the board of supervisors and countersigned by the treasurer of the county, and shall have the seal of said board of supervisors thereto affixed, and when so signed shall be binding according to the terms thereof as prescribed in said form. The interest coupons attached to said bonds shall be in such form as the said treasurer may determine, subject to the provisions of this act and the determination made by the board of supervisors, and their signature by said treasurer alone, by either written or lithographed or printed facsimile signature, shall be sufficient. Said bonds shall be delivered by the said treasurer to said contractor or to his order, assignee, or lawful representative.

Life of bonds. Interest.

The board of supervisors is hereby vested with power to determine the number of years, not to exceed twenty, within which the aggregate principal of bonds to be issued under this act shall be paid and discharged, and to fix the rate of interest, not to exceed seven per cent per annum, to be paid thereon, and it shall be a sufficient determination and fixing of the same to set forth in the resolution of intention that bonds will issue for the work, in any terms that will fairly indicate such time and such rate and the fractional part of the principal to be paid each year, which part shall be the same for each of the years covered by the bond issued.

Interest payments.

The interest payments on said bonds shall be payable semi-annually on the second days of January and July of each year (except the last installment, which shall be payable at maturity of the bonds) in the manner indicated in said form of bond, and the interest and principal shall be payable at the office of the county treasurer in gold coin of the United States of America; but it shall not be necessary, either in the resolution of intention or otherwise, to set forth or determine the days of the month on which payments of interest are to be made, nor that payments shall be made in such gold coin, nor that payments shall be made at such treasurer's office, but all persons are charged with notice of the contents of this section, especially in the aforesaid particulars. [Amendment of May 10, 1919. In effect July 22, 1919. Stats. 1919, p. 516.]

This section was also amended June 10, 1915, Stats. 1915, p. 1397.

Evidence of regularity.

§ 13. Said bonds by their issuance shall be conclusive evidence of the regularity of all proceedings prior thereto under this act, and after the same are issued, no tax levied or collected for the purpose of paying the principal or interest on said bonds shall be held to be illegal or set aside or refunded by reason of any informality, irregularity, omission or defect in any of the proceedings prior to the issuance of said bonds, nor shall any action be maintained to cancel or set aside said bonds, or to prevent the payment thereof, or the levy or the collection of a tax for such payment.

Special fund.

A special fund to be named "road district improvement fund No....." (the number to be that of the district) for the discharge and payment of such bonds and the interest thereon, shall be constituted as follows, to wit: There shall each year at the time of the general tax levy for state and county taxes, be levied against and upon all of the land (not including improvements) within said road improvement district No....., (being the district established and bounded in the order ordering the work to be done) a special assessment tax, in an amount clearly sufficient, together with any moneys which are or may be in said fund to pay all the principal which has become or will become due, and all interest which has become or will become payable on said bonds, before the proceeds of another tax levy made at the time of the general tax levy for state and county purposes, can be made available for the payment of such bonds.

Transfer from general fund. Levy of special tax.

The board of supervisors shall annually, at the time of making the said tax levy, transfer from the general road fund of the county to said road district improvement fund No....., such amount as in the judgment of said board is a fair proportion of the said general road fund.

In any event it shall be the duty of said board of supervisors to levy a special assessment tax upon all lands within said road district, sufficient to pay the principal and interest of said bonds as the same shall become payable, and the board of supervisors is hereby vested with power to do all and singular the things which in this section aforesaid it is declared shall be done. Whenever any of said bonds or any interest thereon shall become due and there shall not be sufficient money in said road district improvement fund to pay same, the board of supervisors may, pending the levy and collection of a tax therefor, order the amount of money necessary to pay the bonds or interest so falling due, to be transferred from the general fund to said road district improvement fund, and the amount of money so transferred shall be deemed a loan to said road district improvement fund, and shall be repaid to the general fund from the first money coming into said road district improvement fund thereafter. The special assessment taxes provided for herein shall be levied and collected in the same mode and manner and by the same officers as the ordinary county taxes, and all laws applicable to the levy, collection and enforcement of such county taxes, are hereby made applicable to said special taxes. [Amendment of June 10, 1915. In effect August 9, 1915. Stats. 1915, p. 1399.]

Materials furnished to contractor.

§ 13a. The board of supervisors, by a four-fifths vote, may adopt a resolution setting forth that the improvement to be made is of more than local importance, and that all or a portion of the materials needed for the improvement are to be purchased and furnished to the contractor and paid for out of the general road fund or out of the fund of the road district in which the improvement lies, or if it lies in two or more road districts, out of the funds of such districts in a proportion to be determined by the board of supervisors, and may thereupon purchase and furnish to the contractor such materials, and pay for the same in the manner set forth in said resolution; provided, however, that no material shall be furnished the contractor unless the specifications contain a statement of the kind and amount of the material to be furnished, and only in the amount and of the kind set forth in said specifications. [New section added May 31, 1917. In effect July 30, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 1374.]

Engineer of work.

1. To appoint, at any stage of the proceeding before calling for proposals or bids, any competent engineer, to be designated "engineer of work," for the purpose of doing and furnishing all the civil engineering work or services, surveying and similar work and services necessary to the proper doing of the work. His compensation or at least the rate or some basis for computing the same shall be fixed and stated in the order of his appointment, which said order shall be entered in the minutes of the board; provided, any county officer may be appointed as such engineer without compensation.

Superintendent of work.

2. To appoint, in and as a part of the resolution of intention, any competent person to be designated "superintendent of work," whose duty it shall be to perform the services for him in this act prescribed or indicated, and to have the general actual supervision of the work. His compensation shall be fixed at the time and in the resolution of his appointment at a per diem not to exceed five dollars for all time actually devoted to the work; provided, any county officer may be appointed as such superintendent without compensation.

Specifications.

3. To designate any competent person for the purpose of preparing and furnishing the specifications required by section two of this act, and with such designation to fix his compensation, or some basis for computing the same, or to appoint any county officer of the county without compensation.

4. To appoint and designate other competent persons in the places respectively of the persons so originally appointed, with compensation, so far as practicable, proportionately the same as fixed for the original appointee, and to appoint such additional persons as may be needed to carry on said work; and to fix their compensation which shall be a charge against the district.

Not charge against county.

No part of such or any compensation for said officers or employees, or for services rendered by any of them shall be a charge against the county or any officer thereof; except that for furnishing specifications and posting the resolution of intention the county shall be liable in case the proceedings cease or are abandoned, before the award of the contract; provided, however, that whenever any county officer is appointed to any of the positions hereinabove mentioned without compensation, the actual and necessary expenses incurred under his supervision, including the compensation of other persons, made necessary by the duties of such positions shall be a charge against the county but shall be repaid to the county by the contractor as in the following section provided.

Supervisors ineligible.

No member of the board of supervisors shall be eligible to appointment to any office, position or employment under this act, except as county officer without pay. [Amendment of May 31, 1917. In effect July 30, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 1375.]

This section was also amended March 28, 1911, Stats. 1911, p. 506.

Costs paid by contractor.

§ 15. All the costs and expenses of the proceeding, inclusive especially of the compensation of the person appointed to furnish the specifications, of the superintendent of work, of the engineer of work, of the cost of all publications under this act required to be made, shall be chargeable to and paid by the contractor, and they shall have been paid before delivery of the bonds shall be made by the county treasurer; provided, however, that if said costs and expenses are not paid within ten days after notice given that said bonds, excepting such number thereof as may be withheld to satisfy claims filed as hereinabove provided are ready for delivery, a sufficient number of said bonds may be sold at not less than ninety-five per cent of their face value to fully satisfy said costs and expenses, any surplus over said costs and expenses obtained by such sale to be paid to said contractor; provided, further, that the county treasurer may make delivery of such bonds, if there be deposited with him, subject to the order of the board of supervisors, money to the amount of the costs and expenses chargeable to the contractor as the same is stated in the attested order of the board of supervisors, provided for in section twelve of this act. The contractor and all persons claiming under him any interest in said bonds, whether of ownership, lien or otherwise, shall be deemed to have notice of the contents of this section. [Amendment of May 31, 1917. In effect July 30, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 1376.]

Adjustments with contractor.

§ 15½. Whenever a contractor pays into the county treasury an amount larger or smaller than that actually due for incidental or preliminary expenses, the difference thus arising shall be adjusted by transfers from or to the interest and sinking fund of the district for which the payment was made, to or from the proper fund of the county. [New section added May 27, 1919. In effect July 27, 1919. Stats. 1919, p. 1336.]

Place of publication may be changed how.

§ 16. If publication in the newspaper designated in the resolution of intention become impossible for the reason that such newspaper has ceased to be published or for any like reason, which renders publication therein impossible, the board of supervisors may, by a resolution to be entered in its minutes, and stating the facts, designate another newspaper for each required publication as occasion therefor arises.

All papers to be filed with county clerk.

§ 17. All papers in a proceeding under this act (save such as thereunder may be returnable to owners) shall be filed with the clerk of the board of supervisors, and by him kept together in a package appropriately labeled. Whenever in this act the term "clerk of the board of supervisors" is employed, it shall be deemed to include one who is, ex officio; such, and it shall be immaterial that he designate himself as county clerk where the county clerk is ex officio clerk of the board of supervisors, nor shall it be material that his act be by deputy.

Name of act.

§ 18. This act shall be known as the "Road District Improvement Act of 1907," and by such designation shall be sufficiently identified in any proceeding thereunder, and whenever in the resolution of intention it shall be set forth or recited that the proceeding is under the "Road District Improvement Act of 1907," this act shall be construed as the paramount statute for such proceeding, independently of, and alternatively for, other statutes for the improvement of public ways not within incorporated cities and towns.

1. Constitutionality.—As to constitutionality of act.—See Barber, etc., Co. v. Bancroft, 167 Cal. 185, 138 Pac. 742.

2. Same—Ad valorem assessments.—The road district improvement act of 1907 is constitutional, notwithstanding it provides for ad valorem assessments to pay for the improvement rather than an assessment based on benefits.—Thomas v. Pridham, 171 Cal. 98, 106, 153 Pac. 933.

3. Same—Same.—The fact that the assessments under the act are based on the value of the property rather than benefits conferred does not render the act unconstitutional.—Swall v. Los Angeles County (Cal. App.), 784 Pac. 406.

4. Same—Failure to make provision for determining benefits.—The act is not unconstitutional for failing to make express provision for determining benefits as a condition for including territory in the district.—Swall v. Los Angeles County (Cal. App.), 184 Pac. 406.

5. Same—Publication of notice of hearing.—Section 5 of the road district improvement act of 1907, provides for a hearing after due notice by publication to all parties concerned.—Thomas v. Pridham, 171 Cal. 98, 107, 153 Pac. 933.

6. Same—Same.—Section 5 of the act provides an opportunity for the property owner to make objections, and the act is not unconstitutional for a failure to allow the property owner a hearing.—Swall v. Los Angeles County (Cal. App.) 184 Pac. 406.

7. Same—Title—Subject of oiling and paving streets.—The matter of oiling and paving streets is strictly germane to the general subject of the act as expressed in the title.—Hunt v. Manning, 24 Cal. App. 44, 140 Pac. 39.

8. Same—Same.—The title of the act sufficiently expresses the subject of the legislation and embraces but one subject.—Hunt v. Manning, 24 Cal. App. 44, 140 Pac. 39; McCray v. Manning, 22 Cal. App. 25, 133 Pac. 17.

9a. Construed and applied.—Section 1184, Code of Civil Procedure.—Section 1184, Code of Civil Procedure, is not applicable to public work on public highways performed under the road district improvement act.—Slayden v. O'Dea (Cal.), 189 Pac. 1066.

9. Act provides an alternative plan.—Article VII of the charter of Los Angeles, based upon section 7½, article XI, of the constitution, does not repeal the road district improvement act of 1907 (806), in its application to that county, it being clearly the intention of the charter to provide an alternative plan for road improvement.—Thomas v. Pridham, 171 Cal. 98, 102, 153 Pac. 933.

10. No denial of hearing to landowners.—Where it does not appear in a suit to enforce collection of a special assessment to pay bonds issued under the road district improvement act, that the plaintiff landowners were denied a hearing by the board of supervisors, as the act provides, the court will not interfere with the action of the board.—Dillingham v. Welch, 179 Cal. 656, 178 Pac. 512.

11. Jurisdiction of supervisors—Adoption of system of road improvement.—If the supervisors of a county are not foreclosed by the county charter framed under section 7½, article XI, of the constitution, from resort to the general law in road district improvement, it makes no difference how diverse the two systems of road improvement within districts may be.—Thomas v. Pridham, 171 Cal. 98, 103, 153 Pac. 933.

12. Same—Inclusion of farm lands.—Where owners of farm lands filed no written protest, or made any objection to the inclusion of their lands in a road improvement district, they are deemed to have submitted themselves to the jurisdiction of the board of supervisors in the determination of the question of the necessity for the improvement.—Swall v. Los Angeles County (Cal. App.), 184 Pac. 406.

13. Same—Same.—It is not an obvious abuse of discretion on the part of the supervisors to include farm lands in a road improvement district.—Swall v. Los Angeles County (Cal. App.), 184 Pac. 406.

14. Same—Abuse of discretion.—When jurisdiction is given a board to pass on the question of benefits, the courts will not disturb their finding, unless there appears a clear and palpable abuse of discretion.—Swall v. Los Angeles County (Cal. App.), 184 Pac. 406.

15. Same—Presumption as to benefits.—It will be presumed that the board of supervisors determined that all the land included in the district would be benefited.—Swall v. Los Angeles County (Cal. App.), 184 Pac. 406.

16. Procedure—Resolution of intention.—The resolution of intention not defective because of indefiniteness in describing work to be done, in view of the fact that it referred to the specifications on file, which were not subject to the same objection.—Dillingham v. Welch, 179 Cal. 656, 178 Pac. 512.

17. Same—Specifications of the work.—As a general rule specifications must definitely and with certainty, describe the manner and extent of the work to be done, but the rule has an important exception, that where the details of construction and cost are ascertainable only by doing the work, the matter must be left to be adjusted by the person or board supervising construction.—Dillingham v. Welch, 179 Cal. 656, 178 Pac. 512.

18. Same—Establishment of grades.—The establishment of grades of streets not to be improved under proceedings provided in this act would not be a part of the "work," and the failure to provide such grades is not fatal to the jurisdiction of the supervisors, under section 2, to pass the resolution of intention.—Dillingham v. Welch, 179 Cal. 656, 178 Pac. 512.

19. Same—Declaration of completion, verification of.—The failure to verify the declaration of completion of the work was a mere irregularity, not affecting the jurisdiction of the board of supervisors to levy the tax to meet the bonds issued.—Dillingham v. Welch, 179 Cal. 656, 178 Pac. 512.

20. Determination of benefits.—The benefits from street improvements are not necessarily confined to property fronting on the street, and the boundaries of a district or locality benefited by such improvement is a matter for the determination of the board of supervisors under this act, and it will be presumed, in the absence of anything to the contrary to have been correctly determined.—McCray v. Manning, 22 Cal. App. 25, 133 Pac. 17.

21. Contract—Indefiniteness of specifications.—A provision in a contract under the district improvement act of 1907, that "contractors must grade connections with intersecting roads to the satisfaction of the engineer employed by the commission," is not invalid because of indefiniteness of specifications.—Dillingham v. Welch, 179 Cal. 656, 178 Pac. 512.

22. Lien for supplies.—Hay and feed for horses and mules used by a contractor on road work under the district improvement act are covered by the bond given under the provisions of section 9 of the act, without regard to the presence or absence of the word "supplies" in the bond.—Pacific etc., Co. v. Oswald, 179 Cal. 712, 173 Pac. 854.

WORK ON STATE HIGHWAYS BY LOCAL AUTHORITIES.

ACT 1910a—An act authorizing counties and municipalities to perform street work upon highways under the control of the state.

History: Approved May 3, 1919. In effect July 22, 1919. Stats. 1919, p. 138.

Local improvements on state highway.

§ 1. The several counties, municipalities and road divisions of this state, within the limits of which may exist a state highway or highways under the jurisdiction and control of the state engineering department, are hereby empowered to do or order to be done on such highways any paving, curbing, street work or sewer work authorized by law; provided, however, that permission to do any such work shall first be obtained from the state department of engineering and all grades, elevations or curb lines sought to be established or pavement proposed to be constructed by any county, municipality or road division shall first be approved by said engineering department of the state; and provided, further, that in case any existing pavement should be injured as a result of such work, such pavement shall be restored to the satisfaction of said engineering department.

HIGHWAY LIGHTING DISTRICTS.

ACT 1911—An act to allow unincorporated towns and villages to establish, equip and maintain systems of street lights on public highways; to provide for the formation, government and operation of highway lighting districts; the calling and holding of elections in such districts; the assessment, collection, custody and disbursement of taxes therein; and the creation of ex-officio boards of supervisors.

History: Approved March 20, 1909, Stats. 1909, p. 551. Amended (1) March 23, 1911, Stats. 1911, p. 439; (2) June 4, 1913. In effect August 10, 1913. Stats. 1913, p. 447. (3) May 29, 1915. In effect August 8, 1915. Stats. 1915, p. 943. (4) June 1, 1917. In effect July 31, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 1521.

Certain words defined.

§ 1. The words and phrases used in this act, shall, for the purposes of this act, unless the same be contrary to or inconsistent with the context, be construed as follows:

(1) "Public highways," shall include any highway, county road, state road, public street, avenue, alley, park, parkway, driveway, or public place, in any county, or unincorporated town or village dedicated to the public and generally used for traffic by the public.

(2) "Street lights," or "street illumination," shall include any system of illumination by means of street lights using gas, electricity, or other means of illuminant deemed feasible; such lights to be set upon poles, or suspended in the air.

Street lights.

§ 2. Any unincorporated town or village of this state may establish a highway lighting district for the purpose of installing and maintaining a system of street lights on public highways, for the better protection of its residents, in accordance with the provisions of this act.

Petition for public highway lighting district. Notice of hearing. Publication. Objections.

§ 3. Upon the application, by petition, of twenty-five or more taxpayers and residents of said town or village presented at a regular meeting of the board of supervisors of the county in which the said town or village is situated, praying for the formation of a public highway lighting district, and setting forth the name and boundaries of the said proposed district, the board of supervisors shall fix a day and hour for hearing the same, and protests of interested parties, not less than twenty-five nor more than thirty days after the date of presentation thereof. The clerk of the board shall thereupon cause notices of the filing and hearing of such petition to be posted in three of the most public places in said district. Said notice shall be headed "Notice of the proposed formation of.....lighting district" (stating name of the proposed lighting district) in letters not less than one inch in length, and shall, in legible characters, state the fact and date of the filing of such petition, the date and hour set for hearing such petition and protests of interested parties, specify the boundaries of the proposed district and refer to said petition for further particulars. The said clerk shall also cause a notice, similar in substance, to be published at least once a week for two consecutive weeks in a newspaper of general circulation printed and published in the county in which the proposed district is located, and designated by said board for that purpose. Said notice must be posted and published, as above provided, at least seven days before the date set for the hearing of said petition. Any person interested, objecting to the formation of said district, or to the extent of said district, or to the proposed improvement, or to the inclusion of his property in said district, may file a written protest, setting forth such objections, with the clerk of said board at or before the time set for the hearing of said petition.

Hearing. Changes in boundaries.

The clerk of said board shall endorse on each such protest the date of its reception by him, and, at the time appointed for the hearing above provided for, shall present to said board all protests so filed with him. Said board shall hear said petition and protests at the time appointed, or at any time to which the hearing thereof may be adjourned, and pass upon the same, and its decision thereon shall be final and conclusive. If any of such protests be against the extent of said district, or against the inclusion of property in said district, then the board shall have power to make such changes in the boundaries of the proposed district as it shall find to be proper and advisable, and shall define and establish such boundaries, but said board shall not extend the boundaries of said district, nor shall said board modify such boundaries so as to exclude from such proposed district any territory which will be benefited by said improvement, nor shall any territory which will not, in the judgment of said board be benefited by said improvement be included within such proposed district. At the expiration of the time within which protests may be filed, if none be filed, or if protests be filed and, after hearing be denied or the boundaries of the proposed district be defined and established with modifications, as above provided, then said board shall be deemed to have acquired jurisdiction to further proceed in accordance with the provisions of this act.

Order for election.

The said board of supervisors must, within thirty days after acquiring jurisdiction to proceed as provided above, by resolution, order that an election be held in the said proposed district for the determination of the question, and shall appoint three qualified electors thereof to conduct said election; which must be held within forty days from the date of the order. [Amendment of May 29, 1915. In effect August 8, 1915. Stats. 1915, p. 944.]

Election to determine proposition.

§ 4. Said election shall be called by posting notice thereof in three of the most public places in said proposed lighting district, and by publication in a daily or weekly paper therein, if there be one, at least once a week for not less than fifteen days. Said notices must specify the time, place and purposes of said election, give the boundaries of the said proposed lighting district; and the hours during which the polls will be kept open; provided that in districts with a population of ten thousand or over, the polls must be opened at 8 o'clock A. M., and kept open until 7 o'clock P. M., and in districts where the population is less than ten thousand, the polls must not be opened before 1 o'clock P. M., and must be kept open not less than six hours.

Conduct of election.

§ 5. Said election shall be conducted in accordance with the general election laws of this state, where applicable, without reference to form of ballot or manner of voting, except that the ballots shall contain the words, "For Lighting District," and the voter shall write or print after said words on his ballot, the word "Yes" or the word "No."

Who entitled to vote.

§ 6. Every qualified elector, resident within the proposed district for the period requisite to enable him to vote at a general election, shall be entitled to vote at the election above provided for.

Canvass of vote.

§ 7. It shall be the duty of the election officers to publicly canvass the votes immediately after the close of the election, and to report the result of said election to the board of supervisors within five days subsequent to the holding thereof.

Duty of supervisors.

§ 8. If a majority of the votes cast at said election shall be in favor of a lighting district, the said board of supervisors may, by resolution, establish said lighting district.

Same.

§ 9. If a majority of the votes cast shall be against the lighting district, the board of supervisors, shall by order, so declare; no other proceedings shall be taken in relation thereto until the expiration of one year from the date of presentation of the petition.

Evidence of validity.

§ 10. The fact of the presentation of the petition, and the order establishing the lighting district, shall be entered in the minutes of the board of supervisors and shall be conclusive evidence of the due presentation of a proper petition, and that each of the petitioners was, at the time of signature and presentation of the petition, a taxpayer and resident of the proposed district, and of the fact and regularity of all prior proceedings of every kind and nature provided for by this act, and of the existence and validity of the district.

Supervisors to act for lighting districts. Powers and duties. Advertising for bids, etc.

§ 11. The board of supervisors of the county wherein lighting districts have been established under the provisions of this act, shall be and they are hereby designated as and empowered to act as ex officio the board of supervisors of each and all of such lighting districts which may hereafter be established within such county under the provisions of this act; serving without compensation; and said boards of supervisors shall be authorized and they are hereby empowered, and it shall be their duty:

First—To make all rules, regulations and laws necessary for the administration, operation and maintenance of the lighting districts situated within their county.

Second—To supervise, and plan a system of street illumination for any and all lighting districts within their county, and to determine and decide upon the kind and manner of illuminant most feasible for the district; but nothing herein shall prevent the board of supervisors from installing and maintaining electric lights on highways in such districts, and to pay for the same out of the general road fund of the county or district road fund.

Third—To indicate the placing and installation of the lights and any and all subsequent additional lights.

Fourth—To receive bids, award and make contracts with lighting companies to the very best advantage of the district, for the installation and maintenance of poles, wires, lights and other accessories; and for the supplying of electric current, gas, or such other illuminant as may be determined upon; and for any and all other things that may be necessary to carry out the full meaning and provisions of this act.

Fifth—To determine the number of employees, if any, necessary to properly care for and maintain the lights; to prescribe their duties and fix their compensation, which said employees shall hold their positions at the pleasure of the board.

Sixth—Upon the application, by petition, of twenty-five or more taxpayers and residents of such lighting district, asking for the installation and maintenance of additional lights, which said petition must be filed on or before the first day of September in any year; to immediately estimate the cost of installing and maintaining such additional lights, and to include in the tax levy for the ensuing fiscal year a tax upon the taxable property within such lighting district, at the equalized value thereof for that year, sufficient to pay the cost of installing and maintaining such additional lights; after which to proceed with the installation of such additional lights.

Seventh—To designate the hours for lighting such districts.

Eighth—To perform any and all other acts and things necessary or proper to carry out the provisions of this act.

Ninth—To, within ten days after the establishment of such district, proceed with carrying out the provisions of this act by advertising for bids for installing, caring for and maintaining the lights determined upon; and for supplying the district with all the gas, electricity or such other illuminant as has been determined upon, necessary for operating and maintaining any and all of the lights which have been already installed or which are to be installed within such district. The contract to be awarded to the lowest responsible bidder; provided, however, that the rates to be paid therefor must not exceed in any event the rates paid at that time by said county for highway lighting in other portions of said county. The rates to be paid must not be fixed for a term exceeding five years, and the board of supervisors must reserve the right to abrogate such contract whenever gas or electric current is offered to be supplied at two-thirds of such fixed contract price. [Amendment approved June 4, 1913. Stats. 1913, p. 447.]

Prior light, maintenance.

§ 12. If prior to the formation of a lighting district any lights have been maintained, by public subscription or paid for out of the district road funds, within any territory which subsequently forms itself into a lighting district under the provisions of this act; at the time of the establishment of such lighting district, or else at the time of expiration of any then existing contract for the maintenance of such lights; such lights and the future cost of maintaining and operating them shall be included in the estimate of the board of supervisors and shall thenceforth be maintained as a part of the lighting system of such lighting district.

Authority to erect poles.

§ 13. In granting authority to lay down pipes or to erect poles and string wires, and in contracting for gas or electric current, the board of supervisors must impose such restrictions and conditions, and provide for such locations of the various wires and lights, so as to work the least possible public or private inconvenience.

Estimate for tax levy.

§ 14. On or before the first day of September in each and every year, the board of supervisors of any county wherein a lighting district has been established, shall make an estimate of the cost of conducting and maintaining such lighting district for the ensuing fiscal year, together with the cost of installing and maintaining such additional lights as may have already been petitioned for by the residents of such lighting districts, and for the cost of any other things which may be necessary for carrying out the purposes of this act.

Lighting district tax levy.

§ 15. When such estimate shall have been made, the board of supervisors of any county wherein a lighting district has been established, must, at the time of levying county taxes, levy a special tax upon all of the taxable property within the limits of such lighting district at the equalized value thereof, sufficient in amount to maintain the said lighting system, and to install any additional lights, or for any or all of the purposes of this act. When a lighting district is organized subsequent to the time of levying county taxes in any year, the board of supervisors may authorize the immediate installation of said lighting system in such district, and shall include in the levy of taxes for said lighting district for the ensuing fiscal year, a sum sufficient to pay the cost of the installation and maintenance of said lighting system in said district for that portion of the preceding fiscal year for which no levy of taxes was made in such year, for said purpose. [Amendment approved March 23, 1911. Stats. 1911, p. 439.]

Disposition of funds. Remainder transferred to city treasurer.

§ 16. The revenue derived from said tax, together with all other moneys acquired in any manner whatsoever by the lighting district shall be paid into the county treasury to the credit of the lighting fund of the district wherein said tax was collected, subject only to the order of the board of supervisors of said district, and to be by them expended only for and on behalf of the district wherein such money was collected; provided, however, that any funds arising from assessments made under the provisions of this act, and remaining in said county treasury after the payment of all outstanding legal obligations incurred by the district, shall be ordered transferred, by the board of supervisors of the county in which such district is situated, to the city treasurer of the city, if any there be, that has been incorporated since the formation of said district, and which includes within its corporate limits such district or any considerable portion thereof. If such incorporation has not taken place, then said funds so remaining in said county treasury shall be transferred to a separate fund and, upon the order of the board of supervisors of the county, shall be repaid pro rata to the persons by whom the assessments were originally paid. [Amendment of June 1, 1917. In effect July 31, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 1521.]

Designation of district.

§ 17. Every lighting district formed or established under the provisions of this act, must be designated by the name and under the style of — lighting district, (using the name of the district), of — county, (using the name of the county in which such district is situated), and in that name the board of supervisors may make and award contracts, and may sue and be sued.

District may be dissolved. Order for election. Disposition of property. Outstanding indebtedness.

§ 18. The district may at any time be dissolved upon the vote of two-thirds of the qualified electors voting thereon, at an election called by the board of supervisors, upon the question of dissolution. Upon a petition signed by fifty or more property owners and residents of such lighting district, asking for the dissolution of said district, the board of supervisors shall within thirty days after receiving said petition, by resolution, order that an election be held in the said district, for the determination of the question, and appoint three qualified electors thereof to conduct said election. Such election shall be called and conducted in the same manner as other elections of the district. Upon such dissolution, any property which may have been acquired by such lighting district shall vest in any incorporated town or city that may at such time be in occupation of a considerable portion of the territory of such lighting district; and if there be no such incorporated town or city, then such property shall be vested in the board of supervisors of the county wherein such lighting district is situated until the formation of such incorporated town or city; provided, however, that if at the time of the election to dissolve such district there be any outstanding indebtedness of such district, then, in such event, the vote to dissolve such district shall dissolve the same for all purposes excepting only the levy and collection of taxes for the payment of such outstanding indebtedness; and from the time such district is thus dissolved until such indebtedness is fully paid, satisfied and discharged, the legislative authority of such incorporated town or city, or the board of supervisors, if there be no such incorporated town or city, is hereby constituted ex officio the board of supervisors of such district. And it is hereby made obligatory upon such board to levy such taxes and perform such other acts as may be necessary in order to raise money for the payment of such indebtedness, as herein provided. [Amendment of May 29, 1915. In effect August 8, 1915. Stats. 1915, p. 945.]

This section was also amended June 4, 1913, Stats. 1913, p. 449.

Annexation of territory. Petition.

§ 18a. The boundaries of any such highway lighting district may be altered and outlying contiguous territory in the same county in which a lighting district is situated annexed thereto in the following manner: A petition signed by the owners representing at least one-fourth in number of the total owners of real property, and at least one-fourth of the assessed valuation, as shown by the last equalized assessment book of the county in which such lighting district is situated, of the real property, in such contiguous territory proposed to be annexed, designating the boundaries of such contiguous territory proposed to be annexed and the number of owners of real property in such territory and the assessed valuation thereof, as shown by said last equalized assessment book, and stating that such proposed territory is not within the limits of any other lighting district, and asking that such territory be annexed to said lighting district, shall be presented to the board of supervisors of the county in which said lighting district is situated.

Notice. Hearing.

At their first regular meeting after the presentation of said petition, said board of supervisors shall cause notice of said petition to be published in a newspaper published and circulated in the county in which said lighting district is situated, if there be such a newspaper, otherwise by posting copies of said notice in three of the most conspicuous places in said territory proposed to be annexed, for three weeks prior to the date to be fixed by said board of supervisors for hearing said petition. Upon the date fixed for said hearing, or to which it may be continued, said board of supervisors shall take up and consider said petition, and any objections thereto which may be filed or to the inclusion of any property in said district.

Said board of supervisors shall have the power, by order entered on its minutes, to grant said petition either in whole or in part, and by order entered on its minutes to alter the boundaries of said lighting district, and annex thereto all, or such portion of said contiguous territory, described in said petition, as will be benefited by inclusion in said lighting district. No territory which will not be so benefited, or which is not contiguous to said lighting district, or which is not described in said petition shall be included in said district.

Such order shall be conclusive evidence of the validity of all prior proceedings leading to the annexation or recited in said order, and from and after the making of said order, such territory shall become and be a part of such lighting district and shall be taxed, together with the remainder of said district, for all taxes to be thereafter levied by said board of supervisors, for the maintenance of said lighting district. [New section added June 1, 1917. In effect July 31, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 1522.]

If district annexed to city. If part of district annexed.

§ 18b. Upon the annexation of all or of any portion of the territory embraced in any such lighting district to an incorporated city or city and county, all funds paid into the county treasury to the credit of the lighting fund of such district, if the whole of such district shall be so annexed, shall be turned over by the board of supervisors of such district to the treasurer of said incorporated city, or city and county, and administered by the legislative body of said incorporated city, or city and county; said legislative body shall have all of the powers and perform all of the duties granted to or imposed upon the board of supervisors of the county in which such district is located and of the board of supervisors of said district, and shall carry out the provisions of this act as to such district to the same purpose and extent as if originally constituted, under the provisions of this act, the governing body thereof. Upon the expenditure of the funds and the discharge of the obligations and liabilities of any such lighting district, the whole of which has been annexed to an incorporated city, or city and county, such district shall ipso facto be dissolved with the same force and effect as if dissolved under the provisions of section eighteen of this act. In the event of the annexation of a portion of the territory embraced in any such lighting district to an incorporated city, or city and county, such proportionate part of the funds collected for the benefit of such district and remaining unexpended as the area of the territory so annexed bears to the total area of said district, shall be paid over to the treasurer of such incorporated city, or city and county, in the manner hereinabove provided, and administered by the legislative body of such city, or city and county, until the same are expended, for the benefit of the portion of such district so annexed. Upon the expenditure of such funds in the manner required in this act the territory of such district so annexed shall be deemed to be withdrawn from said lighting district and thereafter the remaining territory embraced in said district and not so annexed shall, upon a resolution adopted by the board of supervisors of the county in which such territory is located, be and become a lighting district within the meaning of this act and so remain until dissolved as provided in this act. [New section added June 1, 1917. In effect July 31, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 1522.]

§ 19. All acts or parts of acts in conflict with this act are hereby repealed.

See curative act, Act 1911a.

1. Scope of act.—The act of March 20, 1909 (Stats. 1909, p. 551), authorizes the formation of lighting districts within the limits of an unincorporated town or village, and excludes from the territory of such districts large areas of land devoted to agricultural purposes.—People v. Van Nuys Lighting District, 173 Cal. 792, 793, Ann. Cas. 1918D, 255, 162 Pac. 97.

2. Not validated by curative act.—An attempt to form a lighting district under the act of 1909, which makes no provision for an inquiry and a hearing as to benefits, or as to any change of boundaries to exclude lands not benefited is without legality and void; and its formation is not validated by the curative act of 1915.—People v. Van Nuys Lighting District, 173 Cal. 792, 799, Ann. Cas. 1918D, 255, 162 Pac. 97.

3. Hearing on benefits.—Act of local board judicial.—A local board or tribunal acts judicially in fixing the boundaries of a local taxing district, and those whose lands are to be included are entitled to a hearing on the question of benefits before the boundaries are fixed, and lands not benefited should be excluded.—People v. Van Nuys Lighting District, 173 Cal. 792, 799, Ann. Cas. 1918D, 255, 162 Pac. 97.

4. Inclusion of agricultural void under the act.—A lighting district organized to include a large area of land devoted to agricultural purposes is void as to such land, and the managing board has no authority to exercise the powers given by the act and the 1913 amendments, as to such land.—People v. Van Nuys Lighting District, 173 Cal. 792, 796, Ann. Cas. 1918D, 255, 162 Pac. 97.

LIGHTING DISTRICT VALIDATION ACT OF 1915.

ACT 1911a—An act validating and confirming the organization of lighting districts.

History: Approved May 29, 1915. In effect August 8, 1915. Stats. 1915, p. 939.

Lighting districts validated.

§ 1. Every lighting district formed and established under the provisions of an act approved March 20, 1909, entitled "An act to allow unincorporated towns and villages to establish, equip and maintain systems of street lights on public highways; to provide for the formation, government and operation of highway lighting districts; the calling and holding of elections in such districts; the assessment, collection, custody and disbursement of taxes therein; and the creation of ex officio boards of supervisors"; or any act or acts amendatory thereof, the formation and establishment of which have been authenticated by a resolution adopted by the board of supervisors of the county in which said district is situated and entered in the minutes of said board, declaring said lighting district formed and established under the provisions of said act and amendments thereto, which has not been dissolved under the provisions of said act, is hereby declared to have been a valid lighting district from the date of adoption by the said board of supervisors of the order establishing the same and said districts and each of them are hereby declared to be and to have been from said date a valid lighting district and all proceedings or actions of any such lighting district, heretofore had or performed, in pursuance of the provisions of the law under which said district is organized, are hereby validated, ratified, confirmed and declared to have been and to be legal.

See Act 1911.

1. Operation of curative act.—A curative act or a conclusive evidence clause in an act, operates to cure defects caused by failure to comply with merely directory provisions, but where the defect or omission goes to jurisdictional matters they make the action void and can not be cured by such curative act or clause.—People v. Van Nuys Lighting District, 173 Cal. 792, 797, Ann. Cas. 1918D, 255, 162 Pac. 97.

SHADE AND ORNAMENTAL TREE ACT OF 1913.

ACT 1912—An act to provide for the protection and preservation of shade and ornamental trees growing and to be grown upon the roads, highways, grounds and property within the state of California; and for the planting, care, protection and preservation of shade and ornamental trees, hedges, lawns, shrubs and flowers growing and to be grown in and upon such roads, highways, grounds and property; and to create county boards of forestry for such purposes; and to prescribe the duties and powers of such boards; and to authorize such boards to appoint county foresters; and to prescribe the duties and fix the compensation of county forester, and to empower such boards to enforce all laws and adopt and enforce any and all lawful and reasonable rules for the protection, planting, regulation, preservation, care and control of such shade and ornamental trees, hedges, lawns, shrubs and flowers.

History: Approved April 28, 1909, Stats. 1909, p. 1129. Entire act amended and re-enacted April 22, 1913. In effect August 10, 1913. Stats. 1913, p. 52.

County boards of forestry.

§ 1. The board of supervisors in each and every county or city and county of the state of California may, in its discretion, appoint a county board of forestry, consisting of five persons, one from each supervisorial district, who shall serve without compensation, and who shall have exclusive charge and control of all shade and ornamental trees, hedges, lawns, shrubs and flowers growing or to be grown upon the public roads, highways, grounds and property within its respective county.

Appointment of members. Pay of county forester.

§ 2. Whenever the board of supervisors of any county or city and county in this state shall, by resolution or ordinance, elect to avail itself of the provisions of this act, such board shall, within two months thereafter, appoint five suitable and competent persons, one from each supervisorial district of such county or city and county, as a county board of forestry in and for such county, who shall serve as such without compensation; and may also fix the compensation of a county forester, to be appointed as herein-after provided at a sum not to exceed $150.00 per month.

Term of office.

§ 3. The term of office of such county board of forestry shall be four years, provided, however, that the persons first appointed shall so classify themselves by lot that two of their number shall retire from office at the end of two years, two at the end of three years and one at the end of four years. If any vacancy occurs in the office, such vacancy shall be filled, for the unexpired term, by the board of supervisors.

Organization of board.

§ 4. Within ten days after notice of their appointment, the members of said county board of forestry shall organize by the election of one of their members as chairman and adopt suitable rules for their government.

Appointment of forester.

§ 5. When organized, said county board of forestry, may employ a suitable and competent person as county forester to serve as such during the pleasure of the board and to prescribe the duties of such employee.

Bond and duties.

§ 6. Such forester, when appointed shall execute a bond to said board, in the sum of $1,000.00, for the faithful performance of his duties. He shall be the secretary of said board and shall perform such other duties as said board shall prescribe. Said forester shall have power and it shall be his duty to enforce the provisions of this act and all lawful orders of said board.

Powers of board.

§ 7. Every county board of forestry appointed under the provisions of this act shall, within its respective county, have power over and jurisdiction to decide upon the variety, kind and character of trees, hedges, shrubs, lawns and flowers that shall be planted upon said roads, highways, grounds and property; and to determine all questions respecting the pruning, cutting and removal of any trees or hedges now growing and to grow thereon and the necessity therefor and the extent of and the manner in which said work shall be done; and, under the authority of the board of supervisors of its respective county, to plant and properly care for such trees, hedges, shrubs, lawns and flowers; and to enforce, carry out and effectuate the provisions of this act; provided, however, that said board, in the exercise of its powers and the performance of its duties hereunder, shall not interfere with the jurisdiction of the board of supervisors over the roads, highways, grounds and property in the improvement, care and general control thereof.

Trimming trees, etc. Fruit trees excepted.

§ 8. It shall be unlawful for any person or corporation (except said board of forestry or its employees) in any county or city and county where a county board of forestry has been created and appointed under the provisions of this act, to trim, prune, cut, deface, destroy or remove any shade or ornamental tree or hedge growing or to grow upon any such road, highway, ground or property or to paint, place, attach to or put upon any such trees, hedges, shrubs, lawns or flowers, any sign, notice, advertisement or advertising device without the consent in writing of said board first obtained, or to plant any tree or hedge, on any such road, highway, ground or property without such written consent; provided, however, that nothing in this act shall give such county board of forestry any jurisdiction over any fruit or nut trees now growing along said roads, highways, grounds or property, except that such trees may not be removed without the consent of the said board of forestry.

Penalty.

§ 9. Every person who shall violate any of the provisions of section 8 of this act, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Disposition of penalties.

§ 10. All moneys received as penalties for the violation of the provisions of this act, shall be paid into the county treasury to the credit of the county board of forestry fund; which fund is hereby created, and the moneys thereof hereby appropriated for the expenses of said board in the carrying out of the provisions of this act and the policy and purposes herein provided.

Appropriations by supervisors.

§ 11. County boards of supervisors, whenever the provisions of this act are availed of, shall appropriate money for the use of said county board of forestry sufficient to pay the compensation of said county forester and for the necessary expenses of said county board of forestry.

§ 12. All acts or parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act are hereby repealed.

1. Removal of trees on highway.—Trees growing upon the public highway, and subserving useful as well as ornamental purposes, can not be removed or destroyed at the will of the owner of the fee of the highway (Stats. 1909, p. 1129); and the state in depriving the owner of such right, does not take his property without due process of law.—Santa Barbara v. More, 175 Cal. 6, 11, L. R. A. 1917F, 385, 164 Pac. 895.

COUNTY HIGHWAY MAINTENANCE ACT OF 1911.

ACT 1913—An act to provide for maintenance of county highways improved under bond issues in the counties of the state and empowering the boards of supervisors to levy taxes therefor.

History: Approved May 1, 1911, Stats. 1911, p. 1391. Amended June 16, 1913, Stats. 1913, p. 1147; May 7, 1919. In effect July 22, 1919. Stats. 1919, p. 342.

Maintenance of highways.

§ 1. Whenever any county highway is improved under a county bond issue, which bond issue covers all property of the county, and is accepted by the board of supervisors, it becomes their duty to provide for a continuous system of maintenance from the fund hereinafter created.

County highway maintenance fund.

§ 2. The board of supervisors must annually, for each fiscal year, levy a tax not to exceed ten cents on each one hundred dollars of value of taxable property of the county for each one hundred miles or fraction thereof of improved county highways under a bond issue therefor. This tax shall be collectible by the several officers charged with the collection of other county taxes in the same manner, and at the same time as other county treasury, and by the county treasurer converted into a separate fund hereby created and known as the county highway maintenance fund. The money derived from such tax must be applied solely to the maintenance of county highways improved under a bond issue to cover the whole county. [Amendment of May 7, 1919. In effect July 22, 1919. Stats. 1919, p. 342.]

This section was also amended June 16, 1913, Stats. 1913, p. 1147.

Expenditure of fund.

§ 3. The board of supervisors must expend money from the "county highway maintenance fund" for the maintenance of highways described in section 1 of this act, on a continuous basis of repair, and the highways shall be improved uninterruptedly after their acceptance.

PAYMENT BY COUNTIES OF INTEREST ON STATE HIGHWAY BONDS.

ACT 1914—An act to authorize and require the payment by the counties of interest on state highway bonds.

History: Approved March 10, 1911, Stats. 1911, p. 339.

Interest on state highway bonds.

§ 1. For the purpose of carrying into effect the provisions relative to the payment of bond interest which are contained in "An act authorizing the construction, acquisition, maintenance and control of a system of state highways in the state of California; specifying the work, fixing the payments to be made by counties for moneys expended therein; providing for the issuance and sale of state bonds to create a fund for the construction and acquisition of such system; creating a sinking fund for the payment of said bonds; and providing for the submission of this act to a vote of the people," approved March 22, 1909, it is hereby made the duty of the state controller to keep an accurate account showing the amount of said bond money expended in each county. In connection with such account he shall annually, at the beginning of the fiscal year, charge up to each and every county such sum as shall equal the interest of four per cent per annum on the total amount of state highway bond money which has been expended in each such county.

Tax levy in each county.

§ 2. The controller shall notify the county auditor and the clerk of the board of supervisors of each county of the amount of such interest charge, in order that there may be included in the county tax levy such rate as will raise the sum needed to meet such interest charge. It is hereby made the duty of the board of supervisors when making the annual levy of county taxes to include therein the necessary provision for payment of interest on state highway bonds, as in this act provided, but no failure of any board of supervisors to make the tax levy herein provided for shall be held to exempt such county from the collection by the state, in the manner provided for in the next section of this act, of the amount of interest due from such county.

Semi-annual settlement.

§ 3. In the regular semi-annual settlements between the state and the counties, the controller shall charge to, and collect from, each county one-half of the amount of interest with which such county has been charged for that fiscal year; provided, that as soon as any of the state highway bonds shall have matured and been paid, the controller shall credit each county with its proportionate part of the diminution of the total interest charge thereby occasioned.

Engineering department to furnish data.

§ 4. The controller is authorized to require from the state engineering department, and it is hereby made the duty of said department to furnish all necessary data to show the amount of state highway bond money expended in each county.

Editor's note: While not expressly repealed, as was similar provisions in other acts, this act was no doubt repealed by implication by section 3 of article XVI of the constitution, adopted November 2, 1920.

RIGHT OF WAY OVER PUBLIC LANDS.

ACT 1915—An act granting to roads and highways a right of way over the public lands of this state.

History: Approved April 2, 1866, Stats. 1865-66, p. 855.

Right of way granted.

§ 1. Whenever any corporation, company, or individual shall, in accordance with the general laws of this state lay out and construct any road or highway over any unoccupied public lands of this state, or over any lands that the state by donation of congress or otherwise may hereafter acquire, such corporation, company or individual, and their respective assigns, are hereby granted the right of way for such roads or highways over such public lands. This act shall apply to roads heretofore as well as hereafter laid out and constructed.

STATE HIGHWAYS ACT.

ACT 1916—An act authorizing the construction, acquisition, maintenance and control of a system of state highways in the state of California; specifying the work, fixing the payments to be made by counties for moneys expended therein; providing for the issuance and sale of state bonds to create a fund for the construction and acquisition of such system; creating a sinking fund for the payment of said bonds; and providing for the submission of this act to a vote of the people.

History: Approved March 22, 1909, Stats. 1909, p. 647. Submitted to the people at the general election of November, 1910, and ratified and adopted. Stats. 1911, Part II, p. 6. An amendment approved May 19, 1915. Stats. 1915, p. 686, was submitted to the people at the general election of November, 1916, and ratified and adopted, Stats. 1917 (ex. sess.), p. 54.

State highway system.

§ 1. A system of state highways in and for the state of California shall be constructed and acquired as and in the manner provided by law by the department of engineering of said state at a cost not to exceed eighteen million dollars. For the purpose of providing for the payment of the cost of the construction or acquisition of said system of said highways, the state of California is hereby authorized to incur an indebtedness in the manner provided by this act in the sum of eighteen million dollars.

Bonds for payment of cost of construction.

Immediately after the issuance of the proclamation of the governor, as provided in section 11 of this act, the treasurer of the state shall prepare eighteen thousand suitable bonds of the state of California in the denomination of one thousand dollars each to be numbered from 1 to 18,000 inclusive, and to bear the date of the third day of July, 1911. The total issue of said bonds shall not exceed the sum of eighteen million dollars and they shall bear interest at the rate of four per cent per annum from the date of issuance thereof. The said bonds and the interest thereon shall be payable in gold coin of the United States of the present standard of value at the office of the treasurer of said state at the times and in the manner following, to wit: The first four hundred of said bonds shall be due and payable on the third day of July, 1917, and four hundred of said bonds in consecutive numerical order shall be due and payable on the third day of July in each and every year thereafter until and including the third day of July, 1961. The interest accruing on all of said bonds that shall be sold shall be payable at the office of the treasurer of the state on the third day of January and the third day of July of each and every year after the sale of the same. The interest on all bonds issued and sold shall cease on the day of their maturity and the said bonds so issued and sold shall on the day of their maturity be paid as herein provided and canceled by the treasurer of said state. All bonds remaining unsold shall, at the date of the maturity thereof be by the treasurer of the state canceled and destroyed. All bonds issued pursuant to the provisions of this act shall be signed by the governor of this state, countersigned by the state controller and endorsed by the state treasurer, and the said bonds shall be so signed, countersigned and endorsed by the officers who are in office on the third day of July, 1911, and each of said bonds shall have the great seal of the state of California impressed thereon. The said bonds signed, countersigned, endorsed and sealed as herein provided, when sold, shall be and constitute a valid and binding obligation upon the state of California, though the sale thereof be made at a date or dates after the person so signing, countersigning and endorsing, or either of them, shall have ceased to be the incumbents of said office or offices.

Interest coupons.

§ 2. Appended to each of said bonds there shall be interest coupons so attached that the same may be detached without injury to or mutilation of said bond. The said coupons shall be consecutively numbered and shall bear the lithographed signature of the state treasurer who shall be in office on the third day of July, 1911. No interest shall be paid on any of said bonds for such time as may intervene between the date of said bond and the day of sale thereof, unless such accrued interest shall have been, by the purchaser of said bond, paid to the state at the time of such sale.

Expenses preliminary to issue.

§ 3. There shall be provided in the general appropriation bill sufficient money to defray all expenses that shall be incurred by the state treasurer in the preparation of said bonds and in the advertising of the sale thereof, as in this act provided.

Sale of bonds, manner of.

§ 4. When the bonds authorized by this act to be issued shall have been signed, countersigned, endorsed and sealed as in section one provided, the state treasurer shall sell the same in such parcels and numbers as the governor of the state shall direct, to the highest bidder for cash. The governor of the state shall issue to the state treasurer such direction immediately after being requested so to do, through and by a resolution duly adopted and passed by a majority vote of the advisory board of the department of engineering. Said resolution shall specify the amount of money which, in the judgment of said advisory board shall be required at such time and the governor of the state shall direct the state treasurer to sell such number of said bonds as may be required to raise said amount of money and that said bonds shall be sold in consecutive numerical order commencing with the first four hundred thereof. The state treasurer shall not accept any bid which is less than the par value of the bond plus the interest which has accrued thereon between the date of sale and the last preceding interest maturity date. The state treasurer may at the time and place fixed by him for said sale continue such sale as to the whole or any part of the bonds offered to such time and place as he may at the time of such continuance designate. Before offering any of said bonds for sale, the said treasurer shall detach therefrom all coupons which have matured or will mature before the date fixed for such sale. The state treasurer shall give notice of the time and place of sale by publication in two newspapers published in the city and county of San Francisco and in one newspaper published in the city of Oakland, and in one newspaper published in the city of Los Angeles and in one newspaper published in the city of Sacramento once a week for four weeks next preceding the date fixed for such sale. In addition to the notice last above provided for, the state treasurer may give such further notice as he may deem advisable, but the expenses and costs of such additional notice shall not exceed the sum of five hundred dollars for each sale so advertised.

"State highway fund" created.

There is hereby created in and for the state treasury a fund to be known and designated as the "State Highway Fund," and immediately after such sale of bonds the treasurer of the state shall pay into the state treasury and cause to be placed in said state highway fund the total amount received for said bonds, except such amount as may have been paid as accrued interest thereon. The amount that shall have been paid at such sale as accrued interest on the bond sold shall be by the treasurer of the state, immediately after such sale, paid into the treasury of the state and placed in the interest and sinking fund.

Use of moneys in fund.

The moneys placed in the state highway fund, pursuant to the provisions of this section, shall be used exclusively for the acquisition of rights of way for and the acquisition and construction of said system of state highways. The route or routes of said state highways shall be selected by the department of engineering and said route shall be so selected and said highways so laid out and constructed or acquired as to constitute a continuous and connected state highway system running north and south through the state traversing the Sacramento and San Joaquin valleys and along the Pacific coast by the most direct and practicable routes, connecting the county seats of the several counties through which it passes and joining the centers of population, together with such branch roads as may be necessary to connect therewith the several county seats lying east and west of such state highway.

Moneys shall be drawn from said state highway fund for the purposes of this act upon warrants duly drawn by the controller of the state upon demands made by the department of engineering and audited by the state board of examiners.

Appropriation.

§ 5. There is hereby appropriated from the general fund in the state treasury such sum annually as will be necessary to pay the principal of and the interest on the bonds, issued and sold pursuant to the provisions of this act, as said principal and interest becomes due and payable.

Tax levy to secure bondholders.

There shall be collected annually in the same manner and at the same time as other state revenue is collected such a sum, in addition to the ordinary revenues of the state as shall be required to pay the principal and interest on said bonds as herein provided, and it is hereby made the duty of all officers charged by law with any duty in regard to the collection of said revenue, to do and perform each and every act which shall be necessary to collect such additional sum.

The treasurer of the state shall, on the first day of January, 1912, and on the first day of each July and the first day of each January thereafter transfer from the general fund of the state treasury to the interest and sinking fund such an amount of the money by this act appropriated as shall be required to pay the interest on the bonds theretofore sold, until the interest on all of said bonds so sold shall have been paid or shall have become due in accordance with the provisions of this act.

There is hereby created in the state treasury a fund to be known and designated as the "state highway sinking fund." The treasurer of the state shall on the first day of July of the year 1917, and on the first day of July, of each and every year thereafter in which a parcel of the bonds sold pursuant to the provisions of this act shall become due, transfer from the general fund of the state treasury to the said state highway sinking fund such an amount of the moneys appropriated by this act as may be required to pay the principal of the bonds so becoming due and payable in such years.

Bonds, how payable.

§ 6. The principal of all of said bonds sold shall be paid at the time the same becomes due, from the state highway sinking fund, and the interest on all bonds sold shall be paid at the time said interest becomes due, from the interest and sinking fund. Both principal and interest shall be so paid upon warrants duly drawn by the controller of the state upon demands audited by the state board of examiners, and the faith of the state of California is hereby pledged for the payment of the principal of said bonds so sold, and the interest accruing thereon.

Reports of controller and treasurer.

§ 7. The state controller and state treasurer shall keep full and particular account and record of all their proceedings under this act and they shall transmit to the governor in triplicate an abstract of all such proceedings thereunder with an annual report in triplicate, one copy of each to be by the governor, laid before each house of the legislature biennially. All books and papers pertaining to the matter provided for in this act shall, at all times, be open to the inspection of any party interested, or the governor, or the attorney-general, or a committee of either branch of the legislature or a joint committee of both or any citizen of the state.

Highway permanent in character. Department of engineering may acquire rights of way, quarries, etc.

§ 8. The highway constructed or acquired under the provisions of this act shall be permanent in character and be finished with oil or macadam or a combination of both, or of such other material as in the judgment of the said department of engineering shall be most suitable and best adapted to the particular locality traversed. The state department of engineering, in the name of the people of the state of California, may purchase, receive by donation or dedication, or lease any right of way, rock quarry or land necessary or proper for the construction, use or maintenance of said state highway and shall proceed, if necessary, to condemn under the provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure relating to such proceedings any necessary or proper right of way, rock quarry or land. The department of engineering shall have full power and authority to purchase all supplies, material, machinery and to do all other things necessary or proper in the construction and maintenance of said state highway.

Certain highways become right of way of state highway. Counties to pay interest.

With the exception of those public highways which have been permanently improved under county or permanent road division bond issues within three years prior to the adoption of this act, all public highways within this state lying within the right of way of said state highways as determined and adopted by the department of engineering shall be and the same shall become a part of the right of way of said state highway, without compensation being paid therefor; provided, nothing herein contained shall require the state to maintain any highway along or on said right of way, prior to the completion or acquisition of the permanent improvements contemplated by this act. Whenever any money received from the sale of bonds, under the provisions of this act, shall be expended in any county in this state, such county must pay into the state treasury such sum each year as shall equal the interest, at the rate of four per cent per annum, upon the entire sum of money expended within such county in the construction of said state highway, less such portion of said amount expended as the bonds matured under the provisions of this act, shall bear to the total number of bonds sold and outstanding; provided, however, that in all cases where, by reason of physical difficulties to be overcome, or other good and sufficient cause, the state department of engineering shall determine that the cost of construction of any portion of such state highway in any county, or counties, is so great as to entail an unjust and inequitable burden upon any such county, or counties, in refunding to the state the sums so paid for interest upon the bonds sold and the proceeds thereof applied as aforesaid, such county, or counties, shall not be required to refund the whole amount of such interest, but only such proportion thereof as the state department of engineering shall adjudge to be fair and reasonable. All highways constructed or acquired under the provisions of this act shall be permanently maintained and controlled by the state of California. [Amendment of May 19, 1915. In effect —. See sections 2, 3, 4, of amending act. Stats. 1915, p. 686.]

This section was partially repealed by section 3, article XVI, of the constitution, adopted at the general election of November 2, 1920.

When act to take effect.

§ 9. This act, if adopted by the people, shall take effect on the thirty-first day of December, 1910, as to all its provisions except those relating to, and necessary for, its submission to the people and for returning, canvassing and proclaiming the votes, and to such accepted provisions this act shall take effect immediately.

Submission of act to the people.

§ 10. This act shall be submitted to the people of the state of California for their ratification at the next general election to be holden in the month of November, 1910, A. D., and all ballots at said election shall have printed thereon, and at the end thereof, the words "For the State Highway Act"; and in a separate line, under the same, the words "Against the State Highway Act." Opposite said lines there shall be left spaces in which the voters may make or stamp a cross to indicate whether they vote for or against said act, and those voting for said act shall do so by placing a cross opposite the words "For the State Highway Act," and all those voting against the said act shall do so by placing a cross opposite the words "Against the State Highway Act." The governor of this state shall include the submission of this act to the people, as aforesaid, in his proclamation calling for said general election.

Canvass of returns.

§ 11. The votes cast for or against this act shall be counted, returned and canvassed and declared in the same manner and subject to the same rules as votes cast for state officers, and if it appears that said act shall have received a majority of all the votes cast for and against it at such election, as aforesaid, then the same shall have effect as hereinbefore provided and shall be irrevocable until the principal and interest of the liabilities herein created shall be paid and discharged, and the governor shall make proclamation thereof. But if a majority of the votes cast, as aforesaid, are against this act then the same shall be and become void.

§ 12. It shall be the duty of the secretary of state to have this act published in at least one newspaper in each county, or city and county, if one be published therein, throughout this state, for three months next preceding the general election to be holden in the month of November, A. D. nineteen hundred and ten; the cost of publication shall be paid out of the general fund, on controller's warrants duly drawn for the purpose.

Name of act.

§ 13. This act shall be known and cited as the "State Highways Act."

§ 14. All acts and parts of acts in conflict with the provisions of this act are hereby repealed.

The amending act of 1915, contained the following sections:

In effect when.

§ 2. This act, if adopted by the people, shall take effect on the thirty-first day of December, 1916, as to all its provisions except those relating to, and necessary for, its submission to the people and for returning, canvassing and proclaiming the votes, and as to such excepted provisions this act shall take effect ninety days after the final adjournment of the present session of the legislature.

Act to be submitted to people.

§ 3. This act shall be submitted to the people of the state of California for their ratification at the next general election to be holden in the month of November, 1916, A. D., and all ballots at said election shall have printed thereon, and at the end thereof, the words "For the amendment to the state highway act"; and in a separate line, under the same, the words "Against the amendment to the state highway act." Opposite said lines there shall be left spaces in which the voters may make or stamp a cross to indicate whether they vote for or against said act and those voting for said act shall do so by placing a cross opposite the words "For the amendment to the state highway act," and all those voting against the said act shall do so by placing a cross opposite the words "Against the amendment to the state highway act." The governor of this state shall include the submission of this act to the people, as aforesaid, in his proclamation calling for said general election.

Results of election.

§ 4. The votes cast for or against this act shall be counted, returned and canvassed and declared in the same manner and subject to the same rules as votes cast for state officers, and if it appears that said act shall have received a majority of all the votes cast for and against it at such election, as aforesaid, then the same shall have effect as hereinbefore provided and shall be irrevocable until the principal and interest of the liabilities created under the provisions of said state highway act, approved March 22, 1909, shall be paid and discharged, and the governor shall make proclamation thereof. But if a majority of the votes cast, as aforesaid, are against this act then the same shall be and become void.

Publication of act before election.

§ 5. It shall be the duty of the secretary of state to have this act published in at least one newspaper in each county, or city and county, if one be published therein, throughout this state, for three months next preceding the general election to be holden in the month of November, A. D. nineteen hundred and sixteen; the cost of publication shall be paid out of the general fund, on controller's warrants duly drawn for the purpose.

STATE HIGHWAYS ACT OF 1915.

ACT 1916a—An act authorizing the acquisition, construction, improvement, maintenance and control of the uncompleted portions of the system of state highways prescribed and contemplated by an act entitled "An act authorizing the construction, acquisition, maintenance and control of a system of state highways in the state of California; specifying the work, fixing the payments to be made by counties for moneys expended therein; providing for the issuance and sale of state bonds to create a fund for the construction and acquisition of such system; creating a sinking fund for the payment of said bonds; and providing for the submission of this act to a vote of the people," approved March 22, 1909, and approved, ratified and adopted by the people of the state of California at the general election held in the month of November, A. D. 1910, and known and cited as the "State Highways Act," and certain extensions therefrom; specifying the work, fixing the payments to be made by counties for moneys expended therein; providing for the issuance and sale of state bonds to create a fund for the construction, improvement and acquisition of the uncompleted portions of said system and certain extensions therefrom; creating a revolving fund to be used by the state department of engineering for the purposes of this act; creating a sinking fund for the payment of said bonds; and providing for the submission of this act to a vote of the people.

History: Approved May 20, 1915. In effect—see section 9. Stats. 1915, p. 650. Submitted to the people at the general election of November 7, 1916, and adopted. Stats. 1917, p. 54.

Fund for completing state highways insufficient. Indebtedness authorized.

§ 1. The fund created for the construction and acquisition of a system of state highways by an act entitled "An act authorizing the construction, acquisition, maintenance and control of a system of state highways in the state of California; specifying the work, fixing the payments to be made by counties for moneys expended therein; providing for the issuance and sale of state bonds to create a fund for the construction and acquisition of such system; creating a sinking fund for the payment of said bonds; and providing for the submission of this act to a vote of the people," approved March 22, 1909, and approved, ratified and adopted by the people of the state of California at the general election held in the month of November, A. D. 1910, and known and cited as the "State Highways Act," being inadequate to fully carry out the objects of said act, the uncompleted portions of said system prescribed by said "State Highways Act" and certain extensions therefrom hereinafter specified shall be constructed, improved and acquired as and in the manner provided by law by the department of engineering of said state at a cost not to exceed fifteen million dollars. For the purpose of providing for the payment of the cost of the construction, improvement or acquisition necessary for and in completing said system of said highways and supplementing the fund created by said "State Highways Act," the state of California is hereby authorized to incur an indebtedness in the manner provided by this act in the sum of fifteen million dollars.

Immediately after the issuance of the proclamation of the governor, as provided in section eleven of this act, the treasurer of the state shall prepare fifteen thousand suitable bonds of the state of California in the denomination of one thousand dollars each, to be numbered from 1 to 15,000 inclusive, and to bear the date of the third day of July, 1917. The total issue of said bonds shall not exceed the sum of fifteen million dollars and they shall bear interest at the rate of four and one-half per cent per annum from the date of issuance thereof.

Payment. Interest. Unsold bonds. Signing and endorsement. Valid obligation.

The said bonds and the interest thereon shall be payable in gold coin of the United States of the present standard of value either at the office of the treasurer of said state or, at the option of the holder, at the fiscal agency for the state of California in the city of New York in the state of New York, at the times and in the manner following, to wit: The first three hundred seventy-five of said bonds shall be due and payable on the third day of July, 1923, and three hundred seventy-five of said bonds in consecutive numerical order shall be due and payable on the third day of July in each and every year thereafter until and including the third day of July, 1962. The interest accruing on all of said bonds that shall be sold shall be payable either at the office of the treasurer of the state or at said fiscal agency, as the holder may elect, on the third day of January and the third day of July of each and every year after the sale of the same. The interest on all bonds issued and sold shall cease on the day of their maturity and the said bonds so issued and sold shall on the day of their maturity be paid as herein provided and canceled by the treasurer of said state. All bonds remaining unsold shall, at the date of the maturity thereof be by the treasurer of the state canceled and destroyed. All bonds issued pursuant to the provisions of this act shall be signed by the governor of this state, countersigned by the state controller and endorsed by the state treasurer, and the said bonds shall be so signed, countersigned and endorsed by the officers who are in office on the third day of July, 1917, and each of said bonds shall have the great seal of the state of California impressed thereon. The said bonds signed, countersigned, endorsed and sealed as herein provided, when sold, shall be and constitute a valid and binding obligation upon the state of California, though the sale thereof be made at a date or dates after the person so signing, countersigning and endorsing, or either of them, shall have ceased to be the incumbents of said office or offices.

Interest coupons.

§ 2. Appended to each of said bonds there shall be interest coupons so attached that the same may be detached without injury to or mutilation of said bond. The said coupons shall be consecutively numbered and shall bear the lithographed signature of the state treasurer who shall be in office on the third day of July, 1917. No interest shall be paid on any of said bonds for such time as may intervene between the date of said bond and the date of sale thereof, unless such accrued interest shall have been, by the purchaser of said bond, paid to the state at the time of such sale.

Payment of expenses incurred in preparation of bonds.

§ 3. The legislature shall provide by appropriation sufficient money to defray all expenses that shall be incurred by the state treasurer in the preparation of said bonds and in the advertising of the sale thereof, as in this act provided.

Sale of bonds. No bid accepted less than par value plus interest. Announcement of sale.

§ 4. When the bonds authorized by this act to be issued shall have been signed, countersigned, endorsed and sealed as in section one provided, the state treasurer shall sell the same in such parcels and numbers as the governor of the state shall direct, to the highest bidder for cash. The governor of the state shall issue to the state treasurer such direction immediately after being requested so to do, through and by a resolution duly adopted and passed by a majority vote of the advisory board of the department of engineering. Said resolution shall specify the amount of money which, in the judgment of said advisory board, shall be required at such time, and the governor of the state shall direct the state treasurer to sell such number of said bonds as may be required to raise said amount of money and that said bonds shall be sold in consecutive numerical order commencing with the first three hundred seventy-five thereof. The state treasurer shall not accept any bid which is less than the par value of the bond plus the interest which has accrued thereon between the date of sale and the last preceding interest maturity date. The state treasurer may at the time and place fixed by him for said sale continue such sale as to the whole or any part of the bonds offered to such time and place as he may at the time of such continuance designate. Before offering any of said bonds for sale, the said treasurer shall detach therefrom all coupons which have matured or will mature before the date fixed for such sale. The state treasurer shall give notice of the time and place of sale by publication in two newspapers published in the city and county of San Francisco and in one newspaper published in the city of Oakland, and in one newspaper published in the city of Los Angeles and in one newspaper published in the city of Sacramento once a week for four weeks next preceding the date fixed for such sale. In addition to the notice last above provided for, the state treasurer may give such further notice as he may deem advisable, but the expenses and cost of such additional notice shall not exceed the sum of five hundred dollars for each sale so advertised.

“Second state highway fund” created.

There is hereby created in and for the state treasury a fund to be known and designated as the “Second State Highway Fund,” and immediately after such sale of bonds the treasurer of the state shall pay into the state treasury and cause to be placed in said second state highway fund the total amount received for said bonds, except such amount as may have been paid as accrued interest thereon. The amount that shall have been paid at such sale as accrued interest on the bonds sold shall be by the treasurer of the state, immediately after such sale, paid into the treasury of the state and placed in the “Second State Highway Interest and Sinking Fund,” which is hereby created.

Fund available for what purposes.

Of the moneys placed in the said second state highway fund, pursuant to the provisions of this section, the sum of twelve million dollars, or so much thereof as may be necessary, is hereby made available, and shall be used exclusively for the acquisition of rights of way for and the acquisition, construction and improvement of the uncompleted portions of the system of state highways prescribed by said “State Highways Act.” And of said moneys so placed in said second state highway fund, the sum of three million dollars, or so much thereof as may be necessary, is hereby made available and shall be used exclusively for the acquisition of rights of way for, and the acquisition, construction and improvement of certain extensions from said system of state highways prescribed by said “State Highways Act” as follows: An extension connecting the interior and coast trunk lines in northern California through Trinity and Humboldt counties by the most direct and practical route; an extension connecting the San Joaquin valley trunk line at a point between the city of Merced in Merced county, and the city of Madera, in Madera county, with the coast trunk line at or near the city of Gilroy in Santa Clara county, through Pacheco pass, by the most direct and practical route; an extension of the Mariposa county state highway lateral to or near the railway station El Portal, in Mariposa county; an extension connecting the San Joaquin valley trunk line in Tulare county with the coast trunk line in Monterey county, by the continuation of the lateral between the cities of Visalia and Hanford through Coalinga by the most direct and practical route; an extension connecting the San Joaquin valley trunk line at or near Bakersfield with the coast trunk line in San Luis Obispo county, through Cholame pass, by the most direct and practical route; an extension of the San Bernardino county state highway lateral to Barstow, in San Bernardino county, by the most direct and practical route; an extension connecting Antelope valley, in the county of Los Angeles, with the city of Los Angeles, by the most direct and practical route; and an extension of the San Bernardino county state highway lateral to the Arizona state line near the town of Yuma, Arizona, via the cities of Brawley and El Centro in Imperial county, by the most direct and practical route; provided, however, that expenses of the acquisition, construction and improvement of the extensions above enumerated and the acquisition of rights of way therefor, shall be partly borne by the county or counties in which such extensions lie, the extent and character of such division of expenses between the state and county shall rest for final determination with the state department of engineering and said department is hereby authorized to enter into such agreements and undertakings as are necessary to properly carry out the intent of this section.

Routes selected by department of engineering.

The route or routes of said state highways to be acquired, constructed or improved under the provisions of this act shall be selected by the department of engineering in the manner provided by and to carry out the objects of said "State Highways Act" and in the manner provided by and to carry out the objects of this act.

Controller's warrants. "State highway revolving fund." Statement showing expenditures.

Moneys shall be drawn from said second state highway fund for the purposes of this act upon warrants duly drawn by the controller of the state upon demands made by the department of engineering and allowed and audited by the state board of control; provided, however, that out of the proceeds of the first sale of bonds made hereunder the state controller and the state treasurer shall transfer upon their respective books the sum of one hundred thousand dollars to the credit of the "State Highway Revolving Fund," which fund is hereby created in the state treasury. The moneys in said state highway revolving fund, or such part thereof as the advisory board of the department of engineering shall deem necessary, may be expended, from time to time, upon the demands of the department of engineering, approved by the state board of control, for the purpose of making cash payments in advance for such expenditures as are necessary and proper to carry out the provisions of this act. Upon receipt of such demands, so approved, it shall be the duty of the state controller to draw his warrant upon said "State Highway Revolving Fund" in favor of the person or persons therein named, and the state treasurer shall pay the same. On or before the tenth day of each month thereafter, the department of engineering shall submit to the state board of control a verified, itemized statement, showing all expenditures during the preceding calendar month of the moneys so withdrawn from said "State Highway Revolving Fund," accompanied by proper vouchers and receipts therefor. Such statements shall be audited by the state board of control in the same manner that claims against the state are audited, and, if found to be correct, shall be approved by the state board of control and transmitted to the state controller with such approval endorsed thereon.

The state controller shall thereupon draw his warrant upon the "Second State Highway Fund" in favor of the department of engineering for the aggregate amount of such expenditures, and upon the surrender of such warrant properly endorsed, the state treasurer shall transfer the amount thereof upon the books of his office from the said "Second State Highway Fund" to the said "State Highway Revolving Fund," to be expended as aforesaid.

Appropriation for bonds, principal and interest.

§ 5. There is hereby appropriated from the general fund in the state treasury such sum annually as will be necessary to pay the principal of and the interest on the bonds, issued and sold pursuant to the provisions of this act, as said principal and interest becomes due and payable.

Collection.

There shall be collected annually in the same manner and at the same time as other state revenue is collected such a sum, in addition to the ordinary revenues of the state as shall be required to pay the principal and interest on said bonds as herein provided, and it is hereby made the duty of all officers charged by law with any duty in regard to the collection of said revenue, to do and perform each and every act which shall be necessary to collect such additional sum.

Transfer by treasurer.

The treasurer of the state shall, on the first day of January, 1918, and on the first day of each July and the first day of each January thereafter transfer from the general fund of the state treasury to the "Second State Highway Interest and Sinking Fund" such an amount of the money by this act appropriated as shall be required to pay the interest on the bonds theretofore sold, until the interest on all of said bonds so sold shall have been paid or shall have become due in accordance with the provisions of this act.

"Second state highway sinking fund" created.

There is hereby created in the state treasury a fund to be known and designated as the "Second State Highway Sinking Fund." The treasurer of the state shall on the first day of July of the year 1923, and on the first day of July, of each, any and every year thereafter in which a parcel of the bonds sold pursuant to the provisions of this act shall become due, transfer from the general fund of the state treasury to the said second state highway sinking fund such an amount of the moneys appropriated by this act as may be required to pay the principal of the bonds so becoming due and payable in such years.

Principal and interest paid from sinking fund.

§ 6. The principal of all of said bonds sold shall be paid at the time the same becomes due, from the second state highway sinking fund, and the interest on all bonds sold shall be paid at the time said interest becomes due, from the second state highway interest and sinking fund. Both principal and interest shall be so paid upon warrants duly drawn by the controller of the state upon demands audited by the state board of control, and the faith of the state of California is hereby pledged for the payment of the principal of said bonds so sold, and the interest accruing thereon.

Records. Annual report. Books open to inspection.

§ 7. The state controller and state treasurer shall keep full and particular account and record of all their proceedings under this act and they shall transmit to the governor in triplicate an abstract of all such proceedings thereunder with an annual report in triplicate, one copy of each to be by the governor, laid before each house of the legislature biennially. All books and papers pertaining to the matter provided for in this act shall, at all times, be open to the inspection of any party interested, or the governor, or the attorney general, or a committee of either branch of the legislature or a joint committee of both or any citizen of the state.

Highway permanent in character. Department of engineering may acquire rights of way, quarries, etc. Certain highways become right of way of state highway.
Counties to pay interest.

§ 8. The highway constructed or acquired under the provisions of this act shall be permanent in character and be finished with oil or macadam or a combination of both, or of such other material as in the judgment of the said department of engineering shall be most suitable and best adapted to the particular locality traversed. The state department of engineering, in the name of the people of the state of California, may purchase, or receive by donation or dedication from counties, or from public or private persons, or it may lease, any right of way, rock quarry or land necessary or proper for the construction, use, improvement or maintenance of said state highway and shall proceed, if necessary, to condemn under the provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure relating to such proceedings any necessary or proper right of way, rock quarry or land. The department of engineering in accordance with law shall have power and authority to purchase, sell, exchange, lease or otherwise acquire or dispose of all supplies, stock, material, machinery and implements and do all other things necessary or proper in the construction, improvement or maintenance of said state highway. The department of engineering in accordance with law shall have power and authority to purchase, lease, or erect plants for manufacture of cement, crushed rock and other materials used in road or highway work, and also the power to dispose of said plants when no longer required for such purposes. With the exception of those public highways which have been permanently improved under county or permanent road division bond issues within nine years prior to the adoption of this act, all public highways within this state lying within the right of way of said state highway as determined and adopted by the department of engineering shall be and the same shall become a part of the right of way of said state highway, without compensation being paid therefor; provided, nothing herein contained shall require the state to maintain any highway along or on said right of way, prior to the completion or acquisition of the permanent improvements contemplated by this act. Whenever any money received from the sale of bonds, under the provisions of this act, shall be expended in any county in this state, such county must pay into the state treasury such sum each year as shall equal the interest, at the rate of four and one-half per cent per annum, upon the entire sum of money expended from the proceeds of the bonds issued under this act within such county in the construction of said state highway, less such portion of said amount expended as the bonds matured under the provisions of this act shall bear to the total number of bonds sold and outstanding; provided, however, that in all cases where, by reason of physical difficulties to be overcome, or other good and sufficient cause, the state department of engineering shall determine that the cost of construction of any portion of such state highway in any county, or counties, is so great as to entail an unjust and inequitable burden upon any such county, or counties, in refunding to the state the sums so paid for interest upon the bonds sold and the proceeds thereof applied as aforesaid, such county, or counties, shall not be required to refund the whole amount of such interest, but only such proportion thereof as the state department of engineering shall adjudge to be fair and reasonable. All highways constructed or acquired under the provisions of this act shall be permanently maintained and controlled by the state of California.

This section was partly repealed by section 3, article XVI, of the constitution, adopted at the general election of November 2, 1920.

In effect when.

§ 9. This act, if adopted by the people, shall take effect on the thirty-first day of December, 1916, as to all its provisions except those relating to, and necessary for, its submission to the people and for returning, canvassing and proclaiming the votes, and as to said excepted provisions this act shall take effect ninety days after the final adjournment of the present session of the legislature.

Act to be submitted to people.

§ 10. This act shall be submitted to the people of the state of California for their ratification at the next general election to be holden in the month of November, nineteen hundred and sixteen, and all ballots at such election shall have printed thereon the words "For the State Highway Act of 1915" and such other designation as may be necessary to properly identify this act. In a square immediately below the square containing said words there shall be printed on said ballot the words "Against the State Highway Act of 1915." Opposite the words "For the State Highway Act of 1915" and "Against the State Highway Act of 1915," there shall be left spaces in which the voters may make or stamp a cross to indicate whether they vote for or against this act, and those voting for said act shall do so by placing a cross opposite the words "For the State Highway Act of 1915" and those voting against said act shall do so by placing a cross opposite the words "Against the State Highway Act of 1915." The governor of this state shall include the submission of this act to the people as aforesaid, in his proclamation calling for said general election.

Results of election.

§ 11. The votes cast for or against this act shall be counted, returned and canvassed and declared in the same manner and subject to the same rules as votes cast for state officers, and if it appears that said act shall have received a majority of all the votes cast for and against it at such election, as aforesaid, then the same shall have effect as hereinbefore provided and shall be irrevocable until the principal and interest of the liabilities herein created shall be paid and discharged, and the governor shall make proclamation thereof. But if a majority of the votes cast, as aforesaid, are against this act then the same shall be and become void.

Publication to act before election.

§ 12. It shall be the duty of the secretary of state to have this act published in at least one newspaper in each county, or city and county, if one be published therein, throughout this state, for three months next preceding the general election to be holden in the month of November, A. D. nineteen hundred and sixteen; the cost of publication shall be paid out of the general fund, on controller's warrants duly drawn for the purpose.

§ 13. This act shall be known and cited as the "State Highways Act of 1915."

Repealed.

§ 14. All acts and parts of acts in conflict with the provisions of this act are hereby repealed.

SPECIAL ELECTION ON HIGHWAY AMENDMENT TO CONSTITUTION.

ACT 1916b—An act calling a special election to be held on Tuesday, July 1, 1919, and providing for the submission thereat to the qualified electors of the state of an amendment to the constitution of the state of California known as Senate Constitutional Amendment Number 27, proposed by the legislature of said state at its forty-third session, providing for the issuance of bonds to the amount of forty million dollars for the completion of the state highway system and the acquisition and construction of other state highways by the state department of engineering, and making an appropriation for the purposes of this act.

History: Approved April 24, 1919. In effect immediately. Stats. 1919, p. 136.

Election for state highway bonds.

§ 1. A special election is hereby called for and shall be held throughout the state of California on Tuesday, the first day of July, 1919, and at such special election there shall be submitted to the qualified electors of said state, for adoption or rejection, in accordance with the provisions of section one of article eighteen of the constitution of said state, the amendment to said constitution known as Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 27 proposed by the legislature of said state at its forty-third regular session commencing on the sixth day of January, 1919, providing for the issuance of bonds to the amount of forty million dollars for the completion of the state highway system and the acquisition and construction of other state highways by the state department of engineering.

Conduct of election.

§ 2. Except as otherwise expressly provided by this act, said election shall be proclaimed, held and conducted and the ballots shall be prepared, marked, voted, counted, canvassed, and the results shall be ascertained and the returns thereof made in all respects in accordance with the provisions of the constitution applicable thereto and the laws governing elections in so far as the provisions thereof are applicable to the election called by this act.

Arguments to be filed.

§ 3. The arguments provided for by section one thousand one hundred ninety-five of the Political Code must be delivered to the secretary of state within ten days following the adjournment of the legislature. Amendments thereof or changes therein may be made within ten days from such delivery, but not later. It shall be the duty of the attorney general to prepare and deliver to the secretary of state the ballot title provided for in section one thousand one hundred ninety-seven of the Political Code within ten days following the adjournment of the legislature. Written objection thereto may be filed with the secretary of state within ten days from such delivery, but not later.

Publication of proposed amendment.

§ 4. It shall be the duty of the board of control to have the said proposed amendment published in at least one newspaper in each county, or city and county, if one be published therein, throughout the state, once a week for four successive weeks preceding the election hereby called. The arguments provided for by section one thousand one hundred ninety-five of the Political Code shall be similarly published, in conjunction with the publication of such proposed amendment, and shall be printed with the latter, in immediate sequence, in each newspaper in which such publication is made. The publication of such proposed amendment and of such arguments shall be in lieu of that prescribed by the provisions of sections one thousand one hundred ninety-five a and one thousand one hundred ninety-five b of the Political Code, and no other publication shall be necessary or authorized.

Appropriation.

§ 5. There is hereby appropriated out of any money in the state treasury, not otherwise appropriated, the sum of fifteen thousand dollars, or so much thereof as may be necessary, to defray the cost of publication hereby required. The state controller is hereby authorized and directed to draw his warrants, not exceeding said sum, in favor of the board of control for such purpose, and the state treasurer is hereby authorized and directed to pay the same.

In effect when.

§ 6. This act, being an act calling an election, shall take effect immediately.

ACQUISITION OF RIGHTS OF WAY AND ROCK QUARRIES BY COUNTIES.

ACT 1917—An act to permit counties to acquire rights of way for state highways and to pay part of the expense of constructing state highways and bridges within their limits and authorizing the state to accept the same.

History: Approved June 3, 1913. In effect August 10, 1913. Stats. 1913, p. 445.

Acquisition of rights of way and rock quarries for state highways authorized.

§ 1. Whenever it is determined by a four-fifths vote of the board of supervisors of any county that the interests of the county would be promoted thereby, the board of supervisors, upon the recommendation of the advisory board of the department of engineering of the state of California, may, by resolution passed by a four-fifths vote of said county board, determine to acquire by purchase, donation or dedication, or lease any right of way, rock quarry or land needed for state highway purposes and described in such recommendation, and shall proceed, if necessary, to condemn under the provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure relating to such proceedings any right of way, rock quarry or land recommended to be acquired as aforesaid. The title to such property may be taken in the name of the state or the county. The order of the board of supervisors shall be the only preliminary procedure required prior to the acquisition of such property or the commencement of such condemnation action or actions.

Counties may contribute bridges, etc.

§ 2. Whenever it is determined by a four-fifths vote of the board of supervisors of any county that the interests of the county would be promoted thereby, the board of supervisors may, upon the written request of the advisory board of the department of engineering of the state of California, by resolution passed by a four-fifths vote of said county board, determine to contribute bridges, fencing, money, labor, materials and other appurtenances toward the expenses of constructing state highways within their limits.

Cost charged to general fund.

§ 3. The cost of such acquisition of property mentioned in section 1 of this act and the contributing of bridges, fencing, money, labor, materials, or other appurtenances mentioned in section 2 of this act may be charged to the general county fund, the general road fund or the district fund of the district or districts benefited.

State authorized to receive.

§ 4. The state is hereby authorized to receive and use the benefits provided under this act, and any money contributed by a county shall be paid into the state fund designated by the board of supervisors in the resolution determining such donation.

OPENINGS AND OBSTRUCTIONS IN STATE HIGHWAYS.

ACT 1917a—An act regulating the making of openings or the placing of structures or the change or renewal of any structure and the planting or removal of trees or shrubs or the placing of obstructions in or on state roads and highways; providing for the issuance of permits by the state department of engineering relative thereto, and for the laying or placing pipes, conduits, sewers, poles, wires, railways, obstructions and other objects, and for the planting, trimming or removal of trees or shrubs in or on state roads and highways; providing for the requirement of bonds from applicants before the issuance of such permits; and prescribing the penalty for violations of the provisions of this act.

History: Approved April 23, 1915. In effect August 8, 1915. Stats. 1915, p. 179.

Permits from department of engineering for openings, etc., on highways. Work under supervision of department of engineering.

§ 1. No opening shall be made in any state road or highway nor shall any structure be placed thereon, nor shall any structure which has been placed thereon be changed or renewed except in accordance with a permit from the state department of engineering or its duly authorized officers who shall exercise complete and permanent control over such roads or highways. No state road or highway shall be dug up for laying or placing pipes, conduits, sewers, wires, railways or other objects, and no tree or shrub in or on any state road or highway shall be planted, trimmed or removed, and no obstruction placed thereon, without a written permit as hereinbefore provided, and then only in accordance with the regulations of such department of engineering or its duly authorized officers or employees; and the work shall be done under the supervision and to the satisfaction of the department of engineering or its appropriate officers or employees, and the entire expense of replacing the highway in as good condition as before shall be paid by the persons to whom the permit is given or by whom the work is done; but a city or town may, within its corporate limits, dig up a state road or highway without such approval or permit in case of immediate necessity; but in such cases it shall be forthwith replaced in as good condition as before at the expense of the city or town.

Bond of applicant.

The department of engineering, or its duly authorized officers, may, in its discretion, before granting a permit under the provisions of this act, require the applicant to file a satisfactory bond to the people of the state of California in such an amount as may be deemed sufficient by the department of engineering or its duly authorized officers, conditioned for the proper compliance with the requirements of this act by the person granted such permit.

Work without permit, misdemeanor.

Any person convicted of making any opening in a state road or highway or placing any structure thereon, or changing or renewing any structure thereon without obtaining a permit as herein provided, or not in compliance with the terms of such a permit, or otherwise violating the provisions of this act, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Power of railroad commission not limited.

§ 2. This act is not intended nor is it to be construed as limiting the powers and duties vested by law in the railroad commission of the state of California, and in the event of any conflict of jurisdiction, that of such railroad commission shall prevail.

ABANDONMENT ACT OF 1915.

ACT 1917b—An act to provide for the abandonment of portions of routes of state roads and highways by the advisory board of state department of engineering, and for consent thereto in certain cases by county boards of supervisors.

History: Approved May 20, 1915. In effect August 8, 1915. Stats. 1915, p. 640.

Abandonment of state roads.

§ 1. The advisory board of the state department of engineering shall have the power to abandon portions of routes of state roads and highways under its jurisdiction, when, in its opinion, such abandonment shall be necessary by reason of alterations or revisions in alignment of portions of routes of state roads and highways by said advisory board and shall be for the best interests of the state. It may abandon any lands or parts thereof or rights in lands which have been taken or acquired by the state for such state road or highway purposes and forming part of portions of routes of state roads and highways as aforesaid by resolution adopted by the advisory board of such department of engineering, and a copy of such resolution may be recorded in the county where such land or part of land to be abandoned is located, without acknowledgment, certificate of acknowledgment, or further proof, and no fee shall be charged for such recording by the county recorder of such county; provided, however, that nothing contained in this act shall authorize and empower said state department of engineering to abandon any portion or portions of any state road or highway where such abandonment will operate to vest or revest the control and maintenance of such portion or portions of state road or highway or state bridge in the board or boards of supervisors of any county or counties wherein such portion or portions proposed to be abandoned are located, without the consent, by formal resolution, of such board or boards of supervisors affected by such abandonment having been first obtained.

CONVICT LABOR ON STATE HIGHWAYS.

ACT 1917c—An act authorizing the use of convict labor on state highways; regulating the handling of such labor; authorizing extra good time allowance; and providing penalties for interference.

History: Approved April 27, 1915. In effect August 8, 1915. Stats. 1915, p. 218.

Convicts for state highway work.

§ 1. The department of engineering of the state of California may employ, or cause to be employed, convicts confined in the state prisons in the construction, improvement and maintenance of the state highway system provided for in the "State Highways Act," approved March 22, 1909, and in the construction, improvement and maintenance of any other state roads in California.

Upon the requisition of the department of engineering the state board of prison directors shall send to the place and at the time designated the number of convicts requisitioned, or such portion thereof as are in the judgment of the warden available.

Department of engineering to supervise work.

§ 2. The department of engineering shall designate and supervise all road work done under the provisions of this act. It shall provide, supervise and maintain necessary camps and commissariat.

Prison directors shall discipline.

§ 3. The state board of prison directors shall have full jurisdiction at all times over the discipline and control of convicts employed on state roads.

Expenses.

§ 4. The expense of transportation of labor, necessary guarding, commissariat, camps, and all other expense incidental to such work shall be borne by the respective funds provided for such state road or highway work in the manner provided by law.

Convicts not to build bridges.

§ 4½. Said convicts when employed under the provisions of this act shall not be used for the purpose of building any bridge or structure of like character which requires the employment of skilled labor.

Good time allowance for work.

§ 5. The state board of prison directors is hereby empowered and directed to adopt a special rule applicable solely to convicts employed as herein authorized and contemplated, whereby convicts so employed shall be granted additional good time allowance conditioned upon their loyal, obedient and efficient co-operation with the state, but such additional good time allowance shall not exceed one day for each two calendar days that the convict is absent from the prison.

Interference with convicts, felony. Penalty.

§ 6. Any person who, without authority, interferes with or in any way interrupts the work of any convict employed pursuant to this act, and any person not authorized by law, who gives or attempts to give to any state prison convict so employed any opium, cocaine, or other narcotic, or any intoxicating liquors of any kind whatever, or firearms, weapons or explosives of any kind, is guilty of a felony, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by imprisonment in the state prison for a term not less than one year nor more than five years, and shall be disqualified from holding any state office or position in the employ of this state. Any officer or guard of any state prison, or any superintendent of such road work, having in charge the convicts employed upon such highways, may arrest without a warrant any person violating any provision of this section.

Repealed.

§ 7. All acts and parts of acts in conflict with the provisions of this act are hereby repealed.

ROAD DIVISION VALIDATION ACT OF 1917.

ACT 1917d—An act to legalize the organization of permanent road divisions and validate all proceedings for the issuance of bonds of said divisions where authority for issuance of said bonds, has already been given by a vote of at least two-thirds of the electors of any permanent road division.

History: Approved April 19, 1917. In effect July 27, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 141.

Organization of permanent road-divisions validated. Time for instituting suit.

§ 1. In all cases where the board of supervisors of any county of this state, purporting to act under and by virtue of the provisions of the Political Code applicable thereto, has organized a permanent road division, all proceedings for the organization of any such road division and the organization thereof are hereby validated and declared legal and no proceedings to test the validity of any such road division shall be maintained unless instituted within ninety days from the effective date of this act. Whenever the board of supervisors of any county has ordered the issuance of bonds of any such road division, after an election of the qualified electors thereof has been held to determine whether such indebtedness shall be incurred, at which election not less than two-thirds of all qualified electors voting at such election have voted in favor of incurring such indebtedness, all the proceedings preceding and including the issuance and the proposed issuance of such bonds are hereby validated, ratified and confirmed; and all such bonds sold or to be sold for not less than par and accrued interest are hereby declared to be valid and legal obligations of such road divisions in accordance with their terms, and no suit shall be maintained to prevent the issuance, sale or delivery of any such bonds or to prevent the payment of principal or of the interest accruing thereon when such principal and interest, respectively, become due in accordance with the terms of such bonds, unless such suit is instituted within ninety days from the effective date of this act.

STATE AID HIGHWAYS IN COUNTIES AND TOWNS.

ACT 1918—An act providing for the construction and maintenance by the state of state aid highways in counties and towns.

History: Approved June 5, 1913. In effect August 10, 1913. Stats. 1913, p. 461.

Supervisors may petition that highway be improved by department of engineering.

§ 1. The board of supervisors of any county may on a not less than four-fifths vote of such board or governing body, petition the state department of engineering, hereinafter in this act called department, upon forms prepared by said department, or under its direction to have any main public highway in the said county, or town improved and maintained under the provisions of this act. Such petition shall contain a detailed description of the highway petitioned to be improved, a statement as to whether or not the rights of way for the said highway have been secured by the public; a statement of the kind of construction work with which it is sought to have the highway improved, and such other information and data as the department may prescribe.

Consideration of petition. Surveys, estimates, etc. State highway.

§ 2. Upon receipt of such a petition the department shall give careful consideration to the matters contained therein, and may authorize the body filing the petition to file an amended or modified petition conforming to such regulations and conditions as in the discretion of the department may be deemed just and proper.

If said department determine that public necessity and convenience require that such highway should be laid out and be taken charge of by the state, it shall cause the engineer or surveyor of the county in which the road to be improved is located to make adequate surveys, plans, specifications and estimates thereof subject to the approval and acceptance of the department. Upon approval by the department, a copy of the petition, resolution or undertaking, plans, specifications and estimate shall be filed with the department and also in the office of the recorder of the county in which the highway is situated and thereafter it shall be a state highway, and shall be constructed and kept in good repair as the department shall direct, under the supervision of the engineer or surveyor of the said county, the expense for construction and repair of same to be proportioned and paid as hereafter provided. Such highways shall be known as state aid highways.

Bridges and culverts constructed by county.

§ 3. The department shall not grant the prayer of any petition for the improvement of a highway under the provisions of this act unless all necessary bridges and culverts shall have first been constructed by the county, or town in which the highway is situated, in a manner satisfactory to the department, nor unless all necessary rights of way have been secured by the public. All expenditures under the provisions of this act shall be distributed equitably throughout the state.

Advertising and letting contract. Bids may be rejected.

§ 4. When the department is prepared for construction it shall so notify the governing body of the town or county in which the highway is located and furnish them a verified copy of the approved plans and specifications and the said governing body shall proceed to advertise for bids and let the contract for construction in the manner provided for by the statutes for advertising and letting contracts for work on public highways by counties.

Should the bids for constructing the highways exceed the figure mutually agreed upon between the department and the county engineer as a reasonable compensation for the work the bids shall be rejected and the work be done as the department shall direct. In either case the county surveyor shall represent the department in the supervision of the construction. Whenever the department deems it necessary, it may appoint an inspector.

Payments. Two-thirds cost paid by county. Monthly statement of expenditures. Payable from any available fund.

§ 5. Payment for the work shall be made by the local governing body in the manner provided by law for the payments of claims against the county for work of this class, on presentation of bills verified by the supervising engineer and approved by the department. The cost of construction shall include therein the cost of the surveys, drafting, engineering, inspection and other necessary expenses as well as the cost of the actual work of construction. Two-thirds of the cost of construction as shown by the bills approved by the department shall be paid by the county in which the highway is located and one-third by the state. The cost of maintenance thereafter shall be equally divided between the state and the county, the work to be done as the department shall direct under the supervision of the county engineer. All bills for maintenance shall be approved and paid in the same manner as the cost of construction.

On the 10th of each month following the month in which work of any kind has been done, or expenses of any sort have been incurred in connection with the construction or maintenance of a state aid highway, the treasurer of the county where the highway is situated shall present to the department a verified statement of the amounts paid for work performed during the previous month and a demand for a payment of the amount due from the state. Upon verification and approval of this demand the state treasurer shall forward the amount to the county treasurer. The amount to be paid by a county may be paid out of the proceeds of a bond issue, the general fund, the general road district fund or out of the district funds of the road district in which the said highway is located.

The proportion of expense borne by the state shall be paid out of any fund now available, or which may hereafter be made available for the purpose, or out of special appropriations for the purpose made by the legislature.

Moneys shall be paid by the state treasurer upon warrants duly drawn by the controller of the state, upon demands made by the department and audited by the state board of control.

Limit of cost. Bonds.

§ 6. The board of supervisors of any county may not, under the provisions of this act, petition for the improvement of any highway the estimated cost of which by the county surveyor or engineer of said county shall exceed the sum of fifty thousand dollars, unless the same shall have been submitted to the electors of the county and approved. The board of supervisors is hereby authorized to issue bonds under the laws of this state for the construction of such highways and the approval of such bond issue by the electors shall authorize the board of supervisors to proceed with the construction of such highway under the provisions of this act.

Provisions of law applicable.

§ 7. All of the provisions of law relating to state highways and to the department shall apply so far as they are applicable to all work done and to all methods employed under this act.

Title of act.

§ 8. This act shall be known and cited as the "State Aid Highway Act."

PURCHASE OF "BIG OAK FLAT" AND "YOSEMITE AND WAWONA" ROADS.ACT 1919—An act to appropriate money to purchase certain roads within Yosemite grant.

History: Approved March 14, 1889, Stats. 1889, p. 142.

1. Constitutionality—Gift of state property.—The act is constitutional and the appropriation for the purchase of the unexpired lease of Yosemite and Wawona road does not constitute a gift.—Yosemite, etc., Co. v. Dunn, 83 Cal. 264, 23 Pac. 369.

2. Yosemite grant not subject to general road laws.—No portion of the Yosemite grant is subject to the general road laws of the state, and a turnpike road therein, constructed and operated under a ten-year lease, did not become, under the provisions of section 2619, of the Political Code, a free public highway.—Yosemite, etc., Co. v. Dunn, 83 Cal. 264, 23 Pac. 369.

3. Roads in Yosemite grant property of state.—Roads laid out under a lease by commissioners under the congressional grant of the Yosemite Valley and Mariposa big tree grove are the property of the state, and under the control of such commissioners, and not the board of supervisors.—Yosemite, etc., Co. v. Dunn, 83 Cal. 264, 23 Pac. 369.

LAKE TAHOE WAGON ROAD.ACT 1920—An act for the general improvement of Lake Tahoe wagon road.

History: Approved March 31, 1911, Stats. 1911, p. 529.

This act appropriated $15,000 for the purpose indicated.

Appropriations were made to improve and complete the Lake Tahoe wagon road by the act of March 8, 1907, Stats. 1907, p. 140, $5000; April 12, 1909, Stats. 1909, p. 853, $20,000; March 31, 1911, Stats. 1911, p. 529, $15,000.

Editor's note: The act of March 25, 1895, Stats. 1895, p. 1895, authorizes the state to secure a right of way for the Lake Tahoe wagon road and provided for a "Lake Tahoe wagon road commissioner." This act was superseded by the act of April 1, 1897, Stats. 1897, p. 388.

BRIDGE ON LAKE TAHOE WAGON ROAD.ACT 1920a—An act to provide for the construction of permanent bridge work on the Lake Tahoe wagon road, a state highway, and making an appropriation therefor.

History: Approved March 22, 1905, Stats. 1905, p. 796.

PLACERVILLE AND LAKE TAHOE WAGON ROAD.ACT 1920b—An act declaring the wagon road extending from the western end of the Lake Tahoe state wagon road to the eastern limits of the city of Placerville to be a state highway.

History: Approved April 10, 1915. In effect August 8, 1915, Stats. 1915, p. 41.

Road from Lake Tahoe to Placerville declared state highway.

§ 1. The wagon road extending from the western end of the Lake Tahoe state wagon road to the eastern limits of the city of Placerville is hereby declared to be a state highway and placed under the management and control of the department of engineering, and it shall be the duty of the said department to locate, survey, construct and reconstruct the same with such variations as will in the opinion of the said department be advisable.

§ 2. The said department is authorized and directed to take such steps as may be necessary to acquire for the state all rights of way, roads, culverts, bridges, quarries, timber and tools, machinery and appliances necessary to the construction and improvement of the said highway; provided, however, that no public corporation or political subdivision of the state shall receive any compensation on account of the said road.

STATE HIGHWAY FROM MEYER'S STATION TO McKINNEY'S.

ACT 1921—An act to provide a state highway from Meyer's station in El Dorado county, California, to McKinney's in Placer county, California, and making an appropriation therefor.

History: Approved March 9, 1911, Stats. 1911, p. 324.

This act appropriated $25,000 for the purpose indicated, and placed the work under the control of the department of engineering.

An additional appropriation of $23,000 was made by the act of June 7, 1913, Stats. 1913, p. 869, and by the same act the construction was placed in the department of engineering.

ALPINE STATE HIGHWAY.

ACT 1922—An act to establish the Alpine state highway; to define its course; to provide for its supervision, construction, repair and maintenance, and to make an appropriation therefor.

History: Approved April 15, 1911, Stats. 1911, p. 931.

The following is the description of the highway as given in the act:

That certain road commencing at the Calaveras big tree grove, located in Calaveras County, thence running to Dorrington in said county; thence easterly following what is known as the Big Tree and Carson Valley turnpike, to Mount Bullion, in Alpine County; thence along county road to Markleeville, in Alpine County; thence along that certain road via Kirkwood, Silver Lake, Pine Grove and Irishtown to Jackson, in Amador County, including therewith the road from Pickett's in Hope Valley connecting with the Lake Tahoe wagon road, a state highway, at Osgood's place in El Dorado County, and the road from Mount Bullion via Loupe, in Alpine County, to Junction in Mono County, connecting with the Sonora and Mono state highway, is hereby declared and established a state highway and shall be designated and known as the "Alpine State Highway."

The act appropriated $35,000 for the purpose indicated. The work was placed under the control of the department of engineering.

STATE HIGHWAY FROM EMIGRANT GAP TO DONNER LAKE— CONSTRUCTION.

ACT 1923—An act to make an appropriation for the location, survey and construction of a state highway from Emigrant Gap, Placer county, in an easterly direction through what is known as the Truckee Pass, to the west end of Donner Lake in Nevada county.

History: Approved March 13, 1909, Stats. 1909, p. 352.

This act appropriated $15,000 for the purpose indicated.

STATE HIGHWAY FROM EMIGRANT GAP TO DONNER LAKE— MAINTENANCE.

ACT 1924—An act providing for the maintenance of the state highway from Emigrant Gap, Placer county, to the west end of Donner Lake, Nevada County.

History: Approved April 21, 1911, Stats. 1911, p. 1044.

This act appropriated $5,000 for the purpose indicated.

EMIGRANT GAP STATE ROAD—CHANGE OF GRADE.

ACT 1925—An act to make an appropriation for changing the state road known as Emigrant Gap so as to eliminate the grade crossing over the railroad track near Summit station.

Appropriation: elimination of grade crossing, Emigrant Gap road.

§ 1. There is hereby appropriated out of any moneys in the state treasury not otherwise appropriated the sum of four thousand dollars for making a change in the location of the Emigrant Gap state road so as to eliminate the grade crossing of said road over the railroad track near Summit station; provided, that the Southern Pacific Company shall contribute not less than three thousand five hundred dollars for the same purpose.

Controller directed to draw warrants.

§ 2. The state controller is hereby directed to draw his warrants in such sums, and at such times as claims therefor, approved by the board of control, may be presented by the department of engineering, and the state treasurer is hereby directed to pay the same.

LASSEN COUNTY STATE HIGHWAY.

ACT 1926—An act declaring a state highway from the Shasta county line through Lassen county to the Modoc county line, and making an appropriation for its improvement and maintenance.

History: Approved April 22, 1911, Stats. 1911, p. 1036.

This act appropriated $5,000 for the purpose indicated.

ALTURAS TO CEDARVILLE COUNTY ROAD.

ACT 1927—An act to aid the county of Modoc in the construction of permanent work on the county road between Alturas and Cedarville, and making an appropriation therefor.

History: Approved March 22, 1905, Stats. 1905, p. 790.

This act appropriated $7,000 for the purpose indicated.

STATE HIGHWAY FROM SACRAMENTO TO FOLSOM.

ACT 1928—An act to provide for the construction of a state highway or wagon road from Sacramento city to Folsom, in Sacramento county, and appropriating crushed rock and granite or stone blocks for drains and culverts for same.

History: Approved March 29, 1897, Stats. 1897, p. 239.

This act made no other appropriation than that of crushed rock, stone, etc., from Folsom Prison. The purpose was to make a model road for the inspection of the next legislature. The county of Sacramento attempted to issue bonds to cover the cost of construction, but this attempt was held to be unauthorized.—See Devine v. Board Supervisors, 121 Cal. 671, 54 Pac. 262.

STATE HIGHWAY FROM MOUNT PLEASANT RANCH TO DOWNIEVILLE.

ACT 1929—An act to make an appropriation for the location, survey and construction of state highway from a point known as the Mount Pleasant ranch on the road between Quincy and Marysville thence in a southeasterly direction by Eureka to Downieville, Sierra county.

This act appropriated $3,000 for the purpose indicated.

KINGS RIVER STATE HIGHWAY.

ACT 1939—An act to provide for the location and construction of a public highway from the General Grant park in Fresno county; thence easterly a distance of about fifty miles to the Kings river canyon; and making an appropriation for the construction thereof; and providing for a commission to take charge of, locate and construct said highway, and to repeal an act entitled "An act to appropriate money for the survey, location and construction of a free wagon road from the town of Mariposa in Mariposa county to the Yosemite valley," approved March 26, 1895.

History: Approved March 22, 1905, Stats. 1905, p. 797. Later acts of March 13, 1909, Stats. 1909, p. 351, and April 21, 1911, Stats. 1911, p. 1044, made additional appropriations for the completion of the highway.

This act appropriated $25,000 for the purpose indicated. The act of 1909 appropriated a like amount, and the act of 1911, the same.

BAKERSFIELD, MARICOPA AND VENTURA STATE HIGHWAY.

ACT 1940—An act declaring and establishing a state highway from the city of Bakersfield through a portion of the counties of Kern, San Luis Obispo, Santa Barbara and Ventura to the city of San Buena Ventura, designated and known as the Bakersfield, Maricopa and Ventura state highway.

This act after describing the course of the highway contained the following provision:

The entire length from Ventura to Bakersfield being one hundred twenty-nine and twenty-five one-hundredths miles, or thereabouts, is hereby declared to be, and the same is hereby constituted, a state highway, and shall be designated and known as the Bakersfield, Maricopa and Ventura state highway, and the same is hereby placed under the supervision and control of the state board of engineering; provided, that said highway shall not be and become a state highway, and be and become subject to the supervision and control of the state board of engineering until said highway shall have been fully completed.

WAGON ROAD FROM MCKINNEY'S TO DONNER LAKE DECLARED A STATE HIGHWAY.

ACT 1941—An act declaring the wagon road from McKinney's to the west end of Donner Lake a state highway.

History: Approved May 17, 1915. In effect August 8, 1915. Stats. 1915, p. 441.

Wagon road, McKinney's to Donner Lake, declared state highway.

§ 1. The wagon road extending along the west side of Lake Tahoe, from McKinney's in El Dorado county to Tahoe city, thence along the Truckee river to Truckee and thence in a westerly direction to the west end of Donner Lake in Nevada county, connecting with the present state highway from Emigrant Gap, is hereby declared to be a state highway and placed under the management and control of the department of engineering, and it shall be the duty of the said department to locate, survey, construct and reconstruct the same with such variations as will in the opinion of the said department be advisable.

Rights of way, etc., to be acquired.

§ 2. The said department is authorized and directed to take such steps as may be necessary to acquire for the state all rights of way, roads, culverts, bridges, quarries, timber and tools, machinery and appliances necessary to the construction and improvement of the said highway; provided, however, that no public corporation or political subdivision of the state shall receive any compensation on account of the said road.

PURCHASE OF PORTION OF GREAT SIERRA WAGON ROAD, OR "TIOGA ROAD."

ACT 1941a—An act to appropriate money to purchase a portion of the Great Sierra wagon road and to provide for the acceptance and maintenance of said road as a state road.

History: Approved May 17, 1915. In effect August 8, 1915. Stats. 1915, p. 488.

Appropriation: Tioga road.

§ 1. There is hereby appropriated out of any money in the state treasury not otherwise appropriated the sum of three thousand dollars for the purchase of that portion of the Great Sierra wagon road, better known as the "Tioga road," lying without the boundary of the Yosemite national park, approximately seven miles in length; provided, that the portion of the said "Tioga road" lying within the Yosemite national park is taken over by the national government and the maintenance therefor is provided for.

Engineering department to purchase.

§ 2. The state department of engineering through the state engineer is hereby authorized and directed to negotiate and complete the purchase of said portion of said Great Sierra wagon road, and on behalf of the state of California to accept the deed for the same from the owners thereof, and to secure from the boards of supervisors of Tuolumne and Mono counties such orders as may be necessary to vacate any orders previously made by said boards relative to any franchise or grant made for said road. Upon the acceptance of said deed the said department of engineering shall improve and maintain said road as a state road and any expense incurred after the date of the acceptance of said deed shall be a proper charge against any money in the state treasury appropriated for the improvement and maintenance of state roads.

§ 3. The state controller is hereby directed to draw his warrants on order and as directed by the state engineer for the sum named, and the state treasurer is directed to pay the same, for the purchase of the above named road.

BIG OAK FLAT AND YOSEMITE TOLL ROAD, A STATE HIGHWAY.

ACT 1942—An act to take title to and thereafter maintain as a state highway, the toll road in Tuolumne and Mariposa counties, known as the Big Oak Flat and Yosemite road, also a section of Tuolumne county road to connect said toll road with the Sonora lateral of the state highway.

History: Approved May 19, 1915. In effect August 8, 1915. Stats. 1915, p. 635.

Big Oak Flat and Yosemite road declared a state highway.

§ 1. That all that certain toll road in Tuolumne and Mariposa counties known as the Big Oak Flat and Yosemite road beginning at a point near the former location of Jack Bell sawmill in Tuolumne county and extending thence in an easterly direction through a portion of Mariposa county at Hamilton station, thence again into Tuolumne county, past the Hearidin ranch, Crocker station, Crane Flat and Gin Flat to the boundary line of the original Yosemite Grant near Caescade creek, about thirty-two miles in length, is hereby declared a state highway, and shall hereafter be maintained by the state under the supervision of the department of engineering.

Conveyance of title.

§ 2. This act shall not take effect until the county of Tuolumne shall have deposited with the state department of engineering a good and sufficient conveyance, conveying thereby title to said road without cost or charge to the state of California; and when said conveyance shall have been so delivered, the state engineer shall then take charge of said road and maintain the same out of the moneys provided by law for the maintenance of state highways.

Connecting road taken over.

§ 3. Also, the state engineer is hereby authorized to take over from the county of Tuolumne the section of road, approximately twenty-seven miles in length, connecting the western terminus of the Big Oak Flat and Yosemite toll road to the Sonora lateral of the state highway—provided no money consideration shall be given for roadbed or rights of way—and declare the same a state highway and maintain it with the funds available for maintaining state highways. Said connecting section of road beginning at the western terminus of said toll road shall run westerly via the main traveled route through Smith's ranch, Groveland, Big Oak Flat and over the new Priest hill highway to Jacksonville. From this point the state engineer shall select from the routes available, the road he deems the most practicable, direct and easily maintained to make connection with the state highway lateral.

“YOLO AND LAKE HIGHWAY.”

ACT 1942a—An act to establish the Yolo and Lake highway; to define its course; to provide for its location and survey; and to make an appropriation therefor.

History: Approved May 17, 1915. In effect August 3, 1915. Stats. 1915, p. 478.

Yolo and Lake highway established.

§ 1. A highway commencing at the town of Rumsey, in the county of Yolo, state of California, and following generally, the meanderings of Cache creek, along the most practical and feasible route, to the town of Lower Lake, in the county of Lake, state of California, and to be known as “Yolo and Lake Highway,” be and the same is hereby declared and established.

Department of engineering to locate and survey.

§ 2. That the said department of engineering is hereby authorized to locate the said highway, and to make the surveys and investigations necessary for such location, together with the estimates of cost, and make a report thereof to the governor of the state of California; that said department of engineering may make such variations in the location of said road as, in the opinion of said department, may be deemed advisable.

Appropriation.

§ 3. There is hereby appropriated out of any money in the state treasury, not otherwise appropriated, the sum of three thousand (3,000) dollars, to be expended under the supervision of said department, for the location and survey of said highway, and the estimates of the cost thereof. The state controller is hereby directed to draw his warrants in such sums and at such times as the said engineer may present claims therefor, and the state treasurer is directed to pay the same.

§ 4. That the state shall not be responsible for any sum other than the amount herein appropriated.

TAHOE CITY AND CRYSTAL BAY STATE HIGHWAY.

ACT 1943—An act making an appropriation for the location, survey and construction of a state highway from Tahoe city, Placer county, along the northern boundary of Lake Tahoe to the western boundary of the state of Nevada at Crystal bay in Placer county.

§ 4. The said board of Monterey customhouse trustees shall provide for the preservation, maintenance, protection and improvement of the property last before described, in such way and manner as in their judgment may seem best and proper.

CALIFORNIA HISTORICAL SURVEY COMMISSION.

ACT 1951—An act to create a commission for the purpose of making a survey of local historical material in the state of California; defining the power and duties of said commission; and making an appropriation therefor.

History: Approved June 12, 1915. In effect August 11, 1915. Stats. 1915, p. 1528. Amended May 17, 1917. In effect July 27, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 572.

Historical survey commission.

§ 1. There is hereby established a California historical survey commission composed of three members to be chosen as hereinafter provided.

§ 2. The members of this commission shall be appointed by the governor of the state of California; provided, only that one of the members of said commission shall be nominated by board of regents of the University of California, and that one of the members of said commission shall be nominated by the board of grand officers of the Order of Native Sons of the Golden West; all nominations however shall be subject to approval by the governor.

Term.

§ 3. The commissioners first named shall be appointed for terms ending July 1, 1916, and their successors shall be appointed for a term of two years; the said commissioners to serve without salary.

Purpose of commission. Models of mission buildings. Notice.

§ 4. The purpose of this commission shall be to make a survey of the material on local history within the state of California by investigating documents in local depositories and in the possession of private individuals and other sources of original information on the early history of the state of California and to compile, keep and publish a record of such sources of information; and to investigate and acquire information as to the physical characteristics of the several missions which were maintained in the state of California under the charge of the Franciscan Fathers prior to the time of the secularization thereof, and to cause to be made a record thereof, and to be created models of the several mission buildings and outbuildings connected therewith, which shall be accurate representations of the mission buildings and outbuildings connected with the same as they were at the time when the Franciscan Fathers were in charge, and the same shall be known respectively as the California Model of each particular mission in question, and the said commission shall cause to be prepared plans and specifications sufficient in detail to enable any of said buildings and outbuildings to be restored, and the commission shall have authority to pass upon and determine the relative accuracy of information to be obtained and to establish for the state the models and plans and specifications thereof; provided, however, that no model shall thus be established as the correct model of any mission unless the said commission shall first have published for a period of at least sixty days a notice to the public fixing a time and place at which any person interested in the said respective mission, or having information as to the condition of said mission buildings, or any part thereof, may present to the commission facts, papers, documents, records or other information substantiating the said person's ideas as to the condition of said mission buildings at the time in questions, which notice must be published in one newspaper in the city of San Francisco, one newspaper in the city of Sacramento, one newspaper in the city of Los Angeles, and one newspaper in the county in which said mission building was situated. [Amendment of May 17, 1917. In effect July 27, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 572.]

Powers.

§ 5. This commission shall have power to organize the work of the commission; to appoint such assistants as it shall deem necessary, and to fix their compensation; and to spend such other moneys as it may deem advisable, but no expenditure of money by the commission shall exceed the amount appropriated by this act; to make and enforce rules governing this commission and to do such other things as shall be necessary to carry out the provisions and the purposes of this act.

§ 6. This commission shall meet at such times and places within the state of California, as may be expedient and necessary for the proper performance of its duties, such times and places to be designated and determined by this commission.

Appropriation.

§ 7. The sum of ten thousand dollars or so much thereof as may be necessary, is hereby appropriated out of any money in the state treasury, not otherwise appropriated, to be expended in accordance with law for the purposes of this act.

History: Approved June 1, 1915. In effect August 8, 1915. Stats. 1915, p. 1056. The act of May 14, 1917, Stats. 1917, p. 530, appropriated $900 to carry out the purposes of this act.

Pio Pico mansion trustees created.

§ 1. There is hereby created the board of Pio Pico mansion trustees, which shall consist of three members, at least two of whom shall be residents of Los Angeles county. Within thirty days after this act shall go into effect the governor shall appoint one member of said board for the term of two years and two members for the term of four years. Thereafter each member shall be appointed by the governor and shall hold office for four years and until his successor is appointed and qualified. Vacancies shall be filled by appointment in the same manner for an unexpired term.

President and secretary. Compensation.

§ 2. Immediately upon their appointment said board of Pio Pico mansion trustees shall organize by electing a president, a secretary, and a treasurer from their number. When empowered by the said board, the said president and secretary may do and perform all things pertaining to the duties of the board. No member of the board shall receive any compensation for his services, but shall be reimbursed his actual necessary expenses incurred when traveling on the business of the board.

Authorized to receive mansion.

§ 3. The said board of Pio Pico mansion trustees are hereby authorized to receive and accept from the city of Whittier without cost to the state, the possession of and the title to that certain property known as Pio Pico mansion and grounds, and which is particularly described as—

All that certain real property situate in the county of Los Angeles, state of California, described as follows:

Together with all and singular tenements, hereditaments, and appurtenances thereunto belonging or in anywise appertaining, and the reversion and reversions, remainder and remainders, rents, issues and profits thereof;

Conditions of transfer.

To have and to hold, all and singular, the said premises, together with the appurtenances for and during so long a period of time as said mentioned and herein described property shall be used for the purposes of a museum, and so long as they shall keep in good order, condition and repair such building or buildings as are now on said property wherein shall be deposited and kept, collected, preserved and cared for such records, books, manuscripts, charts, maps, and other materials as may be deemed worthy of a place in the archives of the said state of California kept and maintained on the property herein conveyed and for no other purpose whatever.

Right of way reserved.

It is understood and agreed that the said city of Whittier shall have the use of the eighteen-foot right of way along the east line of the city land described in said deed and recorded in book 1300, page 77, Los Angeles county deed records, being an eighteen-foot roadway and extending from the county road to the premises described above, and the same being a private roadway for the use of the property by the city of Whittier;

Also, there is reserved to the city of Whittier the water rights thereunder, and the right of way thereon.

Appropriation.

§ 4. Out of any moneys in the state treasury not otherwise appropriated there is hereby appropriated the sum of four hundred dollars, to be expended during the sixty-seventh and sixty-eighth fiscal years in accordance with law for the purpose of carrying out the provisions of section three of this act.

RECORD OF CALIFORNIA IN GREAT WAR.

ACT 1953—An act directing the California historical survey commission to prepare a record of California's part in the war between the United States and the central European powers and to compile biographical sketches of California's citizens who served in the army, navy or marine corps of the United States during said war, and making an appropriation to carry out the purposes hereof.

History: Approved May 23, 1919. In effect July 23, 1919. Stats. 1919, p. 830.

History of California's service in great war.

§ 1. It shall be the duty of the California historical survey commission to prepare and compile for publication a record of California's part in the great war between the United States and the central European powers. It shall be the further duty of the said commission to prepare and compile for publication a book or books in which shall appear a brief biography, together with a picture or likeness if obtainable, of each citizen of the state of California who served in either the army, navy or marine corps of the United States of America at any time during said war.

Appropriation.

§ 2. Out of any money in the state treasury not otherwise appropriated, there is hereby appropriated the sum of five thousand dollars to be expended by the California historical survey commission in carrying out the duties imposed upon it by this act.

Penalty for false naming.

§ 1. All trees, seeds, plants and vines, sold, offered or exposed for sale in the state of California shall be properly named as to variety and kind, and any person knowingly selling, trading, or exchanging, or offering or exposing for sale any trees, seeds, plants or vines falsely named as to variety and kind shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be liable to a fine of not less than ten dollars, nor more than three hundred dollars.

PEAR AND WALNUT BLIGHT INVESTIGATION.

ACT 2002—An act to provide for an investigation of the nature of the diseases known as pear blight and walnut blight and to prevent, eradicate, and procure a cure for the same and to cause to be prosecuted experimental and research work in the field of viticulture, directing publication of the results of such experiments and investigations, making an appropriation therefor and prescribing the duties of the controller and treasurer in relation thereto.

History: Approved March 18, 1905, Stats. 1905, p. 124.

Viticulture; experimental and research work in the field. Pear blight, prevention and suppression of. Walnut blight, remedy for.

§ 1. The regents and the president of the University of California are hereby directed to cause to be prosecuted with all possible diligence, in connection with and in addition to the work heretofore carried on by the agricultural experiment station, experimental and research work in the field of viticulture, including both cultural and industrial processes. They are directed to ascertain the adaptation of the various kinds of vines to the several climatic and soil conditions of the state, with the special reference to those stocks for propagating purposes, resistant to the phylloxera, and to further their adaptability and utility as grafting stocks for producing wine, raisin and table grapes. They are directed to ascertain the best methods of grafting and propagating said stocks and vines together with the most important methods of vinification and preparation, manufacture and application of yeasts in vinification and distillation. They are further directed to report upon the utilization of the by-products of the vineyard and winery, the study and treatment of the vine diseases, and all matters appertaining to the viticultural industry pertinent to the successful conduct of the business and that may be of general public interest, use and profit. They are further directed to publish the result of said experiments and investigations in form of bulletins from time to time, as may seem advisable and not less than two bulletins showing the progress and result of the work, shall be issued in any fiscal year.

And they are further directed to inaugurate an investigation of the cause, nature, and means of suppression or prevention, of the so-called pear blight, a destructive, infectious disease of pear and apple trees. For such investigation said director shall obtain and establish such assistants, equipment, materials, appliances, apparatus and other incidentals as may be necessary to the successful prosecution of the work, within the appropriation specified.

And they are further directed to secure a remedy for the so-called walnut blight. The said regents are hereby authorized to employ an expert and if necessary, to send him abroad to ascertain the cause of this blight and in an endeavor to secure a remedy therefor.

Appropriation.

§ 2. There is hereby appropriated for the use of said experiment station, for the purposes set forth in this act, the sum of twenty thousand dollars ($20,000).

Expenditure, under whose direction.

§ 3. All money appropriated under this act shall be paid to the regents of the University of California, and expended under the direction of the director of the agricultural experiment station of said university for the specific purposes herein named.

HORTICULTURAL ACT OF 1912.

ACT 2009—An act to provide for the protection of horticulture and to prevent the introduction into this state of insects or diseases, or animals, injurious to fruit or fruit trees, vines, bushes or vegetables, providing for a quarantine for the enforcement of this act, making a violation of the terms of the act a misdemeanor, and providing the penalty therefor; providing that said act shall be an urgency measure and go into effect immediately, and repealing that certain act entitled "An act for the protection of horticulture and to prevent the introduction into this state of insects, or diseases, or animals, injurious to fruit or fruit trees, vines, bushes or vegetables, and to provide for a quarantine for the enforcement of this act," approved March 11, 1899.

History: Approved January 2, 1912, Stats. 1912, p. 433 (second ex. sess.). Prior act of April 9, 1880, Stats. 1880, p. 36, was superseded by, act of March 14, 1881, Stats. 1881, p. 88, was repealed by, the act of March 31, 1897, Stats. 1897, p. 244, which, with its various amendments of 1905 (Stats. 1905, p. 297) and 1907 (Stats. 1907, p. 112) was superseded by the code, see Kerr's Cyc. Political Code, §§ 2322-2322e. Prior act of March 9, 1885, Stats. 1885, p. 40, was superseded by the act of March 11, 1899, Stats. 1899, p. 91, which was amended February 19, 1903, Stats. 1903, p. 32, and repealed by the present act.

Inspection of articles brought into state. Notice of arrival required. Authority of inspector. Disinfection. Nothing to be removed prior to infection.

§ 1. Any person, persons, firm or corporation who shall receive, bring or cause to be brought into the state of California, any nursery stock, trees, shrubs, plants, vines, cuttings, grafts, scions, buds or fruit pits, or fruit or vegetables, or seed, shall immediately after the arrival thereof notify the state commissioner of horticulture, or deputy quarantine officer, or quarantine guardian of the district or county in which such nursery stock, or fruit or vegetables or seed are received, of their arrival, and hold the same without unnecessarily moving the same, or placing such articles where they may be harmful, for the immediate inspection of such state commissioner of horticulture, or deputy quarantine officer or guardian. If there is no quarantine guardian or state horticultural quarantine officer in the county where such nursery stock or fruit or vegetable, or seed is received, it shall then be the duty of such person, persons, firm or corporation to notify the state commissioner of horticulture, who shall make immediate arrangements for their inspection. The state commissioner of horticulture, deputy quarantine officer, quarantine guardian or such person or persons as shall be commissioned by the state commissioner of horticulture to make such inspection, or to represent said commissioner, is hereby authorized and empowered to enter at any time into any car, warehouse, depot or upon any ship within the boundaries of the state of California whether in the stream or at the dock, wharf, dock, mole, or any other place where such nursery stock or fruit or vegetables or seed or other described articles are received or in which such nursery stock or fruit or vegetables or seed is imported into the state, for the purpose of making the investigation or examination to ascertain whether such nursery stock, trees, shrubs, plants, vines, cuttings, grafts, scions, buds, fruit pits, fruit, vegetables or seed is infested with any species of injurious insects, or their eggs, larvae or pupae or other animal or plant disease.

If after such examination or inspection, any of the said described articles are found to be so infested or infected as aforesaid, then it shall be the duty of the owner, owners, or persons, firm or corporation having charge or possession thereof to so disinfect at his or their expense such portion or portions of the ship, dock, wharf, mole, car, warehouse or depot where said articles may have been located in such a manner as to destroy all infection or infestation present or that is liable to be present, and all articles or packages or soils apt to be so infested or infected shall be held until the said articles or packages or soils have been thoroughly disinfected and all injurious insects, or their eggs, larvae or pupae or other animal or plant disease have been eradicated and destroyed; provided, however, that all articles of nursery stock, trees, shrubs, plants, vines, cuttings, grafts, scions, buds, fruit pits, fruits, vegetables or seed which are infested or infected with such species of injurious insects or their eggs, larvae or pupae or other animal or plant disease which may be or be liable to be injurious to the orchards, vineyards, gardens or farms within said state, shall be destroyed or reshipped out of the state as hereinafter provided. The said officer so making such inspection shall not permit any of the described articles so coming in contact with said infested or infected articles or any articles which might convey infection or infestation to be removed or taken from any such car, warehouse, depot, ship, dock, wharf or any other place until after such infection or infestation shall have been destroyed.

Marking required on articles undergoing shipment.

§ 2. Each carload, case, box, package, crate, bale or bundle of trees, shrubs, plants, vines, cuttings, grafts, scions, buds or fruit pits, or fruit or vegetables or seed, imported or brought into this state, shall have plainly and legibly marked thereon in a conspicuous manner and place the name and address of the shipper, owner, or owners or person forwarding or shipping the same, and also the name of the person, firm or corporation to whom the same is forwarded or shipped, or his or its responsible agents, also the name of the country, state or territory where the contents were grown and a statement of the contents therein.

Destruction of infected or infested articles. Shipment out of state of articles found infected or infested.

§ 3. When any shipment of nursery stock, trees, vines, plants, shrubs, cuttings, grafts, scions, buds, fruit pits or seed or vegetables or fruit, imported or brought into this state, is found infested or infected with any species of injurious insects, or their eggs, larvae or pupae or other animal or plant disease or there is reasonable cause to presume that they may be so infested or infected, which would cause damage, or be liable to cause damage, to the orchards, vineyards, gardens or farms of the state of California, or which would be or be liable to be detrimental thereto or to any portion of said state, or to any of the orchards, vineyards, gardens or farms within said state such shipment shall be immediately destroyed by the state commissioner of horticulture, his deputy quarantine officer, quarantine guardians or other person or persons, who shall be commissioned by the state commissioner of horticulture to make such inspection; provided, however, that if the nature of the injurious insects, or their eggs, larvae, pupae or animal or plant disease be such that no damage or detriment can be caused to the said orchards, vineyards, gardens or farms of California or any of the same by the shipment of the same out of the state, then the said state commissioner of horticulture, his deputy quarantine officer, quarantine guardians or other person or persons who shall be commissioned by the state commissioner of horticulture to make such inspection, and who shall make such inspection, shall notify the owner or person, firm or corporation having possession or control of said articles to ship the same out of the state within forty-eight hours after such notification, and it shall be the duty of such owner or owners, or person, firm or corporation, to so ship said articles, but such shipment shall be under the sole direction and control of the officer so making the inspection and shall be at the expense of the owner or owners, his or their agent or agents, and for a failure to comply with such notice such owner or owners, his or their agent or agents shall be deemed guilty of a violation of the terms of this act and be punished accordingly and immediately after the expiration of the time specified in said notice said articles shall be seized and destroyed by said officer at the expense of the said owner or owners, his or their agent or agents.

Shipment passing through state.

§ 4. When any shipment of nursery stock, trees, vines, plants, shrubs, cuttings, grafts, scions, fruit, fruit pits, vegetables or seed, or any other horticultural or agricultural product passing through any portion of the state of California in transit, is infested or infected with any species of injurious insects, their eggs, larvae or pupae or animal or plant disease, which would cause damage, or be liable to cause damage to the orchards, vineyards, gardens or farms of the state of California, or which would be, or be liable to be, detrimental thereto or to any portion of said state, or to any of the orchards, vineyards, gardens or farms within said state, and there exists danger of dissemination of such insects or disease while such shipment is in transit in the state of California, then such shipment shall be placed within sealed containers, composed of metallic or other material, so that the same can not be broken or opened, or be liable to be broken, or opened, so as to permit any of the said shipment, insects, their eggs, larvae or pupae or animal or plant disease to escape from such sealed containers and the said containers shall not be opened while within the state of California.

Fruit fly.

§ 5. No person, persons, firm or corporation shall bring or cause to be brought into the state of California any fruit or vegetable or host plant which is now known to be, or hereafter may become a host plant or host fruit of any species of the fruit fly family Trypetidae from any country, state or district where such species of Trypetidae is known to exist and any such fruit, vegetable, or host plant, together with the container and packing, shall be refused entry and shall be immediately destroyed at the expense of the owner, owners or agents.

Peach yellows or peach rosette.

§ 6. No person, persons, firm or corporation shall bring or cause to be brought into the state of California any peach, nectarine, or apricot tree or cuttings, grafts, scions, buds or pits of such trees, or any trees budded or grafted upon peach stock or roots that have been in a district where the disease known as "peach yellows" or the contagious disease known as "contagious peach rosette" are known to exist, and any such attempting to land or enter shall be refused entry and shall be destroyed or returned to the point of shipment at the option of the owner, owners or agent, and at his or their expense.

Injurious animals.

§ 7. No person, persons, firm or corporation shall bring or cause to be brought into the state of California any injurious animals known as English or Australian wild rabbit, flying fox, mongoose or any other animal or animals detrimental to horticultural or agricultural interests.

Penalty.

§ 8. Any person, persons, firm or corporation violating any of the provisions of this act shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be punished by imprisonment in the county jail for a period not exceeding six months, or by a fine not exceeding five hundred dollars, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

Act an urgency measure.

§ 9. It is hereby determined and declared that this act and each and all of the provisions thereof, constitute and is an urgency measure necessary for the immediate preservation of the public safety and health. The facts constituting such necessity are as follows: There now exist in various islands and territory in close proximity to the state of California dangerous and injurious fruit and plant diseases and insects and animals, and heretofore fruits, vegetables, plants, seeds and other articles of horticulture and agriculture from said islands and territory have been and now are being shipped and brought into the state of California, which are to a large extent infested and infected with dangerous and injurious fruit and plant diseases and insects, their eggs, larvae and pupae, and which if continued to be brought into the state will cause great danger to the public health, and will greatly damage the horticultural and agricultural interests of said state, and will also be detrimental to the public health, and this act is necessary to provide ample power to prevent the introduction of such insects and diseases and injurious animals into the state and to prevent the spread of such disease, insects and animals.

Repeal of former law.

§ 10. That certain act entitled "An act for the protection of horticulture, and to prevent the introduction into this state of insects, or disease, or animals, injurious to fruit or fruit trees, vines, bushes, or vegetables, and to provide for a quarantine for the enforcement of this act," approved March 11, 1899, is hereby repealed.

In effect immediately.

§ 11. This act, being an urgency measure as above set forth, shall take effect and be in full force immediately from and after its passage.

1. Constitutionality—Exercise of judicial power by executive officer.—The act of 1881 was held to be constitutional, a proper exercise of the police power and that the action of the horticultural commissioners in determining whether a particular place was a nuisance or not was not an exercise of judicial power within the meaning of article III of the constitution.—County of Los Angeles v. Spencer, 126 Cal. 670, 77 Am. St. Rep. 217, 59 Pac. 202.

2. Same.—The act of 1897 was constitutional.—County of Riverside v. Butcher, 133 Cal. 324, 65 Pac. 745.

3. Same—"All places, orchards, nurseries," "Pests injurious to plants," nuisances.—"All places, orchards, nurseries," etc., infected with "scale insects, or codlin moth, or other pests injurious to fruit plants," constitute nuisances in fact, and it was within the power of the legislature so to declare.—County of Los Angeles v. Spencer, 126 Cal. 670, 77 Am. St. Rep. 217, 59 Pac. 202.

4. Procedure—Complaint.—A complaint in an action to foreclose the lien given the act of 1897 which alleges service upon an agent in charge and in possession of the premises, requiring him to destroy the scale and insects within ten days after such service shows a sufficient service under the act.—County of Riverside v. Butcher, 133 Cal. 324, 65 Pac. 745.

5. Same—Same—Prayer.—The fact that the prayer of the complaint to enforce the lien under the act of 1897 asks for a personal judgment does not vitiate the complaint.—County of Riverside v. Butcher, 133 Cal. 324, 65 Pac. 745.

5a. Expenses of fumigation.—As to liability of owner of infected orchard for the expenses of fumigation.—County of San Bernardino v. Stewart, 173 Cal. 253.

6. Lien—Notice.—The fact that the notice states that the county claims the benefit of the mechanics' lien law and others does not vitiate the claim of lien allowed by the act of 1897.—County of Riverside v. Butcher, 133 Cal. 324, 65 Pac. 745.

7. Same—Time of accrual.—The right of the county to the lien given by the act of 1897 accrues when it pays the expense of destroying the scale or insects, and not when the work is done, and the county has thirty days after such accrual to file its notice.—County of Riverside v. Butcher, 133 Cal. 324, 65 Pac. 745.

8. Same—Not a delinquent tax.—The lien given by the act for the expense of abating the nuisance, is for an indebtedness due the county, and is not a delinquent tax, and its enforcement in the manner prescribed by the act is not without due process of law.—County of Los Angeles v. Spencer, 126 Cal. 670, 77 Am. St. Rep. 217, 59 Pac. 202.

FRAUDULENT SALE OF FRUIT TREES.

ACT 2010—An act prohibiting the sale of any fruit tree or fruit trees of a certain kind, variety or description and the delivery thereafter with the intent to deceive to the purchaser of a fruit tree or fruit trees of a different kind, variety or description, and providing penalties for the violation thereof, and prescribing the time within which prosecutions under this act may be commenced.

History: Approved March 15, 1907, Stats. 1907, p. 275.

§ 1. It shall be unlawful for any person, persons, firm or corporation, acting either as principal or agent, to sell, to any person, persons, firm or corporation any fruit tree or fruit trees representing same to be of a certain kind, variety and description and thereafter to deliver to such purchaser in filling such order and in completing such sale a fruit tree or fruit trees of a different kind, variety or description than the kind, variety or description of such fruit tree or fruit trees so ordered and sold.

§ 2. Any person violating any provisions of this act shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction shall be fined in a sum not less than fifty ($50) dollars, nor more than five hundred ($500) dollars, or by imprisonment in the county jail for not less than twenty days or more than six months, or by both fine and imprisonment.

§ 3. Prosecutions under this act may be commenced at any time within seven years from the time of the delivery of such fruit tree or fruit trees mentioned in section one.

§ 4. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

DESTRUCTIVE DISEASES OF CULTIVATED PLANTS.

ACT 2011—An act providing for the investigation of the nature and means of control of destructive diseases of cultivated plants in those portions of the state not benefited by the Southern California Pathological Laboratory, and making an appropriation therefor.

History: Approved April 26, 1909, Stats. 1909, p. 1092.

Investigation of tree diseases.

§ 1. The regents and the president of the University of California are hereby directed to maintain in connection with the agricultural experiment work of the university in those portions of the state not benefited by the Southern California Pathological Laboratory, a scientific station or laboratory with the necessary equipment for the investigation of the nature and means of control of injurious and destructive diseases of cultivated trees, plants and crops.

Information to growers.

§ 2. They are directed to make or cause to be made investigations of such troubles as pear blight, peach blight, olive knot, apricot failures, pear scab, apple diseases, root rot, root knot, diseases of tomatoes, potatoes, asparagus, onions and other vegetables, and such other plant diseases as may be called to their attention. They shall also furnish information and practical demonstrations to the growers of these crops as to the best means of control for such diseases.

Appropriation.

§ 3. The sum of fifteen thousand dollars is hereby appropriated out of any money in the state treasury not otherwise appropriated to be expended by the regents of the University of California in carrying out the purposes of this act and the state controller is hereby authorized and directed to draw his warrant for the same, payable to the regents of the University of California, and the treasurer of the state is hereby directed to pay such warrant.

SALE AND SHIPMENT OF FROSTED CITRUS FRUITS.

ACT 2012—An act regulating the sale and shipment of citrus fruits damaged by frost, and prescribing penalties for the violation of the provisions thereof.

History: Approved May 3, 1915. In effect August 8, 1915. Stats. 1915, p. 328.

Unlawful to ship citrus fruit showing certain per cent of drying.

§ 1. It is unlawful for any person, firm or corporation to ship, offer for shipment, sell or offer for sale citrus fruits in boxes or in bulk, if the contents of any package, or if the fruit in bulk contains fifteen per cent or more of citrus fruits which on a transverse section through the center, shows a marked drying in twenty per cent or more of the exposed pulp.

Commissioner of horticulture to enforce law.

§ 2. It shall be the duty of the commissioner of horticulture and his deputies to enforce the provisions of this act and bring to the notice of the proper authorities any violation thereof. The commissioner and his deputies shall have full power to enter any place where oranges, lemons, or grapefruit are grown, picked, packed, shipped or offered for shipment, sold or offered for sale, to inspect such place or any part thereof.

§ 3. Any person, firm or corporation violating any provision of this act is guilty of a misdemeanor.

DATE PALM DISTRIBUTION AND QUARANTINE.

ACT 2013—An act to regulate the distribution of date palms and date palm offshoots and to hold the same in quarantine under the supervision of the state commissioner of horticulture until they are free from Marlatt scale (Phoenicococcus marlatti) and Blanchard scale (Parlatoria blanchardii) when introduced from, or grown in, any infested locality within this state or from other states, or if of foreign introduction, after they have been released by the federal horticultural board, and to fix a penalty for violation of this act.

History: Approved April 1, 1915. In effect August 8, 1915. Stats. 1915, p. 19.

Planting of infested date palms prohibited.

§ 1. It shall be unlawful for any person, or persons, their agent or agents, employee or employees, possessing or owning date palms or date palm offshoots, or who may introduce palms from any region of this state, or any other state, or from foreign countries after they have been released by federal authorities, which are infested with either of the two scales (Phoenicococcus marlatti) and (Parlatoria blanchardii), to place or plant the same except under the supervision and direction of the state quarantine guardian of the county where the said date palms or date palm offshoots have been introduced.

Unlawful to remove palms.

§ 2. It shall also be unlawful for any person, or persons, their agent or agents, employee, or employees, to move any date palms or date palm offshoots after the same have been planted until permission is granted by the aforesaid state quarantine guardian, or until inspection has shown that the said date palms or date palm offshoots are entirely clean of the Marlatt scale (Phoenicococcus marlatti) and the Blanchard scale (Parlatoria blanchardii), which fact shall be ascertained by the aforesaid state quarantine guardian, when he may consent to the removal, either to an infested district or to an uninfested district.

Penalty.

§ 3. Any one who shall violate any of the provisions of this act shall upon conviction be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor.

ACT 2017. MATERNITY HOSPITALS.

2018. ENDOWMENT OF HOSPITALS.

MATERNITY HOSPITALS.

ACT 2017—An act to provide for the licensing and inspecting of maternity hospitals, lying-in asylums and homes for children; defining the duties of persons conducting the same; and the duties and powers of the county boards of health or county health officers and other health officers in relation thereto, and providing a penalty for the violation of its provisions.

History: Approved March 20, 1903, Stats. 1903, p. 317.

Maternity hospitals, etc., must obtain license.

§ 1. Any person who, without first having obtained a license in writing so to do from the county board of health or county health officers, as hereinafter provided, manages, conducts, establishes or maintains within any county or city and county in this state any maternity hospital or lying-in asylum where females may be received, cared for or treated during pregnancy, or during or after delivery; or manages, conducts, establishes or maintains within any county or city and county in this state any institution, boarding-house, home or other place for the reception or care of children, or keeps, at any such place, any child under the age of twelve years, not his relative, apprentice, or ward, without legal commitment; or neglects, refuses or omits to comply with the provisions of this act, or who violates the provisions of such act, is guilty of a misdemeanor.

Duty and power of board of health or health officer as to licenses.

§ 2. For such places within the limits of their respective territorial jurisdictions, the county board of health in all counties or city and county governments, having a county board of health, and in all other counties or city and county governments, the county health officer shall have power to issue licenses, and every such license must specify the name and residence of the person so undertaking the care of such females or children; and the location within the county or city and county of the place where the same are kept and the number of females or children thereby allowed to be received, boarded or kept therein, and shall be revocable for cause by the said county board of health or county health officer, as the case may be, in any case where the provisions of this act are violated, or in any case where, in the opinion of such county board of health or such county health officer, such hospital, asylum, institution, home, boarding-house or other place is being managed, conducted or maintained without proper regard for the health, comfort or morality of the inmates thereof, or without due regard or proper sanitation or hygiene.

Holder of license must keep register.

§ 3. Every person so licensed must keep a register, wherein he shall enter the names and addresses of all such females, the names and ages of all such children, and of all children born on the premises, and the names and residences of their parents, so far as is known, and the time of the reception and discharge of such children and the reasons therefor, and also the name and age of every child who is given out, adopted, taken away, or indentured from such place, to or by any person, together with the name and residence of the person so adopting, taking away or indenturing such child; and within forty-eight hours after such child is so given out, taken away or indentured, shall cause a correct copy of the register relating to such child to be sent to the county board of health or county health officer, as the case may be.

Health officers may inspect premises.

§ 4. It shall be lawful for the officers and representatives of such county board of health, or for such county health officers and their representatives, and for all health officers, at all reasonable times, to enter and inspect the premises wherein such females and children are so boarded, received or kept, and to call for and inspect the license and the register and also to see and visit such children and females.

ENDOWMENT OF HOSPITALS.

ACT 2018—An act to promote the public welfare, by providing for the conveyance, holding and protection of property, and the creation of trusts for the founding, endowment, erection and maintenance within this state of hospitals for the relief of the sick and for training schools for nurses.

History: Approved February 19, 1907, Stats. 1907, p. 10.

Act to be liberally construed.

§ 1. The provisions of this act shall be liberally construed with a view to effect its objects and promote its purposes; and in the construction thereof, the singular number shall be deemed to include the plural, and the plural shall be deemed to include the singular number, and the masculine gender shall be deemed to include the feminine.

Endowment of hospitals, manner of.

§ 2. Any person desiring in his lifetime to promote the public welfare by founding, endowing and having maintained within this state a hospital for the relief of the sick, and as a training school for nurses, may to that end and for such purpose, by grant in writing, convey to a trustee or any number of trustees named in such grant, and to their successors, any property real or personal, belonging to such person, and situated or being within this state, provided, that if any such person be married and the property be community property, then both husband and wife must join in such grant.

Designation of scope of institution.

§ 3. The person making such grant may therein designate:

1. The nature, object and purpose of the hospital and school for nurses to be founded, endowed and maintained.
2. The name by which it shall be known.
3. The powers and duties of the trustees, and the manner in which they shall account, and to whom, if accounting be required; but such powers and duties shall not be held to be exclusive of other powers and duties which may be necessary to enable such trustees to fully carry out the objects of such grant.
4. The mode and manner, and by whom, the successors of the trustee or trustees named in the grant are to be appointed.
5. Such rules and regulations for the management of the property conveyed as the grantor may elect to prescribe; but such rules shall, unless the grantor otherwise prescribes, be advisory only, and shall not preclude such trustees from making such changes as new conditions may from time to time require.

Trustees, powers of. Seal.

§ 4. The trustee or trustees named in such grant, and their successors may in the name of the said hospital and school for nurses, as designated in such grant, receive and hold gifts and donations of real and personal property, sue and defend, in relation to the trust property, and in relation to all matters affecting the said hospital and said school endowed or established by such grant, and such trustees are hereby given, and shall have, the right to exercise corporate powers and privileges, and to that end they may organize and act as a board of trustees, elect such officers of such board as they may deem to be necessary, adopt by-laws, and as such board, and through the officers thereof, they may transact such business, perform such acts and exercise such powers as they in writing may provide may be transacted, performed and exercised by such board. Such board may adopt and use a seal and such seal when attached to any document or writing shall be prima facie evidence that such document or writing was made by and under due authority from such board and from such trustees.

Grantee may exercise powers of trustee.

§ 5. The person making such grant, by a provision therein, may elect in relation to the property conveyed and in relation to the erection, maintenance and management of such hospital and school, to perform, during his life, all the duties and exercise all the powers which, by the terms of the grant, are enjoined upon and vested in the trustee therein named, and in such case the powers and duties conferred and imposed by such grant upon said trustees therein named, shall be exercised and performed by the person making such grant, during his life; provided however, that upon the death of such person such powers and duties shall devolve upon and shall be exercised by the trustees named in the grant, and their successors.

Execution of grant.

§ 6. Any such grant may be executed, acknowledged and recorded in the same manner as is now provided by law for the execution, acknowledgment and recording of grants of real property.

Right of action to annul trust.

§ 7. No suit, action or proceeding shall be commenced or maintained by any person to set aside, annul or affect said conveyance or to affect the title to the property conveyed, or the right to the possession, or to the rents, issues and profits thereof, unless the same be commenced within two years after the date of filing such grant for record; nor shall any defense be made to any suit, action or proceeding commenced by the trustees named in said grant or their successors, privies or persons holding under them, which defense involves the legality of said grant, or affects the title to the property thereby conveyed, or the right of possession, or the rents, issues and profits thereof, unless such defense is made in a suit, action or proceeding commenced within two years after such grant shall have been filed for record, and after such filing said property shall be exempt from execution and forced sale.

§ 8. This act shall be in force from and after its passage.

ACT 2023—An act to regulate the use of illuminating gas.

History: Approved March 20, 1903, Stats. 1903, p. 289.

§ 1. Every hotel-keeper, lodging-house keeper, and innkeeper, or keeper of any place where rooms are let to lodgers in which, or any of which such places illuminating gas is used, who shall turn off, or cause to be turned off at the meter the flow of such illuminating gas, during the time of the use of any such room or rooms, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor; provided, however, that this act shall not apply to any of the persons herein enumerated, when such person or persons shall have connected every exit orifice upon the gas fixtures used in such place or places with a practical and safe automatic gas igniter.

§ 2. This act shall take effect and be in force immediately from and after its passage.

EXIT SIGNS IN HOTELS, ETC.ACT 2024—An act to protect the lives and property of the patrons of all public hotels, lodging and rooming houses in the state of California.

History: Approved March 25, 1911, Stats. 1911, p. 494.

Exit signs in lodging-houses.

§ 1. Every owner, manager, proprietor, lessee or other person having the management, charge or control of any public hotel, lodging or rooming house, is hereby required to put up in conspicuous places in the halls of such hotel, lodging or rooming house, exit and stairway signs and permanently maintain the same. Said signs shall be made and placed where they will definitely direct the patrons thereof to the exits and stairways, so as to enable them to escape from such building in case of fire or other accident.

Penalty for violations.

§ 2. Every owner, manager, proprietor, lessee or other person, having the management, charge or control of any such hotel, lodging or rooming house who shall violate any of the provisions of this act or who shall refuse or neglect to comply therewith shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by fine not to exceed one hundred dollars or by imprisonment not to exceed three months or by both such fine and imprisonment.

"STATE HOTEL AND LODGING HOUSE ACT" OF 1917.

ACT 2026—An act to regulate the erection, construction, reconstruction, moving, alteration, maintenance, use and occupancy of hotels, and the maintenance, use and occupancy of the premises and land on which hotels are erected or located, in all parts of the state of California, including incorporated towns, incorporated cities, and incorporated cities and counties, and to provide penalties for the violation thereof; and repealing an act entitled "An act to regulate the building and occupancy of hotels and lodging houses in incorporated towns, incorporated cities, and cities and counties, and to provide penalties for the violation thereof," approved June 16, 1913, statutes of California of 1913, page 1429.

History: Approved May 31, 1917. In effect September 1, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 1422. Prior act of June 16, 1913, Stats. 1913, p. 1429, repealed by the present act.

Title.

§ 1. This act shall be known as the "state hotel and lodging house act," and its provisions shall apply to all parts of the state of California, including incorporated towns, incorporated cities, and incorporated cities and counties.

Duty of building department.

§ 2. It shall be the duty of the "building department" of every incorporated town, incorporated city, and incorporated city and county, to enforce all the provisions of this act pertaining to the erection, construction, reconstruction, moving, conversion, alteration and arrangement of hotels and to issue the certificate of "final completion" hereinafter provided.

Duty of housing department.

It shall be the duty of the "housing department" and if there is no housing department the health department of every incorporated town, incorporated city, and incorporated city and county to enforce all of the provisions of this act pertaining to the maintenance, sanitation, ventilation, use and occupancy of hotels after said hotels have been erected, constructed or altered, as the case may be, and the certificate of "final completion" has been issued by the building department and to issue the "permit of occupancy" as hereinafter provided.

In case no such departments.

In the event that there is no building department or no housing department or health department in an incorporated town, incorporated city or incorporated city and county, it shall be the duty of the officer or officers who are charged with the enforcement of ordinances and laws regulating the erection, construction or alteration of buildings, or the maintenance, sanitation, ventilation or occupancy of buildings, or of the police, fire or health regulations in said incorporated town, incorporated city or incorporated city and county to enforce all of the provisions of this act.

Enforcement.

In every county it shall be the duty of the officer or officers who are charged with the enforcement of ordinances or laws regulating the erection, construction or alteration of buildings, or of the maintenance, sanitation, occupancy and ventilation of buildings, or of the police, fire or health regulations in said county, to enforce all of the provisions of this act outside of the limits of any incorporated town or incorporated city.

Every incorporated town, incorporated city, or incorporated city and county in the state of California shall have authority, and it is hereby empowered and given authority, to designate and charge by ordinance any other department or officer than the department or officers mentioned herein, with the enforcement of this act, or any portion thereof.

Power of commission of immigration and housing.

The commission of immigration and housing of California shall have, and it is hereby empowered and given authority to enforce the provisions of this act, which do not pertain to the actual erection, construction, reconstruction, moving, conversion, alteration and arrangement of hotels in all parts of the state of California, including all incorporated towns, incorporated cities, incorporated cities and counties, in the state of California, whenever said commission finds or discovers a violation or violations of the provisions of this act and notifies the local department or officer, or departments or officers who are charged with the enforcement of the provisions of this act, in writing, of such violation or violations, and the said local department or officer, or departments or officers, fail, neglect or refuse to enforce the provisions of the said act within thirty days thereafter; provided, however, that the said commission of immigration and housing of California shall enforce the provisions of this act only in the instances specified in said written notice.

Unlawful to construct hotel contrary to act.

§ 3. It shall be unlawful for any person, firm or corporation, whether as owner, agent, contractor, builder, architect, engineer, superintendent, foreman, plumber, tenant, lessee, lessor, occupant, or in any other capacity whatsoever, to erect, construct, reconstruct, alter, build upon, move, convert, use, occupy or maintain, or to cause, permit or suffer to be erected, constructed, reconstructed, altered, built upon, moved, converted, used, occupied or maintained any hotel or any portion thereof contrary to the provisions of this act, or to commit or maintain or cause or permit to be committed or maintained any nuisance in or upon any hotel or any portion thereof, or any of the premises, yards or courts which are a part thereof, or which are required by the provisions of this act; or to do or cause to be done, or to use or cause to be used, any privy, sewer, cesspool, plumbing or house drainage affecting the sanitary condition of any hotel or any portion thereof, or of the premises thereof, contrary to any of the provisions of this act.

Alterations.

§ 4. It shall be unlawful for any person to make any alterations or changes or reconstruction work of any kind whatsoever, to any hotel erected prior to the passage of this act, or to any hotel hereafter erected, or to increase the height, in any manner which would be inconsistent with any of the provisions of this act, or in violation of the said provisions of this act; or in any manner to diminish the size of the yards, courts or shafts or the size of windows or skylights, or to remove any stairway or fire escape, or to obstruct the egress from such building or from the hallways or stairways, or to do anything that would affect the ventilation and sanitation of the building, contrary to any of the provisions of this act.

Building converted to use as hotel.

§ 5. A building not erected for, or which is not used as a hotel at the time of the passage of this act, if hereafter converted to or altered for such use, shall thereupon become subject to all of the provisions of this act affecting hotels hereafter erected.

Building moved.

A building used as a hotel at the time of the passage of this act, if moved, shall be made to conform to all of the provisions of this act affecting hotels hereafter erected, in so far as they pertain to the percentage of lot occupied and the size of outer courts, inner courts bounded by a lot line, and yards.

Building reconstructed.

It shall be unlawful to reconstruct any hotel which is hereafter damaged by fire or the elements to an extent in excess of fifty-one per cent of its physical proportions, unless the said building is made to conform to all of the provisions of this act affecting hotels hereafter erected.

Penalty for violation.

§ 6. Any person, firm or corporation violating any of the provisions of this act shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be punishable by a fine not exceeding five hundred dollars, or by imprisonment in a county jail not exceeding six months, or by both such fine and imprisonment, and in addition to the penalty therefor, shall be liable for all costs, expense and disbursements paid or incurred by the department, by any of the officers thereof, or by any agent, employee or contractor of same, in the prosecution of such violation. The costs, expense and disbursements by this section provided shall be fixed by the court having jurisdiction of the matter.

Procedure.

Except as herein otherwise specified, the procedure for the prevention of violations of this act, for the vacation of hotels or premises unlawfully occupied, or for the abatement of a nuisance in connection with a hotel, or the premises thereof, shall be as set forth in the charter and ordinances of the municipality in which the procedure is instituted.

Permit to erect hotel. Application.

§ 7. In every incorporated town, incorporated city, and incorporated city and county, it shall be unlawful to commence or to proceed with the erection, construction, reconstruction, conversion or alteration of a hotel, or to move or to build upon a hotel, or to convert a building or any portion thereof into use as a hotel without first obtaining a permit in writing so to do from the department charged with the enforcement of this act. Any person, firm or corporation desiring such a permit shall file an application therefor with the department charged with the enforcement of this act. Said application shall give a detailed statement in writing, verified under oath by the person making the same, of the erection, construction, reconstruction, moving, conversion, or alteration, as the case may be, upon blanks or forms to be furnished by the said department. The said application must be accompanied with a full, true and complete set of the plans of the hotel, or alteration, or work proposed, as the case may be, together with a set of specifications describing the materials proposed to enter into the construction of the proposed work, also a plan of the lot on which such building is proposed to be erected, constructed, reconstructed, converted, altered or moved, as the case may be. Such statement shall give in full the name and address by street and number of the owner or owners, also the name and address of the architect and of the contractor, if there be such an architect or contractor; also shall give such other data and information as in the judgment of the department charged with the enforcement of this act is deemed necessary.

Affidavit. Permit issued. Revocation.

The affidavit to said application shall allege that the plans and specifications are true and contain a correct description of the proposed hotel, lot and proposed work. If any person other than the owner makes such affidavit, such person shall not be recognized except that he allege in his affidavit that he is authorized and empowered by the said owner to act for him and to sign the required affidavit. Said department charged with the enforcement of this act shall cause all such plans, specifications and statements to be examined, and if it appears that they conform to the provisions of this act, shall then issue a permit to the person submitting the same. Said department may, from time to time, approve changes in any plans, specifications or statements previously approved by it; provided, that all changes when so made shall be in conformity with the provisions of this act. Said department shall have the power to revoke or cancel any permit or approval that it has previously issued in case of any refusal, failure or neglect of the person to whom such permit or approval has been issued to comply with any of the provisions of this act, or in case any false statement or misrepresentation is made in any of the said plans, specifications or statements submitted or filed for such permit or approval. The erection, construction, reconstruction, moving, alteration or conversion of any such hotel, as the case may be, shall be made in accordance with the plans, specifications and statements submitted or filed, and for which the permit is issued.

Plans kept on premises.

A true copy of the plans, specifications and other information submitted or filed, upon which a permit is issued, with the approval of the department with which they are filed, stamped or written thereon, shall be kept upon the premises of the hotel or work for which the said permit is issued, from the commencement of the said building or work to the final completion of same, and shall be subject to inspection at all times by proper authorities.

Permit for nominal alterations.

The department charged with the enforcement of this act may, at its discretion, issue a permit in case of nominal alterations or repairs, when application is made therefor, in writing, by the owner or his agent, when the making of said nominal alterations and repairs do not affect any structural feature or the sanitation or the ventilation of the hotel, without requiring the filing or [of] plans or specifications.

The issuance or granting of a permit or approval by the department charged with the enforcement of this act under the authority of this section shall not be deemed or construed to be a permit or an approval of the violation of any of the provisions of this act.

Expiration of permit.

Every permit or approval which is issued by the department charged with the enforcement of this act, but under which no work has been done within ninety days from the date of issuance, or where work has been suspended for a period of ninety days, shall expire by limitation and a new permit shall be obtained before the work may be done.

Certificate of "final completion" and "permit of occupancy."

§ 8. In every incorporated town, incorporated city, and incorporated city and county, it shall be unlawful to occupy or to permit to be occupied, any hotel hereafter erected, constructed, reconstructed, altered, converted or moved, as the case may be, or any portion thereof, for human habitation until the issuance of a "certificate of final completion" and a "permit of occupancy" by the department or departments charged with the enforcement of this act.

It shall also be unlawful to occupy any existing hotel until a permit of occupancy has been issued by the department designated to issue such permit.

Renewal of permit of occupancy.

Every permit of occupancy shall be renewed each calendar year by the department designated to issue the said permit; provided, that no structural alteration, or changes have occurred since the issuance of the certificate of final completion; and provided, that all other provisions of this act have been complied with.

Certificate issued.

Any person desiring a certificate shall file a notice with the department charged with the enforcement of this act. Said department shall cause an inspection to be made of the said hotel or portion thereof, or work described in the said notice, within ten days after written application therefor, and shall issue a "certificate of final completion" if it is found that all the provisions of this act, regulating the erection, construction, alteration or moving, as the case may be, have been complied with.

Permit issued.

The department charged with the enforcement of this act and designated to issue the permit of occupancy, shall issue the said "permit of occupancy" upon application, in writing, therefor by the owner or his agent, and upon the filing by the owner or his agent of such statements or records required by the department, after the "certificate of final completion" has been issued; provided, that no violations have occurred since the issuance of the certificate of final completion, or in the case of a hotel erected prior to the passage of this act, and for which no certificate of final completion has been issued, then after the said department has caused an inspection to have been made of the said hotel and has found that all of the provisions of this act applying to such hotel have been complied with.

All permits and certificates shall be made in duplicate and a copy shall remain on file in the department issuing them.

Hotel occupied without certificate or permit deemed nuisance.

Any hotel hereafter erected, altered, converted or moved, which is occupied, or any portion thereof which is occupied for human habitation, prior to a "certificate of final completion" or a "permit of occupancy" being issued, shall be deemed a nuisance and the department or departments charged with the enforcement of this act may cause it to be vacated, until the said certificate of completion and permit of occupancy have been obtained in accordance with the provisions of this act.

Power to enter hotel.

§ 9. The department or departments charged with the enforcement of this act in any incorporated town, incorporated city, and incorporated city and county, or county, and the authorized officers, agents or employees of such department or departments, may, whenever necessary, enter hotels or portions thereof, or the premises thereof, within the corporate limits of such towns, cities, cities and counties, or counties, for the purpose of inspecting such buildings, in order to secure compliance with the provisions of this act and to prevent violations thereof.

The members of the commission of immigration and housing of California and the agents, officers or employees of said commission may, whenever necessary, enter hotels or portions thereof, or the premises thereof, for the purpose of inspecting such buildings in order to secure compliance with the provisions of this act and to prevent violations thereof.

The owner or his authorized agent may, whenever necessary, enter hotels or portions thereof, or the premises thereof, owned by him, to carry out any instructions or to perform any work required to be done by the provisions of this act.

Definitions.

§ 10. For the purpose of this act, certain words and phrases are defined as follows, unless it shall be apparent from their context that they have a different meaning:

Words used in the singular include the plural, and the plural the singular.

Words used in the present tense include the future.

Words used in the masculine gender include the feminine, and the feminine, the masculine.

Words "building department," "health department," "housing department," "department charged with the enforcement of this act," "fire commissioner," shall be construed as if followed by the words, "of the incorporated town, incorporated city, incorporated city and county, or county," as the case may be, in which the hotel is situated.

"Approved" means whatever material, appliance, appurtenance, or other matter meets the requirements and approval of the department charged with the enforcement of this act, or which is approved by local ordinance of the municipality in which the building is situated, or any appliance, appurtenance, or other matter which conforms to the requirements of, and bears the approval of the "national board of fire underwriters"; provided, however, that no such material, appliance, appurtenance or other matter shall be deemed "approved" for use where, or in such a manner as would be inconsistent with the intent, or specific provisions of this act.

"Basement" is any story or portion thereof partly below the level of the curb or the actual adjoining ground level, the ceiling of which in no part is less than seven feet above the curb level or actual adjoining ground levels. If the adjoining ground is excavated to or below the curb level, or to or below the adjoining natural ground level, such excavated space shall have not less than the minimum width and length required in this act for outer courts. Every basement is a story.

"Building department" means the commissioner of buildings, superintendent of buildings, chief inspector of buildings, or any officer or department charged with the enforcement of ordinances and laws regulating the construction and alteration of buildings or structures.

"Cellar" is any story or portion thereof, the ceiling of which in any part is less than seven feet above the curb level and actual adjoining ground levels.

Court.

"Court" is an open, unoccupied space other than a yard on the lot on which is situated a hotel. A court, one entire side or end of which is bounded by a front yard, a rear yard or a side yard, or by the front of lot, or by a street or a public alley, is an "outer court." Every court which is not an "outer court" is an "inner court."

Every court shall be open and unobstructed to the sky from a point not more than two feet above the floor line of the lowest story in the building in which there are windows from rooms abutting the said court, except that a cornice on the building may extend into an "outer court" two inches for each one foot in width of such court, and a cornice may extend into an "inner court" one inch for each one foot in width of such court.

"Curb level" is the curb level opposite the center of the "front of lot."

Wherever the word "department" is used it means the building department, the housing department, the health department or such other department or officer, or departments or officers, who are charged with the enforcement of the provisions of this act.

"Dormitory" is a room in which more than two persons are "guests" and are not living together, and shall, for the purpose of computing the number of rooms, be deemed a separate guest room for each one hundred square feet of superficial floor area therein.

Fireproof hotel.

"Fireproof hotel" is a building wherein all the exterior and interior loads or strains are transmitted to the foundation by means of concrete, reinforced concrete, brick, stone or by means of a skeleton framework of steel or iron; the exterior walls, inner court walls and roof constructed of concrete, reinforced concrete, brick, stone or hollow terra cotta tile; where all the structural steel or iron is thoroughly fireproofed by concrete, cement, plaster, tile, brick or sandstone, not less than two inches thick; where all the interior partitions are constructed of either hollow terra cotta tile blocks, gypsum blocks, brick, concrete, reinforced concrete, or of metal studs lathed with metal lath and plastered not less than three-quarters inch thick including the lath, or of metal studs lathed with approved plaster board and plastered not less than three-quarters inch thick including the plaster board, or constructed of wire glass not less than one-fourth inch thick, set in metal frames and sash, and all other materials, used in the said building are of approved incombustible material except that the glass in windows, transoms, or doors may be of plain glass, and except that doors, frames, sash and the usual trim of rooms, hallways, corridors, and passageways may be of wood, and except that wood floors may be placed on top of the floors constructed of incombustible materials, except in the public hallways.

"Guest" is any person hiring and occupying a room for sleeping purposes, and shall include both boarders and lodgers.

"Guest room" is a room which is occupied, or is intended, arranged or designed to be occupied for sleeping purposes by one or more guests, but shall not be deemed to include dormitories used for sleeping purposes.

Hotel.

"Hotel" is any house or building, or portion thereof, containing six or more guest rooms which are let or hired out to be occupied, or which are occupied by six or more guests, whether the compensation for hire be paid directly or indirectly in money, goods, wares, merchandise, labor or otherwise, and shall include Turkish baths, bachelor hotels, studio hotels, public and private clubs and any building of any nature whatsoever so designed or occupied, except hospitals where persons temporarily reside and where each such person receives regular bona fide medical attendance on the premises, and jails, detention buildings and similar buildings where human beings are housed and detained under restraint.

"Housing department" is any department or commission charged with the enforcement of ordinances or laws regulating the occupancy and maintenance of hotel, lodging house or dwelling house buildings; and where no such department is maintained, shall be deemed to be the health commissioner, the department of health, health officer, or similar department charged with the enforcement of laws and ordinances relating to the protection of the public health.

Lot.

"Lot" is a parcel or area of land on which is situated a hotel, together with the land, yards, courts and unoccupied spaces for such a hotel as required by this act; all of which land shall be owned by or be under the absolute lawful control and in the lawful possession of the hotel.

A lot situated at the junction of two or more intersecting streets, with a boundary line thereof bordering on each of the two streets, is a "corner lot." All parts of the width of such corner lot which are distant more than seventy-five feet from the junction point of the two or more intersecting streets, shall be deemed to be an "interior lot." The owner or his authorized agent may designate either street frontage as being the front of such corner lot for the purpose of determining the width thereof.

A lot which has only one boundary line bordering on a public street is an "interior lot."

"Rear lot" is a parcel or area of land having no boundary line bordering on a street, or having less than one-half of its width as a boundary line bordering on a street.

"Front of lot" is the boundary line of lot bordering on the street. In case of a corner lot, either of the boundary lines may be the "front of lot."

"Rear of lot" is the boundary line thereof opposite the "front of lot."

"Depth of lot" is the mean distance from the "front of lot" to the "rear of lot."

"Nuisance" embraces public nuisance as known at common law or in equity jurisprudence, and whatever is dangerous to human life or detrimental to health; and shall also embrace the overcrowding with occupants of any room, insufficient ventilation, or illumination, or inadequate or insanitary sewerage or plumbing facilities, or uncleanness, and whatever renders air, food or drink unwholesome or detrimental to the health of human beings.

"Person" is the natural person, his heirs, executors, administrators or assigns; also includes a firm, partnership, or corporation, its or their successors or assigns.

"Public hallway" is a hallway, corridor, passageway or vestibule not within a suite, and includes stairways, landings and platforms.

"Rear hotel" is a hotel on a "rear lot."

Semifireproof hotel.

"Semifireproof hotel" is a building with all exterior walls and walls of inner and outer courts constructed of brick, stone, concrete, reinforced concrete or hollow terra cotta tile, except that the walls of the inner court, which court is surrounded on four sides by the same building, may be constructed as provided in this act for such inner courts; interior partitions and floors constructed of approved incombustible materials or of wood, with all ceilings, partitions, soffits of stairways, and outside stringers of open stairways and stair wells metal lathed and plastered not less than three-quarters inch thick including the lath, or lathed with approved plaster board, plastered not less than three-quarters inch thick including the plaster board; in which all finished floors, frames, doors and the usual trim of rooms and hallways may be built of wood, and the roof of which shall be covered with at least a composition fire-retardant material.

"Shall." Whenever this word is used it shall be mandatory.

Street.

"Street" is any public street, alley, thoroughfare or park having a minimum width of sixteen feet, measured from the "front of lot" to the opposite "front of lot" and which shall have been dedicated or deeded to the public for public use.

"Turkish bath" is a dormitory or a combination of guest rooms, accommodating six (6) or more guests, in connection with which any form of bath or massage is given by the attendants to the guests.

Wooden hotel.

"Wooden hotel" is a building which does not fully comply with the requirements for a fireproof or semifireproof hotel as defined in this act, and shall include all frame and all veneered buildings. In every such building all ceilings and walls and partitions of public hallways, soffits of interior stairways and the outside stringers of open stairways and stair wells shall be metal lathed and plastered not less than three-quarters inch thick including the lath, or lathed with an approved plaster board and be plastered not less than three-quarters inch thick including the plaster board.

Yard.

“Yard” is an open unoccupied space other than a court on the lot on which is situated a hotel, open and unobstructed to the sky from a point not more than two feet above the floor line of the lowest story in the building in which there are windows from rooms abutting the said yard; except that outside stairways, platforms and balconies constructed of open metal work and fire escapes may extend not more than four feet into a yard, providing they do not in any manner obstruct the light or ventilation of rooms. If such yard is between the front line of the building and the front boundary line of the lot, it is a “front yard.” If it is between the extreme rear line of the building and the rear of the lot, it is a “rear yard.” If it extends from the rear yard to the front yard, or front of lot, it is a “side yard.”

Front yard.

§ 11. No hotel shall hereafter be erected on or moved onto a rear lot. No building for any purpose shall hereafter be erected in front of any hotel unless there shall be left unoccupied a front yard extending from the front of the rear hotel to the front line of lot bordering on the street.

Such front yard shall not be in any part less in width than fifty (50) per cent of the actual width of the rear hotel.

Height.

§ 12. No fireproof hotel hereafter erected shall exceed one hundred fifty feet in height, nor more than one and one-half times the width of the widest street to which the lot on which it is situated abuts.

No semifireproof hotel building hereafter erected shall exceed six stories at any point, nor more than sixty-five feet in height (except as hereinafter provided), nor more than one and one-half times the width of the widest street to which the lot on which it is situated abuts.

No wooden hotel hereafter erected shall exceed three stories at any point, nor more than thirty-six feet in height (except as hereinafter provided), nor more than one and one-half times the width of the widest street to which the lot on which it is situated abuts.

The width of the street, for this purpose, shall be measured from the extreme front of the building to the “front of lot” opposite, across the street.

Height defined.

For the purposes of this section, a basement is a story.

The height of a fireproof hotel is the perpendicular distance from the curb level or adjoining ground levels to the highest point of the roof. The height of a semifireproof or of a wooden hotel is the perpendicular distance from the curb level or adjoining ground levels to the lowest point of the finished ceiling of the top story; provided, that in the case of a semifireproof hotel situated on a lot with the ground sloping downward from the facade at which the measurement is taken the height of the building shall not at any point exceed sixty-five feet above the curb level measured on the facade facing the street, nor shall the height of the building at any point of the grade exceed seventy-five feet above the adjoining curb in case of a corner lot, or above the level of the ground in the case of an interior lot, and in the case of a wooden hotel situated on a lot with the ground sloping downwards from the facade at which the measurement is taken the height of the building shall not at any point exceed thirty-six feet above the curb line measured on the facade facing the street, nor shall the height of the building at any point of the grade exceed forty-six feet above the adjoining curb in the case of a corner lot or above the level of the ground in the case of an interior lot.

Yard serving two hotels.

§ 13. In no event shall any yard or court be made to serve the purpose of two hotels hereafter erected, or of an existing hotel and a hotel hereafter erected, unless such yard or court, as the case may be, is of the full size required for two hotels, and then only in the event that such yard or court, as the case may be, is located on the same lot and owned by or in the absolute lawful control and in the lawful possession of the hotel it proposes to serve.

Distance between buildings.

Where a hotel, now or hereafter erected, stands upon a lot, no other building shall hereafter be placed upon the front or rear of that lot, unless the minimum distance between such buildings shall be at least ten feet and two additional feet shall be added to such minimum distance of ten feet for every story more than one in height of the highest building on such lot.

Depth of rear yard.

§ 14. The depth of a rear yard shall be measured at right angles from the extreme rear line of the building towards the rear lot line.

Minimum size of rear yard.

§ 15. The minimum size of every rear yard for a hotel hereafter erected shall be not less in width and in area than an inner court, except that if such rear yard is bounded on its entire one end or side by an outer court, or by a side yard or by a street, or by a public alley or park, then such rear yard shall be not less in width or exceed the maximum length of an outer court; provided, however, that if the lot extends through from one street to another street or public alley, one-half of the narrowest street or public alley, to which said lot abuts may be considered as a part of the lot in computing the rear yard required.

Passageway to street.

§ 16. Every rear yard not bordering on a street or public alley and without direct access thereto shall have access to a street or public alley by means of an unobstructed passageway not less than three feet six inches in clear width, nor less than seven feet in clear height; and if such passageway or any portion thereof passes through a building, such portion thereof shall be built of approved incombustible materials, or shall be lathed with metal lath or approved plaster board and be plastered not less than three-quarters inch thick including the lath or plaster board, or shall be lined with not less than number twenty-six (gauge) galvanized iron, and shall be drained and lighted.

Excavated front yard.

§ 17. Every front yard which is excavated below the level of the curb or below the adjoining ground level for the purpose of furnishing light and ventilation to a basement shall in no part be less in width and length than required for outer courts.

Width of side yard.

§ 18. The width of every side yard shall be not less than the width required for an outer court, except that the provisions of this act regarding the maximum lengths of an outer court shall not apply to a side yard; provided, that if there is a side yard on both sides of the building connected one with the other across the rear of the building by the rear yard, then the width of the side yards may be reduced twelve inches.

Minimum size of outer court.

§ 19. The minimum size of every outer court for a hotel hereafter erected shall be as follows:

Height of building based on the full number of stories in the building measured upward from and including the lowest story in which there is a guest room, or guest rooms, or a dormitory or dormitories.	Minimum width of court	Maximum length of court
1 story	4 ft. 0 in.	16 ft. 0 in.
2 stories	4 ft. 0 in.	16 ft. 0 in.
3 stories	4 ft. 6 in.	25 ft. 0 in.
4 stories	5 ft. 6 in.	30 ft. 0 in.
5 stories	6 ft. 0 in.	35 ft. 0 in.
6 stories	8 ft. 0 in.	35 ft. 0 in.
7 stories	10 ft. 0 in.	40 ft. 0 in.
8 stories	12 ft. 0 in.	40 ft. 0 in.
9 stories	13 ft. 0 in.	40 ft. 0 in.
10 or more stories	14 ft. 0 in.	40 ft. 0 in.

There shall be added to the minimum width of each such outer court six inches for each five feet or fractional part thereof in excess of the maximum length; provided, however, that the maximum lengths herein provided shall not apply when the outer court is bounded on one side for its entire length by a lot line; provided, further, that if an outer court is bounded by a public alley or public park, the width of such public alley or public park may be considered a part of the lot in determining the required width of the outer court.

Minimum size of inner court.

§ 20. The minimum size of every inner court for a hotel hereafter erected shall be as follows:

Height of building based on the full number of stories in the building measured upward from and including the lowest story in which there is a guest room, or guest rooms, or a dormitory or dormitories	Minimum width of court	Minimum area of court in square feet
1 story	6 ft. 0 in.	75 square feet
2 stories	6 ft. 0 in.	75 square feet
3 stories	7 ft. 0 in.	120 square feet
4 stories	8 ft. 0 in.	160 square feet
5 stories	12 ft. 0 in.	250 square feet
6 stories	16 ft. 0 in.	400 square feet
7 stories	20 ft. 0 in.	625 square feet
8 stories and more	24 ft. 0 in.	840 square feet

provided, however, that the minimum size of every inner court which is bounded on one side for its entire length by a lot line may be as follows:

Height of building based on the full number of stories in the building measured upward from and including the lowest story in which there is a guest room, or guest rooms, or a dormitory or dormitories	Minimum width of court	Minimum area of court
1 story	5 ft. 0 in.	75 square feet
2 stories	5 ft. 0 in.	75 square feet
3 stories	6 ft. 0 in.	120 square feet
4 stories	7 ft. 0 in.	160 square feet
5 stories	9 ft. 0 in.	250 square feet
6 stories	16 ft. 0 in.	400 square feet
8 stories and more	24 ft. 0 in.	840 square feet

Every inner court hereafter constructed and every inner court or vent shaft now in any hotel or lodging house shall be provided with a door or window at or near the bottom thereof, giving sufficient access to such court or vent shaft as to enable it to be properly cleaned out.

Recess.

§ 21. Every recess from a court, yard or street in a hotel hereafter erected shall unless it conforms to the requirements of this act for an inner court, or an outer court, be not less in width than its depth. Every such recess shall be open and unobstructed from a point not more than two feet above the floor line of the lowest story in the building in which there are rooms the said recess proposes to serve.

Intakes for inner court.

§ 22. Every inner court in a hotel of two or more stories in height hereafter erected shall be provided with one or more horizontal intakes at the bottom of the court, as follows:

Inner court areas	Minimum number of intakes	Net aggregate area of intakes
Each not exceeding 300 square feet.....	One	19½ square feet
Each not exceeding 800 square feet.....	Two	40 square feet
Each exceeding 800 square feet.....	Two	60 square feet

Every such intake shall always extend directly to the front of lot or front yard, or rear yard, or to a side yard, or to a street, or to a public alley or park. Whenever more than one intake is required, one such intake shall extend to the front of lot or front yard, and one to the rear yard, public alley, public park, or to the other street, and the court ends of the air intakes shall be as far apart as possible.

Each such intake shall consist of an unobstructed duct or passageway having a minimum width of three feet in all its parts and a minimum height of six feet six inches.

Construction.

Every such intake shall be constructed of approved incombustible materials, or shall be lined with at least number twenty-six (gauge) galvanized iron on the inside thereof. Such air intakes may be closed at each end with a gate or grill having not less than seventy-five per cent of open work.

In case the inner court does not extend below the second floor level, then each such air intake may consist of an unobstructed open duct, constructed of approved incombustible materials or lined with at least number twenty-six (gauge) galvanized iron on the inside thereof, having an interior area of not less than nineteen and one-half square feet, and in no dimension less than twelve inches, and covered at each end with a wire screen of not less than one inch mesh.

Every air intake shall be drained and so constructed and arranged as to be readily cleaned out.

Cellars.

§ 23. In no hotel shall any room in the cellar be constructed, altered, converted or occupied for sleeping purposes.

Every cellar shall be illuminated and ventilated. The walls and floor of every cellar hereafter constructed, which are below the ground level, shall be made waterproof and dampproof, and whenever deemed necessary and so ordered by the department charged with the enforcement of this act, the walls and ceilings thereof shall be plastered.

Basements.

§ 24. In no hotel shall any room in the basement be constructed, altered, converted or occupied for sleeping purposes, unless such room conforms to all of the requirements of this act for rooms in other parts of the building, and that ceiling of each such room be in all parts not less than seven feet above the adjoining ground level.

Every basement shall be illuminated and ventilated. The walls and floors of every basement hereafter constructed, which are below the ground level, shall be made waterproof and dampproof, and whenever deemed necessary and so ordered by the department charged with the enforcement of this act, the walls and ceilings thereof shall be plastered.

Ventilation beneath floor.

§ 25. In every hotel hereafter erected, the lowest floor thereof shall be at least eighteen inches above the surface soil adjoining and under the floor, and the entire space under such floor shall be kept dry, drained, clean and free from any accumulation of rubbish, debris or filth.

Such space under the floor shall be enclosed and provided with a sufficient number of openings with removable screens or similar provisions of a size to insure ample ventilation; provided, however, that in any such building the lowest floor thereof may be less than eighteen inches above the surface soil but in no case less than six inches (except where masonry floors are laid directly on the soil) if the said floor is made impervious to the ingress of rats or other vermin, as follows:

Floor made impervious to rats.

(a) Foundation walls shall be constructed of concrete or of brick or stone or other masonry laid in a good mortar or constructed of some other equally as rat proof material.

(b) The said foundation walls shall be not less than six inches in thickness at the top nor less than twelve inches in thickness at the bottom, nor extend less than twelve inches below the surface soil, and except where masonry floors are laid directly on the soil, shall extend not less than six inches above the surface soil.

(c) Every opening in the foundation walls, for ventilation or for other purposes, shall be made rat proof with suitable metal screens or with some other similar rat proof material. Door or window openings in such walls shall have tight-fitting doors or windows.

(d) The said lowest floor or differing levels thereof, forming a complete floor between the outside walls of the building, shall be constructed either of masonry or covered with concrete not less than one and one-half inches thick, or constructed of two layers of flooring with a layer of galvanized iron or galvanized iron wire cloth or other approved equally as ratproof material placed between the two layers of flooring. Or in lieu of the floor being constructed as herein prescribed, the entire ground area under the floor shall be covered with concrete not less than two inches thick, except where the surface of the soil is composed of rock. The ratproofing material shall always extend under the plates of the exterior walls and supporting partitions.

(e) All openings throughout the said floor for chimneys, plumbing, water pipes or for any other purpose, shall be closed up tight in the same manner and with the same kind of materials as required under the plates of the exterior walls and supporting partitions, and if the rat-proofing material used for the closing of openings is other than masonry, it shall extend beyond and underlap the flooring all around the opening, not less than two inches.

Floor area of guest room. Width and height. Curtains.

§ 26. In every hotel hereafter erected, every guest room shall contain not less than ninety square feet of superficial floor area. Every such room shall at every point be not less than seven feet in width, nor less than nine feet in height, measured from the finished floor to the finished ceiling; except that attic rooms and rooms where sloping ceilings occur need be nine feet in height in but one-half the area of the room.

Every water-closet compartment shall be not less than thirty-six inches in clear width, and every such water-closet compartment, bath or slop-sink compartment, or closet or recess from a room, or dressing room shall have a height of not less than seven feet six inches, measured from the finished floor to the finished ceiling.

Every closet, recess from a room, or dressing room which contains more than twenty-five square feet of superficial floor area (built-in dressers, clothes presses and similar features which are a substantial part of the structure shall not be deemed to be a part of the floor area of a closet, recess from a room, or dressing room), shall conform to all of the provisions of this act as to guest rooms, and shall contain not less than ninety square feet of superficial floor area.

No part of any room in any hotel shall hereafter be enclosed or subdivided wholly or in part, by a curtain, portiere, fixed or movable partition, or other contrivance or device, for any purpose, contrary to any of the provisions of this act.

Entertainment, amusement or reception rooms, or public dining rooms, hereafter constructed, altered or converted in any hotel shall conform to the provisions of section thirty of this act.

Dormitories hereafter constructed, altered or converted in any hotel shall conform to the provisions of section sixty-two of this act.

Windows.

§ 27. In every hotel hereafter erected, every guest room, dormitory, kitchen, scullery, pantry or other room in which food is stored or prepared, public dining room, laundry, barber shop, Turkish baths, general amusement, entertainment or reception room, water-closet or shower compartment, bath, toilet or slop-sink room and general utility room shall have at least one window, of the area hereinafter required, opening directly upon a street, or upon a yard or court of the dimensions specified in this act and located on the same lot.

All windows required by this act shall be located so as to properly light all portions of the room and shall be made so as to open in all parts and be so arranged that at least one-half of the window may be opened unobstructed.

Opening into vent shaft.

The windows required by this section in a water-closet or shower compartment, bath, toilet or slop-sink room may open directly into a vent shaft in lieu of a street, yard or court. Such vent shaft to be not less than of the minimum size, and constructed of the materials and in the manner prescribed by section fifty-seven of this act, or such rooms or compartments, in lieu of being provided with windows may be ventilated by an exhaust system of ventilation installed, constructed and maintained as prescribed by section sixty-one hereof.

Opening through porch.

The windows required by this section to open onto a street, yard, or an outer court, except windows from kitchens, may open through porches, provided that said porches do not exceed seven feet in depth, measured at right angles to the windows and that at least seventy-five per cent of the entire side of the porch, bounded by the street, yard, or outer court, is left open except that the open space may be enclosed with mosquito screens.

Ventilation by exhaust system.

Kitchens, sculleries, pantries or other rooms used for cooking, storing or preparing of food, public dining rooms, laundries, barber shops, Turkish baths, general amusement or reception rooms and general utility rooms, in lieu of windows may be ventilated by an exhaust system of ventilation installed, constructed and maintained as prescribed by section sixty-one hereof.

Window area.

§ 28. In every hotel hereafter erected, the total window area in each guest room, kitchen, scullery, pantry or other room in which food is stored or prepared, laundry, barber shop, Turkish bath, or general utility room, shall be at least one-eighth of the superficial floor area of the room.

The aggregate window area in each room shall be not less than twelve square feet and no single window shall be less than six square feet in area.

All measurements for window area shall be taken to the outside of the sash.

The window area required for dormitories, entertainment, amusement, reception or dining rooms shall be as hereinafter provided.

§ 29. In every hotel hereafter erected each window in a water-closet compartment, bath, toilet or slop-sink room, or shower room, shall be not less than three square feet in area. The aggregate area of windows for each such compartment or room shall be not less than six square feet. In each such compartment or room containing more than one water-closet, bath, urinal or slop-sink, the aggregate window area shall be equivalent to three square feet for each water-closet, bath, urinal or slop-sink therein; except that at no time need the aggregate window area exceed one-fourth of the superficial floor area of such compartment or room.

Total window area in dining room, etc.

§ 30. In every hotel hereafter erected the total window area in each room used for the purpose of entertainment, amusement, reception or dining room, which room has a superficial floor area not exceeding one hundred eighty square feet, shall be at least one-eighth of the superficial floor area of such room.

Every such room which has a superficial floor area exceeding one hundred eighty square feet shall have an aggregate window area not less than that required for a room of one hundred eighty square feet of superficial floor area.

Height of rooms.

Every such entertainment, amusement, reception or dining room shall have a minimum height between the finished floor and the finished ceiling of not less than nine feet. No such room or part thereof shall be used for sleeping purposes, except that said room or part thereof complies with all of the other provisions of this act for guest rooms.

Windows in public hallway.

§ 31. In every hotel hereafter erected every public hallway, on any floor where there are more than five guest rooms, shall have at least one window, opening directly upon a street, or upon a yard or a court, of the dimensions specified in this act and located on the same lot; such windows shall be at the end of the public hallway and placed so as to secure the maximum light into the hallway; provided, however, that in hotels not exceeding two stories in height the public hallway may, in lieu of such windows, be lighted and ventilated by one or more skylights constructed in accordance with the provisions of this act.

Every window required by this act in a public hallway shall be not less than twenty-nine inches in clear width, nor less than fifty-eight inches in height, and the finished sill of same shall be not more than thirty inches above the adjoining finished floor.

Every window shall be made so as to open, and so arranged that at least one-half of the window may be opened unobstructed.

Skylights.

Every skylight provided for in this section shall have an effective horizontal area of glass of not less than fifteen square feet, and shall have ridge ventilators or fixed or movable louvres so as to provide a ventilating area of not less than five hundred square inches. Such skylights shall be so located that no portion of the hallway be distant more than twenty feet, measured from a vertical line, from a skylight opening.

Any part of a public hallway which is offset, recessed, or cut off from any other part of a hallway where such offset or recess is more in length than one and one-half times the width of the public hallway from which it offsets or recesses, shall be deemed a separate public hallway within the meaning of this section.

French windows.

French windows or doors, if arranged to open and glazed to give the areas of opening and glass required by this act for windows in public hallways, may be used in lieu of windows therein.

Ventilating skylight.

§ 32. In every hotel two or more stories in height hereafter erected, where there are more than five guest rooms on any one floor, there shall be provided at the roof over each stairway a ventilating skylight, placed directly as practicable over same, having a minimum effective horizontal area of glass at least twenty square feet in area for buildings two stories in height, and the area of glass in such skylight shall be increased at the ratio of six square feet for each additional story in height. In every such skylight the ventilating area shall be not less than five hundred square inches.

Every such skylight, ventilating openings, shutters and closing and opening devices for the ventilating openings, shall be made of approved incombustible materials, and so arranged that the entire ventilating area may be readily opened from at least the topmost and first story levels; except that in hotels not exceeding four stories in height the ventilators may be arranged so as to open from at least the first story, or may be fixed permanently in an open position.

Skylights as in this section prescribed may be omitted in case that windows are provided of the size fixed by section thirty-one hereof, and located adjoining the stairways, and that each window adjoining the stairway be provided with an open louvre or ventilator providing a ventilating area of not less than one hundred square inches or such louvre or ventilator may be placed in the roof over the stairway in which event the ventilating area shall be not less than five hundred square inches.

Whenever a skylight is required, as in this section provided, there shall be constructed a stair well, the clear open area of which shall be at each floor equal to one-third of the area of the glass in the skylight.

Water-closets. Waterproof floor.

§ 33. In every hotel hereafter erected there shall be installed not less than one water-closet in a separate compartment, located on the public hallway, for each sex on such floor. One of such water-closets shall be distinctly marked "for men", and one of the water-closets distinctly marked "for women"; and there shall be installed not less than one water-closet in a separate compartment, located on the public hallway, for every ten guest rooms, or fractional part thereof, on such floor, which are not provided with private water-closets. Each of the said water-closets shall be accessible from each of the guest rooms through the public hallway, and not more than one hundred feet distant from the entrance door of each of the guest rooms the said water-closet proposes to serve.

In every hotel hereafter erected there shall be installed not less than one water-closet for every twenty employees of each sex in said building.

No door or other opening in a water-closet or urinal compartment shall open from or into any room in which food is prepared or stored.

The walls enclosing a water-closet compartment shall be well plastered, or constructed of some nonabsorbent material, except that the ordinary wood trim for openings may be used in such a compartment. Every water-closet compartment shall be provided and equipped with a full door, properly hung, and provided with a lock or bolt to lock same.

The floor of every water-closet compartment hereafter constructed shall be made waterproof with asphalt, tile, marble, terrazzo, cement or some other similar nonabsorbent material, and such waterproofing shall extend not less than six inches on the vertical walls of the compartment.

In hotel already erected.

§ 34. In every hotel erected prior to the passage of this act there shall be installed not less than one water-closet in a separate compartment, located on the public hallway for each sex; one of such water-closets shall be distinctly marked "for men," and one of the water-closets shall be distinctly marked "for women"; and there shall be installed not less than one water-closet in a separate compartment, located on the public hallway, for every twelve guest rooms, or fractional part thereof, on such floor, which are not provided with water-closets; provided, however, that the housing department charged with the enforcement of this act may exempt any hotel existing at the time of the passage of this act from fully complying with the provisions of this paragraph when, in its discretion, such deviation will not be detrimental to the health of the occupants thereof, or to the sanitation of the said hotel or premises; provided, further, that no such exemption shall apply to any addition or extension to a hotel.

Every water-closet hereafter placed in a hotel erected prior to the passage of this act shall comply with every provision of this act relative to water-closets installed in hotels hereafter erected, except that if a water-closet is installed in the top story of any such building, the compartment in which it is installed may be ventilated by a skylight with fixed louvres in lieu of a window; provided, however, that a new water-closet may be installed to replace a defective or antiquated fixture in the same location. No door or other opening in a water-closet, privy, or urinal compartment shall open from or into a room in which food is prepared or stored.

Sewer connection required.

Every hotel erected prior to the passage of this act or hereafter erected, where a connection with the sewer is possible, shall discontinue the use of any school sink, privy vault or any similar receptacle used to receive fecal matter, urine or sewage, and every such receptacle shall be completely removed and the place where it was located be properly disinfected. All such receptacles shall be replaced by individual water-closets of durable nonabsorbent material, properly connected, trapped, vented and provided with flush tanks, the same as is required, by the provisions of this act, in hotels hereafter erected.

Bath tub or shower.

§ 35. In every hotel hereafter erected there shall be installed not less than one bath tub or shower, in a separate compartment, located on the public hallway, for every ten guest rooms, or fractional part thereof, not provided with private baths; provided, that the said bath tub or shower is on the same floor and is accessible from each guest room through the public hallway. There shall also be installed not less than one slop-sink on each floor.

The walls and floors to every bath, shower or slop-sink room hereafter constructed shall be waterproofed and shall be provided with doors in the same manner as required for the construction of water-closet compartments in hotels hereafter erected.

In hotel already erected.

§ 36. In every hotel erected prior to the passage of this act there shall be installed not less than one bath tub or shower, in a separate compartment, located in the public hallway, for every twenty guest rooms, or fractional part thereof, which are not provided with private baths; provided, that the said bath tub or shower is located on the same floor and is accessible from each guest room through the public hallway.

There shall also be installed not less than one slop-sink on each floor; provided, however, that the housing department charged with the enforcement of this act may exempt any hotel existing at the time of the passage of this act from fully complying with the provisions of this section when, in its discretion, such deviation will not be detrimental to the health of the occupants thereof, or to the sanitation of the said hotel or premises; provided, further, that no such exemption shall apply to any addition or extension to a hotel.

Running water. Sewer connection.

§ 37. In every hotel hereafter erected every plumbing fixture shall be provided with running water, and there shall be provided faucets, with running water, sufficient in number so that all of the yards, courts and passageways may be washed. Faucets shall be of the hose bibb type, not less than three-quarter inch size.

Every plumbing fixture affecting the sanitary drainage system in any hotel hereafter erected, shall be properly connected with the street sewer, if a street sewer exists in the street abutting the lot on which the building is located and is ready to receive connections. When it is impracticable to connect such plumbing fixtures with a street sewer, then the plumbing fixtures shall be connected and drained into a cesspool constructed satisfactorily to the department charged with the enforcement of this act; or some other means of sewage disposal satisfactory to the department charged with the enforcement of this act may be made until such time as it may become practicable and possible to connect with the street sewer.

In hotel already erected.

§ 38. In every hotel erected prior to the passage of this act, every plumbing fixture shall be provided with running water, and there shall be provided faucets, with running water, sufficient in number so that all of the yards, courts and passageways may be washed. Faucets shall be of the hose bibb type, not less than three-quarter inch size.

In case no running water. Privy.

§ 39. Water-closets, baths, showers, sinks, slop-sinks, faucets and other plumbing fixtures required by this act need not be installed in the event that the hotel hereafter erected or an existing hotel, as the case may be, is situated where there is no running water and where there is no practical means of sewage disposal, until such time as it becomes practicable and possible to obtain running water and means of sewage disposal; provided, in every such case the department charged with the enforcement of this act shall decide whether or not it is practicable and possible to provide running water and proper means of sewage disposal. A special permit in writing shall be obtained in every such case from the department charged with the enforcement of this act, which permit shall be made in duplicate, and a copy thereof shall remain on file in the department issuing it; provided, further, that proper, separate toilet facilities for each sex shall be provided for the use of the occupants of such building. Such facilities shall be made sanitary. A privy, or toilet other than a water-closet, erected under the authority of this section shall consist of a pit at least three feet deep, with suitable shelter over the same to afford privacy, and protection from the elements. The openings of the shelter and pit shall be enclosed by mosquito screening, and the door to the shelter shall be made to close automatically by means of a spring or other device. No privy pit shall be allowed to become filled with excreta to nearer than one foot from the surface of the ground, and the excreta in the pit shall be covered with earth, ashes, lime or similar substances at regular intervals.

All drainage water shall be conveyed from the premises by means of a covered drain to a covered cesspool.

Plumbing fixtures made sanitary.

§ 40. In every hotel erected prior to the passage of this act all plumbing fixtures affecting the sanitary drainage system shall be properly trapped and vented and made sanitary in every particular. In any hotel hereafter erected, and in any hotel erected prior to the passage of this act no plumbing fixtures shall be enclosed with woodwork, but the space under and around same must be left entirely open. All woodwork enclosing a water-closet, sink, slop-sink, wash tray or lavatory shall be removed and the floor and wall surfaces beneath and around such water-closet, sink, slop-sink, wash tray or lavatory shall be maintained in good repair, and if of wood, well painted with a light colored paint of sufficient body to make it non-absorbent. All wooden seats, attached to water-closets bowls, shall be varnished or enameled, or by some other method made nonabsorbent.

In every hotel hereafter erected water-closets shall have earthenware bowls and shall have earthenware seats integral with the bowls, or wooden seats, varnished or enameled so as to be nonabsorbent, or seats made of some nonabsorbent material attached directly to the bowls. No wooden wash trays or wooden kitchen sinks shall be permitted in such buildings. All plumbing connections hereafter made in buildings shall be of standard lead, iron, steel or brass; and every gas and water service connection hereafter made shall be of steel or iron, and shall be equipped with cut-off valves placed outside of the building, and such cut-off valves shall be readily accessible.

Whenever any plumbing fixture become insanitary the department charged with the enforcement of this act is hereby empowered to order the same removed and to order that it be replaced by a fixture conforming to the provisions of this act.

Two means of egress.

§ 41. Every hotel hereafter erected, three or more stories in height and in which there are more than five guest rooms on any one floor, shall be so designed and constructed that every guest room in such building shall have not less than two means of egress, either by stairways or fire escapes, constructed in accordance with the provisions of this act. Such means of egress shall be accessible from every guest room, either directly or through a public hallway, and so located that should one egress be or become blocked, the other egress shall be available.

Stairways.

§ 42. Every hotel two or more stories in height, hereafter erected shall have not less than two stairways.

Every fireproof hotel two or more stories in height hereafter erected shall have not less than one stairway, not less than three feet six inches wide, for each six thousand square feet, or fractional part thereof, of floor area in any one floor above the first floor thereof.

Every semifireproof hotel two or more stories in height hereafter erected shall have not less than one stairway, not less than three feet six inches wide, for each four thou-and square feet, or fractional part thereof, of floor area in any one floor above the first floor thereof.

Every wooden hotel two or more stories in height hereafter erected shall have not less than one stairway, not less than three feet six inches wide, for each three thousand square feet, or fractional part thereof, of floor area in any one floor above the first floor thereof.

Every hotel hereafter erected shall have not less than one stairway leading from the outside to every basement or cellar thereof.

Computing number of stairways required.

§ 43. The largest floor area above the ground floor shall be used as the basis for computing the number of stairways required in a hotel hereafter erected; provided, that if all floors above the largest floor area of the building are diminished in area, the stairway or stairways from that portion of the building containing a smaller area may be computed on the basis of the largest floor area in that portion of the building.

Location of stairways.

§ 44. All stairways hereafter constructed shall be located so as to furnish the best means of egress from the building, shall be as far removed from each other as is practicable, and shall be as follows:

Access to stairways shall be provided at every floor by means of a public hallway, corridor, or passageway, and the public hallway, corridor, passageway and stairway from the ground exit level to the top story or roof shall be accessible at all times.

No stairway shall abut on more than one side of an elevator shaft, except on the entrance and topmost stories; provided, that the stairway is so located that it can be approached from the street entrance without passing by or in front of the open side of the said elevator shaft.

No stairway shall be located over a steam boiler, gas meter or gas heater or furnace, unless such boiler, gas meter, gas heater or furnace be located in a room, the walls and ceiling of which are constructed as required for a boiler room by section fifty-nine of this act. No stairway leading from any other portion of the building shall terminate in or pass through a boiler room.

Construction of stairways.

§ 45. Every stairway hereafter constructed shall be as follows: have a rise of not more than eight inches and a run of not less than 9 inches, without change in the run or rise between floors; and shall be provided with head room of not less than six feet six inches, measured from the nearest nosing of the stairway to the nearest soffit.

The depth of every landing in a stairway shall be not less than the width of the stairway, and all treads shall be of equal width for every run of stairs, and shall not vary in width in the width of the stairs.

Every stairway required by this act shall be continuous from the ground level to the top story, i. e., the flights of such stairway shall be constructed one directly above the other, or shall be constructed so that each flight shall be in plain view of each succeeding flight; provided, however, that half of the stairways from the upper floors may terminate at the second floor, in the event that the stairways from the first to the second floor be increased in width not less than fifty per cent.

Every stairway shall have at least one handrail and if the stairway be five feet or more in width, shall have a handrail on each side thereof.

The under side and soffits of wooden stairways and the outside stringers of open stairways, except outside stairways in semifireproof and wooden hotels shall be metal lathed and plastered not less than three-quarters inch thick including the lath, or lathed with approved plaster board and plastered not less than three-quarters inch thick including the plaster board.

The width of stairways shall be measured in the clear of all projections except the baseboards, and except that handrails and newel posts may project not more than four inches.

Space under stairway.

§ 46. No closet of any kind shall be constructed in any hotel under any wooden stairway, but such space shall be kept entirely open, and be kept clean and free from all encumbrance; or such space shall be effectually closed with walls of studs, lathed and plastered, with no door or opening of any kind therein; provided, however, that the provisions of this section as to a closet under a stairway shall not apply to any hotel not more than two stories in height, in which there are not more than five guest rooms above the first floor thereof.

Stairway to roof.

§ 47. In every hotel hereafter erected more than two stories in height, the stairway nearest to the main entrance of the building shall be carried to the roof level and shall give egress to the roof through a penthouse or roof structure. In every such building not exceeding two stories in height there shall be constructed a scuttle, in the public hallway, near the stairway. Such scuttle shall be not less than two feet by three feet in area, and shall be cut through the ceiling and roof.

Penthouses over stairways shall be built either of fireproof materials or of wood studs, lathed with metal lath or approved plaster board and plastered not less than three-quarters inch thick including the lath or plaster board on the inside and outside thereof; or such penthouses may be covered in the same manner and with the same kind of materials as required by this act for the doors from such penthouses.

The door to the roof from a penthouse or roof structure shall be self-closing and shall open outward to the roof and shall be covered on both sides and edges with tin or other metal.

The frames and trim of such door opening shall be similarly constructed and all glass in such door shall be wired glass not less than one-fourth inch thick.

In hotel already erected.

Every hotel of more than two stories in height, erected prior to the passage of this act, shall have in the roof a penthouse or a scuttle, which scuttle shall be not less than two feet by three feet in area, located in the ceiling of a public hallway. There shall be provided a stairway or a stationary ladder, leading from the top floor of such hotel to the roof thereof. Such stairway or stationary ladder shall be made readily accessible to all the tenants of the building. No scuttle or penthouse door shall at any time be locked with a key, but may be fastened on the inside by a movable bolt or lock.

Hallways, etc., from stairways.

§ 48. Public hallways, landings, and corridors from stairways shall be of the same width and measured in the same manner as the stairways, as provided in section forty-six hereof.

Fire escapes.

§ 49. On every hotel hereafter erected more than two stories in height, there shall be provided at least one fire escape. If such hotel exceeds three thousand square feet of floor area on any one floor above the second floor thereof, such building shall be provided with one additional fire escape for each four thousand square feet of floor area or fractional part thereof.

Types of fire escapes.

Fire escapes required by this act shall be of one of the following types:

[Type 1.]

Type 1. Metallic throughout and fastened securely to the exterior walls of the building, with a balcony at each story above the first story thereof, with inclined stairways connecting all balconies and a goose-neck ladder connecting the topmost balcony to the roof. The lowest balcony of such fire escape to be not more than fourteen feet above the street or ground level directly under same.

All metallic balconies shall be not less than forty-four inches in width nor less than thirty-three square feet in area. The stairway openings therein shall be not less than twenty-one inches wide and forty inches in length. The balcony balustrade shall be not less than thirty-four inches high, with no opening in such balustrade greater than eight inches in horizontal dimension.

There shall be no opening greater than one inch in width in a fire escape balcony platform, except the stair well opening.

There shall be no opening greater than one inch in width in the lowest fire escape balcony platform, except that there be attached a counterbalanced or permanent ladder reaching to the street or ground below.

Every balcony platform shall be fastened to the outside walls of the building by building in and anchoring to such walls the balcony platform and the balustrade framing, or by securely bolting same thereto. Every balcony shall be supported by brackets, braces, or struts fastened to or built in and anchored to the walls.

The inclined stairways shall be not less than eighteen inches in width and placed in no part nearer than twenty-one inches from the face of the wall. Such inclined stairways shall have an inclination of not less than four inches and not more than six horizontally to each twelve inches of vertical height. The treads shall be not less than four inches wide, placed not more than twelve inches apart. Each side of such stairways shall be provided with a handrail not less than one inch in diameter fastened to the stair stringers and continued around the well hole openings of balcony platform.

The goose-neck ladder shall be not less than fifteen inches wide and extend vertically from the topmost balcony to three feet above the fire wall or roof above, and then be brought down and fastened to the inside face of the fire wall or to the roof. The rungs of the goose-neck ladder shall be not less than five-eighths inch round iron or steel, placed not more than fourteen inches apart. The goose-neck ladder shall be securely braced and fastened to the outside wall, and in no case shall such ladder pass in front of any opening in the wall to the interior of the building. The cornice opening for the passage of such ladder shall be not less than twenty-four inches in width and twenty-four inches in the clear outside of the ladder.

Such fire escape shall be framed and riveted or bolted together in a solid, substantial manner and properly supported, braced and fastened to the outside walls so as to be rigid, durable and secure and carry the loads imposed.

All metallic fire escapes shall be painted with not less than two coats of good, durable paint; or such fire escapes may be galvanized.

[Type 2.]

Type 2. Metallic ladders and stairways conforming to the provisions set forth for type one and with reinforced concrete or iron or steel fireproofed balconies, with fastenings of similar materials. Such balconies to measure the full size inside of balustrades. Floor openings and well holes provided and protected similarly to the requirements for metallic balconies.

[Type 3.] Enclosed spiral fire escape.

Type 3. Any type of an enclosed approved metallic spiral fire escape which consists of a rigid form of an inclined chute or chutes constructed entirely of incombustible material; securely attached to the outside walls of the building; provided with proper means of ingress thereto from the building and egress therefrom at the bottom; having means enabling firemen to reach the roof thereby from the ground; equipped with stand-pipes; painted the same as provided for metallic fire escapes; and satisfactory to the department charged with the enforcement of this act as being as solid, substantial and durable and as fireproof in construction, and providing at least as safe and efficient means of escape from the building for the occupants thereof, and furnishing all the protection and utility of the metallic fire escape described as "type one" in this act.

Type 4. Fire and smoke towers, consisting of a fire escape stairway not less than twenty inches in width, constructed of reinforced concrete, iron or steel, or a combination of these materials; and in all other details as required in this act for metallic fire escape stairways; said stairways being continuous the full height of the building from the first floor exit level to the roof, and with handrails on each side thereof the full length of same. Such stairways to be constructed at a point adjoining the exterior walls of the building and be entirely enclosed with walls of brick, terra cotta tile, concrete or reinforced concrete not less than twelve inches thick; such walls to be continuous from the basement up to and extending three feet above the roof of the building, with no covering of any kind over same, and with no openings in the walls of such tower into the building. The enclosing walls of such tower not to be used to carry or support any floor joist, beam, girder or other structural feature of the building, nor to be chased for any pipe, conduit or other purpose; to have an exit from the enclosure at the first floor line opening directly to a street or yard, and having an entrance by means of an outside balcony at each floor, such balconies to have a solid floor and in all other details and kind of materials to be as in this act required for metallic fire escape balconies. The balconies to be located and arranged to connect with a door opening from a public hallway in the interior of the building and with a door opening leading from the balcony to the tower, such door opening from the building to the balcony and from the balcony to the tower to be not less than thirty inches wide by seventy-two inches high and be equipped with metal-lined doors and with a frame and threshold of such door openings constructed of fireproof materials.

[Type 5.]

Type 5. A fire and smoke tower in every way similar to "type four" of this section, except that instead of the outside balcony there be built a vestibule with enclosing walls continuous with and of the same kind of materials and of the same thickness as the enclosing walls of the fire tower; that the vestibule opening be direct from a public hallway and be equipped with metal-lined doors. The vestibule floor to be of masonry construction. The enclosure to have an opening at each floor through the exterior wall of the building, such opening to extend from the floor to the ceiling and be not less in width than three-fourths of the width of the tower, said opening to be protected with an open metallic balustrade similar to that specified for metallic fire escape balconies.

Stairway and fire escape combined.

§ 50. In any hotel hereafter erected in which there is constructed a fire escape of "type four" or "type five," as prescribed in this act, such fire escape may be used and construed as a stairway and a fire escape combined; provided, that there is at least one other stairway or one other fire escape constructed in accordance with the provisions of this act, in the said building.

Location of fire escapes.

§ 51. Every fire escape required by this act shall be located on the building so as to furnish the best means of escape therefrom for the occupants, and at least one such fire escape shall be located on a street front. Every such fire escape shall have egress thereto from a public hallway or passageway not less than three feet wide, or such fire escapes, in lieu of being located on a public hallway, shall be so located that each guest room has direct egress thereto without passing through another room. If a public parlor, public lobby, or similar room is connected directly with the public hall, corridor or passageway through a clear and unobstructed opening, without doors, then egress may be had thereby to a fire escape. Signs both pointing towards and marking the locations of fire escapes shall be placed on each floor.

Computing number of fire escapes required.

§ 52. The largest floor area above the second floor shall be used as a basis for computing the number of fire escapes required by this act; provided, that if all floors above the largest floor area are diminished in size, the number of fire escapes from that portion of the building containing the smaller area may be computed on the basis of the largest floor area in that portion of the building.

Strength of platform, etc.

§ 53. All parts of each balcony platform of a fire escape shall be designed to carry, in addition to the dead load thereof, a live load of one hundred pounds per square foot over the entire area thereof, using outside dimensions, and the live and dead loads from the ladders or stairs supported thereon.

Each ladder shall be designed to withstand a horizontal pressure of one hundred pounds per square foot.

Each stairway shall be designed to carry, in addition to the dead load thereof, a live load of one hundred fifty pounds per square foot of horizontal projection.

Top rails of balcony balustrades shall be designed to withstand a horizontal pressure of one hundred pounds per lineal foot of railing.

Strength of fastenings, etc.

Each balcony shall be independently supported.

All fastenings of fire escape balconies to the building shall be designed to carry twenty-five per cent greater load than the total dead and live loads carried by the balconies. The balcony anchorage shall be direct to the structural steel or iron members of the balustrades and platforms extended into the walls and anchored into the structural work of the building.

The level of the inside sill of the door or window giving access to a fire escape balcony or the balcony floor shall be not more than thirty inches above the adjoining floor in the building. Every such door or window opening shall be not less than twenty-nine inches in clear width nor less than fifty-eight inches in height.

Where double-hung windows are used in such openings, the lower sash shall be at least the size of the upper sash and shall slide to the top of such opening. Any lock used on any such window shall be of a type which can be readily opened from the interior of the building without the use of a key or other tool.

Readily accessible.

§ 54. Every fire escape in or on a hotel hereafter erected, or in or on a hotel erected prior to the passage of this act, shall at all times be maintained in good order and repair, well painted and clear and unobstructed at all times, and be readily accessible.

Standpipes.

§ 55. On every hotel hereafter erected four or more stories in height, there shall be provided one or more metallic standpipes. Each such standpipe shall be not less than four inches in internal diameter, and shall have a Siamese inlet valve near the sidewalk or ground directly under same, and an outlet valve at each story above the first story and on the roof.

One such standpipe shall be placed on or in the exterior walls of the building at one fire escape on each street frontage, and the outlet valves shall be readily accessible from the balconies of the fire escapes.

The inlet and outlet valves on every standpipe shall be threaded and brought to a size which will meet the standard connections of the local fire department of the municipality in which such hotel or lodging house is being erected.

The standpipes required by this section need not be installed in any hotel which is situated where there is no running water and where it is not practicable or possible to obtain water for efficient use of such standpipes in case of fire, until such time as it is practicable and possible to obtain running water; and the department charged with the enforcement of this act shall decide whether or not it is possible or practicable to obtain running water.

§ 56. In every fireproof hotel hereafter erected, every elevator shaft, dumb-waiter shaft or other interior shaft shall be inclosed in walls constructed of concrete, reinforced concrete, brick, terra cotta tile or other similar hard, incombustible materials, or shall be constructed of metal studs lathed either with metal lath or an approved plaster board and plastered on both sides so as to make a solid partition not less than two inches thick.

In every semifireproof or wooden hotel hereafter erected, every such shaft shall be inclosed by walls constructed as provided by this act for fireproof hotels, or such wall shall be constructed with wood studs, with wood firestops the same size as the studs, cut in between the studs at each floor and half way between each floor, lathed on both sides with metal lath or an approved plaster board and be plastered not less than three-quarters inch thick including the lath or plaster board.

Every opening from any shaft into the building shall be equipped with a metal door and with door frame and trim entirely of metal; or such door and door frame shall be constructed of wood covered with metal on the shaft side thereof, and if there is any glass therein, such glass shall be wired glass not less than one-fourth inch thick. Every door or window therein shall be made to close tight, and every door except elevator doors therein shall be self-closing.

Every window in such shaft shall be of wired glass, not less than one-fourth inch thick, set in a metal sash or a sash metal-covered on the shaft side thereof.

At the roof over every elevator shaft there shall be constructed a ventilating skylight or a ventilator with open louvres.

Vent shafts enclosed.

§ 57. In every hotel hereafter erected every vent shaft shall be inclosed by walls constructed the same as required by this act for elevator shafts in the same class of building. Such vent shafts may, in a semifireproof or wooden hotel, be lined on the outside thereof (weather side) with metal in lieu of metal lath and plaster; also, that portion of such shaft extending from the ceiling joists to the top thereof may be lined with metal in the same manner as is required for the weather side of such vent shaft.

Every opening from any vent shaft into the building or any window therein shall be equipped in the same manner as required by this act for elevator shafts in the same class of building.

Plaster on the weather side of any such shaft shall be cement plaster.

Every vent shaft required by this act shall be not less than four feet in any direction and be at least sixteen square feet in area. If such vent shaft exceeds fifty feet in height, measured from the bottom to the top of the walls of such shaft, then such vent shaft shall throughout its entire height be increased in area three square feet for each additional ten feet or fractional part thereof above fifty feet.

Every such vent shaft shall be provided with an air intake or duct at or near the bottom thereof, communicating with the street or yard or a court. Such intake shall be not less than three square feet in total area, and may be divided into not more than three separate ducts running between the joists or otherwise, and shall in all cases be placed as nearly horizontal as possible. Every such intake or duct shall be constructed of approved fireproof material or shall be of metal or metal-lined, and be provided with a wire screen of not less than one inch mesh at each end. Plumbing, gas, steam or other similar pipes may be placed in such a vent shaft.

Every vent shaft shall have a door or a window at or near the bottom of the shaft, so arranged as to permit of its being readily cleaned out.

Walls of inner court.

§ 58. The walls of every inner court in a fireproof hotel hereafter erected shall be constructed of concrete, reinforced concrete, brick, terra cotta tile or other similar hard, incombustible material. In a semifireproof or in a wooden hotel such inner court walls, if surrounded on four sides by the walls of the same building, be constructed as provided for fireproof hotels, or may be of wood studs with wood firestops the same size as the studs, cut in between the studs at each floor and halfway between each floor, lathed on both sides with metal lath, or with an approved plaster board and be plastered not less than three-quarters inch thick including the lath or plaster board. Plaster on the weather side of such inner court walls shall be cement plaster, or such inner court walls may be lined on the weather side with not less than number twenty-six (gauge) metal, in lieu of metal lath and plaster.

Boiler room.

§ 59. In every hotel hereafter erected, every boiler used for the purpose of heating the building, using fuel other than gas, and every heating furnace or water-heating apparatus, using oil for fuel, shall be installed in a room, the walls of which room shall be built of concrete, reinforced concrete, brick, stone or terra cotta tile, not less than six inches thick, and such walls shall extend from the floor of the boiler room to the ceiling over the same. The entire ceiling of such room shall be built of similar materials as the walls, or shall be built with a double ceiling, with a space of not less than seven-eighths inch between the two ceilings, each ceiling shall be metal lathed or lathed with an approved plaster board and be plastered not less than three-quarters inch thick including the lath or plaster board. The floor of a boiler room shall be of concrete not less than two inches thick.

Doors in boiler room.

Any door in the wall of such room shall be a fire-resisting door, constructed of three thicknesses of seven-eighths inch by not more than six inches, tongued and grooved, matched, redwood boards entirely covered on the sides and edges with lockjointed tin; every such door shall be self-closing, so hung as to overlap the walls of the room at least three inches, and any glass in any such door or any glass in any window or opening in the walls of a boiler room shall be wired glass, not less than one-fourth inch thick, set in a metal or metal-covered sash.

All such doors shall have hinges, hangers, latches and other hardware of wrought iron, bolted to the doors, and shall have steel tracks, when sliding doors are used, with wrought-iron stops and binders bolted through the wall. Swinging doors shall have wall eyes of wrought iron, built into or bolted through the wall.

Every such boiler room shall have a sill across each door not less than four inches high. Such sills shall be of masonry, and the doors shall overlap same at least three inches, or in lieu of a masonry sill a steel or iron sill may be used, in which case the door shall close tight on top of same.

Where oil or other fluid fuel is burned, the oil or other fluid fuel shall not be fed by a gravity flow.

Garage.

§ 60. In every hotel hereafter erected any portion of such building in which there is kept or stored any automobile or automobiles shall be a room enclosed in partitions which shall be built of concrete, reinforced concrete, brick, stone or terra cotta tile, not less than six inches thick. Such enclosing partitions shall extend from the floor of the room to the ceiling of the same. The entire ceiling of such room shall be built of material similar to that in the construction of its walls or shall be either metal lathed or be lathed with an approved plaster board and be well plastered, and if any portion of the building is used as a public automobile garage, or automobile repair shop, or machine shop the ceiling thereof shall be constructed either of masonry, or of a double ceiling metal lathed or lathed with an approved plaster board and be well plastered, there shall be left a space between the ceilings of not less than six inches measured vertically. The lower ceiling shall be suspended with iron or steel channels. In each case each of the ceilings shall be plastered not less than three-quarters of an inch thick including the lath or the plaster board. The floor of such room shall be of concrete not less than two inches thick. Every door, window or other opening in the walls of such room opening to the interior of the building shall be protected in the same manner required by section fifty-nine hereof for doors, windows and other openings in a boiler room.

Fan exhaust system of ventilation.

§ 61. In every hotel hereafter erected the water-closet compartments, bath, toilet or slop-sink rooms, kitchens, sculleries, pantries or other rooms in which food is stored or prepared, public dining rooms, laundries, barber shops, Turkish baths, general amusement, entertainment or reception rooms, and rooms used for similar purposes and general utility rooms, in lieu of being provided with windows, as in this act prescribed, may be provided with a fan exhaust system of ventilation. Such fan exhaust system of ventilation shall consist of independent inlet ducts, extending from the outer air to each such room or compartment and exhaust ducts extending from each such room or compartment to the outer air above the highest roof of the building.

All of the inlet ducts and exhaust ducts shall be constructed of galvanized iron or other smooth surfaced, nonabsorbent material and so arranged that they may be readily cleaned out.

The exhaust ducts shall always be connected to an exhaust fan mechanically operated, so designed and operated as to provide a complete change of air in not to exceed fifteen minutes for each room used for the following purposes: kitchens; pantries or other rooms used for cooking, storing or preparing of food; barber shops; Turkish baths; laundries.

General amusement, entertainment, reception or dining rooms, or rooms used for similar purposes; general utility rooms; and the said fan exhaust system of ventilation shall be so designed and operated as to provide a complete change of air in not to exceed five minutes for each room used for the following purposes: water-closets; shower compartments; bath, toilet or slop-sink rooms or sculleries.

Penalty for failure to maintain.

Any person in charge of a building in which a system of fan exhaust ventilation, as in this section is required, who fails, neglects or refuses to operate and maintain the said system of ventilation in good order and repair so that the ventilation (complete change of air) herein specified is provided in each of the rooms or compartments at all times, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and subject to all of the penalties fixed by this act.

Dormitory.

§ 62. Every dormitory hereafter constructed, altered, or converted in any hotel shall be as follows:

(a) In no one dormitory shall there be provided sleeping accommodations for more than twenty adult persons, nor shall the superficial floor space for each person be less than required by section sixty-five hereof.

(b) The ceiling height, measured from the finished floor to the finished ceiling, shall in no case be less than nine feet in the clear, and in no case shall there be permitted in such dormitory more than one tier of beds; provided, however, that in a dormitory in which the clear ceiling height is not less than eighteen feet measured between the finished floor to the finished ceiling thereof, a double tier of beds may be permitted, i. e., one tier above the other, provided that in no event shall there be less than three feet of clear vertical space between the beds, nor less than three feet in any horizontal direction between any of the beds, nor less than one foot of clear space between the floor of the room and the under side of the first tier of beds.

(c) In every dormitory there shall be provided windows opening onto a street, or onto a yard or court of the dimensions specified in this act and located on the same lot. The window area shall in no case be less than one-eighth of the superficial floor area in the dormitory, and in the event that a double tier of beds are provided, the said window area shall be doubled.

(d) The frames of beds in every dormitory shall be made of steel or iron or of some similar hard, smooth, incombustible and nonabsorbent material.

(e) In every dormitory there shall be provided not less than one water-closet in a separate compartment, not less than one urinal in a separate compartment, and not less than one shower in a separate compartment, and not less than one wash-sink, for each twenty persons or fractional part thereof occupying the said dormitory.

(f) Every dormitory in a hotel erected prior to the passage of this act shall be made to conform to the provisions of subsection "(a)" of this section.

§ 63. In any hotel erected prior to the passage of this act, every additional room or hallway that is hereafter constructed or created may be of the same height as the other rooms or hallways on the same story of such hotel.

Windows, courts, etc., in hotels already erected.

§ 64. Every room in a hotel erected prior to the passage of this act shall, if the said room be hereafter occupied for living or sleeping purposes, have a window of an area not less than eight square feet, opening directly upon a street, a yard, a court or upon a vent shaft not less than twenty-five square feet in area, which vent shaft shall in no part be less than four feet wide and open and unobstructed, without roof or skylight over same; except that if such room be located on the top floor of the building, such room may be ventilated by a skylight with fixed louvres directly to the outer air, or may have a window opening upon a vent shaft not less than ten square feet in area, if such window from the room be not more than three feet below the top of the wall of such vent shaft.

Every public hallway in every hotel erected prior to the passage of this act, which does not conform to the provisions for public hallways in buildings hereafter erected, shall be provided with light and ventilation to the outer air. Such light and ventilation shall be provided by the placing of windows or skylights, or by making such alterations as in the judgment of the housing department may be deemed necessary to accomplish the result.

Kitchen.

§ 65. Food shall not be cooked or prepared in any room except in a kitchen designed for that purpose. Floors of kitchens and rooms in which food is stored shall be made impervious to rats by a layer of concrete not less than one and one-half inches thick or by a layer of sheet tin or iron or similar material.

Sleeping in cellar, etc. Floor space for each occupant.

It shall be unlawful for any person to live or sleep, or permit or suffer any person to live or sleep, in any cellar, bath, shower or slop-sink room, water-closet compartment, hallway, closet, kitchen, recess from a room, or dressroom, except when such recess from a room, or dressing room has at least ninety square feet of superficial floor area and complies with every requirement of this act for rooms, or in any other place in such building which in the judgment of the department charged with the enforcement of this act, would be dangerous or prejudicial to life or health by reason of want of light, windows, ventilation, drainage or on account of dampness, offensive, obnoxious or poisonous odors, or in any room that shall be so overcrowded as to afford less than the following floor space for each occupant, in accordance with the age of said occupant :

Number of persons over 12 years of age	Number of persons under 12 years of age	Superficial floor area required
1 or	2	60 square feet
2 or	4	120 square feet
3 or	6	180 square feet
4 or	8	240 square feet
5 or	10	300 square feet
6 or	12	360 square feet

Additional floor area in the same ratio shall be provided for additional persons.

Lighting of hallway, etc.

§ 66. In every hotel there shall be installed and kept burning from sunrise to sunset throughout the year artificial light sufficient in volume to properly illuminate every public hallway, stairway, fire escape egress, elevator, passageway, public water-closet compartment, or toilet room, whenever there is insufficient natural light to permit a person to read in any part thereof.

In every hotel there shall be installed and kept burning from sunset to sunrise throughout the year artificial light sufficient in volume to properly illuminate every public hallway, stairway, fire escape egress, elevator, public water-closet compartment, or toilet room and exterior passageway on the lot.

Light-colored material on wall.

§ 67. The walls and ceilings of every sleeping room in every hotel shall, except when there is sufficient natural light to permit a person to read in any part thereof during daytime, be calcimined or painted or papered with a light-colored material, and such calimine, paint or paper, as the case may be, shall be renewed as often as is necessary to maintain the same of a light color and clean and free from vermin.

The walls of courts and shafts, unless built of light-colored materials, shall be painted of a light color or whitewashed, and such painting or whitewashing shall be renewed as often as is necessary to maintain the same of a light color.

Repapering.

§ 68. No wall, partition or ceiling of any room in any hotel shall be repapered, calced, or have any other covering placed thereupon unless the old wall paper or other covering shall have first been removed therefrom, and the said wall, partition or ceiling cleaned, disinfected and freed from bugs, insects or vermin.

Repairs.

§ 69. Every hotel shall be maintained in good repair. The roofs shall be kept waterproof and all storm or casual water properly drained and conveyed therefrom to the street sewer, storm drain or street gutter.

All portions of the lot about such hotel, including the yards, courts, areaways, vent shafts and passageways, shall be properly graded and drained; and whenever the department charged with the enforcement of this act deems it necessary for the protection of the health of the occupants of such building, or for the proper sanitation of the premises, it may require that the said lot, yards, courts, areaways, vent shafts and passageways be graveled or properly paved and surfaced with concrete, asphalt or similar materials.

Metal mosquito screening.

§ 70. There shall be provided, whenever it is deemed necessary for the health of the occupants of any hotel or for the proper sanitation or cleanliness of any such building, metal mosquito screening of at least sixteen mesh, set in tight-fitting removable sash, for each exterior door, window or other opening in the exterior walls of the building.

Garbage cans.

§ 71. In every hotel there shall be provided such number of tight metal receptacles with close-fitting metal covers for garbage, refuse, ashes and rubbish as may be deemed necessary by the department charged with the enforcement of this act, or in lieu of such metal receptacles there may be constructed a garbage chute or shaft approved by the housing department. Each of said receptacles, chutes or shafts shall be kept in a clean condition by the person in charge or in control of the building.

Rooms, etc., to be kept clean.

§ 72. Every room, hallway, passageway, stairway, wall, partition, ceiling, floor, skylight, glass window, door, carpet, rug, matting, window curtain, water-closet compartment or room, toilet room, bathroom, slop-sink or washroom, plumbing fixture, drain, roof, closet, cellar, or basement in any hotel or on the lot, yard, court or any of the premises thereof, shall be kept in every part clean and sanitary and free from all accumulation of debris, filth, rubbish, garbage or other offensive matter.

Swill, etc., not to be deposited in plumbing fixtures.

No person shall, or cause or permit any person to deposit any swill, garbage, bottles, ashes, cans or other improper substance in any water-closet, sink, slop-hopper, bathtub, shower, catch-basin, or in any plumbing fixture connection or drain therefrom; or otherwise to obstruct the same; or to place or cause or permit to be placed any filth, urine or other foul matter in any place other than the place provided for same; or to keep or cause or permit to be kept any urine or filth or foul matter in any room in any hotel, or in or about the said building or premises thereof, for such length of time as to create a nuisance.

Beds kept clean.

§ 73. In every hotel, every part of every bed, including the mattress, sheets, blankets and bedding, shall be kept in a clean, dry and sanitary condition, free from filth, urine or other foul matter, in or upon the same; and free from the infection of lice, bedbugs or other insects. No roller or public towel shall be permitted. Bed linen shall be changed at least as often as a new guest occupies the bed.

Dangerous articles not to be kept.

§ 74. In no hotel, or any part thereof, or in the lot, yard, court or any portion thereof, shall there be kept, stored or handled any article dangerous or detrimental to life or to the health of the occupants thereof; nor shall there be stored, kept, or handled any feed, hay, straw, excelsior, cotton, paper stock, rags or junk, except upon a written permit so to do, obtained from the fire commissioner or other department authorized to issue such permit. Every such permit shall be deemed to be a public record, made in duplicate and a copy thereof shall remain on file in the office of the fire commissioner or department issuing same.

Animals not to be kept.

§ 75. No horse, cow, calf, swine, sheep, goat, rabbit, mule or other animal, chicken, pigeon, goose, duck or other poultry shall be kept in a hotel, or any part thereof; nor shall any such animal or poultry, nor shall any stable be kept or maintained on the same lot, yard, court or premises of a hotel, or within twenty feet of any window or door of such building.

No hotel shall be connected with or have any door, window or transom opening to any part of a building wherein paint or oil are stored or kept for the purpose of sale or otherwise.

Housekeeper in charge.

§ 76. In every hotel in which there are eight or more guest rooms and in which the owner does not live, there shall be a janitor, housekeeper or other responsible person, who shall reside in such hotel or on the same lot or premises thereof and have charge of same.

Action to abate nuisance. Authority to execute order.

§ 77. In case any hotel, or any part thereof, is constructed, altered, converted or maintained in violation of any provisions of this act or of any order or notice of the department charged with its enforcement, or in case a nuisance exists in any such hotel or building or structure or upon the lot on which it is situated, said department may institute any appropriate action or proceeding to prevent such unlawful construction, alteration, conversion or maintenance, to restrain, correct or abate such violation or nuisance, to prevent the occupation of said hotel, building or structure, to prevent any illegal act, conduct of business in or about such hotel or lot. In any such action or proceeding said department may, by affidavit setting forth the facts, apply to the superior court, or to any judge thereof, for an order granting the relief for which said action or proceeding is brought, or for an order enjoining all persons from doing or permitting to be done any work in or about such hotel, building, structure or lot, or from occupying or using the same for any purpose, until the entry of final judgment or order. In case any notice or order issued by said department is not complied with, said department may apply to the superior court, or to any judge thereof, for an order authorizing said department to execute and carry out the provisions of said notice or order, to remove any violation specified in said order or notice, or to abate any nuisance in or about such hotel, building or structure, or the lot upon which it is situated. The court, or any judge thereof, is hereby authorized to make any order specified in this section. In no case shall the said department or any officer thereof or the municipal corporation be liable for costs in any action or proceeding that may be commenced in pursuance of this act.

Fine a lien.

§ 78. Every fine imposed by judgment under section six of this act upon a hotel owner shall be a lien upon the house in relation to which the fine is imposed, from the time of the filing of a certified copy of said judgment in the office of the recorder of the county in which said hotel is situated, subject only to taxes and assessments and water rates, and to such mortgage and mechanics' liens as may exist thereon prior to such filing; and it shall be the duty of the department charged with the enforcement of the provisions of this act, upon the entry of such judgment, to file forthwith the copy as aforesaid, and such copy upon filing shall be forthwith indexed by the recorder in the index of mechanics' liens.

Notice of pendency of action.

§ 79. In any action or proceeding instituted by the department charged with the enforcement of this act, the plaintiff or petitioner may file, in the county recorder's office of the county where the property affected by such action or proceeding is situated, a notice of the pendency of such action or proceeding. Said notice may be filed at the time of the commencement of the action or proceeding, or at any time afterwards before final judgment or order, or at any time after the service of any notice or order issued by said department. Such notice shall have the same force and effect as the notice of pendency of action provided for in the Code of Civil Procedure. Each county recorder with whom such notice is filed shall record it and shall index it in the name of each person specified in a direction subscribed by an officer of the department instituting such action or proceeding. Any such notice may be vacated upon the order of a judge of the court in which such action or proceeding was instituted or is pending. The recorder of the county where such notice is filed is hereby directed to mark such notice and any record or docket thereof as canceled of record, upon the presentation and filing of a certified copy of such order.

Name of owner, etc., filed.

§ 80. Every owner of a hotel and every lessee or other person having control of a hotel, shall file in the housing department a notice, containing his name and address, and also a description of the property, by street and number and otherwise, as the case may be, in such manner as will enable the department charged with the enforcement of this act easily to find the same; and also the number of rooms in the building. In case of a transfer of any hotel, it shall be the duty of the grantee of said hotel to file in the housing department a notice of such transfer, stating the name of the new owner, within thirty days after such transfer. In case of the devolution of the said property by will, it shall be the duty of the executor and the devisee, if more than twenty-one years of age, and in case of devolution of such property by inheritance without a will, it shall be the duty of the heirs, or in case all the heirs are under age, it shall be the duty of the administrator of the deceased owner of said property, to file in said department a notice, stating the death of said owner and the names of those who have succeeded to his interests, within thirty days after the death of the decedent, in case he died intestate, and within thirty days after the probate of his will if he died testate.

Name of agent filed.

§ 81. Every owner, agent or lessee of a hotel shall file in the housing department a notice containing the name and address of such agent of such house, for the purpose of receiving service of process, and also a description of the property, by street and number or otherwise, as the case may be, in such manner as will enable the department charged with the enforcement of this act easily to find the same. The name of the owner or lessee may be filed as agent for this purpose.

Index of names.

§ 82. The names and addresses filed in accordance with sections seventy-nine and eighty shall be indexed by the housing department in such a manner that all of those filed in relation to each hotel shall be together and readily ascertainable. Said indices shall be public records, open to public inspection during business hours.

Time of service.

§ 83. Every notice or order in relation to a hotel shall be served five days before the time for doing the thing in relation to which it shall have been issued.

Manner of service.

§ 84. In any action brought by any department charged with the enforcement of this act in relation to a hotel for injunction, vacation of the premises or other abatement or nuisance, or to establish a lien thereon, it shall be sufficient service of summons to serve the same as notices and orders are served under the provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure.

Minimum requirements. Supplementary.

§ 85. The provisions of this act shall be held to be the minimum requirements adopted for the protection, the health and the safety of the community, and for the protection, the health and the safety of the occupants of hotels. Nothing in this act contained shall be construed as prohibiting the local legislative body of any incorporated town, incorporated city, incorporated city and county, or county, from enacting from time to time, supplementary ordinances or laws imposing further restrictions, or providing for fees to be charged for permits, certificates or other papers required by this act; but no ordinance, law, regulation or ruling of any municipal department, authority, officer or officers, shall repeal, amend, modify or dispense with any of the provisions of this act.

Repealed.

All statutes of the state and all ordinances of incorporated towns, incorporated cities, incorporated cities and counties, and counties, as far as inconsistent with the provisions of this act, are hereby repealed; provided, that nothing in this act contained shall be construed as repealing or abrogating any present ordinance or law of any incorporated town, incorporated city, incorporated city and county, or county, in the state which further restricts the percentage of the lot to be covered by a hotel, the number of stories or height of such hotel or number of rooms therein, the occupation thereof, the materials to be used in its construction, or increasing the size of the yards or courts, the floor space to each person occupying a room, the requirements as to sanitation, ventilation, light and protection against fire.

Powers of cities not abrogated.

Nothing in this act contained shall be construed as abrogating, diminishing, minimizing or denying the power of any incorporated town, incorporated city, incorporated city and county, or county, by ordinance or law, to further restrict the percentage of the lot to be covered by a hotel within said municipality, the number of stories or height of such hotel or number of rooms therein, the occupation thereof, the materials to be used in its construction, or increasing the size of the yards or courts, the floor space to each person occupying a room, the requirements as to sanitation, ventilation, light and protection against fire.

Constitutionality.

§ 86. If any section, subsection, sentence, clause or phrase of this act is for any reason held to be unconstitutional, such decision shall not affect the validity of the remaining portions of this act. The legislature hereby declares that it would have passed this act, and each section, subsection, sentence, clause, and phrase thereof, irrespective of the fact that any one or more sections, subsections, sentences, clauses, or phrases be declared unconstitutional.

In effect when.

§ 87. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after September 1, 1917.

Repealed.

§ 88. "An act to regulate the building and occupancy of hotels and lodging houses in incorporated towns, incorporated cities, and cities and counties, and to provide penalties for the violation thereof," approved June 16, 1913, statutes of California of 1913, page 1429, and all acts amending said act, are hereby repealed.

HOTEL ACT OF 1917.

ACT 2028—An act relating to hotels, defining the same, providing regulations in connection therewith, providing for the sanitation of the rooms of such hotels, providing for the sanitary method and manner of keeping, handling and using bedclothes or bedcovering in such hotels, providing for its enforcement by the state board of health and local health officers, prescribing a penalty for the violation of the provisions hereof; and repealing an act entitled "An act relating to hotels, defining the same, providing regulations in connection therewith, providing for the sanitation of the rooms of such hotels, providing for the sanitary method and manner of keeping, handling and using bedclothes or bedcovering in such hotels, repealing all acts or parts of acts in conflict with this act, providing for its enforcement by the state board of health, and providing a penalty for the violation of any of its provisions," approved April 26, 1915.

History: Approved May 11, 1917. In effect July 27, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 432. Prior act of April 26, 1915, Stats. 1915, p. 213, repealed by the present act.

Hotel defined.

§ 1. Every building or structure, kept as, used as, maintained as, or advertised as, or held out to the public to be, a place where sleeping or rooming accommodations are furnished to the public, or any part of the public, whether with or without meals, shall, for the purpose of this act, be deemed to be a hotel, and whenever the word "hotel" shall occur in this act, it shall be deemed to include lodging house and rooming house.

Clean bedding, etc.

§ 2. All bedding, bedclothes, or bedcovering, including mattresses, quilts, blankets, sheets, pillows or comforters, used in any hotel in this state must be kept clean and free from all filth or dirt; provided, that no bedding, bedclothes or bedcovering, including mattresses, quilts, blankets, sheets, pillows or comforters, shall be used which is worn out or unfit for use by human beings according to the true intent and meaning of this act.

Infected rooms fumigated.

§ 3. Any room in any hotel in this state which is or shall be infested with vermin or bedbugs or similar things, shall be thoroughly fumigated, disinfected and renovated until such vermin or bedbugs or other similar things are entirely exterminated.

Clean rooms.

§ 4. Every room in any hotel in this state used for sleeping purposes, must be kept free from any and every kind of dirt or filth of whatsoever nature, and the walls, floors, ceilings and doors of every such room shall be kept free from dirt.

Ventilation devices.

§ 5. Every room in any hotel, used for sleeping purposes, shall have devices, such as a window or transom, so constructed as to allow for proper and a sufficient amount of ventilation in each such room.

Size of sheets.

§ 6. Every bed, for the accommodation of any person or persons or guests, kept or used in any hotel in this state, must be provided with a sufficient supply of clean bedding and must be provided with sheets at least eighty-one inches wide and ninety-eight inches long; provided, however, that on every single bed there shall be sheets at least fifty inches wide and ninety-eight inches long. Every bed shall be supplied with clean sheets and pillow slips as often as assigned to a different person.

Individual towels.

§ 7. Every hotel, within this state, having a public washstand or washbowl, where different persons gather to wash themselves, must keep a sufficient supply of clean individual towels for the use of such persons within easy access of or to such persons and in plain sight and view.

Penalty for violation.

§ 8. Every owner, manager, lessee or other person in charge of any hotel in this state who shall fail to comply with this act whether through the acts of his agents or employees, or otherwise, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction shall be fined not more than two hundred dollars or shall be imprisoned for not more than three months; and every day that any hotel shall be kept in violation of any of the provisions of this act such keeping shall constitute a separate offense.

Enforcement.

§ 9. It shall be the duty of the state board of health and local health officers to enforce the provisions of this act.

Other than hotels.

§ 10. Nothing in this act shall be construed to include cots or bunks where the same are used in places other than in hotels.

Stats. 1915, p. 213, repealed.

§ 11. An act of the legislature entitled "An act relating to hotels, defining the same, providing regulations in connection therewith, providing for the sanitation of the rooms of such hotels, providing for the sanitary method and manner of keeping, handling and using bedclothes or bedcovering in such hotels, repealing all acts or parts of acts in conflict with this act, providing for its enforcement by the state board of health, and providing a penalty for the violation of any of its provisions," approved April 26, 1915, is hereby repealed.

CONTENTS OF CHAPTER.

ACT 2034. WOMEN'S EIGHT-HOUR LAW.

WOMEN'S EIGHT-HOUR LAW.

ACT 2034—An act limiting the hours of labor of females employed in any manufacturing, mechanical or mercantile establishment, laundry, hotel, or restaurant, or telegraph or telephone establishment or office, or by any express or transportation company; compelling each employer in any manufacturing, mechanical, or mercantile establishment, laundry, hotel or restaurant, or other establishment employing any female to provide suitable seats for all female employees and to permit them to use such seats when they are not engaged in the active duties of their employment; and providing a penalty for failure, neglect or refusal of the employer to comply with the provisions of this act, and for permitting or suffering any overseer, superintendent, foreman or other agent of any such employer to violate the provisions of this act.

History: Approved March 22, 1911, Stats. 1911, p. 437. Amended (1) June 12, 1913, in effect August 10, 1913, Stats. 1913, p. 713; (2) May 23, 1917, in effect July 27, 1917, Stats. 1917, p. 829; May 10, 1919, in effect July 22, 1919, Stats. 1919, p. 394. The amendment of 1913 was of the entire act except the title.

Females not to work more than eight hours per day. Employment in more than one establishment. Not applicable to nurses, fruit canning, etc.

§ 1. No female shall be employed in any manufacturing, mechanical or mercantile establishment, laundry, hotel, public lodging house, apartment house, hospital, place of amusement, or restaurant, or telegraph or telephone establishment or office, or in the operation of elevators in office buildings or by any express or transportation company in this state more than eight hours during any one day of twenty-four hours or more than forty-eight hours in one week. It shall be unlawful for any employer of labor to employ, cause to be employed or permit any female employee to labor any number of hours whatever, with knowledge that such female has heretofore been employed within the same date and day of twenty-four hours in any establishment and by any previous employer, for a period of time that will, combined with the period of time of employment by a previous employer exceed eight hours; provided, that this shall not prevent the employment of any female in more than one establishment where the total number of hours worked by said employee does not exceed eight hours in any one day of twenty-four hours. If any female shall be employed in more than one such place, the total number of hours of such employment shall not exceed eight hours during any one day of twenty-four hours or forty-eight hours in one week. The hours of work may be so arranged as to permit the employment of females at any time so that they shall not work more than eight hours during the twenty-four hours of one day, or forty-eight hours during any one week; provided, further, that the provisions of this section in relation to hours of employment shall not apply to or affect graduate nurses in hospitals, nor the harvesting, curing, canning or drying of any variety of perishable fruit, fish or vegetable during such periods as may be necessary to harvest, cure, can or dry said fruit, fish or vegetable in order to save the same from spoiling. [Amendment of May 10, 1919. In effect July 22, 1919. Stats. 1919, p. 394.]

This section was also amended May 23, 1917, Stats. 1917, p. 829.

Seats for female employees.

§ 2. Every employer in any manufacturing, mechanical or mercantile establishment, laundry, hotel, or restaurant, or other establishment employing any female, shall provide suitable seats for all female employees, and shall permit them to use such seats when they are not engaged in the active duties of their employment.

Enforcement of act.

§ 3. The bureau of labor statistics shall enforce the provisions of this act. The commissioner, his deputies and agents, shall have all powers and authority of sheriffs or other peace officers, to make arrests for violations of the provisions of this act, and to serve all processes and notices thereunder throughout the state.

This title of the amending act of 1919 recites an amendment of this section, but no such amendment appears in the body of the act.

Penalty. Disposition of fines.

§ 4. Any employer who shall permit or require any female to work in any of the places mentioned in section one more than the number of hours provided for in this act during any day of twenty-four hours, or who shall fail, neglect, or refuse to so arrange the work of females in his employ so that they shall not work more than the number of hours provided for in this act during any day of twenty-four hours, or who shall fail, neglect, or refuse to provide suitable seats as provided in section two of this act, or who shall permit or suffer any overseer, superintendent, foreman, or other agent of any such employer to violate any of the provisions of this act, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished for a first offense, by a fine of not less than twenty-five dollars nor more than fifty dollars; for a second offense, by a fine of not less than one hundred dollars nor more than two hundred and fifty dollars; or by imprisonment for not more than sixty days, or by both such fine and imprisonment. All fines imposed and collected under the provisions of this act shall be paid into the state treasury and credited to the contingent fund of the bureau of labor statistics.

1. Constitutionality.—Only one subject embraced in title.—Only one subject—that of female employment—is embraced in the title of the act.—In re Miller, 162 Cal. 687, 700, 124 Pac. 427.

2. Same—Not unreasonable as a health regulation.—The limitation of the hours of labor of women in hotels is not unreasonable as a health regulation.—In re Miller, 162 Cal. 687, 698, 124 Pac. 427.

3. Same — Exclusive application to women not unreasonable.—The application of the eight-hour laws exclusively to women is justified on the ground that they are less robust in physical organization and structure than men, that they have the burden of child bearing, and consequently, that the health and strength of posterity and of the public in general is presumed to be enhanced by preserving and protecting women from exertion which men might bear without detriment to the general welfare.—In re Miller, 162 Cal. 687, 695, 124 Pac. 427.

4. Same—Not unreasonable as applied exclusively to women.—Reasonable regulations limiting the hours of labor of women are within the scope of legislative action through a state police statute.—Miller v. Wilson, 236 U. S. 373, 59 L. ed. 628, 35 Sup. Ct. 342, L. R. A. 1915F, 829.

5. Same — Same.—The reasonable exertion of the police authority of a state is not overstepped and liberty of contract unduly abridged by a statute prescribing eight hours a day or a maximum of forty-eight hours a week for women.—Miller v. Wilson, 236 U. S. 373, 59 L. ed. 628, 35 Sup. Ct. 342, L. R. A. 1915F, 829.

6. Same—Does not violate constitutional rights.—The woman's eight-hour law does not constitute a violation of section 18, article XX, or of section 1, article I, or of section 11, article I, or of section 21, article I, or of section 25 of article IV, of the constitution.—In re Miller, 162 Cal. 687, 692, 124 Pac. 427.

7. Same—Certain exemptions not unreasonable discrimination.—The exemption of women employed in harvesting, curing, canning or drying perishable fruits or vegetables is not an improper discrimination, in view of the short period of such employment, the greater necessity, from the standpoint of the general welfare, for facility in obtaining employees to do the work than obtains in ordinary employments in order to avoid loss from the perishable nature of the products preserved.—In re Miller, 162 Cal. 678, 700, 124 Pac. 427.

9. Same—Women in hotels, exemption of, not unreasonable discrimination.—The California statute of 1911 is not unconstitutional as to women employed in hotels, either as an unwarranted invasion of liberty of contract, or as a denial of equal protection of the law, on the ground of unreasonable discrimination because of the omissions of certain classes of female laborers from its operation, or because the classification is based on the character of the employer's business, and not upon the character of the employees work.—Miller v. Wilson, 236 U. S. 373, 59 L. Ed. 628, 35 Sup. Ct. 342, L. R. A. 1915F, 829; Bosley v. McLaughlin, 236 U. S. 385, 59 L. Ed. 632, 35 Sup. Ct. 345.

10. Same—Same.—The act of March 22, 1911 (437), known as the woman's eight hour law is constitutional so far as it applies to women employed in hotels.—In re Miller, 162 Cal. 687, 692, 124 Pac. 427.

11. Same—Same.—The woman's eight hour law is not rendered special or discriminating because it is made to apply to women employed in hotels, and not to those employed in lodging houses.—In re Miller, 162 Cal. 687, 699, 124 Pac. 427.

12. Same—Exemption of pharmacists and student nurses, not unreasonable discrimination.—Pharmacists and student nurses perform work of such character and importance to the public that it should not be performed by persons over-fatigued, and it is therefore a proper subject for the legislative control of the hours of labor of women so employed.—Bosley v. McLaughlin, 236 U. S. 385, 59 L. Ed. 632, 35 Sup. Ct. 345.

13. Same—Same.—The question of the necessity of limiting the hours of labor of women pharmacists and nurses is a matter for the legislature and not for the courts.—Bosley v. McLaughlin, 236 U. S. 385, 59 L. Ed. 632, 35 Sup. Ct. 345.

14. Same—Pharmacists and student nurses—Invasion of right of contract.—The restriction of the hours of labor of women pharmacists and nurses in hospitals to eight hours a day or a maximum of forty-eight hours a week is not so palpably arbitrary as to be an unconstitutional invasion of the right of contract.—Bosley v. McLaughlin, 236 U. S. 385, 59 L. Ed. 632, 35 Sup. Ct. 345.

15. Same—Exception of graduate nurses.—The exception of graduate nurses from the operation of the statute is not so arbitrary as to render the act unconstitutional as denying the equal protection of the law.—Bosley v. McLaughlin, 236 U. S. 385, 59 L. Ed. 632, 35 Sup. Ct. 345.

This act related to the grounds of challenge of jurors in civil actions. Compare Kerr's Cyc. Code Civil Procedure, §§ 600, et seq., and 885.

LOG SCALING.

ACT 2064—An act providing for the scaling of logs in Humboldt county.

History: Approved March 30, 1878, Stats. 1877-78, p. 779.

This act was approved two days after the act passed by the same session of the legislature providing a standard for log scaling.—See Act 2569.

This act provided for the scaling of logs by the "quarter scale." As to the meaning of this method of scaling timber, see the court's opinion in Bullock v. Consumer's Lumber Co., 3 Cal. Unrep. 609, 31 Pac. 367.

DISPOSAL OF TOWN AND VILLAGE LOTS ON PUBLIC LANDS.

ACT 2071—An act to provide for the disposal of lots in the towns and villages on the public lands in the county of Humboldt.

History: Approved April 27, 1855, Stats. 1855, p. 168. Amended April 3, 1856, Stats. 1856, p. 75; April 24, 1857, Stats. 1857, p. 241; January 24, 1860, Stats. 1860, p. 5.

This act was passed to carry out the provisions of and to give effect to the federal statutes for the benefits of the occupants of such towns and villages.—Ricks v. Reed, 19 Cal. 551.

1. Constitutionality.—The legislation is both constitutional and wise and furnishes a proper method of giving protection to the rights of bona fide occupants, as distinguished from mere trespassers who have temporarily intruded upon the lots.—Ricks v. Reed, 19 Cal. 551; Ryan v. Tomlinson, 31 Cal. 11.

2. Jurisdiction of court not appellate.—The jurisdiction of conflicting claims under the act conferred upon the county court is not appellate but original, and is such jurisdiction as the legislature is authorized to confer upon such court under section 9, article VI of the constitution of 1849.—Ricks v. Reed, 19 Cal. 551; Ryan v. Tomlinson, 31 Cal. 11.

3. Trial, a "special case."—The trial of a conflicting claim under this act by the county court is a "special case."—Ricks v. Reed, 19 Cal. 551; Ryan v. Tomlinson, 31 Cal. 11.

4. Ground of jurisdiction.—The action of the board of trustees only became material as furnishing authority for the proceedings before the county court.—Ricks v. Reed, 19 Cal. 551; Ryan v. Tomlinson, 31 Cal. 11.

IMMIGRATION OF PERSONS INCOMPETENT TO BECOME CITIZENS.

ACT 2089—An act to discourage the immigration to this state of persons who can not become citizens.

History: Approved April 28, 1855, Stats. 1855, p. 194.

This act imposed a fine of fifty dollars on every immigrant incompetent to become a citizen. It was declared unconstitutional in People v. Downer, 7 Cal. 169.

IMMIGRATION AND HOUSING ACT OF 1913.

ACT 2090—An act relating to immigrants and immigration, creating a commission of immigration and housing, providing for the employment by said commission of a secretary, agents and other employees, authorizing said commission to fix their compensation, prescribing the duties of said commission, providing for the investigation by said commission of all things affecting immigrants, and for the care, protection and welfare of immigrants, and making an appropriation for the purpose of carrying out the provisions hereof.

History: Approved June 12, 1913. In effect August 10, 1913. Stats. 1913, p. 608. Amended (1) May 26, 1915, in effect August 8, 1915, Stats. 1915, p. 848; (2) May 31, 1917, in effect July 30, 1917, Stats. 1917, p. 1514.

Commissioners of immigration and housing.

§ 1. Within thirty days after this act shall go into effect, the governor of the state shall appoint five suitable persons to act as commissioners of immigration and housing. Said commissioners shall hold office and serve solely at the pleasure of the governor and not otherwise.

Compensation.

§ 2. Said commissioners shall serve without compensation, but shall be entitled to receive from the state their actual necessary expenses while traveling on the business of the commission, either within or without the state of California.

Organization of commission, seal, quorum, etc. Vacancy. Headquarters.

§ 3. The commission shall be known as the "commission of immigration and housing of California." It shall have a seal for the authentication of its orders and proceedings upon which shall be inscribed the words "commission of immigration and housing—California—seal." Each member of the commission, before entering upon the duties of his office, shall take the oath of office as prescribed by the Political Code for state officers in general, and must execute an official bond in the sum of five thousand dollars. Within thirty days after appointment, the commission shall meet at the state capitol and organize, selecting a president, a vice-president and a secretary. A majority of the commission shall constitute a quorum for the exercise of the powers or authority conferred upon it. Whenever a vacancy occurs in the commission, from any cause whatsoever, such vacancy shall be filled by the governor, as provided in section one for the original creation of the commission. In case of a vacancy, the remaining members shall exercise all the powers and authority of the commission until such vacancy is filled. The commission shall maintain its headquarters and principal office in the city and county of San Francisco, and may establish branch offices at any place or places which in the judgment of the commission may be deemed advisable. The commission may, however, hold sessions at any place other than its offices when the convenience of the commission and the parties interested so requires.

Employees.

§ 4. For the purpose of carrying out the provisions of this act, the said commission is authorized to employ such expert and other employees as it may deem necessary, and upon such terms and for such compensation as it may deem proper. The said commission shall have power to enter into contracts of employment with such persons as it may desire to employ for a definite period of time; but no contract shall be made for more than one year. The employees of the commission shall be entitled to receive from the state their actual necessary expenses while traveling on the business of the commission, either within or without the state of California.

Powers and duties of commission. Employment bureaus.

§ 5. The commission of immigration and housing shall have the power to make full inquiry, examination and investigation into the condition, welfare and industrial opportunities of all immigrants arriving and being within the state. The commission shall also gather information as to the agricultural possibilities and opportunities for settlement on land within the state; such information to include soil and agricultural surveys of the arable land within the state and other data relating to the price and productivity of land. The commission shall also have power to collect information with respect to the need and demand for labor by the several agricultural, industrial and other productive activities, including public works, within the state; to gather information with respect to the supply of labor afforded by such immigrants as they shall from time to time arrive or be within the state; to ascertain the occupations for which such immigrants shall be best adapted, and to bring about intercommunication between them and the several activities requiring labor which will best promote their respective needs; to investigate and determine the genuineness of any application for labor that may be received and the treatment accorded to those for whom employment shall be secured; to co-operate with the state employment bureaus, municipal employment bureaus, and with private employment agencies within the state, and also with the employment and immigration bureaus conducted under the authority of the federal government or by the government of any other state, and with public and philanthropic agencies designed to aid in the distribution and employment of immigrants; and to devise and carry out such other suitable methods as will tend to prevent or relieve congestion and obviate unemployment; and to collect and publish, in English or foreign languages, for distribution among immigrants, in, or embarked for, California, such information as is deemed essential to their protection, distribution, education and welfare; and said commission is hereby empowered and authorized to have printed by the state printer any such reports or information, records or proceedings as it may deem necessary or proper; and if for any reason the state printer is not equipped to do any part of said work, then the said commission shall have the right and the authority to have the same done elsewhere upon such terms and conditions as it may deem proper.

Co-operation with federal, etc., authorities. Children of school age. Instruction in English. Playgrounds.

§ 6. The commission shall co-operate with the proper authorities and organizations, federal, state, county, municipal and private, with the object in view of bringing to the immigrant the best opportunities for acquiring education and citizenship. To that end it shall procure from, or with the consent of, the federal authorities, complete lists giving the names, ages and destination within the state of all immigrant children of school age, and such other facts as will tend to identify them, and shall forthwith deliver copies of such lists to the superintendent of public instruction or the several boards of education and school boards in the respective localities within the state to which said children shall be destined, to aid in the enforcement of the provisions of the education law relative to the compulsory attendance at school of children of school age. The commission shall further co-operate with the superintendent of public instruction and with the several boards of education in the state to ascertain the necessity for and the extent to which instruction should be imparted to immigrants within the state and to devise methods for the proper instruction of adult and minor aliens in the English language and other subjects; and in respect to the duties and rights of citizenship and the fundamental principles of the American system of government; and shall co-operate with the proper authorities and with private agencies to put into operation practical devices for training for citizenship and for encouraging naturalization. It shall be the aim to communicate this instruction to the immigrant as soon after his arrival as is practicable. The commission shall co-operate with the proper authorities to extend this education for both children and adults to labor camps and other localities from which the regular schools are not easily accessible. The commission in co-operation with the proper authorities and organizations shall encourage the establishment of playgrounds and other recreational activities, and also the establishment of settlements and social centers in cities and towns.

Inspection of labor camps, etc. Housing conditions. Ticket agents. Aid societies.

§ 7. With the object in view of rendering to the immigrant that protection to which they are entitled, the commission of immigration and housing may inspect all labor camps within the state, and may inspect all employment and contract agencies dealing with immigrants or who secure or negotiate contracts for their employment within the state; may investigate the banking relations that exist between immigrants and laborers; may investigate and inspect institutions established for the temporary shelter and care of immigrants and such philanthropic societies as shall be organized for the purpose of securing employment for or aiding in the distribution of immigrants, and the methods by which they are conducted; and shall investigate housing conditions under which immigrants live, and sanitary and safety conditions under which immigrants are employed; it shall further investigate conditions prevailing at the various places where immigrants are landed within the state and at the several docks, ferries, railway stations, and on trains and boats therein, and shall investigate any and all complaints with respect to frauds, extortion, incompetency and improper practices by notaries public and other public officials; it shall further investigate the relations existing between immigrants and steamship and railway ticket agents, hotel runners, cabmen, baggage-men, interpreters and pawn-brokers; it shall further investigate the dealings carried on between immigrants and real estate firms or corporations; and as the result of any of the above inspections or investigations, if it should find evidences of fraud, crime, extortion, incompetency, improper practices or exploitation, it shall be the duty of the commission of immigration and housing to present to the proper authorities the evidences for action thereon, and shall bring to bear all the authority within its power to see that justice is rendered. The commission shall also encourage the establishment of legal aid societies.

Violations of law. Remedial action. Right to enter tenements, etc.

§ 8. With the further object in view of bringing to the immigrant the best protection the state can afford, it shall be the duty of the commission to call to the attention of the proper authorities any violations it may discover of the laws pertaining to the payment of wages, to the mode of paying, pertaining to the child labor laws, the employment of women, factory inspection laws, weekly day of rest laws, protection of labor under building laws, protection of labor under public works laws, laws relating to the white slave traffic, and laws of the state and county and municipal health departments; the tenement house laws, and other laws pertaining to housing conditions. The commission shall investigate and study the general economic, housing and social conditions of immigrants within the state, for the purpose of inducing remedial action by the various agencies of the state possessing requisite jurisdiction; and shall generally, in conjunction with existing public and private agencies, consider and devise means to promote the welfare of the state. The members of the commission of immigration and housing or any of their authorized agents shall have the right to enter into tenement houses, buildings and dwelling places for the purpose of inspecting such houses, buildings, and dwelling places to secure compliance with state tenement and building acts and municipal building ordinances and to prevent violation thereof, and shall have the right to examine the records of the various city departments charged with the enforcement of the tenement house law and other building regulations and to secure from them reports and copies of their records at any time.

Information from state officials, etc. Evidence may be gathered.

§ 9. The commission shall have the right to demand of all officials, state, county and municipal, and it shall be the duty of said officials to supply, such information and references to records as will enable the commission to carry into effect the provisions and intent of this act; and shall have the right to enter upon private property to make investigation for the purposes of carrying out the provisions of this act. For the purpose of carrying out fully the intent and spirit of this act, the said commission shall have full power and authority to gather any and all such evidence as it may deem proper and necessary in order to present the same to the proper authorities for the purpose of instituting prosecutions against any and all persons, firms or corporations found violating any of the laws of any municipality, county or of the state or of the federal government, concerning any of the matters in this act referred to.

Hearings. Commission may subpoena witnesses.

§ 10. For the purpose of carrying out to the fullest extent the provisions hereof, the said commission or any member thereof shall have power to hold hearings for the purpose of investigation or inquiry, and for the purpose of reaching an amicable settlement of controversies existing between persons, firms, and corporations mentioned herein; and to this end and purpose, the said commissioners and each of them and such person as may be designated in writing by said commission, are hereby authorized and empowered to subpoena witnesses to appear at such hearings and to administer oaths. No decision shall be termed to be final until ratified and approved by the said commission and filed in its office. [Amendment of May 26, 1915. In effect August 8, 1915. Stats. 1915, p. 848.]

Definitions.

§ 11. For the purposes of this act, the words immigrant and immigration shall refer to any alien who is within the state, either permanently or temporarily domiciled here, or in transit, or passing through the state to a contiguous state or territory; said words shall further refer to any alien who may first have taken up residence in some other state or in one of the federal territorial possessions, and then shall have removed to this state; said words shall further refer to all aliens coming to and being within the state of California. For the purpose of this act, the word alien shall refer to all persons who are not native born or who have not received their final citizenship papers under the naturalization laws of the United States.

Immigration not encouraged.

§ 12. This act shall not be construed to authorize or direct the commission of immigration and housing to induce or encourage immigration into this state or the United States.

Annual report.

§ 13. The commission of immigration and housing shall make an annual report to the governor, on the second day of January, of the operation of the commission.

Appropriation.

§ 14. The sum of fifty thousand dollars is hereby appropriated out of any moneys in the state treasury not otherwise appropriated, for the purpose of carrying out the provisions of this act; and the state controller is hereby authorized and directed to draw warrants upon such sum, from time to time, upon the requisition of said commission, approved by the board of control; and the state treasurer is hereby authorized and directed to pay such warrants.

Immigration and housing commission to promote city planning.

§ 15. The commission may make investigations of the housing of immigrants and working people and of city planning in California and elsewhere, may encourage the creation of local city planning commissions and may furnish information as to the progress of other cities for the use of such commissions. It may investigate and report upon defective housing and the evils resulting therefrom and the work being done to remedy the same in California and elsewhere. It may make studies of the operation and enforcement of building and tenement house laws, of housing finances and taxes, of zoning and districting regulations and may promote the formation of organizations intended to increase the supply of wholesome homes for the people, and aid in the enforcement of any laws enacted to promote the purposes for which the commission is established. [New section added May 31, 1917. In effect July 30, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 1515.]

Annual report of city planning commissions. Conference. City planners.

§ 16. It shall be the duty of each and every city planning commission or housing commission of any incorporated city or town in the state of California to file on the first day of June of each year with the secretary of the commission of immigration and housing of California a complete report of its transactions and recommendations to any municipal organization or private person or corporation during the previous year, and particularly to report any conflict in authority, lack of co-operation with local municipal authorities or with adjoining cities, with recommendations for needed legislation to properly carry on the development of their housing and city planning work. The commission may annually, or oftener, call a conference of representatives of these commissions, of local health officers, housing inspectors, building inspectors or such other municipal officers as it shall deem advisable to carry out the purposes of this act. The commission may employ city planners and other persons whose salaries, wages and other necessary expenses of the commission will be provided for out of the funds at the disposal of the commission. [New section added May 31, 1917. In effect July 30, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 1515.]

Annual report. Information furnished.

§ 17. The commission may make an annual report on housing and city planning to the governor, which the state printer shall cause to be printed as a public document, and copies of this report shall be filed with each and every local housing and city planning commission in the state of California. The commission is further authorized to furnish information and suggestions from time to time to city governments, housing and city planning commissions and other public, semi-public or private bodies such as may, in its judgment, tend to promote the purposes for which the commission is established. [New section added May 31, 1917. In effect July 30, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 1515.]

IMMIGRANT DISEMBARKING ZONES.

ACT 2091—An act providing for the establishment by the commission of immigration and housing of California of zones or areas on docks where immigrants are landed; prescribing the powers and duties of the said commission with regard thereto; and providing a penalty for violation of the provisions hereof.

History: Approved May 29, 1915. In effect August 8, 1915. Stats. 1915, p. 926.

Areas on docks where immigrants land.

§ 1. At any place within the state where immigrant aliens are landed from ships on land or docks owned and controlled by the state of California the commission of immigration and housing of California may establish and mark out or fence off on such land or docks a zone or an area around the spot where said immigrants disembark, into which zone or area no person shall be admitted at times when immigrant aliens are being landed or are about to be landed, without a license or permit from said commission, unless he be an officer or a member of the crew of a vessel landing at such spot or a bona fide passenger on such vessel.

State may co-operate with U. S., cities, etc.

§ 2. The commission of immigration and housing of California may also co-operate with the officials of the United States government, or with the officials of any county or city, or with any private person, firm, or corporation, in establishing and conducting zones or areas, as provided in section one hereof, on land or docks owned or controlled by the United States, or any such county or city, or by any such private person, firm, or corporation.

Size of area.

§ 3. The zone or area mentioned in sections one and two hereof must in no case be larger than is reasonably necessary for the disembarking, assembling and distributing of the passengers landed in such zone or area.

§ 4. Any person who acts in violation of the provisions of this act shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

GOVERNMENT AND PROTECTION OF INDIANS.

ACT 2095—An act for the government and protection of Indians.

History: Passed April 22, 1850, Stats. 1850, p. 408. Amended (1) April 28, 1855, Stats. 1855, p. 179; (2) April 18, 1860, Stats. 1860, p. 196; (3) April 27, 1863, Stats. 1863, p. 743; (4) April 27, 1863, Stats. 1863, p. 755.

Some provisions of this act were repealed by later inconsistent statutes: People v. Antonio, 27 Cal. 404. Other provisions were undoubtedly repealed by the codes. It is probably not in force in any particular. (Code commissioners' note). In the absence of direct legislation, it is deemed advisable to call attention to it.

This act was obviously intended to be applied to Indians in tribes or when living in separate communities or companies, and not to a case where an Indian has been living for years among white men.—People v. Antonio, 27 Cal. 104.

GRANT OF LANDS IN INDIAN RESERVATIONS TO THE UNITED STATES.

ACT 2097—An act granting certain lands to the United States.

History: Approved May 14, 1862, Stats. 1862, p. 552.

INTERFERENCE WITH INDIAN AGENTS.

ACT 2098—An act to aid officers in the Indian department, appointed by the general government for the state of California, in the discharge of their duties.

History: Approved April 21, 1856, Stats. 1856, p. 223. Amended April 9, 1857, Stats. 1857, p. 186.

Code commissioner's note: "The above-named statute is mentioned by the code commissioners at § 1346 without anything to indicate that they suppose it to be repealed by any of the codes. If, however, as is indicated by the note to § 6 of the Penal Code, that section was intended to enumerate every act or omission made punishable, then this statute must have been substantially, if not absolutely, repealed by that code."

ABOLISHING INDUSTRIAL ACCIDENT BOARD AND CONFERRING POWERS ON INDUSTRIAL ACCIDENT COMMISSION.

ACT 2101—An act to confer upon the industrial accident commission all of the duties, liabilities, authority, powers and privileges conferred and imposed by law upon the industrial accident board, abolishing the industrial accident board and providing for a transfer of its funds to the credit of the industrial accident commission. [Approved June 16, 1913. Stats. 1913, p. 950. In effect August 10, 1913.]

Certificate of industrial accident commission.

§ 1. Upon the organization of the industrial accident commission, the commission shall file in the office of the secretary of state its certificate setting forth that the commission has been organized as provided by law.

To succeed industrial accident board.

§ 2. Upon the filing of the certificate required by section one hereof, the industrial accident commission shall supersede the industrial accident board and all duties, liabilities, authority, powers, and privileges conferred and imposed by law upon the industrial accident board shall thereupon devolve upon the industrial accident commission and shall thereafter be exercised and performed by the industrial accident commission in the same manner and with the same force and effect as if exercised and performed by the industrial accident board, and the said industrial accident board shall thereupon cease to exist.

Unexpended balances.

§ 3. Upon the filing of the certificate required by section one hereof, all unexpended balances of moneys appropriated by law for the support, maintenance or use of the industrial accident board shall be placed to the credit of the industrial accident commission by the state controller and the controller is hereby authorized to draw his warrant from time to time in favor of the industrial accident commission for the amount of such unexpended balance expended under its direction, and the treasurer is hereby authorized and directed to pay the same.

ESTABLISHING AND DEFINING JURISDICTION OF COMMISSION.

ACT 2101a—An act establishing and defining the jurisdiction of the industrial accident commission of the state of California and of the railroad commission of the state of California over the safety of employees of public utilities.

History: Approved May 9, 1917. In effect July 27, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 296.

Jurisdiction of industrial accident commission over safety of employees of public utilities.

§ 1. The industrial accident commission of the state of California is hereby vested with jurisdiction, as provided in the workmen's compensation, insurance and safety act of one thousand nine hundred seventeen, and acts amendatory thereof, subject to the provisions of section three hereof, over the safety of employees of steam railroads employed in shops devoted to the construction or repair of railroad equipment; the safety of employees of electric interurban or street railroads, employed in the generation, transmission or distribution of electric energy, or in shops devoted to the repair of railroad equipment, or in any nonpublic utility operation of such railroads; and the safety of employees of all other public utilities as such utilities are defined in the public utilities act.

Jurisdiction of railroad commission not affected.

§ 2. The jurisdiction vested in the industrial accident commission of the state of California by section one hereof shall in no instance, except those affecting exclusively the safety of employees, be construed to impair, diminish or in any way affect the jurisdiction of the railroad commission of the state of California over the construction, reconstruction, replacement, maintenance or operation of the properties of public utilities as defined in the public utilities act, or over any matter affecting the relationship between such public utilities and their customers or the general public.

Power of railroad commission.

§ 3. If the industrial accident commission, in the exercise of the authority and jurisdiction conferred by this act, makes or issues any order, decision, ruling or direction, which, in the judgment of the railroad commission, unduly and prejudicially interferes with the construction or operation of any public utility affected thereby, or with the public, or with a consumer or other patron of a public utility affected thereby, the railroad commission, of its own motion, or upon application of any utility or person so affected, may suspend, modify, alter, or annul such order, decision, ruling or direction of the industrial accident commission, and the action of the railroad commission in that regard shall supersede and control the order, decision, ruling or direction of the industrial accident commission previously made in the premises.

Act of April 22, 1911, unaffected.

§ 4. This act shall not be construed to repeal or modify the act entitled "An act regulating the placing, erection, use and maintenance of electric poles, wires, cables and appliances, and providing the punishment for the violation thereof," approved April 22, 1911, as amended.

"INDUSTRIAL ACCIDENT FUND."

ACT 2102—An act creating an "industrial accident fund" and appropriating moneys therein.

History: Approved May 26, 1913. In effect August 10, 1913. Stats. 1913, p. 326.

"Industrial accident fund" created.

§ 1. There is hereby created and established a fund to be known as the "industrial accident fund" into which shall be paid all fees collected by the industrial accident commission and all moneys received by it for transcripts of testimony, certified copies of records and all other moneys received by it and not otherwise provided for, which said fund shall be a revolving fund.

Appropriation of moneys for use of commission.

§ 2. All moneys which are paid into the state treasury for the credit of said fund are hereby appropriated to be used by the industrial accident commission for its contingent expenses, and the controller is hereby directed to draw his warrants on said fund, from time to time, in favor of said commission for the amounts expended under its direction for such purposes, and the treasurer is hereby authorized and directed to pay the same.

"ACCIDENT PREVENTION FUND."

ACT 2103—An act appropriating moneys in the "accident prevention fund" for the purpose of enforcing and promoting safety in employment and places of employment.

History: Approved May 26, 1913. In effect August 10, 1913. Stats. 1913, p. 325.

"Accident prevention fund" for enforcing laws.

§ 1. All moneys which are paid into the state treasury for the credit of the "accident prevention fund" are hereby appropriated to be used by the industrial accident commission for the enforcement of the laws relative to safety in employment and places of employment and for the promotion of such safety, and the controller is hereby directed to draw his warrants on said fund, from time to time, in favor of the industrial accident commission for the amounts expended under its direction for such purposes, and the treasurer is hereby authorized and directed to pay the same.

See Act 2781, § 51.

STATISTICS AS TO INDUSTRIAL ACCIDENTS.

ACT 2104—An act imposing additional duties and conferring additional powers upon the industrial accident board, requiring certain statistical information, fixing a penalty for neglect or refusal to give such information to said board on request, requiring said board to report to the governor and authorizing it to give publicity to the results of its researches and investigations and empowering said board to expend in carrying out the requirements of this act a sum not to exceed fifteen thousand dollars out of the funds heretofore appropriated for carrying out the purposes of an act entitled "An act relating to the liability of employers for injuries or death sustained by their employees, providing for compensation for the accidental injury of employees, establishing an industrial accident board, making an appropriation therefor, defining its powers and providing for a review of its awards, approved April 8, 1911."

History: Approved January 2, 1912, Stats. 1912 (ex. sess.), p. 166.

Collection of statistics in regard to industrial accidents.

§ 1. It shall be the duty of the industrial accident board to collect and compile statistics in regard to industrial accidents happening in this state resulting in personal injury and the cost and probable causes thereof, to investigate methods and devices for the prevention of such accidents, to investigate the comparative merits and relative cost of the various forms of insurance against liability and compensation for personal injuries resulting from industrial accidents.

Duty of employers and insurance companies to furnish information. Industrial accident board not to divulge information without consent.

§ 2. It shall be the duty of every employer of labor and of persons, firms, associations or corporations insuring against liability of employers for damages or compensation for personal injuries to employees by industrial accidents to furnish to the industrial accident board, upon the written request of a member thereof or an examiner appointed thereby, any and all information in his or its possession or under his or its control, pertinent to any of the matters referred to in the preceding section of this act. It shall be unlawful for the said board, or any member thereof, or any examiner appointed thereby, to divulge any information obtained from any employer of labor, or from any person, firm, association or corporation insuring against liability or compensation for industrial accidents, without the written consent of such employer, and of such person, firm, association or corporation; and any member of the said board, or any examiner appointed thereby who violates the provisions of this section of this act, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and for each and every such violation shall be, upon conviction thereof, punishable by a fine of not less than ten dollars ($10) or more than one hundred dollars ($100) or by imprisonment for not more than thirty (30) days, or by both such fine and imprisonment; and any information so obtained shall not be used against any such employer, person, firm, association or corporation, in any action brought against such employer, person, firm, association or corporation without the written consent of such employer, person, firm, association or corporation; provided, however, that this section shall not prevent the industrial accident board from making and publishing the results of its investigations and researches as provided in sections 5 and 6 of this act.

Authority to enter places of employment.

§ 3. Any member of the said board of examiners appointed thereby may, during reasonable business hours, enter any place of employment for the purpose of collecting facts and statistics and examining the provisions made for the safety and welfare of the employees therein.

Penalty for failure to comply with act.

§ 4. It shall be unlawful for any person, firm, corporation, agent or officer of a firm or corporation to fail, neglect or refuse to comply with any of the foregoing provisions of this act. Any person, firm, corporation, agent or officer of a firm or corporation that knowingly violates or omits to comply with any of the provisions of this act, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor for each and every offense and shall be, upon conviction thereof, punishable by a fine of not more than ten dollars.

Report for year 1912.

§ 5. The industrial accident board shall report the results of its investigations covering the calendar year of 1912 to the governor of the state not later than February 1, 1913.

Authority to publish statistics.

§ 6. The industrial accident board is authorized and empowered to make public and publish at such times and in such manner as it deems best, the results of its investigations and researches together with all such other information in relation to the liability of employers for damages or compensation for personal injuries to their employees as it may deem essential to fully acquaint the people of the state with the present law and its purpose and operation.

Funds for use of board.

§ 7. The industrial accident board is hereby authorized to draw upon and expend for the purposes set forth in this act a sum not in excess of fifteen thousand dollars the same to be paid out of the sum of fifty thousand dollars appropriated for the use of said board under section 29 of an act entitled "An act relating to the liability of employers for injuries or death sustained by their employees, establishing an industrial accident board, making appropriation therefor, defining its powers and providing for a review of its awards, approved April 8, 1911," and the controller is hereby directed to draw his warrants in favor of said board for sums so expended when duly audited and approved by the state board of control, and the treasurer is hereby authorized and directed to pay the same.

"STATE COMPENSATION INSURANCE FUND"—APPROPRIATION.

ACT 2105—An act appropriating moneys for the use of the state compensation insurance fund.

History: Approved May 26, 1913. In effect August 10, 1913. Stats. 1913, p. 326.

Appropriation: compensation insurance fund.

§ 1. The sum of one hundred thousand dollars is hereby appropriated out of any moneys in the state treasury not otherwise appropriated, to be credited to the "state compensation insurance fund" and to be used by the industrial accident commission in the manner authorized by law for the use of said fund.

Transfer to state compensation insurance fund.

§ 2. The state controller and the state treasurer are hereby authorized and directed to transfer said sum of one hundred thousand dollars from the general fund of the state to the "state compensation insurance fund."

"BOYNTON ACT," "WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION, INSURANCE AND SAFETY ACT" OF 1913—ADMINISTRATIVE.

ACT 2106—An act to promote the general welfare of the people of this state as affected by accident causing the injury or death of employees in the course of their employment, by creating a liability on the part of employers to compensate such employees and their dependents for such accidental injury or death irrespective of the fault of either party, and providing the means and methods of enforcing such liability; and creating a "state compensation insurance fund" to insure employers against such liability and providing for its administration and regulating such insurance by other insurance carriers; and requiring safety in all employments and places of employment in this state and providing the means and methods of enforcing such safety; and requiring reports of industrial accidents; and providing penalties for offenses by employers, their officers, agents, and by employees and other persons and corporations; and creating an industrial accident commission, providing for its organization, defining its powers and duties and providing for a review of its orders, decisions and awards; and appropriating moneys to carry out the provisions of this act; and repealing all acts and parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act.

History: Approved May 26, 1913. In effect January 1, 1914. Stats. 1913, p. 279. Amended (1) May 27, 1915, in effect August 8, 1915; Stats. 1915, p. 913; (2) June 3, 1915, in effect August 8, 1915, Stats. 1915, p. 1079; (3) June 8, 1915, in effect August 8, 1915, Stats. 1915, p. 1302; (4) May 23, 1917, in effect January 1, 1918, Stats. 1917, p. 831. The effect of the amendment of 1917 (see Act 2781) was to separate the compensation, insurance and safety provisions of the original "Boynton Act" from the administrative features of that act, continue the act, as to those features in force, and enact a new act with the compensation, insurance and safety provisions. The latter act is Act 2781 in the chapter on "Master and Servant." Prior act of April 8, 1911, Stats. 1911, p. 796, commonly known as the "Roseberry Act," in force from September 1, 1911, to January 1, 1914, was repealed by the general repealing clause of the present act.

§ 1. This act shall be known, and may be cited, as the “workmen’s compensation, insurance and safety act” and shall apply to the subjects mentioned in its title.

Failure on the part of the legislature to repeal this section, or to amend it leaves two acts with the same title on the statute books, except that the act of 1917, containing the compensation insurance and safety features of the legislation, is designated the “Workmen’s compensation, insurance and safety act of 1917.”

Definitions.

This section became section 3 of the act of 1917. See Act 2781.

Industrial accident commission created. Salary.

§ 3. There is hereby created a board to consist of three members who shall be appointed by the governor from the state at large and which shall be known as the “industrial accident commission” and shall have the powers, duties and functions hereinafter conferred. Within thirty days prior to the first day of January, 1914, the governor shall appoint the three members of said commission, one for the term of two years, one for the term of three years and one for the term of four years. Thereafter, the term of office of each commissioner shall be four years. Vacancies shall be filled by appointment in the same manner for the unexpired term. Each commissioner shall receive an annual salary of five thousand dollars. Each commissioner shall, before entering upon the duties of his office, take and subscribe the constitutional oath of office.

Organization of commission. Majority rules.

§ 4. The commission shall organize by choosing one of its members as chairman. A majority of the commission shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of any business, for the performance of any duty, or for the exercise of any power or authority of the commission. A vacancy on the commission shall not impair the right of the remaining members to perform all the duties and exercise all the power and authority of the commission. The act of the majority of the commission, when in session as a commission, shall be deemed to be the act of the commission, but any investigation, inquiry or hearing, which the commission has power to undertake or to hold, may be undertaken or held by or before any member thereof or any referee appointed by the commission for the purpose, and every finding, order, decision, or award made by any commissioner or referee, pursuant to such investigation, inquiry or hearing, when approved and confirmed by the commission and ordered filed in its office, shall be deemed to be the finding, order, decision or award of the commission.

Seal.

§ 5. The commission shall have a seal, bearing the following inscription: "Industrial accident commission state of California, seal." The seal shall be affixed to all writs and authentications of copies of records and to such other instruments as the commission shall direct. All courts shall take judicial notice of said seal.

Office in San Francisco.

§ 6. The commission shall keep its principal office in the city and county of San Francisco, and shall also keep an office in the city of Los Angeles, and shall provide itself with suitable rooms, necessary office furniture, stationery and other supplies. For the purpose of holding sessions in other places, the commission shall have power to rent temporary quarters.

Appointees.

§ 7. The commission shall have full power and authority:

Attorney.

(1) To appoint as its attorney an attorney-at-law of this state, who shall hold office at the pleasure of the commission. It shall be the right and the duty of the attorney to represent and appear for the people of the state of California and the commission in all actions and proceedings involving any question under this act or under any order or act of the commission and, if directed so to do by the commission, to intervene, if possible, in any action or proceeding in which any such question is involved; to commence, prosecute and expedite the final determination of all actions or proceedings, civil or criminal, directed or authorized by the commission; to advise the commission and each member thereof, when so requested, in regard to all matters in connection with the jurisdiction, powers or duties of the commission and members thereof; and generally to perform all duties and service as attorney to the commission which may be required of him.

Secretary.

(2) To appoint, and it shall appoint, a secretary, who shall hold office at the pleasure of the commission. It shall be the duty of the secretary to keep a full and true record of all the proceedings of the commission, to issue all necessary processes, writs, warrants and notices which the commission is required or authorized to issue, and generally to perform such other duties as the commission may prescribe. The commission may also appoint such assistant secretaries as may be necessary and such assistant secretaries may perform any duty of the secretary, when so directed by the commission.

Manager of insurance fund. Bond.

(3) To appoint a manager of the state compensation insurance fund who shall hold office at the pleasure of the commission. It shall be the duty of such manager to manage, supervise and conduct, subject to the general direction and approval of the commission, the business and affairs of the state compensation insurance fund and to perform such other duties as the commission may prescribe. Before entering on the duties of his office, he must give an official bond in the sum of $50,000, and take and subscribe to an official oath. Said bond must be approved by the commission, by written endorsement thereon, and be filed in the office of the secretary of state.

Superintendent of safety.

(4) To appoint a superintendent of the department of safety, who shall hold office at the pleasure of the commission and who shall perform such duties as the commission shall prescribe.

Other employees.

(5) To employ such other assistants, officers, experts, statisticians, actuaries, accountants, inspectors, referees and other employees, as it may deem necessary to carry out the provisions of this act, or to perform the duties and exercise the powers conferred by law upon the commission.

Assistant attorney provided for by section 4 of the act of 1917. See Act 2781.

Compensation of employees. Expenses.

§ 8. All officers and employees of the commission shall receive such compensation for their services as may be fixed by the commission and shall hold office at the pleasure of the commission and shall perform such duties as are imposed on them by law or by the commission. The salaries of the members of the commission, its attorney, secretary and assistant secretary, as fixed by law or the commission, shall be paid in the same manner as are the salaries of other state officers. The salary or compensation of every other person holding office or employment under the commission, as fixed by law or by the commission, shall be paid monthly, after being approved by the commission, upon claims therefor to be audited by the state board of control. All expenses incurred by the commission pursuant to the provisions of this act, including the actual and necessary traveling and other expenses and disbursements of the members thereof, its officers and employees, incurred while on business of the commission, either within or without the state, shall, unless otherwise provided in this act, be paid from the funds appropriated for the use of the commission, after being approved by the commission, upon claims therefor to be audited by the board of control; provided, however, that no such expenses incurred outside of the state shall be allowed unless prior authorization therefor be obtained from the board of control.

Departmental expenses.

§ 9. In all cases in which salaries, expenses or outgoings of one department under the jurisdiction of the commission are expended in whole or in part on behalf of another department the commission may apportion the same between such departments.

Blank forms. Minute book.

§ 10. The commission shall cause to be printed and furnished free of charge to any employer or employee, or other person, such blank forms as it shall deem requisite to facilitate or promote the efficient administration of this act; it shall provide a book in which shall be entered the minutes of all its proceedings, a book in which shall be recorded all awards made by the commission and such other books or records as it shall deem requisite for the proper and efficient administration of this act; all such records to be kept in the office of the commission.

Powers.

§ 11. The commission shall also have power and authority:

Fees.

(1) To charge and collect the following fees: for copies of papers and records not required to be certified or otherwise authenticated by the commission, ten cents for each folio; for certified copies of official documents and orders filed in its office or of the evidence taken on proceedings had, fifteen cents for each folio.

Reports.

(2) To publish and distribute in its discretion from time to time, in addition to its annual report to the governor of the state, such further reports and pamphlets covering its operations, proceedings and matters relative to its work as it may deem advisable.

Charges.

(3) To fix and collect reasonable charges for publications issued under its authority.

Fees paid into fund.

(4) The fees charged and collected under this section shall be paid monthly into the treasury of the state to the credit of the "industrial accident fund" and shall be accompanied by a detailed statement thereof.

When liability exists against employer.

“State compensation insurance fund” created.

§ 36. There is hereby created and established a fund to be known as the “state compensation insurance fund,” to be administered by the industrial accident commission of the state, without liability on the part of the state beyond the amount of said fund, for the purpose of insuring employers against liability for compensation under this act, and against the expense of defending any suit for damages under the optional provisions of section twelve hereof (subdivision b), and insuring to employees and other persons the compensation fixed by this act for employees and their dependents. [Amendment of June 3, 1915. In effect August 8, 1915. Stats. 1915, p. 1097.]

See section 32 of the act of 1917, Act 2781.

Revolving fund.

§ 37. (a) The state compensation insurance fund shall be a revolving fund and shall consist of such specific appropriations as the legislature may from time to time make or set aside for the use of such fund, all premiums received and paid into the said fund for compensation insurance issued, all property and securities acquired by and through the use of moneys belonging to said fund and all interest earned upon moneys belonging to said fund and deposited or invested, as herein provided.

Charges against fund.

(b) Said fund shall be applicable to the payment of losses sustained on account of insurance and to the payment of the salaries and other expenses to be charged against said fund in accordance with the provisions contained in this act.

Self-supporting. Dividend for renewals.

(c) Said fund shall, after a reasonable time during which it may establish a business, be fairly competitive with other insurance carriers, and it is the intent of the legislature that said fund shall ultimately become neither more nor less than self-supporting. In order that the state compensation insurance fund shall ultimately become neither more nor less than self-supporting, the actual loss experience and expense of the fund shall be ascertained on or about the first of January in each year for the year preceding, and should it then be shown that there exists an excess of assets over liabilities, such liabilities to include the necessary reserves, and a reasonable surplus for the catastrophe hazard, then, in the discretion of the commission, a cash dividend shall be declared to, or a credit allowed on the renewal premium of each employer who has been insured with the fund, such cash dividend or credit to be such an amount to which, as in the discretion of the commission, such employer may be entitled as the employer's proportion of divisible surplus. [Amendment of June 3, 1915. In effect August 8, 1915. Stats. 1915, p. 1097.]

Commission vested with full power over fund.

§ 38. (a) The commission is hereby vested with full power, authority and jurisdiction over the state compensation insurance fund and may do and perform any and all things whether herein specifically designated, or in addition thereto, which are necessary or convenient in the exercise of any power, authority or jurisdiction over said fund in the administration thereof, or in connection with the insurance business to be carried on by it under the provisions of this act, as fully and completely as the governing body of a private insurance carrier might or could do.

To fix rates.

(b) The commission shall have full power and authority, and it shall be its duty, to fix and determine the rates to be charged by the state compensation insurance fund for compensation insurance, and to manage and conduct all business and affairs in relation thereto, all of which business and affairs shall be conducted in the name of the state compensation insurance fund, and in that name, without any other name or title, the commission may:

Powers of commission.

(1) Sue and be sued in all the courts of the state in all actions arising out of any act, deed, matter or thing made, omitted, entered into, done, or suffered in connection with the state compensation insurance fund, the administration, management or conduct of the business or affairs relating thereto.

(2) Make and enter into contracts of insurance as herein provided, and such other contracts or obligations relating to the state compensation insurance fund as are authorized or permitted under the provisions of this act.

(3) Invest and reinvest the moneys belonging to said fund as hereinafter provided.

(4) Conduct all business and affairs, relating to the state compensation insurance fund, whether herein specifically designated or in addition thereto.

May delegate powers.

(c) The commission may delegate to the manager of the state compensation insurance fund, or to any other officer, under such rules and regulations and subject to such conditions as it may from time to time prescribe, any of the powers, functions or duties, conferred or imposed on the commission under the provisions of this act in connection with the state compensation insurance fund, the administration, management and conduct of the business and affairs relating thereto, and the officer or officers to whom such delegation is made may exercise the powers and functions and perform the duties delegated with the same force and effect as the commission, but subject to its approval.

Not liable personally.

(d) This commission shall not, nor shall any commissioner, officer or employee thereof, be personally liable in his private capacity for or on account of any act performed or contract or other obligation entered into or undertaken in an official capacity, in good faith and without intent to defraud, in connection with the administration, management or conduct of the state compensation insurance fund, its business or other affairs relating thereto.

Powers of insurance fund manager.

§ 39. In conducting the business and affairs of the state compensation insurance fund, the manager of the said fund or other officer to whom such power and authority may be delegated by the commission, as provided by subsection (c) of section thirty-eight hereof, shall have full power and authority:

(1) To enter into contracts of insurance, insuring employers against liability for compensation and insuring to employees and other persons the compensation fixed by this act.

(2) To sell annuities covering compensation benefits.

(3) To decline to insure any risk in which the minimum requirements of the commission with regard to construction, equipment and operation are not observed, or which is beyond the safe carrying of the state compensation insurance fund, but shall not have power or authority, except as otherwise provided in this subdivision, to refuse to insure any compensation risk tendered with the premium therefor.

(4) To reinsure any risk or any part thereof.

(5) To inspect and audit, or cause to be inspected and audited the pay-rolls of employers applying for insurance against liability for compensation.

(6) To make rules and regulations for the settlement of claims against said fund and to determine to whom and through whom the payments of compensation are to be made.

(7) To contract with physicians, surgeons and hospitals for medical and surgical treatment and the care and nursing of injured persons entitled to benefits from said fund.

Rates for compensation insurance.

§ 40. (a) It shall be the duty of the commission to fix and determine the rates to be charged by the state compensation insurance fund for compensation insurance coverage as herein provided, and such rates shall be fixed with due regard to the physical hazards of each industry, occupation or employment and, within each class, so far as practicable, in accordance with the elements of bodily risk or safety or other hazard of the plant or premises or work of each insured and the manner in which the same is conducted, together with a reasonable regard for the accident experience and history of each such insured, and the means and methods of caring for injured persons, but such rates shall take no account of the extent to which the employees in any particular establishment have or have not persons dependent upon them for support.

How determined.

(b) The rates so made shall be that percentage of the pay-roll of any employer which, in the long run and on the average, shall produce a sufficient sum, when invested at three and one half per cent interest:

(1) To carry all claims to maturity; that is to say the rates shall be based upon the "reserve" and not upon the "assessment" plan;

(2) To meet the reasonable expenses of conducting the business of such insurance;

(3) To produce a reasonable surplus to cover the catastrophe hazard.

Rates either limited or unlimited.

§ 41. The insurance contracts entered into between the state compensation insurance fund and persons insuring therewith may be either limited or unlimited and issued for one year or, in the form of stamps or tickets or otherwise, for one month or any number of months less than one year, or for one day or any number of days less than one month, or during the performance of any particular work, job or contract; provided, that the rates charged shall be proportionately greater for a shorter than for a longer period and that a minimum premium charge shall be fixed in accordance with a reasonable rate for insuring one person for one day. Nothing in this act shall be construed to prevent any person applying for compensation insurance from being covered temporarily until the application is finally acted upon, or to prevent the injured from surrendering any policy at any time and having returned to him the difference between the premium paid and the premium at the customary short term for the shorter period which such policy has already run. The state compensation insurance fund may at any time cancel any policy, after due notice, upon a pro rata basis of premium repayment.

Policies for employers, etc.

§ 42. The state compensation insurance fund may issue policies, including with their employees, employers who perform labor incidental to their occupations, and including also members of the families of such employers engaged in the same occupation, such policies insuring to such employers and working members of their families the same compensations provided for their employees, and at the same rates; provided, that the estimations of their wage values, respectively, shall be reasonable and separately stated in and added to the valuation of their payrolls upon which their premium is computed. Such policies may likewise be sold to self-employing persons and to casual employees, who, for the purpose of such insurance, shall be deemed to be employees within the meaning of sections twelve to thirty-five, inclusive, of this act.

State treasurer custodian of fund.

§ 43. The treasurer of the state shall be custodian of all moneys and securities belonging to the state compensation insurance fund, except as otherwise provided in this act, and shall be liable on his official bond for the safekeeping thereof. All moneys belonging to said fund collected or received by the commission, or the manager of the state compensation insurance fund, under and by virtue of the provisions of this act, shall be delivered to the treasurer of the state or may be deposited to his credit in such bank or banks throughout the state as he may, from time to time, designate, and such moneys when so delivered or deposited shall be credited by the treasurer to the said fund and no moneys received or collected on account of such fund shall be expended or paid out of such fund without first passing into the state treasury and being drawn therefrom as provided in this act. In like manner there shall be delivered to the treasurer all securities belonging to said fund which shall be held by him until otherwise disposed of as provided in this act.

Monthly estimate to board of control.

§ 44. (a) The commission shall submit each month to the state board of control an estimate of the amount necessary to meet the current disbursements from the state compensation insurance fund during each succeeding calendar month and, when such estimate shall be approved by the state board of control, the controller is directed to draw his warrant on said fund in favor of said commission for such amount, and the treasurer is authorized and directed to pay the same.

Monthly accounting.

(b) At the end of each calendar month the commission shall account to the state board of control and the state controller for all moneys so received, furnishing proper vouchers therefor.

Semi-annual valuation of properties.

(c) During the months of January and July of each year the state board of control or the commission shall cause a valuation to be made of the properties and securities which have been acquired and which are held for said fund, and shall report the results of the same to the state controller, whose duty it shall be to keep a special ledger account showing all of the assets pertaining to the state compensation insurance fund. In the controller's general ledger this fund account may be carried merely as a cash account, like other accounts of funds in the state treasury, and therein only the actual cash coming into the state compensation insurance fund shall be credited to such fund.

Investment of surplus.

§ 45. (a) The commission shall cause all moneys in the state compensation insurance fund, in excess of current requirements, to be invested and reinvested, from time to time, in the securities now or hereafter authorized by law for the investment of funds of savings banks.

(b) The commission shall, from time to time, submit to the state board of control an estimate of the amount required by it for investment, which estimate shall be accompanied by a full description of the kind and character of the investments to be made and, when such estimate shall be approved by the state board of control, the controller is directed to draw his warrant on the state compensation insurance fund in favor of the commission for such amount and the treasurer is authorized and directed to pay the same.

(c) At the end of each calendar month the commission shall account to the said board of control and the state controller for all moneys so received, furnishing proper vouchers therefor.

(d) All moneys in said fund, in excess of current requirements and not otherwise invested, may be deposited by the state treasurer from time to time in the banks authorized by law to receive deposits of public moneys under the same rules and regulations that govern the deposit of other public funds and the interest accruing thereon shall be credited to the state compensation insurance fund.

Counties, etc., may insure.

§ 46. Each county, city and county, city, school district or other public corporation or quasi-public corporation within the state not including, however, any public utility corporation, may insure against its liability for compensation with the state compensation insurance fund and not with any other insurance carrier unless such fund shall refuse to accept the risk when the application for insurance is made, and the premium therefor shall be a proper charge against the general fund of each such political subdivision of the state. [Amendment of June 3, 1915. In effect August 8, 1915, Stats. 1915, p. 1098.]

Schedules of rates to be furnished certain officers.

§ 47. When the premium rates for insurance in the state compensation insurance fund shall have been established the commission shall furnish schedules of rates and copies of the forms of policy to the commissioner of labor, to the clerk and to the treasurer of every county, city and county, and city in the state, and it shall be the duty of every public officer to whom the foregoing may be furnished to fill out and transmit to the manager of the state compensation insurance fund applications for compensation insurance in such fund and to receive and transmit to said manager all premiums paid on account of any policy issued or applied for, and for this service such officials may be allowed such commission or other compensation as the commission may from time to time direct. [Amendment of June 3, 1915. In effect August 8, 1915, Stats. 1915, p. 1098.]

Quarterly report to governor.

§ 48. The commission shall each quarter make to the governor of the state, reports of the business done by the state compensation insurance fund during the previous quarter, and a statement of the fund's resources and liabilities, and it shall be the duty of the state board of control to audit such reports and to cause an abstract thereof to be published one or more times in at least two newspapers of general circulation in the state. The commission shall likewise make to the state insurance commissioner all reports required by law to be made by other insurance carriers.

Penalty for misrepresenting pay-roll.

§ 49. Any employer who shall wilfully misrepresent the amount of the pay-roll upon which his premium under this act is to be based shall be liable to the state in ten times the amount of the difference in premium paid and the amount the employer should have paid had his pay-roll been correctly computed, and the liability to the state under this section shall be enforced in a civil action in the name of the state compensation insurance fund and any amount so collected shall become a part of said fund.

Other misrepresentation, misdemeanor.

§ 50. Any person who wilfully misrepresents any fact in order to obtain insurance at less than the proper rate for such insurance, or in order to obtain any payments out of such fund, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Annual report to governor.

§ 88. The commission shall, not later than the first day of December of each calendar year, subsequent to the year 1913, make a report to the governor of the state covering its entire operations and proceedings for the previous fiscal year, with such suggestions or recommendations as it may deem of value for public information. Such report shall be printed and a copy thereof furnished to all applicants within this state.

Appropriations.

§ 89. The sum of one hundred eighty-seven thousand four hundred seventy dollars is hereby appropriated out of any money in the state treasury, not otherwise appropriated, to be used by the industrial accident commission in carrying out the purposes of this act, and the controller is hereby directed to draw his warrant on the general fund from time to time in favor of said industrial accident commission for the amounts expended under its direction, and the treasurer is hereby authorized and directed to pay the same.*

This section was not expressly excepted from the repeal in the title and in repealing section 71 of the repealing act of 1917, as were all the other retained sections; but it was not repealed, and, although obsolete, is inserted.

Repeal of inconsistent acts.

§ 90. All acts or parts of acts inconsistent with this act are hereby repealed.

Prior injury.

§ 91. The compensation provisions of this act shall not apply to any injury sustained prior to the taking effect thereof.

This section was not expressly excepted from repeal in the title of repealing section 71 of the repealing act of 1917, as were all other retained sections. This was apparently an oversight, since it relates to the compensation provisions of law, and it appears in substantially identical language as section 73 of the act of 1917. See Act 2781.

In effect.

§ 92. This act shall take effect and be in force on and after the first day of January, A. D. 1914.

Editor's note: The notes relating to the constitutionality, scope, purpose and effect of the legislation on the subject of compensation for industrial accidents, and the jurisdiction, and procedure of the commission, the right of review, as well as those dealing in detail with the subject of employer's liability, insurance carriers, compensation and death benefits are collected in one place under the "workmen's compensation, insurance and safety act of 1917." —See Act 2781.

ACTIONS AGAINST INSURANCE CARRIERS.

ACT 2106a—An act relating to actions against an insurance carrier when the insured person is insolvent or bankrupt, or without property sufficient to satisfy execution on account of loss or damage insured against, and requiring policy to be exhibited in certain cases.

History: Approved May 21, 1919. In effect July 22, 1919. Stats. 1919, p. 776.

Action against insurance carrier when insured is insolvent. Exhibit of policy.

§ 1. No policy of insurance against loss or damage resulting from accident to, or injury suffered by another person and for which the person insured is liable other than a policy of insurance under the workmen's compensation, insurance and safety act of 1917 or any subsequent act on the same subject, or, against loss or damage to property caused by horses or other draught animals or any vehicle, and for which loss or damage the person insured is liable, shall be issued or delivered to any person in this state by any domestic or foreign insurance company, authorized to do business in this state, unless there shall be contained within such policy a provision that the insolvency or bankruptcy of the person insured shall not release the insurance carrier from the payment of damages for injury sustained or loss occasioned during the life of such policy and stating that in case judgment shall be secured against the insured in an action brought by the injured person or his heirs or personal representatives, in case death resulted from the accident, then an action may be brought against the company, on the policy and subject to its terms and limitations, by such injured person, his heirs or personal representatives as the case may be, to recover on said judgment. Upon any proceeding supplementary to execution, the judgment debtor may be required to exhibit any policy carried by him insuring against the loss or damage for which judgment shall have been obtained.

PROTECTION OF BENEFICIARIES OF WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION INSURANCE POLICIES.

ACT 2106b—An act to provide for the protection of beneficiaries of workmen's compensation insurance policies against the default or insolvency of insurance carriers issuing such policies by requiring such carriers to provide security for the payment of such compensation.

History: Approved May 9, 1917. In effect July 27, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 292.

Workmen's compensation insurance carrier to file bond.

§ 1. Every insurance carrier, except the state compensation insurance fund, transacting the business of workmen's compensation insurance in this state, shall on the first day of October, A. D. 1917, file in the office of the insurance commissioner of this state a bond in favor of said insurance commissioner as trustee for the beneficiaries of awards of compensation rendered by the industrial accident commission, executed by said carrier and some surety company or companies approved by said insurance commissioner and authorized to transact the business of suretyship in this state. Said bond shall be in an amount not less than the reserve for outstanding losses of said insurance carrier on compensation insurance in this state on December 31, A. D. 1916, calculated as prescribed by the laws of this state, nor for more than double the amount of said reserve, but in no case for less than the sum of one hundred thousand dollars.

Bond to provide for payment of awards by surety.

§ 2. It shall be provided in said bond that, in the event said insurance carrier shall fail to pay any award or awards which shall be rendered against it by said industrial accident commission, within thirty days after the same become final, the said surety will forthwith pay, to the extent of its liability under said bond, said award or awards to said insurance commissioner as trustee for said beneficiaries. Said bond shall further provide that, if said insurance carrier shall suspend payment or become insolvent or a receiver shall be appointed therefor, the said surety will pay said awards, to the extent of its liability under said bond, upon the expiration of thirty days after the same become final, without regard to any proceedings for the liquidation or reinstatement of said insurance carrier. It shall be further provided in said bond, but as a cumulative remedy only, that, in the event said insurance carrier shall fail to pay any award which shall be rendered against it by said industrial accident commission within thirty days after the same becomes final, an award may be rendered by said commission against said surety and in favor of said insurance commissioner as trustee for the beneficiary of said award without notice to said surety for the amount of the unpaid portion of said award against said carrier. Said industrial accident commission is hereby vested with the same full power, authority and jurisdiction as to such awards against said sureties in such cases as it has over said insurance carrier, and it shall issue a certified copy thereof upon the application of any party affected thereby. Said party may file a certified copy of any such award in the office of the clerk of the superior court of any county or city and county of the state of California, and, upon the filing of the same, said clerk shall immediately enter a judgment thereon against said surety. Said certified copy of said award and said judgment shall constitute the judgment roll and shall conclusively establish the liability of said surety without any additional evidence in any and all proceedings to renew said judgment or to enforce the payment thereof. Said bond shall provide for the payment of all legal costs, including reasonable attorneys' fees, incurred in all actions or proceedings taken to enforce payment of said bonds or payment of said awards or said judgments against said surety. No stay of execution of any such judgment shall be granted except upon the order of said industrial accident commission. Nothing herein contained shall operate to enlarge the liability of said surety beyond the penal sum of its bond. Payment of awards by said surety aggregating the amount of its bond shall constitute a full discharge of all liability under said bond.

Filing of new bond each year.

§ 3. Every such insurance carrier shall on or prior to the first day of July of the year A. D. 1918, and of each succeeding year, file in the office of the insurance commissioner of this state a new bond conditioned as aforesaid in an amount not less than the amount of the reserve for outstanding losses of said insurance carrier on compensation insurance in this state on the thirty-first day of the month of December of the preceding year, as shown by its last report of said business filed in the office of said insurance commissioner, nor for more than double the amount of said reserve, but in no case for less than the sum of one hundred thousand dollars, except where said insurance carrier has ceased to do such business in this state, in which case said bond shall be fixed by said insurance commissioner at such amount as he may deem sufficient for the protection of the beneficiaries of the policies of such insurance carrier. Upon the filing of said new bond, approved as herein required, and not until such filing and approval, all liability under the previous bond shall thereby terminate. Said new bond shall embrace the entire liability of said previous bond except in so far as the same may have been paid or discharged.

Financial ability of surety.

§ 4. Said insurance commissioner shall, before approving any such bond, satisfy himself of the financial ability of the surety to assume the obligations imposed thereby, and no company shall be accepted by him as surety which shall have assumed obligations in excess of the limits prescribed by standards of suretyship recognized as reasonable and proper and which it shall be the duty of said commissioner to promulgate for uniform application in such cases.

No authorization issued until bond filed.

§ 5. No authorization shall be issued or renewed to any insurance carrier to transact the business of workmen's compensation insurance in this state, until it has filed said bond with the insurance commissioner and the same has been approved by him. It shall be the duty of the insurance commissioner to notify the industrial accident commission of the approval and filing of every bond given pursuant to the provisions of this act.

Additional bond.

§ 6. The insurance commissioner shall have the right, and it shall be his duty, to require any such insurance carrier at any time to file an additional bond, conditioned as aforesaid, if the amount of the bond then on file is in his judgment insufficient to cover the liability of said insurance carrier for said compensation, or if the surety on said bond has become insufficient in the judgment of the said commissioner.

Liability of two or more sureties.

§ 7. Two or more surety companies may be accepted as sureties on said bond, or separate bonds may be executed by different sureties for amounts aggregating the sum specified by the said commissioner. In such cases each of said sureties shall be jointly and severally liable to the extent of the amount of the liability assumed by it.

Liability of sureties.

§ 8. The liability of the sureties under the bonds hereby required to be given shall be the entire liability of the principals named therein, not exceeding the amount of said bonds or the limit of the liability assumed by any such surety, for the payment of awards of compensation rendered or to be rendered against said principals by said industrial accident commission under the terms of the workmen's compensation insurance and safety act and acts amendatory thereof and supplementary thereto, without regard to the time when the injury upon which an award was based may have occurred, but said bond shall not include any other liability of said carrier nor shall any payment made under any such bond by said surety be applied otherwise than in satisfaction of awards of compensation rendered by said industrial accident commission.

Insurance commissioner may act as trustee.

§ 9. Full power and authority is hereby conferred upon said insurance commissioner to act as trustee for all beneficiaries under awards rendered by said industrial accident commission, and he may take assignments in his own name as trustee and as such he shall have the authority to institute and maintain actions against said sureties, and, upon the collection by him by suit or otherwise of the amount of said awards, he shall pay the same to the parties entitled thereto. The payment of any such award or part thereof by said insurance commissioner shall constitute a satisfaction thereof to the extent of the payment made and, in the event any judgment shall have been entered on any such award, the said commissioner shall file a satisfaction thereof, to the extent of said payment, in the office of the clerk of the court wherein such judgment has been entered.

Right of surety to require new bond of principal.

§ 10. Any such surety shall have the right to require the principal on its bond, on thirty days' notice, to furnish a new bond, to be approved by the insurance commissioner as in other cases, and, in the event of a failure to do so, said principal shall forfeit the right to continue to issue compensation policies in this state.

Deposit of security with state treasurer.

§ 11. Any compensation insurance carrier may, in lieu of said bond and subject to the same conditions, deposit with the state treasurer, through the insurance commissioner, from time to time as may be demanded by said commissioner, cash or approved interest-bearing securities readily convertible into cash, equal to the reserves for outstanding losses required by section six hundred two (a) of the Political Code at the time of said deposit, on the compensation business of said carrier in the state of California, calculated as hereinbefore provided, as security for the payment of its obligations on said business done in this state, and said deposit shall not be withdrawn except upon the written order of the insurance commissioner in payment of compensation claims, but shall be forthwith payable by the state treasurer to the insurance commissioner upon such order; provided, that any such deposit, or any remainder thereof, may be repaid to such carrier upon satisfactory showing to the insurance commissioner that every liability to pay compensation shall have been reinsured with a solvent carrier or fully paid and discharged. Said deposit shall be used only for the payment of compensation claims so long as there shall remain unpaid any such claim or any part thereof.

Revocation of certificate.

§ 12. The insurance commissioner shall have power to revoke the certificate of authority to transact compensation insurance business in this state of any insurance carrier failing to comply with the requirements of this act.

CONTENTS OF CHAPTER.ACT 2107. INDUSTRIAL WELFARE COMMISSION ACT.*INDUSTRIAL WELFARE COMMISSION ACT.

ACT 2107—An act regulating the employment of women and minors and establishing an industrial welfare commission to investigate and deal with such employment, including a minimum wage; providing for an appropriation therefor and fixing a penalty for violations of this act.

History: Approved May 26, 1913. In effect August 8, 1913. Stats. 1913, p. 632. Amended May 29, 1915, in effect August 8, 1915, Stats. 1915, p. 950; May 5, 1919, in effect July 22, 1919, Stats. 1919, p. 302.

Industrial welfare commission established.

§ 1. There is hereby established a commission to be known as the industrial welfare commission, hereinafter called the commission. Said commission shall be composed of five persons, at least one of whom shall be a woman, and all of whom shall be appointed by the governor as follows: two for the term of one year, one for the term of two years, one for the term of three years, and one for the term of four years; provided, however, that at the expiration of their respective terms, their successors shall be appointed to serve a full term of four years. Any vacancies shall be similarly filled for the unexpired portion of the term in which the vacancy shall occur. Three members of the commission shall constitute a quorum. A vacancy on the commission shall not impair the right of the remaining members to perform all the duties and exercise all the powers and authority of the commission.

Compensation. Secretary.

§ 2. The members of said commission shall draw no salaries but all of said members shall be allowed ten dollars per diem while engaged in the performance of their official duties. The commission may employ a secretary, and such expert, clerical and other assistants as may be necessary to carry out the purposes of this act, and shall fix the compensation of such employees, and may, also, to carry out such purposes, incur reasonable and necessary office and other expenses, including the necessary traveling expenses of the members of the commission, of its secretary, of its experts, and of its clerks and other assistants and employees. All employees of the commission shall hold office at the pleasure of the commission.

Duties.

§ 3. (a) It shall be the duty of the commission to ascertain the wages paid, the hours and conditions of labor and employment in the various occupations, trades, and industries in which women and minors are employed in the state of California, and to make investigations into the comfort, health, safety and welfare of such women and minors.

Information to be furnished commission.

(b) It shall be the duty of every person, firm or corporation employing labor in this state:

1. To furnish to the commission, at its request, any and all reports or information which the commission may require to carry out the purposes of this act, such reports and information to be verified by the oath of the person, or a member of the firm, or the president, secretary, or manager of the corporation furnishing the same, if and when so requested by the commission or any member thereof.

2. To allow any member of the commission, or its secretary, or any of its duly authorized experts or employees, free access to the place of business or employment of such person, firm, or corporation, for the purpose of making any investigation authorized by this act, or to make inspection of, or excerpts from, all books, reports, contracts, pay rolls, documents, or papers, of such person, firm or corporation relating to the employment of labor and payment therefor by such person, firm or corporation.

3. To keep a register of the names, ages, and residence addresses of all women and minors employed.

Minor defined.

(c) For the purposes of this act, a minor is defined to be a person of either sex under the age of eighteen years.

Power to issue subpoenas, etc.

§ 3½. Any member of the commission or deputies duly authorized by it in writing, shall have the power and authority to issue subpoenas to compel the attendance of witnesses or parties and the production of books, papers, pay rolls or records, and to administer oaths and to examine witnesses under oaths and to take the verification or proof of instruments of writing, and to take depositions and affidavits for the purpose of carrying out the provisions of this act, or any of its orders, rules or regulations; provided, that no witness shall be compelled to attend on said commission outside of the county in which said witness resides or at a distance greater than fifty miles from his place of residence.

Obedience to subpoenas issued by the commission or its duly authorized representatives shall be enforced in the superior courts of the county or city and county in which the subpoenas were issued. [New section added May 5, 1919. In effect July 22, 1919, Stats. 1919, p. 302.]

Public hearings.

§ 4. The commission may specify times to hold public hearings, at which times, employers, employees, or other interested persons, may appear and give testimony as to the matter under consideration. The commission or any member thereof shall have power to subpoena witnesses and to administer oaths. All witnesses subpoenaed by the commission shall be paid the fees and mileage fixed by law in civil cases. In case of failure on the part of any person to comply with any order of the commission or any member thereof, or any subpoena, or upon the refusal of any witness to testify to any matter regarding which he may lawfully be interrogated before any wage board or the commission, it shall be the duty of the superior court or the judge thereof, on the application of a member of the commission, to compel obedience in the same manner, by contempt proceedings or otherwise, that such obedience would be compelled in a proceeding pending before said court. The commission shall have power to make and enforce reasonable and proper rules of practice and procedure and shall not be bound by the technical rules of evidence.

Conference of "wage board." Compensation. Report of wage board.

§ 5. If, after investigation, the commission is of the opinion that, in any occupation, trade, or industry, the wages paid to women and minors are inadequate to supply the cost of proper living, or the hours or conditions of labor are prejudicial to the health, morals or welfare of the workers, the commission may call a conference, hereinafter called "wage board," composed of an equal number of representatives of employers and employees in the occupation, trade, or industry in question, and a representative of the commission to be designated by it, who shall act as the chairman of the wage board. The members of such wage board shall be allowed five dollars per diem and necessary traveling expenses while engaged in such conferences. The commission shall make rules and regulations governing the number and selection of the members and the mode of procedure of such wage board, and shall exercise exclusive jurisdiction over all questions arising as to the validity of the procedure and of the recommendations of such wage board. The proceedings and deliberations of such wage board shall be made a matter of record for the use of the commission, and shall be admissible as evidence in any proceedings before the commission. On request of the commission, it shall be the duty of such wage board to report to the commission its findings, including therein:

1. An estimate of the minimum wage adequate to supply to women and minors engaged in the occupation, trade or industry in question, the necessary cost of proper living and to maintain the health and welfare of such women and minors.

2. The number of hours of work per day in the occupation, trade or industry in question, consistent with the health and welfare of such women and minors.

3. The standard conditions of labor in the occupation, trade or industry in question, demanded by the health and welfare of such women and minors.

Power to fix wages, hours, etc. Notice of hearing.

§ 6. (a) The commission shall have further power after a public hearing had upon its own motion or upon petition, to fix:

1. A minimum wage to be paid to women and minors engaged in any occupation, trade or industry in this state, which shall not be less than a wage adequate to supply to such women and minors the necessary cost of proper living and to maintain the health and welfare of such women and minors.

2. The maximum hours of work consistent with the health and welfare of women and minors engaged in any occupation, trade or industry in this state; provided, that the hours so fixed shall not be more than the maximum now or hereafter fixed by law.

3. The standard conditions of labor demanded by the health and welfare of the women and minors engaged in any occupation, trade or industry in this state.

(b) Upon the fixing of the time and place for the holding of a hearing for the purpose of considering and acting upon any matters referred to it in subsection (a) hereof, the commission shall give public notice by advertisement in at least one newspaper published in each of the cities of Los Angeles, Oakland, and Sacramento, and in the city and county of San Francisco, and shall give due notice in at least one newspaper published in each of the cities of Fresno, Eureka, San Diego, Long Beach, Alameda, Berkeley and Stockton, and by mailing a copy of said notice to the county recorder of each county in the state to be posted at the court house of each county, or city and county, and to each association of employers or employees of fifteen or more members within the state of California which shall file with the commission a written request for such notice of such hearing and purpose thereof; which notice shall state the time and place fixed for such hearing, which shall not be earlier than fourteen days from the date of publication and mailing of such notices.

Mandatory order specifying wages. Notice to employer.

(c) After such public hearing, the commission may, in its discretion, make a mandatory order to be effective in sixty days from the making of such order, specifying the minimum wage for women or minors in the occupation in question, and the maximum hours; provided, that the hours specified shall not be more than the maximum for women or minors in California, and the standard conditions of labor for said women or minors; provided, however, that no such order shall become effective until after April 1, 1914. Such order shall be published in at least one newspaper in each of the cities of Los Angeles and Sacramento and in the city and county of San Francisco, and a copy thereof be mailed to the county recorder of each county in the state, and such copy shall be filed without charge. The industrial welfare commission shall send by mail, so far as practicable, to each employer in the occupation in question, a copy of the order, and each employer shall be required to post a copy of such order in the building in which women or minors affected by the order are employed. Failure to mail notice to the employer shall not relieve the employer from the duty to comply with such order. Finding by the commission that there has been such publication and mailing to county recorders shall be conclusive as to service. [Amendment of May 5, 1919. In effect July 22, 1919, Stats. 1919, p. 303.]

Order may be rescinded or amended.

§ 7. Whenever wages, or hours, or conditions of labor have been so made mandatory in any occupation, trade, or industry, the commission may at any time in its discretion, upon its own motion or upon petition of either employers or employees, after a public hearing held upon the notice prescribed for an original hearing, rescind, alter or amend any prior order. Any order rescinding a prior order shall have the same effect as herein provided for in an original order.

License for employment for less than minimum wage.

§ 8. (a) For any occupation in which a minimum wage has been established, the commission may issue to a woman physically defective by age or otherwise, a special license authorizing the employment of such licensee, for a period of six months, for a wage less than such legal minimum wage; and the commission shall fix a special minimum wage for such person. Any such license may be renewed for like periods of six months.

License for apprentices.

(b) For any occupation in which a minimum wage has been established, the commission may issue to an apprentice or learner, a special license authorizing the employment of such apprentice or learner, for such time and under such conditions as the commission may determine at a wage less than such legal minimum wage; and the commission shall fix a special wage for such apprentice or learner.

(c) The commission may fix the maximum number of women, and minors under eighteen years of age, to be employed under the licenses provided for in subdivisions (a) and (b) of this section in any occupation, trade, industry or establishment in which a minimum wage has been established. [Amendment of May 29, 1915. In effect August 8, 1915, Stats. 1915, p. 950.]

Statistics.

§ 9. Upon the request of the commission, the labor commissioner shall cause such statistics and other data and information to be gathered, and investigations made, as the commission may require. The cost thereof shall be paid out of the appropriations made for the expenses of the commission.

Discharging employee who testifies, misdemeanor.

§ 10. Any employer who discharges, or threatens to discharge, or in any other manner discriminates against any employee because such employee has testified or is about to testify, or because such employer believes that said employee may testify in any investigation or proceedings relative to the enforcement of this act, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor.

Payment of less than minimum wage, unlawful. Penalty.

§ 11. The minimum wage for women and minors fixed by said commission as in this act provided, shall be the minimum wage to be paid to such employees, and the payment to such employees of a less wage than the minimum so fixed shall be unlawful, and every employer or other person who, either individually or as an officer, agent, or employee of a corporation or other person, pays or causes to be paid to any such employee a wage less than such minimum, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not less than fifty dollars, or by imprisonment for not less than thirty days, or by both such fine and imprisonment; and every employer or other person who, either individually or as an officer, agent or employee of a corporation, or other persons, violates or refuses or neglects to comply with the provisions of this act, or any orders or rulings of this commission, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof be punished by a fine of not less than fifty dollars, or by imprisonment for not less than thirty days, or by both such fine and imprisonment. [Amendment of May 29, 1915. In effect August 8, 1915, Stats. 1915, p. 950.]

Enforcement.

§ 11b. It shall be the duty of the industrial welfare commission to enforce the provisions of this act and compliance with its orders, rules and regulations. Full power and authority is hereby vested in the commission to take such action as may be deemed essential for such purposes. [New section added May 5, 1919. In effect July 22, 1919, Stats. 1919, p. 304.]

Prosecution. Findings of fact conclusive. Complaint served with summons. Hearing.

§ 12. In every prosecution for violation of any provision of this act, the minimum wage, the maximum hours of work and the standard conditions of labor fixed by the commission as herein provided, shall be prima facie presumed to be reasonable and lawful, and to be the living wage, the maximum hours of work and standard conditions of labor required herein. The findings of fact made by the commission acting within its powers shall, in the absence of fraud, be conclusive; and the determination made by the commission shall be subject to review only in a manner and upon the grounds following: Within twenty days from the date of the determination, any party aggrieved thereby may commence in the superior court in and for the city and county of San Francisco, or in and for the counties of Los Angeles or Sacramento, an action against the commission for review of such determination. In such action a complaint, which shall state the grounds upon which a review is sought, shall be served with the summons. Service upon the secretary of the commission, or any member of the commission, shall be deemed a complete service. The commission shall serve its answer within twenty days after the service of the complaint. With its answer, the commission shall make a return to the court of all documents and papers on file in the matter, and of all testimony and evidence which may have been taken before it, and of its findings and the determination. The action may thereupon be brought on for hearing before the court upon such record by either party on ten days' notice of the other. Upon such hearing, the court may confirm or set aside such determination; but the same shall be set aside only upon the following grounds:

- (1) That the commission acted without or in excess of its powers.
- (2) That the determination was procured by fraud.

Controversy recommitted.

Upon the setting aside of any determination the court may recommit the controversy and remand the record in the case to the commission for further proceedings. The commission, or any party aggrieved, by a decree entered upon the review of a determination, may appeal therefrom within the time and in the manner provided for an appeal from the orders of the said superior court. [Amendment of May 25, 1915. In effect August 8, 1915, Stats. 1915, p. 951.]

Employee may sue for unpaid balance.

§ 13. Any employee receiving less than the legal minimum wage applicable to such employee shall be entitled to recover in civil action the unpaid balance of the full amount of such minimum wage, together with costs of suit, notwithstanding any agreement to work for such lesser wage.

Complaints.

§ 14. Any person may register with the commission a complaint that the wages paid to an employee for whom a living rate has been established, are less than that rate, and the commission shall investigate the matter and take all proceedings necessary to enforce the payment of a wage not less than the living wage.

Biennial report.

§ 15. The commission shall biennially make a report to the governor and the state legislature of its investigations and proceedings.

Appropriation.

§ 16. There is hereby appropriated annually out of the moneys of the state treasury, not otherwise appropriated, the sum of fifteen thousand dollars, to be used by the commission in carrying out the provisions of this act, and the controller is hereby directed from time to time to draw his warrants on the general fund in favor of the commission for the amounts expended under its direction, and the treasurer is hereby authorized and directed to pay the same.

Not board of arbitration.

§ 17. The commission shall not act as a board of arbitration during a strike or lock-out.

Interpretation of act. Constitutionality.

§ 18. (a) Whenever this act, or any part or section thereof, is interpreted by a court, it shall be liberally construed by such court.

(b) If any section, subsection, or subdivision of this act is for any reason held to be unconstitutional, such decision shall not affect the validity of the remaining portions of this act. The legislature hereby declares that it would have passed this act, and each section, subsection, subdivision, sentence, clause and phrase thereof; irrespective of the fact that any one or more sections, subsections, subdivisions, sentences, clauses or phrases is declared unconstitutional.

Act applies to all occupations.

§ 19. The provisions of this act shall apply to and include women and minors employed in any occupation, trade or industry, and whose compensation for labor is measured by time, piece or otherwise.

ATTENDING PRIZE-FIGHTS AND COCK-FIGHTS.

ACT 2110—An act to prevent any minor under the age of eighteen years visiting any prize-fight, cock-fight, or place where any prize-fight or cock-fight is advertised or represented to take place and to provide a punishment therefor.

History: Approved April 17, 1909, Stats. 1909, p. 983.

Minors under sixteen shall not visit prize-fights or cock-fights.

§ 1. It shall be unlawful for any minor under the age of sixteen years to visit or attend any prize-fight, cock-fight, or place where any prize-fight, cock-fight, or place where any prize-fight or cock-fight is advertised to take place.

Minors under eighteen not to be admitted.

§ 2. It shall be unlawful for the owner, lessee or proprietor, or the agent of any owner, lessee or proprietor of any place where any prize-fight or cock-fight is advertised or represented to take place to admit any minor under the age of eighteen years to such a place where any prize-fight or cock-fight is advertised or represented to take place; or to admit, or to sell or give away to any such minor a ticket or other paper by which said minor might be admitted to such place where such prize-fight or cock-fight is advertised to take place.

Misdemeanor.

§ 3. Every person violating any of the provisions of the preceding sections is guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be punished by a fine of not exceeding fifty dollars, or be imprisoned in county jail not more than twenty-five days.

Prize-fights and cock-fights are prohibited, see Kerr's Cyc. Penal Code, §§ 412, 597c.

CHILD LABOR LAW OF 1905.

ACT 2113—An act regulating the employment and hours of labor of children—prohibiting the employment of minors under certain ages—prohibiting the employment of certain illiterate minors—providing for the enforcement hereof by the commissioner of the bureau of labor statistics and providing penalties for the violation hereof.

History: Approved February 20, 1905, Stats. 1905, p. 11. Amended (1) March 19, 1907, Stats. 1907, p. 598; (2) March 23, 1907, Stats. 1907, p. 978; (3) March 8, 1909, Stats. 1909, p. 211; (4) March 15, 1909, Stats. 1909, p. 387; (5) March 6, 1911, Stats. 1911, p. 282; (6) April 4, 1911, Stats. 1911, p. 910; (7) June 2, 1913, in effect August 10, 1913, Stats. 1913, p. 364; (8) June 5, 1915, in effect August 8, 1915, Stats. 1915, p. 1201; (9) May 22, 1917, in effect July 27, 1917, Stats. 1917, p. 826; (10) May 10, 1919, in effect July 22, 1919, Stats. 1919, p. 393. The amendments of April 14, 1911 (Stats. 1911, p. 910), of 1913 and 1915, were of the entire act, to which the amendment of 1915 added four new sections. Prior act of February 8, 1889, Stats. 1889, p. 4, was superseded by the act of March 23, 1901, Stats. 1901, p. 631, which was in turn superseded by the present act. The present act was undoubtedly superseded by the act of 1919, see Act 2113a.

See new section, Stats. 1905, ch. LXXV; Kerr's Cyc. Pen. Code, § 273, relative to minors entering saloons, gambling houses, and other immoral places.

Duty to warn of danger infant employees.—See 1 Am. St. Rep. 28.

Violation of statute prohibiting employment of minors—Evidence of negligence.—See 61 L. R. A. 811.

Duration daily session.—Pol. Code, § 1673.

School month defined.—Pol. Code, § 1697.

1. Constitutionality—Special law.—The act is not a special law for the punishment of a crime where a general law could be made applicable, in violation of section 25, subdivisions 2 and 33, article IV, of the constitution.—In re Spencer, 149 Cal. 396, 117 Am. St. Rep. 137, 9 Ann. Cas. 1105, 86 Pac. 896.

2. Same—Not discriminatory.—The act is not discriminatory in conflict with sections 11 and 21 of article I, of the constitution.—In re Spencer, 149 Cal. 396, 117 Am. St. Rep. 137, 9 Ann. Cas. 1105, 86 Pac. 896.

2a. Same—Same.—The provisions of section 2 as to hours of labor allowed in the case of children who can "read English at sight and write simple English sentences" is not an unreasonable discrimination against illiterate children.—In re Spencer, 149 Cal. 396, 117 Am. St. Rep. 137, 9 Ann. Cas. 1105, 86 Pac. 895.

3. Same—Legislative discretion.—The preliminary questions as to the effect of specified occupations on children engaged therein, are questions of fact for the legislature to determine, and if there is any reasonable doubt as to the soundness of its judgment in determining such questions, such doubt must be resolved in favor of the act of its validity.—In re Spencer, 149 Cal. 396, 117 Am. St. Rep. 137, 9 Ann. Cas. 1105, 86 Pac. 895.

4. Same—Classification of forbidden callings.—The specifications of forbidden callings are broad and comprehensive, and it can not be said of the omitted callings that a saloon is not a "mercantile institution," a barber shop, a "workshop," or of ferries and railroads, that they are not engaged in the "distribution or transmission of merchandise or messages."—In re Spencer, 149 Cal. 396, 117 Am. St. Rep. 137, 9 Ann. Cas. 1105, 86 Pac. 895.

5. Construction—Prohibited occupations—Scope of permit.—The proviso permitting children over twelve years old to work at the prohibited occupations, during regular school vacations, upon a permit from the principal of the public school attended by such child, does not give the principal exclusive power to issue such permit, but its true meaning is that the permit can extend only to the time of the public school vacation.—In re Spencer, 149 Cal. 396, 117 Am. St. Rep. 137, 9 Ann. Cas. 1105, 86 Pac. 895.

6. Same—Same—Children over twelve.—The proviso permitting children over twelve years old to work in the prohibited occupations, where the parents are unable, from sickness, to labor, does not discriminate against orphans or abandoned children, the proviso not being for the benefit of the child, but of the parent, and where there is no sick parent, the reason for the exception is wanting.—In re Spencer, 149 Cal. 396, 117 Am. St. Rep. 137, 9 Ann. Cas. 1105, 86 Pac. 895.

7. Same—Act of March 24, 1903, Stats. 1903, p. 388—Act 4554.—The provisions of this act relating to attendance upon schools must be construed with the provisions of the act of March 24, 1903, Stats. 1903, p. 388.—In re Spencer, 149 Cal. 396, 117 Am. St. Rep. 137, 9 Ann. Cas. 1105, 86 Pac. 895.

8. Same—Minors under eighteen—More than nine hours in manufacturing, mechanical and mercantile establishments—Railroad watchman.—The provisions of section 1 of the amended act of 1911 prohibiting the employment of minors under eighteen for more than nine hours in any one day in manufacturing, mechanical, or mercantile establishments, should not be construed to forbid the employment of such minor as a watchman in a railroad tunnel for more than the time limited.—Williams

v. Southern Pacific Co.; 173 Cal. 525; 160 Pac. 660.

9. Same—Unlawful employment of child is negligence per se.—The employment of a child under twelve years of age, in a manufacturing establishment (iron foundry) contrary to the child labor act of 1905 constituted negligence per se.—Scully v. Garratt & Co., 11 Cal. App. 138, 104 Pac. 325.

10. Instruction—Watchman in tunnel—Employment for twelve hours.—It was error to instruct the jury in an action for the death of a minor while employed as a watchman in a railroad tunnel for twelve hours a day, that such employment was in violation of this statute.—Williams v. Southern Pacific Co. 173 Cal. 525, 160 Pac. 660.

CHILD LABOR LAW OF 1919.

ACT 2113a—An act to be known as the child labor law, and regulating the employment, hours, kinds and conditions of labor of children; providing for the administration and enforcement of the provisions of this act by the commissioner of the bureau of labor statistics, providing penalties for the violation hereof and repealing all acts and parts of acts inconsistent herewith.

History: Approved May 10, 1919. In effect July 22, 1919. Stats. 1919, p. 415. This act undoubtedly superseded the prior act of 1905, but the last amendment to that act went into effect on the same date this act went into effect. See Act 2113.

Child labor regulated.

§ 1. No minor under the age of sixteen years shall be employed, permitted or suffered to work in or in connection with any mercantile establishment, manufacturing establishment, mechanical establishment, workshop, office, laundry, place of amusement, restaurant, hotel, apartment house, or in the distribution or transmission of merchandise or messages, or in any other place of labor at any time except as may be provided by the provisions of this act or by the provisions of an act entitled "An act to enforce the educational rights of children and providing penalties for violation of the act," as now in force or as may be hereafter amended, or by the provisions of an act entitled "An act to require certain high school districts to provide part-time educational opportunities in civic and vocational subjects for persons under eighteen years of age, who are not in attendance upon full-time day schools, and part-time educational opportunities in citizenship for persons under twenty-one years of age who can not adequately speak, read or write the English language; to enforce attendance upon such part-time classes where established, and providing penalties for violation of the provisions of this act."

Work defined.

Work shall be deemed to be done for a manufacturing establishment within the meaning of this act, whenever it is done at any place upon the work of a manufacturing establishment, or upon any of the materials entering into the products of a manufacturing establishment, whether under contract or arrangement with any person in charge of or connected with a manufacturing establishment directly or indirectly through the instrumentality of one or more contractors or other third persons.

Eight-hour limit. Night work.

§ 2. Except as otherwise provided in sections three, three and one-half and five hereof no minor under the age of eighteen years shall be employed more than eight hours in one day of twenty-four hours or more than forty-eight hours in one week, or before the hour of five o'clock in the morning, or after the hour of ten o'clock in the evening.

Messenger service.

§ 3. No girl under the age of eighteen years and no boy under the age of sixteen years shall be employed, permitted or suffered to work as a messenger for any telegraph, telephone or messenger company, or for the United States government or any of its departments while operating a telegraph, telephone or messenger service, in the distribution, transmission or delivery of goods or messages in towns of more than fifteen thousand inhabitants, nor shall any boy under the age of eighteen years be employed, permitted or suffered to engage in any of the work last mentioned before the hour of six o'clock in the morning or after the hour of nine o'clock in the evening.

Street trades. Exception.

§ 3½. No boy under ten years of age, nor girl under eighteen years of age, shall be employed, permitted or suffered to work at any time in or in connection with the street occupation of peddling, bootblackening, the sale or distribution of newspapers, magazines, periodicals or circulars nor in any other occupation pursued in any street or public place; provided, however, that nothing in this section shall be construed to apply to cities whose population is less than twenty-three thousand according to the last federal census.

Prohibited occupations.

§ 4. No minor under the age of sixteen years shall be employed, permitted or suffered to work in any capacity at any of the following occupations or in any of the following positions, to wit: (1) Adjusting any belt to any machinery, or sewing or lacing machine belts in any workshop or factory, or oiling, wiping or cleaning machinery, or assisting therein, or operating or assisting in operating any of the following machines: (a) Circular or band saws; (b) wood shapers; (c) wood jointers; (d) planers; (e) sandpaper or wood-polishing machinery; (f) wood-turning or boring machinery; (g) picker machines or machines used in picking wool, cotton, hair or any other material; (h) carding machines; (i) paper-lace machines; (j) leather-burnishing machines; (k) printing presses of all kinds; (l) boring or drill presses; (m) stamping machines used in sheet-metal and tinware or in paper and leather manufacturing, or in washer and nut factories; (n) metal or paper-cutting machines; (o) corner-staying machines in paper box factories; (p) corrugating rolls, such as are used in corrugated paper, roofing or washboard factories; (q) steam boilers; (r) dough brakes or cracker machinery of any description; (s) wire or iron straightening or drawing machinery; (t) rolling mill machinery; (u) power punches or shears; (v) washing, grinding or mixing machinery; (w) calendar rolls in paper and rubber manufacturing; (x) laundering machinery; or in proximity to any hazardous or unguarded belts, machinery or gearing; or (2) upon any railroad, whether steam, electric or hydraulic; or (3) upon any vessel or boat engaged in navigation or commerce within the jurisdiction of this state; or (4) in, about, or in connection with any processes in which dangerous or poisonous acids are used; or (5) in the manufacture or packing of paints, colors, white or red lead; or (6) in soldering; or (7) in occupations causing dust in injurious quantities; or (8) in the manufacture or use of dangerous or poisonous dyes; or (9) in the manufacture or preparation of compositions with dangerous or poisonous gases; or (10) in the manufacture or use of compositions of lye in which the quantity thereof is injurious to health; or (11) on scaffolding; or (12) in heavy work in the building trades; or (13) in any tunnel or excavation; or (14) in, about or in connection with any mine, coal breaker, coke oven, or quarry; or (15) in assorting, manufacturing or packing tobacco; or (16) in operating any automobile, motor car or truck; or (17) in a bowling alley; or (18) in a pool or billiard room; or (19) in any other occupation dangerous to the life or limb, or injurious to the health or morals of such child; provided, however, that the provisions of this section shall not apply to the courses of training in vocational or manual training schools or in state institutions.

Bureau of labor statistics to determine whether business is prohibited.

The bureau of labor statistics may, from time to time, after a hearing duly had, determine whether or not any particular trade, process of manufacture or occupation, in which the employment of children under the age of sixteen years is not already forbidden by law, or any particular method of carrying on such trade, process of manufacture or occupation, is sufficiently dangerous to the lives or limbs or injurious to the health or morals of children under sixteen years of age to justify their exclusion therefrom. No child under sixteen years of age shall be employed, permitted or suffered to work in any occupation thus determined to be dangerous or injurious to such children. There shall be a right of appeal to the superior court from any such determination.

Agricultural, etc., labor. Theatrical employment.

§ 5. Nothing in this act shall be construed to prohibit the employment of minors sixteen years of age or over at agricultural, horticultural, or viticultural, or domestic labor for more than eight hours in one day or more than forty-eight hours in one week. Nor shall anything in this act be construed to prohibit the employment of minors at agricultural, horticultural, or viticultural, or domestic labor during the time the public schools are not in session, or during other than school hours. For the purpose of this act, horticultural shall be understood to include the curing and drying, but not the canning, of all varieties of fruit. Nor shall anything in this act be construed to prohibit any minor between the ages of fifteen and eighteen years, who is by any statute or statutes of the state of California, now or hereafter in force, permitted to be employed as an actor, or actress, or performer in a theater, or other place of amusement, previous to the hour of ten o'clock p. m., in the presentation of a performance, play or drama, continuing from an earlier hour till after the hour of ten o'clock p. m., from performing his or her part in such presentation as such employee between the hours of ten and twelve o'clock p. m.; provided, the written consent of the commissioner of the bureau of labor statistics is first obtained. Nor shall anything in this act prevent, or be construed to prohibit, the employment of any minor, whether resident or nonresident, in the presentation of a drama, play, performance, concert or entertainment, with the written consent of the commissioner of the bureau of labor statistics, but no such consent shall be given unless the officer giving it is satisfied that the environment in which the drama, play, performance, concert or entertainment is to be produced is a proper environment for the minor, and that the conditions of such employment are not detrimental to the health of such minor, and that the minor's education will not be neglected or hampered by its participation in such drama, play, performance, concert or entertainment, and the commissioner may require the person charged with the issuance of age and schooling certificates to make the necessary investigation into such conditions; and every such written consent shall specify the name and age of the minor together with such other facts as may be necessary for the proper identification of such minor, and the date when, and the theaters or other places of amusement in which such drama, play, performance, concert or entertainment is to be produced, and shall specify the drama, play, performance, concert or entertainment in which the minor is permitted to participate, and every such consent shall be revocable at the will of the officer giving it. Dramas and plays shall include the production of motion picture plays.

Employer to keep register.

§ 6. Every person, firm, corporation or agent, or officer of a firm or corporation, employing either directly, or indirectly through the instrumentality of one or more contractors or other third persons, minors under the age of eighteen years, shall keep a separate register containing the names, ages and addresses of such minor employees and shall post and keep posted in a conspicuous place in every room where such minors are employed, a written or printed notice stating the hours per day for each day of the week required of such minors, and shall keep on file all permits and certificates either to work or to employ, issued under the provisions of this act, or under the provisions of an act entitled "An act to enforce the educational rights of children and providing penalties for the violation of the act," approved March 24, 1903, as amended. Such records and files shall be open at all times to the inspection of the school attendance and probation officers, the state board of education and the officers of the state bureau of labor statistics.

All such certificates and permits to work or to employ shall be returned to the authority issuing the same within five days after the minor quits his employment. Such certificate or permit shall be subject to cancellation at any time by such commissioner of the bureau of labor statistics, or by the authority issuing the same, whenever such commissioner or such issuing authority shall find that the conditions for the legal issuance of such certificate or permit no longer exist or have never existed.

Report by authority issuing permits.

At least once in every six months, to wit, on or before January tenth and on or before July tenth of each year, the authority issuing all such permits and certificates either to work or to employ, shall file a full written report of the same, stating the names, ages and addresses of the minors under sixteen years of age affected thereby, with the state bureau of labor statistics and the state board of education.

Penalty.

§ 7. Any person, firm, corporation, agent, or officer of a firm or corporation, employing either directly or indirectly through the instrumentality of one or more contractors or other third persons, or any parent or guardian of a minor affected by this act, who violates or omits to comply with any of the provisions hereof, or who employs or suffers or permits any minor to be employed in violation thereof, is guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall upon conviction thereof, be punished by a fine of not less than fifty dollars, nor more than two hundred dollars, by imprisonment in the county jail for not more than sixty days, or by both such fine and imprisonment for each and every offense.

Fines to be paid into school funds. Report of violation of act.

A failure to produce any permit or certificate either to work or to employ or to post any notice required by this act shall be prima facie evidence of the illegal employment of any minor whose permit or certificate is not so produced or whose name is not so posted. Any fine collected under the provisions of this act shall be paid into the school funds of the county, or city, or city and county, in which the offense occurred, except such fines as are imposed and collected as the result of prosecutions by the officers of the bureau of labor statistics, in which cases one-half of the resultant fine or fines shall be paid into the state treasury and credited to the contingent fund of the bureau of labor statistics and one-half paid into the school funds of the county, or city, or city and county, in which the offense occurred. All reported violations of the provisions of this act, whether prosecuted or not, must be reported in writing immediately after their occurrence by the state bureau of labor statistics to the state board of education. Such report shall state the name and address of the person or corporation charged with such violation, the nature of such charge and the name, age and address of the minor or minors affected thereby, and shall be followed, at least once in every six months, to wit, on or before January tenth, and on or before July tenth of each year, by a written summary of all violations of the provisions of this act which have occurred during the preceding period of six months.

Duty of labor commissioner.

§ 8. The bureau of labor statistics shall enforce the provisions of this act. The commissioner, his deputies and agents, shall have all the powers and authority of sheriffs or other peace officers, to make arrests for violation of the provisions of this act, and to serve any process or notice throughout the state.

Duty of attendance officers.

The attendance officer of any county, city and county, or school district in which any place of employment, in this act named, is situated, or the probation officer of such county, shall have the right and authority, at all times, enter into any such place of employment for the purpose of investigating violations of the provisions of this act, or violations of the provisions of an act entitled "An act to enforce the educational rights of children and providing penalties for the violation of the act," approved March 24, 1903, and any act amending or superseding the same; provided, however, that if such attendance or probation officer is denied entrance to such place of employment, any magistrate may, upon the filing of an affidavit by such attendance or probation officer setting forth the fact that he has a good cause to believe that the provisions of this act, or the act hereinbefore referred to, are being violated in such place of employment, issue an order directing such attendance or probation officer to enter said place of employment for the purpose of making such investigations.

Repealed.

§ 9. All acts and parts of acts inconsistent herewith are hereby expressly repealed.

Constitutionality.

§ 10. If any section, subsection, sentence, clause or phrase of this act is for any reason held to be unconstitutional, such decision shall not affect the validity of the remaining portions of this act. The legislature hereby declares that it would have passed this act, and each section, subsection, sentence, clause and phrase thereof, irrespective of the fact that any one or more other sections, subsections, sentences, clauses or phrases be declared unconstitutional.

MINORS ENGAGING IN BUSINESS AT NIGHT.

ACT 2115—An act to prohibit minors under the age of eighteen years to vend and sell goods, engage in, or conduct any business between the hours of ten o'clock in the evening and five o'clock in the morning, and providing penalties for violations thereof.

History: Approved May 1, 1911, Stats. 1911, p. 1341.

Unlawful for minor under eighteen to conduct business between 10 p. m. and 5 a. m.

§ 1. It shall be unlawful for any minor under the age of eighteen years to vend and sell goods, engage in, or conduct any business between the hours of ten o'clock in the evening and five o'clock in the morning.

Punishment for violation of statute.

§ 2. Any person violating any of the provisions of this act shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall, upon conviction thereof, be punished by a fine of not more than twenty dollars, or by imprisonment for not more than ten days, or by both such fine and imprisonment for each offense.

History: Approved June 7, 1913. In effect August 10, 1913. Stats. 1913, p. 884.

Hospital for insane established in southern California.

§ 1. A state hospital shall be established in southern California, preferably near to the sea coast, for the care of the insane.

Commission created for building.

§ 2. A commission composed of the governor, lieutenant-governor, state engineer, the general superintendent of the state hospitals, and a member of the Psychopathic Association of California, to be appointed by the governor, is hereby created and is hereby authorized to select and purchase a suitable site, accept the plans and direct the engineering department to erect the necessary buildings as and for a hospital for insane persons.

Commitments.

§ 3. Upon the completion of such state hospital, insane persons may be committed or admitted thereto in the manner provided by law for the commitment of insane persons, and for the admission of insane persons, under special agreements, to state hospitals for the insane.

Management as provided by law.

§ 4. Upon the adoption of plans as herein provided for such institution, the commission herein created shall cease to exist and the control and management of said institution as a hospital for the insane shall be continued as and in the manner provided by law for the control, management and operation of state hospitals for the care of the insane.

Title to land and water rights.

§ 5. Title to land and water right thereunto appertaining acquired in pursuance of this act shall be approved by the attorney general and shall be taken in the name of the state of California. The deeds therefor shall be filed with the secretary of state.

Appropriation.

§ 6. There is hereby appropriated from the funds of the state not otherwise appropriated the sum of two hundred and fifty thousand dollars to be used for the purchase of a site together with water rights for said hospital and the erection and equipment of buildings and improvements thereon. Not more than ninety thousand dollars of the money herein appropriated shall be used for the purchase of said site and water rights. Said site shall contain not less than three hundred acres of tillable land.

"PACIFIC COLONY" ACT.

ACT 2163—An act to establish an institution for the care, confinement and instruction of feeble-minded and epileptic persons; to provide for the government and maintenance thereof, and for the study of mental deficiency and related problems; to provide for admission and commitment to such institution, and to prescribe penalties for unlawfully or improperly contriving to have persons adjudged feeble-minded under this act; to provide for the sterilization of inmates of such institutions; to prescribe penalties for procuring the escape, or aiding or advising in the escape, of inmates, or concealing inmates thereof; to provide a contingent fund for the use of such institution and to make an appropriation therefor.

History: Approved June 1, 1917. In effect July 31, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 1623.

Pacific colony created.

§ 1. There is hereby created an institution to be known as the Pacific colony and which is hereby declared to be a corporation.

Board of trustees.

§ 2. The said institution shall be under the control of a board of three trustees, to be appointed by the governor, one for one year, one for two years, and one for three years, and thereafter for terms of four years each, to hold office until their successors are respectively appointed and qualified. The governor shall fill vacancies occurring from any cause in the membership of such board, and the first board shall be appointed within thirty days after this act takes effect.

Chairman.

§ 3. The said trustees shall annually elect from their own number a chairman and a vice chairman, whose terms of office shall be one year and until their successors shall be duly appointed and qualified.

By-laws.

§ 4. The board of trustees may, from time to time, establish such by-laws, rules and regulations, not inconsistent with the laws of the state, as they may deem expedient for the efficient management and government of the said institution, for the transaction of its business and the holding of its meetings.

Vacancy.

§ 5. If any trustee fail, for three months, to attend the regular meetings of the board, unless he is ill or absent from the state, his office shall become vacant, if the board, by resolution, so declare. A copy of any such resolution certified by the secretary of the board, must thereupon be forthwith transmitted to the governor.

Compensation.

§ 6. The trustees shall be entitled to receive as compensation for their services, while in the actual discharge of their duties as such trustees, ten dollars per day each; provided, that the total thereof shall not exceed two hundred forty dollars in any one year for any trustee; and provided, that if such services be performed on two or more consecutive days, there shall in such case be remuneration paid for one day only; and provided, also, that the trustees shall be entitled to receive, in addition to such compensation, all of their necessary expenses while attending to the business of the institution.

Superintendent. Secretary.

§ 7. The board of trustees shall appoint a superintendent, not of their own number, who shall be a resident of the institution and shall have charge, manage and control of the same and of its property, and shall have the charge, control, discipline and training of its inmates, subject to the direction of the board of trustees; and he shall give a bond to the state in such sum and with such sureties as will be satisfactory to the state board of control, for the faithful performance of his duties. The board of trustees shall appoint a secretary who shall perform such duties as the board may direct. The superintendent may be appointed to that position.

Treasurer.

§ 8. The superintendent shall, subject to the approval of the board of trustees, employ, with power to discharge, a treasurer and such other officers and employees as he may consider proper and necessary for the efficient carrying into effect of the design of the said institution, determine their titles, and prescribe their duties.

Duty of treasurer.

§ 9. The treasurer shall receive and disburse all moneys and keep account of the same, under the direction of the board of trustees, but subject to such supervision or control as is vested by law in the state board of control, and he shall give a bond to the state in such sum and with such sureties as will be satisfactory to the state board of control for the faithful performance of his duties.

Compensation of officers.

§ 10. The board of trustees shall fix the compensation of the superintendent, whose salary shall be not less than three hundred dollars per month, and the superintendent shall fix the compensation of the other officers and employees, subject to the approval of the board of trustees.

Purchase of site.

§ 11. The board of trustees, together with the superintendent, are hereby empowered and instructed to purchase on behalf of the state, in the territory covered by and included within the counties of Santa Barbara, Ventura, Los Angeles, San Bernardino, Orange, Riverside and San Diego, for the use of the said institution, such a site as they may deem most advantageous, of preferably not less than eight hundred acres, subject to the approval of the state board of control as to the purchase price, and subject to such approval, the said board of trustees and superintendent may, if they consider it advisable, purchase water rights or make provision for the development of water for the use of said lands. The state department of engineering shall, at the request of the board of trustees, and with the approval of the state board of control, examine into the matter of water, light, power and sanitation, and the engineering problems involved, in connection with any site or sites the board may investigate with a view to purchasing, and shall report thereon to the board of trustees, with special regard to the suitability of such site or sites for the purposes of the institution.

The University of California shall, on the approval of the state board of control, render to the board of trustees such reasonable assistance as the board may desire, in determining the quality and character of the soil of such site or sites for agricultural, horticultural and other purposes, and its suitability for the purposes of the institution.

The said trustees and superintendent, the said state department of engineering, and the said university, shall be entitled to receive their necessary expenses in connection with said investigations and the selection and purchase of said site.

Buildings.

§ 12. The board of trustees shall erect the buildings for said institution, subject to such supervision or control as is by law vested in the state department of engineering.

Equipment, etc.

§ 13. The board of trustees is authorized and required to purchase such equipment, furniture, supplies and materials, as it may deem suitable for the proper completion and furnishing of the said buildings, and for the operation and maintenance of the said institution, subject to such supervision or control as is by law vested in the state board of control and the state purchasing agent.

Donations and bequests.

§ 14. The said institution may take and hold in trust for the state any grant or devise of land, or any donation or bequest of money or other personal property, heretofore or hereafter granted, devised, donated, or bequeathed to the use of the institution, and shall dispose of the same in accordance with the wishes of the donor, or testator, if expressed, and if no condition be attached thereto, or in so far as any wishes expressed do not prevent, then to invest and reinvest the same, or to change the investment thereof, as to the board of trustees may seem best, and to use the income arising therefrom for the best interests of the institution.

Forms for admission of inmates.

§ 15. The board of trustees shall prescribe and publish instructions and forms, in relation to the commitment and admission of inmates, and may include in them such interrogatories to be answered as it may deem necessary or useful; which instructions and forms shall be furnished to any one applying therefor, and shall also be sent in sufficient numbers to the county clerks of the several counties of the state.

Who are "feeble-minded."

§ 16. The following persons, if not insane, shall be held to be "feeble-minded" within the meaning of this act:

(a) Those who are so mentally deficient that they are incapable of managing themselves and their affairs independently, with ordinary prudence, or of being taught to do so, and who require supervision, control, and care, for their own welfare, or for the welfare of others, or for the welfare of the community; or

(b) Those whose intelligence in the judgment of one or more psychologists, when they have been examined by such psychologist or psychologists making use of standardized psychological tests and whatever supplementary material may be available, will not develop beyond the level of the average child of twelve years.

Petition to superior court for order admitting person.

§ 17. Whenever any parent, guardian or other person charged with the support of a supposedly feeble-minded person who is not insane, or an epileptic under twenty-one years of age, desires such person to be admitted into the said institution, he may petition the superior court of the county in which such person resides for an order admitting such person thereto; the petition shall disclose his reasons for supposing such person to be eligible for admission thereto, and shall be verified by the affidavit of the petitioner. Or whenever any peace officer[r] desires any such supposedly feeble-minded or epileptic person to be so admitted, he may petition the said court as afore-said for an order therefor; provided, he shall have given two days previous written notice of the date of the presentation of the petition personally or by United States mail, to such parent, guardian or other person charged with such support, if known to him, and if not so known, then to some other relative or friend, if any known to him, residing in the said county, an affidavit whereof, together with the names, addresses and relationship of the parties so notified, and the facts of his said knowledge or want of knowledge, shall be filed with the petition.

Warrant for arrest.

§ 18. The court may cause a warrant to issue for the arrest and delivery to the court of such supposedly feeble-minded or epileptic person, whenever considered advisable or necessary, and have the same executed by any peace officer.

Examination of person. Order of commitment.

§ 19. The judge of the said court must inquire into the condition or status of such supposedly feeble-minded or epileptic person, for which purpose he may by subpoena require the attendance before him of a clinical psychologist and a reputable physician, or one of each, or two of either, to examine such person and testify as to his or her mentality. Such physicians must have made a special study of mental deficiency and be qualified to act as "medical examiners." The said judge may also by subpoena require the attendance of such other persons to give evidence as he may deem advisable, and if the judge find such person to be a feeble-minded person, as defined by section sixteen of this act, or an epileptic person under twenty-one years of age, and that such person has been a resident of the state for at least one year next preceding the presentation of the petition, such judge may make an order of commitment to said institution, and on the presentation of such order the superintendent must receive such person therein; provided, that, in the opinion of the board of trustees, the condition of such person, the accommodation at the said institution, and the state of its finances, be such as to justify the receiving of such person. Pending the said investigation the said supposedly feeble-minded or epileptic person may be left in charge of the parent, guardian or other suitable person or in a detention home.

Order to pay expenses.

§ 20. The judge shall attach to the order of commitment his findings and conclusions, together with all the social and other data he may have bearing upon the case, and the same shall be delivered to the said institution with such order. The judge must inquire into the financial condition of the parent, guardian or other person charged with the support of any such person, and if he find him able to do so, in whole or in part, he must make a further order, requiring him or her to pay, to the extent the judge may consider him or her able to pay, the expenses of the proceedings in connection with the investigation, detention and commitment of such person, and the expenses of the delivery thereof to the institution, and to pay to the institution, at stated periods, such sums as, in the opinion of the judge, are proper, during such time as the person may remain in the institution. This order may be enforced by such further orders as the judge deems necessary, and may be varied, altered or revoked in his discretion.

Petitioner to pay when.

§ 21. In case of the dismissal of the said petition, the judge may, if he considers the petition to have been filed with malicious intent, order the petitioner to pay the expenses in connection therewith, and may enforce the same by such further orders as he may deem necessary.

Penalty.

§ 22. Any one who shall knowingly contrive to have any person adjudged feeble-minded under this act, unlawfully or improperly, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor.

Feeble-minded boy or girl before juvenile court.

§ 23. When a boy or girl is brought before a juvenile court under the juvenile court law, if it appear to the court, either before or after adjudication, that such person is feeble-minded within the meaning of this act; or if on the conviction of any person of crime by any court it appear to the court that such person is feeble-minded as aforesaid, the court may adjourn the proceedings or suspend the sentence, as the case may be, and direct some suitable person to take proceedings under this act against the person before the court, and the court may order that, pending the preparation, filing and hearing of the petition, the person before the court be detained in a place of safety, or be placed under the guardianship of some suitable person, on his entering into a recognizance for the appearance of the person upon trial or under conviction when required. If upon the hearing of the petition, or upon a subsequent hearing under this act, the person upon trial or under conviction be not found to be feeble-minded, the court may proceed with the trial or impose sentence, as the case may be.

Persons admitted for observation.

§ 24. The superintendent may admit to the Pacific colony temporarily, without commitment, under such rules and regulations as the board of trustees may prescribe, for purposes of observation and testing, such persons, as are suspected of being feeble-minded, to ascertain whether or not they are actually mentally defective, and proper cases for care, treatment and training in an institution for the feeble-minded, and if such is found to be the case, application may be made to the superior court for an order of commitment of such persons to such an institution. On presentation of an affidavit or affidavits of the facts upon which such opinion is based, the judge of the said court may make such order.

Witness fees.

§ 25. Each psychologist and physician shall be entitled to receive for each attendance mentioned in section nineteen the sum of five dollars for each person examined together with his necessary actual expenses occasioned thereby, and other witnesses shall be entitled to receive for such attendance such fees and expenses as the court in its discretion may allow, if any, not exceeding the fees and expenses allowed by law in other cases in the said courts.

Payment by county treasurer.

§ 26. Any fees or traveling expenses payable to a psychologist, physician, or witness as aforesaid, and all expenses connected with the execution of any process under this act, which may not be paid by the parent, guardian or person charged with the support of the said supposed feeble-minded or epileptic person, shall be paid by the county treasurer of the county in which such person resides, upon the presentation to the treasurer of a certificate of the said judge that the party is entitled thereto.

Transfer to or from state hospital for insane.

§ 27. The said board of trustees, when it shall deem desirable, owing to the mental condition of an inmate of the Pacific colony, may, with the approval of the state commission in lunacy, transfer such inmate to a state hospital for the insane, provided that on due investigation by such commission, the commission shall consider such inmate a fit subject therefor. And the said commission, whenever on due observation and investigation it shall consider a patient in any state hospital for the insane eligible for commitment to the Pacific colony may with the approval of the said board of trustees, transfer such patient thereto, for care and treatment therein.

Transfer to or from Sonoma state home.

§ 28. Inmates of the Sonoma state home may be transferred to the Pacific colony, and inmates of the Pacific colony may be transferred to the Sonoma state home, at any time and from time to time as may be agreed upon by the boards of trustees of the two institutions, upon the application of the parent, guardian or other persons charged with the support of such inmate, provided he pay the expenses thereof, and may, with the approval of the state board of control, be so transferred without such application and without such payment, in which latter case the expenses thereof shall be paid by either or both of such institutions as may be determined by the state board of control.

Liability for support unchanged.

§ 29. In the event of the transfer of any inmate or patient as provided in sections twenty-seven and twenty-eight of this act the liability of any estate, person or county for the care, support and maintenance of such person, shall be the same to the institution to which the person is transferred as it was to the institution from which the transfer is made.

Execution of writ of commitment.

§ 30. It shall be the duty of the sheriff of any county wherein an order is made by the judge of the superior court committing any person to the Pacific colony, or of any other person designated by the said judge, to execute the writ of commitment, and to receive as compensation therefor such fees as are now or may hereafter be provided by law for the transportation of prisoners to the state prison; provided, that in all cases the parent, guardian or other person charged with the support of such person may, at his option, with the approval of the said judge, and in all cases where he is able or the estate of such person is sufficient, shall, if the said judge approve, without expense to the county or state, execute said writ, after being duly sworn therefor, with like effect and with like powers as the sheriff would have; but no such person, being a female, shall be taken to the said colony by any male person not her husband, father, brother or son, without the attendance of some woman of good character and mature age, chosen for the purpose by the judge, which woman shall, if the judge see fit, be paid therefor such reasonable remuneration as he may allow.

Payments by county.

§ 31. For each person committed to the Pacific colony there shall be paid by the county from which he is committed, to the state treasurer, the sum of fifteen dollars monthly, for and during each month or part of month such person so committed remains an inmate of the institution, in case the payments herein provided to be made by the parent, guardian or other person charged with the support of any such person should not be made, and to the extent they are not made, not exceeding fifteen dollars per month.

Statement by county auditor.

§ 32. Each county auditor must include in his state settlement report, rendered to the controller in the months of May and December, the amount due under this act, by reason of commitment to the Pacific colony, and the county treasurer, at the time of the settlement with the state in such months, must pay to the state treasurer, upon the order of the controller, the amounts found to be due by reason of the commitments herein referred to.

When others may be admitted.

§ 33. Whenever the accommodations of the Pacific colony permit, and if such action does not conflict with the interest or welfare of committed cases, the board of trustees, without judicial commitment, and upon such terms as may appear to said board to be to the best interests of the state, may admit to said institution epileptics, of any age, and also such other persons as are, under the provisions of this act, eligible for admission to said institution.

Transfer from state schools.

§ 34. Any boy who has been or may hereafter be committed to the Preston School of Industry, or the Whittier State School, or any girl who has been or may hereafter be committed to the California School for Girls at Ventura, or to any similar institution now or hereafter created, who comes within the provisions of this act, may, on application to a judge of the superior court of the county in which such person may be located, by the superintendent of the institution to which he or she has been committed, be discharged from such last mentioned institution, and be recommitted, for an indeterminate period, to the Pacific colony, to the Sonoma State Home, or to any similar institution hereafter created; provided, the findings of the judge and the opinion of the board of trustees of the institution to which such boy or girl is sought to be committed are the same as on the commitment to and receiving into the Pacific colony of other persons as aforesaid; and provided, that there shall have been served upon such relatives of said boy or girl, or upon such other persons and in such manner as the said judge may deem necessary or proper, such notice of the application as he shall consider sufficient, in order to enable them to be heard on the application.

Object of colony.

§ 35. The object aimed at in the Pacific colony shall be such care and training of its inmates as to render them more useful and happy, and tend to make them as nearly self-supporting as their level of intelligence may permit.

Manufacture of furniture, etc.

§ 36. The Pacific colony may manufacture or raise for sale, such articles of furniture, supplies or produce as may be used in the said or any other state institution, subject to the approval and under the control of the state board of control.

Disposition of funds.

§ 37. All moneys received from the sale of articles of furniture, supplies or produce as provided in section thirty-six of this act shall be paid to the state treasurer, to be placed in the contingent fund to the credit of the said colony and for its use.

Department for clinical diagnosis.

§ 38. The Pacific colony shall have a department for the clinical diagnosis of inmates, and their subsequent classification and observation, with a view to their proper segregation and treatment.

Examination of inmate before discharge.

§ 39. The superintendent shall, at least two weeks before the discharge of any inmate, have made, by a trained clinical psychologist, an examination of the mental condition of such inmate, and a permanent record thereof shall be kept in the office of the superintendent; which record shall be open to the inspection of all state boards or commissioners authorized by law to investigate or inspect the institution.

Biennial report of superintendent.

§ 40. The superintendent shall issue, at the end of each period of two years, a report of the work done during that period, giving the number of inmates received within that time, their sex, nativity, residence, date of reception, level of intelligence determined as aforesaid, and the results of the investigations that may have been made; such report shall also give the number of inmates discharged during that period, with the date and reason therefor, and the names of all paying inmates, the amounts charged for them, and the amounts received therefrom, together with such other information or suggestions as shall be required by the board of trustees or the state board of control, or to the superintendent may seem desirable; which report shall be kept on file in the office of the superintendent, but shall not be printed. A copy of such report shall be sent to the governor, along with the biennial report of the board of trustees, and may be printed for the use of the legislature or for distribution; provided, the names of the inmates are not given or their identity made evident.

Discharge of inmates.

§ 41. The board of trustees may discharge, or the superintendent may grant a temporary leave of absence to, any inmate at any time.

Sterilization before discharge.

§ 42. Before any inmate who has been committed to the Pacific colony, and who is feeble-minded or is afflicted with incurable chronic mania or dementia, shall be released or discharged therefrom, the board of trustees on the recommendation of the superintendent approved by a clinical psychologist holding the degree of Ph. D. and a physician qualified to serve under section nineteen of this act, after they shall have made a careful investigation of all the circumstances of the case, may cause such person to be sterilized; and such sterilization, whether with or without the consent of the inmate, shall be lawful, and shall not render the said commission, or its members, or any person participating in the operation, the said trustees, the said colony, or any of its officers or employees, liable civilly or criminally.

Action against trustees, etc.

§ 43. No civil action shall be brought against the trustees, the superintendent, or any other officer or employee of the said colony, because of any act done or failure to perform any act while discharging his official duties, without leave of the controller first had or obtained. Any just claim for damages against such trustee, superintendent, officer or employee, for which the state would be legally or equitably liable, may be paid out of any moneys appropriated for the said institution.

Penalty for bringing drugs or liquor.

§ 44. Any person, not authorized by law, who brings into the said colony, or within the grounds adjoining or adjacent thereto, any opium, morphine, cocaine, or other narcotic, or any intoxicating liquor of any kind whatever, except for medicinal or mechanical purposes, or any firearms, weapons, or explosives of any kind, is guilty of a misdemeanor.

Penalty for aiding escape.

§ 45. If any person procure the escape of any male inmate of the said colony, or advise, connive at, aid or assist in such escape, or conceal any such inmate after such escape, or if any person advise or connive at the escape of any female inmate of the said colony, he or she is guilty of a misdemeanor; and if any person procure the escape of any female inmate of the said colony, or aid or assist in such escape, or conceal such female inmate after such escape, he or she is guilty of a felony.

Trustees, etc., not to be interested in contracts.

§ 46. No trustee or employee of the said colony shall be personally, directly or indirectly, interested in any contract, purchase or sale made, or any business carried on, in behalf of or for said institution. All contracts, purchases or sales made in violation of this section shall be held and declared null and void, and all moneys paid to such trustee, employee, or any other person, for his benefit, in whole or in part, in consideration of such purchases, contracts or sales made, may be recovered by civil suit, to be instituted in the name of the state of California against such trustee, employee or person acting in his behalf; and in addition, it is hereby made the duty of the governor or the board of trustees, as the case may be, upon satisfactory proof of the fact of such interest, to immediately remove the trustee or employee delinquent as aforesaid, and to report the facts to the attorney general, who shall take such legal steps in the premises as he shall deem expedient.

Exempt from control of state commission in lunacy.

§ 47. The Pacific colony, its inmates, officers, employees and property are hereby declared to be exempt from the operation of chapter one, title five, part three of the Political Code, and free from the supervision, inspection or control of the state commission in lunacy.

Appropriation.

§ 48. There is hereby appropriated out of any money in the state treasury not otherwise appropriated, the sum of two hundred fifty thousand dollars ($250,000.00) for the purposes of this act.

Payment.

§ 49. The controller of the state is hereby directed on requisition of the board of trustees, duly audited by the state board of control, to draw his warrant on the state treasurer in favor of the board of trustees for any moneys duly appropriated, to pay for the expenditures in the establishment and maintenance of the said colony, and the said treasurer is directed to pay the same from the appropriations provided therefor.

Validity.

§ 50. The invalidity of any part of this act shall not be construed to affect the validity of any other part capable of having practical operation and effect without the invalid part.

MOSQUITO ABATEMENT DISTRICTS.

ACT 2168—An act to provide for the formation, government, operation and dissolution of mosquito abatement districts in any part of the state, to facilitate the extermination of mosquitos, flies and other insects; and to provide for the assessment, levy, collection and disbursement of taxes therein.

History: Approved May 29, 1915. In effect August 8, 1915. Stats. 1915, p. 1011.

Mosquito abatement districts.

§ 1. Mosquito abatement districts may be organized and incorporated and managed, as herein expressly provided and may exercise the powers herein expressly granted or necessarily implied.

§ 2. Any county, or city and county, or portion of a county, or city and county, whether such portion includes incorporated territory or not, in the state of California, having a population of not less than one hundred inhabitants, may be created a mosquito abatement district under the provisions of this act by proceeding as herein provided.

Petition. Boundaries. Publication.

§ 3. A petition, which may consist of any number of separate instruments, shall be presented at a regular meeting of the board of supervisors of the county in which the proposed mosquito abatement district is located, signed by the registered voters within the boundaries of the proposed district, equal in number, to at least ten per cent of the number of votes cast in said proposed district for the office of governor of this state at the last general election prior to the presenting of the petition; provided, that where one or more municipal corporations or part thereof is included in such proposed mosquito abatement district, such petition must be signed by at least ten per cent of the qualified electors of such municipal corporations or part thereof and of the unincorporated territory included in such proposed district, and in addition thereto the common council, board of trustees or other governing body of each such municipality shall by resolution, duly authenticated, request the inclusion of such incorporated territory in such district. Such petition shall set forth and describe the proposed boundaries of such district, and shall pray that the same be created under the provisions of this act, and the text of such petition shall be published for at least two weeks before the time at which the same is to be presented in a newspaper printed and published in such county, and also a newspaper printed and published in each municipal corporation or part thereof included in such proposed district, and if there be no newspaper published in any such municipal corporation, the text of such petition shall be posted for the same length of time as required to be published, in three public places within such municipal corporation or part thereof included in such proposed district, and the text of such petition so published or posted shall have annexed thereto a notice stating the time of the meeting of the board of supervisors at which the same will be presented. When contained upon more than one instrument, one copy only of such petition need be published and posted. No more than five of the names attached to said petition need appear in such publication or posting of said petition and notice, but the number of signers shall be stated.

Hearing. Establishment of boundaries.

With such publication there shall also be published, and if posted, there shall also be posted, a notice of the time of the meeting of the board when such petition will be considered, and that all persons interested therein may then appear and be heard. At such time the board of supervisors shall hear the petition and those appearing thereon, and also all protests and objections to the same, and may adjourn such hearing from time to time not exceeding two months in all. No defect in the contents of the petition or in the title to or form of the notice or signatures, or lack of signatures thereto, shall vitiate any proceedings thereon, provided such petition or petitions have a sufficient number of qualified signatures attached thereto. On the final hearing said board shall make such changes in the proposed boundaries as may be deemed advisable and shall define and establish such boundaries; provided, that if said board deems it proper to include therein any territory not included within the said proposed boundaries, they shall first cause notice of their intention so to do, to be mailed to each owner of land within said territory proposed to be included whose name appears as such on the last completed assessment roll of the county or city and county wherein said territory lies, addressed to such owner at his address given on such assessment roll, or if no address is so given, then to his last known address; or if it be not known, then at the county seat of the county in which his land lies, which said notice shall describe the territory so proposed to be included, and shall fix a time, not less than two weeks from the date of mailing thereof, when all persons interested may appear before said board and be heard; and further provided, that the boundaries lying within a municipal corporation shall not be altered unless the municipal board of such municipal corporation shall, by resolution, assent to the alteration of such boundaries therein.

Determination of supervisors. Finding final. Copy filed with secretary of state.

Upon such hearing of such petition the board shall determine whether or not the public necessity or welfare of the proposed territory and of the inhabitants thereof requires the formation of such district, and shall also determine whether or not said petition complies with the provisions of this act, and for that purpose must hear all competent and relevant testimony offered in support of or in opposition thereto. A finding of the board of supervisors in favor of the genuineness and sufficiency of the petition and notice shall be final and conclusive against all persons except the state of California, upon suit commenced by the attorney general. If, from the testimony adduced before said board, it appears to said board that the public necessity or welfare requires the formation of such district, the said board shall, by an order entered on its minutes, declare such to be its finding, and shall further declare and order that the territory within the boundaries so fixed and determined, be created a mosquito abatement district, under an appropriate name to be selected by said board, which name shall contain the words "Mosquito Abatement District." The county clerk shall immediately cause to be filed with the secretary of state a certified copy of such order of the board of supervisors, and from and after the date of the filing of such certified copy, the district named therein shall be deemed incorporated as a mosquito abatement district, with all the rights, privileges and powers set forth in this act, and necessarily incident thereto.

Board of trustees. Term of office.

§ 4. Within thirty days after the said filing with the secretary of state of the certificate of incorporation of said district, a governing board of trustees for said district shall be appointed. Said board shall consist of one trustee to be appointed from said district at large by said board of supervisors and of one trustee to be appointed from each municipality in said district by the governing board of such municipality; provided, that, if the board of trustees thereby created shall consist of less than five members, then the board of supervisors shall appoint from such district at large enough additional members to make a board of five trustees. The governing board of such district shall be called "The Board of Trustees of Mosquito Abatement District." Each trustee appointed by a municipal board shall be an elector of the municipality from which he is appointed, and each appointee of the board of supervisors shall be an elector of the district. All such trustees shall hold office for the term of two years from and after the second day of the calendar year succeeding their appointment; provided, however, that the first board of trustees appointed under the provisions of this act shall, at their first meeting, so classify themselves by lot that one-half of their number, if the total membership is an even number, and if uneven then that a bare majority of their number, shall go out of office at the expiration of one year and the remainder at the expiration of two years, from the second day of the calendar year succeeding their appointment.

Meetings. Compensation. Quorum.

§ 5. The members of the board of trustees shall meet on the first Monday subsequent to thirty days after the filing with the secretary of state of the certificate of incorporation of said district and shall organize by the election of one of their members as president and one thereof as secretary. The members of the board shall serve without compensation except that the necessary expenses of each member for actual traveling expenses on meetings or business connected with said board shall be allowed and paid. In event of the resignation, death or disability of any member, his successor shall be appointed by the board of supervisors, if such board originally made such appointment, or by the governing board of the appropriate municipality, if such appointment were originally made by the board of a municipality. The board of trustees shall provide for the time and place of holding its regular meetings, and the manner of calling the same, and shall establish rules for its proceedings. Special meetings shall be called by three trustees and notice of the holding thereof shall be given to each member at least three hours before the meeting. All of its sessions, whether regular or special, shall be open to the public and a majority of the members of the board shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business.

Extermination of mosquitoes, etc.

§ 6. The board of trustees of such district shall have power to take all necessary or proper steps for the extermination of mosquitoes, flies or other insects within the district, and subject to the paramount control of the municipal or other public authorities, to abate as nuisances all stagnant pools of water and other breeding places for mosquitoes, flies or other insects within the district; to purchase such supplies and materials and to employ such labor as may be necessary or proper in furtherance of the objects of this act, and if necessary or proper, in the furtherance of the same, to build, construct and thereafter to repair and maintain, necessary levees, cuts, canals or channels upon any land within the district, and to acquire by purchase, condemnation or by other lawful means, in the name of the district, any necessary lands, rights of way, easements, property or material requisite or necessary for any of such purposes; to make contracts to indemnify or compensate any owner of land or other property for any injury or damage necessarily caused by the exercise of the powers by this act conferred or arising out of the use, taking or damage of such property for any of such purposes, and generally to do any and all things necessary or incident to the powers hereby granted and to carry out the objects specified herein.

Estimate of expenses. Tax levy.

§ 7. The board of trustees of each mosquito abatement district shall at least fifteen days before the first day of the month in which the board of supervisors of the county, or city and county, in which such district is situate, is required by law to levy the amount of taxes required for county, or city and county, purposes, furnish to the board of supervisors and to the county auditor, respectively, an estimate in writing of the amount of money necessary for all purposes required under the provisions of this act during the next ensuing fiscal year. The board of supervisors of such county, or city and county, shall thereafter, at the time and in the manner of levying other county, or city and county, taxes, levy upon all of the taxable property within the district and cause to be collected a tax, to be known as the ".....Mosquito Abatement District Tax," the maximum rate of which must not be greater than sufficient to raise the amount estimated to be raised by the said board of trustees of the district, nor in any event shall such tax exceed ten cents on each one hundred dollars of taxable property in such district.

Election on tax levy. Ballots.

Whenever it appears to the board of trustees of such district that the amount of funds required during the next ensuing fiscal year shall exceed the maximum amount which the supervisors are authorized to levy for the annual district tax, as hereinabove in this section provided, then said board of trustees may in their judgment call an election and submit to the electors of the district the question of whether a tax shall be voted for raising the necessary additional funds, and notice thereof shall be published for at least four weeks prior to such election in a newspaper printed and published in such district; provided, that no particular form of ballot shall be required nor shall any formalities in conducting such election invalidate the same, if the election shall have otherwise been fairly conducted. At such election the ballots must contain the words "Shall the district vote a tax to raise the additional sum of $———?" The board of trustees shall canvass said votes cast at such election and if a majority of the votes cast are in favor of the imposition of said tax the board of trustees must report the same to the board of supervisors, stating the additional amount of money required to be raised. The board of supervisors shall at the time of levying the county taxes, levy an additional tax upon all of the taxable property in the district voting such additional tax sufficient to raise the amount voted.

Collection of taxes.

All taxes levied under the provision of this section shall be computed and entered on the county assessment roll by the county auditor, and collected at the same time and in the same manner as state and county taxes; and when collected shall be paid into the county treasury for the use of the district.

Withdrawal of funds.

The funds shall be withdrawn from the county treasury upon the warrant of the board of trustees of such district signed by the president or acting president of the board, and countersigned by its secretary.

Annexation of territory. Canvass of votes. Property in cities.

§ 8. Any territory, incorporated or unincorporated, lying adjacent and contiguous to a mosquito abatement district, may be added and annexed to such district, at any time, upon proceedings being had and taken as in this act provided. The board of trustees of such district, upon receiving a written petition therefor containing a description of the new territory sought to be annexed to such district, signed by the owners comprising more than one-half of the assessed value of such territory as shown by the last county assessment-roll, must thereupon submit to the electors of the district and also to the electors residing in the territory sought to be annexed, the proposition of whether such proposed territory shall be annexed and added to such district. The proposition to be submitted to the electors at such election, both within said district and within said territory so proposed to be annexed, shall be as follows: "For annexation," or "Against Annexation," or words equivalent thereto. Such election must be called and held, and notice thereof shall be published for at least four weeks prior to such election in a newspaper printed and published in such district, and also in a newspaper printed and published in such territory so proposed to be annexed. The board of trustees shall canvass, separately, the votes cast within said district, and the votes cast within said territory so proposed to be annexed, and if it shall appear from such canvass that a majority of all the ballots cast in such district and a majority of all the ballots cast in such territory so proposed to be annexed are in favor of annexation, the board of trustees shall certify such fact to the secretary of state describing said property proposed to be annexed and upon receipt of such last mentioned certificate, the secretary of state shall thereupon issue his certificate reciting that the territory (describing the same) has been annexed and added to theMosquito Abatement District (naming it), and a copy of such certificate of the secretary of state shall be transmitted to and filed with the county clerk of the county, or city and county, in which such mosquito abatement district is situated. From and after the date of such certificate the territory named therein shall be deemed added and annexed to and form a part of said mosquito abatement district, with all the rights, privileges and powers set forth in this act and necessarily incident thereto. If the property so proposed to be annexed is included within a municipality, consent to such annexation shall first be obtained from the governing board of such municipality, and an authenticated copy of the resolution or order of such board so consenting to such annexation, shall be attached to the petition, and be made a part thereof.

Dissolution of district. Disposition of property.

§ 9. The district may at any time be dissolved upon the vote of two-thirds of the qualified electors thereof, upon an election called by its board of trustees upon the question of dissolution, and the proposition which shall be submitted to the electors at such election shall be as follows: "Shall the district be dissolved?" Such election must be called and held; and notice thereof shall be published for at least four weeks prior to such election in a newspaper printed and published in such districts. If two-thirds of the votes at such election shall be in favor of the dissolution of the district, the board of trustees shall certify such fact to the secretary of state, and upon receipt of such last mentioned certificate, the secretary of state shall thereupon issue his certificate reciting that the mosquito abatement district (naming it) has been dissolved, and a copy of such certificate of the secretary of state shall be transmitted to and filed with the county clerk of the county, or city and county, in which such mosquito abatement district is situated. From and after the date of such certificate the district named therein shall be deemed disincorporated, and the property of the district shall thereupon vest in the county, or city and county wherein said district is situate, if the district at the time of its dissolution comprises unincorporated territory alone, and if it comprises incorporated territory alone, or partly incorporated and partly unincorporated territory, then in such event its property shall be ratably apportioned amongst the several municipalities and the county, or city and county, in proportion to the assessed value of the property included within said district as shown upon the last county assessment roll; provided, however, that any real property, easements or rights of way, belonging to said district shall in such event remain the property of the municipality wherein the same is situate, if situated within incorporated territory, otherwise the same shall remain the property of the county.

Publication of notices. Definitions.

§ 10. Every notice herein required to be published may be published in a daily or weekly or semi-weekly newspaper; and if there is no daily or weekly or semi-weekly newspaper published within the district or within a subdivision thereof or other territory wherein the same is required to be published, then such notice shall be posted for the length of time herein required for the publication of the same in three public places of such district or such subdivision thereof or such other territory as the case may be. The term "municipality," as used in this act, shall include a consolidated city and county, city or town, and shall be understood and so construed as to include, and is hereby declared to include, all corporations heretofore organized and now existing, and those hereafter organized, for municipal purposes. The word "district" shall apply, unless otherwise expressed or used, to a mosquito abatement district formed under the provisions of this act, and the word "trustees," and the words "board of trustees," shall apply to the trustees and to the board of trustees of such district.

Constitutionality of act.

§ 11. If any section, subsection, sentence, clause or phrase of this act is for any reason held to be unconstitutional, such decision shall not affect the validity of the remaining portions of this act. The legislature hereby declares that it would have passed this act, and each section, subsection, sentence, clause and phrase thereof, irrespective of the fact that any one or more other sections, subsections, sentences, clauses or phrases be declared unconstitutional.

PREVENTION OF IMPORTATION OF INSECTS.

ACT 2169—An act to prevent the importation into or transportation through the state of California of insects injurious to cultivated crops, providing exemption for specific scientific purposes, fixing the authority to grant such exemption and providing a penalty for a violation of the terms of this act.

History: Approved May 5, 1917. In effect July 27, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 271.

Importation of injurious insects forbidden.

§ 1. No person, firm or corporation shall bring into the state of California, nor shall any railroad, steamship, express or other transportation company knowingly transport into the state of California from any state, territory or district in the United States, or from any foreign country, or from one point or place in the state of California to another point or place therein, any cotton boll weevil, gypsy moth, or any insect in a live state which is injurious to cultivated crops, or the eggs, larvae or pupae of any insect injurious as aforesaid, except when brought for scientific purposes under the regulations hereinafter provided for; nor shall any person bring into the state of California from any state, territory or district in the United States, or from any foreign country, or from any point or place in the state of California to another point or place therein, except for scientific purposes under the regulations as hereinafter provided for, any insect in a live state which is injurious to cultivated crops, or the eggs, larvae or pupae of any insect injurious as aforesaid.

Insects for scientific purposes exempted.

§ 2. No provision in this act shall apply to the transportation or moving into or through the State of California, of live insects for scientific purposes under the rules and regulations promulgated by the United States department of agriculture, or by the state commissioner of horticulture of California.

Penalty.

§ 3. Any person, firm or organization who shall violate the provisions of section one of this act shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Editor's Note.—All acts relating to the formation of insurance corporations enacted prior to the adoption of the Civil Code, were repealed by section 288 of that code, except as to existing corporations. This includes a number of early acts, beginning with that of 1851 (Stats. 1851, p. 523), which were not repealed or otherwise abrogated prior to the enactment of the code. All these acts have been omitted, upon the theory that, since they apply only to corporations formed under them, prior to the adoption of the code, and since few, or probably none, of these corporations exist, the acts themselves are obsolete. As to acts relating to the conditions of doing insurance business, and the matter of insurance regulation, prior to the adoption of the code, they have been repealed or superseded mostly by the code and amendments thereto, and are omitted for that reason.

Incorporation of.

§ 1. Any number of persons, not less than twenty-five, residing in any county in this state, owning insurable property aggregating not less than fifty thousand dollars in value, which they desire to have insured, may incorporate for the purpose of mutual insurance against loss or damage by fire.

Articles of incorporation. Certificate.

§ 2. Such persons shall file with the insurance commissioner a declaration of their intention to incorporate for the purposes expressed in section one of this act, which declaration shall be signed by all of the incorporators, and shall contain a copy of the articles of incorporation proposed to be adopted. The insurance commissioner shall examine the proposed articles of incorporation, and if they conform to this act he shall deliver to such persons a certificate permitting them to incorporate as such insurance company. Such certificate shall be directed to the clerk of the county in which such corporation is proposed to be organized, and shall contain a copy of the proposed articles of incorporation. Upon filing with the secretary of state the certified copies of the duly executed articles of incorporation, as required by section two hundred and ninety of the Civil Code of the state of California, and of the certificate above provided for, the secretary of state shall thereupon issue a certificate of incorporation to such county insurance company, and, upon organizing under such articles of incorporation, such county fire insurance company may carry on a fire insurance business as herein-after provided. The articles of incorporation and the charter or certificate obtained by any county fire insurance company operating under the provisions of this act shall be subject to the control and modification by the legislature of the state of California. The by-laws and all amendments thereto shall be filed with the insurance commissioner within sixty (60) days after their adoption.

Directors.

§ 3. The number of directors shall not be less than (7) seven, nor more than eleven (11), a majority of whom shall constitute a quorum to do business. These directors shall be elected from the members of the association by ballot, and shall hold office for one year, or until their successors are elected and qualified. The annual meeting of the members of the company shall be on the second Monday in January of each year. In the election of the first board of directors each member shall be entitled to one vote. At every subsequent election, every person insured shall be entitled to as many votes as there are directors to be elected, and an equal additional number for every risk or risks he holds in the company, and he may cast the same in person or by proxy, distributing them among the directors to be elected, or among a less number of directors, or cumulating them upon one candidate, as he shall see fit.

Officers.

§ 4. The directors shall elect, from their own number, a president and a vice-president, and shall also elect a treasurer and a secretary, who may or may not be members of the company. All of such officers hold their office for one year from the date of their election, and until their successors are elected and qualified.

Bonds.

§ 5. The treasurer and secretary shall give bonds to the company for the faithful performance of their duties, in such amounts as shall be prescribed by the board of directors.

Powers. By-laws.

§ 6. Such corporation and its directors shall possess the usual powers, and be subject to the usual duties of corporations and directors thereof, and may make such by-laws, not inconsistent with the constitution and the laws of this state, as may be deemed necessary for the management of its affairs, in accordance with the provisions of this act. Also, to prescribe the duties of its officers and to fix their compensation, and to alter and amend its by-laws, when necessary.

Qualifications for members.

§ 7. Any person owning insurable property in the county in which any such company is formed or any person owning insurable property in any county adjoining the county wherein such company is formed as hereinafter provided, may become a member by insuring therein, and shall be entitled to all the rights and privileges appertaining thereto; but no person not residing in the county in which a company is formed shall become a director of such a company. [Amendment of May 26, 1917. In effect July 27, 1917, Stats. 1917, p. 944.]

What may be insured. Limitation. Pro rata share of expense and loss.

§ 8. Such company may issue policies on detached dwellings, schoolhouses, churches, and farm buildings (except hotels and public barns or garages); and such property as may be contained therein; also, on property owned by the assured on the premises or stored in public or private warehouses outside the corporate limits of any city or town; provided, that insurance upon personal property owned by the insured including automobiles and live stock permitted under this act, shall continue in full force and effect during the use or transportation thereof in the ordinary course of business of the insured wherever the same may be located at the time of loss; all for any time not exceeding five years and not to extend beyond the time limited for the existence of the charter; provided, however, that if an amount in excess of four thousand five hundred dollars subject to one risk or hazard be written, then all in excess of this amount must be immediately placed with or reinsured in some other company; provided, also, that no company that has been organized more than six months shall write insurance subject to one fire in amount exceeding three per cent of the total amount of risks or hazards upon the books of any such company. All persons, whose property is so insured, shall give their obligations to the company binding themselves, their heirs and assigns to pay their pro rata share to the company of the necessary expense and loss by fire which may be sustained by any member thereof during the time for which their respective policies are written; and they shall also at the time of effecting the insurance pay such percentage in cash and such other charges as may be required by law or by the rules and by-laws of the company. [Amendment of May 26, 1917. In effect July 27, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 944.]

Classifying risks.

§ 9. All such companies must classify the property insured therein at the time of issuing policies thereon under different rates, corresponding as nearly as may be to the greater or less risk from fire loss which may be attached to the several kinds of property insured.

Insuring outside county and in municipalities.

§ 10. No such company shall insure any property beyond the limits of the county wherein the said company is organized, excepting that the company may insure in any county next adjoining the county wherein such company is organized. No such company shall issue policies covering on property in excess of four thousand five hundred dollars on any one risk or hazard under one or more policies, without immediately reinsuring the excess amount in some other company. Nor shall any such company assume a risk or risks on property situated in the limits of any city or town, or within any closely built up district, within any one block, without immediately reinsuring all in excess of four thousand five hundred dollars. Any such company may reinsure or accept reinsurance in any company operating under the provisions of this act, and not otherwise, but in no case shall the reinsurance taken by any one company exceed the amount of the risk written by the company originating the business. The location, character of, and number of risks reinsured shall not vary from that permitted in the case of original insurance. Where the amount of insurance covered by policies already written exceeds four thousand five hundred dollars, no additional insurance shall be written by such company on farm property, within a radius of one hundred feet and such radius shall continue at not less than seventy-five feet during the life of the policy, nor shall any risk be taken on any building closer than one hundred feet to any business property, nor shall any insurance be written by any such company on city or country property in excess of seventy-five per cent of its actual cash value and no additional insurance shall be allowed.

Terms defined.

For the purpose of this act "a city or town block" shall be construed to be an area having at least one frontage in a closely built up district fronting on a used public street or highway, surrounded on all sides by a clear space at least equal in width to the clear space of such public street or highway and containing an area of not more than one hundred sixty thousand square feet.

"Closely built up district" shall mean territory on the line of a public highway or street or block or blocks where for not less than a quarter of a mile the dwelling houses and business structures average less than one hundred feet apart.

"One risk" means one hazard under one or more policies, subject to one fire and relates to the amount named in the policy or policies.

"Clear space" means space free from combustible material likely to communicate fire. [Amendment of May 26, 1917. In effect July 27, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 944.]

This section was also amended March 23, 1907, Stats. 1907, p. 941; April 15, 1909, Stats. 1909, p. 912; May 1, 1911, Stats. 1911, p. 1339.

Adjustment of losses. Arbitration.

§ 11. Every member of such company who may sustain loss or damage by fire shall immediately notify the president, or in his absence, the secretary thereof, stating the amount of damage or loss sustained or claimed, and if not more than fifteen hundred dollars, then the president and secretary shall proceed to ascertain the amount of such loss or damage and adjust the same. If the claim for damage or loss be for an amount greater than fifteen hundred dollars, then the president of such company, or in his absence, the vice-president, or in the absence of both, the secretary thereof, shall forthwith convene the board of directors of such company, whose duty it shall be when convened, to appoint a committee, of not less than three disinterested members of said company, to ascertain the amount of such damage or loss. If in either case there is a failure of the parties to agree upon the amount of such damage or loss they may submit the question of the amount of such loss to arbitration, and in that event the president of the company shall appoint one disinterested person to act as an arbitrator, and the claimant or insured shall appoint another, and if such two arbitrators fail to agree upon the amount of such loss, then they shall select a third disinterested person to act with them, and such arbitrators so appointed shall have full authority to examine witnesses and to do all other things necessary to the proper determination of the amount of loss sustained by the claimant, and shall make their award in writing to the president of the company, and to the insured, and such award so as aforesaid made, shall be final as to the amount of the loss sustained. The pay of said committee shall be three dollars per day for each day's services so rendered, and five cents for each mile necessarily traveled in the discharge of their duties, which shall be paid by the claimant unless the award of such committee shall exceed the sum offered by the company in liquidation of such loss or damage, in which case such expense shall be paid by the company. [Amendment of April 15, 1909. Stats. 1909, p. 912.]

This section was also amended March 23, 1907, Stats. 1907, p. 941.

Assessments for deficiency. Loans to meet losses not over certain amount.

§ 12. When the amount of any loss shall have been ascertained, which exceeds in amount the cash funds of the company, the president shall convene the directors of said company, who shall make an assessment upon all of the property to the amount for which each several piece of property is insured, taken in connection with the rate of premium under which it may be classified; except when the amount of such loss or losses does not exceed one-eighth of one per cent of the total amount of insurance in force in any county fire insurance company, then and in such event the directors of said company may, by resolution in writing, signed by two-thirds of said directors in meeting assembled, borrow in the name of said company and give said company's note or other evidence of indebtedness therefor, in an amount or amounts whose total shall not exceed one-eighth of one per cent of the total amount of insurance in force in said company. The term of said loan or loans shall not be for a greater period than twelve months nor shall the date of maturity be in excess of thirty days beyond the date of the annual meeting of said company; provided, further, that the board of directors may at their annual meeting levy an assessment not to exceed twenty-five cents on the one hundred dollars on first class insurance and a pro rata amount on other classes, and said sum so raised shall constitute a reserve fund to be used in emergency cases only and another assessment for this fund shall not be made while this reserve fund remains intact. [Amendment of April 24, 1917. In effect July 27, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 163.]

This section was also amended March 23, 1907, Stats. 1907, p. 941.

Notice of assessments.

§ 13. It shall be the duty of the secretary, whenever such an assessment shall have been made, to immediately notify every person holding a risk in such company, personally, by an agent, or by letter directed to his usual postoffice address, of the amount of such loss, and the sum due from him, as his share thereof, and of the time and to whom such payment is to be made; but such time shall not be less than thirty days, nor more than ninety days, from the date of such notice.

Action for neglect or refusal to pay assessment.

§ 14. An action may be brought against any member of such company who shall neglect or refuse to pay any assessment made upon him by the provisions of this act, or other liabilities due the company, and the directors of any company so formed who shall willfully refuse or neglect to perform the duties imposed upon them by law or by the by-laws of the company shall be liable in their individual capacity to the person sustaining such laws. An action may also be brought and maintained against any such company by members thereof for losses sustained if payment is withheld after the amount of such losses have been determined, and is due by the terms of the policy.

Annual statement.

§ 15. It shall be the duty of the secretary to prepare an annual statement, showing the condition of such company on the thirty-first day of December, and present the same at the annual meeting.

Withdrawals.

§ 16. Any member of such company may withdraw therefrom by surrendering his policy for cancellation at any time while the organization continues the business for which it was organized, by giving notice in writing to the secretary thereof, and paying his share of all claims that may exist against such company; provided, that the company shall have power to cancel or terminate any policy by giving the insured five days' written notice to that effect, and returning to him any excess of premium he may have paid during the term of the policy over the cost of his insurance as measured by the rules or methods of standard fire insurance companies doing business in this state. [Amendment of April 24, 1917. In effect July 27, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 164.]

Report of officers.

§ 17. It shall be the duty of the president and secretary, within thirty days after the first day of January in each year, to prepare, under their own oath, and transmit to the insurance commissioner, a statement of the condition of the company on the last day of the month next preceding the annual meeting. If, upon examination, the insurance commissioner finds that such company is doing business correctly, in accordance with the provisions of this act, he shall thereupon furnish the company his certificate, which shall be deemed authority to continue business during the ensuing year, subject, however, to the provisions of this act. For such examination and certificate the company shall pay one dollar. Each company shall pay, at the time of organization, five dollars to the insurance commissioner, for all services which he shall render in the matter of organization.

Dissolution.

§ 18. Any such company may be proceeded against and dissolved in the manner and upon the same conditions as provided in case of other insurance companies incorporated in this state.

Stipulations and conditions.

STIPULATIONS AND CONDITIONS SPECIFICALLY REFERRED TO.

Property not covered. (a) This company shall not be liable for loss to accounts, bills, currency, evidence of debt or ownership of other documents, money, notes, or securities; nor (b) unless liability is specifically assumed hereon, for the loss to bullion, casts, curiosities, drawings, dies, jewels, manuscripts, medals, models, patterns, pictures, scientific apparatus, business or store or office furniture or fixtures, sculptures, frescoes and decorations, or property held on storage or for repair.

Hazards not covered. This company shall not be liable for loss by (a) theft, or (b) neglect of the insured to use all reasonable means to save and preserve the property at and after a fire, or when the property is endangered by fire; or (c) (unless fire ensues, and in that event the damage by fire only), by explosion of any kind or lighting; or (d) by invasion, insurrection, riot, civil war, or commotion, or, (except as hereinafter provided), by military or usurped power, or order of any civil authority, but the company will be liable, unless otherwise provided by endorsement hereon or added hereto, if the property is lost or damaged, by fire or otherwise, by civil authority or military or usurped power exercised to prevent the spread of fire not originating from a cause excepted hereunder and which fire otherwise probably would have caused the loss of or damage to the insured property.

Matters voiding policy.

Matters avoiding policy. This entire policy shall be void, (a) if the insured has concealed or misrepresented any material fact or circumstances concerning this insurance or the subject thereof; or (b) in case of any fraud or false swearing by the insured touching any matter relating to this insurance or the subject thereof, whether before or after loss.

Unless otherwise provided by agreement endorsed hereon or added hereto this entire policy shall be void, (a) if the insured now has or shall procure any other insurance, whether valid or not, on property covered in whole or in part by this policy, or (b) if the interest of the insured be other than unconditional and sole ownership, or (c) if the subject of insurance be a building on ground not owned by the insured in fee simple, or (d) if with the knowledge of the insured foreclosure proceedings be commenced or notice given of sale of any property covered by this policy by virtue of any mortgage or trust deed, or (e) if this policy be assigned before a loss.

Matters suspending insurance. Unless otherwise provided by agreement endorsed hereon or added hereto this company shall not be liable for loss or damage occurring (a) while the hazard be materially increased by any means within the control of the insured; or (b) if the subject of insurance be a manufacturing establishment, while it is operated in whole or in part at night later than ten o'clock or while it ceases to be operated beyond the period of ten consecutive days; or (c) while mechanics or artisans are employed in building or altering or repairing the described premises for more than fifteen days at any one time; or (d) while illuminating gas or vapor be generated in the described building (or adjacent thereto) for use therein; or (e) while there be kept, used or allowed on the described premises (any usage or custom of trade or manufacture to the contrary notwithstanding), calcium carbide, phosphorus, dynamite, nitroglycerine, fireworks or other explosives or exceeding one quart each of benzine, gasoline, naphtha or ether; or more than twenty-five pounds of gunpowder; or (f) while a building herein described whether intended for occupation by owner or tenant is vacant or unoccupied beyond the period of ten (10) consecutive days; (g) while the interest in, title to or possession of the subject of insurance is changed excepting; (1) by death of the insured; (2) change of occupancy of building without material increase of hazard; and (3) transfer by one or more several co-partners or co-owners to the others.

Such suspension shall not extend beyond the term of this policy nor create any right for refund of the whole or any portion of premium, nor affect the respective rights of cancellation.

Chattel mortgage.

Chattel mortgage. Unless otherwise provided by agreement in writing endorsed hereon or added hereto this company shall not be liable for loss or damage to any property insured hereunder while encumbered by a chattel mortgage, but the liability of the company upon other property hereby insured shall not be affected by such chattel mortgage.

Fallen building clause.

Fallen building clause. Unless otherwise provided by agreement endorsed hereon or added hereto, if a building or any material part thereof fall, except as the result of fire, all insurance by this policy on such building or its contents shall immediately cease.

Removal when endangered by fire.

Removal when endangered by fire. Should any of said property be necessarily removed because of danger from fire, and there is no other insurance thereon, that part of this policy in excess of the value of the insured property remaining in the original location, or, if there is other insurance thereon, that part of this policy in excess of its proportion of the value of the insured property remaining in the original location, shall, for the ensuing five days only, cover the said removed property in its new location or locations.

Cancellation.

Cancellation. This policy may be canceled and the insured as a member of this company may withdraw therefrom by the insured surrendering his policy for cancellation at any time while the company continues the business for which it was organized, by giving notice in writing to the secretary thereof and paying his share of all claims that may exist against this company; provided, that this company shall have power to cancel or terminate any policy by giving the insured five days' written notice to that effect and returning to him any excess of premium he may have paid during the term of the policy, over the cost of his insurance as measured by the rate of standard fire insurance companies doing business in this state.

Adjustment of losses.

Adjustment of losses—arbitration. The insured who may sustain loss or damage by fire shall immediately notify the president, or in his absence, the secretary of this company, stating the amount of damage or loss sustained or claimed and if not more than one thousand five hundred dollars then the president and secretary shall proceed to ascertain the amount of such loss or damage and adjust the same. If the claim for damage or loss be for an amount greater than one thousand five hundred dollars, then the president of this company, or in his absence, the vice-president, or in the absence of both the secretary thereof, shall forthwith convene the board of directors of said company, whose duty it shall be when convened, to appoint a committee of not less than three disinterested members of this company, to ascertain the amount of such damage or loss. If in either case there is a failure of the parties to agree upon the amount of such damage or loss they may submit the question of the amount of such loss to arbitration, and in that event the president of the company shall appoint one disinterested person to act as an arbitrator, and the claimant or insured shall appoint another, and if such two arbitrators fail to agree upon the amount of such loss, then they shall select a third disinterested person to act with them and such arbitrators so appointed shall have full authority to examine witnesses and to do all other things necessary to the proper determination of the amount of loss sustained by the claimant, and shall make their award in writing to the president of the company and to the insured, and such award, so as aforesaid made, shall be final as to the amount of loss sustained. The pay of said committee shall be three dollars per day for each day's services so rendered and five cents for each mile necessarily traveled in the discharge of their duties, which shall be paid by the claimant unless the award of such committee shall exceed the sum offered by the company in liquidation of such loss or damage, in which case such expense shall be paid by the company.

Option of company in case of loss.

Option of company in case of loss. This company may, at its option, take all or any part of the property for which insurance hereunder is claimed at its ascertained or appraised value, and may also, at its option, in satisfaction of its liability hereunder, repair, rebuild, or replace any building or structure or machine or machinery used therein, with other of like kind and quality, within a reasonable time, upon giving notice within twenty days of its intention so to do after the receipt by it of the preliminary proof of loss, or, if verified amendments have been requested, within twenty days after their receipt, or, within twenty days after the receipt of an affidavit that the insured is unable to furnish such amendments. There can be no abandonment to this company of any property.

Apportionment of loss.

Apportionment of loss. This company shall not be liable under this policy for a greater proportion of any loss on the described property, or for loss by, and expense of, removal from the premises endangered by fire, than the amount hereby insured bears to the entire insurance covering such property whether valid or not, or by solvent or insolvent insurers.

Assessment for deficiency.

Assessment for deficiency. When the amount of any loss shall have been ascertained, which exceeds in amount the cash funds of the company, the president shall convene the directors of this company, who shall proceed in the manner as provided in section twelve of this act.

Notice of assessment.

Notice of assessment. It shall be the duty of the secretary, whenever assessment shall have been made, to immediately notify every person holding a risk in this company, personally, by an agent, or by letter directed to his usual postoffice address, of the amount of such loss, and the sum due from him, as his share thereof, and of the time and to whom such payment is to be made; but such time shall not be less than thirty days, nor more than ninety days from date of such notice.

Action for neglect to pay assessments.

Action for neglect or refusal to pay assessments. An action may be brought against the member whose property is insured herein and this policy is automatically suspended if the insured shall not have paid, before it is delinquent, his portion of any assessment levied or other liability due this company for a period in excess of ninety days. The directors of this company who shall willfully refuse or neglect to perform the duties imposed upon them by law or the by-laws of the company, shall be liable in their individual capacity to the person sustaining such loss. An action may also be brought and maintained against this company by members thereof for losses sustained if payment is withheld after the amount of such losses have been determined and is due by the terms of the policy.

Non-waiver by appraisal.

Non-waiver by appraisal or examination. This company shall not be held to have waived any provision or condition of this policy or any forfeiture thereof, by assenting to the amount of the loss or damage or by any requirement, act or proceeding on its part relating to the appraisal or to any examination herein provided for.

Subrogation.

Subrogation. If this company shall claim that the fire was caused by the act of any person or corporation, this company shall, upon payment of the loss be subrogated to the extent of such payment to all right of recovery by the insured for the loss resulting therefrom, and such right shall be assigned to this company by the insured on receiving such payment.

Time for commencement of action.

Time for commencement of action. No suit or action on this policy for the recovery of any claim shall be sustained, until after full compliance by the insured with all of the foregoing requirements, nor unless begun within fifteen months next after the commencement of the fire.

Definitions.

Definitions. Wherever in this policy the word "insured" occurs, it shall be held to include the legal representatives of the insured in case of death, and wherever the word "loss" occurs, it shall be deemed the equivalent of "loss or damage," and wherever the words "the time of loss or damage" are used they shall be deemed the equivalent of "the time of the commencement of the fire."

There shall be printed on the outside fold of said policy in type not smaller than small pica the following words in this form:

READ THIS POLICY.

Insurance company is liable only for actual cash value.

Policy is void in case of any fraud, false swearing, misrepresentation or concealment about material facts.

Policy is void, unless otherwise agreed in writing, if—

1. It is assigned before loss;
2. Insured has or shall procure other insurance;
3. Any change occurs in location of property;
4. Insured building is on ground not owned in fee simple by the insured;
5. Insured is not sole and unconditional owner.

Policy is suspended unless otherwise agreed in writing, if—

6. Described building becomes vacant or unoccupied for ten days;
7. Mechanics are employed more than fifteen days in repairing same;
8. Property is or becomes encumbered by chattel mortgage;
9. Illuminating gas or vapor is generated in or adjacent to described building;
10. Explosives or prohibited quantities of gasoline, etc., (except the gasoline contained in automobiles and gas engine tanks), as are kept on premises; and provided, also, that the insurance on live stock and automobiles shall cover wherever located at the time of the fire.

[PASTER.]

Insurance ceases if described building or any material part falls except as result of fire.

Policy does not cover certain enumerated personal property.

Note particularly duty of insured in case of loss; also provisions avoiding or suspending policy, including changes of ownership or possession.

[PASTER.]

By special agreement endorsed on the policy or added thereto, the provisions regarding appraisement or apportionment of loss may be waived and the valuations of all or any of the insured property in case of total loss may be agreed upon in advance of loss.

Said standard form of policy shall be plainly printed and no portion thereof shall be in type smaller than small pica and subheads shall be in type larger than pica, and the lines of the policy shall be numbered consecutively.

All mutual fire insurance policies on property in California shall be on said standard form, and except as herein provided, shall not contain additions thereto. No part of the standard form shall be omitted therefrom.

The blanks in said standard form shall be appropriately filled. The company may add to the standard form any matter relating to its financial condition, directors, officers, stockholders and history, and the address of its home office, and principal office in the state; also in red ink any provisions respecting any limitation of liability of the company, its stockholders or members which it is required or permitted by the law of the state or county of its organization to insert in its policies.

Clauses may be added to the standard form providing for and defining the rights, duties and obligations of mortgagees, assignees and other parties who have acquired or may acquire an interest in, right to or lien upon the insured property.

No clause shall be inserted or rider attached affecting the standard form liability of the insurer for loss or damage by fire occasioned either directly or indirectly by earthquake, hurricane, volcanic action or other disturbance of nature, unless the same shall be printed in red ink in type larger than small pica and at the head of the policy there shall be printed in red ink in large bold-faced type the words "This policy contains limitations of liability not permitted in the California standard form."

Clauses may be added to the standard form (a) covering property and risks not otherwise covered; (b) assuming greater liability than is otherwise imposed on the insurer; (c) granting insured permits and privileges not otherwise provided; (d) waivers of any of the matters, voiding the policy or suspending the insurance; (e) waivers of any of the requirements imposed on the insured after loss.

Except as herein otherwise provided clauses may be attached to the standard form by separate riders in type larger than pica imposing specified duties and obligations upon the insured and limiting the liability of the insurer.

Any insurer, or the agent countersigning or issuing a fire insurance policy covering in whole or in part property in California varying from the California standard form of policy except as herein provided is guilty of a misdemeanor but any policy so issued shall notwithstanding be binding upon the company issuing the same. [New section added May 26, 1917. In effect July 27, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 945.]

Repealed.

§ 19. All laws and parts of laws in conflict with this act are hereby repealed. [Amendment of May 26, 1917. In effect July 27, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 953.]

NON-INSURANCE OF STATE PROPERTY.

ACT 2185—An act relative to the noninsurance of property belonging to the state against risk of damage or destruction by fire.

History: Approved March 10, 1891, Stats. 1891, p. 70.

§ 1. No property belonging to this state shall hereafter be insured against risk of damage or destruction by fire, and no policy of fire insurance now existing upon any property belonging to this state shall be renewed at the expiration thereof, except the state printing office and its contents.

This act has been repealed as to certain state property. See Act 1865.

STANDARD FORM OF FIRE INSURANCE POLICY.

ACT 2186—An act to establish a standard form of fire insurance policy and to prevent variations therefrom, excepting under certain stated conditions and restrictions.

History: Approved March 18, 1909, Stats. 1909, p. 404.

Standard form of fire insurance policy.

§ 1. The following is adopted as a standard form of fire insurance policy for the state of California:

CALIFORNIA STANDARD FORM FIRE INSURANCE POLICY.

No. ——— Amount $ ———
Rate ———

No other insurance permitted except by agreement indorsed hereon or added hereto.

(Here insert name of company, and place of its main office in California, and name of state or country under which incorporated or organized.)

In consideration of the stipulations herein named and of ——— dollars premium does insure ——— for the term of ——— from the ——— day of ——— 19—, at noon, to the ——— day of ———, 19—, at noon against all loss or damage by fire, except as hereinafter provided.

To an amount not exceeding — dollars to the following described property while located and contained as described herein, and not elsewhere, to wit:

The company will not be liable beyond the actual cash value of the interest of the insured in the property at the time of loss or damage nor exceeding what it would then cost the insured to repair or replace the same with material of like kind and quality; said cash value to be estimated without allowance for any increased cost of repair or reconstruction by reason of any ordinance or law regulating repair or construction of buildings, and without compensation for loss resulting from interruption of business or manufacture.

This policy is made and accepted subject to the foregoing stipulations and conditions and those hereinafter stated, which are hereby specially referred to, and made part of this policy, together with such other provisions, agreements or conditions as may be indorsed hereon or added hereto, and no officer, agent, or other representative of this company shall have power to waive any provision or condition of this policy except by writing indorsed hereon or added hereto, and no person, unless duly authorized in writing, shall be deemed the agent of this company.

This policy shall not be valid until countersigned by the duly authorized agent of the company, at —.

In witness whereof, this company has executed and attested these presents (here insert name of company)

Countersigned at — this — day of —, 19—.

By — — Agent.

STIPULATIONS AND CONDITIONS SPECIALLY REFERRED TO.

Property not covered. (a) This company shall not be liable for loss to accounts, bills, currency, evidences of debt or ownership or other documents, money, notes or securities; nor, (b) unless liability is specifically assumed hereon, for loss to bullion, casts, curiosities, drawings, dies, jewels, manuscripts, medals, models, patterns, pictures, scientific apparatus, business or store or office furniture or fixtures, sculptures, frescoes, decorations, or property held on storage or for repair.

Hazards not covered. This company will not be liable for loss by (a) theft; or (b) by neglect of the insured to use all reasonable means to save and preserve the property at and after a fire, or when the property is endangered by fire; or (c) unless fire ensues (and in that event for the damage by fire only) by explosion of any kind or lightning; or (d) by invasion, insurrection, riot, civil war, or commotion, or (except as hereinafter provided) by military or usurped power, or order of any civil authority, but the company will be liable (unless otherwise provided by indorsement hereon or added hereto) if the property is lost or damaged, by fire or otherwise, by civil authority or military or usurped power exercised to prevent the spread of fire not originating from a cause excepted hereunder and which fire otherwise probably would have caused the loss of or damage to the insured property.

Matters avoiding policy. This entire policy shall be void, (a) if the insured has concealed or misrepresented any material fact or circumstances concerning this insurance or the subject thereof; or, (b) in case of any fraud or false swearing by the insured touching any matter relating to this insurance or the subject thereof, whether before or after a loss.

Unless otherwise provided by agreement indorsed hereon or added hereto, this entire policy shall be void, (a) if the insured now has or shall procure any other insurance, whether valid or not, on property covered in whole or in part by this policy, or (b) if the interest of the insured be other than unconditional and sole ownership, or (c) if the subject of insurance be a building on ground not owned by the insured in fee simple, or (d) if with the knowledge of the insured foreclosure proceedings be commenced or notice given of sale of any property covered by this policy by virtue of any mortgage or trust deed, or (e) if this policy be assigned before a loss.

Matters suspending insurance. Unless otherwise provided by agreement indorsed hereon or added hereto this company shall not be liable for loss or damage occurring (a) while the hazard be materially increased by any means within the control of the insured; or (b) if the subject of insurance be a manufacturing establishment, while it is operated in whole or in part at night later than 10 o'clock or while it ceases to be operated beyond the period of ten consecutive days; or (c) while mechanics or artisans are employed in building or altering or repairing the described premises for more than fifteen days at any one time; or (d) while illuminating gas or vapor be generated in the described building (or adjacent thereto) for use therein; or (e) while there be kept, used or allowed on the described premises (any usage or custom of trade or manufacture to the contrary notwithstanding) calcium carbide, phosphorus, dynamite, nitroglycerine, fireworks or other explosives; or exceeding one quart each of benzine, gasoline, naphtha or ether; or more than twenty-five pounds of gunpowder; or (f) while a building herein described whether intended for occupation by owner or tenant is vacant or unoccupied beyond the period of ten (10) consecutive days; (g) while the interest in, title to or possession of the subject of insurance is changed excepting:—(1) by the death of the insured; (2) a change of occupancy of building without material increase of hazard; and (3) transfer by one or more several copartners or co-owners to the others.

Such suspension shall not extend the term of this policy nor create any right for refund of the whole or any portion of premium, nor affect the respective rights of cancellation.

Chattel mortgage. Unless otherwise provided by agreement in writing indorsed hereon or added hereto this company shall not be liable for loss or damage to any property insured hereunder while encumbered by a chattel mortgage, but the liability of the company upon other property hereby insured shall not be affected by such chattel mortgage.

Fallen building clause. Unless otherwise provided by agreement indorsed hereon or added hereto, if a building or any material part thereof fall, except as the result of fire, all insurance by this policy on such building or its contents shall immediately cease.

Removal when endangered by fire. Should any of said property be necessarily removed because of danger from fire, and there is no other insurance thereon, that part of this policy in excess of the value of the insured property remaining in the original location, or, if there is other insurance thereon, that part of this policy in excess of its proportion of the value of the insured property remaining in the original location, shall, for the ensuing five days only, cover said removed property in its new location or locations.

Cancellation. This policy shall be canceled at any time at the request of the insured, in which case the company shall, upon surrender of this policy, refund the excess of paid premium above the customary short rates for the expired time. This policy may be canceled at any time, without tender of unearned portion of premium, by the company by giving five (5) days' written notice of cancellation to the insured and to any mortgagee or other party to whom, with the written consent of the company, this policy is made payable, in which case the company shall, upon surrender of the policy or relinquishment of liability thereunder, refund the excess of paid premium above the pro rata premium for the expired time.

Duty of insured in case of loss. When a loss occurs the insured must give to this company written notice thereof without unnecessary delay; and shall protect the property from further damage; forthwith separate the damaged and undamaged personal property and put it in the best possible order; and without unnecessary delay make a complete inventory stating as far as possible the quantity and cost of each article, and the amount claimed thereon.

Within sixty days after the commencement of the fire the insured shall render to the company at its main office in California named herein preliminary proof of loss consisting of a written statement signed and sworn to by him setting forth:—(a) his knowledge and belief as to the origin of the fire; (b) the interest of the insured and of all others in the property; (c) the cash value of the different articles or properties and the amount of loss thereon; (d) all encumbrances thereon; (e) all other insurance, whether valid or not, covering any of said articles or properties; (f) a copy of the descriptions and schedules in all other policies unless similar to this policy, and in that event, a statement as to the amounts for which the different articles or properties are insured in each of the other policies; (g) any changes of title, use, occupation, location or possession of said property since the issuance of this policy; (h) by whom and for what purpose any building herein described, and the several parts thereof, were occupied at the time of the fire.

If the company claims that the preliminary proof of loss is defective and within five days after the receipt thereof (without admitting the amount of loss or any part thereof) notifies in writing the insured, or the party making such proof of loss, of the alleged defects (specifically stating them) and requests that they be remedied by verified amendments the insured or such party within ten days after the receipt of such notification and request must comply therewith, or, if unable so to do, present to the company an affidavit to that effect.

The insured shall also furnish, if required, as far as it is practicable to obtain the same, verified plans and specifications of any buildings, fixtures or machinery destroyed or damaged; and the insured shall exhibit to any person designated in writing by this company all that remains of any property herein described and shall submit to examination under oath, as often as required, by any such person, and subscribe to the testimony so given and shall produce to such person for examination all books of account, bills, invoices and other vouchers, and permit extracts and copies thereof to be made, and in case the originals are lost certified copies, if obtainable, shall be produced.

Ascertainment of amount of loss. This company shall be deemed to have assented to the amount of the loss claimed by the insured in his preliminary proof of loss, unless within twenty days after the receipt thereof, or, if verified amendments have been requested, within twenty days after their receipt, or within twenty days after the receipt of an affidavit that the insured is unable to furnish such amendments, the company shall notify the insured in writing of its partial or total disagreement with the amount of loss claimed by him and shall also notify him in writing of the amount of loss, if any, the company admits on each of the different articles or properties set forth in the preliminary proof or amendments thereto.

If the insured and this company fail to agree, in whole or in part, as to the amount of loss within ten days after such notification, this company shall forthwith demand in writing an appraisal of the loss or part of loss as to which there is a disagreement and shall name a competent and disinterested appraiser, and the insured within five days after receipt of such demand and name, shall appoint a competent and disinterested appraiser and notify the company thereof in writing, and the two so chosen shall before commencing the appraisal, select a competent and disinterested umpire.

The appraisers together shall estimate and appraise the loss or part of loss as to which there is a disagreement, stating separately the sound value and damage, and if they fail to agree they shall submit their differences to the umpire, and the award in writing duly verified of any two shall determine the amount or amounts of such loss.

The parties to the appraisement shall pay the appraisers respectively appointed by them and shall bear equally the expense of the appraisement and the charges of the umpire.

If for any reason not attributable to the insured, or to the appraiser appointed by him, an appraisement is not had and completed within ninety days after said preliminary proof of loss is received by this company, the insured is not to be prejudiced by the failure to make an appraisement, and may prove the amount of his loss in an action brought without such appraisement.

Options of company in case of loss. This company may, at its option, take all or any part of the property for which insurance hereunder is claimed at its ascertained or appraised value, and may also, at its option, in satisfaction of its liabilities hereunder, repair, rebuild or replace any building or structure or machine or machinery used therein, with other of like kind and quality, within a reasonable time, upon giving notice within twenty days of its intention so to do after the receipt by it of the preliminary proof of loss, or, if verified amendments have been requested, within twenty days after their receipt, or, within twenty days after the receipt of an affidavit that the insured is unable to furnish such amendments.

There can be no abandonment to this company of any property.

Apportionment of loss. This company shall not be liable under this policy for a greater proportion of any loss on the described property, or for loss by, and expenses of, removal from the premises endangered by fire, than the amount hereby insured bears to the entire insurance covering such property whether valid or not, or by solvent or insolvent insurers.

Loss when payable. A loss hereunder shall be payable in thirty days after the amount thereof has been ascertained either by agreement or by appraisement; but if such ascertainment is not had or made within sixty days after the receipt by the company of the preliminary proof of loss, then the loss shall be payable in ninety days after such receipt.

Nonwaiver by appraisal or examination. This company shall not be held to have waived any provision or condition of this policy or any forfeiture thereof, by assenting to the amount of the loss or damage or by any requirement, act, or proceeding on its part relating to the appraisal or to any examination herein provided for.

Subrogation. If this company shall claim that the fire was caused by the act or neglect of any person or corporation, this company shall, on payment of the loss be subrogated to the extent of such payment to all right of recovery by the insured for the loss resulting therefrom, and such right shall be assigned to this company by the insured on receiving such payment.

Time for commencement of action. No suit or action on this policy for the recovery of any claim shall be sustained, until after full compliance by the insured with all of the foregoing requirements, nor unless begun within fifteen months next after the commencement of the fire.

Definitions. Wherever in this policy the word "insured" occurs, it shall be held to include the legal representatives of the insured in case of his death, and wherever the word "loss" occurs, it shall be deemed the equivalent of "loss or damage," and wherever the words "the time of loss or damage" are used they shall be deemed the equivalent of "the time of the commencement of the fire."

What to be printed on outside fold of policy.

§ 2. There shall be printed on the outside fold of said policy in type not smaller than small pica, the following words in this form:

READ THIS POLICY.

Ins. Co. is liable only for actual cash value.

Policy is void in case of any fraud, false swearing, misrepresentation or concealment about material facts.

Policy is void, unless otherwise agreed in writing, if

1st. It is assigned before loss;

2nd. Insured has or shall procure other insurance;

3rd. Any change occurs in location of property;

4th. Insured building is on ground not owned in fee simple by insured;

5th. Insured is not sole and unconditional owner.

Policy is suspended, unless otherwise agreed in writing, if

6th. Described building becomes vacant or unoccupied for ten days;

7th. Mechanics are employed more than 15 days in repairing same;

8th. Property is or becomes encumbered by chattel mortgage;

9th. Illuminating gas or vapor is generated in or adjacent to described building;

10th. Explosives or prohibited quantities of gasoline, etc., are kept on premises.

Insurance ceases if described building or any material part falls except as result of fire.

Policy does not cover certain enumerated personal property.

Note particularly duty of insured in case of loss;

Also provisions avoiding or suspending policy, including changes of ownership or possession.

Special agreement regarding appraisement.

§ 3. By special agreement indorsed on the policy or added thereto the provisions regarding appraisement or apportionment of loss may be waived and the valuations of all or any of the insured property in case of total loss may be agreed upon in advance of loss.

Policy to be plainly printed.

§ 4. Said standard form of policy shall be plainly printed and no portion thereof shall be in type smaller than small pica and subheads shall be in type larger than pica, and the lines of the policy shall be numbered consecutively.

County fire companies excepted.

§ 5. This act shall not apply to any company organized under an act entitled "An act to provide for the organization and management of county fire insurance companies," approved April 1, 1897, or amendments to that act, but all other fire insurance policies on property in California shall be on said standard form, and, except as herein provided, shall not contain additions thereto. No parts of the standard form shall be omitted therefrom.

What may be added to policy.

§ 6. The blanks in said standard form shall be appropriately filled. The company may add to the standard form any matter relating to its financial condition, directors, officers, stockholders and history, and the address of its home office and principal office in the United States; also in red ink any provisions respecting any limitation of liability of the company, its stockholders or members which it is required or permitted by the law of the state or country of its organization to insert in its policies.

Clauses as to mortgagees.

§ 7. Clauses may be added to the standard form providing for and defining the rights, duties and obligations of mortgagees, assignees and other parties who have acquired or may acquire an interest in, right to or lien upon the insured property.

Earthquake clause may be inserted, how.

§ 8. No clause shall be inserted or rider attached affecting the standard form liability of the insurer for loss or damage by fire occasioned either directly or indirectly by earthquake, hurricane, volcanic action or other disturbance of nature, unless the same shall be printed in red ink in type larger than small pica and at the head of the policy there shall be printed in red ink in large bold faced type the words, "This policy contains limitations of liability not permitted in the California standard form."

Other additional clauses.

§ 9. Clauses may be added to the standard form (a) covering property and risks not otherwise covered; (b) assuming greater liability than is otherwise imposed on the insurer; (c) granting insured permits and privileges not otherwise provided; (d) waivers of any of the matters avoiding the policy or suspending the insurance; (e) waivers of any of the requirements imposed on the insured after loss.

Separate riders.

§ 10. Except as herein otherwise provided clauses may be attached to the standard form by separate riders in type larger than pica imposing specified duties and obligations upon the insured and limiting the liability of the insurer.

Insurers other than corporations.

§ 11. Any insurers, other than corporations, issuing policies on property in California, shall use the standard form, changing only such words as refer to the corporation or company or to officers or agents of the corporation or company, and in regard to its organization; and such other insurers may substitute in place of such words having peculiar reference to corporations, appropriate words having similar reference to themselves.

Penalty for violation of act.

§ 12. Any insurer, or the agent countersigning or issuing a fire insurance policy covering in whole or in part property in California varying from the California standard form of policy except as herein provided is guilty of a misdemeanor but any policy so issued shall notwithstanding be binding upon the company issuing the same.

§ 13. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after the first day of August, 1909.

Constitutionality of statutes providing a standard form of fire insurance policy.—See 6 Ann. Cas. 91.

1. Judicial notice of terms in standard form.—The courts will take judicial notice of the terms of a standard form of fire insurance policy, and it is not necessary to plead it.—Northern, etc., Co. v. National, etc., Co., 35 Cal. App. 481.

2. Premature bringing of action.—Where the insurer disclaimed liability upon a standard form insurance policy, an action on the policy commenced before the expiration of ninety days from the alleged presentation of proofs of loss is premature.—Northern, etc., Co. v. National, etc., Co., 35 Cal. App. 481, 170 Pac. 434.

3. Disclaimer in writing presumed.—An allegation in an action on a fire insurance policy of the standard form, that defendant disclaimed liability under the policy will be taken as an allegation that the disclaimer was in writing as the terms of the standard form policy requires.—Northern, etc., Co. v. National, etc., Co., 35 Cal. App. 481, 170 Pac. 434.

4. Rider prevails where inconsistent with suspension clause.—A rider attached to an insurance policy of the standard form prevails over the suspension clause, so far as they are inconsistent.—O'Neill v. Caledonian, etc., Co., 166 Cal. 311, 135 Pac. 1121.

EXTENDING TIME FOR INSURANCE STATEMENT.

ACT 2187—An act to extend the time for filing with the insurance commissioner statements of insurance business transacted during the year ending December 31, 1905, within the time prescribed by law, and to remit penalties for failing to file the same.

History: Approved June 14, 1906, Stats. 1906 (ex. sess.), p. 30.

This act extended the time to file statements to July 31, 1906. It was passed because of the destruction of the records in the conflagration in San Francisco in 1906.

LIVESTOCK INSURANCE.

ACT 2189—An act relating to life, health and accident insurance of live-stock on the assessment plan and the conduct of the business of such insurance.

History: Approved March 23, 1907, Stats. 1907, p. 952.

Contract of mutual insurance of animals defined.

§ 1. Every contract whereby a benefit may accrue to a party or parties therein named upon the death or physical disability of an animal insured thereunder, or for the payment of any sums of money dependent in any degree upon the collection of assessments or dues from owners holding similar contracts, shall be deemed a contract of mutual insurance upon the assessment plan. Such contracts must show that the liabilities of the insured thereunder are not limited to fixed premiums.

How corporations may be formed. Investments. Condition precedent to issuing insurance.

§ 2. Corporations may be formed under the general laws of this state to carry on the business of mutual live-stock insurance upon the assessment plan, and shall be subject only to the provisions of this act. No such corporation shall issue contracts of insurance until at least two hundred (200) persons owning live-stock have applied, in writing, for membership or insurance therein, and have paid to the treasurer of such corporation the sum of five thousand (5000) dollars. This sum shall be invested in bonds or securities, approved by the insurance commissioner of this state, or deposited in some bank in this state where it will earn interest. Said bonds or securities, or evidences of such deposit, shall be placed, through the insurance commissioner of this state, with the state treasurer, and the principal sum shall be held in trust for the contract-holders of such corporation, with the right in the corporation to exchange said bonds, securities, or evidence of bank deposit for others of like value. Such corporation shall also, as a condition precedent to issuing any contracts of insurance, obtain the written certificate of the insurance commissioner that it has complied with the requirements of this act; and that the name of the corporation is not the same as that of any other corporation of this or other states, as indicated by the insurance department reports in his office; nor shall the commissioner approve any name or title so closely resembling another as to mislead the public. No corporation formed hereunder shall have legal existence after one year from the date of its articles, unless its organization has been completed, and business commenced; nor shall any corporation or individual solicit, or cause to be solicited, any business, until such corporation shall have complied with the provisions of section six hundred and thirty-three of the Political Code of this state.

What contracts of insurance shall specify.

§ 3. The contracts of insurance issued by such corporation shall specify the sum or sums to be paid upon the happening of the contingency insured against, and when such payments shall be made. Unless the contract shall have been invalidated by fraud or by breach of its conditions, the corporation shall be obligated to pay the beneficiary the amount or amounts specified in its contract at the time or times therein named, and such indebtedness shall be a lien upon all the property of such corporation, with priority over all indebtedness thereafter incurred, except as hereinafter provided in case of insolvency. Failure to make such payment within thirty days after notice, at the home office, by mail, as provided by law, of final judgment, unless waiver is made by the beneficiary, shall constitute a forfeiture of the right to do business.

Reserve fund required.

§ 4. Every domestic corporation organized or doing business under this act shall accumulate a reserve or emergency fund, which shall at all times be not less than the largest benefit contracted to be paid by it to any one person. Every existing domestic corporation must accumulate such fund within one year from the date when this act takes effect, and any corporation organized hereunder within one year from the date of its certificate of incorporation. Such fund, to the extent of the largest amount contracted to be paid by any such corporation to any one person, shall be so invested and deposited, as provided in section two hereof, with the right in the corporation to exchange any such securities for others of equal value. The deposit required by section two of this act shall constitute a part of the reserve required by this section, at the option of such corporation. When any corporation doing business hereunder shall discontinue business, this fund shall be returned to such corporation, or so disposed of as may be determined by the superior court of the county, or city and county, in which is its principal place of business.

Foreign corporations, conditions required.

§ 5. Corporations organized under the laws of any other state or country to transact the business of mutual assessment or live-stock insurance, must as a condition precedent to transacting business in this state, deposit with the insurance commissioner of this state a certified copy of its charter, or other instrument, required by its home authorities; a statement, under oath, of its president or secretary, of its business for the preceding year, in such form as may be required by the insurance commissioner of this state; an appointment of a general agent, service upon whom shall bind the corporation; a certificate that for the next preceding twelve months it has paid, in full, the maximum amount named in its contracts of insurance; a certificate from the proper officer of its state or government that like corporations of this state are legally entitled to do business in such state or country; copies of its contracts of insurance and applications, which must show that the liabilities of its members are not limited to fixed premiums; and evidence, satisfactory to the insurance commissioner, that the corporation has accumulated a fund equal to that required of like corporations in this state, constituting a reserve or surplus fund, held in trust for the benefit of its contract-holders, and so invested and held as required by the laws of the state or government under which such corporation was organized. The insurance commissioner shall thereupon issue a license to such corporation to do business in this state. This license must be renewed annually, and may be revoked whenever it is ascertained that the statements required to be made by this section are not true. Upon such revocation, notice thereof shall be given by the insurance commissioner, by publication in some newspaper published in the city and county of San Francisco, for two weeks, daily, and no new contracts shall be made by such company in this state. When any other state or country imposes any additional license, fees, taxes, or penalties upon any corporation organized or doing business under this act, like license, fees, taxes, or penalties shall be imposed upon corporations of the same kind, and their agents, of such state or country doing business in this state.

Limitations of contract. Applications for insurance. False statements, penalty for.

§ 6. No corporation doing business under this act (accept accident or casualty corporations) shall issue a contract of insurance upon the life of any animal after it has passed its fifteenth birthday. Every such contract of insurance shall be founded upon written application therefor, and (except when the application is for health, accident, or casualty insurance only, or for one hundred dollars life insurance, or less) such application shall be accompanied by the report of a reputable veterinarian, containing a detailed statement of his examination of the animal, and showing the animal to be in good health, and recommending the issuance of a contract of insurance. Any solicitor, agent, employee, examining veterinarian, or other person making a false or fraudulent statement to any corporation doing business under this act, with reference to any application for insurance, or for the purpose of obtaining any money or benefit from such corporation, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be punished by a fine of not less than one hundred dollars nor more than five hundred dollars, or by imprisonment in the county jail for not less than thirty days nor more than one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court; and any person who shall make a false statement of any material fact or thing in a sworn statement as to the death or disability of an animal of the contract-holder in any such corporation, for the purpose of procuring or aiding the beneficiary or beneficiaries, or contract-holder, in procuring the payment of a benefit named in the contract, shall be guilty of perjury, and may be proceeded against and punished as provided by the statutes of this state in relation to the crime of perjury.

Benefits not liable to attachments.

§ 7. The money, benefit, annuities, endowment, charity, relief, or aid to be paid as provided by the contracts issued by any corporation doing business under this act, shall not be liable to attachment or other process, and shall not be seized, taken, appropriated, or applied by any legal or equitable process, nor by operation of law, to pay any debts or liability of the contract-holder, or any beneficiary named thereunder.

Annual statement to be filed.

§ 8. Every domestic and foreign corporation doing business under this act, shall, annually, on or before the first day of February, file with the insurance commissioner, in such form as he shall prescribe, a statement of the affairs for the year ending on the preceding thirty-first day of December. The insurance commissioner, in person or by duly authorized deputy, shall have the power of examination into the affairs of any domestic corporation doing business or claiming to do business under this act, at any time, in his discretion, and shall make such examination at least once a year.

When corporation may have license revoked.

§ 9. If the insurance commissioner, after examination of the affairs of a corporation, shall find that such corporation is not doing its business in conformity to this act, or that it is doing a fraudulent or unlawful business, or that it is not carrying out its terms of contract, or that it can not within three months from the date of notice of default pay its obligations, he shall cite the president, secretary, manager, or general agent of said corporation, or all of them, to appear before him (stating the time and place) to show cause why the authority of such corporation to do business shall not be revoked; and if they can not show cause, then he shall report the facts to the attorney-general of this state, who shall commence proceedings in the proper court to restrain said corporation from doing any further business.

Assessments, notice of to be mailed.

§ 10. No policy or certificate issued by any corporation or association doing business under the provisions of this act shall lapse or be lapsed for the non-payment of any assessments, dues, or premiums, unless the corporation or association has first mailed to the insured under such policy or certificate, at his or her last given post-office address, a notice setting forth the amount to be paid, and the time the same is due and payable; and such notice shall be mailed at least fifteen days before the assessment is due (provided, that such corporations doing business under this act as collect specific amounts at specific dates, as contained in the contract, shall not be compelled to send such notices), and an affidavit made by the officer, book-keeper, or clerk of any such corporation having charge of the mailing of notices, setting forth the facts as they appear on the records in the office of the said corporation, showing that such notice was mailed and the date of mailing, shall constitute conclusive evidence of the mailing of such notice.

Fees for filing statements, etc.

§ 12. The fees for filing statements, certificates, or other documents required by this act, or for any service or act of the insurance commissioner, and the penalties for any violation of this act, shall, except as otherwise provided herein, be the same as provided in the laws of this state relating to life-insurance companies, and shall be disposed of as provided by such law.

Expenses of insurance commissioner, how paid.

§ 13. And for all lawful expenses under this act, or by reason of any of its provisions in the prosecution of any suit or proceedings, or otherwise, for the enforcement of the provisions of this act, the insurance commissioner must present bills duly certified by him and accompanied with vouchers, to the state board of examiners, who must allow the same, and direct payment thereof to be made; and the state controller shall draw warrants therefor on the state treasurer for the payment of the same to the insurance commissioner, in addition to the ordinary contingent expenses, which warrant shall be payable out of the general fund.

STANDARD FORM OF ACCIDENT AND HEALTH POLICY.

ACT 2189a—An act to incorporate standard provisions in policies of accident and health insurance, to prevent discriminations in connection therewith, and to prescribe penalties for violations of the provisions hereof.

History: Approved May 26, 1917. In effect January 1, 1918. Stats. 1917, p. 957.

Accident and health insurance policies approved by insurance commissioner.

§ 1. On and after the first day of January, 1918, no policy of insurance against loss or damage from the sickness, or the bodily injury or death of the insured by accident shall be issued or delivered to any person in this state until a copy of the form thereof and of the classification of risks, if more than one class of risks is written and the premium rates pertaining thereto have been filed with the commissioner of insurance; nor shall it be so issued or delivered until the expiration of thirty days after it has been so filed unless the said commissioner shall sooner give his written approval thereto. If the said commissioner shall notify, in writing, the company, corporation, association, society or other insurer which has filed such form that it does not comply with the requirements of law, specifying the reasons for his opinion, it shall be unlawful thereafter for any such insurer to issue any policy in such form. The action of the said commissioner in this regard shall be subject to review by any court of competent jurisdiction; provided, however, that nothing in this act shall be so construed as to give jurisdiction to any court not already having jurisdiction.

What policy must contain.

§ 2. No such policy shall be so issued or delivered (1) unless the entire money and other considerations therefor are expressed in the policy; nor (2) unless the time at which the insurance thereunder takes effect and terminates is stated in a portion of the policy preceding its execution by the insurer; nor (3) if the policy purports to insure more than one person; nor (4) unless every printed portion thereof and of any endorsements or attached papers shall be plainly printed in type of which the face shall be not smaller than ten point; nor (5) unless a brief description thereof be printed on its first page and on its filing back in type of which the face shall be not smaller than fourteen point; nor (6) unless the exceptions of the policy be printed with the same prominence as the benefits to which they apply; provided, however, that any portion of such policy which purports, by reason of the circumstances under which a loss is incurred, to reduce any indemnity promised therein to an amount less than that provided for the same loss occurring under ordinary circumstances, shall be printed in bold face type and with greater prominence than any other portion of the text of the policy.

Standard provisions.

§ 3. Every such policy so issued shall contain certain standard provisions, which shall be in the words and in the order hereinafter set forth and be preceded in every policy by the caption, "Standard provisions." In each such standard provision wherever the word "insurer" is used, there shall be submitted therefor "company" or "corporation" or "association" or "society" or such other word as will properly designate the insurer. Said standard provisions shall be:

Contract.

(1) A standard provision relative to the contract which may be in either of the following two forms: form (A) to be used in policies which do not provide for reduction of indemnity on account of change of occupation, and form (B) to be used in policies which do so provide. If form (B) is used and the policy provides indemnity against loss from sickness, the words "or contracts sickness" may be inserted therein immediately after the words "in the event that the insured is injured."

Form (A).

(A) 1. This policy includes the endorsements and attached papers, if any, and contains the entire contract of insurance. No reduction shall be made in any indemnity herein provided by reason of change in the occupation of the insured or by reason of his doing any act or thing pertaining to any other occupation.

Form (B).

(B) 1. This policy includes the endorsements and attached papers, if any, and contains the entire contract of insurance except as it may be modified by the insurer's classification of risks and premium rates in the event that the insured is injured after having changed his occupation to one classified by the insurer as more hazardous than that stated in the policy, or while he is doing any act or thing pertaining to any occupation so classified, except ordinary duties about his residence or while engaged in recreation, in which event the insurer will pay only such portion of the indemnities provided in the policy as the premium paid would have purchased at the rate but within the limits so fixed by the insurer for such more hazardous occupation.

If the law of the state in which the insured resides at the time this policy is issued requires that prior to its issue a statement of the premium rates and classification of risks pertaining to it shall be filed with the state official having supervision of insurance in such state then the premium rates and classification of risks mentioned in this policy shall mean only such as have been last filed by the insurer in accordance with such law, but if such filing is not required by such law, then they shall mean the insurer's premium rates and classification of risks last made effective by it in such state prior to the occurrence of the loss for which the insurer is liable.

(2) A standard provision relative to changes in the contract, which shall be in the following form:

2. No statement made by the applicant for insurance not included herein shall avoid the policy or be used in any legal proceeding hereunder. No agent has authority to change this policy or to waive any of its provisions. No change in this policy shall be valid unless approved by an executive officer of the insurer and such approval be endorsed hereon.

Reinstatement of policy.

(3) A standard provision relative to reinstatement of policy after lapse which may be in either of the three following forms: form (A) to be used in policies which insure only against loss from accident; form (B) to be used in policies which insure only against loss from sickness; and form (C) to be used in policies which insure against loss from both accident and sickness.

(A) 3. If default be made in the payment of the agreed premium for this policy, the subsequent acceptance of a premium by the insurer or by any of its duly authorized agents shall reinstate the policy, but only to cover loss resulting from accidental injury thereafter sustained.

(B) 3. If default be made in the payment of the agreed premium for this policy, the subsequent acceptance of a premium by the insurer or by any of its duly authorized agents shall reinstate the policy but only to cover such sickness as may begin more than ten days after the date of such acceptance.

(C) 3. If default be made in the payment of the agreed premium for this policy, the subsequent acceptance of a premium by the insurer or by any of its duly authorized agents shall reinstate the policy but only to cover accidental injury thereafter sustained and such sickness as may begin more than ten days after the date of such acceptance.

Time of notice of claim.

(4) A standard provision relative to time of notice of claim which may be in either of the three following forms: form (A) to be used in policies which insure only against loss from accident; form (B) to be used in policies which insure only against loss from sickness, and form (C) to be used in policies which insure against loss from both accident and sickness. If form (A) or form (C) is used the insurer may at its option add thereto the following sentence: "In event of accidental death immediate notice thereof must be given to the insurer."

(A) 4. Written notice of injury on which claim may be based must be given to the insurer within twenty days after the date of the accident causing such injury.

(B) 4. Written notice of sickness on which claim may be based must be given to the insurer within ten days after the commencement of the disability from such sickness.

(C) 4. Written notice of injury or of sickness on which claim may be based must be given to the insurer within twenty days after the date of the accident causing such injury or within ten days after the commencement of disability from such sickness.

Sufficiency of notice of claim.

(5) A standard provision relative to sufficiency of notice of claim which shall be in the following form and in which the insurer shall insert in the blank space such office and its location as it may desire to designate for such purpose of notice:

5. Such notice given by or in behalf of the insured or beneficiary, as the case may be, to the insurer at.....or to any authorized agent of the insurer, with particulars sufficient to identify the insured, shall be deemed to be notice to the insurer. Failure to give notice within the time provided in this policy shall not invalidate any claim if it shall be shown not to have been reasonably possible to give such notice and that notice was given as soon as was reasonably possible.

Forms for filing proof of loss.

(6) A standard provision relative to furnishing forms for the convenience of the insured in submitting proof of loss as follows:

6. The insurer upon receipt of such notice, will furnish to the claimant such forms as are usually furnished by it for filing proofs of loss. If such forms are not so furnished within fifteen days after the receipt of such notice, the claimant shall be deemed to have complied with the requirements of this policy as to proof of loss upon submitting within the time fixed in the policy for filing proofs of loss, written proof covering the occurrence, character and extent of the loss for which claim is made.

Filing proof of loss.

(7) A standard provision relative to filing proof of loss which shall be in such one of the following forms as may be appropriate to the indemnities provided:

(A) 7. Affirmative proof of loss must be furnished to the insurer at its said office within ninety days after the date of the loss for which claim is made.

(B) 7. Affirmative proof of loss must be furnished to the insurer at its said office within ninety days after the termination of the period of disability for which the company is liable.

(C) 7. Affirmative proof of loss must be furnished to the insurer at its said office in case of claim for loss of time from disability within ninety days after the termination of the period for which the insurer is liable, and in case of claim for any other loss, within ninety days after the date of such loss.

Examination of person insured.

(8) A standard provision relative to examination of the person of the insured and relative to autopsy which shall be in the following form:

8. The insurer shall have the right and opportunity to examine the person of the insured when and so often as it may reasonably require during the pendency of claim hereunder, and also the right and opportunity to make an autopsy in case of death where it is not forbidden by law.

Time within which payments made.

(9) A standard provision relative to the time within which payments other than those for loss of time on account of disability shall be made, which provision may be in either of the following two forms and which may be omitted from any policy providing only indemnity for loss of time on account of disability. The insurer shall insert in the blank space either the word "immediately" or appropriate language to designate such period of time, not more than sixty days, as it may desire; form (A) to be used in policies which do not provide indemnity for loss of time on account of disability and form (B) to be used in policies which do so provide.

(A) 9. All indemnities provided in this policy will be paid.....after receipt of due proof.

(B) 9. All indemnities provided in this policy for loss other than that of time on account of disability will be paid.....after receipt of due proof.

Periodical payments of indemnity.

(10) A standard provision relative to periodical payments of indemnity for loss of time on account of disability, which provision shall be in the following form, and which may be omitted from any policy not providing for such indemnity. The insurer shall insert in the first blank space of the form, appropriate language to designate the proportion of accrued indemnity it may desire to pay, which proportion may be all or any part not less than one-half, and in the second blank space shall insert any period of time not exceeding sixty days.

10. Upon request of the insured and subject to due proof of loss..... accrued indemnity for loss of time on account of disability will be paid at the expiration of each [each].....during the continuance of the period for which the insurer is liable, and any balance remaining unpaid at the termination of such period will be paid immediately upon receipt of due proof.

Indemnity payments.

(11) A standard provision relative to indemnity payments which may be in either of the two following forms: form (A) to be used in policies which designate a beneficiary and form (B) to be used in policies which do not designate any beneficiary other than the insured:

(A) 11. Indemnity for loss of life of the insured is payable to the beneficiary if surviving the insured, and otherwise to the estate of the insured. All other indemnities of this policy are payable to the insured.

(B) 11. All the indemnities of this policy are payable to the insured.

Cancellation of policy.

(12) A standard provision providing for cancellation of the policy at the instance of the insured which shall be in the following form:

12. If the insured shall at any time change his occupation to one classified by the insurer as less hazardous than that stated in the policy, the insurer, upon written request of the insured, and surrender of the policy, will cancel the same and will return to the insured the unearned premium.

Rights of beneficiary.

(13) A standard provision relative to the rights of the beneficiary under the policy which shall be in the following form and which may be omitted from any policy not designating a beneficiary:

13. Consent of the beneficiary shall not be requisite to surrender or assignment of this policy, or to change of beneficiary, or to any other changes in the policy.

Time within which suit may be brought.

(14) A standard provision limiting the time within which suit may be brought upon the policy as follows:

14. No action at law or in equity shall be brought to recover on this policy prior to the expiration of sixty days after proof of loss has been filed in accordance with the requirements of this policy, nor shall such action be brought at all unless brought within two years from the expiration of the time within which proof of loss is required by the policy.

Time limitations.

(15) A standard provision relative to time limitations of the policy as follows:

15. If any time limitation of this policy with respect to giving notice of claim or furnishing proof of loss is less than that permitted by the law of the state in which the insured resides at the time this policy is issued, such limitation is hereby extended to agree with the minimum period permitted by such law.

Optional standard provisions.

§ 4. No such policy shall be so issued or delivered which contains any provision (1) relative to cancellation at the instance of the insurer; or (2) limiting the amount of indemnity to a sum less than the amount stated in the policy and for which the premium has been paid; or, (3) providing for the deduction of any premium from the amount paid in settlement of claim; or, (4) relative to other insurance by the same insurer; or, (5) relative to the age limits of the policy; unless such provisions which are hereby designated as optional standard provisions, shall be in the words and in the order in which they are hereinafter set forth, but the insurer may at its option omit from the policy any such optional standard provision. Such optional standard provisions if inserted in the policy shall immediately succeed the standard provisions named in section three of this act.

Cancellation of policy.

(1) An optional standard provision relative to cancellation of the policy at the instance of the insurer as follows:

16. The insurer may cancel this policy at any time by written notice delivered to the insured or mailed to his last address, as shown by the records of the insurer, together with cash or the insurer's check for the unearned portion of the premiums actually paid by the insured, and such cancellation shall be without prejudice to any claim originating prior thereto.

Reduction of amount of indemnity.

(2) An optional standard provision relative to reduction of the amount of indemnity to a sum less than that stated in the policy as follows:

17. If the insured shall carry with another company, corporation, association or society other insurance covering the same loss without giving written notice to the insurer, then in that case the insurer shall be liable only for such portion of the indemnity promised as the said indemnity bears to the total amount of like indemnity in all policies covering such loss, and for the return of such part of the premium paid as shall exceed the pro rata for the indemnity thus determined.

Deduction of premium.

(3) An optional standard provision relative to deduction of premium upon settlement of claim as follows:

18. Upon the payment of claim hereunder any premium then due and unpaid or covered by any note or written order may be deducted therefrom.

Other insurance.

(4) An optional standard provision relative to other insurance by the same insurer which shall be in such one of the following forms as may be appropriate to the indemnities provided, and in the blank spaces of which the insurer shall insert such upward limits of indemnity as are specified by the insurer's classification of risks, filed as required by this act.

(A) 19. If a like policy or policies, previously issued by the insurer to the insured be in force concurrently herewith, making the aggregate indemnity in excess of $....., the excess insurance shall be void and all premiums paid for such excess shall be returned to the insured.

(B) 19. If a like policy or policies, previously issued by the insurer to the insured be in force concurrently herewith, making the aggregate indemnity for loss of time on account of disability in excess of $. weekly, the excess insurance shall be void and all premiums paid for such excess shall be returned to the insured.

(C) 19. If a like policy or policies, previously issued by the insurer to the insured be in force concurrently herewith, making the aggregate indemnity for loss other than that of time on account of disability in excess of $., or the aggregate indemnity for loss of time on account of disability in excess of $. weekly the excess insurance of either kind shall be void and all premiums paid for such excess shall be returned to the insured.

Age limits.

(5) An optional standard provision relative to the age limits of the policy which shall be in the following form and in the blank spaces of which the insurer shall insert such number of years as it may elect:

20. The insurance under this policy shall not cover any person under the age of years nor over the age of years. Any premium paid to the insurer for any period not covered by this policy will be returned upon request.

Contradictory provisions.

§ 5. No such policy shall be so issued or delivered if it contains any provision contradictory, in whole or part, of any of the provisions hereinbefore in this act designated as "Standard provisions" or as "Optional standard provisions"; nor shall any indorsements or attached papers vary, alter, extend, be used as a substitute for, or in any way conflict with any of the said "Standard provisions" or the said "Optional standard provisions"; nor shall such policy be so issued or delivered if it contains any provision purporting to make any portion of the charter, constitution or by-laws of the insurer a part of the policy unless such portion of the charter, constitution or by-laws shall be set forth in full in the policy, but this prohibition shall not be deemed to apply to any statement of rates or classification of risks filed with the commissioner of insurance in accordance with the provisions of this act.

False statement.

§ 6. The falsity of any statement in the application for any policy covered by this act shall not bar the right to recovery thereunder unless such false statement was made with actual intent to deceive or unless it materially affected either the acceptance of the risk or the hazard assumed by the insurer.

Rights of insurer in defense of claim.

§ 7. The acknowledgment by any insurer of the receipt of notice given under any policy covered by this act, or the furnishing of forms for filing proofs of loss, or the acceptance of such proofs, or the investigation of any claim thereunder shall not operate as a waiver of any of the rights of the insurer in defense of any claim arising under such policy.

Alteration of application.

§ 8. No alteration of any written application for insurance by erasure, insertion or otherwise, shall be made by any person other than the applicant without his written consent, and the making of any such alteration without the consent of the applicant shall be a misdemeanor. If such alteration shall be made by any officer of the insurer, or by any employee of the insurer with the insurer's knowledge or consent, then such act shall be deemed to have been performed by the insurer thereafter issuing the policy upon such altered application.

Policy in violation of act.

§ 9. A policy issued in violation of this act shall be held valid but shall be construed as provided in this act and when any provision in such a policy is in conflict with any provision of this act the rights, duties and obligations of the insurer, the policyholder and the beneficiary shall be governed by the provisions of this act.

Policies issued by insurer not organized under laws of state.

§ 10. The policies of insurance against accidental bodily injury or sickness issued by an insurer not organized under the laws of this state may contain, when issued in this state, any provision which the law of the state, territory or district of the United States under which the insurer is organized, prescribes for insertion in such policies, and the policies of insurance against accidental bodily injury or sickness issued by an insurer organized under the laws of this state may contain, when issued or delivered in any other state, territory, district or country, any provision required by the laws of the state, territory, district or country in which the same are issued, anything in this section to the contrary notwithstanding.

Not applicable to workmen's compensation insurance, etc.

§ 11. (1) Nothing in this act, however, shall apply to or affect any policy or liability of workmen's compensation insurance or any general or blanket policy of insurance issued to any municipal corporation or department thereof, or to any corporation, copartnership, association or individual employer, police or fire department, underwriters' corps, salvage bureau, or like associations or organizations, where the officers, members or employees or classes or departments thereof are insured for their individual benefit against specified accidental bodily injuries or sickness while exposed to the hazards of the occupation or otherwise in consideration of a premium intended to cover the risks of all the persons insured under such policy.

Supplemental contracts.

(2) Nothing in this act shall apply to or in any way affect contracts providing additional benefits for accidental death supplemental to contracts of life or endowment insurance nor where such supplemental contracts contain provisions which operate to safeguard such insurance against lapse or to provide a special surrender value therefor in the event that the insured shall be totally and permanently disabled by reason of accidental bodily injury or by sickness; provided, that no such supplemental contract shall be issued or delivered to any person in this state unless and until a copy of the form thereof has been submitted to and approved by the commissioner of insurance, under such reasonable rules and regulations as he shall make concerning the provisions in such contracts and their submission to and approval by him.

Fraternal societies.

(3) Nothing in this act shall apply to or in any way affect fraternal benefit societies.

Railroad ticket policies.

(4) The provisions of this act contained in clause (five) of section two and clauses two, three, eight and twelve of section three may be omitted from railroad ticket policies sold only at railroad stations, or at railroad ticket offices by railroad employees.

Penalty.

§ 12. Any company, corporation, association, society or other insurer or any officer or agent thereof, which or who issues or delivers to any person in this state any policy in wilful violation of the provisions of this act shall be punished by a fine of not more than one hundred dollars for each offense, and the commissioner of insurance may revoke the license of any company, corporation, association, society or other insurer of another state or country, or of the agent thereof, which or who wilfully violates any provision of this act.

"Indemnity."

§ 13. The term "indemnity," as used in this act, means benefits promised.

Penalty for discrimination.

§ 14. No insurance corporation authorized in this state to issue or deliver insurance against loss or damage from sickness, or bodily injury or death by accident, nor any agent of such corporation, shall make or permit any discrimination between individuals of the same class in the amount of premiums, policy fees, or rates charged for any policy of accident or health insurance, or in the benefits payable thereunder or in any of the terms or conditions of such insurance contract, or in any other manner whatsoever. Any person or corporation violating any provision of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

In effect when.

§ 15. This act shall take effect on the first day of January, 1918. Any policy covered by this act the form of which has received the approval of the commissioner of insurance may be issued or delivered in this state on and after the said date.

MUTUAL FIRE INSURANCE COMPANIES.

ACT 2190—An act providing for the organization and management of mutual fire insurance corporations and associations and defining the same, and regulating the transaction of the business of mutual fire insurance in the state of California, and repealing an act entitled "An act providing for the organization and management of mutual fire insurance companies," approved March 19, 1907.

History: Approved May 1, 1911, Stats. 1911, p. 1342.

Mutual fire insurance corporations.

§ 1. Private corporations or associations may be formed for a term to be stated in their articles not exceeding fifty years for the purpose of insuring the property of their members against loss or damage by fire in accordance with this act, and not otherwise.

Trustees to adopt by-laws.

§ 2. The trustees or directors of any corporation or association shall adopt such by-laws not in conflict with the laws of this state, as they may deem proper for the government of its affairs and the conduct of its business. Such by-laws shall provide for the liability of its members in accordance with the provisions of this act.

Each member liable.

§ 3. Each person or partnership or corporation accepting a policy in any such mutual insurance corporation or association shall thereby become a member of such corporation or association and shall be liable for his proportionate share of losses and operating expenses as hereinafter provided.

No policy issued until five hundred thousand dollars is subscribed for.

§ 4. No policy shall be issued by any such corporation or association until not less than five hundred thousand (500,000) dollars of insurance in not less than five hundred separate risks have been subscribed for and are entered upon its books, nor until it has collected from insurance premiums, and then has on hand not less than ten thousand (10,000) dollars in cash over and above all liabilities other than reinsurance reserve as specified in section 13 of this act, and also contingent funds consisting of the liability of its members liable to assessment, in addition to cash premiums collected, amounting to not less than fifty thousand (50,000) dollars, such liability to be shown in the signed applications of its members.

Limit of expenses.

§ 5. The expenses, including commissions and fees to agents and officers of any calendar year, of any such corporation or association organized or operating under this act shall be limited to thirty per cent of what is left of the gross premiums actually received during that year, after deducting from such premiums the return premiums and reinsurance paid out by or for which the corporation or association has become liable during the year. A violation of this provision shall render the officers and directors and all persons having similar powers jointly and severally liable to such company for any amount used for expenses in excess of the amount provided for in this section. In the event that such company fails or refuses to recover such moneys so paid, the insurance commissioner may sue for and recover the same from any one or all of the officers or directors and all persons having similar powers of such company for the benefit of its policy-holders. No officer or other person whose duty it is to determine the character of the risks, and upon whose decision the application shall be accepted or rejected by such corporation shall receive as any part of his compensation a commission upon the premiums, but his compensation shall be a fixed salary and such share of the net profits as the directors, and all persons having similar powers may determine.

Policies not to exceed term of five years and amount of twenty-five hundred dollars.

§ 6. Such corporation or association may issue policies for a term not exceeding five years; provided, the term of any policy does not exceed the time limited for the existence of the charter or articles of association. No policy or policies shall be for an amount in excess of twenty-five hundred (2500) dollars on any one risk, unless protected by reinsurance in companies having sufficient assets and surplus to entitle such companies to be permitted to do business in the state of California; provided, however, that one thousand (1000) dollars additional insurance may be written on any one risk for each million dollars of total insurance outstanding on the books of the corporation or association in excess of one million dollars; provided, further, that two or more buildings situated in the same city block, or separated by less than one hundred feet shall be deemed to be one risk.

Mutual corporation to file statement with insurance commissioner.

§ 7. Any mutual fire insurance corporation or association without subscribed capital or guarantee fund organized under the laws of some other state desiring to transact business in this state shall file with the insurance commissioner its last financial statement, showing its condition on December 31st, next preceding the date of its application for admission, signed by its president and secretary under oath, and showing that it is possessed of cash assets of not less than two hundred thousand (200,000) dollars, of which not less than fifty thousand (50,000) dollars shall be net cash surplus over and above all liabilities, including its reinsurance reserve as provided in section 13 of this act. Also a certificate from the insurance commissioner of the state in which said corporation or association is incorporated, certifying that in the judgment of the state insurance commissioner the statement is correct and that the corporation or association is possessed of two hundred thousand (200,000) dollars cash assets, of which not less than fifty thousand (50,000) dollars is such net cash surplus. The insurance commissioner of this state upon receipt and examination of such statement and certificate and upon satisfying himself of the correctness thereof and of compliance with the law of this state applicable as shown by this act shall issue to such corporation or association a certificate of authority granting it full power to transact business under this act.

Policy-holders liable for assessment.

§ 8. Each policy-holder shall be liable to pay his proportionate share of any assessment which may be levied by any such corporation or association and in accordance with the law and his contract, on account of losses and expenses incurred while he is a member. Any such corporation or association shall charge and collect upon its policies the full premium in cash, and may, in its by-laws, fix the liability of its members for the payment of the losses and expenses not provided for by its cash funds; provided, that the liability of a member to assessment shall not be less than the amount of one annual premium in addition to the annual cash premium of his policy. Provided, however, that corporations or associations which have accumulated, in the regular course of the business, cash assets of not less than two hundred thousand (200,000) dollars of which not less than fifty thousand (50,000) dollars is net cash surplus over and above all the requirements of section 13 of this act shall have power, while in that condition, to adopt by-laws limiting the liability of its policy-holders for loss or damage by fire to any amount it may desire to specify in its policies, and the power to issue policies with such limitation of liability to continue only during the time such corporation or association is in such financial condition; provided, further, that every such corporation or association must print upon its policies such by-laws or mutual conditions as will define the liability of a policy-holder.

Assessments to pay losses and expenses.

§ 9. Whenever such corporation or association is not possessed of cash funds above its reinsurance reserve fund and all other liabilities sufficient for the payment of accrued losses it shall make an assessment for the amount needed to pay such losses and expenses, upon its members liable to assessment therefor in proportion to their several liabilities. The corporation or association shall cause to be recorded in a book kept for that purpose the order of such assessment, together with a statement which shall set forth the condition of the corporation or association at the date of the order, the amount of its cash assets and contingent funds liable to assessment and the amount of the assessment called for. Such record shall be made and signed by the directors or other persons who voted for the order, before any part of the assessment is collected, and any person liable to assessment may inspect and take a copy of the same.

Members may withdraw.

§ 10. Any member of any such corporation or association may withdraw at any time by surrendering his policy or certificate of insurance to the corporation or association and giving thirty days' written notice of his intention to withdraw and by paying his share of all losses which shall have accrued by the end of the time specified in the notice, and of all losses arising out of fires occurring theretofore and all losses occurring within thirty days after the service of such notice and all assessments levied in whole or in part to meet such losses, and all assessments due, accrued or pending at the time of the cancellation of his policy, but the corporation or association may retain the customary short rate for the expired time; provided, also that the corporation shall have power to cancel or determine any policy by giving the insured five days' written notice to that effect, and returning to the insured his pro rata of the unearned premium.

Dividends.

§ 11. No corporation or association formed under this act may make any dividend except from profits on hand, after retaining unimpaired a cash surplus of fifty thousand (50,000) dollars over and above all liabilities including reinsurance reserve and shall thereafter retain not less than five per cent per annum of all profits available for dividends until the sum of two hundred thousand dollars ($200,000) net cash surplus has been accumulated. Such cash surplus shall be invested in the manner provided for in subdivisions 1, 2, 3, and 4 of section 421 of the Civil Code of the state of California as that section was amended by act approved March 22, 1907.

Annual statement.

§ 12. Any corporation or association organized or operating under this act shall file with the insurance commissioner on or before the first day of March of each year, its financial statement exhibiting its condition on the thirty-first day of December next preceding. Such statement shall be made as provided for in the blanks furnished by the insurance department.

When company is insolvent.

§ 13. Whenever the liabilities of any corporation or association operating under this act for losses reported, expenses, taxes, reinsurance reserve upon all unexpired fire risks running one year or less from date of policy at fifty (50) per cent, and upon all unexpired fire risks running more than one year from date of policy to be estimated pro rata, are greater than its admitted cash assets, or whenever the available resources of any company are less than the requirements under section 4 of this act, then such company or association is insolvent.

Sections of codes applicable.

§ 14. The general provisions applicable to all corporations as expressed in part IV, division I of the Civil Code of the state of California and all provisions contained in sections 595, 596, 596a, 597, 598, 599, 603, 604, 605, 606, 607, 608, 609, 610, 611, 612, 615, 616, 617, 618, 619, 620, 621, 622, 623, 627, 631, 631a, 632, 633, 634a, 634b of the Political Code of the state of California, and sections 435 and 439 of the Penal Code of the state of California, and section 388 of the Code of Civil Procedure of the state of California, also section 415 of the Civil Code of the state of California, and all other laws of the state relating to fire insurance, in so far as any section or law herein referred to is not inconsistent with or in conflict with the provisions of this act, are hereby made to apply to all corporations or associations operating under this act; provided, nothing herein shall relieve such corporation or associations from full compliance with the provisions of section 14 of Article XIII of the constitution of the state of California and of all statutes enacted in aid thereof.

Not applicable.

§ 15. This act shall not apply to contracts made between persons, firms and corporations of this state, and others of this state and other states for the protection of their own property under the plan known as reciprocal or inter-insurance, nor to unincorporated inter-indemnity compacts.

County fire insurance companies.

§ 16. Nothing in this act shall be construed to restrict or affect the provisions of "An act to provide for the organization and management of county fire insurance companies," approved April 1, 1897.

Repeal.

§ 17. That certain act of the legislature of the state of California, entitled "An act providing for the organization and management of mutual fire insurance companies" (approved March 19, 1907), is hereby repealed.

RECIPROCAL INDEMNITY INSURANCE ACT OF 1917.

ACT 2192a—An act providing for reciprocal and interexchanges of indemnities, prescribing regulations therefor and fixing a license fee, and repealing an act entitled "An act defining certain classes of contracts for the exchange of indemnity, prescribing regulations therefor and fixing a license fee," approved December 24, 1911.

History: Approved May 26, 1917. In effect July 27, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 1170. Amended May 27, 1919. In effect July 27, 1919. Stats. 1919, p. 1270. Prior act of December 24, 1911, Stats. 1911 (ex. sess.), p. 111, superseded by present act. The title of the present act recites the repeal of the act of 1911, but no mention is made of it in the body of the act.

Exchange of reciprocal or inter-insurance contracts.

§ 1. Individuals, partnerships and corporations of this state, hereby designated subscribers, are hereby authorized to exchange reciprocal or interinsurance contracts with each other, or with individuals, partnerships and corporations of other states, territories, districts and countries, providing insurance among themselves from any loss which may be insured against under other provisions of law, except life insurance.

Execution of contracts.

§ 2. Such contracts may be executed by an attorney, agent or other representative herein designated as attorney, duly authorized and acting for such subscribers under powers of attorney, and such attorney may be a corporation. The principal office of such attorney shall be maintained at such place as is designated by the subscribers in the power of attorney. The power of attorney may further provide for the right of substitution and revocation and impose such restrictions upon the exercise of the power granted as may be agreed upon by the subscribers, and may further provide for the exercise of any right reserved to the subscribers, directly or through a board or other body to be selected under such rules or regulations as the subscribers may adopt.

Declaration filed with insurance commissioner.

§ 3. Such subscribers so contracting among themselves shall, through their attorney, file with the insurance commissioner a declaration verified by the oath of such attorney, or where such attorney is a corporation, by the oath of the duly authorized officers thereof, setting forth:

(a) The name of the attorney and the name or designation under which such contracts are issued, which name or designation shall not be so similar to any name or designation adopted by any attorney or by any insurance organization in the United States writing the same class of insurance, prior to the adoption of such name or designation by the attorney, as to confuse or deceive.

(b) The location of the principal office.

(c) The kind or kinds of insurance to be effected.

(d) A copy of each form of policy, contract or agreement under or by which insurance is to be effected.

(e) A copy of the form of power of attorney under which such insurance is to be effected.

(f) That applications have been made for insurance upon at least one hundred separate risks aggregating not less than one million dollars represented by executed contracts or bona fide applications to become concurrently effective; or in case of employer's liability or workmen's compensation insurance, covering a total pay roll of not less than one million dollars.

(g) That there is in the possession of such attorney and available for the payment of losses, assets conforming to the requirements of section six hereof.

(h) A financial statement under oath in form hereinafter prescribed for the annual statement.

(i) The instrument authorizing service of process as provided for in this act.

(j) Certificate showing deposits of funds or securities.

Instrument and bond filed by attorney.

§ 4. Concurrently with the filing of the declaration provided for by the terms of section three of this act, the attorney shall file with the insurance commissioner:

Instrument.

(a) An instrument in writing executed by him for said subscribers, condition that upon the issuance of a certificate of authority provided for in this act, action may be brought in the county in which the property or person insured thereunder is located and service of process may be had upon the insurance commissioner in all suits in this state arising out of such policies, contracts or agreements, which service shall be valid and binding upon all subscribers exchanging at any time reciprocal or interinsurance contracts through such attorney. Three copies of such process shall be served and the insurance commissioner shall file one copy, forward one copy to said attorney by registered mail addressed to the attorney at the principal office as fixed in the certificate filed, and shall return one copy with his admission of service. A judgment rendered in any such case where service of process has been so made shall be valid and binding against any and all subscribers as their interests appear and such judgment may be satisfied out of the funds in the possession of the attorney belonging to such subscribers or otherwise.

Bond.

(b) A bond in favor of the people of the state of California executed by the said attorney, with two sureties to be approved by the insurance commissioner in the penal sum of twenty-five thousand dollars, condition that the attorney will faithfully perform the duties imposed upon him under the said powers of attorney and faithfully account for moneys handled by him thereunder; such bond may be sued upon by any subscriber suffering loss through violation of the conditions thereof and liability thereunder may be enforced by any individual subscriber or any number of subscribers, in one or the same action; provided, however, that where the power of attorney executed by the subscribers or the rules and regulations adopted by the association for the conduct of its business thereunder, provide for the bonding of the attorney, a certified copy of the bond executed in accordance with such powers of attorney or rules and regulations, shall be filed with the insurance commissioner in lieu of any other bond required under this act. [Amendment of May 27, 1919. In effect July 27, 1919. Stats 1919, p. 1271.]

Statement of indemnity.

§ 5. There shall be filed with the insurance commissioner by such attorney whenever the insurance commissioner shall so require, a statement under oath of such attorney showing the maximum amount of indemnity upon a single risk, and, except as to workmen's compensation insurance, no subscriber shall assume on any single risk an amount greater than ten per cent of the net worth of such subscriber where the liability assumed exceeds the amount of one premium deposit.

Assets to be maintained.

§ 6. There shall at all times be maintained as assets a sum in cash or securities of the kind designated by the laws of the state where the principal office is located for the investment of funds of insurance companies, equal to one hundred per cent of the net unearned premiums or deposits collected and credited to the accounts of subscribers, or assets equal to fifty per cent of the net annual premiums or deposits collected and credited to the accounts of the subscribers on policies having one year or less to run and pro rata on those for a longer period, in addition to which there shall be maintained as a reserve in cash or such securities, assets sufficient to discharge all liabilities on all outstanding losses arising under policies issued, the same to be calculated on the basis and in the manner provided by law for the maintenance of similar reserves by companies insuring similar risks; provided, however, that all reserves on indemnity exchanged prior to July 1, 1919, shall be calculated according to the provision of law in force at the time said contracts were entered into.

Savings or credits, however, may be returned to the subscribers, irrespective as to the source from which the same accrue, whenever such returns do not constitute an impairment of the assets or reserves to be maintained as herein required; provided, however, that there shall be no discrimination in the making of such returns as between persons or places.

Net deposits shall be construed to mean (a) the advance payments of subscribers after deducting therefrom the amounts specifically provided in the subscribers' agreements for expense, or (b) in the event no such specific provision for expense be therein made, the advance payments of subscribers after deducting therefrom the reasonable expense incidental to the conduct of business not exceeding however twenty-five per cent of such advance payments.

If deficiency in assets.

If at any time the assets so held in cash or such securities, exclusive of loss reserves herein provided for, shall be less than required above, or be less than twenty-five thousand dollars in any exchange writing any kind of insurance, or in any exchange writing common carrier liability insurance shall on or after the third anniversary of the date of the organization be less than fifty thousand dollars, the subscribers, or their attorney for them, shall make up the deficiency within thirty days after notice from the insurance commissioner so to do.

Reserves of independent groups.

Where the subscribers are grouped, by industries, or otherwise, under any rule or agreement which exempts the funds of one group from liability, in whole or in part, for the payment of losses or expenses chargeable against another group, each independent group must maintain the reserve herein specified and comply with the requirements of subdivision (f) of section three hereof, relative to the number and amount of risks to be assumed. [Amendment of May 27, 1919. In effect July 27, 1919. Stats. 1919, p. 1272.]

Report of financial condition. Examination by insurance commissioner.

§ 7. Such attorney shall, within the time limited for filing the annual statement by insurance companies transacting the same kind of business, make a report, under oath, to the insurance commissioner for each calendar year, showing the financial condition of affairs at the office where such contracts are issued, and shall at any time furnish such additional information and reports as may be required; provided, however, that the attorney shall not be required to furnish the names and addresses of any subscribers except in case of an unpaid final judgment. The assets, business affairs and records of such organization, shall be subject to examination by the insurance commissioner at any reasonable time, and such examination shall be at the expense of the organization examined. The right of examination herein granted shall include the right to examine the records containing the names and addresses of the subscribers, but any information obtained therefrom shall be regarded as confidential and the disclosure thereof, except under order of court, shall constitute a breach of official duty. Where the principal office of the attorney is located in another state, the insurance commissioner may, in lieu of the examination provided for in this section, accept a certified copy of the report of examination made by the insurance department of the state where the principal office is located, or by the insurance department of any other state.

Right of corporation to enter into insurance contracts.

§ 8. Any corporation now or hereafter organized under the laws of this state shall, in addition to the rights, powers and franchises specified in its articles of incorporation, have full power and authority to enter into insurance contracts of the kind and character herein mentioned. The right to enter into such contracts is hereby declared to be incidental to the purposes for which such corporations are organized and as fully granted as the rights and powers expressly conferred.

Certificate of authority.

§ 9. Upon compliance with the requirements of this act, and the payment of a fee of fifty dollars, the insurance commissioner shall issue a certificate of authority or a license to the attorney authorizing him to make such contracts of insurance, which license shall specify the kind or kinds of insurance to be effected and shall contain the name of the attorney, the location of the principal office and the name or designation under which such contracts of insurance are issued. Such license shall be renewed annually upon a showing that the standard of solvency required herein has been maintained and all fees and taxes required have been paid. For such renewal a fee of ten dollars shall be paid. [Amendment of May 27, 1919. In effect July 27, 1919. Stats. 1919, p. 1273.]

Penalty.

§ 10. Any attorney who shall exchange any contracts of insurance of the kind and character specified in this act or any attorney or representative of such attorney, who shall solicit or negotiate any applications for same without the attorney first complying with the foregoing provisions, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor. For the purpose of organization, and upon issuance of permit by the insurance commissioner, powers of attorney and applications for such contracts may be solicited without compliance with the provisions of this act, but no attorney, agent or other person shall make any such contracts of insurance until all of the provisions of this act shall have been complied with.

Revocation of certificate.

§ 11. In addition to the foregoing penalties and where not otherwise provided, the penalty for failure or refusal to comply with any or all of the terms and provisions of this act, upon the part of the attorney, shall be the refusal, suspension or revocation of certificate of authority no license by the insurance commissioner after due notice and opportunity for hearing has been given such attorney so that he may appear and show cause why such action should not be taken.

Fees. Tax upon gross premiums.

§ 12. In lieu of all other taxes, licenses or fees whatever, state or local, such attorney shall pay annually on account of the transaction of such business in this state, the same fees as are paid by mutual companies transacting the same kind of business, and an annual tax upon the gross premiums or deposits collected from subscribers in this state during the preceding calendar year, after deducting therefrom deposit returns or cancellations, consideration for reinsurance and all amounts returned to subscribers or credited to their accounts as savings; such tax to be computed at the same rate as fixed by law for the taxation of mutual companies transacting the same kind of business.

Provisions inserted not inconsistent with law.

§ 13. The attorney may insert in any form of policy prescribed by the laws of this state any provisions or conditions required by the plan of reciprocal or interinsurance; provided, that same shall not be inconsistent with or in conflict with any law of this state. Such policy in lieu of conforming to the language and form prescribed by such law shall be held to conform thereto in substance if such policy includes a provision or endorsement reciting that the policy shall be construed as if in the language and form prescribed by such law. Any such endorsement shall first be filed with the insurance commissioner.

Not subject to insurance laws.

§ 14. (a) Except as herein provided, the making of contracts as herein provided for and such other matters as are incident thereto shall not be subject to the laws of this state relating to insurance unless they are therein specifically mentioned. This section shall not be construed, however, as depriving the insurance department of the state of the right of examination of and supervision over reciprocal or interinsurance exchanges, their agents and brokers, or of the right to hold and conduct hearings in the manner and under the same procedure as provided by law in the case of mutual or other insurance companies but such right is hereby expressly recognized and confirmed, but agents or brokers of reciprocals need not be expressly licensed.

Unlawful to give rebate.

(b) It shall be unlawful for any reciprocal or interinsurance exchange, its attorney in fact, agent or broker to give or offer a rebate to a subscriber, directly or indirectly. A rebate is hereby defined as an allowance, gift, setoff, or payment directly or indirectly made or offered as an inducement to secure the exchange of indemnities, other than a savings or credit to be returned to a subscriber in accord with the provisions contained in the power of attorney or in the reciprocal or interinsurance contract executed by him. [Amendment of May 27, 1919. In effect July 27, 1919. Stats. 1919, p. 1273.]

Repealed.

§ 15. All laws or parts of laws in conflict herewith are hereby repealed.

MUTUAL WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION INSURANCE COMPANIES.

ACT 2193—An act providing for the organization and management of mutual workmen's compensation insurance companies and defining the same and regulating the transaction of the business of mutual workmen's compensation insurance in the state of California.

History: Approved May 26, 1913. In effect August 10, 1913. Stats. 1913, p. 321. Amended June 8, 1915, Stats. 1915, p. 1301.

"Compensation." "Employer." "Employee."

§ 1. The term "compensation" as used in this act shall mean and include any liability imposed upon any or all employers of labor to compensate their employees and the dependents of such employees for any injury sustained by the said employees by accident arising out of and in the course of their employment irrespective of the fault of either party. The term "employer" as used in this act shall be construed to mean: Every person, firm, voluntary association and private corporation (including any public service corporation) who has any person in service under any appointment or contract of hire or apprenticeship, express or implied, oral or written, and the legal representatives of any deceased employer. The term "employee" as used in this act shall be construed to mean: Every person in the service of an employer as defined by this act under any appointment or contract of hire or apprenticeship, express or implied, oral or written, including aliens and also including minors.

Compensation associations.

§ 2. (a) Mutual associations of any number of employers, not less than five, may, subject to the approval of the insurance commissioner, be formed by incorporating under the laws of this state, for the purpose of insuring their members against liability for compensation and insuring to the employees of such members the payment of such compensation.

(b) It shall be within the power of the insurance commissioner to limit the membership of any such mutual association to those employers engaged in the same general character of industry or to employers within a limited part of the state, whenever in his judgment such limitation shall be required for the protection of the members of such association or persons insured.

Articles of incorporation.

§ 3. Before the articles of incorporation shall be filed, a copy thereof shall be submitted for the approval of the insurance commissioner. Such articles shall set forth:

First—The names of the employers entering into such association, their places of residence, the nature of the business in which they are engaged and the number of persons employed by each.

Second—The name by which such association shall be known, which name shall include the word "mutual," and, if the liability of members is limited, the words "limited mutual."

Third—The period for which such association is incorporated, which shall not exceed fifty years.

Fourth—The number of directors, which shall not be less than five (5) nor more than eleven (11), and the names and residences of the directors for the first year.

Fifth—The location of the principal place of business, which shall be in this state.

Such articles must be executed, acknowledged, and filed as provided by law for the formation of other corporations.

By-laws.

§ 4. The members of any company organized under this act shall have power to make such by-laws, not inconsistent with the constitution and laws of this state, as may be deemed necessary for the government of its officers and members, for the admission of new members, for the assessment and collection of premiums and assessments and in general for the proper conduct of its affairs. Such by-laws shall not be effective until a copy thereof has been filed with the insurance commissioner and approved by him.

Employer's liability.

§ 5. Every employer accepting a policy in any company organized under this act shall thereby become a member of such company and shall become liable for his proportionate share of losses and operating expenses as hereinafter provided.

When policies may be issued.

§ 6. No policy shall be issued by any company organized under this act until subscriptions for insurance have been received from at least one hundred employers having an annual pay-roll of at least $500,000.00 or having in their employment at least one thousand employees, nor until an amount in cash shall be in hand over and above all liabilities other than the unearned premium reserve of not less than fifteen thousand dollars and in any event not less than one full annual premium upon each risk. If at any time the number of employers insured shall fall below one hundred or if the annual pay-roll of said employers shall fall below $500,000.00 and the number of their said employees shall fall below one thousand then no further policies shall be issued until subscriptions have been received sufficient to comply with the requirements of this section.

Premiums.

§ 7. [Repealed June 8, 1915, Stats. 1915, p. 1301.]

Established rate.

§ 8. After a compensation insurance rate shall have been established by the state workmen's compensation insurance rating bureau no mutual company organized under this act shall charge a lesser rate upon any risk than the gross bureau rates applicable thereto.

Members' liability for excess loss.

§ 9. Every company organized under this act shall in its by-laws and policies fix the contingent mutual liability of its members for the payment of losses in excess of its available cash funds; but such contingent liability shall not be less than an amount equal to one annual premium in addition to the annual premium charged.

Companies subject to law.

§ 10. Every company organized under this act shall be subject to all the general provisions of the law relative to other insurance companies and also to the general provisions of law applicable to all other corporations in so far as such provisions are not inconsistent or in conflict with the provisions of this act.

Assessment to pay losses.

§ 11. If any company organized under this act is not possessed of cash funds above its unearned premium reserve and claims reserve and other liabilities sufficient for the payment of incurred losses and expenses it shall make an assessment for the amount needed to pay such losses and expenses upon its members liable to assessment therefor in proportion to their several liabilities. The company shall cause to be recorded in a book kept for that purpose the order for such assessment and the amount of the assessment called for, together with a statement setting forth the condition of the company at the date of the order, the amount of its cash assets and contingent funds. Such record shall be made and signed by the directors or other persons who voted for the order and approved by the insurance commissioner before any part of the assessment is collected and any person liable to assessment may inspect and take a copy of the same.

Surplus fund. Dividends.

§ 12. The directors of every such mutual company shall each year set aside as a surplus an amount equal to at least twenty-five per cent of all available profits until such surplus shall be an amount not less than the amount of all premiums charged upon all insurance in force after deducting therefrom the amount of premiums charged for any risks which have been reinsured in other insurance carriers. After setting aside the amount of profits required to be set aside by this section as a surplus fund, the directors of every such mutual association, at such times as their by-laws provide, must make, declare and pay to their members dividends of so much of the additional available profits accrued from the business of the association and interest on moneys invested as to them appears advisable; provided, however, that no such dividend shall be declared or paid unless there is then on hand a surplus of not less than $15,000 and equal to at least twenty-five per cent of all premiums charged upon all insurance in force after deducting therefrom the amount of premiums charged for any risks which may have been reinsured in other insurance carriers.

Approval of insurance commissioner.

§ 13. No assessment shall be levied and no dividend shall be declared until such assessment or such dividend has been approved by the insurance commissioner.

Investment of funds.

§ 14. The funds of any company organized under this act shall be invested in the manner allowed for the investment of the funds of other insurance companies.

Limitation of expenses.

§ 15. The expenses for any calendar year of any company organized under this act, including commissions and fees to agents and officers, but not including expenses incurred for the prevention of injuries, shall be limited to thirty per cent of the gross premiums actually received during that year. A violation of this provision shall render the officers and directors and all persons having similar powers jointly and severally liable to such company for any amount used for expenses in excess of the amount provided for in this section. In the event that such company fails or refuses to recover such moneys so paid the insurance commissioner may sue for and recover the same from any one or all of the officers or directors and all persons having similar powers of such company for the benefit of its members. No officer or other person, whose duty it is to determine the character of the risks, and to decide what applications shall be accepted and what applications shall be rejected by such company, shall receive as any part of his compensation a commission upon the premiums, but his compensation shall be a fixed salary and such share of the net profits as the directors or trustees may determine.

When insolvent.

§ 16. Whenever the liabilities of any company organized under this act for losses reported, expenses, taxes, unearned premium reserve and claims reserve are greater than its admitted cash assets then such company is insolvent.

Annual statement.

§ 17. Every company organized under this act shall file with the insurance commissioner on or before the first day of March of each year, its financial statement exhibiting its condition on the thirty-first day of December next preceding. Such statement shall be made as provided for in the blanks furnished by the insurance department.

Rules for prevention of injury.

§ 18. The directors of any company organized under this act shall make and enforce reasonable rules and regulations for the prevention of injuries on the premises of members and for this purpose the inspectors of the company shall have free access to all such premises during regular working hours. Any employer or employee aggrieved by any such rule or regulation may petition the industrial accident commission for a review, and it may affirm, amend or annul the rule or regulation.

Wages accounts.

§ 19. Auditors, inspectors and other agents of the company shall have free access to the wages accounts and pay-rolls of members for the purpose of verifying pay-rolls.

Notice of withdrawal.

of all assessments then or thereafter made to make up deficiencies due to accidents happening while he was insured in such company. The premium for such surrendered policy shall be returned to the member withdrawing less the customary short term premium for a time during which the policy was in force. The company shall have power to cancel or determine any policy by giving the insured five days' written notice to that effect and returning to the insured his pro rata part of the premium.

Amendment of by-laws.

§ 21. Any company organized under this act shall have power to amend its articles of association and by-laws at its regular annual meeting or at special meetings called and held as provided in its by-laws, but said amendments shall, before they become operative, be approved and filed in the same manner as the original articles and by-laws.

May own property.

§ 22. Any company organized under this act shall have power to own, hold and acquire such real and personal property as shall be necessary for the transaction of its business.

May sue.

§ 23. Any company organized under this act may sue and be sued in any court of law or equity, with the same rights and obligations as a natural person, and in addition to the powers hereinbefore enumerated, shall possess and exercise all such rights and powers as are necessarily incidental to the exercise of the powers as expressly granted herein.

Not applicable to contracts.

§ 24. This act shall not apply to contracts made between persons, firms or corporations of this state, and others of this state and other states for the protection of their own property under the plan known as reciprocal insurance or interinsurance, nor to unincorporated inter-indemnity compacts.

MISREPRESENTING TERMS OF INSURANCE POLICY.

ACT 2194—An act to prohibit insurance companies, associations, or societies and their agents from misrepresenting the terms of any policy of insurance.

History: Approved June 7, 1915. In effect August 8, 1915. Stats. 1915, p. 1272.

Misrepresenting terms of policy prohibited.

§ 1. No insurance company, association, or society, or any officer, director, agent, broker or solicitor thereof shall issue, circulate or use or cause or permit to be issued, circulated or used, any statement, estimate, illustration, or circular misrepresenting the terms of any policy issued or to be issued by such company or the benefits or privileges promised under any such policy, or the future dividends, payable under any such policy. No insurance company, association, or society, officer, director, agent, solicitor or broker, or any person, firm, association or corporation shall make any misrepresentation, oral, written or otherwise, to any person for the purpose of inducing or tending to induce such person to take out a policy of insurance, or for the purpose of inducing or tending to induce a policyholder in any company to lapse, forfeit or surrender his insurance therein, or to refuse to accept a policy issued upon an application therefor, and to take out a policy of insurance in any other company.

No excuse from testifying.

§ 2. No person shall be excused from testifying or from producing any books, papers, contracts, agreements or documents at the trial or hearing of any person or company, association or society charged with violating any provisions of section one of this act on the ground that such testimony or evidence may tend to incriminate himself, but no person shall be prosecuted for any act concerning which he shall be compelled so to testify or produce evidence, documentary or otherwise, except for perjury committed in so testifying.

Penalty.

§ 3. Any insurance company, association, or society, agent, solicitor or broker, or any person, firm, association, or corporation, violating the provisions of this act shall upon conviction be sentenced to pay a fine of not more than one hundred dollars for each and every violation, or in the discretion of the court, to an imprisonment for a period of not more than six months. The insurance commissioner shall have authority, in his discretion, to revoke or suspend a license theretofore issued to any agent, solicitor or broker, for a period not exceeding three years, on its being proven to him after a hearing that such agent, solicitor or broker, has knowingly or willfully violated any of the provisions of this act.

SOCIAL INSURANCE INVESTIGATING COMMISSION.

ACT 2196—An act authorizing the governor to appoint a commission to investigate and advise the legislature concerning the adoption of a system of social insurance, and to make a report to the forty-third session of the legislature and making an appropriation therefor.

History: Approved May 14, 1917. In effect July 27, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 468. Prior act approved May 17, 1915. In effect August 8, 1915. Stats. 1915, p. 473, superseded by present act, which is obsolete by lapsation.

Commission to investigate social insurance.

§ 1. The governor of the state of California is hereby authorized and requested to appoint a commission of seven persons, citizens of this state, to investigate and advise the legislature concerning the adoption of a system of social insurance. The commission shall report to the forty-third session of the legislature the details of any or all branches of a social insurance system it may deem advisable, and may recommend for adoption any measure or measures it deems expedient.

Powers.

§ 2. The commission shall have power to subpoena witnesses and to enforce their attendance at any public hearings that may be held for the purpose of obtaining evidence of conditions bearing upon the establishment of any system of social insurance.

Duty of persons, etc., to supply information.

§ 3. It shall be the duty of every person, firm or corporation employing labor in this state to supply the commission, at its request, with any and all information from the books, reports, contracts, pay rolls, documents or papers of such person, firm or corporation which the commission may require to carry out the purposes of this act.

Traveling expenses. Secretary.

§ 4. The members of the commission shall serve without pay but shall be reimbursed for traveling expenses incurred in connection with the work of the commission. The commission shall have power to employ an executive secretary and expert, clerical and other assistants.

Appropriation. Revolving fund.

§ 5. There is hereby appropriated out of the general fund, not otherwise appropriated, the sum of twenty-two thousand five hundred dollars, or any portion thereof, as may in the judgment of the commission be required for the purposes of this act. The sum of five hundred dollars of said money may be drawn from the state treasury upon approval of the state board of control without the submission of receipts, vouchers or itemized statements to be used by the commission as a cash revolving fund to facilitate its work.

GUARANTY SURPLUS AND SPECIAL RESERVE FUNDS.

ACT 2197—An act to provide for the establishment and maintenance by fire insurance corporations of guaranty surplus funds and special reserve funds and thereby limiting liability and to provide for the waiver by policyholders of recourse against stockholders of such corporations.

History: Approved May 31, 1917. In effect July 30, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 1378.

Guaranty surplus fund and special reserve fund may be created. Limitation on amount of dividend sum deducted in estimating profits.

§ 1. Every domestic corporation having a capital stock issuing fire insurance policies may at its option create a guaranty surplus fund and a special reserve fund by the adoption of a resolution by its board of directors at a regular meeting, and by filing with the insurance commissioner a copy thereof, declaring their desire and intention to create such funds and to do business under this and the two following sections. The insurance commissioner shall thereupon make or cause to be made a certificate of the result thereof, which shall particularly set forth the amount of surplus funds held by it at the date of the examination, and the same may be equally divided between and set apart to constitute guaranty surplus and special reserve funds to the extent necessary to constitute such two funds. Said certificate shall be recorded in the office of the insurance commissioner. Thereafter all policies and renewals of policies issued by such corporation shall contain a provision that they are issued under and in pursuance of this act, referring to the same by the title of this act, and all such policies and renewals shall be subject to the provisions of this act, and a policyholder, by accepting the policy, becomes bound thereby. After the passage and filing of such resolution, the corporation shall not make, declare or pay in any form any dividend upon its capital stock exceeding seven per centum per annum thereon, and upon the surplus funds to be formed thereunder, until after its guaranty surplus fund and its special reserve fund shall have together accumulated to an amount equal to its capital stock; and until such funds shall together amount to a sum equal to its capital stock, the entire surplus profits of the corporation above such annual dividend of seven per centum shall be equally divided between and be set apart to constitute such guaranty surplus and special reserve funds, which funds shall be held and used as hereinafter provided and not otherwise. Any such corporation which shall declare or pay any dividend contrary to the provisions herein contained, shall be deemed to have forfeited its charter. In estimating the profits of any such corporation for the purpose of making a division thereof between the guaranty surplus fund and the special reserve fund, until such funds shall together amount to a sum equal to its capital stock, there shall be deducted from the gross assets of the corporation, including for the purpose the amount of the guaranty surplus fund and the special reserve fund, the sum of the following items:

1. The amount of all outstanding claims.

2. An amount sufficient to meet the liability of the corporation for the unearned premiums upon its unexpired policies, which shall be at least equal to the unearned premiums on policies having one year or less to run, and a pro rata proportion of the premiums received on the policies having more than one year to run, and shall be known as the reinsurance liability.

3. The amount of its guaranty surplus fund and its special reserve fund.

4. The amount of its capital.

5. Interest at the rate of seven per centum per annum upon the amount of its capital and of such funds for whatever time shall have elapsed since the last preceding cash dividend. The balance shall constitute the net surplus of the corporation subject to the equal division between the funds as herein provided. When the corporation shall notify the insurance commissioner that it has fulfilled the requirements of this section, and that its guaranty surplus fund and its special reserve fund, taken together, equal its capital stock, he shall make an examination of the corporation and make a certificate of the result thereof; and thereafter such corporation may continue out of any subsequent profits of its business, to add to such funds, either the whole or only a part thereof, but when any addition is made to the special reserve fund, an equal sum shall be carried to the guaranty surplus fund.

Investment of funds.

§ 2. Such guaranty surplus fund shall be held and invested by such corporation in the same manner as its capital stock and surplus accumulations, and shall be liable and applicable in the same manner as the capital of the corporation to the payment generally of its losses. Such special reserve fund, until it shall amount to a sum equal to one-half of the capital stock, shall be invested in the same manner as the capital of the corporation, and any additional sum added to such fund shall be invested by the corporation in any securities, in which the corporation is by law authorized to invest its capital or its surplus accumulations, and shall be deposited from time to time, as the same shall accumulate and be invested, with the insurance commissioner. Such special reserve fund shall be deemed a fund to protect such a corporation and its policyholders other than claimants for losses already existing or then occurred in case of any extraordinary conflagration or conflagrations as hereinafter mentioned, and shall not be regarded as any part or portion of the assets of the corporation so as to be liable for any claim for loss by fire or otherwise, except as herein provided.

Waiver of recourse against stockholders.

No corporation, after it has declared its desire and intention, as provided in section one hereof, to create a guaranty surplus fund and a special reserve fund, shall have the right thereafter to insert in its policy a provision to the effect that the insured, by accepting the policy, waives recourse against the stockholders of the corporation, until such corporation has created, as herein provided, a guaranty surplus fund and a special reserve fund each in amount equal to one-half of the par value of its capital stock; but, when it has so done, then it may thereafter insert in any policy it may thereafter issue a provision in red ink to the effect that the insured, by accepting the policy, waives any recourse to its stockholders and agrees, in case of making any claim thereunder, to look solely to the assets and property of the corporation as and to the extent herein provided.

In case of extensive conflagration. Corporation discharged from liability.

§ 3. When any extensive conflagration or conflagrations shall occur whereby the claims upon the corporation shall exceed the amount of its capital stock and of the guaranty surplus fund hereinbefore provided, the corporation shall notify the insurance commissioner of the fact, who shall then make or cause to be made, an examination of the corporation, and shall issue his certificate in duplicate of the result, showing the amounts of capital, of guaranty surplus fund, of special reserve fund, of reinsurance liability, and all other assets. One of such certificates shall be given the corporation, and the other shall be recorded in the office of the insurance commissioner. Such special reserve fund shall be immediately held to protect all policyholders of the corporation other than such as are claimants upon it at the time, or such as become claimants in consequence of such conflagration or conflagrations. The amount of such special reserve fund, and an amount equal to the unearned premiums of such corporation, to be ascertained as hereinbefore provided, shall constitute the capital and assets of such corporation for the protection of policyholders other than such claimants, and for the further conduct of its business. Such certificate of the insurance commissioner shall be binding and conclusive upon all parties interested in the corporation, whether stockholders, creditors or policyholders. Upon the payment to the claimants for losses or otherwise, existing at the time of or caused by such general conflagration or conflagrations, of an amount to which they are respectively entitled in proportion to their several claims, of the full sum of the capital of the corporation and of its guaranty surplus fund, and of its assets, except only such special reserve fund and an amount of its assets equal to the liability of the corporation for unearned premiums, as certified by the insurance commissioner, such corporation shall be forever discharged from any and all further liability to such claimants and to each of them on any policy of insurance issued after the creation as above provided of the special reserve fund in amount equal to one-half of its capital stock.

Transfer of securities in special reserve fund. If guaranty surplus fund reduced. If capital impaired.

The insurance commissioner shall, after issuing such certificate upon the demand of the corporation, transfer to it all such securities as shall have been deposited with him by it as such special reserve fund. If the amount of such special reserve fund shall be less than fifty per centum of the full amount of the capital of the corporation, a requisition shall be issued by the insurance commissioner upon the stockholders to make up the capital to that proportion of its full amount. Any capital so impaired shall be so made up to at least the sum of two hundred thousand dollars. If the corporation, after such requisition, shall fail to make up its capital to at least such amount as herein directed such special reserve fund shall be held as security and liable for all losses occurring upon policies of such corporation after such conflagration or conflagrations. If any amount greater than a sum equal to one-half of its capital stock shall by such corporation, under the provisions of the two preceding sections, have been deposited, as aforesaid, with the insurance commissioner, he shall retain of such securities a sum equal to one-half of the amount he shall so hold thereof in excess of such one-half of the capital stock, and transfer the balance thereof to the corporation as herein provided. The amount so transferred to the corporation shall, from the time of such transfer, if not less than two hundred thousand dollars, constitute the capital stock of the corporation for the further conduct of its business as hereinbefore provided. The sum so retained by the insurance commissioner shall thenceforth constitute the special reserve fund of the corporation, to which additions may be made as herein provided, and shall be held in the same manner, for the same purposes and under the same conditions as the original special reserve fund of the corporation was held. The corporation shall in an annual statement to the insurance commissioner set forth the amount of such special reserve fund and of its guaranty surplus fund. If in consequence of the payment of losses by fires, or of the expenses of the business, or of the interest payable under the provisions hereof to stockholders, or from any cause, the guaranty surplus fund shall be reduced in amount below the amount of the special reserve fund, the directors of the corporation shall have the right, at their option, at the time of making any division of the net profits as herein provided, to carry a larger sum to the guaranty surplus fund than to the special reserve fund; but this privilege shall cease when the two funds are made equal in amount. The policy registers, insurance maps, books of record and other books in actual use by the corporation in its business, are not to be considered as assets, but shall be held by it for its use in the protection of its policyholders not claimants for losses at the time of such general conflagration. If after the accumulation of such special reserve fund, it shall appear upon examination by the insurance commissioner that the capital of the corporation has, in the absence of any such extensive conflagration, become impaired, he shall order a call upon the stockholders to make up such impairment, and the board of directors may either comply with such order and require the necessary payments of the stockholders, or, at their option, they may apply for that purpose so much of such special reserve fund as will make such impairment good. No corporation doing business under this and the two preceding sections shall insure any larger amount upon any single risk than is permitted by law to a corporation possessing the same amount of capital irrespective of the funds hereinbefore provided for.

LIQUIDATION OF DELINQUENT INSURANCE COMPANIES.

ACT 2199—An act to provide for proceedings against and liquidation of delinquent insurance corporations and associations.

History: Approved April 30, 1919. In effect July 22, 1919. Stats. 1919, p. 265.

Application of act.

§ 1. This act shall apply to all corporations and associations which are subject to examination by the insurance commissioner, or which are doing or attempting to do or representing that they are doing the business of insurance in this state, or which are in the process of organization intending to do such business therein; and the words "corporation" or "corporations" herein shall also include all such associations, as well as all voluntary or unincorporated associations; provided, however, that nothing herein contained shall be construed to affect or to relate to any fraternal benefit society as defined in the act entitled "An act for the regulation and control of fraternal benefit societies." approved May 1, 1911, as amended.

Action by insurance commissioner for order to conduct business of domestic corporation.

§ 2. Whenever any domestic corporation (a) is insolvent; or (b) has refused to submit its books, papers, accounts or affairs to the reasonable inspection of the insurance commissioner, or his deputy or examiner; or (c) has neglected or refused to observe an order of the insurance commissioner to make good within the time prescribed by law any deficiency, whenever its capital, if it be a stock corporation, or its reserve, if it be a mutual corporation, shall have become impaired; or (d) has, by contract of reinsurance or otherwise, transferred or attempted to transfer substantially its entire property or business, or entered into any transaction the effect of which is to merge substantially its entire property or business in the property or business of any other corporation or association without having first obtained the written approval of the insurance commissioner; or (e) is found, after an examination, to be in such condition that its further transaction of business will be hazardous to its policyholders, or to its creditors, or to the public; or (f) has wilfully violated its charter or any law of the state; or (g) whenever any officer thereof has refused to be examined under oath touching its affairs; or (h) if such corporation be organized under chapter six, division one, part four, title two of the Civil Code, or as a corporation to carry on the business of mutual livestock insurance upon the assessment plan, its condition is found, after examination, to be such that it can not meet the requirements for incorporation and authorization specified in the law relating thereto, the insurance commissioner may apply to the superior court, or any judge thereof, in the county in which the principal office of such corporation is located for an order directing such corporation to show cause why the insurance commissioner should not take possession of its property, and conduct its business, and for such other relief as the nature of the case and the interest of its policyholders, creditors, and the public may require.

Injunction by court.

§ 3. On such application, or at any time thereafter, such court may, in its discretion, issue an injunction restraining such corporation from the transaction of its business or disposition of its property until the further order of the court. On the return of such order to show cause, and after a full hearing, the court shall either deny the application or direct such insurance commissioner, or his successor in office, forthwith to take possession of the property and conduct the business of such corporation, and retain such possession and conduct such business until, on the application either of the insurance commissioner, or of such corporation, it shall, after a like hearing, appear to the court that the ground for such order directing the insurance commissioner to take possession has been removed and that the corporation can properly resume possession of its property and the conduct of its business.

Liquidation by insurance commissioner.

§ 4. If, on a like application and order to show cause, and after a full hearing, the court shall order the liquidation of the business of such corporation, such liquidation shall be made by and under the direction of such insurance commissioner, and his successors in office, who may deal with the property and business of such corporation in their own names as insurance commissioners or in the name of the corporation, as the court may direct, and shall be vested by operation of law with title to all of the property, contracts and rights of action of such corporation as of the date of the order so directing them to liquidate. The filing or recording of such order in any county recorder's office of the state shall impart the same notice that a deed, bill of sale or other evidence of title duly filed or recorded by such corporation would have imparted. The rights and liabilities of any such corporation, and of its creditors, policyholders, stockholders and members, and of all other persons interested in its assets, shall, unless otherwise directed by the court, be fixed as of the date of the entry of the order directing the liquidation of such corporation in the office of the clerk of the county wherein such corporation had its principal office for the transaction of business upon the date of the institution of proceedings under this section.

Action by insurance commissioner in case of foreign corporations.

§ 5. Whenever any of the grounds of jurisdiction over domestic corporations specified in subdivisions (a), (b), (c), (d), (e), (f) and (g) of section two of this act exist or arise with reference to any corporation incorporated by or existing under the government or laws of any country outside of the United States and authorized to transact the business of insurance and having assets in this state; or whenever any foreign corporation so authorized and having assets in this state has been placed in the hands of a receiver or had its property sequestered in its domiciliary state or country or in any other state or country, the insurance commissioner may apply to the superior court or any judge thereof in the county in which such corporation has its principal office for the transaction of business in this state, for an order directing such corporation to show cause why the insurance commissioner should not take possession of its property and conserve its assets for the benefit of its creditors, and for such other relief as the nature of the case and the interests of its policyholders, creditors, stockholders or the public may require.

Injunction by court.

§ 6. On such application, or at any time thereafter, such court may, in its discretion, issue an injunction restraining such corporation and its officers, agents and employees from the transaction of its business or disposition of its property until the further order of the court. On the return of such order to show cause, and after a full hearing the court shall either deny the application or direct the insurance commissioner forthwith to take possession of the property and conserve the assets of such corporation, and retain such possession until, on the application either of the insurance commissioner, or of such corporation, it shall, after a like hearing, appear to the court that the ground for such order directing the insurance commissioner to take possession has been removed and that the corporation can properly resume possession of its property and conduct its business. If, on such application, the court shall direct the insurance commissioner to take possession of the property and conserve the assets of such corporation, the rights and duties of the said insurance commissioner with reference to such corporation and its said assets shall be those heretofore exercised by and imposed upon ancillary receivers of foreign corporations in this state.

Appointment of deputies, etc.

§ 7. For the purposes of this act, the insurance commissioner shall have power to appoint, under his hand and official seal, one or more special deputy insurance commissioners, as his agent or agents, and to employ such counsel, clerks and assistants as may by him be deemed necessary, and give each of such persons such powers to assist him as he may consider wise. The compensation of such special deputy insurance commissioners, counsel, clerks and assistants, and all expenses of taking possession of and conducting the business of liquidating any such corporation shall be fixed by the insurance commissioner, subject to the approval of the court, and shall, on certificate of the insurance commissioner, be paid out of the funds or assets of such corporation. During the progress of any proceedings taken under this section, the insurance commissioner, his deputies or any examiner authorized by him and the special deputy insurance commissioner acting for the said insurance commissioner therein shall have all of the powers given to the insurance commissioner, his deputy or any examiner authorized by him, including the power to examine under oath the persons specified in such section, and to compel the production of books and papers as therein provided.

Rules and regulations.

§ 8. For the purposes of this act, the insurance commissioner shall have power, subject to the approval of the court, to make and prescribe such rules and regulations as to him shall seem proper.

Report to legislature on liquidated corporations.

§ 9. The insurance commissioner shall transmit to the legislature, in his biennial report, the names of the corporations so taken possession of, whether the same have resumed business or have been liquidated, and such other facts as shall acquaint the policyholders, creditors, stockholders and the public with his proceedings under this act; and to that end, the special deputy insurance commissioner in charge of any such corporation shall file annually with the insurance commissioner a report of the affairs of such corporation.

Commissioner has powers of receiver.

§ 10. In all cases arising under the provisions of this act where not otherwise provided the powers and duties of the insurance commissioner with relation to the property and assets and business of any corporation placed under his control shall be those heretofore exercised by and imposed upon receivers of corporations within this state.

Service of papers.

§ 11. The order to show cause and the papers upon which the same is made in any proceeding instituted under the provisions of this act shall be served upon the corporation named in such order in the manner prescribed by law for personal service of summons upon a domestic corporation. When it is satisfactorily proved by affidavit that the officers of the corporation named in the said order to show cause, upon whom service is required to be made as above provided, or, if a Lloyds association or inter-insurance exchange be named in the order to show cause, the duly designated attorney-in-fact, have departed from the state or keep themselves concealed therein with intent to avoid service, such order to show cause may provide for service thereof in such manner as the court or judge by whom the same is made, shall direct.

Transfer of place of business to San Francisco.

§ 12. At any time after the commencement of proceedings under an order of liquidation made pursuant to this section, the said insurance commissioner may remove the principal office of the corporation in liquidation to the city and county of San Francisco. In event of such removal the court shall, upon the application of the insurance commissioner, direct the clerk of the county wherein such proceeding was commenced to transmit all of the papers filed therein with such clerk to the clerk of the county of San Francisco, and the proceeding shall thereafter be conducted in the same manner as though it had been commenced in the city and county of San Francisco.

Repealed. Option of commissioner.

§ 13. All acts and parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act are hereby repealed; provided, however, that it shall be optional with the insurance commissioner in any appropriate case to proceed in the manner herein provided or in accordance with the provisions of section six hundred four of the Political Code.

COLLECTION OF ACCOUNTS FOR LIQUOR.

ACT 2213—An act to prohibit the collection of accounts for liquors sold at retail.

History: Approved March 20, 1874, Stats. 1873-74, p. 509. Prior act of April 21, 1858, Stats. 1858, p. 193, superseded by present act.

Invalid consideration.

§ 1. The purchase of, or the sale and delivery of any spirituous or malt liquors, wine, or cider, by retail, or by the drink, is hereby declared to be an invalid consideration for any promise to pay, or assumpsit of account therefor, when the amount of such account or demand exceeds five dollars.

Judgment.

§ 2. No court shall, in any action at law, render judgment for a greater amount than five dollars, for the sale at retail, or by the drink, of any spirituous or malt liquors, wine, or cider, together with costs.

§ 3. Nothing in this act shall be construed to affect in any manner debts contracted prior to its passage.

1. Construed and applied—Sales "by the drink"—"Sales by retail."—The act is not to be construed as making sales "by the drink" synonymous with or explanatory of "sale by retail," by reason of the use of the disjunctive "or."—Bettencourt v. Sheehy, 157 Cal. 698, 109 Pac. 89.

2. Same—Same—Same.—The act, by its terms, clearly applies to both sales "by the drink" and sales "at retail."—Bettencourt v. Sheehy, 157 Cal. 698, 109 Pac. 89.

3. Same—Sales in gallon and half gallon lots.—Where sales of liquor are in gallon and half gallon lots, the amount of recovery is not limited by the act.—Bettencourt v. Sheehy, 157 Cal. 698, 109 Pac. 89.

4. Words and phrases—"Retail"—Statute in pari materia.—The word "retail" in this act is not to be construed as it would be in reference to sales of merchandise, but as it would in § 3381, Political Code, regulating "retail liquor licenses," which is in pari materia with this act, and shows clearly that the phrase sale of liquor "at retail" means sales "in less quantities than one quart."—Bettencourt v. Sheehy, 157 Cal. 698, 109 Pac. 89.

SALE TO PERSON INORDINATELY ADDICTED TO USE.

ACT 2214—An act to prevent the sale of intoxicating liquors to persons addicted to the inordinate use thereof.

History: Approved March 19, 1889, Stats. 1889, p. 352; amended April 10, 1915. In effect August 8, 1915, Stats. 1915, p. 49.

Penalty for furnishing liquors to person inordinately addicted to use thereof.

§ 1. Any person who, after receiving notice that a person named in said notice is addicted to the inordinate use of intoxicating liquors, should the person named in said notice be so addicted, shall thereafter within a period of twelve months furnish to said person so addicted to the inordinate use of intoxicating liquors, any spirituous liquors, wines, or intoxicating or malt liquors, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and punishable by imprisonment in the county jail not exceeding six months, or by fine not exceeding two hundred dollars, or by both such fine or imprisonment. Said notice shall be in writing and may be given by any adult member of the family of said person so addicted to the inordinate use of intoxicating liquors, or by any adult relative of said person so addicted to the inordinate use of said intoxicating liquors, or by any peace officer or district attorney. [Amendment of April 10, 1915. In effect August 8, 1915. Stats. 1915, p. 49.]

Not to apply to physicians.

§ 2. The provisions of this act shall not prohibit any regularly licensed physician from furnishing or prescribing said liquors in case of sickness.

Act takes effect when.

§ 3. This act shall take effect from and after its passage.

SALE NEAR CONSTRUCTION CAMP.

ACT 2224—An act to prohibit the sale of intoxicating liquors within a certain distance of any camp or assembly of men, numbering twenty-five or more, engaged upon the construction, repair or operation of any public work, improvement, or utility.

History: Approved March 25, 1909, Stats. 1909, p. 722.

Sale of liquors near construction camps.

§ 1. It shall be unlawful for any person to sell, keep for sale, or give away, any spirituous, vinous, malt or mixed intoxicating liquors at any place situated more than one mile outside the limits of an incorporated city or town, and within four miles of any camp or assembly of men, numbering twenty-five or more, engaged upon, or in connection with, the construction, repair or operation of any public or quasi-public work, improvement or utility; provided, however, that nothing in this section contained shall be deemed to apply to the sale, keeping for sale, or disposal of any such liquor at a licensed saloon or liquor-store which shall have been established, or at a licensed saloon or liquor-store which shall be maintained, at the time this act takes effect, upon the same premises where a licensed saloon or liquor-store shall have been established, at least six months prior to the establishment of such camp or assembly of men, or to the sale, keeping for sale, or disposal of any such liquors at any winery, licensed brewery or distillery, where the same is manufactured.

Misdemeanor.

§ 2. Any person violating any of the provisions of this statute shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and, for each offense, shall be punished by a fine not exceeding five hundred dollars, or by imprisonment in the county jail not exceeding six months, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

Act takes effect when.

1. Constitutional law.—Act held constitutional.—Ex parte King, 157 Cal. 161, 106 Pac. 579. Also Ex parte Young, 154 Cal. 317, 22 L. R. A. (N. S.) 330, 97 Pac. 822.

2. Same—Classification — Permanent and itinerant saloon.—The criterion adopted by the legislature of a six months' existence to entitle a saloon to the character of permanency was reasonable.—Ex parte King, 157 Cal. 161, 106 Pac. 578. Also, Ex parte Young, 154 Cal. 317, 22 L. R. A. (N. S.) 330, 97 Pac. 822.

3. Same — Same — Same — The design of the legislature was to protect the public work and the men engaged therein from itinerant saloon, and the classification adopted by which the act was made applicable only to that class was a reasonable one.—Ex parte King, 157 Cal. 161, 106 Pac. 578. Also, Ex parte Young, 154 Cal. 317, 22 L. R. A. (N. S.) 330, 97 Pac. 822.

4. Same—License.—The act is valid and the board of supervisors have no power to license a saloon in violation of its provisions.—Great Western Power Co. v. Supervisors, 21 Cal. App. 146, 131 Pac. 88.

5. Same—Uniform operation of act.—The proviso of section 1 of the act exempting from its operation certain business established six months prior to establishment of camp, does not affect the uniform operation of the act, or render it violative of section 11, article 1 of the constitution.—Ex parte King, 157 Cal. 161, 106 Pac. 578. PUBLIC SCHOOLHOUSE ACT.

ACT 2224a—An act prohibiting the sale, gift or delivery of intoxicating liquor at public schoolhouses, and prescribing penalties for the violation of any provision hereof.

History: Approved April 1, 1915. In effect August 8, 1915. Stats. 1915, p. 20.

Sale of liquors at public schools prohibited.

§ 1. Any person, firm, association or corporation that sells, gives or delivers to any person any intoxicating liquor at any public schoolhouse or upon any portion of the grounds thereof, is guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be punished by a fine not to exceed five hundred dollars or by imprisonment in a county jail not to exceed six months, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

Penalty.

§ 2. Any person, firm, association or corporation convicted of the violation of any provision of this act shall, for a period of one year from and after such conviction, be barred from having or receiving any privilege accorded by that certain act entitled "An act providing for the free use of all public schools and property, and to establish a civic center at each and every public schoolhouse in the state of California, and to provide for the maintenance, conduct and management of the same," approved June 6, 1913.

"WYLLIE LOCAL OPTION LAW."

ACT 2225—An act to provide for the regulation of the traffic in alcoholic liquors by establishing local option; authorizing the filing of petitions praying for elections to vote upon the question whether the sale of alcoholic liquors shall be licensed within the territory described in such petitions; providing for the calling and holding of such elections; making it the duty of the proper governing body to declare such territory to be no-license territory unless a majority of votes is cast in favor of license; providing that no licenses, permits or other authority to sell or distribute alcoholic liquors in no-license territory shall be granted; forfeiting and declaring void all such licenses or permits theretofore issued and in force; making it a penal offense to sell, give away or distribute alcoholic liquors within such territory, with certain exceptions; and providing penalties for such offenses.

History: Approved April 4, 1911, Stats. 1911, p. 599.

Petition for election on local option question.

§ 1. Qualified electors of any incorporated city or town, or of that portion of any supervisorial district not included within the boundaries of any incorporated city or town, numbering not less than twenty-five per cent of the number of votes cast for all candidates for governor in the territory described in the petition, at the last preceding election for governor of the state, may petition the city council, board of trustees or other legislative body of such city or town or the board of supervisors of the county in which such supervisorial district is situated, to call an election to vote upon the question, whether the sale of alcoholic liquors shall be licensed in such city, town, or supervisorial district outside of incorporated cities and towns.

Form of petition.

§ 2. Such petition shall be substantially in the following form:

To the.... (here insert the name of the legislative or governing body of the district: city council, board of trustees, board of supervisors, or whatever it may be).... of the (here insert description and name of the city, town or county, as the case may be)

The undersigned, residents and qualified electors of the.... (here insert description and name of the city, town, or supervisorial district outside of incorporated cities and towns, as the case may be) respectfully petition that you cause to be submitted, in the manner provided by law, to the voters of this (here insert "city," "town," or "supervisorial district outside of incorporated cities and towns," as the case may be) the proposition, "Shall the sale of alcoholic liquors be licensed in this (here insert 'city,' 'town,' or 'supervisorial district outside of incorporated cities and towns')?"

Name of Signer.	House number.	Street.	Postoffice.	Date of signing.	Precinct.
-----------------	---------------	---------	-------------	------------------	-----------

Petitioner's signature. Sworn statement.

§ 3. Each petitioner shall, in addition to signing his name to such petition, write opposite his name thereon his place of residence, giving street and number, if any, and such signing, to be valid, must have been done not more than sixty days before the filing of said petition. There shall be attached to each sheet of such petition a statement, signed and sworn to by a resident of the district described in such petition, that the signatures on the said sheet were made in his presence, by the persons whose names purported to be signed thereto, within the time as provided in this act, and that to the best of his knowledge and belief the persons whose names are signed thereto were, at the time of signing the same, qualified electors in the district described in said petition. No names shall be withdrawn from such petition after the same is filed.

Examination of petition. Notice to person filing. Call election.

§ 4. Upon the filing of said petition the clerk of the body to which it is addressed shall forthwith examine it, and from the great register ascertain whether or not said petition is signed by the requisite number of qualified electors of the territory described therein, and, if necessary, he shall be allowed extra help for that purpose, and within ten days from the date of filing such petition he shall certify in writing the result of such examination and shall file this certificate with the petition. If the clerk finds the number of qualified signers to be insufficient, he shall immediately send a written notice to the person who filed the petition, stating the number of qualified signers he has found thereon, and that they are not sufficient; and the petition may be amended within ten days from the date of such notice by the filing of a supplementary petition. The clerk shall within ten days after such amendment make like examination and cer-tification of the amended petition. If it is still found insufficient he shall notify the person who filed the petition of that fact, without prejudice, however, to the filing of a new petition to the same effect.

If the petition shall be certified as sufficient, the legislative or governing body having jurisdiction over the territory described therein shall, within the time prescribed herein, call an election to be held in such territory to vote upon the question whether the sale of alcoholic liquors shall be licensed therein.

Provisions governing election.

§ 5. Such election shall be called and held in the manner provided by law; and all the provisions of law, penal or otherwise, applicable to a general state election shall apply to special elections held, under this act, in territory outside of incorporated cities and towns; while all the provisions of law applicable to municipal elections shall apply to special elections held, under this act, in incorporated cities and towns.

Question may be submitted at general election. Special election not oftener than once in two years.

§ 6. If said petition shall be certified as sufficient within six months and not less than forty days before the holding of the next general state or general municipal election within the territory therein described, such question shall be submitted at said general state or general municipal election; otherwise a special election to vote upon the question shall be called to be held within not less than thirty nor more than sixty days after the petition has been certified as sufficient, provided, that no election under this act shall be held within two years of any previous election held under this act within the same territory.

License question on ballots of general election.

§ 7. If said petition is filed with the governing body of an incorporated city or town, and is certified as sufficient within six months and not less than forty days before the holding of the next general state election, said body shall forthwith request the board of supervisors of the county in which such city or town is located to place the license question on the ballots for all voting precincts within such city or town at the next general state election, in the form provided in section 8 hereof. It shall be the duty of said board of supervisors to comply with such request, and immediately after canvassing the returns of such election to report the vote for and against license to the governing body of such city or town, and it shall enter the same upon its minutes, making record of the date of the election and of the number of votes for and against license.

Ballot.

§ 8. The form of ballot shall be as follows:

Shall the sale of alcoholic liquors be licensed in this..... (Here insert "city," "town," or "supervisory district outside of incorporated cities and towns," as the case may be).....	Yes.
	No.

To vote for license electors they shall stamp a cross in the square opposite the word "Yes" on the ballot; and to vote against license they shall stamp a cross in the square opposite the word "No" thereon.

Contest of election.

§ 9. Any elector of the territory in which an election under this act is held may contest such election for malconduct on the part of an election board or of any member thereof or on account of illegal votes. Such contest shall be subject to all the provisions of law relating to the contesting of elections, so far as the same may be applicable; provided, that while said contest is pending, and until the same is decided, the force and effect of said election shall be the same as if it had not been contested.

No-license territory.

§ 10. Unless a majority of the votes cast on this question at such election are in favor of license, the territory described in the petition shall be no-license territory on and after ninety days from the date of said election; and the city council, board of supervisors or other governing body having jurisdiction thereof, shall thereupon make an entry on its records declaring that such described territory is no-license territory; but a failure to make such entry shall not affect the result or effect of such election.

In any prosecution under this act the original record in the minutes of said governing body of the number of votes cast at such election, or a copy thereof certified by the clerk of said governing body, shall be prima facie evidence that the territory in which such election was held is no-license territory; provided, said record shows that at said election there was not a majority vote in favor of license.

Election necessary to change to license territory.

§ 11. When any city, town, or supervisorial district outside of incorporated cities and towns, becomes no-license territory it shall remain such until at a subsequent election, called, as herein provided, to vote on the question of whether the sale of alcoholic liquors shall be licensed therein, a majority of the votes cast on that question are in favor of license. It shall thereupon cease to be no-license territory within the meaning of this act.

Licenses in such territory become void.

§ 12. No license, permit or other authority to sell or distribute alcoholic liquors in no-license territory shall be issued except to registered pharmacists and to manufacturers of such liquors, and all such existing licenses or permits, except those of registered pharmacists and manufacturers, shall immediately become void when the territory becomes no-license territory; but all holders of such licenses, permits or other authority shall, upon a surrender thereof, be entitled to a rebate of the proportion of license fee paid therefor for the unexpired term for which the same was granted.

Unlawful to sell liquor.

§ 13. It shall be unlawful for any person, corporation, firm, company, association or club, as principal, agent, employee or otherwise, within the boundaries of any no-license territory to sell, furnish, distribute or give away any alcoholic liquors except as provided in section 16 hereof.

Unlawful to conduct place where liquor is sold.

§ 14. It shall be unlawful for any person, corporation, firm, company, association or club, within any no-license territory to keep, conduct or establish, as principal or agent, any place where alcoholic liquors are sold, served or distributed, or are kept for the purpose of sale or distribution, except as provided in section 16 hereof; and every day that such place shall be kept, established or conducted shall constitute a separate offense.

Unlawful to solicit orders for liquor.

§ 15. It shall be unlawful for any person, corporation, firm, company, association or club, within any no-license territory, to solicit orders, take orders or make agreements for the sale or delivery of alcoholic liquors; provided, that this shall not apply to the taking of such orders from a registered pharmacist at his place of business, or to the taking of orders for alcoholic liquors on the premises where stored or manufactured, under the conditions stated in section 16 hereof.

What acts not unlawful.

§ 16. Nothing in this act shall be interpreted as rendering it unlawful to keep alcoholic liquors for distribution, or to sell or distribute such liquors, in no-license territory in the manner and for the purposes in this section provided:

First—The serving of such liquors by any person at his own home to members of his family or to his guests, as an act of hospitality, when no money or thing of value is received in return therefor, and when said home is not a place of public resort;

Second—The serving or dispensing of such liquors by any registered pharmacist for bona fide medicinal purposes only, upon a prescription issued, signed and dated by a duly licensed physician; provided, that the name of the person applying for the prescription and the name of the person for whose use the prescription is made shall be inserted therein by the physician issuing the same at the time the prescription is made or given, and that not more than one sale or furnishing is made upon such prescription, and that all such prescriptions are kept on file at the place of business of such pharmacist, open to public inspection; provided, further, that no such liquors so dispensed shall be drunk upon the premises where dispensed;

Third—The selling of alcohol by a registered pharmacist for other than beverage purposes; provided, that such pharmacist shall keep a record of such sales in which shall be entered the date of the sale, the quantity sold, the purpose for which purchased, and the signature of the person purchasing the same; such record to be open to public inspection;

Fourth—The selling of wine by a regularly licensed pharmacist for sacramental purposes only; provided, such wine is sold only to a regularly ordained minister of some religious denomination, or upon the written order of the local official board or governing body of a religious organization; provided, further, that such pharmacist shall keep a record of such sales in which shall be entered the date of the sale, the quantity sold, and the signature of the person purchasing the same; such record to be open to public inspection;

Fifth—The distributing of wine at the sacramental service of any religious organization;

Sixth—The keeping of alcoholic liquors at cellars, vaults or warehouses, receiving orders at such cellars, vaults or warehouses for said liquors, and the shipping of the same therefrom; provided, said liquors are not distributed or delivered to any person or place in no-license territory within the county in which such cellars, vaults or warehouses are located, except when delivered to a common carrier for shipment to a place outside of said no-license territory;

Seventh—The keeping of alcoholic liquors on the premises where manufactured, receiving orders at said premises for such liquors, and the shipping of the same from such premises; provided, said liquors are not distributed or delivered in no-license territory within the county in which such premises are located in quantities of less than two gallons, and are not delivered to any person or place in such territory within said county except as follows: (a) to a common carrier for shipment to a place outside of said no-license territory; (b) to other manufacturers of alcoholic liquors at the premises where they manufacture such liquors; (c) to cellars, vaults or warehouses where such liquors are stored or distributed as provided in the sixth paragraph of this section (d) to any person at his or her permanent residence; (e) to registered pharmacists at their place of business.

Physician may not prescribe for person not in actual need.

§ 17. No physician shall give to, or write for, any well person, or person not in actual need of said liquor as a medicine, any prescription for alcoholic liquors, either separately or compounded with other ingredients; and any physician who shall assist in violating or evading any of the provisions of this act shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof, shall be liable to the penalty provided in section 19 hereof.

Pharmacists to file monthly statements of liquors sold, etc.

§ 18. On or before the tenth day of each month every pharmacist in no-license territory who keeps or dispenses alcoholic liquors, shall file with the county clerk of the county, wherein his place of business is located, a sworn statement of the kind and quantity of such liquors he has received during the previous month, showing the date or dates on which it was received and from whom purchased; also a sworn statement of the liquors he has sold or dispensed during said previous month, showing the kind and quantity of liquors in each sale, the date, name of the purchaser, and, in case it was dispensed on a prescription, the name of the physician who issued the prescription. These statements shall be kept on file by the county clerk for at least two years, open to public inspection. Any pharmacist in no-license territory failing to file statements as herein provided, or filing false statements, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be liable to the penalty provided in section 19 hereof.

Penalty for violation.

§ 19. Any person violating any of the provisions of this act shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine not exceeding six hundred dollars, or by imprisonment in the county jail not exceeding seven months, or by both such fine and imprisonment; but any person found guilty of violating any of the provisions of this act, by conviction for an offense committed after a previous conviction under this act, shall be punished by a fine not exceeding six hundred dollars nor less than one hundred dollars, and by imprisonment in the county jail not exceeding seven months, nor less than one month.

Places where liquor is sold in no-license territory declared nuisance. Right of search.

§ 20. All places where alcoholic liquors are sold or distributed, or are kept for sale or distribution, in violation of any of the provisions of this act, are hereby declared to be common nuisances, and shall be abated as such, and it shall be the duty of the district attorney to take action to abate such nuisances. It shall be the duty of the sheriff and any other peace officer having jurisdiction within any no-license territory to put persons suspected of violating any of the provisions of this act under police surveillance, and to use all legal means in detecting and convicting persons violating any of the provisions of this act. The right of search as given in chapter III of part II of title XII, of the Penal Code of the state of California, is hereby made applicable to all places where there is reasonable cause to believe any provision of this act is being violated. And all liquors taken from places operated or conducted in violation of the provisions of this act shall, upon conviction of such person or persons from whom such liquor has been taken, be destroyed upon order of the court in which such conviction has been had.

"Alcoholic liquors" defined.

§ 21. The term "alcoholic liquors," as used in this act, shall include spirituous, vinous and malt liquors, and any other liquor or mixture or liquors which contains one per cent, by volume, or more, of alcohol, and which is not so mixed with other drugs as to prevent its use as a beverage.

Police powers not limited.

§ 22. Nothing in this act shall be construed as putting any limitations, except such as are positively stated herein, upon the police powers now possessed by cities, towns and counties.

IX. WORDS AND PHRASES.

91. Definition of "alcoholic"—Rule of ejusdem generis.
92. "Solicit."
93. "Year."

I. CONSTITUTIONALITY.

1. Delegation of legislative power.—The Wyllie act is not unconstitutional as calling for the exercise of legislative functions by the voters of the districts, but such voters merely fix their administrative status.—Matter of Ellsworth, 165 Cal. 677, 684, 133 Pac. 272.

2. The electors exercise no legislative function under the Wyllie act, but merely determine whether they will avail themselves of the prohibitions of the act.—Matter of Ellsworth, 165 Cal. 677, 684, 133 Pac. 272.

3. The power to make laws conferred by the constitution on the legislature can not be delegated by the legislature to the people of the state or to any portion of the people, but this does not apply to a statute which is made to depend upon the happening of a subsequent event as, for example, in the case of the local option law, upon the vote of the people specially interested.—Ex parte Beck, 162 Cal. 701, 704, 124 Pac. 543.

3a. Same—Suspension of general laws.—The local option act itself, and not the vote of the people, has the effect of suspending such general laws as the municipal corporation act, and county government act, as to the licensing and regulating of the sale of alcoholic liquors.—Ex parte Beck, 162 Cal. 701, 711, 124 Pac. 543.

3b. Encouragement of wine grape growing, does not affect prohibition of act.—Notwithstanding the legislative policy of the state of California to foster and encourage the growing of wine grapes and manufacture of wines therefrom, the board of supervisors of any county, in the exercise of its police power, may impose upon the sale within the county of vinous or other alcoholic liquors, any restrictions which are not in conflict with general laws; or it may prohibit such sale altogether.—In re Coombs, 169 Cal. 484, 490.

4. Unreasonableness.—The local option law is not invalid either on the ground of unreasonableness or that it involves the delegation of its power by the legislature.—Ex parte Beck, 162 Cal. 701, 708, 124 Pac. 543; In re Anixter, 22 Cal. App. 117, 134 Pac. 193.

5. Legislative power—Supervisory districts, local option units.—The legislature was authorized to declare a supervisory district a local option district notwithstanding the fact that it is not a political subdivision of the state.—Ex parte Beck, 162 Cal. 701, 710, 124 Pac. 543.

6. Expression of legislative policy—Majority for license.—It is no legal objection to the validity of the act that a majority of the votes cast must be in favor of the traffic in order to authorize it, the adoption of the majority vote being purely an expression of legislative policy.—Ex parte Beck, 162 Cal. 701, 712, 124 Pac. 543.

7. Uniformity of operation.—The act is uniform in operation although the traffic in intoxicating liquors may be allowed in some districts and prohibited in others, as the electors may indicate their desire.—Ex parte Beck, 162 Cal. 701, 712, 124 Pac. 543.

8. Grant of police power to electors direct—Not a delegation of legislative power.—The "Wyllie act" grants to the electors themselves the power which is granted to counties, cities, towns and townships by section 11, article XI, of the constitution, to deal with the same or similar questions, through their governing bodies, and is not a delegation of legislative power.—In re Anixter, 22 Cal. App. 117, 134 Pac. 193.

9. Initiative not impaired.—The right to legislate by initiative is not impaired by the circumstance that the voting body includes some electors residing in territory that will not be affected by the enactment.—Crippen v. Farrier, 166 Cal. 69, 71, 134 Pac. 1139.

10. Exercise of police power by initiative.—The police power over the sale of intoxicating liquors may be exercised as well by the initiative as by the legislative bodies.—Crippen v. Farrier, 166 Cal. 69, 71, 134 Pac. 1139.

11. General law.—The "Wyllie act" is a general law within the meaning of section 11, article XI, of the constitution.—In re Zany, 20 Cal. App. 360, 129 Pac. 295.

12. The "Wyllie act" is a general law in the truest sense.—In re Anixter, 22 Cal. App. 117, 134 Pac. 193.

13. The local option act is a general law, and is no less a general law on the ground, if true, that it does not operate in cities having freeholder charters.—Ex parte Beck, 162 Cal. 701, 711, 124 Pac. 543.

II. CONSTRUCTION AND APPLICATION.

14. Intention of act—No intention to interfere with sale of non-intoxicating liquors.—The legislature did not intend, in the passage of the "Wyllie act" to make it unlawful to sell non-intoxicating liquors, nor to contraband the traffic in spirituous vinous or malt liquors possessing no intoxicating quality.—People v. Strickler, 25 Cal. App. 60, 142 Pac. 1121.

15. Subdivisions to vote separately.—The "Wyllie act" intended to permit the various subdivisions of a county to vote separately on the subject of the liquor traffic, unaffected by the vote of other subdivisions.—In re Zany, 20 Cal. App. 360, 129 Pac. 295.

16. Alcoholic content as test of intoxicating character.—Alcoholic content of beer as establishing its character as an intoxicating liquor.—Jacob Hoffman Brewing Co. v. McElligott, 259 Fed. 321.

17. Alcoholic content as test of intoxicating character.—Jacob Ruppert v. Caffey, 251 U. S. 264, 64 L. ed. —, 40 Sup. Ct. 138.

18. Acts declared unlawful in section 15.—Three acts are declared unlawful in section 15 of the local option law of 1911, i. e., soliciting orders, taking orders, and making agreements for the sale or delivery of alcoholic liquors, and the words "for sale or delivery qualify all these acts."—People v. Winkler, 174 Cal. 133, 134, 162 Pac. 109.

19. Distribution in "no license" territory.—One who, by any means or method, or in any manner, gives, furnishes or distributes intoxicating liquors in "no license" territory to other persons, is guilty of a violation of the "Wyllie act."—People v. Bliss (Cal. App.), 182 Pac. 63.

20. Good faith of defendant not a defense.—It is no defense to a prosecution under the "Wyllie act" for selling alcoholic liquor in "no license" territory that defendant believed in good faith that the liquor contained less than one per cent alcohol by volume.—People v. Bickerstaff (Cal. App.), 190 Pac. 656.

21. Sale, not purchase, prohibited.—The local option act does not prohibit the purchase of alcoholic liquors, but only the sale.—People v. Winkler, 174 Cal. 133, 136, 162 Pac. 109.

22. "Furnishing" liquor.—Title of "Wyllie act" is broad enough to cover the act of "furnishing" liquor within no license territory.—People v. Joy, 30 Cal. App. 36, 157 Pac. 507.

23. Use in private residence — Ultimate destination, not original sale.—Under paragraph 7 of section 13 of the "Wyllie act," the provision as to the use of liquor at a private residence refers to its ultimate destination and not to its original sale.—Dini v. Byrnes, 35 Cal. App. 112, 169 Pac. 411; People v. Allen, 37 Cal. App. 180, 174 Pac. 374; People v. Tinney, 37 Cal. App. 811, 175 Pac. 17; People v. Epperson, 38 Cal. App. 486, 176 Pac. 702.

24. Constitutional power of cities and counties not limited.—The police power of a city or county, and the authority thereunder to restrict or prohibit the sale of liquor are not limited by the fact that at a prior election held within two years under the local option law, a majority of the electors of the city or of one or more supervisorial districts of the county, may have voted in favor of license.—Crippen v. Farrier, 166 Cal. 69, 71, 134 Pac. 1139.

25. Conflict with county wide ordinance.—Where under the "Wyllie act," some districts in a county had voted "wet" and others had voted "dry," a county wide ordinance adopted by a county wide vote providing for a county wide regulation of the liquor traffic must necessarily conflict with the "Wyllie act."—In re Zany, 20 Cal. App. 360, 129 Pac. 295.

26. County ordinance conflicting with the "Wyllie act" is unconstitutional under section 11, article XI, of the constitution, which provides the counties may make and enforce local police regulations not in conflict with general law.—In re Zany, 20 Cal. App. 360, 129 Pac. 295.

27. A county ordinance which prescribes a maximum penalty of a fine of six hundred dollars and seven months' imprisonment is not in conflict with the local option act.—In re Isch, 174 Cal. 180, 184, 162 Pac. 1026; In re Waite, 174 Cal. 813, 162 Pac. 1028.

28. A county ordinance regulating the sale of alcoholic liquors in the county is not invalid because it may provide a different scheme for local option from that provided by the "Wyllie act," in view of the fact that that act only limits the powers of boards of supervisors in territory voted "dry," and the powers of the supervisors in other parts of the county is undiminished.—In re Coombs, 169 Cal. 484, 491, 147 Pac. 131.

29. County ordinance not conflicting.—An ordinance of the town of Winters making it unlawful "to solicit orders, take orders, or make agreements for the sale or delivery of any intoxicating liquors," within that town, is not in conflict with the "Wyllie act."—Application of Anixter, 166 Cal. 762, 763, 138 Pac. 353.

30. The act supersedes a county ordinance prohibiting the sale of liquor.—In re Lieritz, 166 Cal. 298, 299, 135 Pac. 1129.

31. Exercise of constitutional power by municipality.—Where the "Wyllie act" has not been invoked and adopted by a town, that town may, under the direct grant of section 11, article XI, of the constitution, forbid the solicitation of orders for intoxicating liquors within its limits.—In re Anixter, 22 Cal. App. 117, 134 Pac. 193.

32. The "Wyllie act" was not designed by the legislature to have the effect of interfering with the constitutional right of local communities, through their duly constituted authorities to handle for themselves the retail liquor business, except in those cases where such communities adopt the provisions of said law for their guidance upon that question.—In re Anixter, 22 Cal. App. 117, 134 Pac. 193.

33. Construction of section 22 of the "Wyllie act."—Section 22, providing that "nothing in this act shall be construed as putting any limitation, except such as are positively stated herein upon the police powers of cities, towns and counties," must be construed so as not putting any limitation upon such police powers, except in the matter as to whether "the sale of alcoholic liquors shall be licensed" in any particular subdivision contemplated by the act.—In re Zany, 20 Cal. App. 360, 129 Pac. 295.

34. Police power of municipality is not suspended or impaired.—A vote for license under the "Wyllie act" does not impair the police power of the board of trustees of a municipality to regulate or prohibit the sale of alcoholic liquors, and since the board has the power the electors have the same power under the initiative and referendum act and under the constitution to do the same thing.—Giddings v. Board of Trustees, 165 Cal. 695, 698, 133 Pac. 479.

35. There is in the act no forbidden suspension of the police power granted by the constitution to counties, cities and towns.—Ex parte Beck, 162 Cal. 701, 713, 124 Pac. 543.

III. PROCEDURE.

36. Petition—Clerk's certificate final.—As to all matters pertaining to or within the proper scope of his duty under the act in the examination of the petition under the "Wyllie act," the decision of the clerk is final.—City of Watts v. Superior Court, 36 Cal. App. 692, 173 Pac. 183; People v. Bliss (Cal. App.), 182 Pac. 63.

36a. Equity jurisdiction of superior court for fraudulent acts in signatures to petition.—The superior court in the exercise of its equity jurisdiction may enjoin an election under the "Wyllie act," where it appears that there were fraudulent acts committed in affixing names to the petition the elimination of which would reduce the signatures thereto below the required number.—City of Watts v. Superior Court, 36 Cal. App. 692, 173 Pac. 183; People v. Bliss (Cal. App.), 182 Pac. 63.

37. Election—Filing clerk's certificate referred to in section 4 of the "Wyllie act" within the time prescribed in the act is essential, and in the absence of such filing, no duty is incumbent on the board of trustees, to call an election under the act.—Mills v. Board of Trustees, 35 Cal. App. 424, 169 Pac. 1052; People v. Pera, 36 Cal. App. 292, 171 Pac. 1091; City of Watts v. Superior Court, 36 Cal. App. 692, 173 Pac. 183.

38. Same.—The existence of a county prohibitory ordinance is no bar to the holding an election under the "Wyllie act."—Application of Lieritz, 166 Cal. 298, 300, 135 Pac. 1129.

39. Same.—Mandamus will lie to compel a board of supervisors to rescind an order calling an election, in connection with a presidential primary, under the "Wyllie act" and to call a special election under that act.—Bigelow v. Board of Supervisors, 18 Cal. App. 715, 124 Pac. 554.

40. Same.—Premature declaration of "no license" territory.—An election under the Wyllie law is not void because the supervisors announced the result of the election and declared a district "no license territory" without waiting ninety days.—Application of Lieritz, 166 Cal. 298, 301, 135 Pac. 1129.

41. Same.—Primary election to choose nominees for president is not a general election within the meaning of the "Wyllie act."—Bigelow v. Board of Supervisors, 18 Cal. App. 715, 124 Pac. 554.

42. Election contest.—Jurisdiction of superior court.—An election contest in an election under the "Wyllie act" is a special case within the meaning of section 5, article VI, of the constitution fixing the original jurisdiction of the superior courts.—Roche v. Superior Court, 30 Cal. App. 255, 157 Pac. 830.

43. Election establishes status.—An election under the "Wyllie act" merely establishes a status or condition determining the sentiment of the electors of the city, town or district, and the law operates upon but does not establish this status.—People v. Mueller, 168 Cal. 521, 524, L. R. A. 1915B, 788, 143 Pac. 748.

IV. EFFECT OF ADOPTION OF "NO LICENSE."

44. Power of board of supervisors.—Where one of the territorial districts under the "Wyllie act" vote no license, the sale of alcoholic liquors can not be authorized even by license, but where it votes for license, the board of supervisors, or other legislative body has still the power to disregard this expression and regulate or prohibit such sale.—Matter of Ellsworth, 165 Cal. 677, 685, 133 Pac. 272.

45. Clubroom in "no license" territory.—Where a club in "no license" territory, buys alcoholic liquor, and its officials dispense the same at its room to its members, it is guilty of a violation of section 14 of the "Wyllie act," and is not a mere agent within the meaning of the decision in People v. Winkler, 174 Cal. 133 [162 Pac. 109].—People v. Tinney, 37 Cal. App. 811, 175 Pac. 17.

46. "No license" territory.—Solicitation for household use, of orders for alcoholic liquors in "no license" territory is intended to be, and is, prohibited by the "Wyllie act."—Golden & Co. v. Justice Court, 23 Cal. App. 778, 140 Pac. 49.

47. Solicitation of orders in "no license" territory.—The legislature intended to prevent and penalize the solicitation of orders for alcoholic liquors in "no license" territory for delivery in that territory, however the offense might be committed, whether in person or by an agent or through the mail.—Golden & Co. v. Justice Court, 23 Cal. App. 778, 140 Pac. 49.

48. Soliciting orders in "no license" territory.—The gravamen of the offense is the solicitation of the orders, and it is not material where the sale is consummated, whether in the territory or outside.—Golden & Co. v. Justice Court, 23 Cal. App. 778, 140 Pac. 49.

49. Soliciting orders by mail.—Venue.—The offense is complete on the receipt of the letter by the person to whom it is addressed, and the venue of the offense is, therefore, in the county where it is received.—Golden & Co. v. Justice Court, 23 Cal. App. 778, 140 Pac. 49.

50. Soliciting orders in no license territory for delivery outside.—Soliciting orders in "no license" territory for delivery without its boundaries is not prohibited by the "Wyllie act."—Golden & Co. v. Justice Court, 23 Cal. App. 778, 140 Pac. 49.

51. Purchase outside, and bringing into no license territory, not prohibited.—The local option law does not prohibit one from purchasing alcoholic liquors outside of no license territory and bringing it into such territory for their own consumption, and since this can be done personally it can be done by an agent.—People v. Winkler, 174 Cal. 133, 136, 162 Pac. 109.

52. Delivery in no license territory can not be made under the "Wyllie act" by seller doing business in license territory, notwithstanding the liquor is to be used at the purchaser's residence to be served to the purchaser's guests at such residence.—Dini v. Byrnes, 35 Cal. App. 112, 169 Pac. 411; People v. Allen, 37 Cal. App. 180, 174 Pac. 374; People v. Tinney, 37 Cal. App. 811, 175 Pac. 17; People v. Epperson, 38 Cal. App. 486, 176 Pac. 702.

V. TRIAL. PLEADING. PRACTICE.

53. Continuance.—Testimony of absent witness.—Intent of the accused in a prosecution under the "Wyllie act" is not material, and the denial of a continuance to enable defendant to produce a witness whose testimony goes to intent alone, is not error.—People v. Allen, 37 Cal. App. 180, 174 Pac. 374.

54. Complaint.—Statement negating excepted classes not essential.—In a prosecution under the "Wyllie act" the complaint need not allege that defendant is not within any of the excepted classes.—In re Lieritz, 166 Cal. 298, 301, 135 Pac. 1129.

55. Information.—Allegation of alcoholic content not necessary.—It is unnecessary in a prosecution for a violation of the "Wyllie act" to allege in the information that the wine alleged to have been sold contained one per cent or more of alcohol, by volume.—People v. Mueller, 168 Cal. 526, 528, 143 Pac. 750.

56. Same—"Sell and furnish."—An information charging that defendant did "sell and furnish" alcoholic liquors in "no license" territory, does not charge two separate offenses.—People v. Epperson, 38 Cal. App. 486, 176 Pac. 702.

57. Information—Sufficiency of.—An information should charge that the offense was committed in a certain supervisory district or unit, but it is sufficient if it merely charges in the language of the statute that it was committed in "no license" territory.—People v. Ruiz, 39 Cal. App. 593, 179 Pac. 691.

58. An information under the former charging the selling, furnishing, distributing, and giving away of alcoholic liquors in no license territory, charges a violation of the Wyllie law, notwithstanding a county ordinance prohibited the same acts in the same territory was in effect at the time of the election under the Wyllie law creating the "no license territory."—In re Lieritz, 166 Cal. 298, 299, 135 Pac. 1129.

59. An information under the "Wyllie act," charging defendant with the offense of "furnishing, distributing and giving away," alcoholic liquors in no license territory, is sufficient.—People v. Joy, 30 Cal. App. 36, 157 Pac. 507.

60. An information charging the keeping by defendant of liquor for sale containing less than one per cent of alcohol, fails to state a public offense under that statute.—People v. Strickler, 25 Cal. App. 60, 142 Pac. 1121.

61. Information charging the solicitation of orders in "no license" territory is sufficient to give jurisdiction to make a preliminary examination of the charge, notwithstanding the information fails to aver whether delivery of the liquor was to be made within or without such territory.—Golden & Co. v. Justice Court, 23 Cal. App. 778, 140 Pac. 49.

62. Same—Failure to designate supervisory district is not prejudicial where there was no proof that the sale charged was in wet territory.—People v. Ruiz, 39 Cal. App. 593, 179 Pac. 691.

63. Same—Averment as to "no license" character of territory necessary.—Information charging violation of "Wyllie act" in keeping and conducting a place of business for the sale and distribution of intoxicating liquors in "no license" territory should aver that such territory is "no license" territory.—People v. Cavallini, 29 Cal. App. 526, 156 Pac. 73.

64. Indictment—Demurrer.—An indictment which charges that defendant did on a certain day "take an order from, sell and deliver" alcoholic liquor is not demurrable on the ground that it charges more than one offense, and that the several offenses are not stated in separate accounts, since such indictment only charges a sale under section 13 of the local option act, the words "taking an order from" are surplusage.—People v. Winkler, 174 Cal. 133, 134, 162 Pac. 109.

65. Same—Construed as changing "sale" only.—An indictment charging that defendant did "take an order from, sell, and deliver" alcoholic liquor charges only the offense of selling under section 13, local option act, and does not charge the taking of an order for sale or delivery under section 15, the words "take an order from," being surplusage.—People v. Winkler, 174 Cal. 133, 134, 162 Pac. 109.

VI. EVIDENCE.

66. Proof of "no license" character essential.—In a prosecution for a violation of the "Wyllie act" (1911-599) the "no license" character of the territory must be proved as provided by the act itself, or by other sufficient evidence, and the court can not take judicial notice of the result of a local election to put the law in operation.—People v. Mueller, 168 Cal. 521, 523, L. R. A. 1915B, 788, 143 Pac. 748.

67. Where an information under the "Wyllie act" fails to aver that at the time the offense was alleged to have been committed, and the evidence failed to show, the territory in question was "no license" territory, evidence that defendant, prior to such date, kept a place of public resort where alcoholic liquors were sold and distributed was erroneously admitted.—People v. Cavallini, 29 Cal. App. 526, 156 Pac. 73.

68. The provision of section 10 of the "Wyllie act" that the minutes of the governing body showing the number of votes cast at an election shall be prima facie evidence that the territory in which such election was held is "no license" territory, providing such minutes do not show a majority vote in favor of license, was not intended to permit a collateral attack on the various steps of the proceedings under which a "no license" territory was created.—People v. Clark, 28 Cal. App. 670, 153 Pac. 719.

69. Same—Prior sales.—In a prosecution under the "Wyllie act" evidence of sales prior to that charged in the information is inadmissible.—People v. Dial, 28 Cal. App. 704, 153 Pac. 970.

70. Evidence of prior sale is admissible, in a prosecution under the "Wyllie act," to show the character of the place.—People v. Pera, 36 Cal. App. 292, 171 Pac. 1091.

71. Same—Character of liquor.—A witness in a prosecution for a violation of the "Wyllie act" who testifies that he knows the difference between the taste of whiskey, wine, and brandy, is qualified to testify that he tasted the liquor sold by defendant and that it was wine.—People v. Mueller, 168 Cal. 526, 528, 143 Pac. 750.

72. Same—Federal liquor license.—In a prosecution under the "Wyllie act" an application for a federal liquor license not shown to have been signed by defendant is erroneously admitted.—People v. Pera, 36 Cal. App. 292, 171 Pac. 1091.

73. Same—Record of proceedings forming "no license" territory.—Evidence of irregularity in the proceedings culminating in the formation of "no license" territory under the "Wyllie act," rendering such purported formation ineffectual for any purpose, is inadmissible in a prosecution under that act for selling liquor in such "no license" territory.—People v. Clark, 28 Cal. App. 670, 153 Pac. 719.

74. Same.—Testimony of county clerk that a place of resort kept for the purpose of selling alcoholic liquors was outside any incorporated city or town, and was within a supervisorial district that had voted no license under the "Wyllie act" was sufficient to show that such place was in no license territory.—People v. Pera, 36 Cal. App. 292, 171 Pac. 1091.

75. Same — Intent is immaterial in a prosecution for a violation of the "Wyllie act," and a refusal to admit evidence which goes only to the intent of the accused is not error.—People v. Pera, 36 Cal. App. 292, 171 Pac. 1091; People v. Allen, 37 Cal. App. 180, 174 Pac. 374.

76. Expert evidence as to character of liquor.—The drinking of whiskey is of such common occurrence that it does not require an expert to pronounce upon it.—People v. Allen, 37 Cal. App. 180, 174 Pac. 374.

77. Judicial notice as to intoxicating character of wine.—The court will take judicial notice in a prosecution for a violation of the "Wyllie act" as to the character of wine, and that it is intoxicating, and that it contains more than one per cent of alcohol, by volume.—People v. Mueller, 168 Cal. 526, 528, 143 Pac. 750.

78. Sale not mere delivery.—Evidence held to sufficiently show that a transaction alleged to be a violation of the "Wyllie act" was a sale and not a mere delivery.—People v. Frisbie, 34 Cal. App. 519, 168 Pac. 143; People v. Tinney, 37 Cal. App. 811, 175 Pac. 17.

79. Sufficiency of evidence to sustain conviction.—Evidence examined and held sufficient to sustain a conviction in a prosecution for a violation under the "Wyllie act."—People v. Pera, 36 Cal. App. 292, 171 Pac. 1091.

80. Evidence examined and held sufficient to justify conviction under the "Wyllie act."—People v. Sue Chung Kee, 26 Cal. App. 732, 148 Pac. 529.

81. Evidence examined and held sufficient to sustain a conviction under the "Wyllie act."—People v. Coates, 32 Cal. App. 533, 163 Pac. 502.

82. Evidence held sufficient to sustain a conviction.—People v. Ruiz, 39 Cal. App. 593, 179 Pac. 691.

VII. INSTRUCTIONS.

83. Implied intent.—An instruction in a prosecution under the "Wyllie act" to the effect that where the commission of the unlawful act is shown the criminal intent is implied is not error.—People v. Allen, 37 Cal. App. 180, 174 Pac. 374.

84. Possession of federal liquor license.—An instruction that the possession of a federal liquor license does not legally operate to shield a defendant against a violation of the "Wyllie act" is correct as an abstract principle of law.—People v. Pera, 36 Cal. App. 292, 171 Pac. 1091.

85. Alcoholic content of liquor.—An instruction to the effect that the jury was not required to find that the liquor in question contained more than one per cent of alcohol by volume, was erroneous.—People v. Bickerstaff (Cal. App.), 190 Pac. 656.

86. It is error to refuse to instruct the jury in effect that the term "alcoholic liquor" as used in the "Wyllie act" means alcoholic liquor with one per cent by volume of alcohol, or more.—People v. Bickerstaff (Cal. App.), 190 Pac. 656.

87. Good faith of defendant.—It was not error to refuse an instruction to the effect that if the jury believed that defendant sold the liquor, believing in good faith that it contained less than one per cent by volume of alcohol, they should acquit him.—People v. Bickerstaff (Cal. App.), 190 Pac. 656.

88. Instruction, that if defendant purchased liquor outside of no license territory as the agent of another, having no interest in the liquor of his own and deriving no profit from the transaction itself, he was not guilty of "selling" such liquor to the prosecuting witness, should have been given in defendant's behalf.—People v. Winkler, 174 Cal. 133, 136, 162 Pac. 109.

88a. Giving away liquors.—In a prosecution under the "Wyllie act" for giving liquor to another in "no license" territory, an instruction that it was not necessary to warrant a conviction that the evidence should show that defendant actually handed the liquor to another person, but it was sufficient if it appeared beyond a reasonable doubt that defendant owned the liquor and placed it in a public place and in the immediate presence of such other persons with the intention that they should drink of it, correctly states the law, and was pertinent to the evidence.—People v. Bliss (Cal. App.), 182 Pac. 63.

89. Non-prejudicial error.—Error in instructing the jury in a prosecution under the "Wyllie act" that the place where the liquor was sold was "no license territory," was not prejudicial where defendant himself testified that the town was dry.—People v. Mueller, 168 Cal. 526, 529, 143 Pac. 750.

VIII. JUDGMENT.

90. Fine and imprisonment.—A judgment in a prosecution under the "Wyllie act" requiring the payment of a fine of $600 and imprisonment of one month, and if the fine is not paid a further imprisonment of one day for each dollar of the fine remaining unpaid, is void as to the clause relating to the fine, and valid as to the clause relating to the imprisonment for one month.—People v. Pera, 36 Cal. App. 292, 171 Pac. 1091.

IX. WORDS AND PHRASES.

91. Definition of "alcoholic."—Rule of ejusdem generis held to apply to section 21 of the "Wyllie act," which attempts to define the term "alcoholic liquors" under the act.—People v. Strickler, 25 Cal. App. 60, 142 Pac. 1121.

92. "Solicit."—The word "solicit" in the "Wyllie act" implies personal petition or importunity addressed to a particular individual whether in person or through the mail, but does not imply the impersonal appeal of a newspaper advertisement.—Golden & Co. v. Justice Court, 23 Cal. App. 778, 140 Pac. 49.

93. "Year."—The word "year" usually means 365 days, but it is dependent upon the subject matter of the act in which it is used, and in the "Wyllie act," providing that no election shall be had thereunder within two years after a previous election, it means that if the question is submitted at a special election, it can not be submitted at an election thereafter within two years of 365 days each, but if submitted at a general election on November 5, 1912, it may be submitted at the general election on November 3, 1914, notwithstanding less than two years of 365 days have intervened.—Hops v. Poe, 25 Cal. App. 451, 143 Pac. 1072.

BUILDING NUISANCE ABATEMENT ACT.

ACT 2227—An act declaring all buildings and places nuisances, wherein or upon which any spirituous, vinous, malt or other alcoholic liquor is unlawfully sold, served or given away, or which are used for the purpose of unlawfully selling, serving or giving away such liquors; and providing for the abatement of such nuisances.

History: Approved April 28, 1915. In effect August 8, 1915. Stats. 1915, p. 236.

Unlawful sale of liquors, nuisance.

§ 1. Every building or place used for the purpose of unlawfully selling, serving or giving away any spirituous, vinous, malt or other alcoholic liquor, and every building or place wherein or upon which such liquors are unlawfully sold, served or given away, is a nuisance which shall be enjoined, abated and prevented as hereinafter provided, whether the same be a public or private nuisance.

District attorney or citizens may bring suit to abate.

§ 2. Whenever there is reason to believe that such nuisance is kept, maintained or exists in any county or city and county, the district attorney of said county or city and county, in the name of the people of the state of California, must, or any citizen of the state resident within said county or city and county, in his own name may, maintain an action in equity to abate and prevent such nuisance and to perpetually enjoin the person or persons conducting or maintaining the same, and the owner, lessee or agent of the building, or place, in or upon which such nuisance exists, from directly or indirectly maintaining or permitting such nuisance.

Abatement procedure. Writ of injunction.

§ 3. The complaint in such action must be verified unless filed by the district attorney. Whenever the existence of such nuisance is shown in such action to the satisfaction of the court or judge thereof, either by verified complaint or affidavit, and the court or judge is satisfied that the owner of the property has received written notice of the existence of such nuisance, signed by the complainant or the said district attorney at least two weeks prior to the filing of the complaint, the court or judge shall allow a temporary writ of injunction to abate and prevent the continuance or recurrence of such nuisance. On granting such writ the court or judge must require, except when it is granted on application of the people of the state, written undertaking on the part of the applicant, with sufficient securities, to the effect that he will pay to the party enjoined such damages, not exceeding an amount to be specified, as such party may sustain by reason of the injunction, if the court finally decides that the applicant was not entitled thereto.

Precedence of actions. Costs.

§ 4. The action when brought shall have precedence over all other actions, excepting criminal proceedings, election contests and hearings on injunctions. If the complaint is filed by a citizen, it shall not be dismissed by the plaintiff or for want of prosecution except upon a sworn statement made by the complainant and his attorney, setting forth the reasons why the action should be dismissed, and the dismissal ordered by the court. In case of failure to prosecute any such action with reasonable diligence, or at the request of the plaintiff, the court, in its discretion, may substitute any such citizen consenting thereto for such plaintiff. If the action is brought by a citizen and the court finds there was no reasonable ground or cause for said action, the costs shall be taxed against such citizen.

Plaintiff's costs, lien.

§ 5. If the existence of the nuisance be established in an action as provided herein, an order of abatement shall be entered as part of the judgment in the case, and plaintiff's costs in such action shall be a lien upon such building and place, enforceable and collectible by execution issued by order of the court.

Violation of injunction, contempt.

§ 6. Any violation or disobedience of any injunction or order expressly provided for by this act shall be punished as a contempt of court by fine of not less than two hundred dollars nor more than one thousand dollars, or by imprisonment in the county jail for not less than one month nor more than six months, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

Fine, lien on building.

§ 7. Whenever the owner of a building or place upon which the act or acts constituting the contempt shall have been committed, or the owner of any interest therein, has been guilty of a contempt of court, and fined therefor in any proceedings under this act, such fine shall be a lien upon such building and place to the extent of the interest of such person therein, enforceable and collectible by execution issued by order of the court.

"Person" defined.

§ 8. The term "person," as used in this act, shall be held to mean and include individuals, corporations, associations, partnerships, trustees, lessees, agents and assignees.

INVENTORY.

See Kerr's Cyc. Political Code, § 4321.

CONTENTS OF CHAPTER.

ACT 2235. "BLUE SKY LAW."

2236. "CORPORATE SECURITIES ACT."

"BLUE SKY LAW."

ACT 2235—An act to define investment companies, investment brokers, and agents; to provide for the regulation, supervision and licensing thereof; to provide penalties for the violation thereof; to create the office of commissioner of corporations, and making an appropriation therefor.

History: Approved May 28, 1913. In effect November 1, 1913.
Stats. 1913, p. 715. Amended June 3, 1915. In effect August 8, 1915.
Stats. 1915, p. 1135.

Title of act.

§ 1. This act shall be known as the "investment companies act."

Definitions: "investment company."

§ 2. (a) The term "investment company," when used in this act, includes every private corporation, association, copartnership and company, which shall within this state, sell, offer for sale, negotiate for the sale of or take subscriptions for any stock, stock certificate, bond or other evidence of indebtedness of any kind or character, issued or to be issued by itself, other than promissory notes not offered to the public by the maker thereof.

"Security."

(b) The term "security," when used in this act, includes the stock, stock certificates, bonds, and other evidences of indebtedness, other than promissory notes not offered to the public by the maker thereof, of an investment company.

"Investment broker," "contractor."

(c) The term "investment broker," when used in this act, includes every corporation, association, copartnership, company and person who shall within this state regularly engage in the business of selling, offering for sale or negotiating for the sale, as agent or contractor, of any security of more than one investment company. The term "contractor" means any one who undertakes to sell securities for an investment company for a commission or other consideration.

"Agent."

(d) The term "agent," when used in this act, includes every corporation, association, copartnership, company and person who shall within this state sell, offer for sale, negotiate for the sale of or take subscriptions for any security of an investment company, either as an employee on a salary basis or for a commission, if acting either for the investment company or an investment broker.

"Sale."

(e) The term "sale," when used in this act, means the original transfer of title of its own securities from an investment company for any valuable consideration.

Act not applicable to certain corporations.

§ 3. This act shall not apply to corporations, associations, copartnerships, companies, firms and individuals now or hereafter subject to the jurisdiction or authority of the railroad commission, nor to corporations now or hereafter organized under the laws of this state for the purpose of conducting the business of banking within this state, nor to corporations, associations, copartnerships, companies, firms and individuals after they have secured from the insurance commissioner or the bureau of building and loan supervision a certificate of authority or license to do business within this state, nor to corporations, associations, copartnerships or companies, subject to federal regulation or not organized for profit, nor to mutual water companies and irrigation districts, nor to the stocks, stock certificates, bonds or other evidences of indebtedness of such corporations, associations, copartnerships, companies, firms or individuals. [Amendment of June 3, 1915. In effect August 8, 1915. Stats. 1915, p. 1135.]

Application for permission to sell securities. Filing fee.

§ 4. (a) Before selling, offering for sale, negotiating for the sale, or taking subscriptions for, any security of any kind or character, each investment company shall file in the office of the commissioner of corporations of this state, an application for permission so to do, together with a filing fee, as hereinafter prescribed, an itemized statement of its financial condition, in such form and detail as the commissioner of corporations may prescribe, a copy of all contracts which it proposes to make with or sell to the public, a certified copy of its charter, articles of incorporation or articles of association and all amendments thereto, and such additional information pertaining thereto as the commissioner of corporations may, from time to time, prescribe. Said filing fee shall be five dollars if the par or face value of said security amounts to twenty-five thousand dollars or less; ten dollars if the par or face value of said security amounts to over twenty-five thousand dollars and not over fifty thousand dollars; fifteen dollars if the par or face value of said security amounts to over fifty thousand dollars and not over seventy-five thousand dollars; twenty dollars if the par or face value of said security amounts to over seventy-five thousand dollars and not over one hundred thousand dollars; and twenty-five dollars if the par or face value of said security amounts to over one hundred thousand dollars.

Securities not for sale to public exempt.

(b) If the investment company does not desire to sell its securities to the public the commissioner of corporations may make his written finding to that effect. Upon the filing of said finding the investment company and its securities shall be exempt from the provisions of this act until the commissioner of corporations makes and files his order setting aside said finding. The commissioner of corporations shall have power to make his order setting aside said finding if he finds that the investment company is selling its securities to the public, or for other good cause.

Companies organized in other states. Attorney upon whom process may be served. Fee.

(c) If such company is organized or created under or by virtue of the laws of any other state, territory or government, it shall also file in the office of the commissioner of corporations a certified copy of the law or laws under which it is organized or incorporated, and all amendments thereto, and also, in such form as the commissioner of corporations may prescribe, its written instrument, irrevocable, appointing the commissioner of corporations or his successor in office its true and lawful attorney, upon whom all process in any action or proceeding against it may be served with the same effect as if said company were organized or created under the laws of this state and had been lawfully served with process therein. Service upon such attorney shall be deemed personal service upon such company. The commissioner of corporations shall forthwith forward by mail, postage prepaid to the person designated by such company by written instrument filed with the commissioner of corporations at the address given in said instrument, or, in case no such instrument has been filed, to the secretary of such company at its last known postoffice address, a copy of every process served upon him under the provisions of this section. For each copy of process, the commissioner of corporations shall collect the sum of two dollars, which shall be paid by the plaintiff or moving party at the time of such service, to be recovered by him as part of his taxable costs, if he succeeds in the suit or proceedings. Service shall not be deemed complete until said fee has been paid, and said copy of process mailed as hereinbefore directed.

Commissioner to examine company's affairs before issuing certificate. Certificate not recommendation. Refusing certificate. Unlawful to issue securities without certificate. Stock to directors. Temporary permit.

§ 5. It shall be the duty of the commissioner of corporations to examine the statement and other information so filed, and he may, if he deems it advisable, make, or have made, at applicant's cost as hereinafter in this act specified, a detailed examination, audit and investigation of the investment company's affairs, providing that the investment company may at its option, in writing, refuse to have such examination, audit or investigation made, whereupon the commissioner of corporations must reject the application. If he finds that the proposed plan of business of the investment company is not unfair, unjust, or inequitable the commissioner of corporations shall issue to the investment company a certificate, authorizing it to sell securities, as therein specified within this state, reciting that the company has complied with the provisions of this act, that detailed information concerning the investment company and its securities is on file in the office of the commissioner of corporations and that the investment company is authorized to sell said securities within this state on such conditions, if any, as the commissioner of corporations may in said certificate prescribe. Said certificate shall recite in bold type that the issuance of this certificate is permissible only and does not constitute a recommendation or indorsement of said securities. The commissioner of corporations may impose such conditions as he may deem necessary to the issue of said securities, and may, from time to time, for cause, rescind, alter or amend the certificate. If the commissioner of corporations finds that the proposed plan of business of the investment company is unfair, unjust, or inequitable or that it does not intend to do a fair and honest business, he shall refuse to issue the certificate and shall notify the investment company in writing of his decision. It shall be unlawful to issue any security to which this act is applicable unless a certificate or a temporary permit authorizing the issue thereof shall first have been secured from the commissioner of corporations as provided in this act; and it shall further be unlawful for any investment company, investment broker or agent as in this act defined, to sell, offer for sale, negotiate for the sale of or take subscriptions for any stock, stock certificate, bond or other evidence of indebtedness of any kind or character without exhibiting to the prospective purchaser or prospective purchasers of such securities, or any thereof, a copy of the certificate issued to such investment company in accordance herewith. A corporation may without applying for a certificate under the provisions of this act issue to each of its directors one share of stock for the purpose of qualifying as directors. The commissioner of corporations, if satisfied that the investment company intends to do a fair, just and equitable business, may, forthwith upon the filing of the statement and other papers required by section four of this act, issue to said investment company, upon such conditions as he may prescribe, a temporary permit to issue its securities pending the examination of said statement and other papers, and may, from time to time, for cause, rescind, alter or amend said temporary permit.

Investment brokers' permit. Fee.

§ 6. The provisions of sections four and five of this act, in so far as applicable, shall apply to investment brokers; provided, that the commissioner of corporations may, if he finds that the applicant has a good business reputation and deals only in good securities, issue to an investment broker a general permit entitling such investment broker to sell securities within this state, authorized by him, until the first of March following, when it will be necessary to secure a new general permit. For each such general permit the commissioner of corporations shall charge the sum of five dollars. Such general permit, however, shall be subject to revocation by the commissioner of corporations at any time for cause appearing to him sufficient. The commissioner of corporations shall forthwith mail written notice of such revocation to the investment broker.

Certificates for investment brokers' agents. Fee.

§ 7. Any investment company or investment broker may appoint one or more agents, but it shall be unlawful for any such agent to do any business as specified in this act until he shall have secured from the commissioner of corporations a certificate authorizing him to represent such investment company or investment broker within this state until the first of March following, when it will be necessary to secure a new certificate. For each certificate the commissioner of corporations shall charge the sum of one dollar. Such certificate, however, shall be subject to revocation by the commissioner of corporations at any time for cause appearing to him sufficient.

Supervision and control of companies and brokers. Examination fee.

§ 8. The commissioner of corporations shall have general supervision and control, as provided in this act, over any and all investment companies and investment brokers, and all such investment companies and investment brokers shall be subject to examination by the commissioner of corporations or a duly authorized deputy at any time the commissioner of corporations may deem it advisable to have such examination made to carry out any provision of this act, and in the same manner and with the same powers as is now, or may hereafter be provided for the examination of state banks. Such investment company or investment broker shall pay to the commissioner of corporations, for each examination, a fee of ten dollars and traveling expenses for each day or fraction thereof that he or his deputy shall necessarily be absent from his office for the purpose of making such examination, and the failure or refusal of any investment company or investment broker to pay such fee upon the demand of the commissioner of corporations shall work a forfeiture of its or his rights to sell any further securities in this state until such fee shall have been paid to the commissioner of corporations, with interest at the rate of seven per cent from the time of the demand of the commissioner of corporations and an additional twenty-five per cent of such fee by way of penalty.

Advertisements, circulars, etc.

§ 9. It shall be unlawful for any investment company, investment broker or agent to issue, circulate or deliver any advertisement, pamphlet, prospectus, circular or statement or other document in regard to securities which it desires to sell in this state until after such investment company, investment broker or agent shall have been licensed to sell such securities as provided in this act. It shall be unlawful for any such licensed investment company, investment broker or agent to issue, circulate or deliver any such advertisement, pamphlet, prospectus, circular, statement or other document, unless the same shall be signed with the name of the investment company or investment broker and bear a serial number and a copy thereof shall first have been filed with the commissioner of corporations. The commissioner of corporations may for cause object to any such advertisement, pamphlet, prospectus, circular, statement or other document, whereupon it shall be unlawful for such investment company, investment broker or agent to further issue, circulate or deliver such advertisement, pamphlet, prospectus, circular, statement or other document.

Semi-annual reports.

§ 10. (a) Every investment company, until it shall have sold all the securities authorized by the commissioner of corporations and disposed of the proceeds thereof, shall file in the office of the commissioner of corporations, under date of December 31st and June 30th of each year, and within fifteen days after said dates, and also at such other times as may be required by the commissioner of corporations, a report setting forth in such form as the commissioner of corporations may prescribe, the securities authorized by him and sold under the provisions of this act, the proceeds derived therefrom, the disposition of such proceeds and such other information concerning its affairs relating to the subject matter of this act, as the commissioner of corporations may require.

Broker's reports on securities.

(b) Every investment broker shall when called upon by the commissioner of corporations file in his office a report giving such information as he may call for, relating to the securities, the sale of which has been authorized under the provisions of this act.

Papers open to public inspection.

§ 11. All papers, documents, reports and other instruments in writing filed with the commissioner of corporations under this act shall be open to public inspection; provided, that if in his judgment the public welfare or the welfare of any investment company demands that any portion of such information be not made public he may withhold such information from public inspection for such time as in his judgment is necessary.

Appeal from commissioner's decision.

§ 12. An appeal may be taken from any decision of the commissioner of corporations under this act by filing with the clerk of the superior court of the state of California, in and for the city and county of San Francisco, a certified transcript of all papers in the office of the commissioner of corporations relating to such decision. It shall be the duty of the commissioner of corporations to make and certify to said transcript upon payment to him of a fee of ten cents for each folio and one dollar for the certification. The court shall upon such appeal be limited to a consideration of the question whether there has been abuse of discretion on the part of the commissioner of corporations in making such decision.

Penalty for false statement.

§ 13. Any person who shall knowingly or wilfully subscribe to or make or cause to be made any false statement or false entry in any book of any investment company or investment broker, or exhibit any false paper with the intention of deceiving any person authorized to examine into its affairs, or who shall make or publish any false or misleading statement of its financial condition or concerning the securities by it offered for sale, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be punishable by a fine not exceeding one thousand dollars or by imprisonment in a county jail not exceeding one year or by both such fine and imprisonment.

Penalty for company violating act.

§ 14. Any corporation, association, copartnership or company which violates or fails to comply with any of the provisions of this act, or which fails, omits or neglects to obey, observe or comply with any order, decision, demand or requirement, or any part or provision thereof, of the commissioner of corporations under the provisions of this act, is subject to a penalty of not less than five hundred dollars nor more than two thousand dollars for each and every offense, which penalty if unpaid after demand by the commissioner of corporations shall be recovered in an action brought in the name of the people of the state of California by the attorney general.

Penalty for person violating act.

§ 15. Every person who violates or fails to comply with any of the provisions of this act or who fails, omits or neglects to obey, observe or comply with any order, decision, demand or requirement, or any part or provision thereof, of the commissioner of corporations under the provisions of this act in any case in which a different penalty is not specifically provided, is guilty of a misdemeanor and is punishable by a fine of not exceeding one thousand dollars, or by imprisonment in a county jail not exceeding one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

Corporation department created. Salary. Bond.

§ 16. There is hereby created a state corporation department. The chief officer of such department shall be the commissioner of corporations. He shall be appointed by the governor and hold office at the pleasure of the governor. He shall receive an annual salary of five thousand dollars, to be paid monthly out of the state treasury upon a warrant of the controller. He shall within fifteen days from the time of notice of his appointment take and subscribe to the constitutional oath or office and file the same in the office of the secretary of state and execute to the people of the state a bond in the penal sum of ten thousand dollars with corporate security or two or more sureties, to be approved by the governor of the state, for the faithful discharge of the duties of his office.

Deputies. Compensation. Total expenditure.

§ 17. The commissioner of corporations shall employ such clerks and deputies as he may need to discharge in proper manner the duties imposed upon him by law. Neither the commissioner of corporations nor any of his clerks or deputies shall be interested in any investment company, or investment broker, as director, stockholder, officer, member, agent or employee. Such clerks and deputies shall perform such duties as the commissioner of corporations shall assign to them. He shall fix the compensation of such clerks and deputies which compensation shall be paid monthly on the certificate of the commissioner of corporations, and on the warrant of the controller out of the state treasury; provided, however, that the total expenditures provided for in this act shall not exceed fifty thousand dollars per annum. Each deputy shall within fifteen days after his appointment take and subscribe to the constitutional oath of office and file the same in the office of the secretary of state.

Office of commissioner.

§ 18. The commissioner of corporations shall have his office in the city of Sacramento and he shall from time to time obtain the necessary furniture, stationery, fuel[,] light and other proper conveniences for the transaction of the business of the state corporation department, the expenses of which shall be paid out of the state treasury on the certificate of the commissioner of corporations and the warrant of the controller.

Corporation commission fund.

§ 19. A fund is hereby created to be known as the "corporation commission fund" and out of said fund shall be paid all the expenses incurred in and about the conduct of the business of the corporation department, including the salary of the commissioner and his clerks and deputies traveling expenses, furnishing rooms and rent. All moneys collected or received by the commissioner of corporations under and by virtue of the provisions of this act shall be delivered by him to the treasurer of the state, who shall deposit the same to the credit of said corporation commission fund. And all such fund so deposited or such part thereof as may be necessary for the purposes of this act are hereby appropriated to the use of the corporation commission fund for the purposes of this act. It shall be the duty of the commissioner of corporations semi-annually to certify under oath to the state treasurer and secretary of state the total amount of receipts and expenditures of the state corporation department for the six months preceding. All fees and payments of every description required by this act to be paid to the commissioner of corporations shall be paid by him to the state treasurer on the first day of each week following their receipt by the commissioner of corporations.

Seal.

§ 20. The commissioner of corporations shall adopt a seal with the words "Commissioner of Corporations, State of California," and such other device as the commissioner of corporations may desire engraved thereon by which he shall authenticate the proceedings of his office. Copies of all records and papers in the office of the corporation department shall be received in evidence of all cases equally and with like effect as the originals.

Reports as evidence.

§ 21. Every official report made by the commissioner of corporations and every report, duly verified, of an examination made, shall be prima facie evidence of the facts therein stated for all purposes in any action or proceedings wherein any investment company or investment broker is a party.

Constitutionality of act.

§ 22. If any section, sub-section, sentence, clause or phrase of this act is for any reason held to be unconstitutional, such decision shall not affect the validity of the remaining portions of this act. The legislature hereby declares that it would have passed this act, and each section, sub-section, sentence, clause, and phrase thereof irrespective of the fact that any one or more other sections, sub-sections, sentences, clauses or phrases be declared unconstitutional.

Repeal of inconsistent acts.

§ 23. All acts and parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act are hereby repealed.

Appropriation.

§ 24. The sum of ten thousand dollars is hereby appropriated out of any moneys in the state treasury not otherwise appropriated for the purpose of carrying this act into effect.

In effect.

§ 25. This act shall take effect November 1, 1913.

1. Arkansas "blue sky law"—Declared constitutional and valid.—The Arkansas "blue sky law" was held not to be violative of either federal or state constitutions, in placing restrictions and limitations upon the right of foreign corporations to do business in the state, and its regulatory provisions are not unreasonable, and it does not deprive the citizen of the right of freedom of contract, and is a proper exercise of the police power.—Standard Home Co. v. Davis, 217 Fed. 904.

2. California "blue sky law"—Purpose.—It was the purpose of the "blue sky law" to throttle in their infancy such schemes as depend upon false and fraudulent propaganda for their sale of worthless securities.—Burns v. Bauer, 37 Cal. App. 251, 174 Pac. 346.

3. Florida "blue sky law"—Declared constitutional and valid.—The Florida "blue sky law," declared constitutional and valid in Ex parte Taylor, 68 Fla. 61, 66 So. 292, is distinguished from the West Virginia statute in several particulars.—Bracey v. Darst, 218 Fed. 432.

4. Same—"Due process" not violated—"Equal protection" not denied.—The Florida "blue sky law" does not deprive a local corporation of property without due process of law, and does not deny it the equal protection of the laws.—Ex parte Taylor, 68 Fla. 61, 66 So. 292.

5. Iowa "blue sky law"—Unconstitutional.—The Iowa "blue sky law" can not be justified as an inspection law, is not a proper exercise of the police power, imposes a burden on interstate commerce, and denies to citizens of other states privileges granted to citizens of Iowa.—William R. Compton Co. v. Allen, 216 Fed. 537.

6. Michigan "blue sky law"—Neither tax nor license law.—The Michigan "blue sky law" is neither a tax nor a license law, but in its dominant characteristics and effect is prohibitory.—Alabama, etc., Co. v. Doyle, 210 Fed. 173.

7. Same—Violates "due process" clause.—The act deprives the plaintiffs of property as well as liberty without due process of law.—Alabama, etc., Co. v. Doyle, 210 Fed. 173.

8. Same—Not within police power.—Certain features of the Michigan "blue sky law" are held to have no real or substantial relation to the public welfare, and not to be within even the shadow of the police power.—Alabama, etc., Co. v. Doyle, 210 Fed. 173.

9. Same—Denies "equal protection."—In certain specified particulars the Michigan "blue sky law" deprives plaintiffs of the equal protection of the laws.—Alabama, etc., Co. v. Doyle, 210 Fed. 173.

10. Same—Imposes burden on interstate commerce.—The Michigan "blue sky law" imposes a burden on interstate commerce which is not merely indirect and incidental, inasmuch as it is not a legitimate exercise of the police power.—Alabama, etc., Co. v. Doyle, 210 Fed. 173.

11. Same—Title covers subject.—The broad language of the title of the Michigan "blue sky law" is capable of a construction which will cover all the provisions of the act, although it is doubtful whether one reading the title would suppose that it prohibited the sale of securities which were not fraudulent, but merely not worth the selling price.—Alabama, etc., Co. v. Doyle, 210 Fed. 173.

11a. Same—Constitutionality sustained.—The Michigan "blue sky law" was sustained over constitutional objections similar to those raised in Hall v. Geiger-Jones Co., 242 U. S. 539, Ann. Cas. 1917C, 643, L. R. A. 1917F, 514, 61 L. ed. 480, 37 Sup. Ct. 217; Hall v. Coultrap, 242 U. S. 539, 61 L. ed. 480, 37 Sup. Ct. 217; Hall v. Rose, 242 U. S. 539, 61 L. ed. 480, 37 Sup. Ct. 217; Caldwell v. Sioux Falls, etc., Co., 242 U. S. 559, 61 L. ed. 493, 37 Sup. Ct. 224, and Merrick v. N. W. Halsey & Co., 242 U. S. 568, 61 L. ed. 498, 37 Sup. Ct. 227.

11b. Same—Exchange of stock is sale.—The exchange of stock of a subsidiary for stock in a holding company is a sale within the meaning of the "blue sky law."—Edward v. Ioor, 205 Mich. 617, 172 N. W. 620.

11c. Same—Sale of stock without compliance with law void.—A sale of stock in a foreign corporation in the state of Michigan, where the corporation has not complied with the act is void, and the purchaser is entitled to recover the price paid upon tender back of the stock.—Edward v. Ioor, 205 Mich. 617, 172 N. W. 620.

12. Montana "blue sky law"—Constitutionality not determined.—In a suit brought by a corporation whose plan of business on its face antagonizes sound, economic principles, and is designed to defraud its clients a court of equity will not determine the constitutionality of the Montana "blue sky law."—National Mercantile Co. v. Keating, 218 Fed. 477.

13. Same—Intent of act.—The intent of the North Carolina statute is to protect our people, under the police power, from fraud and imposition by irresponsible non-resident parties.—State v. Agey, 171 N. C. 831, 88 S. E. 726.

14. North Carolina "blue sky law."—Construed and applied.—A foreign corporation organized for the purpose of selling small lots of land upon an agreement on their part to set the same out in figs, with certain guarantees of cultivation and number of plants per acre, and mutual stipulations as to payment of purchase price and conveyance, falls within the extent and meaning of the North Carolina "blue sky law."—State v. Agey, 171 N. C. 831, 88 S. E. 726.

15. Ohio "blue sky law"—Legislative policy not open to review.—The prevention of deception is within the competency of government, and the appreciation of the consequences of it is not open to review.—Hall v. Geiger-Jones Co., 242 U. S. 539, Ann. Cas. 1917C, 643 L. R. A. 1917F, 514, 61 L. ed. 480, 37 Sup. Ct. 217; Hall v. Coultrap, 242 U. S. 539, 61 L. ed. 480, 37 Sup. Ct. 217; Hall v. Rose, 242 U. S. 539, 61 L. ed. 480, 37 Sup. Ct. 217.

16. Same—Purpose of act.—The name that is given the law indicates the evil at which it is aimed; that is "speculative schemes which have no more leases than so many feet of blue sky," or to stop the sale of stock in fly-by-night concerns, visionary oil wells, distant gold mines, and other like fraudulent exploitations.—Hall v. Geiger-Jones Co., 242 U. S. 539, Ann. Cas. 1917C, 643, L. R. A. 1917F, 514, 61 L. ed. 480, 37 Sup. Ct. 217; Hall v. Coultrap, 242 U. S. 539, 61 L. ed. 480, 37 Sup. Ct. 217; Hall v. Rose, 242 U. S. 539, 61 L. ed. 480, 37 Sup. Ct. 217.

17. Same—Reason and extent both within competency of state.—The reason and the extent of the law, and the control to which the individual transactions are subjected, are both within the competency of the state.—Hall v. Geiger-Jones Co., 242 U. S. 539, Ann. Cas. 1917C, 643, L. R. A. 1917F, 514, 61 L. ed. 480, 37 Sup. Ct. 217; Hall v. Coultrap, 242 U. S. 539, 61 L. ed. 480, 37 Sup. Ct. 217; Hall v. Rose, 242 U. S. 539, 61 L. ed. 480, 37 Sup. Ct. 217.

18. Same—Legislative policy.—Safeguards not inappropriate.—Individual inconvenience must yield to public welfare.—The state has deemed it necessary to require that securities offered to its public shall be subjected to such safeguards as will assure their integrity, and the requirement is not unreasonable or inappropriate, and this can only be done through the information which may be furnished the public of the probity of those who deal in them, and whatever inconvenience may be caused by the necessary supervision or surveillance must yield to the public welfare.—Hall v. Geiger-Jones Co., 242 U. S. 539, Ann. Cas. 1917C, 643, L. R. A. 1917F, 514, 61 L. ed. 480, 37 Sup. Ct. 217; Hall v. Coultrap, 242 U. S. 539, 61 L. ed. 480, 37 Sup. Ct. 217; Hall v.

19. Same—License feature.—The discretion of the commissioner to grant or refuse a license is qualified by his duty, and is subject to review, and in determining the validity of the law, the court must accord to him a proper sense of duty, and presume that the functions entrusted to him will be executed for the public interest, and not wantonly or arbitrarily to deny a license to or take away a license from a reputable dealer.—Hall v. Geiger-Jones Co., 242 U. S. 539, Ann. Cas. 1917C, 643, L. R. A. 1917F, 514, 61 L. ed. 480, 37 Sup. Ct. 217; Hall v. Coultrap, 242 U. S. 539, 61 L. ed. 480, 37 Sup. Ct. 217; Hall v. Rose, 242 U. S. 539, 61 L. ed. 480, 37 Sup. Ct. 217.

20. Same—Discriminations and classifications not unreasonable.—The various discriminations and classifications in the Ohio law relating to various kinds of securities, quantities and amounts issued by the same person, amounts of commissions on sales, securities of common carriers, and of corporations organized under the laws of the state, etc., are held to be proper, within the power of the state, and not a denial of equal protection of the laws.—Hall v. Geiger-Jones Co., 242 U. S. 539, Ann. Cas. 1917C, 643, L. R. A. 1917F, 514, 61 L. ed. 480, 37 Sup. Ct. 217; Hall v. Coultrap, 242 U. S. 539, 61 L. ed. 480, 37 Sup. Ct. 217; Hall v. Rose, 242 U. S. 539, 61 L. ed. 480, 37 Sup. Ct. 217.

21. Same—Same.—A state may direct its law against what it deems the evil as it actually exists without covering the whole field of possible abuses, and it may do so none the less that the forbidden act does not differ in kind from those that are allowed; and if a class is deemed to present a conspicuous example of what the legislature seeks to prevent, the 14th amendment allows it to be dealt with although otherwise and merely logically not distinguishable from others not embraced in the law.—Hall v. Geiger-Jones Co., 242 U. S. 539 Ann. Cas. 1917C, 643, L. R. A. 1917F, 514, 61 L. ed. 480, 37 Sup. Ct. 217; Hall v. Coultrap, 242 U. S. 539, 61 L. ed. 480, 37 Sup. Ct. 217; Hall v. Rose, 242 U. S. 539, 61 L. ed. 480, 37 Sup. Ct. 217.

22. Same—Information as to securities.—Securities issued in other states and foreign countries are only affected by the requirement that information concerning them must be filed, and that those who deal in them within the states must have a license to do so.—Hall v. Geiger-Jones Co., 242 U. S. 539, Ann. Cas. 1917C, 643, L. R. A. 1917F, 514, 61 L. ed. 480, 37 Sup. Ct. 217; Hall v. Coultrap, 242 U. S. 539, 61 L. ed. 480, 37 Sup. Ct. 217; Hull v. Rose, 242 U. S. 539, 61 L. ed. 480, 37 Sup. Ct. 217.

23. Same—Burden on interstate commerce not imposed.—The act does not impose a burden upon interstate commerce, inasmuch as it only affects securities after their transportation to the state is ended and they have reached the hands of dealers, and interstate commerce is only inci-

23a. Same—Regulation of business for public protection.—The law is a regulation of business, constrains conduct only to that end, the purpose being to protect the public against the imposition of unsubstantial schemes, and the securities based upon them.—Hall v. Geiger-Jones Co., 242 U. S. 539, Ann. Cas. 1917C, 643, L. R. A. 1917F, 514, 61 L. ed. 480, 37 Sup. Ct. 217; Hall v. Coultrap, 242 U. S. 539, 61 L. ed. 480, 37 Sup. Ct. 217; Hall v. Rose, 242 U. S. 539, Ann. Cas. 1917C, 643, L. R. A. 1917F, 514, 61 L. ed. 480, 37 Sup. Ct. 217.

24. South Dakota "blue sky law"—Constitutionality upheld.—For the reasons assigned in the cases of Hall v. Geiger-Jones Co., 242 U. S. 539, Ann. Cas. 1917C, 643, L. R. A. 1917F, 514, 61 L. ed. 480, 37 Sup. Ct. 217; Hall v. Coultrap, 242 U. S. 539, 61 L. ed. 480, 37 Sup. Ct. 217; Hall v. Rose, 242 U. S. 539, 61 L. ed. 480, 37 Sup. Ct. 217, the constitutionality of the South Dakota "blue sky law" was sustained in the case of Colorado corporation seeking to raise capital on its stock, and dealers in the same.—Caldwell v. Sioux Falls, etc., Co., 242 U. S. 559, 61 L. ed. 493, 37 Sup. Ct. 224.

25. Oregon "blue sky law"—Constitutionality not decided.—Compliance with the laws of Oregon is a condition precedent to the right of a foreign corporation to do business in that state, and until such compliance is shown such corporation can have no proper or legal standing for doing or transacting business within the state, and it follows irresistibly that it has no standing to maintain a suit there.—National, etc., Co. v. Watson, 215 Fed. 929.

26. Same—Resistance to enforcement by taxpayer.—A taxpayer may resist the enforcement of an unconstitutional statute which increases his taxes, but he can not resist the enforcement of the "blue sky law," the purpose of which is to prevent fraud in the sale of stocks, where the expenditures would be derived from license fees, demanded from corporations as a condition of doing business.—McKinney v. Watson, 74 Ore. 220, 145 Pac. 266.

27. Same—Person without interest can not attack constitutionality.—Where the party attacking a state statute on the ground of its unconstitutionality has no interest, the question will not be considered.—McKinney v. Watson, 74 Ore. 220, 145 Pac. 266.

28. West Virginia "blue sky law"—Unconstitutional.—The West Virginia "blue sky law" was held unconstitutional because it abridged the right of the citizen of the United States to buy and sell property in the state, and thus deprived them of property without due process of law; because it denied them the equal protection of the law; and because it operated as a restraint and burden upon interstate commerce.—Bracey v. Darst, 218 Fed. 482.

29. Same—Same.—The court held that the legislature may prevent foreign corporations from transacting business altogether, and may limit corporations, foreign and domestic, as to the kind of business they may transact in the state, and as to such corporations, it is not a question of the police power, or of interstate commerce, but purely and simply the exercise of the sovereign power over artificial bodies, but no such power is vested in any legislature over the individual citizen, or over copartnerships or voluntary associations formed or organized by individual citizens to do business.—Bracey v. Darst, 218 Fed. 482.

“CORPORATE SECURITIES ACT.”

ACT 2236—An act providing for the regulation and supervision of companies, brokers, agents, and sales of securities as the same are therein defined, and to prevent fraud in the sale of securities; providing for the enforcement of said act and penalties for the violation thereof; and creating a state corporation department and the office of commissioner of corporations.

History: Approved May 18, 1917. In effect July 27, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 673. Amended May 2, 1919. In effect July 22, 1919. Stats. 1919, p. 231.

Title.

§ 1. This act shall be known as the “corporate securities act.”

Words defined.

§ 2. Words used in this act in the present tense include the future as well as the present; words used in the masculine gender include the feminine and neuter, and in the neuter, the masculine and feminine; the singular number includes the plural, and the plural, the singular; “writing” includes “printing” and “typewriting”; “oath” includes “affirmation”; the word “county” includes “city and county”; and “territory” includes “district.” The following words have in this act the signification attached to them in this section, unless otherwise apparent from the context.

1. The word “department” means the “state corporation department” created by this act.

2. The word “commissioner” means the “commissioner of corporations.”

3. The word “company” includes all domestic and foreign, private corporations, associations, joint stock companies, and partnerships, of every kind, and also trustees, as hereinafter defined; excepting therefrom:

(a) All national banking associations and other corporations organized and existing under and by virtue of the acts of the congress of the United States;

(b) All public utilities subject to the jurisdiction, control, and regulation of the railroad commission of this state;

(c) All corporations now or hereafter organized under the laws of this state for the purpose of conducting the business of banking within this state and all corporations transacting insurance business within this state;

(d) All corporations, associations, or societies transacting business under the supervision, examination, and license of the bureau of building and loan supervision; and

(e) Every corporation organized under the laws of this state exclusively for the purposes provided in any of the following titles, to wit: XIa, XII, XIIa, XIV, XXI, XXII, of Part IV, Division First, of the Civil Code, and in accordance with the provisions of such titles.

“Trust.”

4. The word “trust” as used in this act includes all voluntary trusts, as the same are defined in the Civil Code, expressly created by or declared in an instrument in writing, other than a will or a judicial writ, order, decree, or judgment, to carry on any business or to secure the payment or repayment of money.

5. The word "trustee," except as hereinafter used in subdivision nine of this section, includes only persons or companies executing trusts as hereinbefore defined.

6. The word "security" includes:

(a) All shares or other interests or rights into which the capital, capital stock, or property of companies or rights of stockholders or members thereof are divided, including all treasury shares and shares of their own capital stock purchased or otherwise acquired by companies upon delinquent assessment sales or in any other lawful manner, and all certificates and other instruments issued by them or their authority, evidencing or representing such shares, interests, or rights;

(b) All bonds, debentures, and evidences of indebtedness issued by any company; and

(c) Any instrument issued or offered to the public by any company, evidencing or representing any right to participate or share in the profits or earnings or the distribution of assets of any business carried on for profit; excepting therefrom the following:

(1) Bills of exchange and promissory notes not offered to the public by the drawer, maker, or underwriter thereof, and all mortgages and deeds of trust of property situated in this state, executed to secure the payment thereof; and

(2) Any security listed in any standard manual of information, as to which the commissioner shall first make and file his written finding to the effect that such security is fully and accurately described in such manual and that a sale thereof will not, in his opinion, work a fraud upon the purchaser thereof; provided, that if such finding shall thereafter be vacated or set aside, such security shall not thereafter be deemed to be included within this exception.

"Sale."

7. A "sale," within the meaning of this act, includes every contract by which, for a pecuniary consideration, called a price, one transfers to another an interest in property, and also an exchange, a pledge, a hypothecation, and any transfer in trust or otherwise as security for the performance of an obligation, and also any issue of any security by a company; and the word "sell," as used in this act, includes every act by which such sale is made.

"Agent."

8. The word "agent" as used in this act means and includes every person or company employed or appointed by a company or a broker who shall, within this state, either as an employee or otherwise, for a compensation, sell, offer for sale, negotiate for the sale of, or take subscriptions for any security of any company of its own issue offered for sale by it.

"Broker."

9. The word "broker" as used in this act includes every person or company, other than an agent, who shall, in this state, engage, either wholly or in part, in the business of selling, offering for sale, negotiating for the sale of, or otherwise dealing in any security or securities issued by others, or of underwriting any issue of securities or of purchasing such securities with the purpose of reselling them or of offering them for sale to the public for a commission or at a profit; excepting therefrom the following:

(a) Any owner of any security who is not the issuer or an underwriter thereof, who sells or exchanges the same for his own account; provided, that such sale or exchange is not made in the course of repeated and successive transactions of like or similar character by him;

(b) Any trustee of a trust created by or declared in a will or a judicial writ, order, decree or judgment, who, in such capacity, lawfully disposes of any property;

(c) Any company transacting a banking or insurance business in this state, selling a security for an owner thereof or a broker, other than an underwriter thereof, at a commission of not more than two per cent of the par or face value thereof; provided, such sale is not made in the course of repeated and successive transactions of like or similar character by such company;

(d) One, not the issuer, who disposes of securities to a broker or to a purchaser who, as a part of his regular business, purchases such securities;

(e) Any pledge holder selling, in good faith and not for the purpose of avoiding the provisions of this act, and in the ordinary course of business, a security pledged with him as security for a bona fide debt.

10. The words “actual fraud,” as used in this act, are defined in section one thousand five hundred seventy-two of the Civil Code. [Amendment of May 2, 1919. In effect July 22, 1919. Stats. 1919, p. 231.]

Permit to sell securities. Application. Commissioner appointed attorney.

§ 3. No company shall sell, except upon a sale for a delinquent assessment made in accordance with the provisions of Article II of Chapter II of Title I of Part IV of Division First of the Civil Code; or offer for sale, negotiate for sale of, or take subscriptions for any security of its own issue until it shall have first applied for and secured from the commissioner a permit authorizing it so to do. Such application shall be in writing, shall be verified as provided in the Code of Civil Procedure for the verification of pleadings, and shall be filed in the office of the commissioner. In such application the applicant shall set forth the names and addresses of its officers, the location of its office, an itemized account of its financial condition, the amount and character of its assets and liabilities, a detailed statement of the plan upon which it proposes to transact business, a copy of any security it proposes to issue, a copy of any contract it proposes to make concerning the same, a copy of any prospectus or advertisement, or other description of such securities, then prepared by or for it for distribution or publication, and such additional information concerning the company, its condition and affairs as the commissioner may require. If the applicant is a partnership or an unincorporated association or joint stock company, it shall file with its application a copy of its articles of partnership or association, and all other papers pertaining to its organization. If the applicant is a trustee, it shall file with its application a copy of all instruments by which the trust is created and in which it is accepted, acknowledged, or declared. If the applicant is a corporation, it shall file with its application a copy of all minutes of any proceedings of its directors or stockholders or members relating to or affecting the issue of such securities, and also a copy of its articles of incorporation and of its by-laws and of any amendments thereto. If the applicant is a corporation or association organized under the laws of any other state, territory, or government, it shall also file with its application a certificate, executed by the proper officer of such state, territory, or government not more than thirty days before the filing of such application, showing that such applicant is authorized to transact business in such state, territory, or government; and also, in such form as the commissioner may prescribe, its written instrument, irrevocably appointing the commissioner and his successor in office its true and lawful attorney upon whom all process in any action or proceeding against it may be served, with the same effect as if said corporation or association were organized or created under the laws of this state and had been lawfully served with process therein.

Examination of application. Permit issued. Permit to sell security.

§ 4. Upon the filing of such application, it shall be the duty of the commissioner to examine it and the other papers and documents filed therewith, and he may, if he deems it advisable, make or have made a detailed examination, audit, and investigation of the applicant and its affairs. If he finds that the proposed plan of business of the applicant is not unfair, unjust, or inequitable, that it intends to fairly and honestly transact its business, and that the securities that it proposes to issue and the methods to be used by it in issuing or disposing of them are not such as, in his opinion, will work a fraud upon the purchaser thereof, the commissioner shall issue to the applicant a permit authorizing it to issue and dispose of securities, as therein provided, in this state, in such amounts and for such considerations and upon such terms and conditions as the commissioner may in said permit provide. Otherwise, he shall deny the application and refuse such permit and notify the applicant in writing of his decision. Every permit shall recite in bold type that the issuance thereof is permissive only and does not constitute a recommendation or indorsement of the securities permitted to be issued. The commissioner may impose such conditions as he may deem necessary to the issue of such securities, and shall have the power to establish such rules and regulations as may be reasonable or necessary to insure the disposition of the proceeds of such securities in the manner and for the purposes provided in such permit, and may, from time to time for cause, amend, alter, or revoke any permit issued by him, or temporarily suspend the rights of the applicant under such permit.

Certificate of agent or broker.

§ 5. No person or company shall act as an agent or broker until such person or company shall have first applied for and secured from the commissioner a certificate, then in effect, authorizing such person or company so to do. Every such certificate shall expire on the thirty-first day of December next after its issuance, unless sooner revoked. To secure such certificate, the applicant shall make and file in the office of the commissioner an application therefor in writing, verified by or in behalf of the applicant. In such application, the applicant shall set forth, in addition to such other information as may be required by the commissioner:

1. The name and address of the applicant, and, if it be a corporation, association, or joint stock company, the name and address of each of its managing officers and agents, and, if it be a partnership, the name and address of each of the partners;

2. A succinct statement of facts showing that the applicant, and its managing officers and agents, if it be a corporation, or members, if it be a partnership, have a good business reputation;

3. If the applicant is a broker, the general plan and character of the business of the applicant.

Fee.

For filing such application, the applicant shall pay a fee as hereinafter provided. If the applicant is a corporation or association organized under the laws of any other state, territory, or government, it shall file with its application a copy of its articles of incorporation or association, together with a certificate executed by the proper officer of such state, territory, or government not more than thirty days before the filing of such application, showing that such applicant is authorized to transact business in such state, territory, or government, and also, in such form as the commissioner may prescribe, its written instrument, irrevocably appointing the commissioner and his successor in office its true and lawful attorney upon whom all process in any action or proceeding against it, arising out of or founded upon the actual fraud of such applicant in the sale of securities within this state, may be served with the same effect as if said corporation or association were organized or created under the laws of this state and had been lawfully served with process therein.

Certificate issued.

§ 6. The commissioner shall examine such application, and shall make such further investigation of the applicant and its affairs as he shall deem advisable. If, from such examination, the commissioner shall be satisfied of the good business reputation of the applicant and of its officers or members, if any, he shall issue such certificate. Otherwise, he shall refuse the same and deny the application and notify the applicant of his decision. The commissioner may at any time revoke any broker's or agents certificate issued by him if he shall find that the holder thereof is of bad business repute, or has violated any provision of this act, or has engaged, or is about to engage in any fraudulent transaction.

Advertisements submitted to commissioner.

§ 7. No person, partnership, association, or corporation, other than a broker holding a broker's certificate, then in effect, shall issue, circulate, or publish any advertisement, pamphlet, prospectus, or circular concerning any security, to be issued by any company, that such person, partnership, association, or corporation desires or proposes to sell, until the company proposing to issue such security shall have first secured from the commissioner a permit authorizing it to issue or sell such security; nor shall any company, broker, or agent, or any other person, issue, circulate, or publish any advertisement, pamphlet, prospectus, or circular concerning any security sold or offered for sale by it, unless the name of the company, broker, agent, or person issuing, circulating, or publishing the same shall be subscribed thereto, and a true copy thereof shall have been first filed in the office of the commissioner, or deposited in a United States post office, properly enclosed in a sealed envelope, addressed to the commissioner at Sacramento, California, with the postage duly prepaid thereon; nor shall any company, broker, or agent, or any other person, issue, circulate, or publish any such advertisement, pamphlet, prospectus, or circular after notice in writing given to it by the commissioner, that, in his opinion, the same contains any statement that is false or misleading or otherwise likely to deceive a reader thereof.

Report by company on sale of securities.

§ 8. Every company authorized by the commissioner to sell securities shall thereafter, at such times as it may be required by the commissioner, make and file in the office of the commissioner a report, setting forth, in such form as the commissioner may prescribe, the securities sold by it under the authority of any permit issued by him, the proceeds derived therefrom, the disposition of such proceeds, and such other information concerning its property, officers, or affairs, relating to or affecting the value of such securities, as the commissioner may require.

Statement by broker on sale of securities.

§ 9. Every broker shall, at such times as it may be required by the commissioner, make and file in the office of the commissioner a true and correct statement concerning any security sold or offered for sale by such broker, showing the name and location of the principal office of the issuer of such security; the names of its managing officers, if it is a corporation, or of its members, if it is a partnership; its assets, liabilities, and issued capital stock, at the close of its fiscal year then last ended, or at a later date; its gross income, expenses, and fixed charges for the year next preceding such date, or for such time as such issuer of such security has transacted business, if for less than one year, and the approximate price at which such broker has sold or proposes to sell such security, together with such other information, of which the broker may have knowledge, as the commissioner may require.

Papers open to public inspection.

§ 10. All papers, documents, reports, and other instruments in writing filed with the commissioner under this act shall be open to public inspection; provided, that if, in his judgment, the public welfare or the welfare of any company, broker, or agent demands that any portion of such information be not made public, he may, in his discretion, withhold such information from public inspection for such time as in his judgment is necessary. The commissioner may at any time give, issue, or make public any information concerning any company or any contracts, stocks, bonds, or other securities sold or offered for sale within this state, if in his judgment the giving, issuing, or publishing of the same will be of public interest or advantage or will tend to prevent the fraudulent sale of such securities.

Review of orders, etc., of commissioner.

§ 11. Every order, decision, permit or other official act of the commissioner shall be subject to review, in accordance with the provisions of Chapter I of Title I of Part III of the Code of Civil Procedure; and any party aggrieved by any such order, decision, or permit of the commissioner may appeal therefrom to the superior court of the county of Sacramento, by serving upon the commissioner a notice of such appeal, a demand in writing for a certified transcript of all the papers on file in his office affecting or relating to such decision, and the payment of the fee therefor, within sixty days after the making of any such order, permit, or decision. Thereupon, the commissioner shall, within ten days, make and certify such transcript, and the appellant shall, within five days thereafter, file the same and the notice of appeal with the clerk of said court. Upon the hearing of such appeal, the burden of proof shall lie upon the appellant, and the court shall receive and consider any pertinent evidence, whether oral or documentary, concerning the action of the commissioner from which the appeal is taken, but shall be limited to a consideration and determination of the question whether there has been an abuse of discretion on the part of the commissioner in making such order, decision, or permit.

Securities void.

§ 12. Every security issued by any company, without a permit of the commissioner authorizing the same then in effect, shall be void, and every security issued by any company, with the authorization of the commissioner but not conforming in its provisions to the provisions, if any, which it is required by the permit of the commissioner to contain, shall be void.

Penalty for company violating act.

§ 13. Every company which shall directly or indirectly issue or cause to be issued any security contrary to the provisions of this act, or of the constitution of this state, or in nonconformity with a permit of the commissioner authorizing the same, or which applies the proceeds from the sale thereof, or any part thereof, to any purpose other than the purpose or purposes, if any, specified in such permit, or to any purpose specified in such permit in excess of any amount limited in such permit to be used for such purpose, shall be guilty of a public offense and shall be punishable by a fine not exceeding ten thousand dollars.

Penalty for officers, etc.

§ 14. Every officer, agent or employee of any company, and every other person, who knowingly authorizes, directs, or aids in the issue or sale of, or issues or executes, or sells, or causes or assists in causing to be issued, executed, or sold, any security, in nonconformity with a permit of the commissioner then in effect authorizing such issue, or contrary to the provisions of this act, or of the constitution of this state, or who, in any application to the commissioner, or in any proceeding before him, or in any examination, audit, or investigation made by him or his authority, knowingly makes any false statement or representation, or who, with knowledge of its falsity, files or causes to be filed in the office of the commissioner any false statement or representation concerning such company or the property which it then holds or proposes to acquire, or concerning its officers or its financial condition or other affairs, or concerning its proposed plan of business, or who, with knowledge of the falsity of any such statement or representation, issues, executes, or sells, or causes to be issued, executed, or sold, any security, without first informing the commissioner of the falsity of such statement in writing, or who, directly or indirectly, knowingly applies, or causes or assists in causing to be applied, the proceeds or any part thereof, from the sale of any security to any purpose contrary to the provisions of the permit authorizing the issue of such security, or to any purpose specified in such permit in excess of any amount limited in such permit to be used for such purpose, or who, with knowledge that any security has been issued or executed in violation of any of the provisions of this act, sells or offers the same for sale, or who, with knowledge that any advertisement, pamphlet, prospectus, or circular concerning any security contains any statement that is false or misleading, or otherwise likely to deceive a reader thereof, issues, circulates, or publishes the same, or shall cause the same to be issued, circulated, or published, or who, in any other respect wilfully violates, or fails to comply with any of the provisions of this act or who, in any other respect, wilfully violates or fails, omits, or neglects to obey, observe, or comply with any order, permit, decision, demand, or requirement, or any part or provision thereof of the commissioner under the provisions of this act, is guilty of a public offense and shall be punished by imprisonment in the state prison not exceeding five years, or in a county jail not exceeding two years, or by a fine not exceeding five thousand dollars, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

State corporation department created.

§ 15. There is hereby created a state corporation department. The chief officer of such department shall be the commissioner of corporations. He shall be appointed by the governor and hold office at the pleasure of the governor. He shall receive an annual salary of five thousand dollars, to be paid monthly out of the state treasury upon a warrant of the controller. He shall within fifteen days from the time of notice of his appointment take and subscribe to the constitutional oath of office and file the same in the office of the secretary of state and execute to the people of the state a bond in the penal sum of ten thousand dollars with corporate security or two or more sureties, to be approved by the governor of the state, for the faithful discharge of the duties of his office.

Clerks and deputies. Duty of attorney general.

§ 16. The commissioner shall employ such clerks and deputies as he may need to discharge in proper manner the duties imposed upon him by law. The attorney-general shall render to the commissioner opinions upon all questions of law, relating to the construction or interpretation of this act or arising in the administration thereof, that may be submitted to him by the commissioner, and shall act as the attorney for the commissioner in all actions and proceedings brought by or against him under or pursuant to any of the provisions of this act. Neither the commissioner nor any of his clerks or deputies shall be interested in any company which shall have applied for or secured a permit to sell securities, or in any broker, or agent as a director, stockholder, officer, member, agent, or employee. Such clerks and deputies shall perform such duties as the commissioner shall assign to them. He shall fix the compensation of such clerks and deputies, which compensation shall be paid monthly, on the certificate of the commissioner and on the warrant of the controller, out of the state treasury. Each deputy shall, within fifteen days after his appointment, take and subscribe to the constitutional oath of office, and file the same in the office of the secretary of state.

Powers of commissioner.

§ 17. The commissioner shall at all times have the power to administer oaths and to make an examination or investigation of the books, records, accounts, and other papers, and of the business of any company, broker, or agent permitted or authorized by him to sell securities, to make dividends, to create debts, to divide, withdraw, or pay to the stockholders, or any of them, any part of its capital stock, or to increase or reduce its capital stock. In any examination, audit, or investigation made or hearing conducted by him, he shall have the power to take the testimony of any witness and to issue subpoenas requiring the attendance upon such examination, audit, investigation, or hearing in any part of the state of witnesses and the production of books, documents, and other things under their control, and in any such case to take or cause to be taken the deposition of any witness residing within or without this state. All of the provisions of Chapter II of Title III of Part IV of the Code of Civil Procedure, relating to the means of production of evidence out of court, shall be applicable to any examination, investigation, or hearing under this act. No person shall be excused from testifying or from producing any book, document, or other thing under his control upon any such examination, audit, investigation, or hearing upon the ground that his testimony, or the book, document, or other thing required of him, may tend to incriminate him, or may have a tendency to subject him to punishment for a felony, or to a penalty or forfeiture; but no person shall be prosecuted, punished, or subjected to any penalty or forfeiture for or on account of any act, transaction, matter, or thing concerning which he shall have been so compelled to testify under oath, or to produce such documentary or other evidence; provided, that no person so testifying shall be exempt from prosecution or punishment for perjury if committed by him in his testimony. The authority to make or conduct any such examination, audit, investigation, or hearing, including the authority to administer oaths, and to subpoena witnesses and take their testimony, may be delegated by the commissioner to any deputy or examiner appointed by him for that purpose. Such appointment shall be made by an instrument in writing, signed by the commissioner under his official seal, and upon such examination, audit, investigation, or hearing, the same shall be produced by such deputy or examiner at any time upon demand therefor.

Service of process.

§ 18. In any action or proceeding commenced or prosecuted in this state against any corporation or association which shall have appointed the commissioner its attorney, as provided in section three of this act, and in any action or proceeding commenced or prosecuted in this state, arising out of or founded upon the actual fraud of any corporation or association which shall have appointed the commissioner its attorney, as provided in section five of this act, service of process may be made upon the commissioner. In any such case, the commissioner shall forthwith forward by mail, postage prepaid, to the person designated by such corporation or association by an instrument in writing duly executed by it and filed with the commissioner, at the address stated in such instrument, or, if no such designation has been made, to the secretary of such corporation or association at its last known post-office address, a copy of such process; whereupon, and upon the payment of the fee herein provided for, service of such process upon such company shall be deemed to be complete and to be personal service upon such corporation or association, with the same effect as if said corporation or association were organized or incorporated under the laws of this state and had been lawfully served with process therein. The certificate of the commissioner, under his official seal, of such service, shall be competent and sufficient proof thereof.

Offices.

§ 19. The commissioner shall have his principal office in the city of Sacramento, and may establish branch offices in the city and county of San Francisco and in the city of Los Angeles, and he shall from time to time obtain the necessary furniture, stationery, fuel, light, and other proper conveniences for the transaction of the business of the department; the expenses of which shall be paid out of the state treasury on the certificate of the commissioner and the warrant of the controller.

Fees.

§ 20. The commissioner shall charge and collect the following fees:

1. For filing any application for a permit to issue securities, ten dollars, plus—

One twentieth of one per cent of the amount of any excess of the aggregate value of the securities sought to be issued over twenty thousand dollars and not exceeding fifty thousand dollars;

One twenty-fifth of one per cent of such amount in excess of fifty thousand dollars and not exceeding one hundred thousand dollars;

One fiftieth of one per cent of such amount in excess of one hundred thousand dollars and not exceeding five hundred thousand dollars; and

One one-hundredth of one per cent of such amount in excess of five hundred thousand dollars.

The value of such securities shall be deemed to be their par or face value, if they have a par or face value; otherwise, the price at which the company proposes to sell or issue the same, or the value, as alleged in the application, of the consideration (if other than money) to be received in exchange therefor.

2. For filing any application for a permit or other authority to make dividends, create debts, or to divide, withdraw, increase, reduce or pay to the stockholders, or any of them, the capital stock, or any part thereof, the same amount that would otherwise be chargeable or collectible if such application were for a permit to issue securities; provided, that in any such case the value shall be determined by the amount of dividends made, debts created, or capital stock divided, withdrawn, increased, reduced, or paid.

3. For filing any application for a broker's certificate, five dollars.

4. For filing any application for an agent's certificate, one dollar.

5. For any examination, audit, or investigation, ten dollars per day or fraction thereof, if made by the commissioner, or the actual amount of the salary or other compensation, not exceeding ten dollars per day, paid to any deputy or other employee of the commissioner, if made by a deputy or other employee, for each day or fraction thereof that such commissioner, deputy, or other employee shall necessarily be absent from his office for the purpose of making such examination, audit, or investigation, plus the actual amount of traveling expenses reasonably incurred in the performance of such work.

6. For copies of papers and records not required to be certified or otherwise authenticated by the commissioner, ten cents for each folio.

7. For certified copies of official documents, orders, and other papers filed in his office; for making and mailing copies of process served upon him under the provisions of section eighteen of this act, and for transcripts on appeal, fifteen cents for each folio and one dollar for each certificate under seal affixed thereto.

8. For certificate of service and mailing of process served upon the commissioner under the provisions of section eighteen of this act, two dollars.

No fees shall be charged or collected for copies of papers, records, or official documents furnished to public officers for use in their official capacity or for the reports of the commissioner in the ordinary course of distribution; but the commissioner may fix a reasonable charge for publication issued under his authority.

“Corporation commission fund.”

All fees charged and collected under this section shall be paid at least once each week, accompanied by a detailed statement thereof, into the treasury of the state to the credit of a fund to be known as the “corporation commission fund,” which fund is hereby created.

Appropriated for use of commissioner. Revolving fund.

§ 21. All moneys which shall be paid into the state treasury and credited to the “corporation commission fund” are hereby appropriated to be used by the commissioner in carrying out the provisions of this act; and the controller shall draw his warrant on said fund from time to time in favor of the commissioner for the amounts expended under his direction, and the treasurer shall pay the same. The commissioner may, with the consent of the board of control, withdraw from said fund a sum not exceeding one thousand dollars, to be used as a revolving fund where cash advances are necessary. The commissioner must account for the sum withdrawn for said revolving fund at any time upon demand of the board of control.

Seal.

§ 22. The commissioner shall adopt a seal bearing the following inscription: “Commissioner of Corporations State of California.” The seal shall be affixed to all writs, orders, permits, and certificates issued by him, and to such other instruments as he shall direct. All courts shall take judicial notice of said seal.

Copies of orders, etc.

§ 23. The commissioner may execute in duplicate any order, finding, or permit issued by him, and each of such parts shall be deemed to be an original. An original of every such order, finding, or permit shall be retained and preserved by him in his office. Copies of all documents, orders, and permits made, executed, or issued by the commissioner, and of all papers filed in his office, when certified by the commissioner under his official seal, shall be received in evidence in all cases in like manner and with the same effect as the originals. Any order or permit issued by the commissioner, or a copy thereof certified by the commissioner under his official seal, to be a true copy of the original order or permit, may be recorded in the office of the county recorder of the county in which is located the principal place of business of the company affected thereby or in which is situated any property of such company, and such record shall impart notice of such order or permit, and of all its provisions, to all persons. A certificate under the seal of the commissioner that any such order or permit has not been amended, altered, revoked, or suspended may also be recorded in the same offices and with like effect.

Official reports prima facie evidence.

§ 24. Every official report made by the commissioner, and every report, duly verified, made to him by any deputy, clerk, or other person employed by him, of any examination, audit, or investigation made by him or under his direction, and copies of such reports, certified by the commissioner, shall be prima facie evidence of the facts therein stated for all purposes in any action or proceeding wherein any company, broker, agent, or the commissioner is a party.

Subscription for shares prior to incorporation. Election of officers prior to issuing shares.

§ 25. Neither this act nor any provision hereof shall be deemed to prohibit subscriptions for shares of a corporation made prior to the incorporation thereof and set forth in its articles of incorporation; but such subscriptions shall be deemed to have been made and accepted upon the condition that such corporation, when incorporated, shall with reasonable diligence apply for and secure from the commissioner a permit authorizing the issue of the shares so subscribed for, in accordance with such subscriptions. The directors or trustees named in the articles of incorporation may, prior to the issue of any shares, organize by the election of a president, who must be one of their number, a secretary and a treasurer; and such directors, or a majority of them, or such president and secretary may, in the name of and in behalf of the corporation, present an application to the commissioner as herein provided.

Acts continued.

§ 26. This act, in so far as it does not add to, take from, or alter an act entitled "An act to define investment companies, investment brokers, and agents; to provide for the regulation, supervision and licensing thereof; to provide penalties for the violation thereof; to create the office of commissioner of corporations, and making an appropriation therefor," approved May 28, 1913, as amended by an act entitled "An act to amend section three of an act entitled 'An act to define investment companies, investment brokers, and agents; to provide for the regulation, supervision and licensing thereof; to provide penalties for the violation thereof; to create the office of commissioner of corporations, and making an appropriation therefor,' approved May 28, 1913," approved June 3, 1915, shall be construed as a continuation thereof.

Decisions, etc., continued in force.

All decisions, orders, rules, findings, certificates, or permits heretofore made or issued, and acts done by the commissioner, shall continue in force and have the same effect as if they had been lawfully made, issued, or done under the provisions of this act.

Appeals not affected. Examination, etc., continued to final determination.

This act shall not affect any appeal pending from any decision of the commissioner, or any proceeding to which he, in his official capacity, is a party; but the same may be prosecuted or defended with the same effect as if this act had not been passed. Any examination, audit, or investigation undertaken, commenced, or prosecuted prior to the taking effect of this act may be conducted to a final determination in the same manner and with the same effect as if it had been undertaken, commenced, or prosecuted under the provisions of this act, and in the manner herein provided. No action or proceeding, either civil or criminal, or cause of action arising under any law of this state shall abate by reason of the passage of this act, but actions or proceedings may be commenced and prosecuted upon such causes in the same manner and with the same effect as if this act had not been passed.

Foreign and interstate commerce.

§ 27. Neither this act nor any provision hereof shall apply to or be construed as a regulation of commerce with foreign nations or among the several states, except in so far as the same may be permitted under the provisions of the constitution and the acts of the congress of the United States.

Constitutionality.

§ 28. If any section, subsection, sentence, clause, or phrase of this act is for any reason held to be unconstitutional, such decision shall not affect the validity of the remaining portions of this act. The legislature hereby declares that it would have passed this act, and each section, subsection, sentence, clause, and phrase thereof irrespective of the fact that any one or more other sections, subsections, sentences, clauses, or phrases be declared unconstitutional.

Repealed.

§ 29. All acts and parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act are hereby repealed.

IRRIGATION DISTRICT ACT OF 1872.

ACT 2258—An act to promote irrigation.

History: Approved April 1, 1872, Stats. 1871-72, p. 945.

Code commissioners' note: "Seems necessarily inconsistent with the Wright act, 1887, p. 29, chapter XXXIV [Act 2259], but that statute, in § 46, declares that none of its provisions shall be construed as repealing or modifying the provisions of any act relating to irrigation or water commissioners; also, with statute of 1897, p. 254, which also contains same reservations as to its repealing effect."

‘WRIGHT ACT.’

ACT 2259—An act to provide for the organization and government of irrigation districts, and to provide for the acquisition of water and other property, and for the distribution of water for irrigation purposes.

History: Approved March 7, 1887, Stats. 1887, p. 29. Amended (1) February 16, 1889, Stats. 1889, p. 15; (2) March 20, 1891, Stats. 1891, p. 142; (3) March 20, 1891, Stats. 1891, p. 147; (4) March 31, 1891, Stats. 1891, p. 244; (5) March 11, 1893, Stats. 1893, p. 175; (6) March 25, 1893, Stats. 1893, p. 516; (7) March 31, 1897, Stats. 1897, p. 240. Supplemented (1) February 16, 1889, Stats. 1889, p. 18; (2) February 16, 1889, Stats. 1889, p. 21; (3) March 16, 1889, Stats. 1889, p. 212; (4) March 23, 1893, Stats. 1893, p. 276; (5) March 25, 1893, Stats. 1893, p. 520; (6) March 26, 1895, Stats. 1895, p. 127; (7) April 1, 1897, Stats. 1897, p. 394. This act, as well as all amendatory and supplemental acts, except the supplementary act of 1897 (Act 2268), were repealed as to inconsistent provisions by the act of 1897 (Act 2266).

I. CONSTITUTIONALITY.

1. Wright act is constitutional.—The Wright act is not violative of either the constitution of the United States or of the state of California.—In re Central Irr. Dist., 117 Cal. 382, 49 Pac. 354.

1a. Same.—The act is constitutional and the districts are public corporations.—Crall v. Poso Irr. Dist., 87 Cal. 140, 26 Pac. 797.

2. Same—“Due process.”—If the landowner is allowed a hearing before the assessment becomes final the creation of the lien is not a taking of property without due process of law.—In re Madera Irr. Dist., 92 Cal. 296, 27 Am. St. Rep. 106, 14 L. R. A. 755, 28 Pac. 272, 675.

2a. Same—Same.—The act violates due process and can not be sustained under the power of assessment for local improvements, where the supervisors are given no power of adjudicating the merits and the landowners given no opportunity to contest the validity of the petition, or the proceedings thereunder the proposed result of which is the taking of private property.—Bradley v. Fallbrook, etc., Dist., 68 Fed. 948.

2b. Same—Adjudication by supervisors—Opportunity of landowners to contest.—The fatal defect in the foundation of the proceedings under the act arising from failure to give the supervisors the power of adjudicating the merits of the petition and the landowners an opportunity to contest its validity, is not cured by the provision allowing the landowner to be heard as to valuation, or by the confirmation act (Stats. 1889, p. 212) in which the supervisors are authorized to institute special proceedings to determine the validity of the proceedings.—Bradley v. Fallbrook, etc., Dist., 68 Fed. 948.

3. Same—Not special legislation.—Section 32 of the Wright act is not special legislation and is constitutional.—Escondido High School v. Escondido Seminary, 130 Cal. 128, 62 Pac. 401.

4. Same—Organization and government of districts—Condemnation of private property.—The provisions as to organization and government of districts, and the provisions as to the condemnation of private property, etc., are constitutional.—Turlock Irr. Dist. v. Williams, 76 Cal. 360, 18 Pac. 379.

4a. Same—Taking of private property for private use.—The taking of private property in irrigation districts under this act for the purpose of furnishing water to the landowners alone, and not for general use of all inhabitants of the district on equal terms is not a taking for a public use such as to justify the exercise of eminent domain.—Bradley v. Fallbrook, etc., Co., 68 Fed. 948.

5. Same—Same.—The Wright act is constitutional, within the enacting power of the legislature and its provisions as to the organization of districts, and the making of assessments are valid.—In re Madera Irr. Dist., 92 Cal. 296, 27 Am. St. Rep. 106, 14 L. R. A. 755, 28 Pac. 272, 675.

5a. Same—Upheld in view of California decisions.—The supreme court of the United States will not hold the Wright act unconstitutional in view of the repeated decisions of the supreme court of California upholding that act.—Fallbrook, etc., Dist. v. Bradley, 164 U. S. 112, 41 L. ed. 369, 17 Sup. Ct. 56.

5b. Same—Decisions of state courts.—Decisions of state courts that state legislation on the subject of irrigation districts violates the federal constitution are entitled to great respect, but do not relieve the federal courts from the duty of exercising an independent judgment with reference to the subject.—Bradley v. Fallbrook, etc., Dist., 68 Fed. 948.

5c. Same—Fourteenth amendment.—The Wright act does not violate any of the rights guaranteed by the fourteenth amendment to the federal constitution.—Fallbrook, etc., Dist. v. Bradley, 164 U. S. 112, 41 L. ed. 369, 17 Sup. Ct. 56.

6. Same—Subdivision 7, section 30.—Subdivision 7 of section 30 of the Wright act may be reasonably construed as referring to proceedings other than those as to which the tax deed is prima facie evidence, and so construed it is constitutional and valid.—Escondido High School v. Escondido Seminary, 130 Cal. 128, 62 Pac. 401.

7. Same—Power to hypothecate property as additional security for bonds.—The provision of section 17 of the Wright act, which purports to authorize the directors of an irrigation district to pledge the property of the district by mortgage, deed of trust, or otherwise, as additional security for the payment of its bonds, is unconstitutional and invalid.—Merchants, etc., Bank v. Escondido Irr. Dist., 144 Cal. 329, 77 Pac. 937.

8. Same—Section 18, article XI, of the constitution, does not apply.—The provision of section 18, article XI, of the constitution, requiring a two-thirds vote to authorize an indebtedness of a public corporation does not apply to irrigation districts, and the Wright act is not obnoxious to that provision.—In re Madera Irr. Dist., 92 Cal. 296, 27 Am. St. Rep. 106, 14 L. R. A. 755, 23 Pac. 272, 675.

9. Confirmatory act of 1889 is constitutional and valid.—The confirmatory act of 1889 (Stats. 1889, p. 212) is constitutional and valid.—People v. Linda Vista Irr. Dist., 128 Cal. 477, 61 Pac. 86.

10. Same—Determination of rights of property in advance of controversy.—The supplemental act of 1889 (Stats. 1889, p. 212) is not unconstitutional on the ground that it authorizes a court to hear and determine what will be the rights of the parties interested in the bonds, in advance of any controversy as to such rights.—Cullen v. Glendora Water Co., 113 Cal. 503, 39 Pac. 769, 45 Pac. 822, 1047.

11. Act of 1889—Provision as to new trials, unconstitutional.—The unconstitutionality of the provision of the supplemental act of 1889 (Stats. 1889, p. 212) relating to motions for new trial does not affect the other provisions of the act so far as they apply to a class of special proceedings distinguished from all other classes by attributes which reasonably require the peculiarities of practice provided.—Cullen v. Glendora Water Co., 113 Cal. 503, 39 Pac. 769, 45 Pac. 822, 1047.

11a. Same—No longer federal question—Removal of cause.—The Wright act has been adjudged constitutional by the supreme court of the United States, and its constitutionality is no longer a federal question authorizing the removal of a cause raising the question of such constitutionality to the federal court.—People v. Brown Valley, etc., Dist., 119 Fed. 535.

II. QUASI PUBLIC CORPORATION.

12. Nature of irrigation district.—An irrigation district organized under this act is a quasi public corporation, in that they are organized for a public use and for a public purpose, and for the general public benefit.—Turlock Irr. Dist. v. Williams, 76 Cal. 360, 18 Pac. 379.

13. Same.—Irrigation districts are public corporations.—Central Irr. Dist. v. De Lappe, 79 Cal. 357, 21 Pac. 825.

14. Same.—An irrigation district organized under the Wright act is a public corporation and its officers are state officers.—In re Madera Irr. Dist., 92 Cal. 296, 27 Am. St. Rep. 106, 14 L. R. A. 755, 23 Pac. 272, 675.

15. Same.—An irrigation district is a public corporation and its officers are public officers.—Boehmer v. Big Rock Irr. Dist., 117 Cal. 19, 49 Pac. 908; Perry v. Otay Irr. Dist., 127 Cal. 565, 60 Pac. 40.

16. Same—Can not be dissolved by judicial action, in absence of statutory authority.—An irrigation district organized under the Wright act is a public corporation, and can not be dissolved by the court on the ground of misuser in the absence of a statute conferring the power to dissolve it on that ground.—People v. Selma Irr. Dist., 98 Cal. 206, 32 Pac. 1047.

17. Same—Power to sell lands unnecessary to scheme.—An irrigation district organized under the Wright act is a public corporation and acquires title to all the property purchased for the district or vesting in it by operation of law, in trust for the purposes set forth in the act, and where some of such lands have become unnecessary to the irrigation scheme, because of a change in the plans, the district has no power to sell such lands, and they are exempt from execution, levy and sale, equally with the other lands of the district.—Tulare Irr. Dist. v. Collins, 154 Cal. 440, 97 Pac. 1124.

18. Same—Record of boundaries constructive notice.—Upon its organization an irrigation district under the Wright act became prima facie a quasi municipal corporation, with defined boundaries established and recorded, and the record thereof constituted constructive notice of its boundaries.—Fogg v. Perris Irr. Dist., 154 Cal. 209, 97 Pac. 316; People v. Perris Irr. Dist., 154 Cal. 209, 97 Pac. 316.

III. PROCEDURE.

18a. Construction.—The proceedings for the formation of irrigation districts under the act are to be liberally construed to effect their purpose.—Central Irr. Dist. v. De Lappe, 79 Cal. 351, 21 Pac. 825.

a. Petition.

19. Who may be signers—Owners of agricultural lands.—Signers of a petition to form an irrigation district under the Wright act must be bona fide owners of agricultural lands, and owners of town lots are not qualified to sign the petition.—In re Central Irr. Dist., 117 Cal. 382, 49 Pac. 354.

20. Same—Full proprietorship and dominion.—An owner within the meaning of the Wright act in fixing the qualifications of those who may sign a petition for the organization of an irrigation district under that act, is one who has full proprietorship and dominion over land in the district proposed to be organized.—Fallbrook Irr. Dist. v. Abila, 106 Cal. 355, 39 Pac. 794.

21. Same—Owners of residence lots in towns and cities.—Whether the owners of small residence lots in towns and cities, and several tenants in common, are qualified to sign a petition to organize an irrigation district, considered but not decided.—Fallbrook Irr. Dist. v. Abila, 106 Cal. 355, 39 Pac. 794.

22. Same—Married woman owning community property.—A married woman is not qualified to sign a petition to organize an irrigation district under the Wright act, as the owner of community property.—Fallbrook Irr. Dist. v. Abila, 106 Cal. 355, 39 Pac. 794.

23. Same.—Holder of mere certificate of purchase of school land.—A holder of a mere certificate of purchase of school land, on which he has paid twenty per cent of the purchase price is not qualified, as a freeholder, to sign a petition for the organization of an irrigation district under the Wright act.—Fallbrook Irr. Dist. v. Abila, 106 Cal. 355, 39 Pac. 794.

23a. Where signers are not bona fide owners.—Where a majority of those who signed the petition for the formation of an irrigation district under the Wright act were not bona fide freeholders in the district, but only temporarily so for the purpose of signing and presenting the petition, that fact would be sufficient to declare the organization invalid in a confirmatory proceeding, but would not render the organization of the district void, but only voidable, and the court would not be deprived of jurisdiction to render a confirmatory decree, nor would it be sufficient to set aside the confirmatory decree.—Fogg v. Perris Irr. Dist., 154 Cal. 209, 97 Pac. 316; People v. Perris Irr. Dist., 154 Cal. 209, 97 Pac. 316.

23b. Where petition signed by less than required number of qualified signers.—Where a petition to organize an irrigation district under the Wright act was signed by only fifty-one persons, if any two of such persons were not qualified, a motion granting a new trial of a proceeding under the confirmatory act confirming such organization must be approved on appeal.—Fallbrook Irrigation Dist. v. Abila, 106 Cal. 355, 39 Pac. 794.

b. Boundaries.

24. Sufficiency — Definiteness. — The boundaries of the proposed district need not be set forth in the petition with greater particularity than is required for the creation of a political district or a municipal corporation, and if the boundaries as given are not too indefinite to be capable of location, and do not fail to embrace a definite and distinct territory, the supervisors acquire jurisdiction.—In re Madera Irr. Dist., 92 Cal. 296, 27 Am. St. Rep. 106, 14 L. R. A. 755, 28 Pac. 272, 675.

25. Same — Same. — If the landmarks called for in the petition can be found on the ground the description is sufficiently definite, in the absence of evidence that such landmarks can not be found, and if it does not appear that the description in the order calling the election varies from or is less definite than that in the petition.—Cullen v. Glendora Water Co., 113 Cal. 503, 39 Pac. 769, 45 Pac. 822, 1047.

26. Same.—A description of the boundaries of the district by metes and bounds, which would be sufficient in a deed, is sufficient in an order establishing the boundaries.—Central Irr. Dist. v. De Lappe, 79 Cal. 351, 21 Pac. 825.

27. Public land situated within boundaries, non-assessable.—The public lands of the United States situated within the exterior boundaries of an irrigation district is not a part of the district, subject to assessment for its proportion of the liabilities of the district, and neither the state nor its agencies can impose a tax, assessment or liability upon it, and so long as it remains public land no liability can be created by the state or district against it.—Nevada National Bank v. Poso Irr. Dist., 140 Cal. 344, 73 Pac. 1056.

28. Incorporation of public land does not invalidate organization.—The incorporation of public land in an irrigation district organized under the Wright act does not render the organization invalid.—Cullen v. Glendora Water Co., 113 Cal. 506, 39 Pac. 769, 45 Pac. 822, 1047.

29. City or town may be included.—An irrigation district organized under this act may include a city or town.—Board of Directors v. Tregea, 88 Cal. 334, 26 Pac. 237.

30. Inclusion of city or town does not invalidate organization.—The inclusion of a municipal corporation in an irrigation district organized under the Wright act does not invalidate the organization.—In re Madera Irr. Dist., 92 Cal. 296, 27 Am. St. Rep. 106, 14 L. R. A. 755, 28 Pac. 272, 675.

31. Board may make changes.—Inclusion of lands does not invalidate organization.—The board is empowered by section 2 of the act to make such changes in the boundaries as they think proper, and where they include lands upon the application of owners, not made in writing, the organization of the district is not invalidated.—Central Irr. Dist. v. De Lappe, 79 Cal. 351, 21 Pac. 825.

32. Same.—Exclusion does not invalidate organization, even though excluded lands may be susceptible of cultivation.—The exclusion of lands by the board, although they may be susceptible of irrigation does not invalidate the organization, although in a proper proceeding the owners of such lands might have them reincluded.—Central Irr. Dist. v. De Lappe, 79 Cal. 351, 21 Pac. 825.

33. Same.—Decision of board as to benefits conclusive.—The decision of the board of supervisors as to whether lands will or will not be benefited by irrigation is final and conclusive, and may not be reviewed by the courts.—Board of Directors, etc. v. Tregea, 88 Cal. 334, 26 Pac. 237.

34. Same.—Identity of district not destroyed by exclusion.—The identity of the district is not destroyed by the exclusion of part of the lands therefrom, and if, at the time of such exclusion, the district owed no indebtedness, the inclusion would violate no constitutional rights.—Board of Directors v. Tregea, 88 Cal. 334, 26 Pac. 237.

35. Same.—Effect of change.—When the boundaries of an irrigation district are changed by regular and valid proceedings for that purpose such change became a matter of record, and a subsequent notice of the hearing of confirmatory proceedings which designated the district by its name, was sufficient.—Fogg v. Perris Irr. Dist., 154 Cal. 209, 97 Pac. 316; People v. Perris Irr. Dist., 154 Cal. 209, 97 Pac. 316.

c. Notice of Hearing of Petition.

36. Provision as to publication of notice mandatory.—The provision as to publication of notice of hearing of petition is mandatory, and compliance therewith is jurisdictional.—In re Central Irr. Dist., 117 Cal. 382, 49 Pac. 354.

37. Notice must be signed and authenticated.—The notice of hearing of the petition must bear a proper authentication and a mere unsigned and unauthenticated notice is invalid.—In re Central Irr. Dist., 117 Cal. 382, 49 Pac. 354.

38. Petition and notice may be included in one paper.—The petition for the formation of an irrigation district under the Wright act, and the notice of the hearing of the petition may be included in a single document, sufficient in form as a notice and as a petition, and it may be published as a notice, and presented to the board as a petition.—Fogg v. Perris Irr. Dist., 154 Cal. 209, 97 Pac. 316.

39. Defect in notice cured by actual knowledge.—A defect in the notice of hearing of the petition can not be cured by proof of actual knowledge, but it must be a notice issued as the statute requires, and by the persons authorized to issue it.—In re Central Irr. Dist., 117 Cal. 382, 49 Pac. 354.

40. Slight mistakes in notice, unimportant.—Slight mistakes in the spelling of names in the publication of the petition, are entirely unimportant.—Central Irr. Dist. v. De Lappe, 79 Cal. 351, 21 Pac. 825.

41. Only petitioners empowered to publish notice.—The petitioners themselves are the only ones empowered by the act to publish the notice of hearing of the petition, and the board of supervision have no power to do so.—In re Central Irr. Dist., 117 Cal. 382, 49 Pac. 354.

d. Bond Accompanying Petition.

42. If bond not invalid, determination of supervisors as to its sufficiency is conclusive.—If the bond accompanying the petition is not invalid, and binds those who signed it, the determination of the board of supervisors as to its sufficiency is conclusive, though it may be informal.—In re Madera Irr. Dist., 92 Cal. 296, 27 Am. St. Rep. 106, 14 L. R. A. 755, 28 Pac. 272, 675.

43. Condition for payment of all costs includes required condition.—Where the bond was conditioned upon the payment of all costs in any event, it included the required condition that the bondsmen should pay the costs "in case said organization shall not be effected."—Central Irr. Dist. v. De Lappe, 79 Cal. 351, 21 Pac. 825.

44. Where bond merely defective, board may order filing of new bond.—Where the bond required by the statute was defective merely the board was empowered to order the filing of a new bond, and to continue the hearing for that purpose, and, since neither bond nor petition need be filed before the petition is present, the new bond would "accompany" the petition on its presentation within the meaning of the statute.—Central Irr. Dist. v. De Lappe, 79 Cal. 351, 21 Pac. 825.

45. Reference to petition held sufficient.—A bond that recites two names as petitioners, who signed the bond but did not sign the petition, the bond being filed with the petition, which was the only petition present, is sufficient for the purpose of identification.—Central Irr. Dist. v. De Lappe, 79 Cal. 351, 21 Pac. 825.

e. Assessments.

46. Directors vested with exclusive power to levy assessments.—The Wright act has vested the board of directors with the exclusive right to levy assessments and to determine the percentage to be levied upon the property of the district, and the assessment must be uniform upon all the property, and it is not within the province of the court to declare the amount which is to be raised, or to determine the percentage for which the assessment should be levied.—Boscowitz v. Thompson, 144 Cal. 724, 78 Pac. 290.

47. Same power vested in directors to levy of assessments as is vested in supervisors as to levy of taxes.—The Wright act confers upon the directors the same power to levy assessments for current expenses, and for the care, operation, management and improvement of the irrigation works, as are possessed by boards of supervisors, and the proposition to levy the assessment must be submitted to and approved by the property owners.—Tregea v. Owens, 94 Cal. 317, 29 Pac. 643.

48. Exorbitant assessments—Relief of landowner.—If an assessment is exorbitant the landowner must pay the amount the board of directors had power to levy before he is entitled to equitable relief, that amount being equally a matter of computation as exact as that showing that the levy was higher than the board had power to make.—Quint v. Hoffman, 103 Cal. 506, 37 Pac. 514, 777.

48a. Same—Land can be required to bear only its proportion of cost of improvement.—Land subject to assessment under the Colorado act (copy of Wright act) can be required to bear only its proportion of the cost of the improvement, and lands that have paid an assessment can not be assessed a second time to make up a deficiency caused by the failure of some lands to pay.—Norris v. Montezuma, etc., Dist., 240 Fed. 825.

49. Levy for different purposes in one order.—A levy for different purposes may be incorporated in one order.—Cooper v. Miller, 113 Cal. 238, 45 Pac. 325.

act.—Escondido High School v. Escondido Seminary, 130 Cal. 128, 62 Pac. 401.

49c. Poles, wires and other appliances of telegraph company not assessable.—Poles, wires and other appliances, constituting a telegraph line passing through an irrigation district upon the right of way of a railroad company, but owned by a telegraph company, constitute personal property, and are not subject to taxation by the district.—Western Union, etc., Co. v. Modesto Irr. Co., 149 Cal. 662, 9 Ann. Cas. 1190, 87 Pac. 190.

50. Assessment not a tax.—The assessment is not a tax and is not subject to constitutional provisions respecting taxation, and it may be levied on the property within the district without deducting existing mortgages.—Tregea v. Owens, 94 Cal. 317, 29 Pac. 643.

51. Exemption of municipalities.—The exemption of municipalities from taxation relates to state and county taxes and not to assessments for public improvements under general laws.—San Diego v. Linda Vista Irr. Dist., 108 Cal. 189, 35 L. R. A. 33, 41 Pac. 291.

52. Same—Not extended beyond property used for governmental property.—Implied exemption of the property of a municipality from taxation should not be extended to property not held or used for municipal or governmental purposes.—San Diego v. Linda Vista Irr. Dist., 108 Cal. 189, 35 L. R. A. 33, 41 Pac. 291.

53. Same—Pueblo lands of municipality.—An assessment upon the pueblo lands of a city is not a tax within the meaning of section 1, article XIII of the constitution exempting the property of municipal corporations from taxation, such lands being susceptible of cultivation and of benefit from irrigation, and such lands may be sold for unpaid assessments.—San Diego v. Linda Vista Irr. Dist., 108 Cal. 189, 35 L. R. A. 33, 41 Pac. 291.

54. Assessments to pay to interest on bonds—Discretion of directors.—Section 22 of the Wright act allows the directors a reasonable discretion in assessments to pay interest on bonds, and does not confine them to the exact amount of the interest.—Escondido High School v. Escondido Seminary, 130 Cal. 128, 62 Pac. 401.

55. Same—Same.—Section 22 of the Wright act authorized an assessments sufficient to raise the annual interest upon the outstanding bonds, and the board has a certain discretion as to the amount to be raised, and the courts will not interfere with its action unless it can be shown that it has abused its discretion.—Boscowitz v. Thompson, 144 Cal. 724, 78 Pac. 290.

56. Same—Same.—It is not necessary to their validity that the method adopted for the assessments, and their collection, must be assimilated to and follow the constitutional mode for the assessment and collection of taxes.—Turlock Irr. Dist. v. Williams, 76 Cal. 360, 18 Pac. 379.

57. Same—Same—Assessment in amount larger than amount of interest.—Levy of assessment to pay interest will be enjoined where the amount of the assessment is so largely in excess of the amount of the interest as to make it appear that the directors abused their discretion.—Hughson v. Crane, 115 Cal. 404, 147 Pac. 120.

58. Same—Same—Same.—The power of the board of directors to levy an assessment to pay interest on bonds is not restricted to the levy of the exact amount of the interest, but they have a discretion in the matter which will not be interfered with except in case of abuse.—Hughson v. Crane, 115 Cal. 404, 147 Pac. 120.

59. Assessment under section 37—Special election.—An assessment levied for the purpose specified in section 37 of the Wright act, without calling a special election, is invalid.—Tregea v. Owens, 94 Cal. 317, 29 Pac. 643.

59a. Suit to compel assessment to be made—Demand necessary.—A demand is a prerequisite to a suit to compel the levy of an assessment to pay a judgment on the bonds of an irrigation district.—Board of Supervisors v. Thompson, 122 Fed. 860, 59 C. C. A. 70.

59b. Same—Judgment conclusive.—In a suit for writ of mandamus to compel the levy of a tax to pay bonds of an irrigation district, a judgment is conclusive against the board of supervisors and against the property owners, as to all questions which were or might have been litigated.—Board of Supervisors v. Thompson, 122 Fed. 860, 59 C. C. A. 70.

f. Election.

60. Publication of call for election.—The act does not specify the number of times the election proclamation is required to be published, but only that it shall be published three weeks before election.—Central Irr. Dist. v. De Lappe, 79 Cal. 351, 21 Pac. 825.

61. Election notice—Posting.—Notice of a special election under section 15 may be properly given as that section provides to the exclusion of the provision of section 5 as to posting of the general notice at the office of the board.—Board of Directors, etc., v. Tregea, 88 Cal. 334, 26 Pac. 237.

62. Election precincts—No division intended.—The legislature intended no division of the district when the election is to be by the district at large.—Cullen v. Glendora Water Co., 113 Cal. 503, 39 Pac. 769, 45 Pac. 822, 1047.

63. Same—Establishment by election notice.—It is sufficient that the election precincts are established by the election proclamation, which is published three weeks before election.—Central Irr. Dist. v. De Lappe, 79 Cal. 351, 21 Pac. 825.

g. Sales for Delinquent Assessments.

64. Sale directed by court is invalid and vests no title.—The Wright act gives to the collector authority to sell the property in case of non-payment of the assessment levied thereon by the board, but a sale by him in satisfaction of an amount directed by the court is unauthorized and would vest no title in the purchaser.—Boscowitz v. Thompson, 144 Cal. 724, 78 Pac. 290.

65. Tax deed offered in evidence—Presumptions.—Where a tax deed is offered in evidence and no evidence whatever upon the subject of an election for the levy of the tax for special purposes is offered, it is presumed that the election was held according to law and the levy authorized.—Cooper v. Miller, 113 Cal. 238, 45 Pac. 325.

66. Same—Same.—It is presumed that official duty was performed, and that where a tax sale was advertised for Sunday, the collector kept within section 26 of the statute, and postponed the sale to Monday, as the law allowed him to do.—Baxter v. Vineland Irr. Dist., 136 Cal. 185, 68 Pac. 601.

66a. Act of de facto collector in sale of lands regarded as official.—A collector who is acting as such is a de facto officer of an irrigation district, even though he may be disqualified as a de jure officer, and in a proceeding to set aside tax sales of land sold for unpaid assessments to pay interest on bonds of the district, his acts must be regarded as official acts.—Baxter v. Vineland Irr. Dist., 136 Cal. 185, 68 Pac. 601.

66b. Purchasers of bonds take with notice of the statute.—Purchasers of bonds of an irrigation district take with notice of the law under which they were issued and can not recover where it appears on the face of the bonds that they were not issued in conformity with the act.—Wright v. East Riverside, etc., Dist., 138 Fed. 313, 70 C. C. A. 603.

66c. Deed prima facie evidence of validity of assessment.—If a tax deed executed by the collector of an irrigation district recites the matter recited in the certificate of sale, and is duly acknowledged or proved, it is under section 30 of the Wright act, prima facie evidence of the validity of the assessment and levy, and of the regularity of the proceedings for the sale and the deed.—Cooper v. Miller, 113 Cal. 238, 45 Pac. 325.

See, also, Rollins v. Wright, 93 Cal. 395, 29 Pac. 58.

66d. Deed is prima facie evidence of title in grantee.—A tax deed executed by the tax collector of an irrigation district organized under the Wright act, upon a sale for a delinquent tax levied by the board of directors of the district, is, under section 30, of the act prima facie evidence of title in the grantee.—Cooper v. Miller, 113 Cal. 238, 45 Pac. 325.

IV. BONDS.

67. Discrepancy in date does not invalidate.—The bonds of an irrigation district are not invalid because nominally dated at a different time from their real or legal date.—Stowell v. Rialto Irr. Dist., 155 Cal. 215, 100 Pac. 248.

68. Rule as to effect of recital of compliance with statute.—The rule that the recital in the bonds of an irrigation district of compliance with the statute protects only a bona fide purchaser without further inquiry and not a purchaser who took the bonds with actual knowledge which, in connection with the provisions of the statute, establishes their illegality.—Leeman v. Perris Irr. Dist., 140 Cal. 540, 74 Pac. 24.

69. Issue of bonds is discretionary.—The issue of the bonds is discretionary, and the directors may issue such portion of the bonds and sell them at such times as they think best.—Board of Directors, etc., v. Tregea, 88 Cal. 334, 26 Pac. 237.

69a. Validity of bonds not affected by subsequent exclusion of territory.—The exclusion of territory subsequent to organization can not affect the validity of the bonds issued by a district.—Herring v. Modesto, etc., Dist., 95 Fed. 705.

69b. Discretion of supervisors to issue bonds—Determination of benefits.—The Wright act commits to the supervisors, on the application for the organization of a district, the determination of the question of benefits, and in the absence of fraud or bad faith, their decision is conclusive, and the question can not be raised by the district as a defense to its obligation on the bonds issued by it.—Herring v. Modesto, etc., Dist., 95 Fed. 705.

70. Issue of bonds does not depend on source of water supply.—The issue of bonds does not depend upon the source of the water supply, or plans for obtaining it, and the directors may change their plans and obtain a diminished supply from a source other than that provided for in the original plan, if the interests of the district will be subserved thereby.—Board of Directors v. Tregea, 88 Cal. 334, 26 Pac. 237.

70a. Bonds negotiable—Void when issued in violation of statute.—The bonds of an irrigation district are negotiable, but where issued in violation of statute they are void.—Rialto Irr. Dist. v. Stowell, 246 Fed. 294, 159 C. C. A. 24.

71. Negotiability not affected.—The fact that installments of principal were made payable only upon the surrender of the coupons does not affect its negotiability.—Stowell v. Rialto Irr. Dist., 155 Cal. 215, 100 Pac. 248.

72. Disposition of bonds—Two available modes.—The only modes in which an irrigation district organized under the Wright act can dispose of its bonds, are the modes prescribed by section 12, to exchange them for property purchased for construction purposes, at par, and that prescribed in section 16 to sell them in the open market, at 90 per cent, for cash.—Hughson v. Crane, 115 Cal. 404, 47 Pac. 120.

73. Same—Affairs intended to be conducted on money basis, not on credit.—The intention of the Wright act was that the affairs of an irrigation district should be conducted on a money basis, and not on credit.—Hughson v. Crane, 115 Cal. 404, 47 Pac. 120.

74. Same—Void unless issued for supplies at par or cash at 90 per cent.—Irrigation district bonds, negotiable in form (1887-29) issued in exchange for supplies for the district at ninety cents on the dollar, are void in the hands of the original purchaser and of subsequent holders with notice, as issued in violation of the provision of the act requiring the bonds, when not exchanged for property at par, to be sold for cash at ninety cents on the dollar.—Ham v. Grapeland Irrigation District, 172 Cal. 611, 613, 159 Pac. 201.

75. Same—Valid though the district made a bad bargain.—Bonds issued in exchange for property at par, are issued for a legal consideration, even though the district made a bad bargain.—Ham v. Grapeland Irrigation District, 172 Cal. 611, 618, 158 Pac. 207.

76. Same—Bonds issued for construction work at 90 per cent illegally issued.—Bonds issued to a contractor, at 90 per cent of par value, to pay for the construction of a dam are illegally issued.—Hughson v. Crane, 115 Cal. 404, 147 Pac. 120.

77. Same—Illegal contract.—A contract of an irrigation company whereby it delivered its bonds to a water company in return for water stock of the company, and never got any part of any canal, canals, or water works, or real property, or any tangible property at all whatever, and received a mere personal promise to allow it to rent certain water, the company remaining the owner of the pipe line which it laid, and the district acquiring no control or ownership thereof or of any other property, and by the terms of the contract never became entitled to any such property or control, is void.—Stimson v. Alessandro Irr. Dist., 135 Cal. 389, 67 Pac. 496, 1034.

77a. Same—Issued for water system prior to latter's construction.—By the use of the phrase "works constructed and being constructed by private owners," the legislature clearly indicated an intention to authorize the acquisition of water systems by negotiation prior to their completion.—Stowell v. Rialto Irr. Co., 155 Cal. 215, 100 Pac. 248.

78. Same—Same.—A contract of an irrigation company organized under the Wright act to pay for water rights and pipes to convey the water, entered into prior to the completion of the means of supply, with bonds of the company, does not render the contract one for the payment of construction works with bonds.—Stowell v. Rialto Irr. Dist., 155 Cal. 215, 100 Pac. 248.

79. Same—Same—Authorized under section 12.—A contract of an irrigation district organized under the Wright act to take and pay for certain water rights together with pipe lines needed for the reception and distribution of the water, with bonds of the district, when the property for delivery and conveyance, was authorized under section 12 of the act.—Stowell v. Rialto Irr. Dist., 155 Cal. 215, 100 Pac. 248.

80. Form of bonds.—The bonds should be in such form as to permit them to be paid in installments in the percentage specified in the statute, but a failure in this respect, by making the entire issue, instead of each bond, so payable, does not invalidate the bonds.—In re Madera Irr. Dist., 92 Cal. 296, 27 Am. St. Rep. 106, 14 L. R. A. 755, 28 Pac. 272, 675.

81. Public lands not bound in hands of grantees of the United States.—The sale and conveyance by the United States of public land in private ownership can not operate to charge it with liability upon bonds of an irrigation district, existing prior to such conveyance, without the consent of the United States or its grantee.—Nevada National Bank v. Poso Irr. Dist., 140 Cal. 344, 73 Pac. 1056.

82. Judicial knowledge of financial history.—The court takes judicial knowledge of the financial history of irrigation bonds.—Hughson v. Crane, 115 Cal. 404, 47 Pac. 120.

82a. Estoppel of district to deny validity of bonds.—Where an irrigation district (1887-29) has the power, upon the performance of certain conditions precedent, to issue bonds, and its officers charged with the duty to ascertain and determine as to the performance of such conditions, certify that they are performed, the district is estopped to plead non-performance.—Ham v. Grapeland Irrigation Dist., 172 Cal. 611, 618, 158 Pac. 207.

82b. Same—Recital of bond—Bond in hands of president of district.—A recital in the bonds of an irrigation district that they were issued "by authority of, and pursuant to, and after a full compliance with, all the requirements of," the Wright act, estops the district from asserting that no estimate or determination of the amount of money required, or that the bonds were not disposed of in the manner or for the purposes prescribed in the act.—Miller v. Perris, etc., Dist., 99 Fed. 143. Even though in the hands of the president of the district.—Perris, etc., Dist., v. Thompson, 116 Fed. 332, 54 C. C. A. 336.

82c. Same—De facto corporation.—Where an irrigation company issued and sold its bonds, used the proceeds for the construction of its works, and then repudiated its obligations on that ground that it had never been legally organized and had no power to issue the bonds, it was held that common honesty demanded that a debt thus incurred should be paid, and that if anything could constitute a de facto corporation the irrigation company in such a case was, and that its de jure existence could be questioned only by the state.—Tulare, etc., Dist., v. Shepard, 185 U. S. 1, 46 L. ed. 773, 22 Sup. Ct. 531.

82d. Collateral attack—De facto corporation.—An irrigation district organized under the Wright act is at least a de facto corporation, in view of the fact that the supreme court of California has repeatedly upheld its constitutionality, and the legality of its organization can not be attacked collaterally for the purpose of defeating its obligations.—Herring v. Modesto, etc., Dist., 95 Fed. 705.

82c. Suit on bonds—Benefits received immaterial.—An allegation in the answer of an irrigation district to a suit on its bonds that the district derived no benefit from the work is immaterial and constitutes no defense.—Herring v. Modesto, etc., Dist., 95 Fed. 705.

82f. Same—Verified answer—Proof of execution or confirmation of bonds not required.—Section 447, Code of Civil Procedure.—Where the answer of an action against an irrigation district on its bonds was not verified, and the complaint set out copies of the bonds, which bore the seal of the district, and were introduced in evidence, the plaintiff was not required, in view of section 447, Code of Civil Procedure, to further prove their execution or their confirmation under the confirmation act.—Perris, etc., Dist. v. Thompson, 116 Fed. 832, 54 C. C. A. 336.

82g. Same—Date of issue—Signature.—Whether bonds of an irrigation district are treated as "issued" on the date, or on delivery, they were void, in the first case, because not signed by the "then secretary," and in the second case, because antedated so as to make them payable within a shorter period than the law provides.—Wright v. East Riverside, etc., Dist., 138 Fed. 312, 70 C. C. A. 603.

82h. Suit by taxpayers—Defects in issue of bonds.—The taxpayers in an irrigation district can not maintain a suit to restrain an action against the district on its bonds on the ground that the bonds were void, that the officers served in the action were not the officers of the district, that it had no officers, especially where it was not shown that application to the board of supervisors under section 10 of the act, to appoint directors had been made.—Quinton v. Equitable, etc., Co., 196 Fed. 314, 116 C. C. A. 134.

82i. Suit by holder of less than entire issue of bonds. The holder of less than the entire issue of a series of municipal bonds is not prevented by that fact from maintaining an action for their enforcement.—Perris, etc., Dist. v. Thompson, 116 Fed. 832, 54 C. C. A. 336.

82j. Remedy of judgment bondholder is mandamus to compel assessment.—The remedy of the holder of irrigation bonds, after judgment and return of execution unsatisfied, was mandamus to compel the levy of assessment on the property of the district, and not a suit in equity for a receiver.—Marra v. San Jacinto, etc., Dist., 131 Fed. 780.

82k. Statute of limitations.—Each irrigation bond of a district under the Wright act is a district obligation, and is barred after four years from maturity, notwithstanding the provision as to the levy of a sufficient amount to pay off bonds at the expiration of twenty years.—Curtis v. Rialto, etc., Dist. (Cal. App.), 187 Pac. 116.

V. CONFIRMATORY ACT OF 1889.

a. Constitutionality.

83. The title of the confirmatory act of 1889 (Stats. 1889, p. 212) is sufficiently comprehensive to include the provision for ascertaining the validity of the organization of the district as a necessary condition precedent to the testing of the validity of the bonds issued by the district.—People v. Linda Vista Irr. Dist., 128 Cal. 477, 61 Pac. 86.

84. New trial provisions of section 4 unconstitutional.—The provision of section 4 of the supplemental act of 1889 (Stats. 1889, p. 212) that motions for new trial must be made on the minutes of the court is obnoxious to subdivision 3, section 25, article IV, of the constitution, inhibiting special laws regulating the practice in courts of justice, and such a motion on a bill of exceptions made under the code provisions, will be considered on appeal.—Cullen v. Glendora Water Co., 113 Cal. 503, 39 Pac. 769, 45 Pac. 822, 1047.

85. Jurisdiction of superior court.—The proceeding for the confirmation of the organization of an irrigation district is judicial and properly committed to the superior court for determination.—Title, etc., Co. v. Kerrigan, 150 Cal. 289, 320, 119 Am. St. Rep. 199, 8 L. R. A. (N. S.), 682, 88 Pac. 356.

b. Construction.

86. Act must be construed as a whole.—The supplementary act of 1889 (Stats. 1889, p. 212) must be construed as a whole with reference to its manifest purpose, and as allowing the proceeding to be commenced as soon as the resolution has been adopted, and before bonds have been issued.—Board of Directors, etc., v. Tregear, 88 Cal. 334, 26 Pac. 237.

87. Independent act, not part of Wright act.—The supplementary act of 1889 (Stats. 1889, p. 212) is an independent statute, not a part of the Wright act, and not amendatory of it, and section 3 of the Wright act as amended in 1891, limiting the time in which an action may be commenced or a defense made affecting the validity of the organization to two years, has no application to the act of 1889.—In re Central Irr. Dist., 117 Cal. 382, 49 Pac. 354.

88. Special proceeding.—A proceeding brought under the act of 1889 (p. 212) for the confirmation of the organization of the district is a special proceeding, and in the nature of a proceeding in rem to determine its status and its power to issue bonds.—Crall v. Poso Irr. Dist., 87 Cal. 140, 26 Pac. 797.

89. Proceeding in rem.—The proceeding for confirmation under the act of 1889 (Stats. 1889, p. 212) is one in rem, and the decree while it is in force is conclusive upon the state as well as all others, that all steps for the proper organization of the district were properly taken, and the contrary can not be shown in quo warranto.—People ex rel. Fogg v. Perris Irr. Dist., 132 Cal. 289, 64 Pac. 399, 773.

90. Same.—The proceeding under the act of 1889 (Stats. 1889, p. 212) are in rem, and, for the protection of investors, must bind not only the parties appearing, but all the world.—Board of Directors, etc., v. Tregea, 88 Cal. 334, 26 Pac. 237.

91. Same.—The proceeding to confirm the regularity of the proceedings in the organization of an irrigation district is a proceeding in rem, authorized for the express purpose of fixing the legal status of the district, and the decree concluded the whole world upon all the questions involved, and was properly admitted in evidence in an action to condemn a right of way for an irrigation pipe line to establish the facts therein determined.—Rialto Irr. Dist. v. Brandon, 103 Cal. 384, 37 Pac. 484.

92. Section 3 of Wright act not applicable.—The provisions of section 3 of the Wright act limiting the bringing of actions affecting the validity of the organization of an irrigation district to two years after the making and entry of the order, has no application to suits under the confirmatory act of 1889 (Stats. 1889, p. 212), or to suits to set aside a judgment of confirmation for fraud.—People v. Perris Irr. Dist., 142 Cal. 601, 76 Pac. 381.

93. Only applicable to bonds sold to invest in water system.—The confirmatory act of 1889 (Stats. 1889, p. 212) refers only to bonds sold to invest in a water system, under the authority of section 16 of the Wright act, and not to those issued under section 12 for the purchase of other property, and the court is without jurisdiction under the confirmatory act to make a confirmatory decree as to any bonds except those referred to in section 16.—Stimson v. Alessandro Irr. Dist., 135 Cal. 389, 67 Pac. 496, 1034.

c. Notice.

94. All persons in district bound to take notice.—All persons in the district are bound to take notice of the specific allegations of the petition under the act of 1889 (Stats. 1889, p. 212), and appear and object or be forever precluded from questioning the validity of the bonds.—88 Cal. 334, 26 Pac. 237.

95. Publication of notice and filing petition sufficient.—Under the act of 1889 (Stats. 1889, p. 212), the publication of a notice of the filing of the petition is sufficient to confer jurisdiction upon the superior court to render a judgment affirming the regularity of the organization of the district, the legality of its orders, and the validity of its bonds, and such judgment will be binding upon the lands of the district and their owners.—Board of Directors, etc., v. Tregea, 88 Cal. 334, 26 Pac. 237.

96. Sufficiency of notice.—The notice required by the act of 1889 (Stats. 1889, p. 212) is sufficient if it state the filing of the petition, and the substance of the prayer thereof, and in other respects conforms to the statute.—Board of Directors, etc., v. Tregea, 88 Cal. 334, 26 Pac. 237.

97. Same—Contents.—The notice of the hearing of the petition for confirmation under the act of 1889 (Stats. 1889, p. 212), need not contain a specific description of the lands of the district, nor of any owner thereof, nor of its boundaries.—Fogg v. Perris Irr. Dist., 154 Cal. 209, 97 Pac. 316; People v. Perris Irr. Dist., 154 Cal. 209, 97 Pac. 316.

98. Notice is due process.—The notice containing the statement that the proceedings were for the purpose of confirming the proceedings for the sale of the bonds of the district was due process of law to inform any landowner affected and interested.—Fogg v. Perris Irr. Dist., 154 Cal. 209, 97 Pac. 316; People v. Perris Irr. Dist., 154 Cal. 209, 97 Pac. 316.

99. Constructive service by publication.—Constructive service by publication and posting as provided by the Wright act is sufficient to give the court jurisdiction of a proceeding under the act of 1889 (Stats. 1889, p. 212).—Crall v. Poso Irr. Dist., 87 Cal. 140, 26 Pac. 797.

d. Effect of Judgment or Decree.

100. Properly includes injunction.—A judgment of confirmation under the act of 1889 (Stats. 1889, p. 212) properly includes an injunction declaring all persons interested in the organization of the district from disputing, denying or disclaiming any facts which might have been disputed in the proceeding.—In re Madera Irr. Dist., 92 Cal. 296, 27 Am. St. Rep. 106, 14 L. R. A. 755, 28 Pac. 272, 675.

100a. Conclusive on all questions.—A judgment under the confirmation act is conclusive of all the questions involved therein. (Former opinion in 85 Fed. 693, explained and reaffirmed).—Miller v. Perris, etc., Dist., 99 Fed. 143.

101. Binding on all the world.—The proceeding under the confirmatory act of 1889 (Stats. 1889, p. 212) is one in rem, and the judgment therein is binding upon the whole world, including the state, is res adjudicata, and constitutes a bar to subsequent quo warranto proceedings against the district, attacking the validity of the organization of the district.—People v. Linda Vista Irr. Dist., 128 Cal. 477, 61 Pac. 86.

101a. After confirmatory judgment, subsequent quo warranto judgment—Validity of bonds not affected.—A judgment against an irrigation district, in an action by the state, declaring void the organization of the district, does not affect the validity of its bonds, issued after judgment in favor of its validity under the confirmation act.—Miller v. Perris, etc., Dist., 99 Fed. 143.

102. Confirmatory decree is conclusive.—A confirmatory decree under the act of 1889 (Stats. 1889, p. 212) is merely evidence of the validity of the organization of the district, conclusive only so long as it is unimpeached, and a suit to set it aside for fraud is an attack only upon the evidence of such judgment, and not a direct attack upon the validity of the organization of the district.—People v. Perris Irr. Dist., 142 Cal. 601, 76 Pac. 381.

103. Judgment is a bar.—A judgment in an action under the act of 1889 (Stats. 1889, p. 212) rendered upon constructive service is a bar to a suit to enjoin the sale of the bonds of the district brought by one constructively served, and mere defects in the organization can not be reviewed in such suit.—Crall v. Poso Irr. Dist., 87 Cal. 141, 26 Pac. 797.

104. Impeached for fraud only.—A confirmation decree can only be impeached for fraud in a direct proceeding for the purpose.—People ex rel Fogg v. Perris Irr. Dist., 132 Cal. 289, 64 Pac. 399, 773.

105. Validity of proceedings does not depend on decree.—The validity of the proceedings for the organization of a district does not depend upon the decree of confirmation under the act of 1889 (Stats. 1889, p. 212), but upon the regularity of the proceedings under the Wright act.—People v. Perris Irrigation Dist., 142 Cal. 601, 76 Pac. 381.

105a. Necessarily involves inquiry into validity of original organization.—An adjudication under the confirmatory act of 1889 (Stats. 1889, p. 212) necessarily involved and required an inquiry into the validity of the original organization.—Fogg v. Perris Irr. Dist., 154 Cal. 209, 97 Pac. 316; People v. Perris Irr. Dist., 154 Cal. 209, 97 Pac. 316.

106. First decree void, second decree.—If it be conceded that a first confirmatory decree, confirming the validity of the proceedings up to a certain point, is void, a second valid decree conclusively adjudicating and establishing the validity of the proceedings to organize the district and to issue and sell the bonds thereof, as well as the legal existence of the district under the Wright act, will protect the bondholders under the first decree, as effectively as would that decree, and will render harmless any error of the court in holding the first decree valid.—Fogg v. Perris Irr. Dist., 154 Cal. 209, 97 Pac. 316; People v. Perris Irr. Dist., 154 Cal. 209, 97 Pac. 316.

107. Void bonds can not be confirmed.—Void bonds of an irrigation district can not be confirmed in a proceeding under the act of 1889 (Stats. 1889, p. 212), and a judgment of confirmation in such a proceeding is itself void for want of jurisdiction.—Stimson v. Alessandro Irr. Dist., 135 Cal. 389, 67 Pac. 496, 1034.

108. Rights of purchasers in good faith of bonds afterwards declared in confirmatory proceedings null and void.—Where bonds of an irrigation district were issued and sold to bona fide purchasers, and afterwards in a proceeding under the confirmation act the organization of the district was held illegal and void, the rights of such purchasers will be left for determination in a proper action to which they may be parties.—In re Central Irr. Dist., 117 Cal. 382, 49 Pac. 584.

108a. Rights of purchasers in good faith protected.—Where an irrigation district was properly organized, and the issue of the bonds were within the authority of the board, and the only question in an attack upon their validity related to certain irregularities in the records and in conducting the elections, purchasers of the bonds "without any notice whatever" of any informity in said bonds, or of any irregularity or fraud connected with the issuance thereof, are protected from such irregularities.—Baxter v. Vineland Irr. Dist., 136 Cal. 185, 68 Pac. 601.

108b. Assessments to pay interest on bonds confirmed by act, but decree set aside eight years after.—Where bonds of an irrigation district were confirmed in 1890, and the confirmation decree was not set aside until eight years later, valid assessments might be levied to pay interest on bonds that had passed into the hands of bona fide holders in the interval.—Haese v. Heitzeg, 159 Cal. 569, 114 Pac. 816.

VII. ACTIONS.

a. Parties.

109. One who took bonds with knowledge of invalidity.—One who knew at the time he took the bonds of an irrigation district that they were issued in violation of the Wright act can not maintain a suit upon same.—Leeman v. Perris Irr. Dist., 140 Cal. 540, 74 Pac. 24.

110. District necessary party, when.—In an action to restrain the levy of an assessment to pay illegal bonds of an irrigation district and to restrain further issue of bonds, the district is a proper and a necessary party, and the directors are proper parties for the purpose of reaching and restraining the corporation.—Sechrist v. Rialto Irr. Dist., 129 Cal. 640, 62 Pac. 261.

111. Collector represents the district for defensive purposes, not for affirmative relief.—In an action by landowners against the collector to enjoin him from selling land for an unpaid assessment to pay interest on bonds, the collector represents the district for defensive purposes alone, and not for the purpose of affirmative relief; nor can the intervening bondholders because of their interest in the success of the defendant, have affirmative relief upon a cross-complaint seeking to enforce a lien against the lands.—Boscowitz v. Thompson, 144 Cal. 724, 78 Pac. 290.

112. Bondholders not necessary parties, when.—The bondholders were not necessary parties in an action to cancel tax sales of land sold to pay interest assessments on the bonds, attacking the validity of the bonds, but they had such an interest as made them proper parties, especially as they alleged that the defendants would not defend the action in good faith.—Baxter v. Vineland Irr. Dist., 136 Cal. 185, 68 Pac. 601.

112a. District as a party.—Under the provisions of section 14 of the Wright act giving the directors of a district the right to "appear and defend" implies the liability to be sued.—Boehmer v. Big Rock Irr. Dist., 117 Cal. 19, 49 Pac. 908.

b. Complaint.

113. Eminent domain proceedings to condemn pipe line sufficiently alleges existence of public use.—Complaint in eminent domain proceedings to condemn a right of way for a pipe line for an irrigating district held sufficient to show a public use.—Rialto Irr. Dist. v. Brandon, 103 Cal. 334, 37 Pac. 484.

114. Taxpayers need not allege demand upon directors to bring action.—The taxpayers of an irrigation district are not required to make demand upon the directors to bring the action before bringing action to cancel the bonds of the district, and need not allege such demand in their complaint.—Sechrist v. Rialto Irr. Dist., 129 Cal. 640, 62 Pac. 261.

115. Fraud must be pleaded specifically.—If a landowner relies upon fraud to set aside the order of the board, he must plead the facts constituting the fraud.—Board of Directors, etc., v. Tregoe, 88 Cal. 334, 26 Pac. 237.

c. Burden of Proof.

116. Burden on plaintiff in action to cancel tax sales.—In an action to cancel tax sales of land sold for unpaid assessments of an irrigation company to pay interest on its bonds, the burden is on the plaintiff to sustain the allegations of the complaint.—Baxter v. Vineland Irr. Dist., 136 Cal. 185, 68 Pac. 601.

117. Lien of bondholders.—Whatever lien the bondholders may have against the lands in an irrigation district exists by virtue of the statute under which the bonds were issued, and the assessment levied, and not by reason of any equity in their behalf, or by virtue of any contract between them, and a court of equity can not decree such a lien, unless the statute declares it, and provides for its enforcement, in which case it can only be enforced in the mode provided.—Boskowitz v. Thompson, 144 Cal. 724, 78 Pac. 290.

118. Injunction against sale of lands for unpaid assessments, without adjudicating validity of assessment.—It was improper in an action to enjoin the sale of lands of an irrigation district brought by landowners, who were contesting the validity of the assessment, and in which the bondholders were intervening and seeking affirmative relief by declaring a lien on the land for the interest due on bonds held by them, for the court to decree that so much of the lands be sold as was required to pay the interest on the bonds held by the intervenors, without determining whether the original assessment was void, and disregarding the rights of other bondholders, who did not intervene.—Boskowitz v. Thompson, 144 Cal. 724, 78 Pac. 290.

119. Court may protect bondholders in action to cancel bonds.—In an action to cancel the bonds of a district, where the directors and the district and properly made defendants, the court may protect the equities of the bondholders, while granting the relief sought.—Sechrist v. Rialto Irr. Dist., 129 Cal. 640, 62 Pac. 261.

e. Execution.

120. Rule not applicable to lands of irrigation district.—The principle that only so much of the property of a quasi public corporation as is necessary to the exercise of the quasi public functions of a corporation are exempt from execution, does not apply to the lands of a public corporation held, as in the case of the lands of an irrigation district, under an express trust, where the land can not be sold, nor any execution sale made, without a direct violation of the terms of the trust.—Tulare Irr. Dist. v. Collins, 155 Cal. 440, 97 Pac. 1124.

f. Collateral Attack.

121. Question as to whether district de jure or de facto immaterial.—It is immaterial whether an irrigation district organized under the Wright act is a corporation de jure or de facto upon an attack upon its organization collaterally.—Quint v. Hoffman, 103 Cal. 506, 37 Pac. 514, 777.

122. Supervisors want of jurisdiction, only ground.—The organization of an irrigation district under the Wright act can not be collaterally attacked in a suit to enjoin the sale of lands for an assessment, on the ground that the board of supervisors acted without jurisdiction in effecting such organization.—Quint v. Hoffman, 103 Cal. 506, 37 Pac. 514, 777.

123. Attack on validity of bonds in action to cancel sales of lands for delinquent assessment to pay interest.—An attack upon the validity of the bonds of an irrigation district, in a suit to cancel tax sales of land sold to pay an assessment for interest on the bonds, is a collateral attack, and is not changed to a direct attack by allegations of the bondholders in intervention that they were purchasers without notice of any infirmity in the bonds, and that they were in fact legal and valid obligations of the district.—Baxter v. Vineland Irr. Dist., 136 Cal. 185, 68 Pac. 601.

VII. MISCELLANEOUS.

124. Power to mortgage implies right of foreclosure and sale.—Section 17 of the Wright act purporting to authorize the directors of an irrigation district to mortgage or convey by deed of trust, all the property of the district as additional security for its bonds must be construed to imply the right of foreclosure and sale, and not merely as authorizing a change in the custodian of a public use.—Merchants, etc., Bank v. Escondido Irr. Dist., 144 Cal. 329, 77 Pac. 937.

125. Power of eminent broad enough to cover condemnation of pipe lines.—The provisions of the Wright act relating to the condemnation of property, are broad enough to include pipe lines, conduits, flumes, etc., for the purpose of conveying water, even though not necessarily included in the terms "ditches and canals."—Rialto Irr. Dist. v. Brandon, 103 Cal. 334, 37 Pac. 484.

126. Duty of collector to turn over money collected.—It is the duty of the collector of an irrigation district to turn over to the treasurer the money collected by him for assessments, and this duty is not affected by the question as to the legality or illegality of such assessments.—Perry v. Otay Irr. Dist., 127 Cal. 565, 60 Pac. 40.

127. Claim of collector for salary can not be set off against collection.—The claim of a collector of an irrigation district for salary as such collector can only be paid out of the treasury of the district after allowance by the board and upon a warrant therefor properly drawn, as any other claim.—Perry v. Otay Irr. Dist., 127 Cal. 565, 60 Pac. 40.

128. Same.—The collector of an irrigation district can not offset the amount of his unpaid salary as such collector against the amount of assessments collected by him.—Perry v. Otay Irr. Dist., 127 Cal. 565, 60 Pac. 40.

129. Assessed owner of land not entitled to use of water outside of district.—An assessed owner of land in an irrigation district organized under the Wright act is not entitled to the use of the water of the district on lands outside the district.—Jenison v. Redfield, 149 Cal. 500, 37 Pac. 62.

130. Rule of forfeiture for non-user not applicable to irrigation districts.—The rule as to forfeiture of charter for non-user has no application to a public corporation.—People v. Selma Irr. Dist., 98 Cal. 206, 32 Pac. 1047.

131. Powers of directors.—The directors of an irrigation district have only the powers expressly given or implied as necessary to carry out the purposes of the act.—Stimson v. Alessandro Irr. Dist., 135 Cal. 389, 67 Pac. 496, 1034.

ACT 2266—An act to provide for the organization and government of irrigation districts, and to provide for the acquisition or construction thereby of works for the irrigation of the lands embraced within such districts, and, also, to provide for the distribution of water for irrigation purposes.

History: Approved March 31, 1897, Stats. 1897, p. 254. This last amendment was submitted to the people by referendum at the general election of November 2, 1920. and adopted. It went into effect December 9, 1920.

ORGANIZATION.

§ 1. A majority in number of the holders of title or evidence of title to lands susceptible of irrigation from a common source and by the same system of works, including pumping from subsurface or other waters, such holders of title or evidence of title representing a majority in value of said lands, may propose the organization of an irrigation district, under the provisions of this act; or the organization of such an irrigation district may be proposed by not less than five hundred petitioners, each petitioner to the number of at least five hundred to be an elector residing in the proposed district or the holder of title or evidence of title to land therein; provided, that the said petitioners must include the holders of title or evidence of title to not less than twenty per cent in value of the lands included within the proposed district. The lands proposed to be included within any such irrigation district need not consist of contiguous parcels. Any holder of land under a possessory right acquired by entry or purchase from the United States or the state of California shall be deemed to be a holder of evidence of title to said land within the meaning of this act. The county assessment roll of the county in which any lands included within such proposed irrigation district are situated, which assessment roll has been last equalized at the time of the first publication of said petition as provided in section two of this act, shall be conclusive evidence as to the value of said lands and the holders of title or evidence of title to said lands. If any parcel of land is assessed on any assessment roll to unknown or fictitiously named owners, or to unnamed owners in addition to any owner or owners named thereon, said parcel of land shall be deemed for any of the purposes of this act, to have but one owner in addition to any owner or owners whose true name or names may be purported to be given on such assessment roll. The holder of title or evidence of title to an undivided interest in any land affected by any of the provisions of this act may sign any petition provided for in this act, and such undivided interest shall be counted and valued as though it were a separate interest, and if the assessment roll shall fail to indicate the extent of any such undivided interest, the holders of title or evidence of title whose undivided interests in any land are not specifically defined shall be deemed to have equal shares therein. Guardians, executors, administrators or other persons holding property in a trust capacity under appointment of court may sign any petition provided for in this act, when authorized by an order of court, which order may be made without notice. A certificate of acknowledgment taken before a notary public or justice of the peace of any state, or an affidavit by any person in the presence of whom such petition was signed, shall be sufficient evidence of the genuineness of such signature and of the fact of place of residence of any petitioners under this act. [Amendment of May 16, 1919. Stats. 1919, p. 714. Submitted by referendum at the general election of November 2, 1920, and adopted; in effect December 9, 1920.]

This section was also amended March 26, 1911, Stats. 1911, p. 509; June 9, 1915, Stats. 1915, p. 1367; May 18, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 751.

§ 2. In order to propose the organization of an irrigation district, a petition signed by the requisite majority of holders of title or evidence of title to lands within the proposed district or by at least five hundred petitioners, as provided in section one of this act, shall be presented to the board of supervisors of the county in which the lands within the proposed district, or the greater portion thereof, are situated. Said petition shall set forth generally the boundaries of the proposed district and also shall state generally the source or sources (which may be in the alternative) from which said lands are proposed to be irrigated, and shall pray that the territory embraced within the boundaries of the proposed district may be organized as an irrigation district under the provisions of this act. The petition may consist of any number of separate instruments, and must be accompanied with a good and sufficient undertaking, to be approved by the board of supervisors, in double the amount of the probable cost of organizing such district, conditioned that the sureties shall pay all of said costs in case said organization shall not be effected. Said petition shall be presented at a regular meeting of said board and shall be published for at least two weeks before the time at which the same is to be presented in some newspaper of general circulation printed and published in the county where said petition is presented together with a notice stating the time of the meeting at which the same will be presented; and if any portion of the lands within said proposed district lie within another county or counties, then said petition and notice shall be published, as above provided, in a newspaper published in each of said counties. When contained upon more than one instrument, one copy only of such petition need be published, but the names attached to all of said instruments must appear in such publication. On or before the day on which said petition is presented to said board of supervisors, a copy of said petition shall be filed in the office of the state engineer. Signatures to the petition may be withdrawn at any time before the publication is commenced as in this section required, by filing a declaration, signed by the petitioner, with the board of supervisors before which the petition is to be presented, stating that it is the intention of the petitioner to withdraw therefrom, which declaration shall be acknowledged in the same manner as conveyances of real estate are required to be acknowledged. When said petition is presented, said board of supervisors shall hear the same and shall proceed to determine whether or not said petition complies with the requirements hereinbefore set forth and whether or not the notice required herein has been published as required, and must hear all competent and relevant testimony offered in support of or in opposition thereto. Said hearing may be adjourned from time to time for the determination of said facts, not exceeding two weeks in all. No defect in the contents of the petition or in the title to or form of the notice or signatures, and no lack of signatures thereto, or to the petition as published, shall vitiate any proceedings thereon; provided, such petition or petitions have a sufficient number of qualified signatures attached thereto. The determination of the board shall be expressed by resolution. If it shall determine that any of the requirements hereinbefore set forth have not been complied with, the matter shall be dismissed, but without prejudice to the right of the proper number of persons to present a new petition covering the same matter or to present the same petition with additional signatures, if such additional signatures are necessary to comply with the requirements of this act. If the board of supervisors shall determine that the petitioners have complied with the requirements hereinbefore set forth, it shall cause a copy of the resolution so declaring to be forwarded to the state engineer. Upon receiving a copy of said resolution, the state engineer shall make or cause to be made such preliminary investigation as may be practicable, with a view to determining the feasibility of the project proposed to be undertaken. He shall report as soon as practicable, but at all events within ninety days from the date of the adoption of the said resolution, in writing, on the matter to the board of supervisors from which the copy of said resolution was received, except that upon receiving a written request from the state engineer, the board of supervisors may at any meeting before the expiration of said ninety days grant to the state engineer not more than ninety days additional time in which to make said report. If the state engineer shall report within the time specified herein that the supply of water available for the use of the proposed district, or that may be acquired by any practicable means, including the condemnation of existing rights, is not sufficient or that the project is not feasible for any other reason or reasons, the hearing of the matter shall be continued for not more than two months and shall then be dismissed unless the board of supervisors shall be petitioned in writing by three-fourths of the holders of title or evidence of title to land within said proposed district to grant said petition; provided, that if the board of supervisors is not so petitioned, it may modify the plans for the proposed district in accordance with recommendations by the state engineer. If after receiving an adverse report from the state engineer the board of supervisors shall be petitioned as aforesaid or shall decide to modify the plans for the proposed district in accordance with recommendations by the state engineer, it shall, at the time to which the hearing of said matter shall have been continued, set a time for the final hearing thereof. If the continuance of the matter is not compelled by an adverse report as aforesaid, the board of supervisors, at its first regular meeting after the receipt of a report from the state engineer, or at the first regular meeting after the expiration of the time allowed for the making of such report if no such report has been received, shall set a time for a final hearing of the matter. In any case the time set for the final hearing as aforesaid shall not be less than one week from the meeting at which said time was set; provided, that notice of the time of such final hearing shall be given by registered mail to such party as shall have been designated for that purpose by the petitioners, or by publication for at least three days in one daily newspaper published in the county in which the lands within the proposed district, or the greater portion thereof are situated. A failure to give such last mentioned notice, however, shall not affect the validity of subsequent proceedings. On a final hearing herein provided for, the board may adjourn from time to time, but at no time for a longer period than three days until a determination of the matter is reached. On said final hearing said board shall make such changes in the proposed boundaries as it may deem advisable and shall define and establish such boundaries, but said board shall not modify said boundaries so as to exclude from such proposed district any territory which is susceptible of irrigation from any of the sources proposed, unless said board shall decide to modify the plan for such proposed district, as herein provided, nor shall any lands which will not, in the judgment of said board, be benefited by irrigation by means of said systems or works be included within such proposed district. Lands already irrigated and riparian lands may be included in the district if in the judgment of the board of supervisors such land will be benefited, or if the water used thereon or the rights to the use of water thereon should, in the judgment of the board of supervisors, be taken or acquired for the district. Any person whose lands are susceptible of irrigation from any of the proposed sources may, upon his application, in the discretion of said board, have such lands included within said proposed district. [Amendment of May 16, 1919, Stats. 1919, p. 714; submitted on referendum at the general election of November 2, 1920, and adopted. In effect December 9, 1920.]

This section was amended February 11, 1909, Stats. 1909, p. 12; March 26, 1911, Stats. 1911, p. 509; June 13, 1913, Stats. 1913, p. 993; May 18, 1917, Stats. 1917, p. 751.

Duty of state engineer.

§ 2a. The state engineer shall have authority, and it shall be his duty, to give information so far as may be practicable to persons contemplating the organization of irrigation districts under the provisions of this act. Whenever the department of engineering shall deem it in the public interest that preliminary surveys and field investigations of proposed irrigation district projects shall be made at the expense of the state, the state engineer shall make such surveys and field investigations of such proposed irrigation district projects, and, pending the completion of such surveys and investigation, the state water commission shall have authority to withhold from appropriation any unappropriated waters likely to be needed therefor. [New section added May 19, 1917. In effect July 27, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 755.]

Order reaffirming conclusions.

§ 3. Upon the final hearing of said petition or said matter, the board of supervisors shall make an order reaffirming its conclusions as to the genuineness and sufficiency of the petition and notice hereinbefore provided for, reciting that a report regarding the proposed district has been made by the state engineer and is on file with the other records of the board, and describing the boundaries of the proposed district as defined and established by said board. Said order shall be entered in full upon the minutes of said board. At said final hearing no evidence shall be heard against the genuineness or sufficiency of said petition or notice unless it shall be shown to the satisfaction of said board that new evidence which, if uncontradicted, would disprove the genuineness or sufficiency of said petition or notice has been discovered since said board adopted the resolution declaring that said petition and notice complied with all the requirements of this act. In case any new evidence is admitted, full opportunity shall be given for the introduction of evidence in rebuttal thereof. [Amendment approved June 16, 1913, Stats. 1913, p. 996.]

Finding of board to be conclusive.

§ 4. A finding of the board of supervisors in favor of the genuineness and sufficiency of the petition and notice shall be final and conclusive against all persons except, the state of California upon suit commenced by the attorney general. Any such suit must be commenced within one year after the order of the board of supervisors declaring such district organized as herein provided, and not otherwise. [Amendment approved January 2, 1912. Stats. 1911, p. 139, extra session.]

Division in districts, and election of directors.

§ 5. If, on said final hearing, the boundaries of the proposed district are defined and established, said board shall make an order dividing said district into five divisions, as nearly equal in size as may be practicable, which shall be numbered first, second, third, fourth and fifth, and one director shall be elected for each division by the electors thereof; provided, that if so requested in said petition, the board may order that there shall be only three divisions in said district, and that only three directors be elected, and that the directors may be elected by the district at large, or by divisions, as such petition shall provide, but in any event such directors shall be elected to represent separate divisions and shall be residents of the respective divisions they are elected to represent. [Amendment of June 9, 1915. In effect August 8, 1915. Stats. 1915, p. 1368.]

Election on organization. Publication of notice.

§ 6. Said board of supervisors shall then give notice of an election to be held in such proposed district, for the purpose of determining whether or not the same shall be organized under the provisions of this act. Such notice shall describe the boundaries so established, and shall designate a name for the proposed district, and said notice shall be published for at least three weeks previous to such election, in a newspaper published within the county in which the petition for the organization of the proposed district was presented; and if any portion of such proposed district is within another county or counties, then such notice shall be published for the same length of time in a newspaper published in each of said counties. Such notice shall require the electors to cast ballots, which shall contain the words "Irrigation District—Yes," or "Irrigation District—No," or words equivalent thereto, and also the names of persons to be voted for at said election. For the purposes of said election the board of supervisors must establish a convenient number of election precincts in said proposed district, and define the boundaries of the same. Such election shall be conducted as nearly as practicable in accordance with the general election laws of the state, but no particular form of ballot shall be required.

Officers to be elected. Consolidation of offices.

§ 7. At such election there shall be elected a board of directors, and an assessor, tax collector, and treasurer; provided, that where a consolidation of officers as hereinafter provided for is deemed advisable in the organization of a district, the petitioners may request in their petition for organization such consolidation, and the board of supervisors calling the election shall in its order therefor announce such consolidation, and then only one person shall be elected to fill the several offices so consolidated.

Qualifications of electors.

§ 8. No person shall be entitled to vote at any election held under the provisions of this act unless he possesses all the qualifications required of electors under the general election laws of the state.

§ 9. The board of supervisors shall meet on the second Monday succeeding such election, and shall proceed to canvass the votes cast thereat, and if upon such canvass it appears that a majority of all the votes cast are "irrigation district—yes," said board shall, by an order entered on its minutes, declare the territory duly organized as an irrigation district, under the name theretofore designated, and shall declare the persons receiving respectively the highest number of votes at said election to be duly elected. [Amendment of May 26, 1919, Stats. 1919, p. 714. Submitted on referendum at the general election of November 2, 1920. In effect December 9, 1920.]

Order to be filed with county recorder. Organization complete when.

§ 10. Said board shall then cause a copy of such order, duly certified, to be immediately filed for record in the office of the county recorder of any county in which any portion of the lands embraced in such district are situated, and must also immediately forward a copy thereof to the clerk of the board of supervisors of each of said last-mentioned counties, and no board of supervisors of any county in which any portion of the lands embraced in such district are situated shall, after the date of the organization thereof, allow another district to be formed including any portion of said lands, without the consent of the board of directors of the district in which they are situated. From and after such filing, the organization of such district shall be complete.

Election may be contested. Appeal.

§ 11. Such election, on organization, may be contested by any person owning property within the proposed district liable to assessment. The directors elected at such election shall be made parties defendant. Such contest shall be brought in the superior court of the county where the petition for organization is filed; provided, that if more than one contest be pending they shall be consolidated and tried together. The court having jurisdiction shall speedily try such contest, and determine, upon the hearing, whether the election was fairly conducted and in substantial compliance with the requirements of this act, and enter its judgment accordingly. Such contest must be brought within twenty days after the canvass of the vote and declaration of the result by the board of supervisors. The right of appeal is hereby given to either party to the record within thirty days from entry of judgment. The appeal must be heard and determined by the supreme court within sixty days from the time of filing the notice of appeal.

Tenure of office.

§ 12. The officers elected at the election hereinbefore provided for shall immediately enter upon their duties as such, upon qualifying in the manner for such officers herein provided. Said officers shall hold office respectively until their successors are elected and qualified.

DUTIES AND POWERS OF THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS.

Duties and powers of board of directors. Organization. Salary of secretary.

§ 13. The directors of any district created after the passage of this act, on the first Tuesday after their election, after they shall have qualified, shall meet and classify themselves by lot into two classes, as nearly equal in number as possible, and the term of office of the class having the greater number shall expire at the next general February election in this act provided for; and the term of office of the class having the lesser number shall terminate at the next general February election thereafter. After such classification, said directors shall organize as a board, shall elect a president from their number, and appoint a secretary, who shall each hold office during the pleasure of the board. The salary of the secretary and the amount of the bond to be given by him for the faithful performance of his duties shall be fixed by the board of directors.

Board of directors, monthly meetings. Special meetings. Quorum.

§ 14. The board of directors shall hold a regular meeting on the first Tuesday of each month at the place selected as the office of the board; provided, that the board may, by resolution duly entered upon its minutes, fix any other time as the time for its regular monthly meeting, but no change in the time of holding regular meetings of the board shall be made until after the resolution proposing such change has been published once a week for two successive weeks in a newspaper published in the county in which the office of the district is kept. Such special meetings of the board of directors may be held as may be required for the proper transaction of the business of the district, but a special meeting must be ordered by a majority of the board. The order must be entered of record, and five days notice thereof must by the secretary be given to each director not joining in the order. The order must specify the business to be transacted, and no other business than that specified in the order may be transacted at such special meeting, unless all the members are present and consent to the consideration of any business not specified in said order. All meetings of the board must be public and three members shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business; provided, however, that when the board consists of three members only, then in such case two shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business, but on all questions requiring a vote, except a motion to adjourn or a motion to adjourn to a stated time, there shall be a concurrence of at least the number constituting a quorum. A smaller number of directors than a quorum may adjourn from day to day. All records of the board shall be open to public inspection during business hours. Whenever any act is required to be done or proceeding taken by this act, or by an act supplemental or amendatory thereto, on the first Tuesday in any month, such act may be done or proceeding had upon the day specified in the resolution hereinbefore referred to as the time for the regular meeting of the board of directors; provided, also, that when a day other than the first Tuesday in the month shall have been specified as the time for the regular meeting of the board of directors, thereafter the newly elected officers of the district shall take office at noon on the day fixed for the regular monthly meeting of said board in March and said board shall meet for reorganization and the transaction of any other business of the district in the afternoon of said day. [Amendment of May 19, 1917. In effect July 27, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 756.]

This section was also amended April 19, 1909, Stats. 1909, p. 998.

Publication of financial condition.

§ 14a. The board of directors at their regular monthly meeting in January of each year shall render and immediately thereafter cause to be published a verified statement of the financial condition of the district, showing particularly the receipts and disbursements of the last preceding year, together with the source of such receipts and purpose of such disbursements. Said publication shall be made at least once a week for two weeks, in some newspaper, published in the county where the office of the board of directors of such district is situated. [New section added May 19, 1917. In effect July 27, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 756.]

Powers of directors.

§ 15. The board of directors shall have the power and it shall be their duty to manage and conduct the business and affairs of the district; make and execute all necessary contracts; employ and appoint such agents, officers, and employees as may be required, and prescribe their duties. The board and its agents and employees shall have the right to enter upon any land to make surveys, and may locate the necessary irrigation works and the line for canal or canals, and the necessary branches for the same on any lands which may be deemed best for such location. Said board shall also have the right to acquire, by purchase, lease, contract, condemnation, or other legal means, all lands, and waters, and water rights, and other property necessary for the construction, use, supply, maintenance, repair and improvements of said canal, or canals, and works, whether in this or in other states or in a foreign nation, including canals, and works constructed and being constructed by private owners, lands for reservoirs for the storage of needful waters, and all necessary appurtenances, and also where necessary or convenient to said ends to acquire and hold the stock of other corporations domestic or foreign owning waters, canals, waterworks, franchises, concessions or rights. Said board may enter into, and do any acts necessary or proper for the performance of, any agreements with the United States, or any state, county, district of any kind, public or private corporation, association, firm or individual, or any number of them, for the joint acquisition, construction, leasing, ownership, disposition, use, management, maintenance, repair or operation of any rights, works or other property of a kind which might lawfully be acquired or owned by the irrigation district, and may acquire the right to store water in any reservoirs or to carry water through any canal, ditch or conduit not owned or controlled by the district, and may grant to any owner or lessee of the right to the use of any water the right to store such water in any reservoir of the district or to carry such water through any canal, ditch or conduit of the district. [Amendment of May 16, 1919. In effect July 22, 1919. Stats. 1919, p. 661.]

This section was also amended March 26, 1911, Stats. 1911, p. 510; May 18, 1917, Stats. 1917, p. 751.

Dams. Conveyances.

§ 15b. The board of directors of any irrigation district may also construct the necessary dams, reservoirs, and works for the collection of water for said district, and do any and every lawful act necessary to be done, that sufficient water may be furnished to each landowner in said district for irrigation and domestic purposes; provided, that where, within irrigation districts mutual water companies have been organized to furnish water to certain specified lands within said districts, the board of directors of such districts are hereby authorized and empowered to contract for the delivery of water for such lands as lie within the boundary of said water companies, through said mutual water companies only. The said board is hereby authorized and empowered to take conveyances, leases, contracts or other assurances for all property acquired by it under the provisions of this act, in the name of such irrigation district, to and for the uses and purposes herein expressed, and to institute and maintain any and all actions and proceedings, suits at law or in equity necessary or proper in order to fully carry out the provisions of this act, or to enforce, maintain, protect or preserve any and all rights, privileges and immunities created by this act, or acquired in pursuance thereof. And in all courts, actions, suits or proceedings, the said board may sue, appear and defend in person or by attorneys, and in the name of such irrigation district. [New section added May 19, 1917. In effect July 27, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 758.]

Rules for use of water.

§ 15c. It shall be the duty of the board of directors of any irrigation district to establish equitable by-laws, rules and regulations for the distribution and use of water among the owners of said lands, which must be printed in convenient form for distribution in the district. Said board shall have power generally to perform all such acts as shall be necessary to fully carry out the purposes of this act. [New section added May 19, 1917. In effect July 27, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 758.]

Change election precincts. Lease canals.

§ 15d. The board of directors, when they deem it advisable for the best interests of the district, and the convenience of the electors thereof, may at any time, but not less than sixty days before an election to be held in the district, change the boundaries of the divisions or election precincts of the district or of both; provided, such changes shall be made to keep each division as nearly equal in area and population as may be practicable. Such change of boundaries of the divisions and precincts must be shown on the minutes of the board. The board of directors of any irrigation district now or that may hereafter be organized in the state, shall also have the power, and such board is hereby vested with the authority, to lease the system of canals and works in the district, or any part thereof, whenever such leasing may be for the benefit of the district; provided, that when the directors of any irrigation district contemplate the leasing of the canals and works of such district, they shall give notice of such contemplation by publishing the same in some newspaper published in the county in which such irrigation district lies, at least three weeks prior to the making of any lease, and such lease shall be made to the highest bidder. But such board shall have the right to reject any and all bids. Such lease shall in no way interfere with any rights that may have been established by law, at the time such lease is made; and, further provided, that the board of directors shall require a good and sufficient bond to secure faithful performance of the lease by the lessees. [Formerly section 15½, amended and number changed. Amendment of May 19, 1917. In effect July 27, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 759.]

§ 15½. [Added March 28, 1901, Stats. 1901, p. 815. Amended March 28, 1911, Stats. 1911, p. 512. Number changed to 15d May 19, 1917, Stats. 1917, p. 759.]

Condemnation proceedings.

§ 16. In case of condemnation proceedings the board shall proceed, in the name of the district, under the provisions of title seven, part three of the Code of Civil Procedure of the state of California, and all pleadings, proceedings, and process in said title provided shall be applicable to the condemnation proceedings hereunder. [Amendment of May 1917. In effect July 27, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 759.]

WATER REGULATION.

Public use.

§ 17. The use of all water required for the irrigation of the lands of any district formed under the provisions of this act, or the act of which this is supplementary or amendatory, and for domestic and other incidental and beneficial uses, within such district, together with the rights of way for canals and ditches, sites for reservoirs, and all other property required in fully carrying out the provisions of this act is hereby declared to be a public use, subject to the regulation and control of the state, in the manner prescribed by law. [Amendment approved March 28, 1911. Stats. 1911, p. 512.]

Apportionment of water.

§ 18. It is hereby expressly provided that all waters distributed for irrigation purposes shall be apportioned ratably to each land owner upon the basis of the ratio which the last assessment of such owner for district purposes within said district bears to the whole sum assessed upon the district; and any land owner may assign the right to the whole or any portion of the waters so apportioned to him; provided, that when any rates of toll and charges for the use of water are fixed by the board of directors, as provided in section fifty-five of this act, the water for the use of which such rates of toll and charges have been fixed shall be distributed equitably, as may be provided by the board of directors, among those offering to make the required payment therefor; and provided, further, that if an irrigation district has contracted to deliver, and is delivering, water to mutual water companies for distribution to territory served thereby, the water shall be apportioned on such a basis as the board of directors shall find to be just and equitable and for the best interests of all parties concerned. [Amendment of May 16, 1919. In effect July 22, 1919. Stats. 1919, p. 661.]

GENERAL ELECTIONS.

Irrigation district officers to be elected.

§ 19. An election, which shall be known as the general irrigation district election, shall be held in each irrigation district on the first Wednesday in February in each odd-numbered year, at which a successor shall be chosen to each officer whose term shall expire in March next thereafter. The person receiving the highest number of votes for each office to be filled at such election shall be elected thereto. The elective officers of an irrigation district shall be as many directors as there are divisions in the district, and an assessor, a collector and a treasurer; provided, that if any two or more offices shall have been consolidated as provided in section seven or section twenty-seven hereof, only one person shall be elected to fill such consolidated offices. The term of office of each elective officer of an irrigation district elected at or after the general irrigation district election in one thousand nine hundred nineteen shall be four years, or until his successor is elected and has qualified. [Amendment of May 19, 1917. In effect July 27, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 759.]

This section was also amended June 8, 1915, Stats. 1915, p. 1326.

Official bonds.

§ 19a. Within ten days after receiving their certificates of election hereinafter provided for, said officers shall take and subscribe the official oath, and file the same in the office of the board of directors, and execute the bond hereinafter provided for. The assessor shall execute an official bond in the sum of five thousand dollars, and the collector an official bond in the sum of twenty thousand dollars, and the district treasurer an official bond in the sum of fifty thousand dollars; each of said bonds to be approved by the board of directors; provided, that the board of directors may, if it shall be deemed advisable, fix the bonds of the treasurer and collector, respectively, to suit the conditions of the district, the maximum amount of the treasurer's bond not to exceed fifty thousand dollars, and the minimum amount thereof not to be less than ten thousand dollars; and the maximum amount of the collector's bond not to exceed twenty thousand dollars, and the minimum amount of the collector's bond not to be less than five thousand dollars. Each member of said board of directors shall execute and official bond in the sum of five thousand dollars, which said bonds shall be approved by the judge of the superior court of said county where such organization was effected, and shall be recorded in the office of the county recorder thereof, and filed with the secretary of said board. All official bonds herein provided for shall be in the form prescribed by law for the official bonds of county officers and premiums thereon may be paid by the district; provided, that in case any district organized under this title is appointed fiscal agent of the United States or by the United States in connection with any federal reclamation project, each of said officers shall execute a further and additional official bond in such sum as the secretary of the interior may require, conditioned for the faithful discharge of the duties of his office and the faithful discharge by the district of its duties as fiscal or other agent of the United States under any such appointment or authorization, and any such bond may be sued upon by the United States or any person injured by the failure of such officer or the district to fully, promptly and completely perform their respective duties. [New section added May 19, 1917. In effect July 27, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 760.]

If election be not held.

§ 19b. If an election is not held as herein provided, then upon the filing of a petition with the secretary of the board of directors of such district, signed by ten per cent of the electors residing within the boundaries of any such irrigation district, requesting that a special election be called for the election of such officers, the directors of such district shall thereupon call a special election thereof for the election of such officers, such election to be held within not less than fifteen, nor more than thirty days after the filing of such petition. [New section added May 19, 1917. In effect July 27, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 760.]

Beginning of term. Organization.

§ 20. At noon of the first Tuesday in March next following their election, except as provided in section fourteen of this act, the officers who shall have been elected at the preceding general irrigation district election shall enter upon the duties of their respective offices. On the first Tuesday in March next following each election, the directors shall meet and organize as a board, elect a president and appoint a secretary, who shall each hold office during the pleasure of the board. [Amendment of May 19, 1917. In effect July 27, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 761.]

Notice of elections. Election officers.

§ 21. Fifteen days before any election held under this act, subsequent to the organization of any district, the secretary of the board of directors shall cause notices to be posted in three public places in each election precinct, of the time and place of holding the election, and shall also post a general notice of the same in the office of said board, which shall be established and kept at some fixed place, to be determined by said board, specifying the polling places of each precinct. Prior to the time for posting the notices, the board must appoint for each precinct, from the electors thereof, one inspector and two judges, who shall constitute a board of election for such precinct. If the board fail to appoint a board of election, or the members appointed do not attend at the opening of the polls on the morning of election, the electors of the precinct present at that hour may appoint the board, or supply the place of an absent member thereof. The board of directors must, in its order appointing the board of election, designate the house or place within the precinct where the election must be held.

Officers of election board. Oaths, who may administer. Polls, opening of.

§ 22. The inspector is chairman of the election board and may administer all oaths required in the process of an election; and appoint judges and clerks, if, during the progress of the election, any judge or clerk cease to act. Any number of the board of election, or any clerk thereof, may administer and certify oaths required to be administered during the progress of an election. The board of election of each precinct must, before opening the polls, appoint two persons to act as clerks of the election. Before opening the polls, each member of the board and each clerk must take and subscribe an oath to faithfully perform the duties imposed upon them by law. Any elector of the precinct may administer and certify such oath. The polls must be opened at 8 a. m. on the morning of the election, and be kept open until 4 p. m., when the same must be closed. [Amendment approved April 22, 1909. Stats. 1909, p. 1062.]

Ballots. Manner of voting.

§ 22a. The ballot used at the election shall be provided by the board of directors, and one of the clerks of election shall deliver, to each of the electors, one of the ballots so provided. The ballots shall have printed on them the names of all candidates whose names have been filed as provided in this act, with a voting square behind each name. The names shall be arranged in groups, alphabetically, under the designation of the office for which each person named is a candidate. Where more than one person is to be elected for an office of the same title, the words "Vote for (inserting the proper number)" shall be printed under the title of the office. Each elector shall stamp a cross, with a rubber stamp to be provided by the board of directors, in the square behind the name of each candidate he wishes to vote for. [New section approved April 22, 1909. Stats. 1909, p. 1062.]

Nominating petitions.

§ 22b. Not less than ten days before the election, any ten or more electors in the district may file with the board of directors a petition, requesting that certain persons, specified in such petition be placed on the ballot as candidates for the office named in the petition. The names proposed by the various petitions so filed, and no others, shall be printed on the ballots. But there shall be sufficient blank spaces left in which electors may write other names if they so desire. The petitions shall be preserved in the office of the secretary of the district. [New section approved April 22, 1909. Stats. 1909, p. 1063.]

Voting and counting of votes.

§ 23. Voting may commence as soon as the polls are opened, and may be continued during all the time the polls remain opened, and shall be conducted, as nearly as practicable, in accordance with the provisions of the general election laws of this state. As soon as all the votes are counted, a certificate shall be drawn up on each of the papers containing the poll lists and tallies, or attached thereto, stating the number of votes each one voted for has received, and designating the office to fill which he was voted for, which number shall be written in figures and in words at full length. Each certificate shall be signed by the clerk, judge, and the inspector. One of said certificates, with the poll list and the tally paper to which it is attached, shall be retained by the inspector, and preserved by him at least six months. The ballots shall be strung upon a cord or thread by the inspector, during the counting thereof, in the order in which they are entered upon the tally list by the clerks; and said ballots together with the other of said certificates, with the poll list and tally paper to which it is attached, shall be sealed by the inspector in the presence of the judges and clerks, and indorsed "Election returns of (naming the precinct) precinct," and be directed to the secretary of the board of directors, and shall be immediately delivered by the inspector, or by some other safe and responsible carrier designated by said inspector, to said secretary, and the ballots shall be kept unopened for at least six months; and if any person be of the opinion that the vote of any precinct has not been correctly counted, he may appear on the day appointed for the board of directors to open and canvass the returns, and demand a recount of the vote of the precinct that is so claimed to have been incorrectly counted.

Want of form, effect of. Canvass of votes.

§ 24. No list, tally paper, or certificate returned from any election, shall be set aside or rejected for want of form, if it can be satisfactorily understood. The board of directors must meet at its usual place of meeting on the first Monday after each election to canvass the returns. If, at the time of meeting, the returns from each precinct in the district in which the polls were opened have been received, the board of directors must then and there proceed to canvass the returns; but if all the returns have not been received, the canvass must be postponed from day to day until all the returns have been received, or until six postponements have been had. The canvass must be made in public and by opening the returns and estimating the vote of the district for each person voted for, and declaring the result thereof.

Duty of secretary. What records must show. Vacancies, how filled.

§ 25. The secretary of the board of directors must, as soon as the result is declared, enter in the records of such board a statement of such result, which statement must show: (a) The whole number of votes cast in the district, and in each division of the district; (b) the names of the persons voted for; (c) the office to fill which each person was voted for; (d) the number of votes given in each precinct to each of such persons; (e) the number of votes given in each division for the office of director, and the number of votes given in the district for the offices of assessor, collector, and treasurer. The board of directors must declare elected the persons having the highest number of votes given for each office. The secretary must immediately make out and deliver to such person a certificate of election, signed by him, and authenticated with the seal of the board.

In case of a vacancy in the office of assessor, collector, or treasurer, the vacancy shall be filled by appointment of the board of directors; provided, that if said board of directors shall neglect or refuse to make such appointment within a period of forty days, then the board of supervisors of the county wherein the office of said board of directors is situated shall make such appointment. In case of a vacancy in the office of director, the vacancy shall be filled by appointment by the board of supervisors of the county where the office of such board of directors is situated, from the division in which the vacancy occurred. An officer appointed as above provided shall hold his office until the next regular election for said district, and until his successor is elected and qualified.

Qualifications of director.

§ 26. A director shall be a resident and freeholder of the irrigation district and a resident of the division which he is elected to represent. [Amendment of May 19, 1917. In effect July 27, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 761.]

Consolidation of offices.

§ 27. The board of directors may, in its discretion, consolidate any two or more of the offices of assessor, collector, and treasurer. The order of consolidation must be made at least thirty days prior to general election of the district, and shall take effect at the next succeeding election; provided, that the board of directors may, at least thirty days before a general election of the district, where the offices have been consolidated, segregate the same, each office to be filled at such election.

Number of directors.

§ 28. In any district the board of directors thereof must upon a presentation of the petition therefor, by a majority of the holders of title, or evidence of title, of said district, evidenced as above provided, order that on and after the next ensuing general election for the district, there shall be either three or five directors. [Amendment of May 19, 1917. In effect July 27, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 761.]

This section was also amended June 9, 1915, Stats. 1915, p. 1363.

Recall of officers. Petition for removal. Examination by secretary. Supplemental petition. Election. Nominations. Contents of ballot. Successor to officer removed.

§ 28½. The holder of any elective office of any irrigation district may be removed or recalled at any time by the electors; provided, he has held his office at least six months. The provisions of this section are intended to apply to officials now in office, as well as to those hereafter elected. The procedure to effect such removal or recall shall be as follows: A petition demanding the election of a successor to the person sought to be removed shall be filed with the secretary of the board of directors of such district, which petition shall be signed by registered voters equal in number to at least twenty-five per cent of the highest vote cast within such district for candidates for the office, the incumbent of which is sought to be removed, at the last general election in such district at which an incumbent of such office was elected, or, in the case of the removal of the incumbent of an office elected by a subdivision of such district, such petition shall be signed by a like percentage of qualified electors of such subdivision computed upon the total number of votes cast in such subdivision for all candidates for the office, the incumbent of which is sought to be removed, at the last general election in such subdivision at which an incumbent of such office was elected; and said petition shall contain a statement of the grounds on which the removal or recall is sought, which statement is intended solely for the information of the electors. Any insufficiency of form or substance in such statement shall in nowise affect the validity of the election and proceedings held thereunder. The signatures to the petition need not all be appended to one paper. Each signer shall add to his signature his place of residence, giving the precinct, and if within a town having named streets and numbered houses, street and number. Each such separate paper shall have attached thereto an affidavit made by an elector of the district and sworn to before an officer competent to administer oaths, stating that the affiant circulated that particular paper and saw written the signatures appended thereto; and that according to the best information and belief of the affiant, each is the genuine signature of the person whose name purports to be thereunto subscribed and of a qualified elector of the district. Within ten days from the date of filing such petition, the secretary of the board shall examine and from the records of registration ascertain whether or not said petition is signed by the requisite number of qualified electors, and he shall attach to said petition his certificate showing the result of said examination. If by the said certificate the petition is shown to be insufficient, it may be supplemented within ten days from the date of such certificate, by the filing of additional papers, duplicates of the original petition except as to the names signed. The secretary shall, within ten days after such supplementing papers are filed, make like examination of a supplementing petition, and if a certificate shall show that all the names to such petition, including the supplemental papers, are still insufficient, no action shall be taken thereon; but the petition shall remain on file as a public record; and the failure to secure sufficient names shall be without prejudice to the filing later of an entirely new petition to the same effect. If the petition shall be found to be sufficient, the secretary shall submit the same to the board of directors without delay, whereupon the board shall forthwith cause a special election to be held within not less than thirty-five nor more than forty days after the date of the order calling such election, to determine whether the voters will recall such officer; provided, that if a general election is to occur within sixty days, from the date of the order calling for such election, the board may in its discretion postpone the holding of such election to such general election or submit such recall election at any such general election for officers of such district occurring not less than thirty-five days after such order. If a vacancy occur in said office after a recall petition is filed, the election shall nevertheless proceed as in this section provided. One petition is sufficient to propose a removal and election of one or more elective officials. One election is competent for the removal and election of one or more elective officials. Nominations for any office under such recall election shall be made in the manner prescribed by section 22b of this act.

There shall be printed on the recall ballot, as to every officer whose recall is to be voted on thereat, the following question: "Shall (name of person against whom the recall petition is filed) be recalled from the office of (title of the office)?" following which question shall be the words "Yes" and "No" on separate lines, with a blank space at the right of each, in which the voter shall indicate, by stamping a cross (X) his vote for or against such recall. On such ballots, under each such question, there shall also be printed the names of those persons who have been nominated as candidates to succeed the person recalled, in case he shall be removed from office by said recall election; but no vote shall be counted for any candidate for said office unless the voter also voted on said question of the recall of the person sought to be recalled from said office. The name of the person against whom the petition is filed shall not appear on the ballot as a candidate for the office. If a majority of those voting on said question of the recall of any incumbent from office shall vote "No," said incumbent shall continue in said office. If a majority shall vote "Yes," said incumbent shall thereupon be deemed removed from such office, upon the qualification of his successor. The election shall be conducted, canvass of all votes for candidates for said office shall be made and the result declared in like manner as in a regular election within such district. If the vote at any such recall election shall recall the officer, then the candidate who has received the highest number of votes for the office shall be thereby declared elected for the remainder of the term. In case the person who received the highest number of votes shall fail to qualify within ten days after receiving the certificate of election, the office shall be deemed vacant and shall be filled according to law. If the vote at any such recall election shall not recall the officer, no further petition for the recall of such officer shall be filed before the expiration of six months from the date of such first recall election. [New section added January 20, 1912, Stats. 1911, p. 135, extra session.]

TITLE TO PROPERTY.

Title to property vests in district. To be held in trust. Power of board as to.

§ 29. The legal title to all property acquired under the provisions of this act shall immediately and by operation of law vest in such irrigation district, and shall be held by such district, in trust for, and is hereby dedicated and set apart to the uses and purposes set forth in this act. And said board is hereby authorized and empowered to hold, use, acquire, manage, occupy and possess said property, as herein provided. The board of directors may determine by resolution duly entered upon their minutes that any property, real or personal, held by such irrigation district is no longer necessary to be retained for the uses and purposes thereof, and may thereafter sell such property; and a conveyance of any property held by an irrigation district, executed by the president and secretary thereof, in accordance with a resolution of the board of directors of such district, when sold for a valuable consideration, shall convey good title to the property so conveyed. [Amendment approved April 22, 1909. Stats. 1909, p. 1075.]

ISSUANCE OF BONDS.

Estimate of money needed for improvements. Interest on bonds may be included in estimate.

§ 30. For the purpose of constructing or purchasing necessary irrigation canals and works, and acquiring the necessary property and rights therefor, and for the purpose of acquiring waters, water rights, reservoirs, reservoir sites, and other property necessary for the purposes of said district, and otherwise carrying out the provisions of this act, or any other act under which said district is or may be authorized to acquire property or construct works, the board of directors of any such district must, as soon after such district has been organized as may be practicable, and also whenever thereafter the board of directors shall find that the construction fund raised by the last previous bond issue is insufficient, or that the construction fund has been exhausted by expenditures herein authorized therefrom and it is necessary to raise additional money for said purposes, estimate and determine the amount of money necessary to be raised. For the purpose of ascertaining the amount of money necessary to be raised for such purposes, or any of them, said board shall cause such surveys, examinations, drawings and plans to be made as shall furnish the proper basis for said estimate. Said surveys, examinations, drawings and plans, and the estimate based thereon may provide that the works necessary for a completed project shall be constructed progressively during a period of years. In the estimate of the amount of money necessary to be raised by the first issue of bonds in any district, the board of directors may include a sum sufficient to pay the interest on all of such bonds for three years or less. All such surveys, examinations, drawings and plans shall be made under the direction of a competent irrigation engineer and shall be certified by him. [Amendment of May 19, 1919. In effect July 22, 1919. Stats. 1919, 662.]

This section was also amended March 28, 1911, Stats. 1911, p. 512; June 16, 1913, Stats. 1913, p. 996; May 18, 1917, Stats. 1917, p. 761.

Reports submitted to commission. Report of commission.

§ 30a. The board of directors shall then submit a copy of the said estimate and the said engineer's report to the commission authorized by law to approve bonds of irrigation districts for certification as legal investments for savings banks and for the other purposes specified in the act creating said commission. Said commission shall forthwith examine said report and any data in its possession or in the possession of said district and shall make such additional surveys and examinations at the expense of the district as it may deem proper or practicable, and as soon as practicable thereafter shall make to the board of directors of said district a report which shall contain such matters as, in the judgment of the said commission, may be desirable; provided, that it may state generally the conclusions of said commission regarding the supply of water available for the project, the nature of the soil proposed to be irrigated as to its fertility and susceptibility to irrigation, the probable amount of water needed for its irrigation and the probable need of drainage, the cost of works, water rights and other property necessary for a complete and satisfactory project, the proper dates of maturity for the bonds proposed to be issued and whether in its opinion it is advisable to proceed with the proposed bond issue. If the estimate of the amount of said bond issue shall have included any amount for the payment of interest on the bonds of such issue, as provided in section thirty of this act, and such estimate for the payment of interest, or any part thereof, is approved by the commission in said report, it shall be lawful for the board of directors, if the issuance of such bonds is thereafter authorized by vote of the electors of the district, to use for the payment of interest on any bonds of such issue so much of the proceeds of the sale of said bonds as may have been approved for that purpose in said report of the commission. [Amendment of May 16, 1919. In effect July 22, 1919. Stats. 1919, p. 663.]

This was a new section added May 18, 1917, Stats. 1917, p. 762.

Report to board of directors. Order of amount of bonds.

§ 30b. If after such examination and investigation the said commission shall deem it advisable that the said plans be modified or that the amount of the bonds proposed to be issued be changed, or that certain conditions should be prescribed to insure the success of the project, or that in its opinion it is not advisable to proceed with the proposed bond issue, it shall so state in its report to the board of directors. After receiving said report, or if no report is received within ninety days after the submission of said estimate and engineer's report to said commission, said board of directors, if it shall determine and shall declare by resolution that the proposed plan of works or some modified plan recommended by said commission is satisfactory and that the said project or said modified plan is feasible, shall make an order determining the amount of bonds that should be issued in order to raise the money necessary therefor; and provided, further, that if any district shall issue bonds to carry out any plans approved by said irrigation district bond commission as herein provided it shall be unlawful for said district to make any material change in said plans thereafter without the consent of said commission. [Amendment of May 16, 1919. In effect July 22, 1919. Stats. 1919, p. 663.]

This was a new section added May 18, 1917, Stats. 1917, p. 762.

Special election for bond issue.

§ 30c. After the making of the order specified in section thirty b of this act said board of directors may call a special election, at which shall be submitted to the electors of such district possessing the qualifications prescribed by this act, the question whether or not the bonds of said district in the amount determined in said order of said board shall be issued, and said board must call such an election and submit said question upon receipt of a petition signed by a majority of the holders of title or evidence of title to lands within the district, representing, also, a majority in value of said lands, or by at least five hundred petitioners, each petitioner to the number of at least five hundred to be an elector residing within the district or a holder of title or evidence of title to lands therein, provided that said petitioners shall include the holders of title or evidence of title to not less than twenty per cent in value of said lands. In determining the value of any lands within an irrigation district and the holders of title or evidence of title to such lands for the purpose of determining the sufficiency of any petition required by this act after the organization of the district, the assessment roll of the district last equalized at the time of the presentation of such petition shall be conclusive evidence, but if no assessment roll of the district has theretofore been equalized, then the county assessment roll of the county within which any land within the district is situated, which county assessment roll has been last equalized at the time of the presentation of such petition, shall be conclusive evidence of such facts for such land. [Amendment of May 16, 1919. In effect July 22, 1919. Stats. 1919, p. 664.]

This was a new section added May 18, 1917, Stats. 1917, p. 762.

Notice.

§ 30d. Notice of such election must be given by posting notices in three public places in each election precinct in said district for at least twenty days and also by publication of such notice in some newspaper published in the county where the office of the board of directors of such district is required to be kept, once a week for at least three successive weeks. Such notices must specify the time of holding the election, the amount of bonds proposed to be issued; and said election must be held and the result thereof determined and declared in all respects as nearly as practicable in conformity with the provisions of this act governing the election of officers; provided, that no informalities in conducting such an election shall invalidate the same if the election shall have been otherwise fairly conducted. [New section added May 19, 1917. In effect July 27, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 763.]

Questions on ballot. Ballots.

§ 30e. At said election questions as to the issuance of bonds may be submitted separately on the same ballot if estimates of the cost of the respective projects have been made and the irrigation district bond commission has reported thereon and the respective propositions have been stated in the notices of the election. At such election the ballots shall contain a general statement of the proposition or propositions to be voted on, including the amount of bonds proposed to be issued for each purpose, but no informality in such statement shall vitiate the election. Each proposition shall be followed by the words "Yes" and "No," on separate lines, with a small inclosed space after each of said words. The electors shall vote for or against any proposition by stamping a cross (X) in the voting space after the word "Yes" or "No" respectively. On the ballot shall be printed the following under the heading "Instructions to voters": "To vote for a proposition, stamp a cross (X) in the voting space after the word 'Yes' following the proposition. To vote against a proposition, stamp a cross (X) in the voting space after the word 'No' following the proposition." If two-thirds of the votes cast for and against any proposition are for "Yes," the board of directors shall cause bonds in the amount specified in such proposition to be issued; provided, that if said election shall have been called after the presentation of a petition therefor as provided in section thirty c of this act, the board of directors shall cause bonds in the amount specified in any proposition to be issued if a majority of the votes cast for and against said proposition are for "Yes." If the number of votes for any proposition is less than the number required herein to authorize the issuance of the bonds provided for therein, the result of the vote on said proposition shall be entered of record, but said proposition may be again submitted to the electors of the district at a special election upon the presentation to the board of directors of a petition therefor signed as provided in section thirty c of this act. [Amendment of May 16, 1919. In effect July 22, 1919. Stats. 1919, p. 664.]

This was a new section added May 18, 1917, Stats. 1917, p. 763.

Form of bonds. Interest. Life of bonds. May be paid at other periods.

§ 31. Subject to the provisions of this act, the board of directors shall prescribe the form of the bonds issued by the district and of the interest coupons to be attached thereto. An issue of bonds is hereby defined to be all the bonds issued in accordance with a proposal approved by the electors of the district. Each issue of the bonds of a district shall be numbered consecutively as authorized, and the bonds of each issue shall be numbered consecutively. The board of directors shall fix the date of said bonds, or may divide any issue into two or more divisions and fix different dates for the bonds of each respective division. The date of any bond must be subsequent to the election at which its issuance was authorized and prior to its delivery to a purchaser from the district. The date of issue of any bond authorized under this act or heretofore or hereafter issued in pursuance of this act shall be deemed to be the apparent date of the said bond appearing on the face thereof. Each bond shall be signed by the president and secretary of the board of directors of the district, who may be in office at the date of said bond or at any time thereafter prior to the delivery of said bond to the purchaser thereof from the district, and the seal of the district shall be impressed on each bond. The interest coupons shall also bear the signature of the secretary of the board of directors or a facsimile of such signature. The board of directors shall fix the denominations of said bonds, which shall not be less than one hundred dollars nor more than one thousand dollars. Said bonds shall bear interest at a rate to be fixed by the board of directors, but the rate shall not exceed six per centum per annum. The interest shall be payable on the first day of January and the first day of July of each year. The board of directors shall also designate the place or places at which said bonds or any of them and the interest thereon shall be payable. Each issue or each division of any issue of said bonds shall be payable in gold coin of the United States in twenty series as follows, to wit: at the expiration of twenty-one years from the date of any issue or any division of any issue of said bonds, two per centum of the whole amount of such issue or division; at the expiration of twenty-two years from said date, two per centum of the whole amount of such issue or division; at the expiration of twenty-three years from said date; three per centum of the whole amount of such issue or division; at the expiration of twenty-four years from said date, three per centum of the whole amount of such issue or division; at the expiration of twenty-five years from said date, four per centum of the whole amount of such issue or division; at the expiration of twenty-six years from said date, four per centum of the whole amount of such issue or division; at the expiration of twenty-seven years from said date, four per centum of the whole amount of such issue or division; at the expiration of twenty-eight years from said date, four per centum of the whole amount of such issue or division; at the expiration of twenty-nine years from said date, five per centum of the whole amount of such issue or division; at the expiration of thirty years from said date, five per centum of the whole amount of such issue or division; at the expiration of thirty-one years from said date, five per centum of the whole amount of such issue or division; at the expiration of thirty-two years from said date, five per centum of the whole amount of such issue or division; at the expiration of thirty-three years from said date, six per centum of the whole amount of such issue or division; at the expiration of thirty-four years from said date, six per centum of the whole amount of such issue or division; at the expiration of thirty-five years from said date, six per centum of the whole amount of such issue or division; at the expiration of thirty-six years from said date, six per centum of the whole amount of such issue or division; at the expiration of thirty-seven years from said date, seven per centum of the whole amount of such issue or division; at the expiration of thirty-eight years from said date, seven per centum of the whole amount of such issue or division; at the expiration of thirty-nine years from said date, eight per centum of the whole amount of such issue or division; at the expiration of forty years from said date, eight per centum of the whole amount of such issue or division; provided, that if any bonds are not dated on the first day of January or the first day of July, they shall nevertheless be made payable on the first day of January or the first day of July next preceding the date on which they would become payable according to the foregoing schedule. Bonds of any issue may be made payable at the ends of other periods than are specified herein and the number of series may be more or less than twenty if the number of series and the length of the respective periods at the ends of which the respective amounts of bonds shall be made payable have been specified in the notice of the election at which the issuance of such bonds was authorized, or on the recommendation of the irrigation district bond commission, but in any event the bonds shall all be made payable on the first day of January or the first day of July next preceding the ends of the respective periods specified, unless said bonds are dated on the first day of January or the first day of July, and in no case shall the maturity of any bond be more than forty years from the date hereof, nor shall more than eight per centum of the total amount of any issue or division be made payable in any one year if the number of series is made more than twenty. Each bond shall be made payable at a given time for its full face value and not for a percentage thereof. [Amendment of May 16, 1919. In effect July 22, 1919. Stats. 1919, p. 665.]

This section was also amended January 25, 1912, Stats. 1911 (ex. sess.), p. 248; June 16, 1913, Stats. 1913, p. 998.

Sale of bonds. Notice by publication.

§ 32. The board may sell said bonds from time to time in such quantities as may be necessary and most advantageous to raise money for the construction of said canals and works, the acquisition of said property and rights, or the acquisition of any water or water rights, and otherwise to fully carry out the objects and purposes of this act. Before making any sale the board shall, at a meeting, by resolution, declare its intention to sell a specified amount of the bonds, and the day and hour and place of such sale, and shall cause such resolution to be entered in the minutes, and notice of the sale to be given, by publication thereof at least three weeks in some newspaper published in the county where the office of the board of directors is located and in any other newspaper at its discretion. The notice shall state that sealed proposals will be received by the board at their office, for the purchase of bonds, till the day and hour named in the resolution. At the time appointed the board shall open the proposals and award the purchase of the bonds or any portion or portions thereof to the highest responsible bidder or bidders; provided, however, that they may reject any or all bids. [Amendment of June 16, 1913. Stats. 1913, p. 1000.]

This section was also amended March 28, 1911, Stats. 1911, p. 513.

Election on sale of bonds for less than par.

§ 32½. If any irrigation district bonds have been authorized before the time when this section shall go into effect but have not been sold and the board of directors of said district deems it desirable that said board be authorized to sell said bonds for less than the par value thereof, said board may call a special election to submit to the voters of the district said proposition. Such election shall be held and notice thereof shall be given in the same manner as is provided in the case of special elections to authorize the issuance of bonds in irrigation districts. The proposition shall be stated in substantially the following form: "Shall the board of directors of.....(insert the name) irrigation district be authorized to sell bonds of the district for less than the par value thereof?" followed by the words "Yes" and "No," as provided in section 30 hereof. If at least two-thirds of the legal votes cast at such election are for "Yes," then the board of directors may sell any bonds authorized by said district before this section shall take effect to the highest responsible bidder or bidders, as is provided in the foregoing section. If less than two-thirds of the legal votes cast at such election shall be for "Yes" the result shall be entered of record. [New section approved June 16, 1913. Stats. 1913, p. 1000.]

Paid by annual assessment.

§ 33. Said bonds and the interest thereon shall be paid from revenue derived from an annual assessment upon the land within the district; and all the land within the district shall be and remain liable to be assessed for such payments as hereinafter provided. [Amendment of May 19, 1917. In effect July 27, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 764.]

ASSESSMENT FOR COMPLETION OF WORK.

Assessments to complete works. Notice of election. Ballots.

§ 34. In case the money raised by the sale of bonds issued be insufficient, or in case the bonds be unavailable for the completion of the plan of canal and works adopted, and the acquisition of the necessary property, waters and water rights therefor, and additional bonds be not voted, it shall be the duty of the board of directors to provide for the completion of said plan, and the acquisition of such necessary property, waters and water rights, by levy of assessments therefor; provided, however, that such levy of assessments shall not be made except first an estimate of the amount required for such purposes has been made by said board, and the question as to the making of said levy submitted to a vote of the electors of the district. Before such question is submitted the order of submission shall be entered in the minutes of the board, stating the amount to be levied and the purpose therefor, and if submitted at a special election said order shall, in addition, fix the day of election. Notice of such election must be given by posting notices in three public places in each election precinct in said district for at least twenty days, and also by publication of such notice in some newspaper published in the county where the office of the board of directors of such district is required to be kept once a week for at least three successive weeks. Such notices must specify the time of holding the election, and the amount of assessment proposed to be levied. Said election must be held and the result thereof determined and declared in all respects as nearly as practicable in conformity with the provisions of this act governing the election of officers; provided, that no informalities in conducting such an election shall invalidate the same, if the election shall have been otherwise fairly conducted. At such election the ballots shall contain the words "Assessment—Yes," or "Assessment—No," or words equivalent thereto. If a majority of the votes cast are "Assessment—Yes," the board of directors shall cause an assessment in the amount named in the order of submission to be levied; if a majority of the votes cast are "Assessment—No," the result of such election shall be so declared and entered of record. [Amendment approved March 28, 1911. Stats. 1911, p. 514.]

Duty of Assessor.

§ 35. The assessor must, between the first Monday in March and the first Monday in June, in each year, assess all real estate in the district, to the persons who own, claim or have possession or control thereof, at its full cash value, as follows: He must prepare an assessment book, with appropriate headings, in which must be listed all such property within the district, in which must be specified, in separate columns, under the appropriate head: (1) the name of the person to whom the property is assessed, if the name is not known to the assessor, the property shall be assessed to "unknown owners"; (2) land by township, range, section or fractional section, and when such land is not congressional division or subdivision, by metes and bounds, or other description sufficient to identify it, giving an estimate of the number of acres and locality; (3) city and town lots, naming the city or town, and the number and block, according to the system of numbering in such city or town; (4) the cash value of real estate, other than city or town lots; (5) the cash value of city and town lots; (6) the total value of all property assessed; (7) the total value of all property after equalization by the board of directors; (8) such other things as the board of directors may require. Improvements on any lands or town lots within such districts shall be exempt from taxation for any of the purposes mentioned in this act. Any property which may have escaped the payment of any assessment for any year, shall, in addition to the assessment for the then current year, be assessed for such year with the same effect and with the same penalties as are provided for in such current year. The term improvements as used in this section includes trees, vines, alfalfa and all growing crops and all buildings and structures of whatever class or description erected or being erected upon said lands or city or town lots. [Amendment of May 19, 1917. In effect July 27, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 764.]

This section was also amended March 18, 1909, Stats. 1909, p. 461.

Deputies. Compensation.

§ 36. The board of directors must allow the assessor as many deputies, to be appointed by him, as will, in the judgment of the board, enable him to complete the assessment within the time herein prescribed. The board must fix the compensation of such deputies, which shall be paid out of the treasury of the district. The compensation must not exceed five dollars per day for each deputy, for the time actually engaged, nor must any allowance be made but for work done between the first Monday in March and the first Monday in August in each year.

Time for completion of assessment book. Time for equalizing assessments.

§ 37. On or before the first Monday in August in each year, the assessor must complete his assessment book, and deliver it to the secretary of the board, who must immediately give notice thereof, and of the time the board of directors, acting as a board of equalization, will meet to equalize assessments, by publication in a newspaper published in each of the counties comprising the district. The time fixed for the meeting shall not be less than twenty nor more than thirty days from the first publication of the notice: and in the meantime the assessment book must remain in the office of the secretary for the inspection of all persons interested.

EQUALIZATION OF ASSESSMENT.

Hearing as to and equalization of values. Duty of secretary.

§ 38. Upon the day specified in the notice required by the preceding section for the meeting, the board of directors, which is hereby constituted a board of equalization for that purpose, shall meet and continue in session from time to time, as long as may be necessary, not to exceed ten days, exclusive of Sundays, to hear and determine such objections to the valuation and assessment as may come before them; and the board may change the valuation as may be just. The secretary of the board shall be present during its sessions, and note all changes made in the valuation of property, and in the names of the persons whose property is assessed; and within ten days after the close of the session he shall have the total values, as finally equalized by the board, extended into columns and added.

LEVY AND COLLECTION OF TAX.

Assessment for interest on bonds of irrigation district. Rentals, etc. Contracts for power or fuel. Unpaid warrants.

§ 39. The board of directors shall then, within fifteen days after the close of its session as a board of equalization, levy an assessment upon the lands within the district in an amount sufficient to raise the interest due or that will become due on all outstanding bonds of the district on the first day of the next ensuing January and the first day of the next ensuing July, or that the board of directors believes will become due on either or both of said dates, on bonds authorized but not sold; also sufficient to pay the principal of all bonds of the district that have matured or that will mature before the close of the next ensuing calendar year; also sufficient to pay in full all sums due or that will become due from the district before the time for levying the next annual assessment, on account of rentals, or charges for lands, water or water rights acquired by said district under lease or contract; also sufficient to pay in full all sums due or that will become due from the district, before the time for levying the next annual assessment, on account of contracts entered into by the district for power or fuel used or to be used for the pumping of water for the irrigation of land within the district; provided, the payment of the cost of such power or fuel has not been provided for by the levying of tolls or charges for the use of water or otherwise, also sufficient to pay in full the amount of all unpaid warrants of the district issued in accordance with this act and the amount of any other contracts or obligation of the district which shall have been reduced to judgment; also sufficient to raise such amount not exceeding two per centum of the aggregate value of the lands within the district according to the latest duly equalized assessment roll thereof, as the board of directors shall determine may be needed to be raised by assessment for any of the purposes of this act. [Amendment of May 11, 1919. In effect July 22, 1919. Stats. 1919, p. 472.]

This section was also amended February 22, 1909, Stats. 1909, p. 46; March 28, 1911, Stats. 1911, p. 514; April 22, 1913, Stats. 1913, p. 59; May 18, 1917, Stats. 1917, p. 765.

Duty of secretary.

§ 39a. The secretary of the board must compute and enter in a separate column of the assessment book the respective sums in dollars and cents to be paid as an assessment on the property therein enumerated. When collected, the assessment shall be paid into the district treasury and be apportioned to the several proper funds. [New section added May 19, 1917, In effect July 27, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 765.]

Neglect to make assessment. Neglect of collector.

§ 39b. If as the result of the neglect or refusal of the board of directors to cause such assessment and levies to be made as in this act provided, then the duly equalized assessment made by the county assessor of the county or each of the respective counties in which the district is situated shall be the basis of assessment for the district, and the board of supervisors of the county in which the office of the board of directors of said district is situated shall cause an assessment roll of said district to be prepared, and shall make the levy required by this act, in the same manner and with like effect as if the same had been made by said board of directors and all expenses incident thereto shall be borne by such district and may be collected by suit at law, which shall be commenced by the district attorney of the county whose board of supervisors caused said assessment roll to be prepared, unless the amount of such expenses shall be paid within sixty days from the time when proper demand shall have been made therefor. In case of the neglect or refusal of the collector or treasurer of any irrigation district to perform the duties imposed by law, then the tax collector and the treasurer of the county in which the office of the board of directors of such district is situated must respectively perform such duties and shall be accountable therefor upon their official bonds; but, in case any county tax collector shall collect any assessment for any irrigation district, he shall pay the same to the county treasurer, who shall place such money in special fund to the credit of the district and shall disburse the same to the proper persons for the purposes for which such assessments have been levied and shall not pay any part thereof to the treasurer of said district until said county treasurer shall be satisfied that all of the valid obligations for which such assessments were levied and for which payment has been demanded have been paid. [New section added May 19, 1917. In effect July 27, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 765.]

Duty of district attorney.

§ 39c. It shall be the duty of the district attorney of each county in which the office of any irrigation district is located to ascertain each year whether the duties relating to the levying and collection of assessments, as in this act provided, have been performed, and if he shall learn that the board of directors or any official of any such irrigation district has neglected or refused to perform any such duty, said district attorney shall so notify the board of supervisors or the county official required by this act to perform such duty in such case, and, unless such board of supervisors or such county official shall proceed to the performance of such duty within thirty days after the receipt of such notice the district attorney shall take such action in court as may be necessary to compel the performance of such duty, and said district attorney shall give such notice to other officials, and shall take such action, as may be necessary to secure the performance in their proper sequence of the other duties relating to the levying and collection of assessments, as in this act provided, that for the enforcement of the levying and collection of any assessment hereafter required to be levied and collected for the payment of any debt hereafter incurred, in case complaint shall be made to the attorney general of the state of California that the district attorney of any county has not performed any duty devolving upon him by the provisions of this section, or that he is not proceeding with due diligence or in the proper manner in the performance of any such duty, the attorney general shall make an investigation, and if it shall be found that such charge or charges are true, said attorney general shall take such measures as may be necessary to enforce the performance of the duties relating to the levying and collection of assessments, as in this act provided. [New section added May 19, 1917. In effect July 27, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 766.]

Extension of time.

§ 39d. If as the result of the neglect or refusal of any official or officials to perform any duty relating to the levying and collection of assessments, as in this act provided, it shall be impossible for such duty to be performed within the time required and such duty shall subsequently be performed, then the time within which all duties consequent upon the performance of such duty shall be performed shall be extended so as to allow the elapsing of the intervals required by this act to elapse between the performance of such duties, and the assessments herein provided for shall not become delinquent for at least thirty days after the first publication of the notice that such assessments are due and payable, as provided in section forty-one of this act. [New section added May 19, 1917. In effect July 27, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 767.]

Assessment of land omitted.

§ 39e. In the event any land within said district subject to assessment for the purposes of the district has not been assessed by the county assessor or does not appear upon the county assessment-roll adopted by said board of supervisors as the basis of assessment for the district, the land so omitted belonging to any person, association, corporation, or municipality shall be forthwith assessed by the county assessor upon an order of the board of supervisors and a description of the property so omitted shall be written in the roll prepared for the purpose of district assessments. In such case, before any assessment is levied, the board of supervisors must meet and equalize said assessment with that of the assessment of other lands in said district. The same notice shall be given by the board of supervisors of such meeting for the purpose of equalizing the assessment to be made as herein directed as is provided in this act to be given by the board of directors of an irrigation district when the said board is to meet for the purpose of equalizing assessments. All the powers and duties respecting the collection of all assessment on possession of, claim to, or right to the possession of land now provided in sections three thousand eight hundred twenty, three thousand eight hundred twenty-one, three thousand eight hundred twenty-two, three thousand eight hundred twenty-three, three thousand eight hundred twenty-four, three thousand eight hundred twenty-five and three thousand eight hundred twenty-nine of the Political Code, as regards county assessors shall apply, so far as applicable to irrigation district assessors. [New section added May 19, 1917. In effect July 27, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 767.]

Unpaid tolls part of assessment.

§ 39f. Whenever any tolls and charges for the use of water have been fixed by the board of directors, it shall be lawful to make the same payable in advance, and in case any such tolls or charges remain unpaid at the time hereinbefore specified for levying the annual assessment the amount due for such tolls and charges may be added to and become a part of the assessment levied upon the land upon which the water for which such tolls or charges are unpaid was used. [New section added May 19, 1917. In effect July 27, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 768.]

Assessment a lien when.

§ 40. The assessment upon land is a lien against the property assessed from and after the first Monday in March for any year. [Amendment of May 19, 1917. In effect July 27, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 768.]

Notice that assessments are due. When delinquent.

§ 41. On or before the first day of November, the secretary must deliver the assessment book to the collector of the district, who shall within twenty days publish a notice in a newspaper published in each county in which any portion of the district may lie, that said assessments are due and payable and will become delinquent at 6 o'clock p. m. on the last Monday of December next thereafter, and that unless paid prior thereto ten per cent will be added to the amount thereof, and also the time and place at which payment of assessments may be made, which notice shall be published for the period of two weeks. The collector must attend at the time and place specified in the notice to receive assessments, which must be paid in gold and silver coin; he must mark the date of payment of any assessment in the assessment book opposite the name of the person paying and giving a receipt to such person, specifying the amount of the assessment and the amount paid, with the description of the property assessed. On the last Monday in December at six o'clock p. m. of each year, all unpaid assessments are delinquent and thereafter the collector must collect thereon, for the use of the district, an addition of ten per cent. [Amendment approved June 16, 1913. Stats. 1913, p. 1002.]

Suit against delinquent to collect assessment.

§ 41a. The board of directors may at any time after any assessment has become delinquent direct the collector not to proceed with the sale of any property on the delinquent list, but to bring suit against the delinquent in the proper court in the name of the district to enforce such collection. The provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure relating to pleadings, proofs, trials and pleas are hereby made applicable to the proceedings herein provided for, and in such suit the district may recover the amount of said assessments together with the penalties and interests, provided in this act, and costs of suit. [New section added June 9, 1915. In effect August 8, 1915. Stats. 1915, p. 1368.]

PUBLICATION OF DELINQUENT NOTICE.

Duty of collector. Day of sale.

§ 42. On or before the first day of February, the collector must publish the delinquent list, which must contain the names of the persons and a description of the property delinquent, and the amount of the assessments and costs due opposite each name and description. He must append to and publish with the delinquent list a notice, that unless the assessments delinquent, together with costs and percentage, are paid, the real property upon which such assessments are a lien will be sold at public auction. The publication must be made once a week for three successive weeks, in a newspaper published in the county in which the property delinquent is situated; provided, that if any property assessed to the same person or corporation shall lie in more than one county, then such publication may be made in any county in which any portion of such property may lie. The publication must designate the time and place of sale. The time of sale must not be less than twenty-one or more than twenty-eight days from the first publication, and the place must be at some point designated by the collector, within the district; provided, however, that if there should occur any error in the publication of the sale of the delinquent property, which might invalidate a sale made thereunder, and such error is discovered prior to sale thereunder the collector shall at once republish the sale of the property affected by such error, making such republication conform to the provisions of this law, and the time of sale designated in such republication must not be less than twenty-one nor more than twenty-eight days from the first republication; and the place of sale must be at some point designated by the collector within the district, and stated in such republication.

SALE FOR DELINQUENT TAXES.

Sale for delinquent taxes. Sale of property for delinquent assessment.

§ 43. The collector must collect, in addition to the assessments due on the delinquent list, and ten per cent added, fifty cents on each lot, piece or tract of land separately assessed. On the day fixed for the sale, or some subsequent day to which he may have postponed it, of which he must give notice, the collector, between the hours of ten a. m. and three o'clock p. m., must commence the sale of the property advertised, commencing at the head of the list and continuing alphabetically, or in the numerical order of the lots or blocks, until completed. He may postpone the day of commencing the sales, or the sale, from day to day, but the sale must be completed within three weeks from the day first fixed; provided, that if any sale or sales shall be stayed by legal proceedings, the time of the continuance of such proceedings is not part of the time limited for making such sale or sales; and provided, further, that in any district where the validity of any assessment shall be in litigation at the time this act shall take effect, the sale of any property, whether it be involved in such litigation or not, may be postponed for a time not to exceed four months. [Amendment approved June 16, 1913. Stats. 1913, p. 1003.]

Rights of owner of realty. Resale in default of payment. District may purchase.

§ 44. The owner or person in possession of any real estate offered for sale for assessments due thereon may designate, in writing, to the collector, prior to the sale, what portion of the property he wishes sold, if less than the whole; but if the owner or possessor does not, then the collector may designate it and the person who will take the least quantity of the land, or in case an undivided interest is assessed, then the smallest portion of the interest, and pay the assessments and costs due, including two dollars for the duplicate certificate of sale, is the purchaser. If the purchaser does not pay the assessments and costs before 10 o'clock a. m. the following day, the property on the next sale day must be resold for the assessments and costs. But in case there is no purchaser in good faith for the same on the first day that the property is offered for sale, then, when the property is offered thereafter for sale, and there is no purchaser in good faith for the same, the whole amount of the property assessed shall be struck off to the irrigation district within which such lands as situated as the purchaser, and the duplicate certificate delivered to the treasurer of the district, and filed by him in his office. No charge shall be made for the duplicate certificate where the district is the purchaser, and, in such case, the collector shall make an entry, "Sold to the district," and he shall be credited with the amount thereof in his settlement. An irrigation district as a purchaser at such sale, shall be entitled to the same rights as a private purchaser, and the title so acquired by the district, subject to the right of redemption hereinbefore provided, may be conveyed by deed, executed and acknowledged by the president and secretary of said board; provided, that authority to so convey must be conferred by resolution of the board entered on its minutes, fixing the price at which such sale may be made, and such conveyance shall not be made for a less sum than the reasonable market value of such property.

Certificate of sale.

§ 45. After receiving the amount of assessments and costs, the collector must make out in duplicate a certificate, dated on the day of sale, stating (when known) the name of the person assessed, a description of the land sold, the amount paid therefor, that it was sold for assessments, giving the amount and year of the assessment, and specifying the time when the purchaser will be entitled to a deed. The certificate must be signed by the collector, and one copy delivered to the purchaser, and the other filed in the office of the county recorder of the county in which the land is situated.

Record book of property sold for assessment.

§ 46. The collector, before delivering any certificate, must in a book enter a description of the land sold, corresponding with the description in the certificate, the date of the sale, purchasers' names, and amount paid, regularly number the description on the margin of the book, and put a corresponding number on each certificate. Such book must be open to public inspection, without fee, during office hours, when not in actual use. On filing the certificate with such county recorder the lien of the assessments vests with the purchaser, and is only divested by the payment to him, or to the collector for his use, of the purchase money, and two per cent per month from the day of sale until redemption.

REDEMPTION OF PROPERTY SOLD FOR DELINQUENT TAXES.

Redemption of property sold for delinquent taxes. Duty of county recorder. Deed to purchaser. Fee for deed.

§ 47. A redemption of the property sold may be made by the owner, or any party in interest, within five years from the date of purchase, or at any time thereafter before a deed has been made and delivered. Redemption must be made in gold or silver coin, as provided for the collection of state and county taxes, and when made to the collector he must credit the amount paid to the person named in the certificate, and pay it, on demand, to the person or his assignees. In each report the collector makes to the board of directors, he must name the person entitled to redemption money, and the amount due each. On receiving the certificate of sale, the county recorder must file it and make an entry in a book similar to that required of the collector. On the presentation of the receipt of the person named in the certificate, or of the collector for his use, of the total amount of the redemption money, the recorder must mark the word "redeemed," the date, and by whom redeemed, on the certificate and on the margin of the book where the entry of the certificate is made. If the property is not redeemed within the time herein provided, the collector, or his successor in office, upon demand, must make to the purchaser, or his assignee, a deed of the property, reciting in the deed substantially the matters contained in the certificate, and that no person redeemed the property during the time allowed by law for its redemption; provided, that where property has been sold to the district it may be redeemed as herein provided, at any time before the district has disposed of the same. The collector shall receive from the purchaser, for the use of the district, two dollars for making such deed. [Amendment approved March 19, 1909. Stats. 1909, p. 429. In effect immediately.]

Delinquent taxes not bar to dissolution. Deed of land sold for taxes to be made by county treasurer.

§ 47½. The five year period herein prescribed for the redemption of properties sold for delinquent taxes shall not operate as a bar to the dissolution of any irrigation district. If any land has been sold for delinquent taxes of a district in process of dissolution, or in a district which has been dissolved and the time allowed for redemption has not expired, the owner of such property or any one in interest may redeem the same by paying the amount due thereon, computed as provided in section 46 of this act, to the county treasurer, who must issue his receipt therefor, and upon the presentation of such receipt the county recorder must cancel the certificate of sale in the manner required in the preceding section. -

In the event any land has been sold for nonpayment of taxes as herein provided, and no redemption has been made within five years from the date of purchase in any district which may have been dissolved before the expiration of said redemption period, then a deed for the property sold and described in the certificate of sale must be made to the purchaser upon demand by the county treasurer of the county in which said irrigation district is or was situated. Such deed shall contain all the recitals of the certificate of sale, and in addition thereto, a recital that the district has been dissolved and a deed executed in pursuance of the authority given by this section. A deed so executed shall have the same force and effect as if executed by the collector of an irrigation district. [New section approved March 28, 1911. Stats. 1911, p. 516.]

Tax deed prima facie evidence of what. Conclusive evidence of what. Effect of deed.

§ 48. The matter recited in the certificate of sale must be recited in the deed, and such deed duly acknowledged or proved is prima facie evidence that: (a) The property was assessed as required by law; (b) the property was equalized as required by law; (c) that the assessments were levied in accordance with law; (d) the assessments were not paid; (e) at a proper time and place the property was sold as prescribed by law, and by the proper officer; (f) the property was not redeemed; (g) the person who executed the deed was the proper officer.

Such deed duly acknowledged or proved is (except as against actual fraud) conclusive evidence of the regularity of all the proceedings from the assessment by the assessor, inclusive, up to the execution of the deed. The deed conveys to the grantee the absolute title to the lands described therein free of all incumbrances, except when the land is owned by the United States, or this state, in which case it is prima facie evidence of the right of possession.

Assessment book or delinquent list is prima facie evidence of what.

§ 49. The assessment-book or delinquent list, or a copy thereof, certified by the collector, showing unpaid assessments against any person, or property, is prima facie evidence of the assessment, the property assessed, the delinquency, the amount of assessments due and unpaid, and that all the forms of the law in relation to the assessment and levy of such assessments have been complied with.

Misnomer does not invalidate.

§ 50. When land is sold for assessments correctly imposed, as the property of a particular person, no misnomer of the owner, or supposed owner, or other mistake relating to the ownership thereof affects the sale, or renders it void, or voidable.

Settlements between secretary and collector.

§ 51. On the first Monday in each month, the collector must settle with the secretary of the board for all moneys collected for assessments, and pay the same over to the treasurer; and within six days thereafter he must deliver to and file in the office of the secretary a statement under oath, showing (a) An account of all his transactions and receipts since his last settlement; (b) that all money collected by him as collector has been paid. The collector shall also file in the office of the secretary, on said first Monday in each month, the receipt of the treasurer for the money so paid.

Redemption of bonds. Proposals for redemption of bonds. Investment in U. S. or State bonds.

§ 52. Upon presentation of any matured bond or any matured interest coupon of any bond of the district, the treasurer shall pay the same from the bond fund. If funds are not available for the payment of any such matured bond or interest coupon, it shall draw interest at the rate of seven per cent per annum from the date of its presentation for payment until notice is given that funds are available for its payment, and it shall be stamped and provision made for its payment as in the case of a warrant for the payment of which funds are not available on its presentation. Whenever the bond fund contains ten thousand dollars in excess of the amount necessary to pay all bonds and interest coupons of the district that have matured or that will mature before the time when any part of the next annual assessment to be levied in the district will become delinquent, the board of directors may advertise, in the manner hereinbefore provided for the sale of bonds, for the receipt of sealed proposals for the delivery to the district for redemption of any of its bonds not due. Said advertisement shall state the amount which may be used for the redemption of such bonds. Any such proposals shall be opened by the board in open meeting at the time named in said advertisement, and the offer or offers of such bonds at the lowest rate or rates shall be accepted, provided that no bonds shall be redeemed at more than the par value thereof except by unanimous vote of the directors. In case two or more proposals are equal and there is not sufficient money available to accept them all, the lowest numbered bonds shall have the preference. In case not enough bonds are offered for redemption at prices which the board of directors accepts, the board may invest any money available for redemption of bonds in bonds of the United States or of the state of California and shall hold the bonds so purchased as part of the bond fund until such time as the board may determine that it is for the best interests of the district that such bonds or any of them be sold. In case of the sale of any such bonds, the proceeds of the sale shall be deposited in the bond fund. [Amendment of May 16, 1919. In effect July 22, 1919. Stats. 1919, p. 667.]

CONSTRUCTION OF WORKS.

Construction of works. Contracts for emergency works. Bond of contractor.

§ 53. After adopting a plan for such canal or canals, storage reservoirs, and works, as in this act provided for, the board of directors shall give notice, by publication thereof not less than twenty days in one newspaper published in each of the counties composing the district (provided a newspaper is published therein), and in such other newspapers as they may deem advisable, calling for bids for the construction of such work, or of any portion thereof; if less than the whole work is advertised, then the portion so advertised must be particularly described in such notice. Said notice shall set forth that plans and specifications can be seen at the office of the board, and that the board will receive sealed proposals therefor, and that the contract will be let to the lowest responsible bidder, stating the time and place for opening said proposals, which, at the time and place appointed, shall be opened in public; and as convenient thereafter the board shall let said work, either in portions or as a whole, to the lowest responsible bidder; or they may reject any or all bids and readvertise for proposals or may proceed to construct the work under their own superintendence; provided, that in case of emergency or urgent necessity for the construction, extension or repair of works for irrigation or drainage, the board of directors, by unanimous vote of those present at any regular or special meeting, may award contracts therefor without advertising for bids, but the cost of such work shall not exceed five hundred dollars and such additional amount as shall be equal to five cents for each acre of land in the district. Contracts for the purchase of material shall be awarded to the lowest responsible bidder. Any person or persons to whom a contract may be awarded shall enter into a bond, with good and sufficient sureties, to be approved by the board, payable to said district for its use, for twenty-five per cent of the amount of the contract price, conditioned for the faithful performance of said contract. The work shall be done under the direction and to the satisfaction of the engineer, and be approved by the board. [Amendment of May 16, 1919. In effect July 22, 1919. Stats. 1919, p. 668.]

Investigation by state engineer.

§ 53a. During the construction of any irrigation works to be paid for out of the proceeds of any bond issue which has been certified by the state irrigation district bond commission as provided in the act creating said commission, the state engineer shall have access to all plans, specifications, and records of such construction, and shall from time to time make such investigations and such reports to the board of directors of the district as he shall deem to be in the interest of the public or of the district. [New section added May 19, 1917. In effect July 27, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 768.]

Payment of claim. Duty of county treasurer. Duty of city treasurer.

§ 54. No claim shall be paid by the treasurer until allowed by the board, and only upon a warrant signed by the president, and countersigned by the secretary; provided, that the board may draw, from time to time, from the construction fund, and deposit in the county treasury of the county where the office of the board is situated any sum in excess of the sum of twenty-five thousand dollars. The county treasurer of said county is hereby authorized and required to receive and receipt for the same and place the same to the credit of said district, and he shall be responsible upon his official bond for the safekeeping and disbursement of the same, as in this act provided. He shall pay out the same, or any portion thereof, to the treasurer of the district only, and only upon the order of the board, signed by the president, and attested by the secretary. The said county treasurer shall report, in writing, on the second Monday in each month, the amount of money in the county treasury, the amount of receipts for the month preceding, and the amount or amounts paid out; said report shall be verified and filed with the secretary of the board. The district treasurer shall also report to the board, in writing, on the first Monday in each month, the amount of money in the district treasury, the amount of receipts for the month preceding, and the amount and items of expenditures, and said report shall be verified and filed with the secretary of the board.

Reports to be forwarded to state engineer.

§ 54½. During the construction of any work to be paid for out of the proceeds of the sale of any bonds of any irrigation district within this state, the secretary of the board of directors shall, within one week after each regular meeting of said board, forward to the state engineer copies of all reports made to said board as to the progress of said work and a statement of the amounts paid for the doing of any part of said work. Immediately after the publication of the statement of the financial condition of any irrigation district within this state, required by section 14 of this act to be made annually, the board of directors of said district shall cause a copy of said statement and a report stating the general condition of any works constructed or acquired by said district and whether or not the plan of irrigation adopted by the district is being successfully carried out and any other matters which the board may deem proper, to be forwarded to the state engineer, who shall examine said statement and report and make to said board such recommendations and comments as he may deem proper. The state engineer may at any time make or cause to be made an examination of the affairs of any irrigation district within this state or call upon the authorities of such district for such information as he may desire and make such report thereon as he may deem advisable. [New section approved June 16, 1913. Stats. 1913, p. 1000.]

Improvements to be paid for from construction fund. Toll may be fixed instead of assessments.

§ 55. The cost and expense of purchasing and acquiring property and constructing the works and improvements herein provided for, shall be wholly paid out of the construction fund; provided, however, that when any lands, waters, water rights or other property shall be acquired by the district by any lease or contract, under the terms of which the consideration or rental shall be payable in such installments that a like amount shall be payable in each year of the life of such lease or contract, then such rental or consideration shall be paid out of the funds derived from the levying of annual assessments, or from the collection of rates, tolls and charges fixed and collected as hereinafter provided for. For the purpose of defraying the expenses of the organization of the district, and of the care, operation, management, repair, and improvement of such portions of such canal and works as are completed and in use, including salaries of officers and employees, and installments of rental or consideration accruing under any lease or contract as hereinabove in this section mentioned, the board may in lieu (either in part or in whole) of levying assessments as herein provided for, fix rates of toll and charges, for irrigation and other public uses declared by this act, and collect the same from all persons using said canal for irrigation and other purposes. [Amendment approved March 28, 1911. Stats. 1911, p. 516.]

Right of way.

§ 56. The board of directors shall have power to construct the said works across any stream of water, watercourse, street, avenue, highway, railway, canal, ditch, or flume which the route of said canal or canals may intersect or cross, in such manner as to afford security for life and property; but said board shall restore the same, when so crossed or intersected, to its former state as near as may be, or in a sufficient manner not to have impaired unnecessarily its usefulness; and every company whose railroad shall be intersected or crossed by said works shall unite with said board in forming said intersections and crossings, and grant the privileges aforesaid; and if such railroad company and said board, or the owners and controllers of the said property, thing, or franchise so to be crossed, can not agree upon the amount to be paid therefor, or the points or the matter of said crossings or intersections, the same shall be ascertained and determined in all respects as is herein provided in respect to the taking of land. The right of way is hereby given, dedicated, and set apart to locate, construct, and maintain said works over and through any of the lands which are now or may be the property of this state; and also there is given, dedicated, and set apart, for the uses and purposes aforesaid, all waters and water rights belonging to this state within the district.

GOVERNING DIRECTORS.

Compensation of directors.

§ 57. The directors when sitting as a board or acting under the orders of the board, shall each receive not to exceed four dollars per day and ten cents per mile for each mile actually traveled from his place of residence to the office of the board, and actual and necessary expenses paid while engaged in official business under the order of the board; provided, that in irrigation districts containing five hundred thousand acres or more the directors, in lieu of said per diem, shall each receive a salary of one hundred and fifty dollars per month. The board shall fix the compensation to be paid to all officers named in this act, to be paid out of the treasury of the district; provided, that said board shall, upon the petition of at least fifty freeholders within such district therefor, submit to the electors at any general election a schedule of salaries and fees to be paid hereunder, which may include the salary or per diem to be paid to the directors. Such petition must be presented to the board not less than twenty days nor more than forty days prior to a general election, and the result of such election shall be determined and declared in all respects as other elections are determined and declared under this act. [Amendment of June 9, 1915. In effect August 8, 1915. Stats. 1915, p. 1368.]

This section was also amended April 22, 1909, Stats. 1909, p. 1062.

Directors not to be interested in contracts.

§ 58. No director or any other officer named in this act shall in any manner be interested, directly or indirectly, in any contract awarded or to be awarded by the board, or in the profits to be derived therefrom; and for any violation of this provision, such officer shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and such conviction shall work a forfeiture of his office, and he shall be punished by a fine not exceeding five hundred dollars, or by imprisonment in the county jail not exceeding six months, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

SPECIAL ASSESSMENTS.

Directors may call election on question of special assessment. Levy of assessment.

§ 59. The board of directors may at any time call a special election and submit to the qualified electors of the district the question whether a special assessment shall be levied for the purpose of raising money to be applied to any of the purposes of this act or of any act supplementary hereto. Such election must be called upon the notice prescribed, and the same shall be held and the result thereof determined and declared in all respects in conformity with the provisions of section thirty d of this act. The notice must specify the amount of money proposed to be raised, and the purpose or purposes for which it is intended to be used, and it may state that said assessment shall be levied in two or three annual installments and specify the amount of the installment to be levied in each year. At the special election the ballots shall contain the words "Assessment—Yes" or "Assessment—No," or words equivalent thereto. If a majority of the votes cast are "Assessment—Yes," the board of directors shall, at the time of the annual levy hereunder, levy a sum sufficient to raise the amount voted, or, if the notice of election shall have provided for levying said assessment in annual installments, the board of directors shall, at the time of the annual levy in each of the years specified in said notice, levy such assessment as shall raise the amount of the installment provided in said notice to be raised in said year; provided, however, that in case of an unexpected emergency by which the flow of water in the canal or other supply is interrupted, the amount of the indebtedness, incurred in the repair of the works of said district, caused by such interruption, not to exceed in any one year forty thousand dollars, may also, in addition to the assessments hereinbefore provided for, be levied by the adoption of a resolution by at least four-fifths of the members of the board of directors, at the time of the levying of the annual assessment provided for in this act, without the submission of the question of such levy to a vote, as in this section hereinbefore provided. [Amendment of May 16, 1919. In effect July 22, 1919. Stats. 1919, p. 668.]

This section was also amended April 26, 1911, Stats. 1911, p. 1111; May 18, 1917, Stats. 1917, p. 768.

Rate of assessments.

§ 60. The rate of assessments levied under the provisions of this act shall be ascertained by deducting fifteen per cent for anticipated delinquencies from the aggregate assessed value of the property in the district as it appears on the assessment roll for the current year, and then dividing the sum to be raised by the remainder of such aggregate assessed value. Special assessments shall be computed and entered by the secretary and collected as a part of the regular assessment levied hereunder, and, when collected, shall be paid into the district treasury for the purpose or purposes specified in the notices calling the respective elections at which they were voted. [Amendment of May 16, 1919. In effect July 22, 1919. Stats. 1919, p. 669.]

INCURRING INDEBTEDNESS.

Power to incur indebtedness restricted.

§ 61. The board of directors or other officers of the district shall have no power to incur any debt or liability whatever, either by issuing bonds or otherwise, in excess of the express provisions of this act; and any debt or liability incurred in excess of such express provisions shall be and remain absolutely void, except that for the purposes of organization, or for any of the purposes of this act, the board of directors may, before the collection of the first assessment, incur indebtedness in such sum or sums as shall amount to two thousand dollars, or, if the district shall contain more than four thousand acres, to one-half as many dollars as there are acres of land in the district, and may cause warrants of the district to be issued therefor, bearing interest at not more than seven per centum per annum, said rate to be fixed by the board of directors, and all such warrants must be made payable not later than the first day of January after the first assessment shall be levied in the district issuing such warrants; and provided, further, that nothing contained in this section shall be construed as limiting the right of the board to enter into any contract or lease for any lands, waters, water rights or other property, as in this act provided for, and by such lease or contract to bind the district for the payment of the rental or consideration specified in such lease or contract. [Amendment of June 9, 1915. In effect August 8, 1915. Stats. 1915, p. 1369.]

This section was also amended March 28, 1911, Stats. 1911, p. 517; June 16, 1913, Stats. 1913, p. 1001.

Warrants not paid to draw interest. Whenever there is money to pay warrants.

§ 61a. Whenever any warrant of the district payable on demand is presented to the treasurer for payment when funds are not available for the payment thereof, it shall thereafter draw interest at a rate to be determined by resolution of the board of directors, not, however, to exceed seven per centum per annum, until public notice is given that such funds are available. Upon the presentation of any such warrants for payment, other than warrants issued under the provisions of section 61 hereof, when funds of the district are not available to pay the same, the treasurer of the district shall endorse thereon the words "funds not available for payment," with the date of presentation and shall specify the interest that such warrants shall thereafter bear and shall sign his name thereto. He shall keep a record showing the number and amount of each such warrant, the date of its issuance, the person in whose favor it was issued, and the date of its presentation for payment. Whenever there is sufficient money in the treasury to pay all such outstanding warrants or whenever the board of directors shall order that all such warrants presented for payment prior to a certain date, be made and there is sufficient money available for such payments, the treasurer shall give notice in some newspaper published in the district, or, if none is published therein, then in some newspaper published in the county in which the district or any portion thereof is situated, or, if none is published in such county, then the treasurer shall post such notice conspicuously in the place in which the board of directors of the district holds its regular meetings, stating that he is prepared to pay all warrants of the district for the payment of which funds were not available upon their original presentation, or all such warrants which were presented for payment prior to the date fixed by the board of directors, as the case may be, and no further description of the warrants entitled to payment shall be made in such notice. Upon the presentation of any warrant entitled to payment under the terms of such notice, the treasurer shall pay it, together with interest thereon at the rate specified by the board of directors, from the date of its original presentation for payment to the date of the first publication or posting of said notice, and all warrants for the payment of which funds are declared in said notice to be available shall cease to draw interest at the time of the first publication or posting of said notice. The treasurer shall enter in the record hereinbefore required to be kept, the dates of the payment of all such warrants, the names of the persons to whom payments are made and the amount paid to each person. [New section added June 9, 1915. In effect August 8, 1915. Stats. 1915, p. 1369.]

Directors may purchase irrigation works.

§ 61b. The board of directors of irrigation districts may acquire, by purchase or condemnation, the irrigation system, canals and works through which lands in such districts have been or may be supplied with water for irrigation, and may exchange bonds of such irrigation district for such system or canals or works or for any portion thereof, or for any interest therein or for the capital stock of any corporation owning such system or any portion thereof, upon such terms and conditions as the said board of directors may deem best. [Amendment of May 19, 1917. In effect July 27, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 769.]

This section was added June 8, 1915, Stats. 1915, p. 1291.

Determination of validity of bonds.

§ 61c. Where the board of directors of an irrigation district have exchanged bonds or have agreed to exchange bonds for property rights in any irrigation system or works or for any interest therein under the provisions of section sixty-one b of this act, the court shall, in any proceeding brought under the provisions of the last section, by its decree determine the validity of all bonds issued or to be issued under any contract or contracts for the exchange of bonds for property interests and by its decree shall determine whether the bonds provided for in said contracts, when delivered to the person or corporation entitled thereto under the terms of any such contract, shall constitute valid obligations of said irrigation district as against all persons. [New section added June 8, 1915. In effect August 8, 1915. Stats. 1915, p. 1291.]

GOVERNING THE USE OF WATER.

When the volume of water is insufficient.

§ 62. In case the volume of water in any stream or river shall not be sufficient to supply the continual wants of the entire county through which it passes, and susceptible of irrigation therefrom, then it shall be the duty of the water commissioners, constituted as hereinafter provided, to apportion, in a just and equitable proportion, a certain amount of said water upon certain or alternate weekly days to different localities, as they may, in their judgment, think best for the interest of all parties concerned, and with due regard to the legal and equitable rights of all. Said water commissioners shall consist of the chairman of the board of directors of each of the districts affected.

Full capacity of ditches.

§ 63. It shall be the duty of the board of directors to keep the water flowing through the ditches under their control to the full capacity of such ditches in times of high water.

§ 64. [Repealed May 24, 1917. In effect July 27, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 915.]

Right of eminent domain.

§ 65. Nothing herein contained shall be deemed to authorize any person or persons to divert the waters of any river, creek, stream, canal, or ditch from its channel, to the detriment of any person or persons having any interest in such river, creek, stream, canal, or ditch, or the waters therein, unless previous compensation be ascertained and paid therefor, under the laws of this state authorizing the taking of private property for public uses.

EXEMPTION FROM TAXATION—CREATION OF FUNDS.

Exemption of property from taxation.

§ 66. The rights of way, ditches, flumes, pipe-lines, dams, water rights, reservoirs, and other property of like character, belonging to any irrigation district shall not be taxed for state and county or municipal purposes.

Funds created.

§ 67. The following funds are hereby created and established, to which the moneys properly belonging shall be apportioned, to wit: Bond fund, construction fund, general fund.

Unexpended money.

§ 67a. Whenever an object for which money has been specially provided by assessment or by bond issue has been accomplished and any money provided therefor remains unexpended, the same shall in the discretion of the board of directors be transferred to the general fund and thereafter be available for any of the purposes of this act. [New section added May 19, 1917. In effect July 27, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 769.]

GENERAL PROVISIONS.

Action to determine validity of bonds. Jurisdiction. Contest. Appeal.

§ 68. The board of directors may, at any time after the issue of any bonds or the levy of any assessment herein provided for, bring an action in the superior court of the county wherein is located the office of such board, to determine the validity of any such bonds or such levy of assessments; such action shall be in the nature of a proceeding in rem, and jurisdiction of all parties interested may be had by publication of summons for at least once a week for three weeks in some paper of general circulation published in the county where the action is pending, such paper to be designated by the court having jurisdiction of the proceedings. Jurisdiction shall be complete within ten days after the full publication of such summons in the manner herein provided. Any one interested may at any time before the expiration of said ten days appear and by proper proceedings contest the validity of such bonds or assessments. Such action shall be speedily tried and judgment rendered declaring such matter so contested either valid or invalid. Either party may have the right to appeal to the supreme court at any time within thirty days after the rendition of such judgment, which appeal must be heard and determined within three months from the time of taking such appeal.

Assessment payer may bring action.

§ 69. If no such proceedings shall have been brought by the board of directors, then, at any time within thirty days after the levy of any assessment or issue of any bonds under the provisions of this act, any district assessment payer may bring an action in the superior court of the county where the office of the board of directors is located, to determine the validity of any such assessment or such bonds. The board of directors shall be made parties defendant, and service of summons shall be made on the members of the board personally. Said board shall have the right to appear and contest such action. Such action shall be speedily tried, with the right of appeal to either party, within the time and manner herein provided for the bringing of actions by the board to determine such matters. Such appeal shall be heard and determined in the manner and within the time therein provided.

Consolidation of actions.

§ 70. If more than one action shall be pending at the same time concerning similar contests in this act provided for, they shall be consolidated and tried together.

Courts must disregard errors, etc. Rules of pleading. Costs.

§ 71. The court hearing any of the contests herein provided for, in inquiring into the regularity, legality, or correctness of such proceedings, must disregard any error, irregularity, or omission which does not affect the substantial rights of the parties to said action or proceeding. The rules of pleading and practice provided by the Code of Civil Procedure, which are not inconsistent with the provisions of this act, are applicable to all actions or proceedings herein provided for. The motion for a new trial of any such action or proceeding must be heard and determined within ten days from the filing of the notice of intention. The costs on any hearing, or contest herein provided for, may be allowed and apportioned between the parties, or taxed to the losing party, in the discretion of the court.

Contests.

§ 72. No contest of anything or matter herein provided shall be made other than within the time and manner herein specified, and in any such action all findings of facts or conclusions of said board of directors, or of the board of supervisors upon all matters shall be conclusive, unless such action was instituted within six months after such finding or conclusion was made. [Amendment of June 9, 1915. In effect August 8, 1915. Stats. 1915, p. 1370.]

Penalty for violation of duty.

§ 73. For any willful violation of any express duty herein provided for, on the part of any officer herein named, he shall be liable upon his official bond, and be subject to removal from office, by proceedings brought in the superior court of the county wherein the office of the board of directors of the district is located, by any assessment payer of the district.

EXCLUSION OF LANDS.

Boundaries may be changed. Existing rights not to be affected.

§ 74. The boundaries of any irrigation district now organized or hereafter organized under the provision of this act, may be changed, and tracts of land which were included within the boundaries of such district at or after its organization under the provisions of said act, may be excluded therefrom, in the manner herein prescribed; but neither such change of the boundaries of the districts nor such exclusion of lands from the district shall impair or affect its organization, or its right in or to property, or any of its rights or privileges of whatever kind or nature; nor shall it affect, impair, or discharge any contract, obligation, lien, or charge for or upon which said district was and may become liable or chargeable, had such change of its boundaries not been made, or had not such land been excluded from the district.

Petition of owners for exclusion of lands.

§ 75. The owner or owners in fee of one or more tracts of land which constitute a portion of an irrigation district may jointly or severally file with the board of directors of the district a petition, praying that such tract or tracts, and any other tracts contiguous thereto, may be excluded and taken from said district. The petition shall state the grounds and reasons upon which it is claimed that such lands should be excluded and shall describe the boundaries thereof, and also the lands of such petitioner or petitioners which are included within such boundaries; but the description of such lands need not be more particular or certain than is required when the lands are entered in the assessment-book by the county assessor. Such petition must be acknowledged in the same manner and form as is required in the case of a conveyance of land, and the acknowledgment shall have the same force and effect as evidence as the acknowledgment of such a conveyance.

Publication of filing of petition. What the notice shall state.

§ 76. The secretary of the board of directors shall cause a notice of the filing of such petition to be published for at least two weeks in some newspaper published in the county where the office of the board of directors is situated, and if any portion of such territory to be excluded lie within another county or counties, then said notice shall be so published in a newspaper published within each of said counties; or if no newspaper be published therein, then by posting such notice for the same time in at least three public places in said district, and in case of the posting of said notices, one of said notices must be so posted on the lands proposed to be excluded. The notice shall state the filing of such petition, the names of the petitioners, a description of the lands mentioned in said petition, and the prayer of said petition; and it shall notify all persons interested in, or who may be affected by such change of the boundaries of the district, to appear at the office of said board at a time named in said notice, and show cause, in writing, if any they have, why the change of the boundaries of said district, as proposed in said petition, should not be made. The time to be specified in the notice at which they shall be required to show cause shall be the regular meeting of the board next after the expiration of the time for the publication of the notice.

Hearing of petition. Failure to show cause deemed assent. Expenses.

§ 77. The board of directors, at the time and place mentioned in the notice, or at the time or times to which the hearing of said petition may be adjourned, shall proceed to hear the petition, and all evidence or proofs that may or shall be introduced by or on behalf of the petitioner or petitioners, and all objections to such petition that may or shall be presented in writing by any person showing cause as aforesaid, and all evidence and proofs that may be introduced in support of such objections. Such evidence shall be taken down in shorthand, and a record made thereof and filed with the board. The failure of any person interested in said district, other than the holders of bonds thereof outstanding at the time of the filing of said petition with said board, to show cause, in writing, why the tract or tracts of land mentioned in said petition should not be excluded from said district, shall be deemed and taken as an assent by him to the exclusion of such tract or tracts of land, or any part thereof, from said district; and the filing of such petition with said board, as aforesaid, shall be deemed and taken as an assent by each and all such petitioners to the exclusion from such district of the lands mentioned in the petition, or any part thereof. The expenses of giving said notice and of the aforesaid proceeding shall be paid by the person or persons filing such petition.

Power of board to exclude lands from irrigation district.

§ 78. If, upon the hearing of any such petition, no evidence or proofs in support thereof be introduced, or if the evidence fails to sustain said petition, or if the board deem it not for the best interest of the district that the lands, or some portion thereof, mentioned in the petition, should be excluded from the district, the board shall order that said petition be denied as to such lands; but if the said board deem it for the best interest of the district that the lands mentioned in the petition, or some portion thereof, be excluded from the district, and if no person interested in the district show cause in writing why the said lands, or some portion thereof, should not be excluded from the district, or if, having shown cause, withdraws the same, or upon the hearing fails to establish such objections as he may have made, then it shall be the duty of the board to, and it shall forthwith, make an order that the lands mentioned and described in the petition, or some defined portion thereof, be excluded from said district; provided, that it shall be the duty of said board to so order, upon petition therefor as aforesaid, that all lands so petitioned to be excluded from said district shall be excluded therefrom, which can not be irrigated from, or which are not susceptible to, irrigation from a common source or by the same system of works with the other lands of said district, or from the source selected, chosen, or provided, or the system adopted for the irrigation of the lands in said district, or which are already irrigated, or entitled to be irrigated, from another source or by another system of irrigation works: provided, that no land irrigated by means of water, pumped from an underground source or sources shall be entitled to exclusion from any irrigation district on account of being so irrigated, if it shall be shown that such land is or will be substantially benefited by subirrigation from the works of said district or by drainage works provided or required by law to be provided by said district, but no owner of land in any irrigation district shall be required to pay any assessment, except for the payment of interest and principal due on bonds of the district, on any land in such district which, when the district was organized, was irrigated by means of water pumped from an underground source or sources and has continued each year to be irrigated exclusively by such means. [Amendment of May 26, 1915. In effect August 8, 1915. Stats. 1915, p. 836.]

This section was also amended February 23, 1905, Stats. 1905, p. 27; June 13, 1913, Stats. 1913, p. 781.

Assent of bondholders. Release from lien. Assent shall be recorded.

§ 79. If there be outstanding bonds of the district at the time of the filing of said petition, the holders of such outstanding bonds may give their assent, in writing, to the effect that they severally consent that the lands mentioned in the petition, or such portion thereof as may be excluded from said district by order of said board, or the decree of the superior court as hereinafter provided, may be excluded from the district; and if said lands, or any portion thereof, be thereafter excluded from the district, the lands so excluded shall be released from the lien of such outstanding bonds. The assent must be acknowledged by the several holders of such bonds in the same manner and form as is required in case of a conveyance of land, and the acknowledgment shall have the same force and effect as evidence as the acknowledgment of such conveyance. The assent shall be filed with the board, and must be recorded in the minutes of the board; and said minutes, or a copy thereof, certified by the secretary of said board, shall be admissible in evidence, with the same effect as the said assent, and such certified copy thereof may be recorded in the office of the county recorder of the county wherein said lands are situated.

Change of boundaries of district to be recorded. Exclusion does not affect organization.

§ 80. In the event the said board of directors shall exclude any lands from said district upon petition therefor, it shall be the duty of the board of directors to make an entry in the minutes of the board, describing the boundaries of the district, should the exclusion of said lands from said district change the boundaries of said district, and for that purpose the board may cause a survey to be made of such portions of the district as the board may deem necessary; and a certified copy of the entry in the minutes of the board excluding any land, certified by the president and secretary of the board, shall be filed for record in the recorder's office of each county within which are situated any of the lands of the district; but said district, notwithstanding such exclusion, shall be and remain an irrigation district as fully, to every intent and purpose, as it would be had no change been made in the boundaries of the district, or had the lands excluded therefrom never constituted a portion of the district.

Office of director of excluded division made vacant.

§ 81. If the lands excluded from any district under this act shall embrace the greater portion of any division or divisions of such district, then the office of director for such division or divisions shall become and be vacant at the expiration of ten days from the final order of the board excluding said lands; and such vacancy or vacancies shall be filled by appointment by the board of supervisors of the county where the office of such board is situated, from the district at large. A director appointed as above provided, shall hold his office until the next regular election for said district, and until his successor is elected and qualified.

Division of district.

§ 82. At least thirty days before the next general election of such district, the board of directors thereof shall make an order dividing said district into three or five divisions, as the case may require, as nearly equal in size as may be practicable, which shall be numbered first, second, third, and so on, and one director shall be elected by each division. For the purposes of elections in such district, the said board of directors must establish a convenient number of election precincts, and define the boundaries thereof, which said precincts may be changed from time to time, as the board of directors may deem necessary.

Rights of guardian, administrator or executor.

§ 83. A guardian and executor, or an administrator of an estate, who is appointed as such under the laws of this state, and who, as such guardian, executor, or administrator, is entitled to the possession of the lands belonging to the estate which he represents, may, on behalf of his ward, or the estate which he represents, upon being thereto properly authorized by the proper court, sign and acknowledge the petition in this act mentioned, and may show cause, as in this act provided, why the boundaries of the district should not be changed.

Lands excluded not released from liability for indebtedness.

§ 84. Nothing in this act provided shall, in any manner, operate to release any of the lands so excluded from the district from any obligation to pay, or any lien thereon, of any valid outstanding bonds or other indebtedness of said district at the time of the filing of said petition for the exclusion of said lands, but upon the contrary, said lands shall be held subject to said lien, and answerable and chargeable for and with the payment and discharge of all of said outstanding obligations at the time of the filing of the petition for the exclusion of said land, as fully as though said petition for such exclusion were never filed and said order or decree of exclusion never made; and for the purpose of discharging such outstanding indebtedness, said lands so excluded shall be deemed and considered as part of said irrigation district the same as though said petition for its exclusion had never been filed or said order or decree of exclusion never made; and all provisions which may have been resorted to to compel the payment by said lands of its quota or portion of said outstanding obligations, had said exclusion never been accomplished, may, notwithstanding said exclusion, be resorted to to compel and enforce the payment on the part of said lands of its quota and portion of said outstanding obligations of said irrigation district for which it is liable, as herein provided. But said land so excluded shall not be held answerable or chargeable for any obligation of any nature or kind whatever, incurred after the filing with the board of directors of said district of the petition for the exclusion of said lands from the said district; provided, that the provisions of this section shall not apply to any outstanding bonds, the holders of which have assented to the exclusion of such lands from said district, as hereinbefore provided.

INCLUSION OF LANDS.

Boundaries may be changed. Existing rights not affected.

§ 85. The boundaries of any irrigation district now organized or hereafter organized under the provisions of this act may be changed in the manner herein prescribed; but such change of the boundaries of the district shall not impair or affect its organization, or its rights in or to property, or any of its rights or privileges of whatsoever kind or nature; nor shall it affect, impair, or discharge any contract, obligation, lien, or charge for or upon which it was or might become liable or chargeable, had such change of its boundaries not been made.

Manner of procedure for inclusion of lands.

§ 86. The holder or holders, of title, or evidence of title, representing one-half or more of any body of lands adjacent to the boundary of an irrigation district, which are contiguous, and which, taken together, constitute one tract of land, may file with the board of directors of said district a petition, in writing, praying that the boundaries of said district may be so changed as to include therein said lands. The petition shall describe the boundaries of said parcel or tract of land, and shall also describe the boundaries of the several parcels owned by the petitioners, if the petitioners be the owners, respectively, of distinct parcels, but such descriptions need not be more particular than they are required to be when such lands are entered by the county assessor in the assessment-book. Such petition must contain the assent of the petitioners to the inclusion within said district of the parcels or tracts of land described in the petition, and of which said petition alleges they are, respectively, the owners; and it must be acknowledged in the same manner that conveyances of land are required to be acknowledged.

Notice of filing of petition.

§ 87. The secretary of the board of directors shall cause a notice of the filing of such petition to be given and published in the same manner and for the same time that notices of special elections for the issue of bonds are required by this act to be published. The notice shall state the filing of such petition and the names of the petitioners, a description of the lands mentioned in said petition, and the prayer of said petition; and it shall notify all persons interested in, or that may be affected by such change of the boundaries of the district, to appear at the offices of said board, at a time named in said notice, and show cause in writing, if any they have, why the change in the boundaries of said district, as proposed in said petition, should not be made. The time to be specified in the notice at which they shall be required to show cause shall be the regular meeting of the board next after the expiration of the time for the publication of the notice. The petitioners shall advance to the secretary sufficient money to pay the estimated costs of all proceedings under this act.

Hearing of petition. Failure to appear deemed an assent.

§ 88. The board of directors, at the time and place mentioned in the said notice, or at such other time or times to which the hearing of said petition may be adjourned, shall proceed to hear the petition, and all the objections thereto, presented in writing by any person showing cause as aforesaid why said proposed change of the boundaries of the district should not be made. The failure by any person interested in said district, or in the matter of the proposed change of its boundaries, to show cause, in writing, as aforesaid, shall be deemed and taken as an assent on his part to a change of the boundaries of the district as prayed for in said petition, or to such a change thereof as will include a part of said lands. And the filing of such petition with said board, as aforesaid, shall be deemed and taken as an assent on the part of each and all of such petitioners to such a change of said boundaries that they may include the whole or any portion of the lands described in said petition.

Condition precedent.

§ 89. The board of directors to whom such petition is presented, may require, as a condition precedent to the granting of the same, that the petitioners shall severally pay to such district such respective sums, as nearly as the same can be estimated (the several amounts to be determined by the board), as said petitioners or their grantors would have been required to pay to such districts as assessments, had such lands been included in such district at the time the same was originally formed.

Change in boundaries. Inclusion of public lands.

§ 90. If the board of directors deem it for the best interest of the district that the boundaries of said district be changed and if no person interested in said district or the proposed change of its boundaries shows cause, in writing, why the proposed change should not be made, or, having shown cause, withdraws the same, the board may order that the boundaries of the district be so changed as to include therein the lands mentioned in said petition or some part thereof. The order shall describe the boundaries as changed and shall also describe the entire boundaries of the district as they will be after the change thereof as aforesaid is made; and for that purpose the board may cause a survey to be made of such portions of such boundary as is deemed necessary; provided, however, that any public land of the United States of America adjoining the boundaries of any irrigation district may be included within the boundaries of any such irrigation district by order or resolution of the board of directors of such district without any petition being filed asking for such inclusion; and provided, further, that when additional land is included within any irrigation district and the board of directors of such district finds either that such inclusion without condition would work an injury to the land already in the district either by an impairment of water right or by requiring a greater expense for furnishing water to the lands proposed to be included, the board may prescribe conditions upon such inclusion of land, either by providing for priority of right to water or for the payment of an additional annual charge or such other conditions as may to the board seem just. If such inclusion is upon petition of property owners all such property owners must sign and acknowledge an agreement with the district, specifying such conditions and describing the land so to be included. Such agreement must be recorded in the office of the county recorder of the county in which such lands are situated, together with a certified copy of the order including such lands, and thereupon such lands shall become a part of such irrigation district subject to such conditions. [Amendment of June 9, 1915. In effect August 8, 1915. Stats. 1915, p. 1370.]

Resolution describing boundaries.

§ 91. If any person interested in said district or the proposed change of its boundaries shall show cause as aforesaid why such boundaries should not be changed and shall not withdraw the same or if the board of directors deem it not for the best interests of the district that the boundaries thereof be changed so as to include therein the lands mentioned in the petition or some part thereof, the board shall adopt a resolution to that effect. The resolution shall describe the exterior boundaries of the land which will be included within the boundaries of the district when changed, but before calling the election provided for in the next section, the board may require an undertaking, with sufficient sureties, from the petitioners that they will pay all of the cost of holding such election for the inclusion of such lands in case such inclusion should be denied. [Amendment of June 9, 1915. In effect August 8, 1915. Stats. 1915, p. 1371.]

Notice of election. Ballots.

§ 92. Upon the adoption of the resolution mentioned in the last preceding section, the board shall order that an election be held within said district, to determine whether the boundaries of the district shall be changed as mentioned in said resolution; and shall fix the time at which such election shall be held, and cause notice thereof to be given and published. Such notice shall be given and published, and such election shall be held and conducted, the returns thereof shall be made and canvassed, and the result of the election ascertained and declared, and all things pertaining thereto conducted in the manner prescribed by said act in case of a special election to determine whether bonds of an irrigation district shall be issued. The ballots cast at said election shall contain the words "For change of boundary," or "Against change of boundary," or words equivalent thereto. The notice of election shall describe the proposed change of the boundaries in such manner and terms that it can readily be traced.

Election, holding of. Time of and notice of. Ballots.

§ 93. If at such election a majority of all the votes cast at said election shall be against such change of the boundaries of the district, the board shall order that said petition be denied, and shall proceed no further in that matter. But if a majority of such votes be in favor of such change of the boundaries of the district, the board shall thereupon order that the boundaries be changed in accordance with said resolution adopted by the board. The said order shall describe the entire boundaries of said district, and for that purpose the board may cause a survey of such portions thereof to be made as the board may deem necessary.

Order of board to be recorded.

§ 94. Upon a change of the boundaries of a district being made, a copy of the order of the board of directors ordering such change, certified by the president and secretary of the board, shall be filed for record in the recorder's office of each county within which are situated any of the lands of the district, and thereupon the district shall be and remain an irrigation district, as fully, and to every intent and purpose, as if the lands which are included in the district by the change of the boundaries, as aforesaid, had been included therein at the original organization of the district.

Recording petition in minutes.

§ 95. Upon the filing of the copies of the order, as in the last preceding section mentioned, the secretary shall record in the minutes of the board the petition aforesaid; and the said minutes, or a certified copy thereof, shall be admissible in evidence, with the same effect as the petition.

Rights of guardians, executors and administrators.

§ 96. A guardian, an executor, or an administrator of an estate, who is appointed as such under the laws of this state, and who, as such guardian, executor, or administrator, is entitled to the possession of the lands belonging to the estate which he represents, may, on behalf of his ward, or the estate which he represents, upon being thereunto authorized by the proper court, sign and acknowledge the petition in this act mentioned, and may show cause, as in this act mentioned, why the boundaries of the district should not be changed.

Re-division of district.

§ 97. In case of the inclusion of any land within any district by proceedings under this act, the board of directors must, at least thirty days prior to the next succeeding general election, make an order re-dividing such district into three or five divisions, as the case may require, as nearly equal the size as may be practicable, which shall be numbered first, second, third, and so on, and one director shall thereafter be elected by each division. For the purposes of elections, the board of directors must establish a convenient number of election precincts in said districts, and define the boundaries thereof, which said precincts may be changed from time to time, as the board may deem necessary.

REDUCTION OF BONDED INDEBTEDNESS.

Reduction of bonded indebtedness. Authority of board of directors.

§ 98. Whenever the board of directors of an irrigation district heretofore organized, or hereafter organized under the provisions of this act, shall determine that the authorized bonded indebtedness of such irrigation district is greater than such district is liable to need to complete its system as planned, and there be no outstanding bonds, the board of directors may call a special election for the purpose of voting upon a proposition to reduce such bonded indebtedness to such sum as the board may determine to be sufficient for such purpose.

Special election. Ballots.

§ 99. Notice of the said election shall be given in the same manner as provided in section thirty of said act, in relation to calling special elections for issuance of bonds. The notice of election must state the amount of the authorized bonded indebtedness of such district, and the amount to which it is proposed to reduce the same; also, the date on which said election will be held, and the polling-places, as established, by said board of directors. The ballots cast at said election shall contain the words "For reducing bonds—Yes," or "For reducing bonds—No." When the vote is canvassed by the board of directors and entered of record, if a majority of the votes cast shall be "For reducing bonds—Yes," then in that event the board of directors shall only be empowered to issue or sell such amount of bonds as was stipulated in the said notice of such special election; but if a majority of said votes are not "For reducing bonds—Yes," then the authority to issue bonds shall remain the same as before said special election was held.

Assent of bondholders. Reduction does not affect order confirming validity of bonds.

§ 99½. In case there be outstanding bonds of any district desiring to take advantage of the provisions of this act concerning reduction of bonded indebtedness, the assent of such bondholders may be obtained to such reduction of the bonded indebtedness, in the same manner as provided in section 79 of this act. If such assent is obtained in the manner therein provided, then, and in that event, such district shall be empowered to take advantage of all the provisions of this act, but not otherwise. No reduction of the bonded indebtedness, as in this act provided, shall in any manner affect any order of court that may have been made, adjudicating and confirming the validity of said bonds.

LEASE OF WATER.

Authority to lease granted.

§ 100. Whenever any irrigation district, heretofore organized, or hereafter organized under the provisions of this act, in the development of its works as by law provided, may have opportunity, without increased expenditure, to utilize the water by it owned or controlled, for mechanical purposes not inconsistent with the provisions of said act, the board of directors may lease the same, as in this act hereinafter provided.

Manner of procedure.

§ 101. Whenever the board of directors may desire to lease the use of water, as hereinbefore stated, they shall pass a resolution of intention to so lease the same. Immediately thereafter the secretary shall cause notice of such intention to be given by publication in one newspaper published in each county in which lands of the district are situated, for at least twenty days (provided, a newspaper is published therein, otherwise in any newspaper the board of directors may select), and, if the board thinks proper in such other newspapers as may be deemed advisable, calling for bids for the leasing of said water for the purposes hereinbefore mentioned. Said notice shall state that the board will receive sealed proposals therefor, that the lease will be let to the highest responsible bidder, stating the time and place of opening said proposals.

Same. Opening proposals. Leasing property. Rejecting bids and readvertising for proposals.

§ 102. At the time and place appointed the board shall proceed to open the proposals in public. As soon thereafter as may be convenient the board shall let said lease in portions, or as a whole, to the highest responsible bidder, or they may reject any or all bids, and readvertise for proposals for the same.

Rentals.

§ 103. The rental accruing upon said lease may vary from year to year, as shall be specified in said lease, and shall be payable semi-annually, on the thirteenth day of December and thirtieth day of June of each year. All moneys collected, as in this act provided, shall be paid into the treasury, and be apportioned to such funds as may be deemed advisable.

Length of lease. Forfeiture.

§ 104. The board shall have power, as in this act provided, to execute a lease for any period not exceeding twenty-five years. If at any time the rental shall not be paid on the days hereinbefore mentioned, the amount of such rental then due shall be doubled, and if not paid within ninety days thereafter, the said lease shall be forfeited to said district, together with any and all works constructed, owned, used, or controlled by said lessee.

Bond.

§ 105. Upon the letting of any lease, as in this act provided, the board may require the lessee to execute a bond for the faithful performance of the covenants of said lease, or give such other evidence of good faith as in their judgment may be necessary.

DESTRUCTION OF UNSOLD BONDS.Election to vote upon, calling of.

§ 106. Whenever there remains in the hands of the board of directors of any irrigation district heretofore organized, or organized under the provisions of this act, after the completion of its ditch system, and the payment of all demands against such district, any bonds voted to be issued by said district, but not sold, and not necessary to be sold for the raising of funds for the use of such district, said board of directors may call a special election for the purpose of voting upon a proposition to destroy said unsold bonds, or so many of them as may be deemed best, or may submit such proposition at a general election.

Holding of. Ballots.

§ 107. Such election shall be held in the same manner as other elections held under the provisions of this act. A notice of such election shall be given in the same manner as provided in section thirty of this act in relation to calling special elections for the issuance of bonds. The notice of election must state the amount of the bonded indebtedness of such district authorized by the vote of the district, the amount of the bonds remaining unsold, and the amount proposed to be destroyed, and the date on which such election is proposed to be held, and the polling-places as fixed by the board of directors. The ballots to be cast at such election shall contain the words "For destroying bonds—Yes," and "For destroying bonds—No," and the voter must erase the word "No" in case he favors the destruction of bonds, otherwise the word "Yes."

Two-thirds majority.

§ 108. When the vote is canvassed by the board of directors and entered of record, if a two-thirds majority of the votes cast should be found to be in favor of the destruction of said bonds, then the president of the board, in the presence of a majority of the members of the board, must destroy the bonds so voted to be destroyed; and the total amount of bonds so destroyed and canceled shall be deducted from the sum authorized to be issued by the electors of said district, and no part thereof shall thereafter be reprinted or reissued.

SAVING CLAUSES.Existing districts and existing rights not affected.

§ 109. Nothing in this act shall be so construed as to affect the validity of any district heretofore organized under the laws of this state, or its rights in or to property, or any of its rights or privileges of whatsoever kind or nature; but said districts are hereby made subject to the provisions of this act so far as applicable; nor shall it affect, impair, or discharge any contract, obligation, lien, or charge for, or upon which it was or might become liable or chargeable had not this act been passed; nor shall it affect the validity of any bonds which have been issued but not sold; nor shall it affect any action which now may be pending.

Effect of statute on prior acts.

§ 110. Nothing in this act shall be construed as repealing or in any wise modifying the provisions of any other act relating to the subject of irrigation or water commissioners, except such as may be contained in the act, an act entitled an act to provide for the organization and government of irrigation districts, and to provide for the acquisition of water and other property, and for the distribution of water thereby for irrigation purposes, approved March seventh, eighteen hundred and eighty-seven, and the subsequent acts supplementary thereto, and amendatory thereof, all of which acts, so far as they may be inconsistent herewith, are hereby repealed.

Time of taking effect of statute.

§ 111. This act shall take effect from and after its passage and approval.

Title of act.

§ 112. This act may be referred to in any action, proceeding or legislative enactment as "the California irrigation district act." [Amendment of May 16, 1919. In effect July 22, 1919. Stats. 1919, p. 669.]

This was a new section added May 18, 1917, Stats. 1917, p. 769.

1. Act is supplementary to Wright act.—The act of 1897 is referred to as an act supplementary to the Wright act.—Jenison v. Redfield, 149 Cal. 500, 89 Pac. 62.

I. CONSTITUTIONALITY.

1. Power of legislature to organize irrigation district without giving the landowners any voice.—The legislature might organize an irrigation district without giving the property owners any voice in the matter at all, and it may do so as provided in the act of 1897, by authorizing the property owners themselves to initiate the proceedings to form such a district by the presentation of a petition signed by a majority of those in the proposed district who appear on the last equalized assessment roll as land owners therein.—In re Bonds San Joaquin Irr. Dist., 161 Cal. 345, 119 Pac. 198.

2. Power of legislature to create irrigation districts by a statute passed without formal notice.—The legislature may create irrigation districts by a statute passed without any formal notice or hearing, or it may delegate the power to some local board.—Imperial Water Co. v. Board of Supervisors, 162 Cal. 15, 17, 120 Pac. 780.

3. Legislative power to make whoever it sees fit eligible as petitioners to form irrigation district.—The legislature may make such persons as it sees fit eligible as petitioners to an initiatory proposal to form a district, including owners of possessory rights.—Imperial Water Co. v. Board of Supervisors, 162 Cal. 15, 25, 120 Pac. 780.

4. Delegation of power to county officers.—The act is not unconstitutional on the ground that it delegates powers to or imposes duties upon certain county officers in connection with the assessment and collection of taxes of the district.—In re Bonds San Joaquin Irr. Dist., 161 Cal. 345, 119 Pac. 198.

5. Provisions of act as to assessments and bond issues not foreign to title.—The provisions of the act to test the validity of an assessment and bond issue are not foreign to the title of the act, and not void under section 24, article IV of the constitution.—In re Bonds San Joaquin Irr. Dist., 161 Cal. 345, 119 Pac. 198.

6. Provides protection to landowner.—The general machinery of the act provides ample protection to the landowner and every reasonable opportunity to correct specific abuses.—In re Bonds San Joaquin Irr. Dist., 161 Cal. 345, 119 Pac. 198.

7. Section 2 does not deny "due process."—The fact that section 2 in effect dispenses with signatures to the notice does not constitute a denial of due process of law, inasmuch as due process requires substantially that the notice given should, under the circumstances, have a reasonable tendency to apprise the parties interested of the nature of the proceeding and the time and place of the hearing.—Imperial Water Co. v. Board of Supervisors, 162 Cal. 15, 23, 120 Pac. 780.

8. Provision for appeal to superior court unconstitutional.—Section 4 of the act of 1897 providing for an appeal directly to the superior court from the order of the board of supervisors granting an application to form an irrigation district is unconstitutional and void.—Chinn v. Superior Court, 156 Cal. 478, 105 Pac. 580.

9. Unconstitutionality of section 4 does not void whole act.—Section 4 of the act providing for an appeal to the superior court is not so important that it will be presumed that the legislature would not have enacted the rest of the act without it, and its invalidity does not, therefore, affect the validity of the act in such other portions.—Imperial Water Co. v. Board of Supervisors, 162 Cal. 15, 20, 120 Pac. 780.

10. Same.—The fact that the provision for appeal to the superior court from the determination of the board of supervisors has been declared unconstitutional, does not destroy the whole act, which would be valid without the provision.—In re Bonds San Joaquin Irr. Dist., 161 Cal. 345, 119 Pac. 198.

11. Amendment of 1911 made with knowledge of unconstitutionality of section 4.—The presumption is that the legislature had knowledge of the fact that section 4 had been declared unconstitutional when it amended the act of 1911, and it is implied from this fact that the legislature deemed the remaining portions valid, and did not consider section 4 so vital to the scheme that the law would not have been enacted without it.—Imperial Water Co. v. Board of Supervisors, 162 Cal. 15, 21, 120 Pac. 780.

12. Section 34 constitutional.—Section 34 of the act goes only to the method of invoking the action of the trustees for the calling of an election as to the incurring of indebtedness, and is constitutional.—In re Bonds San Joaquin Irr. Dist., 161 Cal. 345, 119 Pac. 198.

13. Section 39 constitutional.—Section 39 of the act is constitutional.—Nevada, etc., Bank v. Supervisors of Kern Co., 5 Cal. App. 638, 91 Pac. 122.

14. Enabling act of 1901 constitutional.—The enabling act of 1901 is held to be constitutional.—Byington v. Sacramento, etc., Co., 170 Cal. 124, 131, 148 Pac. 791.

II. PROCEEDINGS.

a. Petition. Notice.

15. Notice need not be signed by all petitioners.—Section 2 does not require the notice of time of presentation of petition to be signed by all the petitioners, and expressly provides that a lack of signatures thereto shall not vitiate the proceedings, provided the petition itself has a sufficient number of signatures, and if any signatures are required to the notice it is sufficient if some of the petitioners have signed it.—Imperial Water Co. v. Board of Supervisors, 162 Cal. 15, 22, 120 Pac. 780.

16. Proof of publication of notice.—It is sufficient that the proof of publication of the notice and petition was made by the affidavit of the publisher of the newspaper in which it was made.—Imperial Water Co. v. Board of Supervisors, 162 Cal. 15, 24, 120 Pac. 780.

17. Signatures to petition.—A notice authorized by the petitioners and purporting to be signed by some of them for all, and regularly published as required by the act would be valid, whether the purported signatures of the petitioners thereto were actually written by the petitioners or some other person by their authority.—Imperial Water Co. v. Board of Supervisors, 162 Cal. 15, 23, 120 Pac. 780.

18. Time named in notice.—The notice need not specify that the petition will be presented at a "regular meeting" of the board, and a notice stating that it will be presented at a specified time is sufficient, if the time so presented is in fact the time of a regular meeting of the board.—Imperial Water Co. v. Board of Supervisors, 162 Cal. 15, 23, 120 Pac. 780.

19. Withdrawal of petitioners.—The petitioners for the organization of an irrigation district under the irrigation district act of 1897, may effectively withdraw from the petition at any time prior to the presentation of the petition to the board of supervisors on the date fixed in the published notice of presentation, with the result that at the date of such presentation they can no longer be considered as petitioners.—McAulay v. Board of Supervisors of Merced County, 178 Cal. 628, 174 Pac. 30.

b. Boundaries of District.

20. Municipality may be included.—A municipality may, under the constitution, be included within the boundaries of an irrigation district, and land therein assessed for district purposes.—La Mesa Homes Co. v. La Mesa, etc., Irr. Dist., 173 Cal. 121, 159 Pac. 593.

21. Same—Adoption of constitutional amendment did not impair liability for bonds of previously organized district.—The functions of a previously existing irrigation district were not impaired by the amendment of 1911 to section 19, article XI, of the constitution, and the liability of the property owners of a municipality within the territory of such district for the bonds of the district was not affected thereby.—La Mesa Homes Co. v. La Mesa, etc., Irr. Dist., 173 Cal. 121, 125, 159 Pac. 593.

22. Lands irrigated from "another source."—A landowner who prior to the organization of the district, and afterwards, irrigated his lands exclusively from a pumping plan and well located on his own lands, and who has never derived any benefit from the irrigation works of the district, is entitled to have lands excluded therefrom, and the board of directors has no discretion to retain them.—Harelson v. South San Joaquin Irr. Dist., 20 Cal. App. 324, 128 Pac. 1010.

23. Same—"Another source."—The phrase "another source" in section 78 means, when considered in their natural signification, any source by which the lands are in fact being irrigated, and the legislature had in mind the landowner who had succeeded in providing means to irrigate his land, although limited to his own needs.—Harelson v. South San Joaquin Irr. Dist., 20 Cal. App. 324, 128 Pac. 1010.

24. Same—Participation of owner in formation of district.—Participation by a landowner in the election establishing the district does not estop him from thereafter filing a petition for the exclusion of his lands.—Harelson v. South San Joaquin Irr. Dist., 20 Cal. App. 324, 128 Pac. 1010.

25. Same—Remedy for refusal to exclude.—Mandate is the remedy for the refusal of the board of directors to exclude lands of a petitioner irrigated by means of a private pumping plant.—Harelson v. South San Joaquin Irr. Dist., 20 Cal. App. 324, 128 Pac. 1010.

c. Assessments.

26. Jurisdiction to levy assessment—Steps necessary to acquire.—Jurisdiction to levy an assessment under the irrigation district act of March 31, 1897, known as the Bridgeford act must be acquired and exercised in the manner laid down in the statute, but the legislature declare, as to steps not constitutionally necessary, that objections to steps taken must be made in a certain time and in a certain way, in order to affect the validity of the proceedings.—Imperial Land Co. v. Imperial Irr. Dist., 173 Cal. 660, 664, 161 Pac. 113.

27. Entry of order calling meeting to levy assessment not required.—The Bridgeford act does not require that the order calling a meeting to levy an assessment shall be entered in the record five days before the meeting.—Imperial Land Co. v. Imperial Irr. Co., 173 Cal. 660, 665, 161 Pac. 113.

28. Same.—A sufficient compliance with the requirement of section 14 of the Bridgeford act as to entry of record of order calling meeting to levy assessment, is a recital of the fact in the minutes of the meeting.—Imperial Land Co. v. Imperial Irr. Dist., 173 Cal. 660, 664, 161 Pac. 113.

29. Same—Failure to call meeting, mere irregularity.—The failure to enter the call for a meeting to levy an assessment in full in the minutes, is at most an irregularity, which is cured by failure of an objecting landowner to bring an action attacking the validity of the assessment within 30 days after the levy.—Imperial Land Co. v. Imperial Irr. Dist., 173 Cal. 660, 665, 161 Pac. 113.

30. Notice of levy not required.—Since the act provides for notice to the property owner of all the preliminary acts leading up to the assessment, giving him an opportunity to object to any of them, the act is not invalid because it does not provide for notice of levy of assessment, which is the final outcome of all the rest, since he might know it by the exercise of reasonable diligence, and since he has nothing to say with reference to it.—Lahman v. Hatch, 124 Cal. 1, 56 Pac. 621.

31. Publication of notice — Particular newspaper not shown.—Where the record does not show in what particular newspaper the notice of delinquency was published, testimony that a certain newspaper had been examined and that it had been found that the notice had been published in one issue only, can not overcome the prima facie showing through proof of the deed that the notice was published as required.—Corson v. Crocker, 31 Cal. App. 626, 161 Pac. 287.

32. Levy by resolution, not necessary.—It is not necessary under the act of 1897 to levy an assessment for district purposes by resolution.—Corson v. Crocker, 31 Cal. App. 621, 161 Pac. 287.

33. Levy by motion, sufficient.—Levy of assessment by motion instead of by resolution is a mere irregularity, of which advantage must be taken, by action within 30 days after levy.—Imperial Land Co. v. Imperial Irr. Dist., 173 Cal. 660, 666, 161 Pac. 113.

34. Resolution, sufficient.—A resolution of the board of directors of an irrigation company "that it is necessary for the lawful purposes of said district for its fiscal year 1913-14, that the sum of $28,935 be raised by special assessment for the general fund," is all that is required in the way of an estimate.—Imperial Land Co. v. Imperial Irr. Dist., 173 Cal. 668, 161 Pac. 116.

35. Estimate and determination of amount.—When may invalidate assessment.—The failure of the directors to have an estimate and determination of the amount of money necessary to be raised before levying an assessment is a mere irregularity which is not available to invalidate the assessment unless the action is brought within the 30 days prescribed in section 69 of the act (Bridgeford act).—Imperial Land Co. v. Imperial Irr. Dist., 173 Cal. 660, 665, 161 Pac. 113.

36. Description of land—Definiteness required.—Where the description of the land is not misleading and not calculated to mislead the owner, and is sufficient to enable him to identify it as his land, it is sufficient.—Corson v. Crocker, 31 Cal. App. 626, 161 Pac. 287.

37. Same—Sufficient.—"Modesto B'k 123, lots 1 to 5 inclusive" in the assessment book under the heading "Description of property" is a sufficient description.—Corson v. Crocker, 31 Cal. App. 626, 161 Pac. 287.

38. Improvements need not be described.—The assessment need not describe the improvements, and it is sufficient if the land on which the improvements are located is described.—Lahman v. Hatch, 124 Cal. 1, 56 Pac. 621.

39. Extension on roll of total valuation.—The Bridgeford act does not require that the total valuation, as finally equalized by the board, should appear, extended and added within ten days after the close of the session of the board of equalization.—Imperial Land Co. v. Imperial Irr. Dist., 173 Cal. 668, 161 Pac. 116.

40. Use of dollar mark at head of column sufficient.—The dollar mark appearing at the head of the column showing the value of all property assessed was applicable to all the figures appearing in that column, and it was not necessary to repeat the symbol before each valuation.—Imperial Land Co. v. Imperial Irr. Dist., 173 Cal. 668, 161 Pac. 116.

41. Amendment by assessor to show description of improvements.—The amendment by the assessor of the assessment book, while in the hands of the board of equalization, the assessor taking the book away from Saturday afternoon to Monday morning for that purpose, by inserting a description of improvements on the land, is immaterial, does not affect the substantial rights of the persons assessed, and does not vitiate the assessment.—Lahman v. Hatch, 124 Cal. 1, 56 Pac. 621.

42. One levy sufficient to pay amounts due for previous years.—Where more than one installment of principal and interest have fallen due in previous successive years, one levy may be made to pay all.—Nevada, etc., Bank v. Supervisors of Kern Co., 5 Cal. App. 638, 91 Pac. 122.

43. Petition to submit question of levy to electors—Effect of failure to act upon petition.—When a petition signed by fifteen per cent of the qualified voters of an irrigation district asking that a proposed levy of assessment should be voted on at an election for that purpose, the levy is stayed until the election is called and the requisite number of votes cast for it; but there is nothing in the act requiring the board of directors to call the election and no election is called in response to a sufficient petition, it is in substance an abandonment of the proceeding.—Imperial Land Co. v. Imperial Irr. Dist., 26 Cal. App. 529, 147 Pac. 593.

44. Refusal of board to levy assessment—Remedy.—Upon the refusal of the board of directors of an irrigation district to levy an assessment to pay the interest on the bonded indebtedness, and the board of supervisors, after a petition therefor, have refused to levy such assessment, the superior court of the county in which the district is situated has jurisdiction to compel the levy of such assessment, in the absence of a showing that the office of the board of directors is not within such county.—Nevada, etc., Bank v. Supervisors of Kern Co., 5 Cal. App. 638, 91 Pac. 122.

45. Assessment roll need not be certified.—The assessment roll need not be certified by any person or officer of the district.—Corson v. Crocker, 31 Cal. App. 626, 161 Pac. 287.

d. Sale of Lands to Pay Delinquent Assessments.

46. Certificate of sale, sufficiency of.—A certificate of sale dated March 3, 1906, instead of February 20, 1906, the day of sale, is not void for that reason where it is stated therein that the property may be redeemed within twelve months from the former date.—Bruschi v. Cooper, 30 Cal. App. 682, 159 Pac. 728, 734.

47. Same.—The dating of the certificate of sale on the day of the sale is immaterial, where it recites the date of sale, and that the property may be redeemed, as provided, within one year from that date, and reciting the last day of redemption.—Corson v. Crocker, 31 Cal. App. 626, 161 Pac. 287.

48. Same—Tax deed—Misnomer.—A certificate of sale and a tax deed are both invalid where the name of the person assessed appeared in the assessment book as "D. Bruschie," and in the certificate of sale as "D. Bruscia."—Bruschi v. Cooper, 30 Cal. App. 682, 159 Pac. 728, 734.

III. ACTIONS.

49. Action to void assessment for want of jurisdiction.—Irregularity.—If the complaint in an action to restrain a sale of lands in an irrigation district does not show that plaintiff's assessment was altered, or that the general assessed value of lands in the district was lowered by the board of equalization, to plaintiff's injury, and does not show error in the original assessment which remained binding, upon the theory that the action of the board was void for want of jurisdiction, it is immaterial whether the board did or did not have jurisdiction.—Lahman v. Hatch, 124 Cal. 1, 56 Pac. 621.

50. Action for injunction against sale of land to pay void assessment.—A property owner to have an injunction against the sale of his land for nonpayment of an assessment under the Bridgeford act, on the ground of irregularities in the proceedings after the levy, looking to its collection, without first paying or offering to pay the amount justly due.—Imperial Land Co. v. Imperial Irr. Dist., 173 Cal. 660, 667, 161 Pac. 113.

51. Action to void assessment for mere irregularities.—A landowner in an irrigation district organized under the Bridgeford act (March 31, 1897), may not attack the validity of an assessment for mere irregularities which do not infringe his constitutional rights, nor for failure to comply with statutory requirements which the legislature might have dispensed with, unless by an action commenced within 30 days after the levy thereof, as required by sections 68 to 72 of the act.—Imperial Land Co. v. Imperial Irr. Dist., 173 Cal. 660, 662, 161 Pac. 113.

52. Action to review proceedings.—Failure to make necessary allegations.—On a review of the proceedings to form an irrigation district, where the complaint does not aver that any of the signatures to the petition were false or forged, or that the persons making them were unauthorized to sign, where made by an agent, the mere fact that the evidence upon which the board found their authenticity is not incorporated in the record in detail, is insufficient ground upon which to declare the proceedings invalid.—Imperial Water Co. v. Board of Supervisors, 162 Cal. 15, 24, 120 Pac. 780.

53. Action under sections 68 and 72.—Purpose.—The action brought under sections 68 to 72, by the board of supervisors or property owner is solely for the purpose of inquiry into the validity of the bonds, and is not an inquiry into the proceedings for the organization of the district.—Imperial Water Co. v. Board of Supervisors, 162 Cal. 15, 19, 120 Pac. 780.

54. Same—Does not provide plain, speedy or adequate remedy.—The action provided for under sections 68 to 72 does not provide a plain, speedy or adequate remedy to determine the validity of the organization of a district, and no such remedy remains except certiorari.—Imperial Water Co. v. Board of Supervisors, 162 Cal. 15, 20, 120 Pac. 780.

IV. POWERS, DUTIES AND OBLIGATIONS OF DISTRICT AND ITS OFFICERS.

55. Creation of district a legislative act.—The creation of an irrigation district under the act of March 31, 1897 (254), is a legislative act.—Imperial Water Co. v. Board of Supervisors, 162 Cal. 15, 17, 120 Pac. 780.

56. Ascertainment of certain facts, after notice and hearing judicial in character.—Where the legislature delegates the power to form irrigation districts to a local board, and provides that it can be exercised only upon certain conditions and upon the ascertainment of certain facts by such board, after a notice and hearing to parties interested, the proceeding thus authorized is judicial in character.—Imperial Water Co. v. Board of Supervisors, 162 Cal. 15, 17, 120 Pac. 780.

57. District can not grant preferential rights.—An irrigation district can not grant preferential rights to the use of any part of its water.—Byington v. Sacramento, etc., Co., 170 Cal. 124, 133, 148 Pac. 791.

58. Lease by district of all its properties.—Statute of 1901.—A lease by an irrigation district of all its properties, made under the authority of the act of 1901, would have read into it the provisions of the statute, and thus the lessee would be compelled to assume the burden of continuing the supply.—Byington v. Sacramento, etc., Co., 170 Cal. 124, 131, 148 Pac. 791.

59. Same—Same—Estoppel of lessee.—The assignee of the lease is estopped from denying the validity of the title under which it took possession of the demised premises.—Byington v. Sacramento, etc., Co., 170 Cal. 124, 130, 148 Pac. 791.

60. Illegally organized district continues to be de facto district for certain purposes.—An irrigation district, after having been judicially declared to be illegally organized, is still a de facto district for the purpose of winding up its affairs, and it has sufficient vitality to make a lease under authority of the act of 1901 (815) of all its properties, water rights and uncompleted works; and the acts of an assignee of such lease are deemed to be a continuation of the original dedication, and the water rights acquired under the lease are deemed a part of the original system, and the lands within the boundaries of such district must, on demand, be served with water for irrigation, before any of the appropriated water is taken to outside lands.—Byington v. Sacramento, etc., Co., 170 Cal. 124, 128, 148 Pac. 791.

61. Contract—Failure of officers to comply with statutory requirements.—No liability is imposed upon an irrigation district by a contract entered into by its officers without complying with all the essential proceedings required by the act, and a bidder for proposed work is not estopped by failure to comply with his bid, from claiming the return of his check deposited with the bid, or from enjoining its payment, where the board of directors failed to comply with essential requirements in calling for bids.—Healey v. Anglo-California Bank, 5 Cal. App. 278, 90 Pac. 54.

IRRIGATION DISTRICTS OF OVER 500,000 ACRES.

ACT 2266a—An act to provide for the government of irrigation districts having an area of more than 500,000 acres and to enable such irrigation districts to construct levees and to protect the lands within such districts from damage resulting from floods and the overflow of rivers and for that purpose to provide additional powers for boards of directors within such irrigation districts.

History: Approved January 21, 1915. In effect immediately. Stats. 1915, p. 1.

Power of board of directors.

§ 1. The board of directors of irrigation districts having an area of more than 500,000 acres may expend such sums as may to them seem necessary for the protection of the canal system of such district or of lands within such districts from damage by flood and from the overflow of rivers and may contribute funds for that purpose to be expended by or jointly with the government of the United States of America, or other governments or persons benefited by the same protective work or works. The board of directors of any such irrigation district may also do all things necessary to insure such irrigation system and the lands within such district from any such damage by flood or overflow without first receiving a petition of land owners or freeholders for holding an election to authorize such expenditure.

Borrowing money.

§ 2. When the issuance of bonds of any such district has been authorized by vote of the electors of such district, for the purpose of protection against floods but have not been sold, the board of directors thereof may borrow for such purpose, at the rate of interest not exceeding seven per cent per annum, the amount of such authorized bond issue, but when such bonds have been sold, the amount borrowed under the provisions of this section must be repaid.

Borrowing for flood protection.

§ 3. In addition to the powers conferred by the last section, the board of directors of any such district shall have power to borrow for flood protection purposes, in any one year not to exceed two hundred thousand dollars at a rate of interest not greater than seven per cent per annum.

Assessments.

§ 4. The board of directors of any such irrigation district shall within fifteen days after the close of its session as a board of equalization, levy an assessment sufficient to raise the annual interest on any outstanding bonds of such district and for any year in which any bonds shall fall due, must increase such assessment to an amount sufficient to raise a sum sufficient to pay the principal of the outstanding bonds as they mature, also, sufficient to pay in full all sums due or that shall become due from the district before the time for levying the next annual assessment, also, sufficient to pay in full, the amount of any other contract or obligation of the district due or to become due within the succeeding twelve months and such further sum as, with the other revenue of the district, will meet the estimated current expenses of the district including cost of flood prevention for the succeeding twelve months.

How governed.

§ 5. Except as herein provided, every such irrigation district shall be governed by the provisions of an act of the legislature of the state of California, entitled, "An act to provide for the organization and government of irrigation districts and to provide for the acquisition or construction thereby of works for the irrigation of lands embraced within such districts, and also to provide for the distribution of water for irrigation purposes," approved March 31, 1897, and the acts amendatory thereof.

Urgency.

§ 6. This act is hereby declared to be an urgency measure, within the meaning of section 1, article IV of the constitution of the state of California, and shall take effect immediately.

The facts constituting such urgency are as follows: One irrigation district which will be affected and governed by the provisions of this act, and which contains a population of over thirty thousand people, is in serious danger of loss of life, and of a vast amount of property, by reason of threatened overflow of the Colorado river. There is no other public body authorized to make the expenditures necessary to secure protection from such threatened overflow and the protective work necessary in order to be effective, must be commenced before this act would take effect without the enactment of this section. It is therefore necessary for the immediate preservation of public safety, that this act take effect immediately.

"THE CALIFORNIA IRRIGATION ACT."

ACT 2266b—An act to be known as "the California irrigation act" providing for co-operation between the state of California and the United States, and independent proceedings, in the storage and diversion of water, the distribution thereof for irrigation and other beneficial uses and purposes, the generation and manufacture of electric power; creating an irrigation board, and providing for the formation of irrigation districts and conservation districts, and the conversion of irrigation districts, reclamation districts, drainage districts and other political subdivisions of the state organized for the purpose of promoting irrigation, reclamation and drainage, into irrigation districts under this act; and empowering said irrigation board to make and approve contracts and agreements, to construct reservoirs and other works, divert, distribute and sell water and lease and sell water rights, and generate, lease and sell electric power, to apportion to the constituent units of conservation districts the water and electric power to be produced and generated by conservation district works, to levy assessments, and issue bonds of irrigation districts and conservation districts; providing for the management, control and supervision of such irrigation districts and conservation districts and of the works constructed pursuant to this act; directing the state department of engineering relative to such works; and generally providing a policy relating to the storage, diversion and use of water and the manufacture or generation of electric power, and adopting a plan for providing revenues therefor; and repealing the California irrigation act approved June 4, 1915, and chapter 646 of the statutes of 1917, approved May 28, 1917, amendatory thereof.

History: Approved May 16, 1919. In effect July 22, 1919. Stats. 1919, p. 671. Prior act of June 4, 1915. In effect August 8, 1915. Stats. 1915, p. 1173. Amended May 28, 1917. In effect July 27, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 1068, repealed by the present act. The amending act of 1917 amended the title of the act of 1915, and all sections of the act except 15a, as to which no mention was made.

IRRIGATION BOARD.

Irrigation board created. Office. Officers. Compensation. Amounts paid by conservation districts.

§ 1. There is created a board to be known as the "irrigation board," which shall consist of three members, and shall constitute a body corporate and politic for the purpose of exercising the powers and performing the acts herein mentioned, and which shall have the power to sue and to be sued. Within thirty days of the date upon which this act takes effect the governor shall appoint the members of said board and the members so appointed shall serve for four years and until their successors have been appointed; provided, that the members of said board heretofore appointed under the California irrigation act approved June 4, 1915, shall serve out the terms for which they were appointed. Their successors shall be appointed, and all vacancies shall be filled by appointment in like manner. The office of the irrigation board shall be at the city of Sacramento; a branch office may be maintained in the city and county of San Francisco.

The irrigation board shall elect one of its members as president, and shall employ a secretary and such attorneys, engineers, superintendents, inspectors and other assistants as it may require, and shall fix the terms of their employment and compensation. Each member of the irrigation board shall receive as compensation the sum of ten dollars per day for each day employed by such member in the performance of duties under this act, and shall receive actual traveling expenses while engaged in such duties. All such salaries, compensation and expenses shall be payable out of any funds under the control of the irrigation board applicable to such payments. Where a conservation district has been formed, as hereinafter provided, the irrigation board shall apportion and certify to each district therein or component unit thereof, and to each private corporation, mutual ditch company and mutual water company admitted to the benefits of such conservation district, an amount for its share of the general cost and expense of the maintenance and operation of the irrigation board in connection with such district, or component unit, or private corporation or mutual ditch company, or mutual water company, for the ensuing or previous year, and also such additional amounts as are necessary for the purpose of defraying the cost of all administrative, engineering and other legal expenses necessary for laying out the plans therefor, and such amounts shall be paid by each of such districts, or component units, to the state treasurer, and shall be deposited in a fund to be held and paid out for the account of said conservation district in the same manner as hereinafter provided for the funds of said conservation district.

Interest of state in water storage paramount.

§ 2. It is hereby declared that the state of California has a paramount interest in the storage and diversion of water, the irrigation of land and the production of electric power; that such storage, irrigation and production of electric power will make productive vast quantities of land that are comparatively unproductive and will increase production, property valuations and population in the state, make profitable the cultivation of small tracts and promote subdivision of larger tracts, and will promote the welfare and prosperity of all the people. The powers herein conferred upon the irrigation board are hereby declared to be police and regulatory powers and are necessary to the accomplishment of a purpose that is indispensable to the public interests.

Powers of irrigation board.

§ 3. The irrigation board shall have power to make, or cause to be made, examinations and surveys, to make or adopt plans, and estimate, or cause to be estimated, the cost of all projects for the storage or diversion of water within the state of California, the distribution of said water, and the generation of electric power in connection with such storage, and the sale and distribution of such power, and to make and enter into contracts for the construction and maintenance of works for such projects and the supervision and administration thereof. The irrigation board shall also have power to confer and make agreements with any authorized department, board or officer of the United States government, or with any irrigation district, reclamation district, or drainage district, or other political subdivision of the state organized to promote irrigation, reclamation or drainage, or with any water, power, irrigation or other company, or corporation, or association, or person, or persons, with reference to such projects and concerning examinations, surveys, works and plans in connection therewith. Any plan finally approved by the irrigation board (and when in any case the approval of any authorized department, board or officer of the United States government is necessary, it is also approved by such authorized department, board or officer) shall be the official plan approved by the state of California and authorized by it for the project involved therein, but such plan may be modified or changed from time to time thereafter in like manner as originally adopted or approved.

State engineering department to make surveys.

§ 4. The state department of engineering, or such engineer or engineers as may be appointed by the irrigation board, shall make such surveys, examinations, reports, plans and estimates as may be required by the board, either with or without the co-operation of the United States or any department thereof, whenever said board has under its control money available with which to pay the expenses in connection therewith. All such work and all supervision of construction shall be performed under such contracts and regulations as may be made or approved by the irrigation board or agreed upon between said board and the United States.

FORMATION OF DISTRICT.

Petition to organize irrigation district.

§ 5. Whenever the holders of title, or evidence of title, or of possessory rights to lands entered under the laws of the United States, or of the state of California, representing one-half or more of any body of land susceptible of irrigation (excepting lands embraced within the limits of incorporated cities or towns) desire to form an irrigation district under the provisions of this act, for the irrigation of said land, they may present to the irrigation board a petition signed by them, or their authorized agents, which petition shall set forth generally the boundaries of the proposed district, a description of the lands by legal subdivisions or other boundaries, the county in which they are situated, the number of acres in the proposed district, and in each tract with the names (if known) of the owners thereof, and designating as unsold any lands not reduced to private ownership; and also shall state generally the source or sources from which said lands are proposed to be irrigated, and the proposed name of the district, and shall pray that the territory within the boundaries of the proposed district may be organized as an irrigation district under the provisions of this act. The petition may consist of any number of separate instruments; and guardians, executors, administrators or other persons holding property in a trust capacity under appointment of court may sign any petition provided for in this act, when authorized by an order of court, which order may be made without notice. A certificate of acknowledgment taken before a notary public or justice of the peace of any state, or an affidavit by any person in the presence of whom such petition was signed, shall be sufficient evidence of the genuineness of such signature, and of the fact of residence of any petitioner and any fact going to the qualifications of any petitioner under this act.

Defects in petition.

No defect in the contents of the petition or in the title to or form of the notice or signatures, or the lack of signatures shall vitiate any proceedings thereon; provided, such petition or petitions have a sufficient number of qualified signatures attached thereto.

Evidence of title.

The certificate of the county assessor of the county wherein the lands described in the petition are situated that the titles and possessory rights of the respective signers thereto are as appear on the county assessment roll or rolls last equalized at the time of filing the petition, or of the register of the United States land office of the district in which said lands are situated, or of the surveyor general of the state of California, shall be sufficient evidence of the title or possessory right of any signer hereto, and where as to any tract the assessor is unable to make such certificate for the reason that it is assessed to an unknown owner or the assessment roll does not purport to give the true name or gives the names of a portion only of the owners, the actual owners of such property shall be considered the owners for all the purposes of this act and owners of undivided interests may sign for such interest.

Hearing. Notice of hearing.

The petition must be verified by the affidavit of one of the petitioners, and shall be filed with the irrigation board. Upon the receipt of such petition the irrigation board, or such person as said board may authorize to act in such cases, shall designate a time and place for the hearing of said petition, which date shall be not less than twenty days nor more than thirty days from the date of the filing of the petition with the board. The secretary of the irrigation board shall cause notice of said hearing to be published at least once a week for two successive weeks, prior to the time of said hearing, in a newspaper of general circulation printed and published in each of the counties in which any of the lands intended to be embraced within such proposed irrigation district are situated. Such notice shall designate the time and place when and where said petition will be heard, and shall set forth the exterior boundaries of said proposed district.

Objections to creation of district. Order creating district. Copy of order with map to be filed. Approval of state engineer.

At the time and place designated in said notice any person owning land within the said proposed irrigation district, may appear and present written objections to the creation of such district. The irrigation board shall hear and receive such evidence as may be offered in support of the petition and in support of said written objections. The irrigation board may continue said hearing from time to time, by order entered upon its minutes, to the end that a full hearing may be had. Upon the final hearing of said matter, the irrigation board shall make an order approving said petition as originally presented, or as modified by such order, excluding from the district such lands as in the judgment of the irrigation board should be excluded, and upon the filing of such order with the irrigation board such irrigation district shall be deemed to be created. Upon application by any person whose lands are susceptible of irrigation from any of the proposed sources, the irrigation board, in its discretion, may order such lands included within said proposed district. The order shall describe the exterior boundaries of the district, as determined by the irrigation board, and also the exterior boundaries of any lands excluded therefrom, and shall be indorsed upon or attached to the petition, and be signed by the president and attested by the secretary of the irrigation board. A copy of the order creating such irrigation district, certified by such secretary, shall be filed in the office of the secretary of state, and a similarly certified copy of such order, together with a map showing the exterior boundaries of the district, and indicating the lands excluded therefrom, shall be filed in the office of the county recorder of each of the counties in which any of the lands within the said district are situated, and a properly certified copy of such order, together with the maps attached thereto, shall be received in all of the courts of this state as prima facie evidence of the organization of such district and of the boundaries thereof. Before the irrigation board makes such order, it may require that the project and proposed works be approved by the state engineer, or by such engineer or engineers as shall be designated by the irrigation board.

Board of directors. Proceeding to determine legality of district.

Each irrigation district created under the provisions of this act shall have a board of directors composed of owners of land within the district, elected by the owners of land in such district in the manner provided for the election of trustees of reclamation districts in section three thousand four hundred ninety-one of the Political Code of the state of California, except that such elections shall be called by and returns thereof made to the board of supervisors of the county in which the greater portion of the lands of the district are situated. Each such district shall have a board consisting of five directors; provided, that if so requested in the petition for the formation of said district, the irrigation board may order that there shall be only three directors. After the approval of the petition and the election of directors for the district, the directors shall adopt rules, not inconsistent with the laws of the state, for the government and control of the affairs of the district, which rules may be amended at any time by said board of directors.

The board of directors of any irrigation district created under this act may commence a proceeding in the superior court of any county, wherein a portion of the district is situated, to determine the legality of the existence of said district. The complaint in said proceeding shall describe the district by name and the exterior boundaries thereof, and shall contain a prayer that such district be adjudged a legal irrigation district. The summons in such proceeding shall be served by publishing a copy thereof once a week for four successive weeks in a newspaper of general circulation published in each county where any part of such district is situated. Within thirty days after the last publication of said summons, any person who may be interested may appear and answer said complaint, in which answer the facts relied upon to show the invalidity of the district shall be set forth. If no answer shall be filed, the court must render judgment as prayed for in the complaint. If any answer shall be filed within said period, the court shall thereafter proceed as in other civil cases, but no district shall be adjudged invalid when it appears that such district has, for five years prior to the commencement of such proceeding, been performing its functions as an irrigation district under this act in good faith. The proceeding under this section is hereby declared to be a proceeding in rem, and the judgment rendered therein shall be conclusive against all persons whomsoever and against the state of California.

Converting districts into irrigation districts. Hearing. Order of irrigation board.

§ 6. Any irrigation district formed under the provisions of any other law or statute of this state, and any reclamation district or drainage district (excluding from any such district the area embraced within the limits of any incorporated city or town) susceptible of irrigation from any project adopted or approved by the irrigation board, may become an irrigation district under the provisions of this act upon presenting to the irrigation board a consent thereto signed by the holders of title, or evidence of title, of more than half of the lands embraced in said district (excepting lands within incorporated cities or towns). Upon the filing of such consent, the irrigation board shall fix a date for a hearing of the matter involved in such consent. The secretary of the irrigation board shall publish a notice of such hearing once a week for four successive weeks preceding the date fixed therefor in a newspaper of general circulation published in each of the counties in which any portion of said district is situated. At the time and place designated in said notice the irrigation board shall hear and receive such evidence as may be offered in support of the proposal to convert such district into an irrigation district under the provisions of this act and in support of any written objection thereto filed with the irrigation board. The irrigation board may continue said hearing from time to time, by order entered upon its minutes, to the end that a full hearing may be had. Upon the final hearing of said matter, the irrigation board shall make its order, providing that said district (excluding therefrom the territory embraced in incorporated cities or towns) shall thereafter be an irrigation district subject to all of the provisions of this act, or, in its discretion, said irrigation board may decline to make such order. If the irrigation board shall make an order converting such district into an irrigation district, all of the lands therein (except lands lying within the boundaries of incorporated cities or towns), shall become, and shall thereafter be, subject to all of the provisions of this act.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS.

Powers of board of directors. Action nullified by irrigation board. Compensation.

§ 6a. The board of directors of an irrigation district created under this act shall have power to elect one of its members president thereof; and, subject to the approval of the irrigation board, to employ engineers and others to survey, plan, locate and estimate the cost of the works necessary for the improvement of the lands of the district by irrigation, reclamation and drainage and thereafter subject to the approval of the irrigation board, to modify or change such original plan or plans, or adopt new supplemental or additional plan or plans; to acquire by purchase, condemnation or other legal means, necessary property and rights of way, and the right to take material for the construction of all necessary works, including dams, canals, drains, sluices, bulkheads, water gates, embankments, levees and pumping plants, and to construct, maintain and keep in repair all works requisite and necessary to that end, and to do all other acts and things necessary or required for the irrigation, reclamation and drainage of the lands embraced in the district, and to carry out the purposes of this act. All of the acts and proceedings of such board of directors, however, shall be recorded in the minutes of said board, and copies thereof, certified by the secretary of said board as recorded, shall, within ten days after the passage or adoption of the same, be filed with the secretary of the irrigation board, and the irrigation board, within twenty days after such filing may, by order filed with its secretary, reject and nullify the action of the board of directors of such irrigation district, and upon the filing of a certified copy of such order of rejection or nullification with the secretary of such irrigation district, the said order of said irrigation district board shall be invalid and unenforceable for any purpose; but if such action of such irrigation district board shall not be so rejected or nullified within the period above provided, the same shall be and remain in full force and effect. The irrigation board may confirm and ratify any action of said irrigation district board at any time, and upon such confirmation and ratification such act or order of said irrigation district board shall be valid and effective for all purposes. The several members of the board of directors shall each be entitled to receive for actual and necessary services performed and for expenses incurred by them, respectively, for and in the interest of the district, such compensation as the irrigation board may determine to be just and reasonable, which shall constitute an indebtedness of the district, to be paid in the same manner and out of the same fund as other debts of the district; provided, that no warrant or order drawn for such purpose shall be valid until approved by the irrigation board.

CONSERVATION DISTRICTS.

Conservation districts. Rights of private corporations, etc., to share benefits.

§ 6b. The irrigation board shall have power to consolidate into single districts in the manner and for the purposes provided in this act, irrigation districts, reclamation districts, drainage districts and other political subdivisions of the state organized to promote irrigation, reclamation or drainage, which consolidated districts shall be known, and are herein referred to, as conservation districts; and, the purpose of the formation of such districts being primarily to provide for and promote the irrigation of the lands therein and in connection therewith and incidental thereto the reclamation and drainage of such lands, the legislature hereby expressly declares that every such conservation district, formed as herein provided, is and shall be an irrigation district within the meaning of section thirteen of article eleven of the constitution of the state of California, and within the meaning of every other provision of said constitution relating to irrigation districts. Such conservation districts shall be composed of two or more units all or any of which units may be irrigation districts, formed under the provisions of this or any other act or statute of this state, reclamation districts, drainage districts, or other political districts of the state organized to promote irrigation, reclamation or drainage, now or hereafter to be formed. The territory embraced within such units need not be contiguous in order to be embraced within the same conservation district, provided all or a portion of the territory embraced within said respective units is susceptible of irrigation from the works proposed to be constructed by said conservation district. Any private corporation engaged in the distribution of water to the public, for irrigation or other beneficial uses, or in the generation of hydroelectric power for sale to the public, and any mutual ditch company or mutual water company organized for the purpose of distributing water to the members or stockholders thereof, which private corporation, mutual ditch company or mutual water company is receiving or entitled to receive water from the same stream or streams for the storage or diversion of whose waters it is proposed to construct the works of said conservation district, shall have the right, upon payment of its proportion of the cost of constructing, operating and maintaining such works, to share in all the benefits resulting from such construction, operation and maintenance, including its proportionate share of the water to be conserved thereby and the power to be generated and produced in connection therewith; provided, that nothing herein contained shall be deemed to confer upon said irrigation board, or upon any conservation district formed under the provisions of this act, the right to impair, or deprive any person, firm or corporation of any vested right in or to the waters of any stream or streams proposed to be stored or diverted by said conservation district, without due process of law.

Petition. Notice. Hearing.

Upon presentation to it of a petition signed by the respective governing boards of two or more of said units praying for the formation of a conservation district, the irrigation board shall fix a time and place for the hearing of such petition. The secretary of the irrigation board shall cause notice of said hearing to be given by publication once a week for four successive weeks in a newspaper of general circulation published in each county wherein any part of said petitioning districts are situated, and also by mailing a written notice of such hearing to the governing boards of such other districts or political subdivisions of the state and to such private corporations, mutual ditch companies and mutual water companies as may be designated by the irrigation board. At the time fixed by the irrigation board for such hearing, or at such other time to which the hearing may be adjourned, the irrigation board shall hear and receive evidence in support of any objections which may be filed in opposition thereto, and shall also receive applications from other districts to become a part of such conservation district and from private corporations, mutual ditch companies or mutual water companies to participate in the benefits of such conservation district. If there shall be presented at such hearing a written objection or objections signed by the owners of more than one-half of the lands in any such unit district the signing of such petition by the governing board of such unit district shall be deemed to be nullified and the irrigation board shall have no power to include such unit district within the proposed conservation district.

Territory included. Order creating district. Petition of district to be included.

The irrigation board shall include as a part of such conservation district the territory embraced within any district unit applying to be made part of the conservation district, which applying district shall be lawfully receiving or entitled to receive water from the same stream or streams whose waters are proposed to be stored or diverted by such conservation district, and shall admit to beneficial participation in said conservation district such private corporations, mutual ditch companies or mutual water companies likewise lawfully receiving or entitled to receive water and applying to the irrigation board to be admitted to such participation. The application of any unit district or private corporation, mutual ditch company or mutual water company, not so lawfully receiving or entitled to receive water, to be included as a part of said conservation district or to be permitted to share in the benefits thereof, may be approved or rejected by the irrigation board in its discretion. Upon the final hearing of said matter, the irrigation board shall make an order approving said petition, as originally presented, or as modified by such order. Such order shall describe said conservation district by exterior boundaries when the lands therein lie in one body, or by naming the unit districts embraced therein when said lands do not lie in one body, and shall also designate the private corporations, mutual ditch companies or mutual water companies, entitled to participate in the benefits of the works proposed to be constructed by said conservation district. Upon the filing of such order with the irrigation board such conservation district shall be deemed to be created. A certified copy of the order creating such conservation district shall be filed in the office of the secretary of state, and a certified copy thereof, together with a map showing the boundaries of the district, shall be filed in the office of the county recorder of each of the counties in which any of the lands within the said district are situated. A properly certified copy of such order, together with the map attached thereto, shall be received in all the courts of this state as prima facie evidence of the organization of such district in compliance with the provisions of this act, and of the boundaries thereof.

Petition of private corporation, etc. Hearing.

After the formation of a conservation district as herein provided, any irrigation district, reclamation district, drainage district, or other political subdivision of the state organized to promote irrigation, reclamation or drainage, theretofore existing and which was entitled to become a part of and unit in such conservation district at the time of its formation, and any such district or political subdivision of the state thereafter formed, any portion of the lands in which are receiving or entitled to receive water from the same stream or streams for the storage or diversion of whose waters said conservation district was formed, may, at any time prior to the making by the irrigation board of the order approving the apportionment as provided in section ten of this act, but not thereafter, file with the irrigation board a petition to be made a part of and unit in such conservation district. And any private corporation, mutual ditch company or mutual water company existing at the time of the formation of such conservation district, and at that time entitled to be admitted to participation in the benefits resulting from the construction of the works of such conservation district and any such private corporation, mutual water company or mutual ditch company thereafter organized and receiving or entitled to receive water from such stream or streams, may, at any time prior to the making by the irrigation board of the order approving the apportionment as provided in section ten of this act, but not thereafter, file with the irrigation board a petition to be admitted to such participation.

Upon the filing of any such petition, within the time hereinbefore limited, the irrigation board shall fix a time and place for the hearing thereof and give such notice of said hearing and cause such proceedings to be had and taken at such hearing and such order to be made and filed, and certified copies of such order to be filed, as in the case of a hearing upon a petition, for the original formation of a conservation district, and the right of such petitioning district or political subdivision to become a part of and unit in such conservation district or of such private corporation, mutual water company or mutual ditch company to be admitted to participation in the benefits resulting from the construction of the works thereof, shall be determined in the same manner as if such district or political subdivision or private corporation or mutual water company or mutual ditch company had presented its petition or application at the hearing of the petition for the original formation of such conservation district.

Proceeding to determine legality of district.

The irrigation board, or the governing body of any irrigation district, reclamation district, drainage district, or other political subdivision of the state organized to promote irrigation, reclamation or drainage, constituting a unit of said conservation district, or any private corporation, or mutual water company or mutual ditch company admitted to participation in the benefits of such conservation district, may commence a proceeding in the superior court of any county wherein a portion of said conservation district is situated to determine the legality of the existence of said conservation district. The complaint in said proceeding shall describe the district by name, and the exterior boundaries thereof, when the lands therein lie in one body, or by naming the unit districts embraced therein when said lands do not lie in one body, and shall contain a prayer that such district be adjudged a legal conservation district. The summons in such proceeding shall be served by publishing a copy thereof once a week for four successive weeks in a newspaper of general circulation published in each county wherein any part of such district is situated. Within thirty days after the last publication of said summons any person who may be interested may appear and answer said complaint in which answer the facts relied upon to show the invalidity of the district shall be set forth. If no answer shall be filed the court must render judgment as prayed for in the complaint. If any answer shall be filed within said period the court shall thereafter proceed as in other civil cases, but no district shall be adjudged invalid when it appears that such district has, for five years prior to the commencement of such proceeding, been performing its functions as a conservation district in good faith. The proceeding under this section is hereby declared to be a proceeding in rem and the judgment rendered therein shall be conclusive against all persons whomsoever and against the state of California.

When works benefit overflowed land.

§ 7. When any of the works constructed under the provisions of this act serve the purpose of drainage, flood control or reclamation of swamp and overflowed lands within an irrigation or conservation district formed under the provisions of this act, the irrigation board may estimate the proportion of the cost of said construction, which may be properly charged to the lands benefited by such drainage, flood control or reclamation, and assessments may be levied in the manner herein provided upon the lands so benefited for the purpose of paying such proportion of said cost of construction, together with a reasonable portion of the expenses of maintenance and repair of such works.

RULES AND REGULATIONS.

Rules and regulations.

§ 8. The irrigation board may make and enforce any and all rules and regulations that in its opinion will promote the objects of this act, and may perform any act and exercise any power necessary to the accomplishment of the purposes herein expressed and full power is hereby conferred in the premises whether or not such powers are herein specially mentioned, and may sue and be sued in the same manner and with the same effect as a municipal corporation.

Member may conduct hearing.

§ 9. For the purpose of performing any duty under this act the irrigation board may appoint one of its members to conduct any hearing or investigation. Such member shall make a written report of his proceedings and shall state the evidence introduced at any hearing and his conclusions thereon. Upon such report, or upon such further inquiry as the irrigation board shall deem proper, the irrigation board may pass upon and decide any question under consideration at said hearing or investigation. The decisions of the irrigation board shall be final except as to questions, the determination of which are vested in the courts by this act or by the constitution of this state or by the constitution of the United States.

APPORTIONMENT OF WATER.

Apportionment of water. Lease of surplus water. Special board of apportionment. Oath. Notice. Hearing.

§ 10. Prior to making any assessment, to provide funds for the construction or purchase of any project for the construction or purchase of which any conservation district shall have been formed, there shall be apportioned as hereinafter provided, to each constituent district or unit under such project the proportion to which it is entitled of all water stored or to be stored or diverted or to be diverted by such project for the irrigation of such conservation district, and of all power to be developed in connection therewith, which proportion of such water and power shall be forever applied to the purposes of said constituent district; provided, that any water or power that may be so apportioned and for which any constituent district or unit has not, to the full extent thereof, a beneficial use, may be leased by such district or unit, with the consent of the irrigation board, to any other territory within or without the said conservation district; the other districts or units, embraced in said conservation district to be entitled, however, to the first right to so lease such surplus water or power. The apportionment of water and power under this section shall be made by a special board of apportionment and confirmed by the irrigation board. The members of such special board of apportionment shall be three in number and shall be appointed by the irrigation board, subject, however, to the approval of two-thirds of the members of the advisory board hereinafter provided for. The members of such special board of apportionment shall be disinterested persons having no interest in any land within the conservation district within which such apportionment is to be made and not residing within such district. Before entering upon his duties each of the members of said special board of apportionment shall take and subscribe an oath that he is not in any manner interested in any real estate within said district, directly or indirectly; that he does not reside therein, and that he will perform the duties of a member of such board to the best of his ability. Said special board of apportionment shall determine, define and apportion to the several districts or units within said conservation district, and to the private corporations, mutual water companies and mutual ditch companies admitted to share in the benefits thereof, the amount and extent of the water to be produced, stored or diverted for the project contemplated by said conservation district and the amount and extent of the power to be produced or generated in connection therewith, and shall likewise determine, define and apportion the cost of the project, and shall make a report thereof to the irrigation board. Upon receiving such report the irrigation board shall fix a date for the hearing thereof, and notice to all persons in such conservation district shall be given by publication once a week for four successive weeks in a newspaper of general circulation published in each of the counties in which any portion of the said district is situated. Such hearing shall be held upon a date not less than sixty nor more than ninety days after the first publication of said notice, and affidavits of the publication of said notice in the manner herein provided shall be made and filed with the irrigation board before such hearing. In addition to the publication of such notice the secretary of the irrigation board shall mail a copy thereof to the governing boards of such other districts or political subdivisions of the state and to such private corporations, mutual ditch companies and mutual water companies as may be designated by the irrigation board. At the time set for the hearing the irrigation board shall hear and receive evidence in support of objections which may be presented to the apportionment so made, and shall thereupon make its order approving, modifying or rejecting such apportionment. Any person aggrieved by the order of the irrigation board may commence an action in the superior court of any county in which any part of said conservation district is interested to have said apportionment corrected, modified or annulled. Such action must be commenced within thirty days after said order has been made and filed in the office of the secretary of the irrigation board, and if not so commenced no action or defense shall thereafter be maintained attacking the legality of said apportionment in any respect.

Rates. Control of distribution of water apportioned.

All works constructed at the expense of any irrigation district created under this act, or for any component unit of a conservation district, or for which the same is assessed or charged for the repayment of moneys expended for construction, shall forever be devoted to the purposes of such constituent district or unit under the administration of the irrigation board. No rates shall be charged by an irrigation district formed under the provisions of this act by a conservation district for the use of water for irrigation therein or for power developed in connection therewith, except for the just proportion of such irrigation district or the units of such conservation district, or of the private corporations, mutual water companies or mutual ditch companies entitled to or receiving the benefits of the construction and operation of the works of said conservation district, for the expenses of the governing bodies and employees thereof and of the maintenance, operation, repair and supervision of the works constructed for the benefit of such irrigation district or conservation district, and except for the repayment of moneys appropriated and paid as the cost of construction of the said works and the payment of bonds issued therefor and the interest thereon.

It shall be the duty of the irrigation board, and said board shall have power to do all things necessary to that end, to control and supervise the distribution of the water and power apportioned as herein provided to the units of a conservation district and to the private corporations, mutual water companies and mutual ditch companies admitted to share in the benefits thereof.

CONTRACT FOR REPAYMENT OF MONEY EXPENDED.

Power to contract for repayment of money expended.

§ 11. The irrigation board shall have power to contract with the United States and with the state of California for the repayment of moneys appropriated or expended in the construction of reservoirs, canals, ditches or other works necessary or convenient for any of the purposes herein mentioned. Such repayment shall be made from assessments upon the lands benefited by such works, or the proceeds of bonds issued thereon, from payments made by private corporations, mutual ditch companies or mutual water companies contributing their proportion of the cost of constructing, operating and maintaining such works as provided in section six b of this act, or from revenues derived by the irrigation board for water or power leased or sold by the irrigation board as provided in this act, or from either, all or any of said methods of repayment. The irrigation board may also deposit with the United States and with the state, bonds, notes, contracts, leases, agreements or other obligations for the payment of money, issued or executed by irrigation districts formed under the provisions of this act, or by conservation districts, or the component units of such conservation districts, the proceeds to be applied to said repayment upon such terms as may be agreed upon between the irrigation board and the United States or the state of California.

PURCHASE OF PROPERTY NEEDED.

Power to purchase land, etc., needed.

§ 12. The irrigation board shall have power to acquire within or without any irrigation district created under this act or any conservation district, from persons, associations or private corporations, by purchase, condemnation or other lawful means, any land, water, water rights, reservoirs, flumes, ditches, power lines, telegraph or telephone lines or other works or parts thereof necessary or convenient for the purposes herein mentioned, or necessary for the carrying out of any of the projects formed hereunder.

Advisory board.

§ 13. The chairmen or presiding officers of the governing bodies of the respective irrigation districts, reclamation districts, drainage districts and other political subdivisions of the state organized to promote irrigation, reclamation or drainage, constituting units of a conservation district created under this act, and of the private corporations, mutual water companies and mutual ditch companies contributing to the cost of constructing, operating and maintaining the works of such conservation district, shall be and constitute an advisory board to consult with the irrigation board, and such advisory board shall perform such executive and administrative functions as may be determined from time to time by the irrigation board.

GENERAL POWERS OF IRRIGATION BOARD.

Power to make contracts. Apportionment of revenues.

§ 14. The irrigation board, except where special power is herein elsewhere conferred, shall have power to make, execute and carry out any agreements or contracts for the performance of any act or the construction of any works provided for in this act, and may make contracts for the sale or rental of unapportioned water or power for periods not to exceed forty years, upon such terms as the irrigation board shall prescribe. All revenues received by the irrigation board from such sales or rentals shall be apportioned to the districts constituting component parts of such conservation district and to the private corporations, mutual water companies and mutual ditch companies contributing to the construction of the project from which such revenues are derived. Such apportionment shall be made in the ratio of the respective amounts of assessments levied or charges made for the construction of the works in connection with which such revenues are derived.

Contracts between districts, etc.

For the purpose of carrying this act into effect and of accomplishing the ends and objects herein expressed, and the development and utilization of the water resources of this state, conservation districts, irrigation districts, formed under the provisions of this act, reclamation districts and other political subdivisions of the state organized to promote irrigation, reclamation or drainage, and private corporations organized for the purpose of selling or distributing water or electric power for domestic, irrigation, manufacture, or other beneficial uses and purposes, and mutual water companies and mutual ditch companies, may enter into contracts or agreements with each other or with other districts, political subdivisions, private corporations, associations or persons, for the development, appropriation or storage of water and the apportionment and distribution thereof, and the management, operation and maintenance of any works acquired pursuant to this section, and the division, distribution and payment of the cost and expense of such development, appropriation, storage, apportionment, distribution, management, operation and maintenance. And every and all such contract or contracts shall be valid and binding, in accordance with their terms and provisions respectively; provided, however, that before any such contract or contracts shall go into force or effect or become binding for any purpose, the same shall be submitted to and approved by the irrigation board; and provided, further, that where any such contract relates to or affects the sale, rental or distribution of water or electric power, or the beneficial use of water, by a public utility, the same shall, before it goes into force or effect or becomes binding, be submitted to and approved by the railroad commission of the state of California. And all such contracts approved as herein provided shall be binding and valid for all purposes, either in perpetuity or such term or terms as shall be specified or agreed upon therein or in the order or orders approving the same.

The provisions of this section are in aid of and in addition to other provisions of this act, and the same shall be construed and considered as so in aid of and in addition to, and not limited by or restricted by any of the other terms or provisions of this act. Nothing in this section contained shall be construed to affect or impair the organization or rights of mutual water companies or mutual ditch companies or the rights of the stockholders or members of such companies.

Surveys, etc., of conservation districts.

§ 15. The irrigation board shall, upon the organization of any conservation district as in this act provided, proceed to make or cause to be made, all necessary examinations, surveys, plans and estimates of cost for the storage, diversion and distribution of water and the generation of electric power in connection therewith, and the sale and distribution thereof as may be necessary or requisite to enable said board to ascertain and estimate the requirements and works necessary as aforesaid for the purposes of said conservation district and the probable cost and expense thereof, and in that connection may use and adopt all previous estimates, surveys and reports it may have collected adapted to that purpose, and may employ all necessary engineers and other assistants for the accomplishment of said purposes, and the cost thereof shall be deemed a part of the expense of said project and may issue warrants therefor and same shall bear interest from date of issue at the rate of six per cent per annum until paid, and shall be payable out of the funds of said district, and may be included in any bond issue authorized for the purposes of said district.

Such estimate as is above provided for shall be in such form as shall be approved by said irrigation board and shall be entered in the minutes of said board and shall constitute a part of the records of said board, and the same, or a copy thereof, certified by the secretary of said board, shall be admissible as evidence in any proceeding before any court, commission or tribunal of this state wherein the matters therein set forth shall be admissible in evidence.

Commissioners to assess land.

Whenever, for any of the purposes of this act, the irrigation board shall deem it necessary for the purposes of said district, or the levying of an assessment upon the property therein, or the issuance of bonds by said district, said board shall appoint three commissioners for such purpose or purposes. Such commissioners shall have no interest in any land in the district, either directly or indirectly, and each commissioner before entering upon his duties shall make and subscribe an oath that he is not in any manner interested directly or indirectly in any land in said district, and that he will perform the duties of commissioner to the best of his ability. Thereupon said commissioners shall proceed separately as to each unit within said district to view and assess upon the land within said district a sum sufficient to cover said estimated amount and shall apportion the same according to the benefits which will accrue to each unit within said district, and separately as to each tract of land within said unit. Such benefits to be estimated according to the benefits which will accrue to each tract of land in such unit by reason of the expenditure of said estimated sum, and shall estimate the same in gold coin of the United States.

Assessment roll.

Said commissioners shall prepare and certify a roll on which they shall state the name and address of the owner of each parcel of land in such unit, or if the name or address of any owner is unknown, then, that fact; also a description of each parcel of land by legal subdivisions or boundaries, and the total amount assessed against each parcel of land so described. No mistake in the name of the owner, or supposed owner of any parcel of land, shall invalidate the apportionment or assessment. A separate roll shall be made for the lands in each county where such unit includes land in more than one county. When completed said roll or rolls shall be filed with the irrigation board and certified copies of the particular roll for each county shall be filed with the county recorder of any county in which any lands within said unit may be, and each roll shall be open for inspection by the public for at least thirty days.

Hearing objections. Approval of assessments. Lien. Annual levy. Additional levy.
Surplus used in retiring bonds.

The irrigation board shall appoint a time and place not less than thirty days after said roll has been filed with said recorder or recorders when and where it will meet, within said conservation district for the purpose of hearing objection to said assessment and the apportionment thereof and notice of such hearing shall be published at least once a week for two successive weeks in some newspaper published in each county in which any lands within said district may be. At any time before or at the original date of such hearing, any person interested in any real estate upon which any charge has been apportioned and assessed, may file in the office of the secretary of said irrigation board written objections thereto, stating the grounds of such objections, which said statements shall be verified by the affidavit of such person or some other person who is familiar with the facts. Said irrigation board may postpone such hearing from time to time. At such hearing the irrigation board shall hear such evidence as may be offered touching the correctness of such assessment or the manner of its apportionment and may modify or amend the same and may reapportion all or any part of the entire assessment. No assessment or apportionment shall be increased except upon the hearing of objections thereto or after personal notice or notice by mail to the owner of the land upon which said increase is made. Said irrigation board must make and enter in its minutes an order approving said assessment and apportionment as finally fixed, and the decision of said irrigation board shall be final, and thereafter said assessment and apportionment shall be conclusive evidence of the validity of said assessment and apportionment, and no action or defense shall ever be maintained attacking the same in any respect. And the records of said irrigation board, or a copy thereof certified by its secretary, shall be received in evidence in all or any of the courts of this state, or before any board or tribunal authorized to hear or consider any matter wherein the same shall be admissible as evidence. No change shall be made in said assessment or apportionment after the consideration, approval and fixing thereof by said irrigation board, and all assessments upon the property of said district thereafter shall be levied in accordance therewith and consistent with the apportionment of benefits therein provided for and fixed, and if any assessments are called for or required in addition to the original amount estimated and apportioned for the purposes of said district, such additional amount shall be assessed, levied and raised in accordance with said apportionment and assessment of benefits so fixed in the first instance by said irrigation board. A certified copy of such assessment and apportionment roll as finally approved shall be filed in the offices of the county recorder of each county in which any land within said district is situated. Such assessment and apportionment shall thereafter constitute a first lien upon the land affected thereby until the full amount thereof is paid or until all bonds of the district issued thereon, together with the accrued interest, shall have been fully paid. The said irrigation board shall on the first Tuesday in May following the fixing and approval of said assessment and apportionment therein provided for, and annually thereafter on said date, levy an assessment, sufficient to raise the annual interest on the outstanding bonds of said district, and in any year in which any bonds shall fall due must increase such assessment to an amount sufficient to pay the principal of the outstanding bonds as they mature; also sufficient to pay in full all sums that may become due from the district before the time of collection of the next annual assessment, including an amount sufficient to pay in full the amount of any contract or obligation of the district which may come due during said year or may have been reduced to judgment. And to provide for and maintain a fund out of which the current and contingent obligations of said district can be paid in cash as they mature. In addition to the amounts estimated as necessary for the purposes aforesaid, a further levy of fifteen per cent additional shall be included and levied for the purposes of meeting any additional amounts that may be required on account of delinquencies and to insure the payment of all of the bonded indebtedness, including the interest thereon and other obligations of said district at maturity. Whenever there is a surplus in the funds of said district over and above all requirements as herein specified for the payment of the bonded indebtedness and interest thereon and accrued obligations of said district, such a surplus may be used and applied in retiring the outstanding bonds, or any thereof, of said district. The secretary of the irrigation board must compute and enter in a separate column of the assessment book the respective sums in dollars and cents to be paid as an assessment upon the property therein enumerated. In so doing, said secretary shall enter the names of the owners of such lands and the descriptions thereof in accordance with the last assessment roll of the county in which the said lands are situated. Such assessment must be so levied and computed as to be in accordance with the apportionment and assessment of benefits herein provided for and so that all lands within said district shall be assessed and required to pay in accordance therewith.

Duty of county auditor.

The secretary of said board shall forthwith deliver a certified copy of that portion of said assessments so directed to be entered by him, so far as it applies or appertains to any land within any county situated within said district to the county auditor of such county, and such auditor shall accept and receipt for the same; and thereupon it shall be the duty of said auditor to include said assessment as an assessment against each parcel or tract of land therein described. It shall be the duty of said auditor to examine and ascertain as to any errors or discrepancies that may exist in said roll as to the ownership of, or the descriptions of, land as applied to any owner or owners thereof as compared with the assessment roll of the said county for such year, and if any such difference or discrepancies are found, it shall be the duty of said auditor to correct the same accordingly so that the said roll as to ownerships and descriptions of land and assessments thereof shall correspond to the assessment roll of said county and for such year. And it shall be his duty to audit, enter and certify the same to the tax collector of said county for collection in the same manner and form as county, school district and other taxes are included and certified by him to such tax collector, and all such assessments shall constitute a first lien upon the lands affected thereby as hereinbefore provided.

Additional clerical force for auditor.

The board of supervisors is hereby authorized and empowered to employ what extra clerical force is necessary to perform the additional duties herein prescribed for the auditor. Said extra clerks shall receive as compensation for the work herein provided a per diem not to exceed five dollars which shall be paid by the districts operating under the provisions of this act in proportion to the amount of work done for each and it shall be the duty of the clerk of said board to issue warrants payable to such clerks employed as herein provided out of the funds of the district, upon the presentation of a verified demand, approved by the auditor and the board of supervisors.

Duty of tax collector.

Upon receipt of the same from the auditor of such county it shall be the duty of the tax collector of said county to include the same as a separate entry and charge against the land therein described and to collect the same with the county, school district and other taxes so required to be collected by such county tax collector and to keep and deposit such district taxes in a separate fund, and when the same is collected it shall be the duty of such tax collector to pay the same over to the treasurer of such county at the same time and in the same manner as other taxes collected by him are paid over to such treasurer, and it shall be the duty of such treasurer to receive the same as other taxes are received by him and after receipt thereof to keep the same in a separate fund; and upon receipt of same, or any part thereof, it shall be the duty of such county treasurer within thirty days thereafter to pay the same and all thereof to the treasurer of the state of California, who shall receive and keep the same and deposit the same in a separate fund to the credit of the said district, and to be paid out by him upon the order and approval of the said irrigation board.

Moneys received under contracts, etc., collected by irrigation board.

All moneys received under contracts, leases or other arrangements by such conservation district from any canal companies, mutual or other water companies, reclamation districts, or from any corporations, individuals, or other sources not herein otherwise provided for shall be collected by said irrigation board and by it deposited with the state treasurer, and thereafter to be disbursed as provided as to funds of such district under the order and direction of such irrigation board for the purposes and obligations of said district, including the payment and retirement of outstanding bonds with interest thereon.

Delinquent taxes.

From and after the time of the filing of such assessment roll of such district with the auditor of any county the taxes therein enumerated, levied and assessed, shall be regarded and treated as are the other taxes of said county or the school districts thereof, and the same shall be included in and considered a part of such taxes and the same shall become delinquent at the same time and in the same manner as such other taxes, and with respect to any delinquency or delinquent notices the same shall become delinquent and notice thereof shall be published with and at the same time and in the same manner as other delinquent taxes, and the same shall be similarly treated for all purposes of notice and sale thereof for such delinquent taxes, and shall be subject to redemption from such delinquent district taxes at the same time and in the same manner and through the same officials as are such other taxes. And any and all charges and penalties in connection with such delinquency and interest thereon and penalties in connection therewith shall be similarly charged and collected, and the amounts so collected on account of any such delinquent taxes or interest or penalties thereon shall be received by the county treasurer and paid over to the state treasurer in the same manner as is hereinabove provided, and in the event of the sale of any property for delinquent taxes of such counties or other delinquent taxes, said district taxes shall be included therein and said property shall be sold therefor in connection with and including such other taxes, and upon a redemption thereof or upon a sale of said lands the said district taxes shall be included therein and together with interest and penalties thereon the same shall be received and paid over to the county treasurer, and by him paid over to the state treasurer, as hereinbefore provided.

ISSUE OF BONDS.

Issue of bonds.

§ 16. At any time after the irrigation board shall have made the examinations, surveys, plans and estimates of cost for the storage, diversion and distribution of water, and for the other purposes enumerated in this act, and after the same has been entered in the minutes of said board and shall have also had assessed and apportioned upon the lands in said conservation district the charges and benefits and apportionments provided for in this act, and after such apportionment and assessment roll shall have been finally fixed and approved by the said board, and after the same has been entered in the minutes of the said board must, as soon as may be practicable, proceed and issue the bonds of said district for the purposes aforesaid.

Estimate of amount necessary.

The said board shall, in connection with the previous estimates made and adopted by it, estimate the amount of money necessary to be raised by such bond issue for the purposes of said district, as aforesaid, and shall ascertain and determine the same and enter its order to that effect in the minutes of said board. And whenever thereafter the construction fund has been exhausted by expenditures herein authorized, and it is necessary to raise additional money for such purposes, it shall be the duty of said board to estimate and determine the amount of money necessary to be raised for such additional purposes.

Examination by engineer. Special election. Evidence of ownership.

For the purposes of such bond issue, or additional bond issue, the said board shall be authorized to employ engineers and other assistants and make all such further examinations and estimates as may be necessary, to fix and determine such matters and the conclusion and estimates of said board shall be entered in its minutes. Said irrigation board shall by order entered in its records order a special election to be held at such places in said district as shall be designated by said irrigation board, and at least one such place shall be designated as a voting place in each unit of said conservation district at which said election there shall be submitted to the owners of land in said district the question of whether or not the bonds of said district shall be issued in the amount specified in the order of said board, and which amount shall be stated in the order for such special election. For all purposes of this act relating to signing petitions and voting at any election, and for all other purposes where the question of title to land claimed to be owned by such voter or owner is involved, the equalized assessment roll for the year last preceding in each county wherein any land of the said district is situated, shall be sufficient evidence of ownership of lands in the district, and the certificate of the register of the United States land office in which the lands are situated or of the surveyor general of the state of California, shall be sufficient evidence of possessory right in any lands in the district entered under the laws of the United States or of the state of California. Guardians, executors, administrators and other persons holding land in a trust capacity under appointment of court may sign any such petition and may vote without obtaining any special authority therefor. Said irrigation board shall at the time of calling the said election designate in its order the voting places at which said election shall be held and where votes shall be cast and shall designate three landholders of the district to act as a board of election at each voting place.

Notice.

Notice of such special election must be given by the irrigation board by posting notice thereof in at least three public places in each unit of the district at least twenty days prior thereto, and also by publishing such notice once a week for the same length of time in some newspaper of general circulation, published in each county in which any portion of said district may be situated, or if there be no newspaper published in any one of such counties, then in each county wherein such newspaper is published; and such notice must specify the time and place of holding said election and the aggregate face value of bonds proposed to be issued and the names of three landholders of said district to act as a board of election at each polling place. Affidavits of the publication and posting of such notice must be filed with the clerk of said irrigation board.

One vote for each acre.

At such election each owner of lands in the district shall be entitled to vote in person or by proxy, and shall have the right to cast one vote for each acre of real estate owned by him in the district, such ownership to be determined from the next preceding assessment roll of the county or counties in which the lands of the district are situated and the irrigation board shall, prior to the election, cause to be prepared and certified and furnished to the board of election at each polling place, a true and correct copy of each of said next preceding assessment rolls so far as such assessment roll applies to any lands within such district, and shall likewise cause to be prepared and furnished lists certified by the register of the United States land office and the surveyor general of the state of California respectively showing the lands within the district entered upon under the laws of the United States and the state of California respectively, which said list, so far as disclosed by the records of said officers, shall contain the names of the persons entitled to possessory rights therein and the quantity of land held by each of said persons by virtue of said rights. Said certified rolls and certified lists shall be used by the board of election in determining the number of votes each voter is entitled to cast. Executors, administrators, special administrators and guardians may cast the vote of the estates represented by them. No person shall vote by proxy at such election unless authority to cast such vote shall be evidenced by an instrument in writing, duly acknowledged and certified in the same manner as grants of real property and filed with the board of election.

Ballots.

The ballots cast at such election shall contain the words "bond, yes" or "bonds, no" and also the name of the person casting the ballot, with the number of votes cast by him. A list of the ballots cast shall be made by the board of election containing the name of each voter, and, if the ballots be cast by proxy, the name of the person casting it and the number of votes cast by each and whether the same be cast for or against the issuing of bonds.

Oath of election officer.

If any person appointed as a member of the board of election shall fail to attend at the opening of the polls, the voters then present, voting individually, may appoint in his place any landholder in the district. Each member of said board of election must, before entering upon his duties, take and subscribe an official oath, to faithfully perform his duties as an officer of such election, which oath may be administered by an officer authorized to administer oaths, or by a landholder in the district.

Polls open.

The polls shall be kept open from ten o'clock a. m. of the day of election until five o'clock p. m. of that day.

Canvass of votes.

At the close of the polls the board of election shall at once proceed to canvass the votes and declare the result, and shall forward a certificate showing such result and the number of votes cast for and against the issuing of the bonds to the irrigation board and shall also deliver to the said irrigation board all ballots cast at such election and all documents and papers used at such election.

Order of irrigation board.

Said irrigation board shall, upon the receipt of such canvass and declaration of the result from the said board of election, proceed to examine the same and shall ascertain and declare the result as shown by such canvass and declaration, and shall enter an order in its minutes that the said proposition for the issuance of said bonds has been carried or defeated, as the case may be.

Result recorded.

Forthwith, upon the declaration of the result of said election by said irrigation board, the secretary of said board shall make a certified copy of the order of said board, declaring the result of said election, and shall forward said certified copy or copies to the recorder or recorders of the counties in which any land of said conservation district may be situated, and the same shall forthwith be filed and recorded in said recorder or recorders' office, and shall impart notice to all interested persons as to the result of said election.

Contest of election. Hearing. Decision final. Bonds issued.

Any person owning property within the said district, liable to assessment, may contest such election, by filing a written contest specifying the grounds of his objections thereto, with said irrigation board, said written contest to be filed within thirty days after the declaration of the result of said election by said irrigation board, and if no such contest and objections be filed within thirty days, no such contest and objections shall thereafter be received or filed. Such written contest shall specify the ground or grounds of contest to said election, and upon the filing of the same with said irrigation board shall expeditiously set the said contest for hearing, and shall have the right to postpone the hearing for such time as may be necessary, but not otherwise, and shall expeditiously hear and determine the same. For the purposes of such hearing the board may by subpoena, signed by the secretary, under its seal, compel the attendance of witnesses and the production of evidence. Disobedience of such subpoena or of any lawful order of the board in the premises shall constitute a contempt of the authority of the board punishable by the board in accordance with title five of part three, of the Code of Civil Procedure, and shall also constitute a misdemeanor under section one hundred sixty-six of the Penal Code. Said irrigation board shall, upon the conclusion of said hearing of said contest, proceed forthwith to enter its order and decision thereon. Such decision on the part of said irrigation board shall be final, conclusive and binding upon all parties interested as to validity and as to result of such election and shall be subject to review only in event suit is brought by the said district or by some person or corporation or association authorized to bring the same to determine the question of the validity of the said bond issue, and in the determination and adjudication of the question of the validity of said bond issue, as hereinafter specified, the court may review and consider the validity of said election for the issuance of said bonds, but in such action the certificate and determination of said irrigation board shall be received and accepted by the court as prima facie evidence of the result as to the validity of said election and the regularity of the canvassing, counting and return of the votes cast at said election. If a majority of the votes cast at such an election is in favor of the issuance of bonds, the irrigation board after canvassing the returns and declaring the result of said election shall cause bonds in the amount stated in the order for the election to be issued, executed and delivered to the state treasurer of the state of California. Said bonds shall be of the denomination of not less than one hundred dollars nor more than one thousand dollars each; they shall be signed by the president of the irrigation board and attested by the secretary thereof, and shall be numbered consecutively in the order of their maturity, and shall bear interest at the rate not exceeding six per centum per annum, payable semiannually on the first day of January and the first day of July in each year, at the office of said state treasurer, upon the presentation of the proper coupons therefor. Coupons for each installment of interest shall be attached to said bonds and shall bear the facsimile signature of the state treasurer of the state of California.

Principal.

The principal of said bonds shall be made payable, by an order entered into the minutes of the irrigation board, upon the first day of July or the first day of January, and in such years as the irrigation board may prescribe. Said bonds shall be payable serially within forty years from their date in the manner following, to wit:

Amount payable yearly.

Not less than five per cent of the aggregate face value of the bonds issued shall be payable each year, beginning not later than the twentieth year from their date until the whole amount of said bonds have been paid.

Said irrigation board, subject to the provisions of this act, is authorized and empowered to take all such actions and make all such orders as may be necessary in connection with the issuance, sale and disposition of said bonds.

Form of bonds.

Said bonds may be substantially in the following form:

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA.
STATE OF CALIFORNIA.

No. $.....
(Name of district) Conservation District No. for value received, hereby acknowledge itself indebted to and promises to pay to the holder hereof at the office of the state treasurer of the state of California, on the first day of, 19..., the sum of $....., in gold coin of the United States of America, with interest thereon in like gold coin from date hereof until paid, at the rate of per cent per annum, payable at the office of said treasurer semiannually on the first day of January and the first day of July in each year on presentation and surrender of the interest coupons hereto attached. This bond is one of a series of bonds of like tenor and effect, except as to denomination and maturity, numbered from to, inclusive amounting in the aggregate to $....., issued in accordance with the California irrigation act, pursuant to an election held in said district on the day of, 19..., authorizing its issuance, and is based upon and secured by a lien upon and a valuation and apportionment levied on the land in said district and filed in the office of the state irrigation board on the day of, 19.... And the said district does hereby certify and declare that said election was duly called and held upon due notice, and the result thereof was duly canvassed and ascertained, in pursuance of and in strict conformity with the laws of the state of California applicable thereto, and that all of the acts and conditions and things required by law to be done precedent to and in the issue of said bonds have been done and have been performed in regular and in due form and in strict accordance with the provisions of the law authorizing the issuance of such district bonds.

In testimony whereof, the said conservation district, acting by and through the irrigation board of the state of California, has caused this bond to be signed by the president of said irrigation board, and attested by the secretary thereof, with his seal of office affixed, this day of, 19....

By
President of said board.

Attest:
Secretary of said board.

Form of interest coupon.

And the interest coupon may be substantially in the following form:

.....
State treasurer.

Sale of bonds by state treasurer. Action to determine if bonds are legal obligation.

The state treasurer shall place the bonds prepared pursuant to this act to the credit of the district and the irrigation board may in its discretion direct the state treasurer to sell the whole or any designated number of said bonds for the best price obtainable therefor, but in no event for less than ninety per cent of the face value of said bonds and the accrued interest thereon. Before making a sale of said bonds, notice shall be given by the state treasurer by publication at least once a week for three weeks in a newspaper of general circulation published in the city of Sacramento, and also one or more papers in said district, that he will sell a specified amount of said bonds, and stating the day, hour and place of such sale, and asking sealed proposals for the purchase of said bonds, or any part thereof. At the time appointed the state treasurer shall open the bids and award the bonds to the highest responsible bidder. He may reject any and all bids. Any sale by the state treasurer and delivery of the bonds thereunder shall be conclusive evidence in favor of the purchaser and all subsequent holders of the bonds that such sale was made upon due authority and notice. The proceeds of sale of said bonds shall be placed in the state treasury to the credit of said district, and a proper record of such transaction shall be made upon his books. At any time after said bonds shall have been delivered to the state treasurer, an action may be commenced in the superior court of the county within which is situated the largest area of land within said district by the irrigation board in the name of the district or by any unit of said district or by any person owning property within the said district liable to assessment. Such action shall be brought and prosecuted against the lands in said district and all persons owning the same or interested therein, to have it determined as to whether or not said bonds when sold will be a legal obligation of such district. It shall be sufficient to describe said lands as all lands in the district (naming it) without a more specific description. The summons shall be published once a week for three weeks in some newspaper of general circulation published in the county where the action is pending. Within thirty days after the first publication of summons any owner of land in such district, or any person interested, may appear and answer the complaint, which answer shall set forth the facts relied upon to show the invalidity of said bonds. The default of all defendants not so appearing may be entered. Such action shall be given precedence in hearing and trial over all other civil actions in such court and judgment rendered declaring such matter so contested either valid or invalid. Any party not in default may have the right to appeal to the supreme court within thirty days after entry of judgment and said appeal and the hearing thereof shall be expedited in said court. Judgment for the plaintiff in such proceedings shall be considered as a judgment in rem and shall be conclusive against said district and against all lands therein and all owners thereof and all other interested persons.

Warrants.

The irrigation board may draw warrants upon the state treasurer against the funds provided by sale of said bonds.

The money derived from the sale of any of said bonds shall be received by the state treasurer and shall by him be safely kept and placed to the credit of said district in a fund to be designated in the name of such district for the said district and may be drawn and expended upon warrants drawn against said fund as in this act provided.

Bonds legal investment.

Bonds of any district issued pursuant to the provisions of this act which are investigated and approved by any commission or officer now or hereafter authorized by the laws of this state to conduct such investigation and give such approval and by authority of which approval said bonds are declared to be legal investments for savings banks may be lawfully purchased or received in pledge for loans by banks, trust companies, guardians, executors, administrators and special administrators, or by any public officer or officers of this state, or of any county, city, city and county or other municipal or corporate body within the state having or holding funds which they are allowed by law to invest or loan.

Additional bond issue.

If after said district has authorized the issuance and sale of a series of bonds under this act, it shall become necessary so to do, an additional bond issue or series of bonds may be authorized and sold and all proceedings shall be had and taken, and all procedure in connection with said second issue or series of bonds shall be had and taken in accordance with the provisions of this act as to the first issue of bonds; provided, that said second issue or series of bonds shall not be issued so as to in any manner interfere with the lien or security of the payment of the first issue of bonds, and said second issue or series of bonds shall, as to the lien thereof and as to the security of same, be subsequent and subordinate and subject to such first bond issue.

SURVEYS, ESTIMATES, ASSESSMENTS.

Surveys, etc., of irrigation district.

§ 17. The irrigation board shall, upon the organization of any irrigation district as in this act provided, proceed to make or cause to be made, all necessary examinations, surveys, plans and estimates of cost for the storage, diversion and distribution of water and the generation of electric power in connection therewith, and the sale and distribution thereof as may be necessary or requisite to enable said board to ascertain and estimate the requirements and works necessary as aforesaid for the purposes of said irrigation district and the probable cost and expense thereof, and in that connection may use and adopt all previous estimates, surveys and reports it may have collected adapted to that purpose, and may employ all necessary engineers and other assistants for the accomplishment of said purposes, and the cost thereof shall be deemed a part of the expense of said project, and may issue warrants therefor and same shall bear interest from date of issue at the rate of six per cent per annum until paid, and shall be payable out of the funds of said district, and may be included in any bond issue authorized for the purposes of said district.

Estimate to be matter of record. Commissioners to assess land. Assessment roll.

Such estimate as is above provided for shall be in such form as shall be approved by said irrigation board and shall be entered in the minutes of said board and shall constitute a part of the records of said board, and the same, or a copy thereof, certified by the secretary of said board, shall be admissible as evidence in any proceeding before any court, commission or tribunal of this state wherein the matters therein set forth shall be admissible in evidence.

Whenever, for any of the purposes of this act, the irrigation board shall deem it necessary for the purposes of said irrigation district, or the levying of an assessment upon the property therein, or the issuance of bonds by said irrigation district, said board shall appoint three commissioners for such purpose or purposes. Such commissioners shall have no interest in any land in the irrigation district, either directly or indirectly, and each commissioner before entering upon his duties shall make and subscribe an oath that he is not in any manner interested directly or indirectly in any land in said irrigation district, and that he will perform the duties of commissioner to the best of his ability. Thereupon said commissioners shall proceed to view and assess upon the land within said irrigation district a sum sufficient to cover said estimated amount and shall apportion the same according to the benefits which will accrue to each tract of land within said irrigation district, such benefits to be estimated according to the benefits which will accrue to each tract of land in such irrigation district by reason of the expenditure of said estimated sum, and shall estimate the same in gold coin of the United States.

Said commissioners shall prepare and certify a roll on which they shall state the name and address of the owner of each parcel of land in such irrigation district, or if the name or address of any owner is unknown, then that fact; also a description of each parcel of land by legal subdivisions or boundaries, and the total amount assessed against each parcel of land so described. No mistake in the name of the owner, or supposed owner of any parcel of land, shall invalidate the apportionment or assessment. A separate roll shall be made for the lands in each county where such irrigation district includes land in more than one county. When completed said roll or rolls shall be filed with the irrigation board and certified copies of the particular roll for each county shall be filed with the county recorder of any county in which any lands within said irrigation district may be, and each roll shall be open for inspection by the public for at least thirty days.

Hearing. Objections. Evidence. Approval of assessment. Lien. Annual levy. Additional levy. Surplus used in retiring bonds.

The irrigation board shall appoint a time and place not less than thirty days after said roll has been filed with said recorder or recorders when and where it will meet, within the county in which the greater portion of said irrigation district is situated for the purpose of hearing objection to said assessment and the apportionment thereof and notice of such hearing shall be published at least once a week for two successive weeks in some newspaper published in each county in which any lands within said irrigation district may be. At any time before or at the original date of such hearing, any person interested in any real estate upon which any charge has been apportioned and assessed, may file in the the office of the secretary of said irrigation board written objections thereto, stating the grounds of such objections, which said statements shall be verified by the affidavit of such person or some other person who is familiar with the facts. Said irrigation board may postpone such hearing from time to time. At such hearing the irrigation board shall hear such evidence as may be offered touching the correctness of such assessment or the manner of its apportionment and may modify or amend the same and may reapportion all or any part of the entire assessment. No assessment or apportionment shall be increased except upon the hearing of objections thereto or after personal notice or notice by mail to the owner of the land upon which said increase is made. Said irrigation board must make and enter in its minutes an order approving said assessment and apportionment as finally fixed, and the decision of said irrigation board shall be final, and thereafter said assessment and apportionment shall be conclusive evidence of the validity of said assessment and apportionment, and no action or defense shall ever be maintained attacking the same in any respect. And the records of said irrigation board, or a copy thereof certified by its secretary, shall be received in evidence in all or any of the courts of this state, or before any board or tribunal authorized to hear or consider any matter wherein the same shall be admissible as evidence. No change shall be made in said assessment or apportionment after the consideration, approval and fixing thereof by said irrigation board and all assessments upon the property of said irrigation district thereafter shall be levied in accordance therewith and consistent with the apportionment of benefits therein provided for and fixed, and if any assessments are called for or required in addition to the original amount estimated and apportioned for the purposes of said irrigation district, such additional amount shall be assessed, levied and raised in accordance with said apportionment and assessment of benefits so fixed in the first instance by said irrigation board. A certified copy of such assessment and apportionment roll as finally approved shall be filed in the office of the county recorder of each county in which any land within said irrigation district is situated. Such assessment and apportionment shall thereafter constitute a first lien upon the land affected thereby until the full amount thereof is paid or until all bonds of the irrigation district issued thereon, together with the accrued interest, shall have been fully paid. The said irrigation board shall on the first Tuesday in May following the fixing and approval of said assessment and apportionment therein provided for, and annually thereafter on said date, levy an assessment, sufficient to raise the annual interest on the outstanding bonds of said irrigation district, and in any year in which any bonds shall fall due must increase such assessment to an amount sufficient to pay the principal of the outstanding bonds as they mature; also sufficient to pay in full all sums that may become due from the irrigation district before the time of collection of the next annual assessment, including an amount sufficient to pay in full the amount of any contract or obligation of the irrigation district which may come due during said year or may have been reduced to judgment, and to provide for and maintain a fund out of which the current and contingent obligations of said irrigation district can be paid in cash as they mature. In addition to the amounts estimated as necessary for the purposes aforesaid, a further levy of fifteen per cent additional shall be included and levied for the purposes of meeting any additional amounts that may be required on account of delinquencies and to insure the payment of all of the bonded indebtedness, including the interest thereon and other obligations of said irrigation district at maturity. Whenever there is a surplus in the funds of said district over and above all requirements as herein specified for the payment of the bonded indebtedness and interest thereon and accrued obligations of said irrigation district, such a surplus may be used and applied in retiring the outstanding bonds or any thereof of said irrigation district. The secretary of the irrigation board must compute and enter in a separate column of the assessment book the respective sums in dollars and cents to be paid as an assessment upon the property therein enumerated. In so doing, said secretary shall enter the names of the owners of such lands and the descriptions thereof in accordance with the last assessment roll of the county in which the said lands are situated. Such assessment must be so levied and computed as to be in accordance with the apportionment and assessment of benefits herein provided for and so that all lands within said irrigation district shall be assessed and required to pay in accordance therewith.

Duty of county auditor.

The secretary of said board shall forthwith deliver a certified copy of that portion of said assessment so directed to be entered by him, so far as it applies or appertains to any land within any county situated within said irrigation district to the county auditor of such county, and such auditor shall accept and receipt for the same, and thereupon it shall be the duty of said auditor to include said assessment as an assessment against each parcel or tract of land therein described. It shall be the duty of said auditor to examine and ascertain as to any errors or discrepancies that may exist in said roll as to the ownership of or the descriptions of land as applied to any owner or owners thereof as compared with the assessment roll of the said county for such year, and if any such difference or discrepancies are found, it shall be the duty of said auditor to correct the same accordingly so that the said roll as to ownerships and descriptions of land and assessments thereof shall correspond to the assessment roll of said county and for such year. And it shall be his duty to audit, enter and certify the same to the tax collector of said county for collection in the same manner and form as county, school district and other taxes are included and certified by him to such tax collector, and all such assessments shall constitute a first lien upon the lands affected thereby as hereinbefore provided.

Extra clerical force for auditor. Duty of tax collector.

The board of supervisors is hereby authorized and empowered to employ what extra clerical force is necessary to perform the additional duties herein prescribed for the auditor. Said extra clerks shall receive as compensation for the work herein provided a per diem not to exceed five dollars which shall be paid by the districts operating under the provisions of this act in proportion to the amount of work done for each and it shall be the duty of the clerk of said board to issue warrants payable to such clerks employed as herein provided out of the funds of the districts, upon the presentation of a verified demand, approved by the auditor and the board of supervisors.

Upon receipt of the same from the auditor of such county it shall be the duty of the tax collector of said county to include the same as a separate entry and charge against the land therein described and to collect the same with the county, school district and other taxes so required to be collected by such county tax collector and to keep and deposit such irrigation district taxes in a separate fund, and when the same is collected it shall be the duty of such tax collector to pay the same over to the treasurer of such county at the same time and in the same manner as other taxes collected by him are paid over to such treasurer, and it shall be the duty of such treasurer to receive the same as other taxes are received by him and after receipt thereof to keep the same in a separate fund and upon receipt of same, or any part thereof, it shall be the duty of such county treasurer within thirty days thereafter to pay the same and all thereof to the treasurer of the state of California, who shall receive and keep the same and deposit the same in a separate fund to the credit of the said district, and to be paid out by him upon the order and approval of the said irrigation board.

Moneys received under contracts, etc., collected by irrigation board.

All moneys received under contracts, leases or other arrangements by such irrigation district from any canal companies, mutual or other water companies, reclamation districts, or from any corporations, individuals, or other sources not herein otherwise provided for, shall be collected by said irrigation board and by it deposited with the state treasurer, and thereafter to be disbursed as provided as to funds of such irrigation district under the order and direction of such irrigation board for the purposes and obligations of said irrigation district, including the payment and retirement of outstanding bonds with interest thereon.

Delinquent taxes.

From and after the time of the filing of such assessment roll of such irrigation district with the auditor of any county the taxes therein enumerated, levied and assessed, shall be regarded and treated as are the other taxes of said county or the school districts thereof and the same shall be included in and considered a part of such taxes and the same shall become delinquent at the same time and in the same manner as such other taxes, and with respect to any delinquency or delinquent notices the same shall become delinquent and notice thereof shall be published with and at the same time and in the same manner as other delinquent taxes and the same shall be similarly treated for all purposes of notice and sale thereof for such delinquent taxes, and shall be subject to redemption from such delinquent irrigation district taxes at the same time and in the same manner and through the same officials as are such other taxes. And any and all charges and penalties in connection therewith shall be similarly charged and collected, and the amounts so collected on account of any such delinquent taxes or interest or penalties thereon shall be received by the county treasurer and paid over to the state treasurer in the same manner as is hereinabove provided, and in the event of the sale of any property for delinquent taxes of such counties or other delinquent taxes, said irrigation district taxes shall be included therein and said property shall be sold therefor in connection with and including such other taxes, and upon a redemption thereof or upon a sale of said lands the said irrigation district taxes shall be included therein and together with interest and penalties thereon the same shall be received and paid over to the county treasurer, and by him paid over to the state treasurer, as hereinbefore provided.

Defraying expenses prior to making assessment. Ascertainment of assessment.

§ 17a. Upon the organization of an irrigation district hereunder and for the purpose of defraying expenses of such organization, and for any other purposes of this act, prior to the making of the assessment provided for in section seventeen, the directors may incur an indebtedness not exceeding one-half as many dollars as there are acres in the district, and upon the certification thereof to the irrigation board, such board shall cause warrants to issue therefor bearing interest at a rate to be fixed by the board of directors, not to exceed six per centum per annum, and thereafter it shall be the duty of the irrigation board to levy an assessment sufficient to pay said warrants upon all of the lands within the district, in the same manner and at the same time, so far as possible, as other assessments are provided to be levied (except as to the appointment of commissioners). Said assessment shall be ascertained by dividing the number of dollars due or to become due upon the warrants which have been issued by the number of acres in the district, and assessing to each acre the result so obtained. Such assessment roll shall be prepared and delivered to the county auditor or auditors by the secretary of the irrigation board as provided in section seventeen, and the said amount shall be collected by the tax collector of the county in the same manner as is provided for the collection of other assessments levied by the district.

Where an irrigation district is organized after the first Tuesday in May of any year, the irrigation board shall nevertheless, at the request of the board of directors of said district, cause an assessment to be levied payable at the same time as if levied prior to the first Tuesday in May as in this section provided, of an amount sufficient to defray the expenses of organization and other expenses of the district prior to the levying of the assessment provided for in section seventeen, not, however, to exceed the limit in this section specified.

ISSUE OF IRRIGATION DISTRICT BONDS.

Issue of bonds. Estimate of amount necessary. Examination by engineer. Special election. Evidence of ownership.

§ 18. At any time after the irrigation board shall have made the examinations, surveys, plans and estimates of cost for the storage, diversion and distribution of water, and for the other purposes enumerated in this act, and after the same has been entered in the minutes of said board and shall have also had assessed and apportioned upon the lands in any irrigation district organized under the provision of this act the charges and benefits and apportionments provided for in this act, and after such apportionment and assessment roll shall have been finally fixed and approved by the said board, and after the same has been entered in the minutes of the said board must, as soon as may be practicable, proceed and issue the bonds of said irrigation district for the purposes aforesaid.

The said board shall, in connection with the previous estimates made and adopted by it, estimate the amount of money necessary to be raised by such bond issue for the purposes of said irrigation district, as aforesaid, and shall ascertain and determine the same and enter its order to that effect in the minutes of said board. And whenever thereafter the construction fund of said irrigation district has been exhausted by expenditures herein authorized, and it is necessary to raise additional money for such purposes, it shall be the duty of said board to estimate and determine the amount of money necessary to be raised for such additional purposes.

For the purposes of such bond issue, or additional bond issue, the said board shall be authorized to employ engineers and other assistants and make all such further examinations and estimates as may be necessary, to fix and determine such matters and the conclusion and estimates of said board shall be entered in its minutes. Said irrigation board shall by order entered in its records order a special election to be held at such place or places in said irrigation district as shall be designated by said irrigation board, at which said election there shall be submitted to the owners of land in said irrigation district the question whether or not the bonds of said district shall be issued in the amount specified in the order of said board, and which amount shall be stated in the order for such special election. For all purposes of this act relating to signing petitions and voting at any election, and for all other purposes where the question of title to land claimed to be owned by such voter or owner is involved, the equalized assessment roll for the year last preceding in each county wherein any land of the said irrigation district is situated, shall be sufficient evidence of ownership of lands in the irrigation district. Guardians, executors, administrators and other persons holding land in a trust capacity under appointment of court may vote without obtaining any special authority therefor. Said irrigation board shall at the time of calling the said election designate in its order the voting place or places at which said election shall be held and where votes shall be cast and shall designate three landholders of the irrigation district to act as a board of election at each voting place.

Notice. One vote for each acre.

Notice of such special election must be given by the irrigation board by posting notice thereof in at least three public places in such irrigation district at least twenty days prior thereto, and also by publishing such notice once a week for the same length of time in some newspaper of general circulation, published in each county in which any portion of said irrigation district may be situated, or if there be no newspaper published in any one of such counties, then in each county wherein such newspaper is published; and such notice must specify the time and place of holding said election and the aggregate face value of bonds proposed to be issued and the names of three landholders of said irrigation district to act as a board of election at each polling place. Affidavits of the publication and posting of such notice must be filed with the secretary of said irrigation board.

At such election each owner of lands in the district shall be entitled to vote in person or by proxy, and shall have the right to cast one vote for each acre of real estate owned by him in the irrigation district, such ownership to be determined from the next preceding assessment roll of the county or counties in which the lands of the irrigation district are situated and the irrigation board shall, prior to the election, cause to be prepared and certified and furnished to the board of election at each polling place, a true and correct copy of each of said next preceding assessment rolls so far as such assessment roll applies to any lands within such irrigation district, which said certified roll shall be used by the board of election in determining the number of votes each voter is entitled to cast. Executors, administrators, special administrators and guardians may cast the vote of the estates represented by them. No person shall vote by proxy at such election unless authority to cast such vote shall be evidenced by an instrument in writing, duly acknowledged and certified in the same manner as grants of real property and filed with the board of election.

Ballots. Oath of election officers. Polls open. Canvass of votes. Order of irrigation board. Result recorded.

The ballots cast at such election shall contain the words, "bonds, yes" or "bonds, no" and also the name of the person casting the ballot, with the number of votes cast by him. A list of the ballots cast shall be made by the board of election containing the name of each voter, and, if the ballots be cast by proxy, the name of the person casting it and the number of votes cast by each and whether the same be cast for or against the issuing of bonds.

If any person appointed as a member of the board of election shall fail to attend at the opening of the polls, the voters then present, voting individually, may appoint in his place any landholder in the irrigation district. Each member of said board of election must, before entering upon his duties, take and subscribe an official oath, to faithfully perform his duties as an officer of such election, which oath may be administered by any officer authorized to administer oaths, or by a landholder in the irrigation district.

The polls shall be kept open from ten o'clock a. m. of the day of election until five o'clock p. m. of that day.

At the close of the polls the board of election shall at once proceed to canvass the votes and declare the result and shall forward a certificate showing such result and the number of votes cast for and against the issuing of the bonds to the irrigation board and shall also deliver to the said irrigation board all ballots cast at such election and all documents and papers used at such election.

Said irrigation board shall, upon the receipt of such canvass and declaration of the result from the said board of election, proceed to examine the same and shall ascertain and declare the result as shown by such canvass and declaration, and shall enter an order in its minutes that the said proposition for the issuance of said bonds has been carried or defeated, as the case may be.

Forthwith, upon the declaration of the result of said election by said irrigation board, the secretary of said board shall make a certified copy of the order of said board, declaring the result of said election, and shall forward said certified copy or copies to the recorder or recorders of the counties in which any land of said irrigation district may be situated, and the same shall forthwith be filed and recorded in said recorder or recorders' office, and shall impart notice to all interested persons as to the result of said election.

Contest of election. Hearing. Decision final. Bonds issued.

Any person owning property within the said irrigation district, liable to assessment, may contest such election, by filing a written contest specifying the grounds of his objections thereto, with said irrigation board, said written contest to be filed within thirty days after the declaration of the result of said election by said irrigation board, and if no such contest and objections be filed within thirty days, no such contest and objections shall thereafter be received or filed. Such written contest shall specify the ground or grounds of contest to said election, and upon the filing of the same with said irrigation board it shall expeditiously set the said contest for hearing, and shall have the right to postpone the hearing for such time as may be necessary, but not otherwise, and shall expeditiously hear and determine the same. For the purposes of such hearing the board may by subpoena signed by the secretary under its seal compel the attendance of witnesses and the production of evidence. Disobedience of such subpoena or of any lawful order of the board in the premises shall constitute a contempt of the authority of the board punishable by the board in accordance with title five of part three of the Code of Civil Procedure, and shall also constitute a misdemeanor under section one hundred sixty-six of the Penal Code. Said irrigation board shall, upon the conclusion of said hearing of said contest, proceed forthwith to enter its order and decision thereon. Such decision on the part of said irrigation board shall be final, conclusive and binding upon all parties interested as to validity and as to result of such election and shall be subject to review only in the event suit is brought by the said irrigation district or by some person or corporation or association authorized to bring the same to determine the question of the validity of the said bond issue, and in the determination and adjudication of the question of the validity of said bond issue, as hereinafter specified, the court may review and consider the validity of said election for the issuance of said bonds, but in such action the certificate and determination of said irrigation board shall be received and accepted by the court as prima facie evidence of the result as to the validity of said election and the regularity of the canvassing, counting and return of the votes cast at said election. If a majority of the votes cast at such an election is in favor of the issuance of bonds, the irrigation board shall after canvassing the returns and declaring the result of said election cause bonds of said irrigation district in the amount stated in the order for the election to be issued, executed and delivered to the state treasurer of the state of California. Said bonds shall be of the denomination of not less than one hundred dollars nor more than one thousand dollars each; they shall be signed by the president of the irrigation board and attested by the secretary thereof, and shall be numbered consecutively in the order of their maturity, and shall bear interest at the rate not exceeding six per centum per annum, payable semiannually on the first day of January and the first day of July in each year, at the office of said state treasurer, upon the presentation of the proper coupons therefor. Coupons for each installment of interest shall be attached to said bonds and shall bear the facsimile signature of the state treasurer of the state of California.

Principal.

The principal of said bonds shall be made payable, by an order entered into the minutes of the irrigation board, upon the first day of July or the first day of January, and in such years as the irrigation board may prescribe. Said bonds shall be payable serially within forty years from their date in the manner following, to wit:

Amount payable yearly.

Not less than five per cent of the aggregate face value of the bonds issued shall be payable each year, beginning not later than the twentieth year from their date until the whole amount of said bonds have been paid.

Said irrigation board, subject to the provisions of this act, is authorized and empowered to take all such actions and make all such orders as may be necessary in connection with the issuance, sale and disposition of said bonds.

Form of bonds.

Said bonds may be substantially in the following form:

Sale of bonds by state treasurer. Action to determine if bonds are legal obligation.

The state treasurer shall place the bonds prepared pursuant to this act to the credit of the irrigation district and the irrigation board may in its discretion direct the state treasurer to sell the whole or any designated number of said bonds for the best price obtainable therefor, but in no event for less than ninety per cent of the face value of said bonds and the accrued interest thereon. Before making a sale of said bonds, notice shall be given by the state treasurer by publication at least once a week for three weeks in a newspaper of general circulation published in the city of Sacramento, and also one or more papers in the county in which the greater portion of said irrigation district is situated, that he will sell a specified amount of said bonds, and stating the day, hour and place of such sale, and asking sealed proposals for the purchase of said bonds, or any part thereof. At the time appointed the state treasurer shall open the bids and award the bonds to the highest responsible bidder. He may reject any and all bids. Any sale by the state treasurer and delivery of the bonds thereunder shall be conclusive evidence in favor of the purchaser and all subsequent holders of the bonds that such sale was made upon due authority and notice. The proceeds of sale of said bonds shall be placed in the state treasury to the credit of said irrigation district, and a proper record of such transaction shall be made upon his books. At any time after said bonds shall have been delivered to the state treasurer, an action may be commenced in the superior court of the county within which is situated the largest area of land within said irrigation district by the irrigation board in the name of the irrigation district or by any person owning property within the said irrigation district liable to assessment. Such action shall be brought and prosecuted against the lands in said irrigation district and all persons owning the same or interested therein, to have it determined as to whether or not said bonds when sold will be a legal obligation of such irrigation district. It shall be sufficient to describe said lands as all lands in the irrigation district (naming it) without a more specific description. The summons shall be published once a week for three weeks in some newspaper of general circulation published in the county where the action is pending. Within thirty days after the first publication of summons any owner of land in such irrigation district, or any person interested, may appear and answer the complaint, which answer shall set forth the facts relied upon to show the invalidity of said bonds. The default of all defendants not so appearing may be entered. Such action shall be given precedence in hearing and trial over all other civil actions in such court and judgment rendered declaring such matter so contested either valid or invalid. Any party not in default may have the right to appeal to the supreme court within thirty days after entry of judgment and said appeal and the hearing thereof shall be expedited in said court. Judgment for the plaintiff in such proceedings shall be considered as a judgment in rem and shall be conclusive against said district and against all lands therein and all owners thereof and all other interested persons.

Warrants.

The irrigation board may draw warrants upon the state treasurer against the funds provided by sale of said bonds.

The money derived from the sale of any of said bonds shall be received by the state treasurer and shall by him be safely kept and placed to the credit of said irrigation district in a fund to be designated in the name of such irrigation district for the said irrigation district and may be drawn and expended upon warrants drawn against said fund as in this act provided.

Bonds legal investment.

Bonds of any irrigation district issued pursuant to the provisions of this act which are investigated and approved by any commission or officer now or hereafter authorized by a law of this state to conduct such approval and by authority of which approval said bonds are declared to be legal investments for savings banks may be lawfully purchased or received in pledge for loans by banks, trust companies, guardians, executors, administrators and special administrators, or by any public officer or officers of this state, or of any county, city, city and county or other municipal or corporate body within the state having or holding funds which they are allowed by law to invest or loan.

Additional bond issue.

If after said irrigation district has authorized the issuance and sale of a series of bonds under this act, it shall become necessary so to do an additional bond issue or series of bonds may be authorized and sold and all proceedings shall be had and taken, and all procedure in connection with said second issue or series of bonds shall be had and taken in accordance with the provisions of this act as to the first issue of bonds; provided, that said second issue or series of bonds shall not be issued so as to in any manner interfere with the lien or security of the payment of the first issue of bonds, and said second issue or series of bonds shall, as to the lien thereof and as to the security of same, be subsequent and subordinate and subject to such first bond issue.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Not applicable to counties with charter or city and county.

§ 19. Nothing in this act contained shall affect, or apply to, any irrigation, protection, flood control, conservation, or other improvement district situated wholly or in part within any county which has adopted a charter pursuant to section seven and one-half of article eleven of the constitution of California, ratified and approved as provided therein, prior to June 4, 1915, or within any city and county; and said board shall have no power of jurisdiction within any of said districts or within such counties or city and county.

Stats. 1917, p. 1068, repealed. Proceedings initiated under former acts.

§ 20. The California irrigation act, approved June 4, 1915, and chapter six hundred forty-six of the statutes of 1917, approved May 28, 1917, amendatory thereof, are hereby repealed; but any petition circulated for signature pursuant to the provisions of said amendatory act and prior to the effective date of this act may be filed as though prepared pursuant to the provisions hereof, and any proceeding initiated under said amendatory act but not completed prior to the effective date of this act, may be completed hereunder, all proceedings subsequent to such effective date, however, to be in conformity with the provisions hereof; and any district organized under the provisions of the acts hereby repealed shall be subject in all respects to the provisions of this act; and provided, further, that such repeal shall not affect the tenure of office of the present members of the irrigation board and that neither such repeal nor anything in this act contained shall affect the right of said board to any funds heretofore appropriated for the use of said irrigation board, and all such funds heretofore appropriated shall be used by said board to the extent and for the purposes for which the same were appropriated.

DISTRICT CO-OPERATION WITH FEDERAL RECLAMATION SERVICE.

ACT 2266c—An act to authorize irrigation districts to co-operate and contract with the United States under the provisions of the federal reclamation laws for a water supply, or the construction, operation or maintenance of works, including drainage works, or for the assumption by the district of indebtedness to the United States on account of district lands; and to provide the manner and method of payments to the United States under such contract, and for the apportionment of assessments, and levy thereof, upon the lands of the district to secure revenue for such payments, and to provide for the judicial review and determination of the validity of the proceedings in connection with such contract.

History: Approved May 5, 1917. In effect July 27, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 243.

Irrigation districts may co-operate with the United States.

§ 1. In addition to the powers with which irrigation districts have been vested under the act approved March 31, 1897, and acts amendatory thereof or supplementary thereto and acts of or to which said act is amendatory or supplementary, irrigation districts heretofore or hereafter organized under said acts shall have the following powers: To co-operate and contract with the United States under the federal reclamation act of June 17, 1902, and all acts amendatory thereof or supplementary thereto, or any other act of congress heretofore or hereafter enacted authorizing or permitting such co-operation, for purposes of construction of works, whether for irrigation or drainage, or both, or for the acquisition, purchase, extension, operation or maintenance of constructed works, or for a water supply, or for the assumption as principal or guarantor of indebtedness to the United States on account of district lands.

Powers of board of directors. Transfer of bonds. Appointment as fiscal agent.

§ 2. The board of directors shall generally perform all such acts as shall be necessary to carry out the enlarged powers in this act enumerated. Said board may enter into any obligation or contract with the United States for the aforesaid purposes, and may provide therein for the delivery and distribution of water for the lands of such district under the aforesaid acts of congress and the rules and regulations established thereunder. The contract may provide for the conveyance to the United States as partial consideration for the privileges obtained by the district under said contract, of water rights or other property of the district; and in case contract has been or may hereafter be made with the United States as herein provided, bonds of the district may be transferred to, or deposited with the United States, if so provided by said contract and authorized as hereinafter set forth, at not less than ninety-five per cent of their par value, to the amount to be paid by the district to United States or any part thereof; the interest, or principal, or both, on said bonds to be raised by assessment and levy as hereinafter prescribed, and to be regularly paid to the United States and applied as provided in said contract. Bonds transferred to or deposited with the United States may call for the payment of such interest not exceeding six per cent per annum, may be of such denomination, and may call for the repayment of the principal at such times as may be agreed upon between the board and the secretary of the interior. The contract with the United States may likewise call for the payment of the amount or amounts to be paid by the district to the United States or any part thereof at such times and in such installments and with such interest charges not exceeding the aforesaid rate as may be agreed upon, and for assessment and levy therefor as hereinafter provided. Moreover the board may accept on behalf of the district, appointment of the district as fiscal agent of the United States, or authorization of the district by the United States to make collection of moneys for or on behalf of the United States in connection with any federal reclamation project, whereupon the district shall be authorized so to act and to assume the duties and liabilities incident to such action, and the said board shall have full power to do any and all things required by the federal statutes now or hereafter enacted in connection therewith, and all things required by the rules and regulations now or that may hereafter be established by any department of the federal government in regard thereto. Districts co-operating with the United States may rent or lease water to private lands, entrymen, or municipalities in the neighborhood of the district, in pursuance of contract with the United States.

Election on proposal to enter contract. Notice. Ballots.

§ 3. Any proposal to enter into a contract with the United States for the repayment of construction moneys, the cost of a water supply or the acquisition of property, and to issue bonds, if any be proposed, shall be voted upon at an election wherein proceedings shall be had in so far as applicable in the manner provided in the case of the ordinary issuance of district bonds. Said proposal, with such plans and estimates of cost as have been made in connection therewith, shall be submitted to the state engineer for his examination and report, and the proceedings in that regard shall be in accord with section thirty of the act approved March 31, 1897, as amended, in so far as the same may be applicable. Notice of the election herein provided for shall contain in addition to the information required in the case of ordinary bond election a statement of the maximum amount of money to be payable to the United States for construction purposes, cost of water supply and acquisition of property, exclusive of penalties and interest, together with a general statement of the property, if any, to be conveyed by the district as hereinabove provided. The ballots at such election shall contain a brief statement of the general purpose of said contract and the amount of the obligation to be assumed, as aforesaid, with the words "Contract—Yes," and "Contract—No," or "Contract and bonds—Yes," and "Contracts and Bonds—No," as the case may be. The board of directors may submit any such contract or proposed contract and bond issue if any, to the superior court of the county wherein is located the office of said board to determine the validity thereof and the authority of the board to enter into such contract, and the authority for and validity of the issuance and deposit or transfer of said bonds; whereupon the same proceedings shall be had as in the ordinary case of the judicial determination of the validity of bonds and with like effect.

Distribution of water.

§ 4. All water, the right to the use of which is acquired by the district under any contract with the United States shall be distributed and apportioned by the district in accordance with the acts of congress applicable thereto, the rules and regulations of the secretary of the interior thereunder, and the provisions of said contract, and provision may be made in the contract between the district and the United States for the refusal of water service to any or all lands which may become delinquent in the payment of any assessment levied for the purpose of carrying out any contract between the district and the United States.

Rights of way conveyed.

§ 5. Any rights of way or other property owned or acquired by the district may be conveyed by the board to the United States in so far as the same may be needed for the construction, operation and maintenance of works by the United States for the benefit of the district under any contract that may be entered into with the United States pursuant to this act.

Payments by annual assessment.

§ 6. All payments due or to become due to the United States under any contract between the district and the United States, including such payments of interest and principal on bonds as may be required in connection with a deposit or transfer thereof to the United States, shall be paid, unless otherwise provided by contract, by revenue derived from annual assessments, apportioned as hereinafter prescribed, and levies thereof, upon such real property within the district as may be assessable for district purposes under the laws of the state, and such real property shall be and remain liable to be assessed and levied upon for such payments as herein provided. It shall be the duty of the board of directors annually to levy an assessment sufficient to raise the money necessary to meet all payments when due as provided in the contract. All money collected in pursuance of such contract by assessments and levies, or otherwise, shall be paid into the district treasury and held in a fund to be known as the "United States contract fund," to be used for payments due to the United States under any such contract. Public lands of the United States within any district shall be subject to assessment for all purposes of this act to the extent provided for by the act of congress approved August 11, 1916, entitled "An act to promote reclamation of arid lands," or any other law which may hereafter be enacted by congress in the same relation, upon full compliance therewith by the district. Nothing in this act contained shall be construed to relieve the district from obligation to pay as a district in case of default of any land, unless so provided by the said contract between the district and the United States.

Apportionment of assessment.

§ 7. The assessment required in any year to meet the payment due to the United States for all purposes under the contract as in this act provided may be apportioned in accordance with the benefits, and in the ascertainment of such benefits there shall be taken into account the provisions of the contract between the United States and the district, the federal laws applicable thereto, and the notices and regulations issued in pursuance of said laws, and in case such contract is for the assumption by the district as principal or guarantor of indebtedness to the United States theretofore existing on account of district lands, there shall be further taken into account the provisions of existing contracts carrying such indebtedness and the amounts of such liens as may be released in pursuance of the contract between the United States and the district.

Change in boundaries.

§ 8. Where contract shall have been entered into between the United States and any irrigation district the district shall not be dissolved, nor shall the boundaries be changed, except upon written consent of the secretary of the interior filed with the official records of the district. If such consent be given and lands be excluded, the areas excluded shall be free from all liens and charges for payments to become due to the United States.

Acts in force.

§ 9. The provisions of the general irrigation district act, approved March 31, 1897, and acts amendatory thereof or supplemental thereto, shall be and remain in force as regards irrigation districts in this act referred to except in so far as herein modified expressly or by necessary implication; and nothing in this act shall be so construed as to affect irrigation district operations not related to co-operation with the United States. However, the provisions of section fifty-three of said act, approved March 31, 1897, shall not apply in case of any contract between an irrigation district and the United States.

CONTRACTS WITH FEDERAL RECLAMATION SERVICE.

ACT 2266d—An act authorizing and empowering irrigation and reclamation districts to enter into contracts with the United States reclamation service for the reclamation of lands within such districts under the provisions of the so-called "twenty year extension act."

History: Approved May 21, 1917. In effect July 27, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 781.

Irrigation and reclamation districts may contract with the U. S. Reclamation Service.

§ 1. The board of trustees, or directors of any irrigation or reclamation district now organized under the provisions of the laws of the State of California, or of any irrigation or reclamation district hereafter organized under the laws of the state of California, may, in their discretion, whenever it is determined by such board that it is for the best interests of such districts, enter into a contract with the proper officers of the United States Reclamation Service for the reclamation, either by drainage or irrigation of lands within the boundaries of such district, or by preventing high water from overflowing the same, under the provisions of an act of congress approved August 13, 1914, entitled "An act extending the period of payment under reclamation projects, and for other purposes," which act is commonly known as the twenty year extension act, and from and after the execution of such contract, the amount of indebtedness created thereby shall be and become a lien upon the lands to be benefited by such reclamation work.

Payment of amounts due.

§ 2. The board of trustees or directors of any irrigation or reclamation district above mentioned, shall provide by a resolution duly adopted at a regular meeting, or special meeting of such board called for the purpose, for the payments of the amounts, to become due under the contract with the United States, according to the provisions of such contract, by assessment upon the lands, in such district, which are to be benefited by such work, such assessment to be collected by the tax collector of the county within which such lands are situated, the same as other taxes are collected, or by any other officer authorized by law to collect assessments within said district.

DEFINING "PRIVATE IRRIGATION PLANT."

ACT 2266e—An act defining a private irrigation plant and mutual water company and providing the conditions under which the owner of a private irrigation plant or a mutual water company may deliver water to others or others than its stockholders or members without becoming a public utility, and limiting such authority to the time the United States is a party to war or to a state of war; and declaring this act to be an urgency measure.

History: Approved May 5, 1917. In effect immediately. Stats. 1917, p. 281.

"Private irrigation plant." "Mutual water company."

§ 1. (a) The term "private irrigation plant," when used in this act, shall be construed to mean a water system which is not operated by a mutual water company as herein defined or by a public utility as defined in the public utilities act, approved December 23, 1911, and acts amendatory thereof, or in the act entitled "An act providing for the regulation of water companies, defining their powers and duties, defining the powers and duties of the railroad commission with reference thereto, and defining the conditions under which such water companies become subject to the provisions of the public utilities act and the railroad commission of the state of California," approved April 25, 1913.

(b) The term "mutual water company," when used in this act, means any private corporation or association organized for the purpose of delivering water solely to its stockholders or members at cost.

Water may be delivered to other than stockholders, when statement filed with railroad commission.

§ 2. For the sole purpose of increasing the output of agricultural products in this state during the time the United States is a party to war or to a state of war, the owner of any private irrigation plant or any mutual water company may at its option deliver water to others or others than its stockholders or members, with or without compensation, without becoming a public utility subject to the jurisdiction of the railroad commission of the state of California; provided, that no delivery of water to others than stockholders or members shall be authorized until the orders for water of all stockholders or members made in accordance with the constitution, by-laws, rules or regulations of such mutual water company have been filled; and provided, further, that the temporary service herein authorized shall not be construed as granting any right to render or receive such service more than six months after such war need has ceased; and provided, further, that after June first, one thousand nine hundred seventeen, no such temporary service of water shall be made unless a statement is first filed with the railroad commission stating the private irrigation plant or mutual water company rendering such service, the party receiving such service, the lands irrigated and the rate, if any, charged for such service.

Urgency measure.

§ 3. This act is hereby declared to be an urgency measure, and under the provisions of section one of article IV of the constitution of the state of California shall take effect immediately. The facts constituting such urgency are as follows: The United States is now in a state of war and there is a shortage of crops in this state and throughout the nation generally. It is therefore necessary for the immediate preservation of public safety that this act take effect immediately so that the use of water in the irrigated area and the resulting crop returns of the state may be increased to the maximum output without delay.

DISTRICT CO-OPERATION WITH ADJOINING DISTRICTS IN OTHER STATES.

ACT 2266f—An act to provide for co-operation in acquisition, construction and management of irrigation and drainage works between irrigation districts organized or existing under or by virtue of an act entitled "An act to provide for organization and government of irrigation districts and to provide for the acquisition thereby of works for the irrigation of the lands embraced within such districts, and also to provide for the distribution of water for irrigation purposes," approved March 31, 1897, and contiguous or adjoining districts in or organized under the laws of other states.

History: Approved May 23, 1917. In effect July 27, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 905.

Irrigation districts may co-operate with districts in adjoining states.

§ 1. It shall be lawful for irrigation districts organized or existing under or by virtue of an act entitled "An act to provide for the organization and government of irrigation districts, and to provide for the acquisition or construction thereby of works for the irrigation of the lands embraced within such districts, and also to provide for the distribution of water for irrigation purposes," approved March 31, 1897, to enter into agreements with irrigation districts in adjoining states for the joint construction, acquisition, management and control of diverting, impounding or distributing works for irrigation or draining the lands within the boundaries of their respective districts.

Contracts.

§ 2. Such agreements may be evidenced by written contracts executed on behalf of their respective boards of directors or trustees, or by resolutions entered upon their respective minutes. Such contracts or certified copies thereof and certified copies of such resolutions shall be recorded in the office of the county recorder in each county in which is situated any of the lands of said districts or any of the reservoir sites or other real property owned by said districts or acquired under the provisions of this act.

Ownership of property.

§ 3. Such agreements may provide for joint or several ownership or ownership in common of the property, necessary or convenient for the purposes of this act and may provide for the terms and conditions under which or the respective proportions in which such property shall be held. Any rights or disputes arising out of or from said agreements may be tried before and enforced by any court of competent jurisdiction in the state.

Meetings held in adjoining state legal.

§ 4. Any meeting of the board of directors of any such district, held in conjunction with the board of directors of the co-operating district, in such district in the adjoining state, if duly and regularly called as required by law or if regularly adjourned to, shall be as lawful and valid as if held at the office of the board of directors of such district in this state.

Lawful to divert water from state.

§ 5. It shall be lawful, for the purposes of such co-operative action to divert water from this state for impounding in the adjoining state or otherwise for distribution to the lands of the co-operating districts regardless of the state in which such lands are situated or to divert water from such adjoining state for impounding or otherwise for distribution to the lands of such co-operating districts in this or the adjoining state.

Districts may hold property in adjoining state.

§ 6. So far as may be necessary for fully carrying out the purposes of this act such co-operating district in the adjoining state may hold title to property, in this state and such co-operating district in this state may hold title to property in the adjoining state.

DRAINAGE BY IRRIGATION DISTRICTS.

ACT 2266g—An act to provide for drainage by irrigation districts.

History: Approved March 18, 1907. Stats. 1907, p. 569.

Irrigation district may provide for drainage.

§ 1. Any irrigation district heretofore organized or hereafter to be organized under the laws relating to such districts may provide for any and all drainage made necessary by the irrigation provided for by such laws; and the officers, agents and employees of such districts shall have the same powers, duties and liabilities respecting such drainage, and the construction, repair, maintenance, management and control thereof as they now have or may hereafter have respecting such irrigation, and all laws respecting such irrigation or such irrigation districts shall be so construed, applied and enforced as to apply to such drainage as well as such irrigation.

Duty of board of directors.

§ 2. Whenever it appears necessary, or proper, or beneficial to the lands affected thereby, to drain such lands or any portion thereof on account of the irrigation which has been done, or which is intended to be done under such laws, whether for the purpose of more beneficially carrying on such irrigation, or to protect such districts from liability by reason of such irrigation, whether the irrigation works have already been constructed or not, it shall be the duty of the board of directors to provide for such drainage, and said board and its officers, agents and employees shall do all necessary and proper acts for the construction, repair, maintenance and management of drainage work for such purpose.

Time of taking effect of act.

§ 3. This act shall take effect immediately.

DEVELOPMENT OF ELECTRIC POWER.

ACT 2266h—An act to provide for the development of electric power by irrigation districts.

History: Approved May 21, 1919. In effect July 22, 1919. Stats. 1919, p. 778.

Irrigation districts may maintain electrical power plants.

§ 1. Any irrigation district heretofore organized or hereafter to be organized under the laws relating to such district may provide for the construction, operation, leasing and control of plants for the generation, distribution, sale, and lease of electrical energy, including sale to municipalities, corporations, public utility districts or individuals, of electrical power so generated; and said district, subject however to the conditions in this section contained, may make special appropriations of water for power purposes, as required by law; provided, however, that any use of water for generating such electrical power or energy at any given time of the year, which use is in excess of the water appropriated and beneficially used for irrigation purposes by such district at said period of the year, shall be subject to all prior existing appropriations by any municipal corporation, who or which is proceeding in good faith in the expenditure of money and the construction of works designed to divert the water appropriated; and the officers, agents, and employees of such districts shall have the same powers, duties and liabilities respecting such power and the construction, repair, maintenance, management, and control thereof as they now have or may hereafter have respecting such irrigation or such irrigation districts. The California irrigation district act shall be so construed, applied and enforced as to apply to such power as well as such irrigation.

Management of works.

§ 2. The board of directors of any irrigation district and its officers, agents, and employees, shall do all necessary and proper acts for the construction, repair, maintenance, and management of such electrical power works for such purposes.

Bonds.

§ 3. In case funds are not otherwise available the irrigation district may issue bonds for such purpose and all of the provisions of the California irrigation district act, relating to the issuance of bonds for other purposes in so far as the same are applicable to said bonds shall apply.

Repealed.

§ 4. All acts or parts of acts in conflict with any of the provisions of this act are hereby repealed.

ASSESSMENT OF STATE LAND.

ACT 2266j—An act to promote the reclamation of arid land and to provide that certain land belonging to the state of California, within the boundaries of an irrigation district shall be subject to the assessments levied in said district.

History: Approved May 25, 1917. In effect July 27, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 936.

State lands within irrigation districts subject to assessment.

§ 1. Whenever there shall be included in any irrigation district organized and existing under the laws of this state, public lands belonging to the state subject to entry, or which have been entered, and for which no certificates of purchase have been issued, such lands are hereby made and declared to be subject to all of the provisions of law relating to the organization, government and regulation of irrigation districts to the same extent and in the same manner in which the lands of a like character held under private ownership are or may be subject to such law; provided, however, that nothing herein contained shall be construed as creating any obligation against the state of California to pay any of said charges, assessment or debt.

Notices served on surveyor general.

§ 2. All notices required by the act under which such district is organized shall, as soon as such notices are issued, be served upon the surveyor general of the state of California by mailing to his office a copy thereof enclosed in a sealed envelope with postage prepaid.

Assessment lien.

§ 3. No public lands which were unentered at the time any assessment was levied against the same by such irrigation district shall be sold for such assessment, but such assessment shall be and continue a lien upon such land, and no patent shall issue therefor until the applicant shall present a certificate from the proper district officer showing that no unpaid assessments or charges are due and delinquent against said land.

COUNTY IRRIGATION DISTRICTS.

ACT 2267—An act to provide for the formation, management and dissolution of county irrigation districts; for supplying the inhabitants thereof with water; for levying and collecting taxes on property in such districts; and for the issuance of county irrigation district bonds and the payment thereof.

History: Approved June 13, 1913. In effect August 10, 1913. Stats. 1913, p. 785. See editor's note.

Editor's note: The title of this act was amended June 5, 1915. In effect August 8, 1915, Stats. 1915, p. 1188, by inserting the word "waterworks" in the place of the word "irrigation," where it appears. Twelve of the sixteen sections of the original act were amended by the same act, and a new section added, making a "county water-works districts" law instead of a "county irrigation districts" law; in consequence of which the new act will be found in full in the chapter on "water districts."—See, post, Act 5505.

VALIDATION OF COUNTY IRRIGATION DISTRICTS.

ACT 2267a—An act to validate the formation of certain districts formed under the provisions of an act entitled "An act to provide for the formation, management and dissolution of county irrigation districts; for supplying the inhabitants thereof with water; for levying and collecting taxes on property in such districts; and for the issuance of county irrigation district bonds and the payment thereof," approved June 13, 1913, and to validate the issuance and sale of certain bonds thereof.

History: Approved April 10, 1915. In effect August 8, 1915. Stats. 1915, p. 48.

County irrigation districts validated.

§ 1. In any district, organized, or attempted to be organized, under the provisions of an act entitled "An act to provide for the formation, management and dissolution of county irrigation districts; for supplying the inhabitants thereof with water; for levying and collecting taxes on property in such districts; and for the issuance of county irrigation district bonds and the payment thereof," approved June 13, 1913, or as the same may have been or shall be amended at the time this act becomes effective, where acts or proceedings have been taken for the purpose of the formation of such a district, and of authorizing the issuance and sale of bonds; and where the formation of such district and the authorization of such issue and sale of bonds shall have been approved by a majority vote of the qualified electors of such district voting upon the question of the formation of such district and the authorization of the issuance and sale of such bonds, all such acts and proceedings leading up to and including the formation of any such district and the authorization of the issuance and sale of any such bonds, are hereby legalized, ratified, confirmed, and declared validated to all intents and purposes, and the power of any such district and of the proper officers to issue and sell such bonds is hereby ratified, confirmed, and declared, and any such bonds already sold at not less than their par value are declared to be, and any such bonds hereafter sold at not less than their par value shall be, a legal and binding obligation of and against such district, having heretofore authorized the issuance and sale of such bonds, and the faith and credit of any such district is hereby pledged for the prompt payment and redemption of the principal and interest of said bonds of such district, in the manner provided in said act, or as the same may be amended.

"COUNTY POWER PUMPING DISTRICT ACT."

ACT 2267b—An act to provide for the formation, management and dissolution of county power pumping districts; for supplying the land owners and inhabitants thereof with water and with the power necessary to pump the same; for the levy and collection of taxes on property in such districts; and for the issuance of county power pumping district bonds and for the payment thereof.

History: Approved June 11, 1915. In effect August 10, 1915. Stats. 1915, p. 1483.

Name of act.

§ 1. This act shall be known and referred to as the "County Power Pumping District Act."

Land may be formed into district.

§ 2. Any area of land within this state, wholly within one county and outside of incorporated cities and towns, or containing the whole or any portion of one or more incorporated cities or towns and contiguous unincorporated territory, and not already included within any irrigation district, in need of artificial irrigation and not already supplied with adequate facilities therefor and possessed of an available supply of sub-surface water, may be formed into a power pumping district and provisions made for obtaining power and pumping the waters necessary for the irrigation of such lands in the manner and under the proceedings hereinafter prescribed.

Petition for formation.

§ 3. A petition for the formation of such district may be presented to the board of supervisors of the county in which the proposed district is located, which petition shall be signed by not less than fifty per cent of the land owners within said district. The term "land owners," as herein used, shall include all freeholders and holders of possessory rights under any law of the United States or of the state of California.

The said petition shall contain:

- (1) The name and boundaries of the proposed district;
- (2) The source from which the lands therein are proposed to be irrigated;

Description of improvement.

(3) A general description of the improvement or improvements proposed for the purpose of supplying the district with water, and which improvement or improvements may embrace any or all of the following: (a) The construction, acquisition, operation and maintenance of electric or other power plants, together with all necessary transmission and distributing lines and equipment therefore; (b) the construction, acquisition, operation and maintenance of electrical transmission and distributing lines and equipment for the purpose of transmitting power to all points within such district, and the acquisition of electrical or other power by contact, rental or otherwise, from such plant or plants within said district; (c) the acquisition of power for such district by contract therefor, as provided in subdivisions 5 and 6 of section 12 hereof; (d) the acquisition, construction, installation, completion, extension, repair or maintenance of all plants, works, structures and appurtenances; (e) the acquisition, by purchase, condemnation, contract, lease or otherwise, of lands, rights of way, water, water rights and electric and water service necessary or convenient for such purpose; (f) the drilling, sinking and construction of wells for the development of sub-surface waters, and the installation of pumps and motors and all appliances necessary or convenient in connection therewith;

Estimate of cost.

(4) An estimate of the cost of the proposed improvement or improvements, including all incidental expenses in connection therewith; .

Election.

(5) A request that an election be called in the proposed district for the purpose of submitting to the qualified electors thereof the proposition of forming such district and incurring indebtedness, by the issuance of the bonds of such district, to pay the cost and expenses of the proposed improvement or improvements.

Map.

There must be filed with such petition: (a) A map showing the exterior boundaries of the proposed district, with relation to the territory immediately contiguous thereto, and plans and specifications of the proposed improvement; (b) a good and sufficient undertaking, to be approved by the board of supervisors, in double the amount of the probable cost of forming such district, conditioned that the sureties shall pay said cost in case the formation of such district shall not be effected.

Time for hearing.

§ 4. Such petition, together with the map and undertaking hereinabove described, must be presented at a regular meeting of said board of supervisors, and the board shall thereupon fix a time for hearing the same and protests of interested parties, not less than twenty-one nor more than thirty days after the date of presentation thereof. The clerk of the board shall thereupon cause notices of the filing and hearing of such petition to be posted in three of the most public places in the proposed district. Such notices shall be headed "Notice of the Formation of (here insert name) County Power Pumping District No. (here insert number of district)," in letters not less than one inch in length, and shall in legible characters state the fact and date of the filing of such petition, the day and hour set for hearing the same and the protests, briefly describe the proposed improvement or improvements, specify the exterior boundaries of the district, and refer to the said petition, map and plans and specifications for further particulars. The said clerk shall also cause a notice similar in substance to be published at least once a week for two consecutive weeks in a newspaper, designated by said board of supervisors, of general circulation printed and published in the county in which the proposed district is located. Said notices must be published and posted as above provided, at least ten days before the date set for the hearing of said petition.

Objection to formation.

§ 5. Any person objecting to the formation of the proposed district or the extent thereof, or the improvement or improvements proposed, or to the inclusion of his property in such district, may file a written protest with the clerk of said board at or before the time set for the hearing of such petition. The clerk of said board shall endorse on each protest the date of its reception by him, and at the time appointed for the hearing above provided for, shall present to said board all protests so filed with him. The said board shall hear said petition and protests at the time appointed or at any time to which the hearing thereof may be adjourned, and pass upon the same, and its decision thereon shall be final and conclusive. If any protest or protests against the formation of the proposed district or against the proposed improvements as a whole, be sustained, no further proceedings shall be had or taken pursuant to said petition, but a new petition for the same or a similar purpose may be filed at any time. If any protests be filed as against the extent of the proposed district, or against the inclusion therein of any specified property, the board shall have power to make such changes in the boundaries of the proposed district as it shall find to be proper and advisable, and shall define and establish such boundaries, and may upon written application of the owner thereof, at the same time include therein the lands of any contiguous land owner suitable for the purposes of the proposed district.

Jurisdiction acquired.

At the expiration of the time within which protests may be filed, if none be filed, or if protests be filed and after hearing be denied, said board shall be deemed to have acquired jurisdiction to further proceed in accordance with the provisions of this act. The determination of the board of supervisors as to whether the area of land embraced within such district is possessed of an available supply of sub-surface water, and as to whether said petition has been signed by the requisite number of land owners within said district, and as to whether all the requirements of section three of this act have been fully complied with, together with all its determinations upon questions of fact shall be final and conclusive.

Special election.

§ 6. The board of supervisors shall, by ordinance or resolution adopted at a regular or special meeting after having acquired jurisdiction to proceed, as above provided, provide for and order the holding of a special election in the proposed district and the submission to the qualified voters thereof of the proposition to form such district and incur an indebtedness, by the issuance of bonds thereof, for the purposes set forth in said petition. The ordinance or resolution calling such special election shall also recite the objects and purposes for which the proposed indebtedness is to be incurred, the estimated cost of the proposed improvement or improvements, the amount of the principal of the indebtedness to be incurred therefor, and the rate of interest to be paid upon such indebtedness, and shall fix the date at which such election shall be held, the manner of holding the same, and the manner of voting for or against the proposition. The maximum rate of interest to be paid on such indebtedness shall be eight per cent per annum, payable semi-annually. Prior to calling such election the board of supervisors must cause such investigation to be made as shall be necessary to establish the fact that the proposed works can be constructed within the limits of the proposed bonded indebtedness and that there is available a sufficient supply of water.

Election procedure.

§ 7. For the purposes of said election the board of supervisors shall, in such ordinance or resolution, establish one or more precincts within the boundaries of the proposed district, designate a polling place in each precinct and appoint such officers of election as said board shall deem necessary. In all particulars not recited in such ordinance or resolution, such election shall be held as provided by law for the holding of general elections in such county. Said ordinance or resolution ordering the holding of such election shall, prior to the date set for such election, be published five times in a daily or twice in a weekly or semi-weekly newspaper of general circulation printed and published in said county and designated by the board of supervisors for that purpose. No other notice of such election need be given. If at such election two-thirds of the votes cast are in favor of the formation of the proposed district and incurring of the proposed bonded indebtedness, then the board of supervisors shall enter an order to that effect upon its minutes, declaring said district formed, and the said board of supervisors shall thereupon be authorized and empowered to issue, and shall issue the bonds of said district for the amount provided for in said proceedings, payable out of the funds of such district to be provided as in this act prescribed; provided, however, that the entire bonded indebtedness of any district formed under the provisions of this act, as represented by the par value of bonds issued and to be issued and outstanding hereunder at any time, shall not exceed an amount greater than two dollars per acre for each acre of land contained in said district, subject to the provisions of this act; provided, however, that in the event that the proposed improvement or improvements shall embrace the drilling, sinking and construction of wells for the development of sub-surface waters and the installation of pumps and motors and all appliances necessary or convenient in connection therewith, then the entire bonded indebtedness of such district so formed as represented by the par value of bonds issued and outstanding hereunder at any time may equal, but shall not exceed, an amount greater than ten dollars ($10) per acre for each acre of land contained within said district.

Denominations, interest and condition of bonds.

§ 8. The board of supervisors, by an order entered upon its minutes, shall, subject to the provisions of this act, prescribe the denominations, interest and condition of said bonds and of the interest coupons attached thereto. Said bonds may contain appropriate provisions for their redemption prior to the maturity thereof. Said bonds shall be signed by the chairman of the board of supervisors, countersigned by the county auditor, and the seal of said county shall be affixed thereto. The interest coupons on said bonds shall be numbered consecutively and signed by the auditor of said county by his engraved or lithographed signature. In case any such officer whose signature or countersignature appears on such bonds or coupons shall cease to be such officer before the delivery of such bonds to the purchaser, such signature or countersignature shall, nevertheless, be valid and sufficient for all purposes in like manner as though such officer had remained in office until the delivery of the bonds.

Sale of bonds.

§ 9. The board of supervisors may issue and sell the bonds of such district, authorized as hereinabove provided, at a price not less than the par value thereof, and the proceeds of sale of such bonds shall be placed in the county treasury to the credit of the proper district fund, and shall be applied to the purposes and objects mentioned in the ordinance or resolution ordering the holding of such bond election, as aforesaid.

Tax levy.

§ 10. The board of supervisors shall levy a tax each year, upon all the taxable property in such district, sufficient (in connection with any other funds available for that purpose under the provisions of this act), to pay the interest on said bonds that year, and to take care of the sinking fund provisions as provided in the bonds, and such proportion of the principal thereof as is to become due before the time for making the next general tax levy; provided, however, that if the maturity of the indebtedness created by the issue of such bonds be made to begin more than one year after the date of such issue, such tax shall be levied and collected at the time and in the manner aforesaid each year sufficient to pay the interest on such indebtedness as it falls due, and also (in connection with any other funds available as aforesaid), to constitute a sinking fund for the payment of the principal thereof on or before maturity. Such tax shall be levied and collected at the time and in the same manner as the general tax levied for county purposes, and when collected shall be paid into the county treasury and be used for the payment of the principal and interest on said bonds, and for a sinking fund, and for no other purposes. The principal and interest on said bonds shall be paid by the county treasury in the manner provided by law for the payment of principal and interest on bonds of such county.

Tax for maintenance, etc.

§ 11. The board of supervisors of any county wherein a district has been formed under the provisions of this act, shall have the power in any year after the establishment of such district, to levy a tax upon the taxable property in such district, sufficient to pay the cost and expenses of maintaining, operating, extending and repairing said system for the ensuing fiscal year. And said tax shall be levied and collected at the time and in the same manner as the general tax levied for county purposes, and the revenue derived from such tax shall be paid into the county treasury to the credit of the proper fund of such district, and the board of supervisors shall have power to control and order the expenditure thereof for the purposes aforesaid.

Power of supervisors.

§ 12. Said board of supervisors shall have the power, and it shall be its duty:

- (1) To manage and conduct the business and affairs of the district;
- (2) To make and execute all necessary contracts;
- (3) To employ and appoint such agents, officers and employees as may be required and prescribe their duties;
- (4) For the use of such district to acquire, by purchase, lease, contract, condemnation or other legal means, all the lands, water and water rights, and other property necessary for the construction, use, maintenance, repair and improvement of such plants, works and appurtenances;

(5) To obtain and acquire electricity or other power by contract, rental or otherwise, as may be needed for pumping water for said district from the source or sources of supply, including the distribution of such power to the land owners, to be used upon and within the lands of said district;

(6) To enter into a contract with any person, partnership or corporation engaged in the generation, manufacture, distribution or sale of electrical or other power, for the construction of all such transmission and distributing lines and equipment and appurtenances necessary or convenient to supply the said district with power, and for the acquisition from any such person, partnership or corporation of such electrical or other power as may be desirable for pumping and distributing water as contemplated by this act. Such contracts shall also provide that twenty-five per cent of all amounts collected or received by any such person, partnership or corporation from the said district or the consumers therein for power used by them, shall be set aside as fast as received and paid into the county treasury to the credit of the said district fund, and shall constitute a sinking fund for the redemption or payment of the bonds issued for the construction of such transmission and distributing lines and equipment and appurtenances. Whenever sufficient funds shall have been so paid to redeem or to pay said bonds, so issued for the purposes aforesaid, the said transmission and distributing lines and appurtenances shall thereupon be and become the property of such person, partnership or corporation which has in this manner paid for the same, and the board of supervisors shall have the power and it shall be its duty to execute all such conveyances and other instruments of transfer as may be necessary to vest the title to such transmission and distributing lines and appurtenances and equipment in such persons, partnerships or corporations;

(7) To drill, sink and construct wells and to install pumps and motors and all appliances necessary or convenient in connection therewith;

(8) To perform any and all other acts necessary or proper to accomplish the purposes of this act.

Dissolution of district.

§ 13. Any such district may be dissolved by the board of supervisors in the manner following: Upon receiving a petition signed by fifteen per cent or more of the free-holders and power consumers of such pumping district, requesting the dissolution thereof, the board of supervisors shall fix a date for the hearing of such petition, which shall be not less than ten days nor more than thirty days after the receipt of such petition, and shall, at least five days prior to the date so fixed, publish a notice of such hearing by one insertion in a daily, weekly or semi-weekly newspaper printed, published and circulated in said county. At the time appointed for such hearing or at any time to which the same may be adjourned, the board of supervisors shall hear and pass upon such petition and may grant or deny the same, and its decision shall be final and conclusive.

Special election.

If such petition be granted the board of supervisors shall, by ordinance or resolution, provide for and order the holding of a special election in such district, and the submission to the qualified voters thereof of the proposition to dissolve the same. The ordinance or resolution shall recite the filing of the petition for dissolution, and the approval of the same by the board of supervisors, and shall establish one or more precincts within the boundaries of the district, designate a polling place in and for each precinct, and appoint such officers of election as the board of supervisors shall deem necessary. In all particulars not recited in such ordinance or resolution, such election shall be held as provided by law for holding general elections in such county. Said ordinance or resolution, ordering the holding of such election, shall, prior to the date set for such election, be published five times in a daily or twice in a weekly or semi-weekly newspaper printed and published in said county and designated by the board of supervisors for such purpose. No other notice of said election need be given. If at the time of said election a majority of the votes cast are in favor of the dissolution of such district, then the board of supervisors shall enter an order to that effect upon its minutes, declaring such district dissolved, and upon the entry of such order said district shall be dissolved; provided, however, that if at the time of the dissolution of said district there shall be any outstanding bonds or other indebtedness of said district, a tax for the payment of such bonds or other indebtedness shall be levied and collected in said district to pay such indebtedness, in like manner as though such district had not been dissolved.

This act an alternative method.

§ 14. This act shall not affect any other act or acts relating to the same or a similar subject, but is intended to provide an alternative method of procedure governing the subject to which it relates. When proceeding under the provisions of this act, its provisions and none other shall apply.

§ 15. The provisions of this act shall be liberally construed to effect the purposes thereof.

DISSOLUTION OF IRRIGATION DISTRICTS ACT OF 1919.

ACT 2267c—An act declaring the conditions upon which an irrigation district may be dissolved, prescribing the procedure therefor, and the winding up of the affairs of the district when dissolved.

History: Approved May 18, 1919. In effect July 22, 1919. Stats. 1919, p. 751.

Provisions for dissolution of irrigation districts.

§ 1. Any irrigation district organized under any of the laws of the state of California, providing for the organization of irrigation districts, which

(a) Has been organized more than three years and has failed and neglected to secure an adequate water supply and which does not have a reasonable prospect of securing an adequate water supply for the lands of the district, and has failed and neglected to obtain the approval of the state water commission of the water supply of said district and has failed and neglected to obtain the approval of the state engineer of the plans of said district, and has failed and neglected to construct or acquire a system of works or the financing thereof, and has failed and neglected to obtain the approval of the irrigation district bond commission; or

(b) Has been organized for more than ten years and for more than five years after the construction or acquisition of a system of works has failed and neglected to maintain such works, or for five years or more after such works have been constructed or acquired has failed and neglected to supply or make available, water for the irrigation of more than ten per cent of the lands of the district;

May be dissolved and annulled by the superior court of the county in which said district is located by proceedings in an action brought by the attorney general in the name of the people of the state of California, upon his own information. Before such an action can be commenced in the courts the attorney general shall publish for two consecutive weeks in some newspaper published in the county in which the greater portion of the district is located, a notice to all parties in interest that it is his intention to begin such action for the dissolution of said district. The rules of pleading and practice in the Code of Civil Procedure not inconsistent with the provisions of this act are made applicable to the proceedings herein provided.

Investigation by state engineer. Access to records. Report.

§ 2. Before the trial of the case the court may direct the state engineer to investigate all the affairs of said district; the water supply that may be obtained without prohibitive cost; the feasibility and practicability of irrigating all or a reasonable amount of the lands of said district; and all other matters which the court may direct, or the state engineer may deem pertinent as affecting the possible success or failure of the district as an irrigation enterprise and which may be necessary to enable the court to determine the question of dissolution.

For the purpose of making such investigation, the state engineer shall have access to all the records of the district, and all officers and employees and other persons in any manner connected with or employed by said district shall furnish such information as he may require which has already been obtained or determined, including maps, plans, estimates, field notes, and other data.

The state engineer shall report his findings and conclusions to the superior court as soon as practicable, but within ninety days unless a longer time be granted him by the court, but in no case to extend beyond the period of one hundred eighty days in all.

Upon dissolution county officers shall be ex-officio officers of district. Sale of property. Funds remaining after indebtedness is paid.

§ 3. Upon final judgment of dissolution in such action, the district in question shall be deemed dissolved and annulled. The court shall determine the amount of indebtedness outstanding against said district, including the costs of the court action herein provided for, and thereafter the appropriate county officers shall act as ex officio officers of the district; the records and papers of every kind belonging to the district shall be turned over to the proper county officers. The county treasurer shall perform the duties of the district treasurer; the county tax collector shall perform the duties of the district tax collector; the county assessor shall perform the duties of the district assessor; the county clerk shall perform the duties of the secretary of the board of directors; the board of supervisors shall perform the duties of the board of directors; they shall proceed to levy and collect such additional taxes as may be necessary upon the lands embraced within such district in the same manner and with the same procedure for nonpayment that county taxes are levied and collected for the purpose of paying such outstanding indebtedness not provided for by previous assessments. All property of every kind belonging to the district, including lands sold to the district for taxes, shall be sold as the court may direct and the proceeds together with all money on hand shall be used to pay off the indebtedness. All funds remaining after all outstanding indebtedness has been paid shall be apportioned and be paid to the assessment payers according to the last assessment roll.

Indebtedness no bar to dissolution.

§ 4. The outstanding indebtedness, whether of bonds, warrants, or otherwise, of any irrigation district shall not operate as a bar to dissolution by the superior court when provision is made for the payment of such indebtedness in the manner provided in section three of this act.

Intent of act.

§ 5. This act is designed to provide an alternative method for the dissolution of irrigation districts and shall not be deemed to repeal any other statute or statutes.

DISSOLUTION OF IRRIGATION DISTRICTS ACT OF 1903.

ACT 2267d—An act to provide for the dissolution of irrigation districts, the ascertainment and discharge of their indebtedness, and the distribution of their property.

Irrigation districts may be dissolved. In case of contract with United States.

§ 1. Any irrigation district organized under the provisions of an act entitled "An act to provide for the organization and government of irrigation districts, and to provide for the acquisition of water and other property, and for the distribution of water thereby for irrigation purposes," approved March 7, 1887, and all acts supplementary thereto or amendatory thereof, including an act entitled "An act to provide for the organization and government of irrigation districts, and to provide for the acquisition or construction thereby of works for the irrigation of lands embraced within such districts, and also, to provide for the distribution of water for irrigation purposes," approved March 31, 1897, may be dissolved in the manner hereinafter provided; provided, that in case a contract authorized by law has been made between the district and the United States for the construction, operation and maintenance of the necessary works for the delivery of water or for a water supply, no such district shall be dissolved and no proceedings entertained by any court or otherwise looking to the dissolution of such district, until the written assent of the secretary of the interior be given to such dissolution. [Amendment of May 26, 1915. In effect August 8, 1915. Stats. 1915, p. 859.]

Manner of dissolution. Petition, what to contain.

§ 2. A majority in number of the holders of title, or evidence of title, to real property in any irrigation district, and a majority in value of said property according to the equalized assessment-roll of said district for the year last preceding upon which any assessment has been made, may propose the dissolution of said district by a petition signed by such majority, which petition shall set forth the amount of the outstanding bonds, coupons, and other indebtedness, if such there be, together with a general description of the same, and the holders, so far as known, showing the amount of each description of indebtedness and the ownership, so far as known, of the same. Also the estimated cost of the dissolution of said district. Said petition shall also state the assets of said district, including irrigation system, if any, dams, reservoirs, canals, franchises, water rights, a detailed statement of all the lands sold to the district for assessments, and the amount of the assessments on each parcel of land sold, also all assessments unpaid, and the amount upon each lot or tract of land, and all other assets of the district; and in case any proposition has been made by the holders of said indebtedness to settle the same, said proposition, together with any plan proposed to carry the same into execution, shall be included in said petition.

Proceedings under certain conditions.

§ 2½. In case an irrigation district has no indebtedness not barred by the statute of limitations and no assets, and has ceased to be a going concern and has no irrigation system by which it conveys water for irrigation or domestic purposes to any of the residents of such district, the petition for dissolution mentioned in section two of said act shall contain statements showing such facts and also that it is the desire of the signers of such petition to have said district dissolved, and such petition need not contain any other statement or allegation, and such petition need only be signed by two thirds of the qualified electors residing in such district, and by the holders of title or evidence of title representing at least fifty per cent of the acreage within said district and not less than fifty per cent in value of all lands lying within the exterior boundaries of said district, the value of said lands to be determined by the last equalized assessment roll of said district, and such petition so signed and containing such statements and allegations shall be sufficient. In such case the plan of dissolution referred to in section 3 of said act need only show the facts that there is no district indebtedness not barred by the statute of limitations and that the district has disposed of all of its assets; provided, that the petition shall further recite the fact that an application will be made to the superior court for a decree of dissolution of said district under the provisions of said act. And in the case mentioned in this section, it shall not be necessary to obtain the assent of any holder of any evidence of indebtedness of said district barred by any statute of limitations of this state before the election, provided for in said section three, shall be called. [New section added December 24, 1911, Stats. 1911, p. 118 (extra session); probably superseded by section 2a, which was added in 1913.]

Statement of district having no assets. Special election. Ballot.

§ 2a. In case an irrigation district has no indebtedness not barred by the statute of limitations and no assets and has ceased to be a going concern and has no irrigation system by which it conveys water for irrigation or domestic purposes to any of the residents of such district, the petition for dissolution mentioned in section two of said act shall contain statements showing such facts and also that it is the desire of the signers of such petition to have said district dissolved, and such petition need not contain any other statement or allegation, and such petition need only be signed by two thirds of the qualified electors residing in such district, and by the holders of title or evidence of title representing at least fifty per cent of the acreage within said district and not less than fifty per cent in value of all lands lying within the exterior boundaries of said district, the value of said lands to be determined by the last equalized assessment-roll of said district, and such petition so signed and containing such statements and allegations shall be sufficient. In such case the plan of dissolution referred to in section three of said act may be entirely omitted and it shall not be necessary for the petitioners or persons signing such petition, or for the board of directors of such district to propose any plan for the dissolution of such district or any plan for the liquidation of its indebtedness or the distribution of its assets; provided, that the petition shall further recite the fact that an application will be made to the superior court of the state of California in and for the county in which the office of the board of directors of such district is required to be kept, for a decree of dissolution of said district under the provisions of said act. And in the case mentioned in this section, it shall not be necessary to obtain the assent of any holder of any indebtedness or evidence of indebtedness of said district barred by any statute of limitations of this state before the election provided for in said section three, shall be called. Upon the filing of said petition with the board of directors of said district said board shall call a special election at which shall be submitted to the electors of such district the question whether or not said district shall be dissolved. Notice of such election must be given by posting notices in three public places in each election precinct in said district for at least twenty days and also by publication of such notice in some newspaper published in the county where the office of the board of directors is required to be kept, once a week for at least three successive weeks before such election. Such notices must specify the time of holding the election, and the fact that it is proposed to dissolve the district. Said election must be held and the result thereof determined and declared in all respects as nearly as practicable in conformity with provisions of law governing the election of officers in irrigation districts. At such election the ballot shall contain the words "Dissolution of the district—Yes" or "Dissolution of the district—No,” or words equivalent thereto. It shall not be necessary in winding up the affairs of any district organized under the laws of this state to pay all or any portion of any debt or obligation of such district, for the enforcement of which debt or obligation a suit is barred by the laws of this state, nor to pay any bond, coupon, warrant or other indebtedness, claim or demand which shall be barred by the laws of this state prior to the filing of the petition for dissolution with the board of directors of such district. [New section approved April 19, 1913, Stats. 1913, p. 39. In effect August 10, 1913.]

Special election. Notice of election. Ballots.

§ 3. Upon the filing of said petition with the board of directors of said district said board shall call a special election, at which shall be submitted to the electors of such district the question whether or not said district shall be dissolved, its indebtedness liquidated, and its assets distributed in accordance with the plan so proposed, or in case no plan has been proposed, then in accordance with a plan which shall be proposed by said board of directors in the notice of the election, but no such election shall be called until the assent of all the known holders of valid indebtedness against the district shall be obtained or provision shall be made in said plan for the payment of such non-assenting holders. Notice of such election must be given by posting notices in three public places, in each election precinct in said district for at least twenty days, and also by publication of such notice in some newspaper published in the county where the office of the board of directors is required to be kept, once a week for at least three successive weeks before such election. Such notices must specify the time of holding the election, the fact that it is proposed to dissolve the district, and a brief summary of the plan proposed for liquidating its indebtedness and disposing of its assets. Said election shall be held and the result thereof determined and declared in all respects as nearly as practicable in conformity with the provisions governing the election of officers in irrigation districts. At such election the ballot shall contain the words “Dissolution of the district—Yes,” or “Dissolution of the district—No,” or words equivalent thereto.

Validity of proceedings, how determined. Right of appeal.

§ 4. In case upon such canvass it is found and declared by said board of directors that two-thirds of the votes cast at such election shall be cast in favor of “Dissolution of the district—Yes,” then the said board of directors shall file a petition in the superior court of the county wherein is located the office of such board to determine the validity of the proceedings had and of the proposed plan for the dissolution of said district. Such action shall be in the nature of a proceeding in rem, and jurisdiction of all parties interested may be had by publication of a notice of the pendency of the proceeding for at least once a week for three weeks in some paper of general circulation published in the county where the action is pending; provided, that if the property of the district is situate in more than one county then the publication shall be made in one paper in each county wherein the same is situate, such paper or papers to be designated by the court having jurisdiction of the proceeding; jurisdiction shall be complete in thirty days after the completion of such notice in the manner herein provided. Any one interested may at any time before the expiration of said thirty days appear and contest the validity of the proceedings already had and of the plan proposed for the dissolution of said district, or any portion thereof, including the validity of any portion of the indebtedness set out in said petition, and the court may determine the validity of any sales for assessments, and may determine the amount of any assessment or assessments due upon the various parcels and lots of real estate within said district, and may determine the amount of any assessment or assessments theretofore paid upon the various parcels and lots of real estate herein, and may in said proceeding adjust and determine the rights and liabilities of all parties. Such action shall be speedily tried and judgment rendered. Either party shall have the right to appeal at any time within thirty days after the entering of such judgment, and the appeal must be heard and determined within three months after the taking of such appeal.

Facts required by superior court. Costs of contests.

§ 5. Said petition to the superior court shall set forth the facts required to be set forth in the petition to the board of directors and all the proceedings therein, and at the hearing the court shall hear and determine the regularity, legality, and correctness of all proceedings, and in doing so shall disregard any error, irregularity, or omission which does not affect the substantial rights of the parties. The rules of pleading and practice in the Code of Civil Procedure not inconsistent with the provisions of this act are made applicable to the proceeding herein provided. The costs of any contest may be allowed and proportioned between the parties or taxed to the losing party in the discretion of the court, and no contest of any matter or thing herein provided for shall be made other than in the time and manner herein specified.

Assessment payer may bring action.

§ 6. If no such proceeding shall have been filed by the board of directors within thirty days after the canvass of said vote, then any district assessment payer may bring an action in the superior court of the county wherein the office of the board of directors is located. The board of directors shall be made parties defendant and notice shall be served on the members of the board personally, if they can be found in the state, if not, then service by publication as provided in section 4, shall be sufficient. Proceedings shall be had in the same manner and with the same effect as if brought by the board of directors.

Assets of district may be acquired by corporation.

§ 7. A corporation may be organized under general laws for the purpose of acquiring the assets of said district, including the irrigation system, if any, dams, reservoirs, canals, franchises and water rights, which corporation shall have all the powers, rights and franchises of corporate bodies organized under general laws, and in addition shall have such further powers as may be necessary to possess and carry on said irrigation system and exercise such franchise and water rights.

Power of court. Sale of assets.

§ 8. The court in its decree shall have power to make the orders necessary to carry out said proposition for the discharge of the indebtedness and distribution of the property of said district, including the right to apportion any indebtedness found due, and to declare said portions liens upon the various parcels and lots of land within the district, and may decree a sale of its assets in such manner as may effectuate said proposition and as the said court may judge best, either in one lot or in such parcels as may be provided, and may provide for conveyance of said irrigation system, including dams, reservoirs, canals, franchises and water rights, and also of any other assets of the district, including lands sold thereto and the assessments due it.

Assessments to be liens. Redemptions.

§ 9. The amounts of any assessment or assessments found due upon the various parcels and lots of real estate within said district, and the amounts for which sales have been made, which sales have been determined to be valid by said court, together with legal interest from the date of said sales and from the time when said assessments become delinquent, shall be liens respectively on the lots and parcels affected thereby, and the purchaser or purchasers at said sale may foreclose the same by action in the superior court, and shall in said action join all lots, assessments, and sales which may have been purchased by him and which remain unredeemed. A redemption may be made at any time by payment of the amount due to the clerk of the court for the use of the district if before sale, and for the use of the purchaser if after sale, and the clerk shall thereupon enter a minute of said payment, which payment shall be in the discharge of said lien. Redemption from the lien created for any portion of the indebtedness can be had in this manner.

Disposition of surplus money.

§ 10. Whenever all the property of such irrigation district shall have been disposed of, and all the indebtedness and obligations thereof, if any there be, shall have been discharged, the balance of the money of said district shall be distributed to the assessment payers in said district upon the last assessment-roll in the proportion in which each has contributed to the total amount of said assessment, and the court shall enter a final decree declaring said district to be dissolved.

Indebtedness, schedule of.

§ 10½. In the petition mentioned in section 2 of this act it shall not be necessary to include in the schedule of indebtedness any bond, coupon, warrant or other indebtedness, claim or demand which shall have been barred by the laws of this state prior to the filing of said petition with the board of directors of said irrigation district, nor shall it be necessary in winding up the affairs of any district organized under the laws of this state to pay all or any portion of a debt or obligation of such district, for the enforcement of which debt or obligation a suit is barred by the laws of this state. [New section approved March 3, 1909, Stats. 1909, p. 139.]

§ 11. This act shall take effect immediately.

FUNDING ACT OF 1897.

ACT 2268—An act to provide for the issue and sale or exchange of funding bonds of irrigation districts organized under and in pursuance of an act of the legislature of the state of California entitled "An act to provide for the organization and government of irrigation districts, and to provide for the acquisition of water and other property, and for the distribution of water thereby for irrigation purposes," approved March 7, 1887, to provide for the payment of such bonds, and for proceedings to test the validity of the same.

History: Approved April 1, 1897, Stats. 1897, p. 394. Amended March 16, 1901, Stats. 1901, p. 514. This act is probably to be treated as a supplement to the Wright act. See Act 2259.

Provision for payment of bonds of irrigation district.

§ 1. Whenever an irrigation district organized, under the provisions of an act entitled "An act to provide for the organization and government of irrigation districts, and to provide for the acquisition of water and other property, and for the distribution of water thereby for irrigation purposes," approved March seventh, eighteen hundred and eighty-seven, or said act and the acts supplementary thereto, or amendatory thereof, has outstanding bonds, coupons, or other evidences of indebtedness, the payment thereof may be provided for by the issuance of new bonds, in the manner hereinafter prescribed.

Majority may act.

§ 2. A majority in number of the holders of title, or evidences of title to real property in any irrigation district, subject to assessment, such holders of title, or evidences of title, representing a majority in value of the real property of such district according to the equalized assessment-roll or rolls of such district for the year last preceding, may propose the funding of such bonds, coupons, or other evidences of indebtedness. Said equalized assessment-roll or rolls shall be sufficient evidence of title for the purposes of this act.

Proceedings necessary to propose funding of bonds.

§ 3. In order to propose the funding of such bonds, coupons, or other evidences of indebtedness, a petition shall be presented to the board of directors of such irrigation district, signed by a majority in number of holders of title, or evidences of title to real property in such district, and representing a majority in value of the real property of said district, subject to assessment for district purposes, which petition shall set forth the amount of bonds, coupons, or other evidences of indebtedness proposed to be funded, together with a general description of same, also the total amount of the bonds sought to be issued (provided, that said amount shall in no case be greater than the total amount of bonds, coupons, and other evidences of indebtedness then outstanding and sought to have funded), together with a full and complete statement of the purposes for which such bonds are to be used. On presentation of such petition, the same shall be entered in full on the minutes of the board.

Election to authorize the issuing of bonds by irrigation districts to refund bonded debt. Two-thirds vote necessary.

§ 4. Immediately after the recording of said petition the board of directors shall call a special election, at which shall be submitted to the electors of such district the question whether or not the bonds of such district, in the amount set forth in said petition, shall be issued. Notice of such election must be given by the secretary of said district by posting notices in three public places in each election precinct in said district for at least twenty days, and also by publication of such notice in some newspaper published in the county, where the office of the board of directors of such district is required to be kept, once a week for at least three successive weeks before such election. Such notice must specify the time of holding the election, the amount of bonds proposed to be issued, the amount of bonds, coupons, or other evidences of indebtedness proposed to be refunded, together with a general description of the same. Said election shall be held and the result thereof determined and declared in all respects as nearly as practicable in conformity with the provisions governing the election of officers; as provided by the law governing irrigation districts at the time of the holding of the election herein provided for; provided, that no informalities in conducting such an election shall invalidate the same, if the election shall have been otherwise fairly conducted. At such an election the ballot shall contain the words "Bonds—Yes" or "Bonds—No," or words equivalent thereto. If two-thirds of the votes cast at such election are "Bonds—Yes," the board of directors shall direct and cause bonds in said amount to be issued. If more than one-third of the votes cast at such election are "Bonds—No," the result of such election shall be so declared. The result in either case shall be duly entered of record. [Amendment approved March 16, 1901. Stats. 1901, p. 514. In effect immediately.]

§§ 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, repealed March 16, 1901. Stats. 1901, p. 515. In effect immediately.

Issue and payment of bonds, etc. Interest.

§ 11. If said bonds are directed to be issued as herein provided for, the board of directors shall cause the same to be issued. Said bonds shall be made payable in gold coin of the United States, and in twenty series, as follows, to wit: On the first day of January after the expiration of twenty years, five per cent of the whole amount of said bonds, and on the first day of January of each year thereafter, an equal amount of such bonds until all shall have been finally paid; that is, five per cent of the whole issue of bonds—not five per cent of each bond—each being wholly payable when due. Said bonds shall bear interest at the rate of five per cent per annum, payable semiannually on the first day of January and July of each year. They shall be negotiable in form, and shall be of denominations of not less than one hundred dollars, nor more than five hundred dollars. Said bonds shall in all respects conform to the form of bonds prescribed by the laws governing irrigation districts at the time of their issue, except as herein otherwise provided.

Bonds not to be sold for less than par.

§ 12. It shall be unlawful to sell or exchange any of the bonds issued as herein provided, for less than their par value.

Duty of district treasurer.

§ 13. When bonds issued under this act shall be duly executed, they shall be deposited with the treasurer of the district, and his receipt shall be taken therefor, and he shall be charged with the same on his official bond, and shall have no power to deliver the same in exchange for any bonds or indebtedness proposed to be funded until the bonds or evidence of indebtedness proposed to be funded shall have been surrendered to him, and he shall have been ordered by the board of directors of the district, by an order duly entered on their records, to make such delivery. When such bonds have been exchanged for other bonds, coupons, or other evidences of indebtedness, the treasurer shall at once cancel such other bonds, coupons, or other evidences of indebtedness by writing across the face thereof "canceled," and the date of cancellation, and report the same with his monthly report to the board of directors of the district, designating the bond, coupon, or other evidence of indebtedness, so that it can be identified, the date of cancellation, and the person from whom it was received, together with the amount paid therefor, or the terms of exchange, in case there is an exchange.

Sale of bonds; powers of board.

§ 14. When said bonds are issued for the purpose of sale to the highest bidder, the board may sell said bonds from time to time, in such quantities as may be necessary and most advantageous, to raise money to pay bonds, coupons, or other evidences of indebtedness of the district which were outstanding at the time of the filing of said petition, and generally described therein. Before making any sale, the board shall at a meeting, by resolution, declare its intention to sell a specified amount of bonds, which resolution shall be entered in the minutes, and notice of the sale shall be given by publication thereof for at least three weeks in a newspaper published in the county in which the office of the board of directors is kept. The notice shall state that sealed proposals will be received by the board at its office for the purchase of bonds till the day and hour named in the resolution. At the time appointed the board shall open the proposals and award the purchase of bonds to the highest responsible bidder, or may reject all bids; but said bonds shall in no event be sold for less than their par value, including accrued interest. All moneys realized from the sale of bonds issued under the provisions of this act shall be paid into the hands of the district treasurer, and by him kept in a separate fund, known as the funding fund, and shall be applied exclusively to the payment of bonds, coupons, or other evidences of indebtedness of the district outstanding at the time of filing the said petition, and described therein.

Levy of assessment to pay bonds.

§ 15. At the time fixed for the levying of assessments for other purposes authorized by the district irrigation law then in force, there shall be levied an assessment sufficient in amount to pay the principal and interest then due and unpaid on any bonds issued by authority of this act, and also the amount to become due on any such bonds during the year following such levy. The assessment so levied shall be computed and entered in the assessment-roll in the same manner and shall be collected at the same time and in the same manner as other assessments authorized by the district irrigation law then in force, and when collected, shall be paid into the district treasury, for the purposes herein authorized; and all the provisions of said district irrigation law relating to the collection of assessments and the sale and redemption of property therefor shall be applicable to the assessments levied under this act.

Bonds not to be exchanged for less than par value.

§ 16. The bonds issued as herein provided for may be exchanged, at not less than their par value, for any of the indebtedness set out and described in the notice of the election authorizing the issuance of said refunding bond. A contract for such exchange may be made by the board of directors upon such terms as said board may deem advisable; provided, that they must receive not less than the par value for the bonds so exchanged. [Amendment approved March 16, 1901. Stats. 1901, p. 515. In effect immediately.]

Unnecessary bonds may be destroyed.

§ 17. Whenever there remains in the hands of the treasurer of any district any funding bonds voted to be issued by said district, but not used, and not necessary to be used for the funding purposes set out and described in the petition for the issuance of said bonds, then said board of directors, shall at a regular meeting, within three months after the completion of the funding, cause the same to be destroyed and a record to be made thereof, and the total amount of bonds so destroyed and canceled shall be deducted from the sum authorized to be issued by the electors of said district, and no part thereof shall be thereafter reprinted or reissued.

Bonds are a lien on property.

§ 18. Any bonds issued under the provisions of this act shall be a lien upon the real property of the district, and said bonds and the interest thereon shall be paid by revenue derived from an annual assessment upon the real property of the district, and all the real property in said district shall be and remain liable to be assessed for such payments as hereinbefore provided. [Amendment approved March 16, 1901. Stats. 1901, p. 515. In effect immediately.]

§ 19. This act shall take effect from and after its passage.

LEGALIZING IRRIGATION BONDS.

ACT 2268a—An act to legalize bonds issued and to be issued and sold by irrigation districts.

History: Approved May 26, 1915. In effect August 8, 1915, Stats. 1915, p. 837.

Irrigation district bonds legalized.

§ 1. In all cases subsequent to January 1, 1910, where the board of directors of any irrigation district in the state of California has passed a resolution calling an election for the purpose of submitting to the qualified electors of such irrigation district the question of whether or not bonds of such district should be issued for any purpose and where at such election four-fifths of all the qualified electors voting at such election shall have voted in favor of issuing such bonds and such board of directors shall have passed a resolution or order providing for the issuing of such bonds, the power of such irrigation district to issue such bonds and all the acts and proceedings of such irrigation district leading up to and including the issuance and sale or the proposed issuance and sale of such bonds are hereby legalized, ratified, confirmed and declared valid to all intents and purposes, and all such bonds sold either before or after the passage of this act are hereby legalized and declared to be legal and valid obligations of and against such irrigation district so issuing and selling the same.

REFUNDING ACT OF 1919.

ACT 2268b—An act to authorize irrigation districts to refund outstanding bonded indebtedness.

History: Approved May 25, 1919. In effect July 25, 1919. Stats. 1919, p. 1004.

Refunding bonded indebtedness of irrigation district.

§ 1. The board of directors of any irrigation district organized or existing under or subject to the provisions of the California irrigation district act approved March 31, 1897, as amended, providing for the organization and government of irrigation districts, that has an outstanding indebtedness evidenced by bonds lawfully issued prior to January 1, 1913, may, by a majority vote of the members of the board, submit to the electors of the irrigation district at any election the proposition of the issuance of new bonds for the purpose of refunding the bonds outstanding, as the same become due. Such election shall be held, and the vote thereon shall be the same as provided by the California irrigation district act for the issuance of other irrigation district bonds; provided, no petition therefor need be circulated or signed; and provided, further, that a majority of the votes of those voting on said proposition shall be sufficient to carry the same. Such bonds shall bear interest at a rate the same as or lower than the bonds to be refunded and no refunding bond shall have a later date of maturity than twenty years from the date of its issue.

Form. Sale.

§ 2. The refunding bonds shall be issued in substantially the manner and in the form required by law for the issuance of other bonds of the district. These bonds may be sold from time to time in the same manner as other bonds of the district, or, if the directors of the district and the holders of any of the bonds reaching maturity so elect, they may be exchanged in payment of the bonds so maturing as such bonds mature.

Tax levy to pay interest and principal.

§ 3. The board of directors shall cause to be assessed and levied each year upon the assessable property in the district, in addition to the levy authorized for other purposes, a sufficient sum to pay the interest on or any principal of such refunding bonds in the same manner as is provided in the California irrigation district act in the case of other bonds.

IRRIGATION BONDS AS LEGAL INVESTMENTS.

ACT 2271—An act relating to bonds of irrigation districts, providing under what circumstances such bonds shall be legal investments for funds of banks, insurance companies and trust companies, trust funds, state school funds and any money or funds which may now or hereafter be invested in bonds of cities, cities and counties, counties, school districts or municipalities, and providing under what circumstances the use of bonds of irrigation districts as security for the performance of any act may be authorized.

History: Approved June 13, 1913. In effect August 10, 1913. Stats. 1913, p. 778. Amended May 20, 1915. In effect August 10, 1915. Stats. 1915, p. 692. May 17, 1917. In effect July 27, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 582. May 25, 1919. In effect July 25, 1919. Stats. 1919, p. 1207. Prior act of March 9, 1911, Stats. 1911, p. 322, and of December 18, 1911, Stats. 911 (ex. sess.), p. 3, were superseded, if not repealed, by the present act.

Resolution declaring irrigation district bonds available.

§ 1. Whenever the board of directors of any irrigation district organized and existing under and pursuant to the laws of the state of California shall by resolution declare that it deems it desirable that any contemplated or outstanding bonds of said district, including any of its bonds authorized but not sold, shall be made available for the purposes provided for in section 7 of this act, the said board of directors shall thereupon file a certified copy of such resolution with the commission hereinafter provided for.

Report of commission on affairs of district.

§ 2. Such commission, upon the receipt of a certified copy of such resolution, shall, without delay, make or cause to be made an investigation of the affairs of the district and report in writing upon such matters as it may deem essential, and particularly upon the following points:

(a) The supply of water available for the project and the right of the district to so much water as may be needed.

(b) The nature of the soil as to its fertility and susceptibility to irrigation, the probable amount of water needed for its irrigation and the probable need of drainage.

(c) The feasibility of the district's irrigation system and of the specific project for which the bonds under consideration are desired or have been used, whether such system and project be constructed, projected or partially completed.

(d) The reasonable market value of the water, water rights, canals, reservoirs, reservoir sites and irrigation works owned by such district or to be acquired or constructed by it with the proceeds of any of such bonds.

(e) The reasonable market value of the lands included within the boundaries of the district.

(f) Whether or not the aggregate amount of the bonds under consideration and any other outstanding bonds of said district, including bonds authorized but not sold, exceeds sixty per centum of the aggregate market value of the lands within said district and of the water, water rights, canals, reservoirs, reservoir sites, and irrigation works owned, or to be acquired or constructed with the proceeds of any of said bonds, by said district, as determined in accordance with paragraphs (d) and (e) in this section.

(g) The numbers, date or dates of issue and denominations of the bonds, if any, which the commission shall find are available for the purposes provided for in section 7 of this act, and, if the investigation has covered contemplated bonds, the total amount of bonds which the district can issue without exceeding the limitation expressed in paragraph (f) of this section.

Report filed with controller and secretary of district. When entitled to controller's certificate. Unlawful to issue bonds not entitled to certificate. Controller's record of bonds certified to.

§ 3. The written report of the investigation herein provided for shall be filed in the office of the state controller, and a copy of said report shall by the commission be forwarded to the secretary of the district for which the investigation shall have been made, and if said commission shall have found, as set out in said report, that the irrigation system of the district and the specific project for which the bonds under consideration are desired or have been used, whether such project be constructed, projected or partially completed, are feasible and that the aggregate amount of the bonds under consideration and any other outstanding bonds of said district, including bonds authorized but not sold, does not exceed sixty per centum of the aggregate market value of the lands within said district and of the water, water rights, canals, reservoir, reservoir sites, and irrigation works owned or to be acquired or constructed with the proceeds of any of said bonds by said district, the bonds of such irrigation district, as described and enumerated in said report filed with the state controller, shall be certified by the state controller, as hereinafter provided for. If the commission shall be notified by the board of directors of any district whose irrigation system has been found in such report to be feasible that the district has issued bonds and the commission shall find that said bonds are for any project or projects approved in such report and that the amount of said bonds does not exceed the limitation stated in such report, the commission shall prepare and file with the state controller a supplementary report giving the numbers, date or dates of issue and denominations of said bonds, which shall then be entitled to certification by the state controller as hereinafter provided for. Subsequent issues or bonds may be made available for the purposes specified in this act upon like proceedings by said district, but, after any of the bonds of an irrigation district have been enumerated and described as entitled to certification by the state controller as herein provided for, it shall be unlawful for that district to issue bonds that will not be entitled to such certification. It is hereby made the duty of the state controller to provide for filing and preserving the reports mentioned in this section and, also, to make, keep and preserve a record of the bonds certified by him in accordance with the provisions of section four of this act, including the date of certification, the legal title of the district, the number of each bond, its par value, the date of its issue and that of its maturity.

Provisions directory.

§ 3a. The provisions of section two of this act as to the points upon which said commission shall report are directory merely and the board may authorize such certification when in their opinion, subject to the provisions otherwise contained in this act, their findings justify such action. [New section added May 17, 1917. In effect July 27, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 583.]

No expenditures without consent of commission.

§ 3b. Whenever the bonds of any irrigation district have been certified, as provided in this act, no expenditure of any kind shall be made from the construction fund of such district without the consent of the commission provided for in this act and no obligation shall be incurred chargeable against such fund without previous authorization of the commission nor shall any expense of any kind be incurred in excess of money actually provided by levy of assessment or otherwise. [New section added May 17, 1917. In effect July 27, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 583.]

Certification of irrigation district bonds by commission.

§ 3c. Whenever the surveys, examinations, drawings and plans of an irrigation district, and the estimate of cost based thereon, shall provide that the works necessary for a completed project shall be constructed progressively over a period of years in accordance with section thirty of the California irrigation district act, and in accordance with a plan or schedule adopted by resolution of the board of directors of the district, it shall not be necessary for the commission to certify at one time all of the bonds that have been voted for the said completed project; but such bonds may be certified from time to time as needed by the district. If the commission shall certify all of the bonds necessary for the said completed project, even if said project is to be constructed progressively over a period of years in accordance with the aforesaid resolution of the board of directors, the bonds so voted and certified shall only be sold after prior written approval of the commission. [New section added May 25, 1919. In effect July 25, 1919. Stats. 1919, p. 1207.]

Certification of irrigation bonds.

§ 4. Whenever any bond of an irrigation district organized and existing as aforesaid, including any bond authorized in any such district but not sold, which shall be eligible to certification by the state controller under section three of this act, shall be presented to the state controller, he shall cause to be attached thereto a certificate in substantially the following form:

Form:

Sacramento, Cal., (insert date).

I,, controller of the State of California, do hereby certify that the within bond, No.....of issue No..... of the..... irrigation district, issued.....(insert date), is, in accordance with an act of the legislature of California approved....., a legal investment for all trust funds and for the funds of all insurance companies, banks, both commercial and savings, trust companies, the state school funds and any funds which may be invested in county, municipal or school district bonds, and it may be deposited as security for the performance of any act whenever the bonds of any county, city, city and county, or school district may be so deposited, it being entitled to such privileges by virtue of an examination by the state engineer, the attorney general and the superintendent of banks of the state of California in pursuance of said act. The within bond may also, according to the constitution of the state of California, be used as security for the deposit of public money in banks in said state.

.....
Controller of state of California.

In case of a change in the constitution or any of the laws of this state relating to the bonds of irrigation districts, the state controller shall, if necessary, modify the above certificate so that it shall conform to the facts.

Facsimile signature sufficient.

A facsimile of the controller's signature, printed or otherwise, impressed upon said certificate shall be a sufficient signing thereof; provided, that the imprint of the controller's seal thereon shall appear upon both the certificate and the bond over and through the printed signature. [Amendment of May 20, 1915. In effect August 8, 1915. Stats. 1915, p. 692.]

Commission created.

§ 5. The attorney general, the state engineer and the superintendent of banks are hereby constituted the commission herein provided for, and said commission shall elect one of its members chairman and may employ such clerks and assistants as may be necessary for the performance of the duties herein imposed, and may fix the compensation to be paid to such clerks and assistants.

Expenses.

§ 6. All necessary expenses incurred in making the investigation and report in this act provided for shall be paid as the commission may require by the irrigation district whose property has been investigated and reported on by the said commission; provided, that the benefit of any services that may have been performed and any data that may have been obtained by any member of said commission or any other public official in pursuance of the requirements of any law other than this act, shall be available for the use of the commission herein provided for without charge to the district whose affairs are under investigation.

Bonds certified legal investments for trust funds, etc.

§ 7. All bonds certified in accordance with the terms of this act shall be legal investments for all trust funds, and for the funds of all insurance companies, banks, both commercial and savings, and trust companies, and for the state school funds, and whenever any money or funds may, by law now or hereafter enacted, be invested in bonds of cities, cities and counties, counties, school districts, or municipalities in the state of California, such money or funds may be invested in the said bonds of irrigation districts, and whenever bonds of cities, cities and counties, counties, school districts or municipalities may by any law now or hereafter enacted be used as security for the performance of any act, bonds of irrigation districts under the limitations in this act provided may be so used. This act is intended to be and shall be considered the latest enactment upon the matters herein contained, and any and all acts in conflict with the provisions hereof are hereby repealed.

PAYMENT OF ASSESSMENTS IN INSTALLMENTS.

ACT 2272—An act to permit boards of directors of irrigation districts organized or existing under and by virtue of an act of the legislature, entitled "An act to provide for the organization and government of irrigation districts, and to provide for the acquisition or construction thereby of works for the irrigation of the lands embraced within such districts, and also to provide for the distribution of water for irrigation purposes," approved March 31, 1897; to provide for the payment in two installments of the assessments levied under and in accordance with the provisions of said act.

History: Approved March 19, 1909, Stats. 1909, p. 415.

Payment of assessments.

§ 1. It shall be lawful for boards of directors of irrigation districts, organized or existing under or by virtue of an act of the legislature, entitled "An act to provide for the organization and government of irrigation districts, and to provide for the acquisition or construction thereby of works for the irrigation of lands embraced within such districts and also, to provide for the distribution of water for irrigation purposes"; approved March 31, 1897; to provide for the payment of assessments levied in accordance with the provision of said act, in two installments.

May be payable in two installments.

§ 2. The directors of any such irrigation district may, whenever they shall so determine, and must upon a petition in writing, signed by a majority of the assessmen, payers within such district, pass a resolution providing that thereafter all assessments, except special assessments provided for by section 34 of said act of 1897, shall be payable in two installments, and in said resolution shall specify when such payments may be made.

Resolution for.

§ 3. Such resolution must be passed before the first Monday in August, and can not be rescinded to take effect during any year after the first Monday of March in that year.

When assessments become delinquent.

§ 4. Whenever the board of directors of such irrigation district shall have so determined, thereafter one-half of the assessments levied within such district shall become delinquent at 6 o'clock P. M. on the last Monday of December, and one-half thereof shall become delinquent at 6 P. M. on the last Monday of June next thereafter, provided that where an assessment has been levied as provided in section 34 of said act the whole of such assessment shall become delinquent on the last Monday in December.

Only effect of this act.

§ 5. When provision is made, as herein provided, for the payment of said assessments in two installments, the publication of the delinquent list provided for in said act, shall not be made before the first day of July, but must be made on or before the first day of August, and except as otherwise herein provided all of the provisions of said irrigation act or acts not inconsistent with this act relative to the assessment, payment and collection of assessments, notice of assessments, publication of delinquent list, and sale for delinquent assessment, and all other provisions relative to such assessments shall be applicable, and the only effect of this act shall be to permit the payment of such assessments in two installments, and to postpone the notice of sale and sale provided for in said act until after the first day of July, and when sale is made at the time herein specified it shall have the same effect as though made at the time and in the manner specified in said act of 1897.

RELEASE OF LIENS UPON CANCELLATION OF BONDS.

ACT 2273—An act to provide for the release of all claims and liens arising from irrigation district bonds and interest coupons voluntarily surrendered for cancellation, and to provide for the establishment of record of such release.

History: Approved May 1, 1911, Stats. 1911, p. 1460.

Petition to surrender irrigation district bonds.

§ 1. Whenever a holder of bonds and interest coupons issued by an irrigation district organized under the provisions of an act entitled "An act to provide for the organization and government of irrigation districts, and to provide for the acquisition of water and other property, and for the distribution of water thereby for irrigation purposes," approved March seven, eighteen hundred and eighty-seven, and all acts supplementary thereto, or amendatory thereof, including an act entitled, "An act to provide for the organization and government of irrigation districts, and to provide for the acquisition or construction thereby of works for the irrigation of the lands embraced within such districts, and, also, to provide for the distribution of water for irrigation purposes," approved March thirty-one, eighteen hundred and ninety-seven; shall desire to surrender such bonds and interest coupons and have the same canceled and discharged and released as a claim against said district and as a lien or charge thereon and against any of the land or property thereof or therein, and shall desire to have it established of record that said bonds and coupons and the said claims, liens and charges arising therefrom are canceled, discharged and released, he may file a petition for such purpose in the superior court for the county wherein is situated any of the land included in said district.

Proceeding in rem deemed commenced.

§ 2. By the filing of said petition, an action in the nature of a proceeding in rem against all persons interested in said bonds or coupons or any of them, shall be deemed commenced. Notice of said proceeding shall be given by filing a notice of the pendency of the proceeding in the office of the county recorder of each of the counties wherein is situated any of the land included in said district and by publication of a notice of the pendency of the proceeding once a week for at least four weeks in one newspaper published in each of the counties wherein is situated any of the land included in said district. The notice of the pendency of the proceeding shall contain the name of the petitioner, a description of the bonds and coupons with respect of which the proceeding is commenced, a brief description of the relief sought by the proceeding, the time when the proceeding will be heard by the court (which must not be earlier than thirty days after the last publication of said notice), and a notice to all persons interested in the proceeding requiring them to appear at such time at said court to show cause if any they have why the relief sought by the proceeding should not be granted.

Jurisdiction.

§ 3. Upon the completion of the said publication and at the time named in the notice for the hearing, the court shall have full and complete jurisdiction of the petitioner and of the said bonds and coupons and of all parties having or claiming any interest of any kind in said bonds or coupons or any of them, for the purposes of said proceeding and shall have full and complete jurisdiction to render the judgment therein which is provided for by this act.

Hearing and judgment.

§ 4. Any person interested may at or before the time named in the notice for the hearing, appear and by answer filed to said petition contest the title of the petitioner to said bonds or coupons or any of them and the court shall order the entry of the default of all persons who shall have failed to so appear and answer. Thereupon or at such time to which the hearing may be continued, the court shall proceed and determine the ownership of said bonds and coupons and must in all cases require proof of the facts alleged in the petition. If the court finds that the petitioner is the owner of said bonds and coupons or some of them and that the allegations contained in the petition with respect of said bonds and coupons so owned by him are true, then the court shall by its judgment describe the bonds and coupons so owned by the petitioner and shall decree that they are surrendered, canceled, discharged and released as a claim against said district and as a lien or charge thereon and against any of the land or property thereof or therein and such judgment shall be conclusive and binding upon every person having or claiming any interest of any kind in said bonds or coupons or any of them and the said bonds or coupons shall thereupon be marked canceled by the clerk of said court and delivered by him into the possession of the said irrigation district whenever such district shall demand the same; and after said judgment, said bonds and coupons shall not comprise any claim, lien or charge against said district or any of the land or property thereof or therein.

Judgment recorded.

§ 5. A certified copy of the judgment in said proceeding shall be recorded in the office of the county recorder of each of the counties wherein is situated any of the land included in said district and shall constitute complete notice that said bonds and coupons have been surrendered, canceled, discharged and released and do not comprise any claim, lien or charge against said district or any of the land or property thereof or therein.

Procedure.

§ 6. Except as herein otherwise provided, all the provisions and rules of law relating to evidence, pleading, practice, new trials and appeals applicable to other civil actions, shall apply to the proceedings hereby authorized.

§ 7. This act shall take effect immediately.

REDEMPTION OF PROPERTY SOLD FOR DELINQUENT ASSESSMENTS.

ACT 2274—An act to provide for the redemption of property which has been heretofore sold to irrigation districts for delinquent assessments.

History: Approved March 10, 1891, Stats. 1891, p. 53.

Delinquent assessments. Who may redeem property. Certificates. Treasurer's receipt's.

§ 1. In all cases where property has heretofore been sold for delinquent assessments, under the provisions of the act of March seventh, eighteen hundred and eighty-seven, providing for the organization of irrigation districts, and an irrigation district has become the purchaser, and has not disposed of the same, the person whose estate has been sold, or his heirs, executors, administrators, or other successors in interest, may redeem such property by paying to the treasurer of the district wherein the property is situated the amount of assessments due thereon at the time of the sale, with interest thereon at the rate of two per cent per month; and also all assessments that were a lien upon said property at the time said assessments became delinquent; and also for each year since the sale for which assessments on said property have not been paid, an amount equal to the percentage of assessments for that year, upon the value of said real estate assessed for the year of the sale, with interest from the first day of January of each of said years, respectively, at the same rate; and also all costs and expenses, and fifty per cent penalty, which may have accrued by reason of such delinquency and sale, and the costs and expenses of redemption, as herein specified. The board of directors of any district shall, on the application of any person desiring to redeem under the provisions of this act, make an estimate of the amount to be paid, and shall, by a resolution entered on their minutes, authorize the treasurer of the district, on the receipt of the amount determined by them, to give him triplicate certificates of the amount, specifying the several amounts thereof, one of which certificates shall be filed with the secretary of the district, one with the county recorder of the county in which the land is situated, and one with the treasurer of the district, to whom payment of the money shall be made, on the issuance of said certificates. The county recorder shall be paid by the redemptioner, for filing and recording said certificate, the sum of two dollars, and upon the filing of such receipt with the recorder any deed or certificate of sale that may have been made to the district shall become null and void; and all right, title, and interest acquired by the district under and by virtue of the assessment sale shall cease and determine. The receipt of the treasurer of the district herein provided for shall be recorded in the recorder's office of the county in which said property is situated, in the book of deeds, and the record thereof shall have the same effect as that of a deed of reconveyance of the interest conveyed by said deed or certificate of sale.

LEASING WATER FOR POWER DEVELOPMENT.

ACT 2275—An act to provide for the leasing and disposition of water for generation of power for mechanical purposes, by irrigation districts organized or to be organized under and pursuant to an act entitled "An act to provide for the organization and government of irrigation districts, and to provide for the acquisition of water and other property, and for the distribution of water thereby for irrigation purposes," approved March 7, 1887.

History: Approved March 23, 1893, Stats. 1893, p. 295. Probably to be treated as supplementary to the Wright act, and superseded, along with that act, by the Bridgeford act. See Act 2266, §§ 100-105.

Board of directors to lease.

§ 1. Whenever any irrigation district formed, or to be formed, under and pursuant to the provisions of an act entitled "An act to provide for the organization and government of irrigation districts, and to provide for the acquisition of water and other property, and for the distribution of water thereby for irrigation purposes," approved March seventh, eighteen hundred and eighty-seven, in the development of its works, as in said act provided, may have opportunity, without increased expenditure, to utilize the water by it owned or controlled for mechanical purposes not inconsistent with the provisions of said act, the board of directors may lease the same, as in this act hereinafter provided.

Notice of intention to lease to be published. Contents of notice.

§ 2. Whenever the board of directors may desire to lease the use of water, as heretofore stated, they shall pass a resolution of intention to so lease the same. Immediately thereafter the secretary shall cause notice of such intention to be given by publication in one newspaper published in each county in which lands of the district are situated for at least twenty days (provided, a newspaper is published therein, otherwise in any newspaper the board of directors may select), and in such newspapers as may be deemed advisable, calling for bids for the leasing of said water for the purposes hereinbefore mentioned. Said notice shall state that the board will receive sealed proposals therefor, that the lease will be let to the highest responsible bidder, stating the time and place of opening said proposals.

Opening bids and awarding proposals.

§ 3. At the time and place appointed the board shall proceed to open the proposals in public. As soon thereafter as may be convenient the board shall let said lease in portions, or as a whole, to the highest responsible bidder, or they may reject any or all bids, and readvertise for proposals for the same.

Rental. How payable. Moneys, how to be used.

§ 4. The rental accruing upon said lease may vary from year to year, as shall be specified in said lease, and shall be payable semi-annually, on the thirtieth day of December and thirtieth day of June of each year. All moneys collected, as in this act provided, shall be paid into the treasury, and be used in the manner provided in section 34 of said act, except that the period of ten years, as mentioned in said section 34 shall not be applicable to the provision of this act; provided, however, that if any coupons on any outstanding bonds of such district are at any time due and payable, and there shall for any reason not be sufficient funds in the interest fund to pay the same, the proceeds so collected, as in this act provided, may be used to pay the same.

Lease. Penalty for failure to pay rental.

§ 5. The board shall have power, as in this act provided, to execute a lease for any period not exceeding fifty years. If at any time the rental shall not be paid on the days hereinbefore mentioned, the amount of such rental then due shall be doubled, and if not paid within ninety days thereafter, the said lease shall be forfeited to said district, together with any and all works constructed, owned, used, or controlled by said lessee.

Board may require bond.

§ 6. Upon the letting of any lease, as in this act provided, the board may require the lessee to execute a bond for the payment of the rental, and proper performance of the said lease, or give such other evidence of good faith as in their judgment may be necessary.

§ 7. This act shall take effect immediately.

CONTRACTS FOR WATER FOR IRRIGATION.

ACT 2276—An act declaring upon what terms contracts between persons, companies, associations, or corporations furnishing water for irrigation to the consumers of such water shall be valid, and to provide that such contracts shall be deemed based upon sufficient consideration.

History: Approved March 16, 1901, Stats. 1901, p. 331.

Contracts to furnish water authorized.

§ 1. It is and shall be lawful for any person, company, association, or corporation, furnishing for sale, rental, or distribution any appropriated waters for purposes of irrigation, to enter into contracts with individual consumers of such water or with bodies of such consumers, relating to the sale, rental or distribution of such water, or any thereof, which contracts, subject to the restrictions hereinafter declared, shall be valid to all intents and purposes, any law or rule to the contrary notwithstanding.

Rate.

§ 2. No such contract shall provide for the sale, rental, or distribution of any such water at any rate exceeding the established rates fixed and regulated therefor by the board of supervisors of the proper counties, or fixed and established by such person, company, association, or corporation, as provided by law.

Consideration.

§ 3. Nothing in this act contained shall be construed to authorize or make valid any contract not made for a valuable consideration; but an agreement on the part of such person, company, association, or corporation to sell, rent, or distribute any water to a consumer, without payment in advance therefor, or upon any other terms to which such consumer is not otherwise lawfully entitled, shall be deemed and taken to be a valuable and sufficient consideration for such contract.

Contract made prior to time supervisors fix rates.

§ 4. Nothing in this act contained shall affect any contract made prior to the time that the board of supervisors fix and establish the rates and regulations for and under which water shall be sold and supplied.

§ 5. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

DECLARING IRRIGATION A PUBLIC USE.

ACT 2278—An act regarding irrigation and declaring the same to be a public use.

History: Approved May 1, 1911, Stats. 1911, p. 1407.

Power of eminent domain may be exercised to further irrigation.

§ 1. Irrigation in the state of California is hereby declared to be a public necessity and a public use, and the power of eminent domain may be exercised on behalf of such public use in accordance with the provisions of title VII, part III of the Code of Civil Procedure of the state of California. Provided, that any person, firm or corporation, exercising the power of eminent domain and in control of water appropriated for sale, rental or distribution, shall not, by this act, be relieved from the duty of furnishing water to irrigate the lands over which any right of way is obtained by condemnation for irrigation purposes as required by an act entitled, "An act to regulate and control the sale, rental and distribution of appropriated water in this state, other than in any city, city and county, or town therein and to secure the rights of way for the conveyance of such water to the places of use," approved March 12, 1885, or any other law now in force in this state.

Does not repeal act of 1885.

§ 2. This act shall not repeal or modify an act entitled, "An act to regulate and control the sale, rental and distribution of appropriated water in this state, other than in any city, city and county, or town therein, and to secure the rights of way for the conveyance of such water to the place of use," approved March 12, 1885, and other acts supplemental thereto and amendatory thereof, or shall the same be construed to alter or change the law of the state of California as to the duty of any person, firm or corporation in charge of a public use to furnish water.

§ 3. This act shall be in force from and after its passage.

1. Effect of act—"Irrigation" made a "public use."—The effect of the act is merely to amend section 1238 of the Code of Civil Procedure by adding "irrigation" to the "public uses" enumerated therein.—Gravelly Ford & Co. v. Pope & Talbot Co., 36 Cal. App. 556, 178 Pac. 150.

2. Condemnation from private uses not authorized.—This act does not authorize condemnation for irrigation purpose by an individual for his private use but for the use of the public only.—Gravelly Ford Co. v. Pope & Talbot Co., 36 Cal. App. 556, 178 Pac. 150.

3. Same.—The power of eminent domain can not be used by a private person to promote private enterprises, no matter how necessary or advantageous it may be to their successors, or how beneficial to the public.—Gravelly Ford Co. v. Pope & Talbot Co., 36 Cal. App. 556, 178 Pac. 150.

"IMPERIAL IRRIGATION DISTRICT"—LEGALIZING BONDS.

ACT 2285a—An act to legalize bonds issued and to be issued and sold by Imperial irrigation district.

History: Approved March 26, 1915. In effect immediately. Stats. 1915, p. 18.

Bonds of Imperial irrigation district validated.

§ 1. Bonds of Imperial irrigation district for the amount of three million five hundred thousand dollars, dated January 1, 1915, and issued by virtue of resolution of the board of directors of Imperial irrigation district passed November 2, 1914, and by virtue of an election held in said Imperial irrigation district on the 29th day of October, 1914, and all the acts and proceedings of said irrigation district leading up to and including the issuance and sale of said bonds are hereby legalized, ratified, confirmed and declared valid to all intents and purposes and all such bonds sold or exchanged either before or after the passage of this act are hereby legalized and declared to be legal and valid obligations of and against said irrigation district.

Urgency.

§ 2. This act is hereby declared to be an urgency measure within the meaning of section one, article four of the constitution of the state of California and shall take effect immediately.

The facts constituting such urgency are as follows:

The bonds herein mentioned were authorized by vote of the electors of said district for the purpose of purchasing the irrigation system by which the people of said district are furnished with water for irrigation and domestic purposes and of protecting such irrigation system and thereby the people in it from destruction by flood of the Colorado river.

This district with its population of over thirty thousand people is in great danger of loss of life and property by such threatened overflow during the approaching summer. It is necessary for protection against such danger that said district be enabled to sell such bonds and owing to the many new features presented in this new district upon which no judicial precedents exist, it is impossible to sell the bonds herein mentioned unless they are validated.

The flood season of the Colorado river is the month of May and in order that the proceeds of such bonds may be available in time to meet such flood this act must take effect upon its passage. It is therefore necessary for the immediate preservation of public safety that this act take effect immediately.

“IMPERIAL IRRIGATION DISTRICT”—PURCHASE OF BONDS OF CALIFORNIA DEVELOPMENT COMPANY.

ACT 2285b—An act authorizing the Imperial irrigation district to acquire the irrigation system and works of the California Development Company and its subsidiary company and successors in California and Mexico by condemnation or purchase, and, in case of purchase, to exchange bonds of said district for such irrigation system and works or for property interests therein.

History: Approved May 4, 1915. In effect August 8, 1915. Stats. 1915, p. 343.

Imperial irrigation district authorized to acquire irrigation system of California Development Company.

§ 1. The Imperial irrigation district, in the county of Imperial, state of California, is hereby authorized to acquire, by condemnation or purchase, the irrigation system and works of the California Development Company in California and the capital stock of the Mexican corporation or corporations owning the portion of the irrigation system through which the lands in Imperial irrigation district are supplied with water, lying in the republic of Mexico. In case of purchase said irrigation district may exchange bonds for said irrigation system and works, or for the capital stock representing the ownership thereof, or of any part thereof, and the board of directors of said Imperial irrigation district is hereby authorized to enter into such contracts for the acquisition of said irrigation system and works, or for the capital stock representing the ownership thereof, as it may, in its discretion, deem for the best interests of said irrigation district, and it is also hereby authorized to enter into separate contracts with all or any of the judgment and other creditors or stockholders of said California Development Company and its subsidiary companies, and their successors in interest and with other persons or corporations owning property interests in said irrigation system and works through stock ownership or otherwise in the United States or in Mexico, and to provide in said contracts for the exchange of bonds of said Imperial irrigation district for such property interests upon such terms and conditions as said board of directors may, in its discretion, deem for the best interest of said district; provided, however, that the whole amount of bonds so agreed to be exchanged shall not exceed three million dollars.

1. Irrigation system ordered sold.—The irrigation system of the California Development Company was ordered sold to the Imperial Irrigation District for $3,000,000 of the bonds of the district.—In re Application of Southern Pacific Co., etc., 9 R. C. D. 746.

1. Constitutionality—Delegation powers of public board.—To convey the legal title of the property of an irrigation district in trust to secure the bonds of a district would contravene the provisions of section 13, article XI, of the constitution, forbidding the delegation of the statutory powers of a public board.—Merchants, etc., Bank v. Escondido Irr. Dist., 144 Cal. 329, 77 Pac. 937.

2. Irrigation districts—Public corporations—Private corporations.—Irrigation districts, as to their public functions, are to be classed as public corporations; and as to the private rights of the individual land-owners, they are private corporations.—Merchants, etc., Bank v. Escondido Irr. Dist., 144 Cal. 329, 77 Pac. 937.

3. Election to authorize bond issue.—Nugatory.—A departure from the statute in calling an election for the issuance of bonds and in the notice, in the matter of the time of opening and closing the polls, renders the election nugatory.—Fallbrook Irr. Dist. v. Abila, 106 Cal. 365, 39 Pac. 794.

4. Bonds in proper form.—The bonds in this case are in proper form.—Central Irr. Dist. v. De Lappe, 79 Cal. 351, 21 Pac. 825.

5. Statute of limitations—Cause of action to cancel bonds.—The statute of limitation does not begin to run against a cause of action to cancel the bonds of an irrigation district, from the date of the order for the issuance of the bonds, or from the date of the contract therefor, but from the date of the delivery of the bonds for a valuable consideration, and as to bonds delivered within the statute and bonds not issued, the action is not barred.—Sechrist v. Rialto Irr. Dist., 129 Cal. 640, 62 Pac. 261.

6. Quo warranto—Rights of purchasers of bonds.—In quo warranto against an irrigation district the bona fide purchasers of bonds of the district may intervene and to unite with the district in defending the suit, and may avail themselves of all procedure and remedies to which the district was entitled, including the right of appeal.—People ex rel. Fogg v. Perris Irr. Dist., 132 Cal. 289, 64 Pac. 399, 773.

JUDGES OF THE PLAINS.

ACT 2306—An act concerning judges of the plains (jueces del campo) and defining their duties.

History: Approved April 25, 1851, Stats. 1851, p. 515. Amended March 31, 1857, Stats. 1857, p. 158; April 25, 1863, Stats. 1863, p. 497. Continued in force by the codes. See Kerr's Cyc. Penal Code, § 23; Kerr's Cyc. Political Code, § 19. Probably repealed by the county government acts. See Kerr's Cyc. Political Code, §§ 4000, et seq. See editor's note.

Editor's note: This act provided for the appointment of judges of the plains. They were required to attend rodeos of cattle and also to settle disputes as to the ownership of animals. The act was continued in force by the codes, and has never been superseded or expressly repealed. It is probable, however, that the provisions of the county government acts relating to powers of supervisors, with the general repealing sections of the acts, operate as an implied repeal, by leaving no power to appoint these very useful officials of a time that is past. Their activities have left little or no mark upon the judicial records of the state, even in those which relate to the early days. They are referred to in some of the early cases on trespassing animals, estrays and animals running at large. Beyond that there is practically nothing.

ACT 2311. PAYMENT OF JUDGMENTS AGAINST COUNTIES AND MUNICIPALITIES.

2312. RECOVERY OF JUDGMENTS AGAINST MUNICIPALITIES OF OVER 100,000 POPULATION.

PAYMENT OF JUDGMENTS AGAINST COUNTIES AND MUNICIPALITIES.

ACT 2311—An act to provide for the payment of judgments against counties, cities, cities and counties, and towns.

History: Approved March 23, 1901, Stats. 1901, p. 794.

Judgments against counties and municipalities, how to be paid.

§ 1. All final judgments now existing or that may be obtained hereafter against any county, city and county, city, or town of the state of California, shall be paid by the treasurer of such county, city and county, or town, as hereinafter provided.

Duties of officers.

§ 2. It shall be the duty of the county clerk to file with the auditor and to furnish the board of supervisors, town trustees, or other board or body authorized by law to levy taxes, a complete list of all existing final judgments against such county, city and county, city or town, of record in his office, at least fifteen days before the day on which any tax levy must by law be made.

Same. Judgments may be paid in installments.

§ 3. It shall be the duty of the auditor to examine and audit the final judgments so reported by the county clerk, and to certify the amount of such final judgments to the treasurer within five (5) days from the day on which such list of final judgments is filed with him. Thereupon, the board of supervisors, city council, town trustees, or other board of officers, as the case may be, having authority to levy taxes upon the taxable property of such county, city and county, city, or town, must include in the tax levy for the next fiscal year a rate or sum sufficient to pay all final judgments existing against such county, city and county, city, or town. The omission to include the amount of any existing final judgment in the tax levy for any year, shall not of itself invalidate the tax levy as made, but such omission or omissions must be included in the next tax levy; provided, that the board of supervisors or other board or officers having authority to levy taxes may provide for the payment of such final judgments when so audited by including in the tax levy for the next fiscal year an aliquot part or fraction of the amount of such judgments, and thereupon the treasurer shall pay to each judgment creditor a like aliquot part or fraction of the amount of the judgment of the creditor, and thereafter a like aliquot part or fraction of the amount of such judgments shall be levied and paid each successive year until the whole thereof shall be fully paid; but such fractional levy and payments shall in no case be less than one-tenth (1/10) of the whole amount of such judgments.

§ 4. This act shall take effect immediately.

1. Scope of act—Not construed as authorizing demand which would be violative of constitution.—The act of March 23, 1901 (Stats. 1901, p. 794), is not available for the enforcement of a demand against a municipality against the revenue and income of a fiscal year subsequent to that in which the liability on which the demand is based was incurred, and to hold otherwise would be to effect a violation of the provisions of section 18, article XI, of the constitution.—Arthur v. City of Petaluma, 175 Cal. 216, 224, 165 Pac. 698.

See, also, San Joaquin L. & P. Co. v. City of Madera, 175 Cal. 229, 165 Pac. 701.

2. Duty of city council—Inclusion of demand in tax levy.—The duty of the city council of a municipality under this act, to include the amount of a judgment against the city in the tax levy, depends upon the furnishing by the clerk, to the council, fifteen days before the day requires the levy to be made, of a report of the judgment, and if this is not done, and the report is not received until the day of the levy, provision must be made in the next year's levy.—Arthur v. Horwege, 28 Cal. App. 738, 153 Pac. 980.

RECOVERY OF JUDGMENTS AGAINST MUNICIPALITIES OF OVER ONE HUNDRED THOUSAND POPULATION.

ACT 2312—An act prescribing how judgments which may be recovered against any city and county of over one hundred thousand population shall be paid.

History: Approved March 26, 1895, Stats. 1895, p. 163.

Judgments against city and county of over 100,000 population to be paid out of the general fund.

§ 1. All existing judgments against any city and county of over one hundred thousand population shall be paid by the treasurer of such city and county, out of the or any general fund thereof, after the same shall have been audited by the auditor, auditing officer, board, or other auditing officer or officers, and it is hereby made the duty of the board of supervisors and mayor of such city and county to include in the tax levy for any fiscal year a sum sufficient to pay existing judgments.

Time of taking effect.

§ 2. This act shall take effect and be in force immediately after its passage.

Apparently restricted to existing judgments.

2325. CLERK IN TOWNSHIP JUSTICE'S COURT.

JUSTICES' CLERK IN CITIES AND COUNTIES OF OVER 100,000 POPULATION.

ACT 2324—An act relating to the justices' courts in cities and counties of more than two hundred thousand population, and providing for the appointment of a justices' clerk and his assistants, prescribing their duties and fixing their compensation.

History: Approved March 25, 1903, Stats. 1903, p. 477.

Appointment of justices' clerk.

§ 1. The supervisors in every city and county of more than two hundred thousand population shall appoint a justices' clerk upon the written nomination and recommendation of the justices of the peace of said city and county or a majority of them, who shall hold office for four years and until his successor is in like manner appointed and qualified.

Oath of office and bond.

§ 2. Said justices' clerk shall take the constitutional oath of office, and give bond in the sum of ten thousand dollars for the faithful discharge of the duties of his office, and in the same manner as is or may be required of other officers of said city and county. A new or additional bond may be required by the supervisors of such city and county, whenever they may deem it necessary.

Appointment of assistants.

§ 3. The justices' clerk shall have authority to appoint one cashier, one chief deputy clerk, two deputy clerks and one messenger, for whose acts he shall be responsible on his official bond. The said appointees to hold office during the pleasure of said justices' clerk.

Authority of assistants.

§ 4. Said chief deputy clerk and said deputy clerks shall have authority to administer oaths, and take and certify affidavits in any action, suit or proceeding in the justices' courts in such city and county and generally to perform all acts which the justices' clerk himself might perform.

Salaries.

§ 5. Said justices' clerk and his appointees shall receive for their official services the following salaries and no other or further compensation, payable out of the treasury of such city and county, after being allowed and audited as other similar demands are required by law to be allowed and audited: The said justices' clerk the sum of three thousand dollars per annum; the cashier and the chief deputy clerk each the sum of eighteen hundred dollars per annum; the deputy clerks fifteen hundred dollars per annum each; and the messenger twelve hundred dollars per annum.

Office hours.

§ 6. The said justices, justices' clerk and his said appointees shall be in attendance at their respective offices for the dispatch of official business, daily, except Sundays and holidays, from the hour of nine o'clock a. m. until five o'clock p. m.

Duty of justices' clerk.

§ 7. In all actions, suits, and proceedings commenced in the justices' court in such city and county, or before any of the justices of the peace thereof, the original process shall be returnable, and the parties summoned required to appear before one of the justices of the peace, to be designated by the justices' clerk, upon issuing such process.

To issue legal process in all kinds of actions.

§ 8. All legal process of every kind in actions, suits or proceedings in said justices' court shall be issued by the said justices' clerk.

Conflicting acts repealed.

§ 9. All other acts so far as they conflict with this act are hereby repealed.

§ 10. This act shall take effect immediately.

Editor's note: This act seems to have superseded the code provision on the same subject. See Kerr's Cyc. Code Civ. Proc., § 86. That section of the code was amended in 1915 (Stats. 1915, p. 58), which also amended § 85, so as to refer to cities and counties of over 400,000 population, so that, since § 86 relates to justices' clerks in cities and counties mentioned in § 85, the code provides for justices' clerks in cities and counties of over 400,000 population, while the act does the same, in substantially the same phraseology, for cities and counties of more than 100,000.

CLERK IN TOWNSHIP JUSTICE'S COURT.

ACT 2325—An act to provide for the employment of a clerk by certain justices of the peace and to pay the salaries of such clerk.

History: Approved April 15, 1909, Stats. 1909, p. 906.

Clerk to township justice clerk.

§ 1. In cities of this state, where there are two justices of the peace, one of whom is the city justice of said city, and who is paid a salary and who is provided with a clerk and courtroom by said city and the other justice known as the township justice and whose compensation in civil cases is by fee and who is paid a salary by the county in lieu of fees for all criminal cases that the district attorney may try or examine in said township justice's court, the justice of the peace in and for said township justices' court is hereby entitled to and may appoint a clerk subject to the approval of the board of supervisors of the county to properly keep the records of his court and to do and perform such other work as the justice of said court may assign to such clerk.

Salary.

§ 2. The clerk of said township justice's court shall be paid an annual salary of twelve hundred dollars, to be paid monthly by the county in which said justice's court shall be located; said clerk's salary shall be audited, allowed and paid as the salaries of county officers are audited, allowed and paid.

CONTENTS OF CHAPTER.

ACT 2331. SALE PRICE OF JUTE GOODS.

2332. INSURANCE OF JUTE GOODS.

2333. PERMANENT FUND FOR PURCHASE OF JUTE.

SALE PRICE OF JUTE GOODS.

ACT 2331—An act authorizing the state board of prison directors to fix the price, terms and conditions of sale at which jute bags should be sold for the state, providing for the prosecution and punishment for offenses under the same, and repealing an act entitled, "An act fixing the price, terms and conditions of sale at which jute goods shall be sold by the state, and providing for prosecution and punishment for offenses under the same," approved June 16, 1913, and all acts or parts of acts in conflict herewith.

History: Approved January 30, 1915. In effect immediately. Stats. 1915, p. 13. Prior act of February 27, 1893, Stats. 1893, p. 54. Amended March 20, 1905, Stats. 1905, p. 532. Repealed by the act of March 22, 1907, Stats. 1907, p. 857, which was amended March 10, 1909, Stats. 1909, p. 280, and repealed by the act of June 16, 1913, Stats. 1913, p. 1011, which was repealed by the present act.

Sale of jute goods, prices, etc.

§ 1. The state board of prison directors are authorized and empowered to adopt rules and regulations of the sale of jute goods, but such rules and regulations, before they become effective, shall be approved by a majority of the state board of control. The state board of prison directors shall annually, in the month of January of each year fix the price, for the sale of jute bags, and give public notice of the same, for at least ten days in at least four newspapers of general circulation printed and published as follows, to wit: one in the city and county of San Francisco, one in the San Joaquin valley, one in the Salinas valley, and one in the Sacramento valley. Until the first day of April of each year, jute bags shall be sold only to consumers thereof, but after said date, if a surplus of said jute bags remain unsold, they may be sold to any one in such quantities and at such prices as the board of prison directors in their discretion may deem proper.

Orders accompanied by affidavit.

§ 2. All orders for jute bags filed with the board of prison directors prior to the first day of April of each year, shall be accompanied by an affidavit setting forth the name, residence, post office address and occupation of the applicant; that the amount of goods contained in the order are for the applicant's individual and personal use, and that he has not contracted for, nor agreed to contract for the sale of any portion thereof to any person or persons whatsoever. Said affidavit shall be subscribed and sworn to before a notary public, justice of the peace, or other officer authorized to administer oaths.

Penalty for false affidavit.

§ 3. Any person who shall falsely or fraudulently make such affidavit, or who shall falsely or fraudulently procure jute bags under the provisions of this act, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof shall be fined not less than two hundred dollars.

Public record.

§ 4. The board of prison directors shall keep at the San Quentin prison a book for public inspection, in which shall be entered the number of jute bags, the amount of jute goods manufactured each year, and also the name of each purchaser, his post office address, his occupation, number of jute bags or jute goods purchased by him, and the price paid by him therefor and the date of sale and the place to which shipment is made.

Act 1913 repealed.

§ 5. An act entitled, "An act fixing the price, terms and conditions of sale at which jute goods shall be sold by the state, and providing for prosecution and punishment for offense under the same"; approved June 16, 1913, and all other acts and parts of acts in conflict with this act are hereby repealed.

Urgency.

§ 6. This act is hereby declared to be an urgency measure within the meaning of section one of article four of the constitution of the state of California and shall take effect immediately. The following is a statement of facts constituting such urgency: Since the fixing of the present price of jute goods manufactured in the state prison, the market price has fallen on account of financial conditions incident to the European war, and the state has been, now is, and, until the taking effect of this act, will be unable so to change the price of said goods as to be able [to] sell or dispose of any portion thereof. The state now has in stock over two hundred fifty thousand dollars worth of such jute goods, which it is the purpose and effect of this act to enable the state, acting through its board of prison directors, to sell, in order that the moneys now invested in said goods may be rendered available for the use and support of the state prison.

INSURANCE OF JUTE GOODS.

ACT 2332—An act to authorize and empower the state board of prison directors to insure jute and jute goods against either fire or marine loss and to pay the cost of such insurance from the revolving fund for the purchase of jute.

Title as amended:

"An act to authorize and empower the state board of prison directors to insure jute, jute goods, and other prison made goods and materials for the manufacture of the same, against either fire or marine loss and to pay the cost of such insurance from the revolving fund for the purchase of jute and from the manufacturing revolving fund." [Amendment of April 30, 1919. In effect July 22, 1919. Stats. 1919, p. 175.]

History: Approved March 10, 1909, Stats. 1909, p. 281. Entire act including title amended April 30, 1919. In effect July 22, 1919. Stats. 1919, p. 175.

Act as amended:

Insurance of jute goods.

§ 1. The state board of prison directors is hereby authorized and empowered to insure from time to time against fire or marine loss, all jute and jute goods owned by the state, in such amounts as it may deem proper. The cost of such insurance shall be paid from the revolving fund for the purchase of jute.

Insurance of other prison made goods.

§ 2. The state board of prison directors is hereby authorized to insure from time to time against fire or marine loss, all furniture, shoes, clothing or other articles manufactured at San Quentin Prison and the materials from which the same are made, in such amounts as it may deem proper. The cost of such insurance shall be paid from the manufacturing revolving fund.

PERMANENT FUND FOR PURCHASE OF JUTE.

ACT 2333—Appropriation for the establishment of a permanent fund for the purchase of jute to be manufactured at the state prison at San Quentin.

History: Approved March 9, 1885, Stats. 1885, p. 53. Amended March 16, 1889, Stats. 1889, p. 228; February 23, 1911, Stats. 1911, p. 73; March 24, 1911, Stats. 1911, p. 486. The act of March 8, 1907, Stats. 1907, p. 162, appropriated $100,000 for the purpose indicated.

Act as amended February 23, 1911:

Appropriation: Purchase of jute. "Revolving fund."

§ 1. The sum of two hundred thousand dollars is hereby appropriated out of any money in the state treasury not otherwise appropriated, to provide and maintain a permanent revolving fund for the purchase of jute for the state prisons. All moneys taken therefrom to be used exclusively in payment for jute to be used in manufacturing in said state prisons; and so much of the money received from the sale of any goods manufactured from said jute shall be returned to the said revolving fund, so that the fund shall contain two hundred thousand dollars before any of the proceeds from the sale of said manufactured goods are used for any other purpose than the purchase of jute. Whenever said "revolving fund" shall be replenished and there shall be a surplus, or balance, over the amount appropriated, such surplus, or balance, shall be paid, not less frequently than semi-annually, into the state treasury to the credit of the fund to be known as "the prison fund of San Quentin prison" (which "fund" is hereby created), for the use and support of San Quentin prison and of the trades and industries conducted therein. [Amendment approved February 23, 1911, Stats. 1911, p. 73.]

§ 2. This act shall take effect immediately.

Act as amended March 24, 1911:

Appropriation: Revolving fund, San Quentin.

§ 1. The sum of two hundred thousand dollars is hereby appropriated out of any money in the state treasury not otherwise appropriated, to provide and maintain a permanent revolving fund for the purchase of jute for the state prison. All moneys taken therefrom to be used exclusively in payment for jute to be used in manufacturing in said state prison; and so much of the money received from the sale of any goods manufactured from said jute shall be returned to the said revolving fund, so that the fund shall contain two hundred thousand dollars before any of the proceeds from the sale of said manufactured goods are used for any other purpose than the purchase of jute. Whenever said "revolving fund" shall be replenished and there shall be a surplus or balance over the amount appropriated, such surplus or balance shall be paid, not less frequently than semi-annually, into the state treasury to the credit of the fund to be known as "the prison fund of San Quentin prison" (which "fund" is hereby created), for the use and support of San Quentin prison and of the trades and industries conducted therein. [Amendment approved March 24, 1911, Stats. 1911, p. 486.]

CHAPTER 177.
JUVENILE COURT.

CONTENTS OF CHAPTER.
ACT 2341. JUVENILE COURT LAW.

JUVENILE COURT LAW OF 1915.

ACT 2341—An act to be known as the juvenile court law, and concerning persons under the age of twenty-one years; and in certain cases providing for their care, custody and maintenance; providing for the probationary treatment of such persons, and for the commitment of such persons to the Whittier State School and the Preston School of Industry, the California School for Girls, and other institutions; establishing probation officers and a probation committee to deal with such persons and fixing the salary thereof; providing for the establishment of detention homes for such persons; fixing the method of procedure and treatment or commitment where crimes have been committed by such persons; providing for the punishment of those guilty of offenses with reference to such persons, and defining such crimes; and repealing the juvenile court law approved March 8, 1909, as amended by an act approved April 5, 1911, and as amended by an act approved June 16, 1913, and all amendments thereof and all acts or parts of acts inconsistent herewith.

History: Approved June 5, 1915. In effect August 8, 1915. Stats. 1915, p. 1225. Amended (1) May 28, 1917. In effect July 27, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 1002. (2) May 28, 1917. In effect July 27, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 1022. (3) May 11, 1919. In effect July 22, 1919. Stats. 1919, p. 475. (4) May 18, 1919. In effect July 22, 1919. Stats. 1919, p. 755. (5) May 27, 1919. In effect July 22, 1919. Stats. 1919, p. 1298. Prior act of February 26, 1903, Stats. 1903, p. 44. Amended (1) March 22, 1905, Stats. 1905, p. 806; (2) March 21, 1907, Stats. 1907, p. 777. Repealed by the act of March 8, 1909, Stats. 1909, p. 213, which was amended (1) February 17, 1911, Stats. 1911, p. 83; (2) as to entire act, April 5, 1911, Stats. 1911, p. 658; (3) as to entire act June 16, 1913, Stats. 1913, p. 1285; and repealed by the present act. The acts of 1909 (Stats. 1909, p. 213), 1911 (Stats. 1911, p. 673), and 1913 (Stats. 1913, p. 1285), contained saving clauses, providing that orders and judgments made under the act of 1903 should continue in full force and effect.

"Juvenile court law."

§ 1. This act shall be known as the "juvenile court law" and shall apply to any person under the age of twenty-one years:

Persons affected.

1. Who is found begging, receiving or gathering alms, or who is found in any street, road or public place for the purpose of so doing, whether actually begging or doing so under the pretext of selling or offering for sale any article or articles, or of singing or playing on any musical instrument, or of giving any public entertainment or accompanying or being used in aid of any person so doing; or

2. Who has no parent or guardian; or who has no parent or guardian willing to exercise or capable of exercising proper parental control; or who has no parent or guardian actually exercising such proper parental control and who is in need of such control; or

3. Who, being a minor, is destitute, or whose father, said person being a minor, does not or can not provide for said person the necessities of life, and who has no other means, through his mother or otherwise, of obtaining said necessities.

4. Whose home, said person being a minor, by reason of neglect, cruelty or depravity on the part of his parents or either of them, or on the part of his guardian, or on the part of the person in whose custody or care he may be, is an unfit place for said person; or

5. Who is found wandering and either has no home or no settled place of abode or no visible means of subsistence or no proper guardianship; or

6. Who is a vagrant or who frequents the company of criminals, vagrants or prostitutes, or persons so reputed; or who is in any house of prostitution or assignation; or

7. Who habitually visits without parent or guardian any public billiard room or public pool room, or any saloon or any place where any spirituous, vinous or malt liquors are sold, bartered, exchanged or given away; or

8. Who habitually uses intoxicating liquors or habitually smokes cigarettes, or habitually uses opium, cocaine, morphine or other similar drug without the direction of a competent physician; or

9. Who, being a minor, persistently or habitually refuses to obey the reasonable and proper orders or directions of, or who is beyond the control of, his parent, parents, guardian or custodian; or

10. Who is an habitual truant from school within meaning of any law of this state; or

11. Who is leading, or from any cause is in danger of leading, an idle, dissolute, lewd or immoral life; or

12. Who is insane, or feeble-minded, or so far mentally deficient that the parents or guardian are unable to exercise proper parental control over said person, or whose mind is so far deranged or impaired as to endanger the health, person, or property of himself or others.

13. Who violates any law of this state or any ordinance of any town, city, county, or city and county of this state defining crime.

14. Who shall be declared free from the custody and control of his parents, as more fully defined in section fifteen of this act.

Persons judged wards of court.

§ 2. When any person under the age of twenty-one years, alleged to come within the provisions of any of the subdivisions one to thirteen inclusive of section one of this act, shall be found by said court or judge to come within the terms of any of said subdivisions as alleged, the court shall adjudge said person to be a ward of the juvenile court and shall in its judgment make a finding of the facts upon which the court exercises its jurisdiction over such person as a ward of the juvenile court; and the court shall thereupon make such order or orders, in accordance with said findings, as may be necessary for the care of said ward of the juvenile court; provided, however, that no merely unfortunate person shall be so committed or placed as to be brought into direct contact or personal association with wayward persons of evil influence. All commitment and recommitment orders shall be in writing, and shall be signed by the judge of the juvenile court.

Any person may file petition.

§ 3. Any person may file with the clerk of the superior court a petition showing that there is within the county, or residing therein, or, in the case of any alleged violation within said county of any law or ordinance, that there then was within said county, a person coming within the provisions of section one or section fifteen of this act, and praying that the superior court deal with such person as provided in this act. Such petition shall be verified, and shall contain a statement of the facts bringing said person within the provisions of either of said sections, and the names and residences, if known to said petitioner, of the parent or parents or guardian of said person, or if there be neither parent nor guardian residing within the county, or in the case of a person coming within the provisions of subdivision fourteen of section one or of section fifteen, if there be no parent residing within the state or if his place of residence be not known to said petitioner, then the name and residence, if known to said petitioner, of some relative of said person, residing within said county, or in the case of a person coming within the provisions of subdivision fourteen of section one or of section fifteen, then the name of some relative residing within said state. Either the judge of said court or the clerk thereof may set the time for the hearing of said petition.

No filing fee.

§ 3a. There shall be no fee for filing such petition mentioned in the foregoing section. Nor shall any fees be charged by any officer for his services in filing, or serving papers, nor for the performance of any duty enjoined upon him by this act, except where the sheriff transports a person to a state institution.

Probation officer notified.

§ 3b. It shall be the duty of the clerk of any court before which any person alleged to come within the provisions of sections one or fifteen of this act is brought, to notify the probation officer of the county thereof immediately upon the filing of the petition.

Citation to appear.

§ 4. Upon the filing of the petition provided for in section three hereof, a citation shall issue, requiring the person or persons having the custody or control of the person alleged to come within the provisions of any of subdivisions one to thirteen inclusive of section one of this act, to appear with said person so alleged at the time and place stated in the citation. Service of said citation must be made at least twenty-four hours before the time stated therein for such appearance. The parents or guardian of said person so alleged, if residing within the county in which the court sits, and if their places of residence be known to the petitioner, or if there be neither parents nor guardian so residing, or if their places of residence be not known to the petitioner, then some relative of said person so alleged, if any there be residing within said county, and if his residence and relationship to said person so alleged be known to the petitioner, shall be notified of the proceeding by service of citation requiring him or them to appear at the time and place stated in said citation. Service of citation may be waived by any person by a voluntary appearance entered in the minutes of the court or by a written waiver of service of citation filed with the clerk of the court at or prior to the hearing. In any case, the judge presiding in the juvenile court may appoint some suitable person to act in behalf of said person so alleged, and may order such further notice of the proceedings to be given as he may deem proper.

Failure to appear.

§ 4a. If any person cited, as herein provided, shall fail, without reasonable excuse, to appear and abide by the order of the court or to bring said person so alleged, if so required in the citation, such failure shall constitute a contempt of said court, and may be punished as provided for in other cases of contempt of court.

When citation cannot be served.

§ 4b. In case such citation cannot be served, or the party served fails to obey the same, or in any case in which it shall be made to appear to the court that said citation will probably be ineffective, a warrant of arrest shall issue on the order of the court, either against the parent or guardian, or the person having the custody of said person so alleged, or with whom the said person so alleged may be, or against the said person so alleged himself, or any or all said persons; or if there be no person to be served with citation, as above provided, a warrant of arrest may be issued immediately against the said person so alleged. On the return of the citation or other process, or as soon thereafter as possible, the court shall proceed to hear and dispose of the case in a summary manner. Until the final disposition of any case, said person so alleged may be retained by the person having charge of said person, or may be kept, upon the order of the court, in some suitable place, provided by the county, or city and county, or may be held otherwise, as the court may direct.

Prosecution under general law.

§ 4c. If upon the hearing, or at any time thereafter, said court shall determine that any person alleged to come within the provisions of subdivision thirteen of section one of this act, is not a fit and proper subject to be dealt with under the provisions of this act, said court may dismiss the petition therein, and direct that said person be prosecuted under the general law.

Persons under eighteen.

§ 4d. No person under the age of eighteen years at the time of the commission of an alleged offense or crime shall be prosecuted for crime until the matter has first been submitted to the juvenile court by petition as hereinbefore provided, or by certificate of the lower court as hereinafter provided.

Order is not conviction.

§ 5. In no case shall an order adjudging a person to be a ward of the juvenile court be deemed to be a conviction of crime.

Persons under eighteen not to be tried before justice, etc.

§ 6. Whenever a deposition or complaint shall be filed in any court other than a superior court, charging a person with a crime and it shall be suggested or shall appear to the judge, justice or recorder before whom such person is brought that the person charged was at the date the offense is alleged to have been committed under the age of eighteen years, said judge, justice or recorder, shall immediately suspend all proceedings against such person on said charge and examine into the age of such person, and if from such examination, it shall appear to the satisfaction of said judge, justice or recorder, that such person was at the date the offense is alleged to have been committed under the age of eighteen years, he shall forthwith certify to the juvenile court of his county (a) that said person (naming him) is charged with such crime (briefly stating its nature); (b) that said person appears to be under the age of eighteen years, giving date of birth when known, and (c) that proceedings have been suspended against such person on such charge by reason of his age, with the date of such suspension; and immediately thereupon all proceedings against the said person on said charge shall be suspended until said juvenile court shall issue its mandate, as hereinafter provided, directing the court before which said charge was made to proceed with the examination into or trial thereof, and the court so suspending its proceedings shall forthwith cause such person to be taken before the juvenile court of the county for consideration and proceedings under this act. To such certification said judge, justice or recorder, or the clerk of said court shall attach a certified copy of said original deposition or complaint, and when such person shall be brought before the judge of the juvenile court, said judge shall direct the probation officer to file a petition as provided in section three of this act, except that said petition need not be verified; and said probation officer shall forthwith comply with such directions. Pending such hearing said judge may admit said person to bail or otherwise provide for his temporary custody in any manner provided herein for the care of a ward of the juvenile court.

If juvenile court decides person was over eighteen. In case of persons under twenty-one.

The proceedings thereafter shall be the same as in the case of a verified petition; provided, however, that if said judge of the juvenile court shall after such investigation decide that the person was at the time said offense was alleged to have been committed of the age of eighteen years or more, such determination shall be conclusive and he shall immediately issue his mandate directing the court before which such charge is pending to proceed therewith, and upon receipt of such mandate said court shall proceed with the examination or trial of said charge as though no suspension thereof had taken place; except that if said judge of the juvenile court shall find that the person so charged is under the age of twenty-one years, and a fit subject for consideration under the provisions of this act, he may make such order or orders hereunder as he may deem best in relation to such person; but if such judge shall at any time conclude that such person is not a fit subject for further consideration under this act, he may sit as a committing magistrate and hold a preliminary examination if such person is charged with a felony, or he may remand such person to the court in which said person is charged with said offense for further proceedings on said charge, and upon receipt of the mandate of said juvenile court, or the judge thereof, the court before which said charge is then pending shall be vested with full authority to proceed with the examination or trial thereof.

Statutes of limitations suspended.

All statutes of limitations relating to the charge so pending against such person shall be suspended as to said person and charge from the issuance by said judge, justice or recorder of his certificate hereinbefore provided for until said juvenile court, or judge thereof, shall issue its mandate remanding such person for further proceedings as aforesaid; and all statutes of limitation relating to any charge, made in any court, against any person under the age of twenty-one years, shall be suspended as to such charge and person whenever, and as long as, such person is before the juvenile court for consideration under the provisions of this act, or is detained by virtue of any commitment issued hereunder and unrevoked; but if said person shall be discharged by the juvenile court as reformed, such order of discharge shall constitute a bar to any further proceedings in any court against said person upon said charge.

Persons under twenty-one charged with felony.

§ 7. Whenever any person over the age of eighteen years and under the age of twenty-one years is accused of a felony or misdemeanor by indictment or information therefor in the superior court of the county, wherein the crime was committed, the judge may in his discretion, with the consent of the accused, or upon his request, arrest said proceeding at the time of arraignment or at any time previous to the impanelment of a jury, except where the crime charged is a capital offense, or any attempt to commit a capital offense, and may proceed to investigate the charge against the defendant, and all the facts and circumstances necessary to determine the proper disposition to be made of said person, and shall determine whether such person shall be dealt with as a ward of the juvenile court under the provisions of this act. If the court is satisfied upon such investigation that said person should be declared a ward of the juvenile court and should be dealt with under this act, it may make such order or orders as herein provided for the disposition of such wards. If such person thereafter proves not to be amenable to the discipline of the state school to which he may be committed, and the trustees thereof shall determine that said person should be committed to a state penitentiary, such person shall be returned to the committing court, and thereafter proceedings shall be had upon the indictment or information commencing at the point at which proceedings were arrested; and said person shall be tried for the offense alleged in the information, and if convicted shall be sent to the penitentiary for such time as the court may determine or otherwise dealt with in accordance with the law for dealing with persons convicted of a felony. If no request is made by the defendant for proceedings under this statute, or if the defendant desires trial by jury, or if the judge declines to consent to the application of the defendant for proceedings under this statute, said cause shall proceed in the ordinary manner up to the verdict of guilty or not guilty, as the case may be.

May be committed to state schools. If person proves incorrigible.

If said person is convicted, the court may thereafter receive such evidence as may be offered, touching the question as to whether or not said person should be dealt with as a ward of the juvenile court in the manner hereinbefore provided in the case of the application and consent of the accused before trial, and may make such order of probation or commitment to said state schools, and may from time to time modify said probation orders, as is herein provided in the case of persons adjudged wards of the juvenile court. If such person during the period of his commitment to said state institution, proves to be incorrigible or not amenable to the discipline of such institution, and it shall be deemed advisable in the judgment of the trustees of such institution that said person be sent to a state prison, then said person shall be returned to the superior court in which the verdict was rendered, for sentence, and thereupon the court shall pronounce judgment.

Period of commitment and place. Preston and Whittier.

§ 8. When any person alleged to come within the provisions of any of subdivisions one to thirteen inclusive of section one of this act shall be adjudged by said court or judge to come within the terms of any of said subdivisions, and adjudged to be a ward of the juvenile court, the court may make an order committing said person for such time as the court may deem fit, but not beyond the time when such ward of the juvenile court shall reach the age of twenty-one years, either (a) to the home and care of some reputable person of good moral character, or (b) to the care of some association, society or corporation embracing within its objects the purpose of caring for or obtaining homes for such persons, willing and able to receive and care for said ward, or (c) to the care of the probation officer, to be boarded out or placed in some suitable family home, in case provision is made by voluntary contribution, or otherwise, for the payment of the board of said ward until suitable provision may be made for said ward in a home without such payment, said ward to be subject to the supervision of the probation officer and the further order of the court; or (d) on probation to the care of the probation officer, said ward to remain in the home of said ward, or in any other fit home in which the court may order the probation officer to place said ward, subject to the visitation of the probation officer, said ward to report to the probation officer as often as may be required, and to be subject to be returned to the court for further proceedings whenever such action may appear necessary or desirable; or (e) the court may, if said ward of the juvenile court be a boy, commit him to the Preston School of Industry, or to the Whittier State School, during his minority; provided, that no boy under the age of sixteen years shall be committed to the Preston School of Industry, nor any boy over the age of sixteen years to the Whittier State School, or if a girl, commit her to the California School for Girls, until twenty-one years of age; or may commit such person to any other state or county institution that is now established or may hereafter be established for the purpose of caring for and training persons that come within the provision of this act; provided, however, that before conveying any such person to any such institution it shall be ascertained from the superintendent thereof whether such person can be received; provided, however, that such commitment under this act to either the Preston School of Industry or the Whittier State School shall permit the transfer of any such boy from one institution to the other upon the agreement thereto by the superintendents of such institutions.

Court may admonish and dismiss.

When any person alleged to come within the provisions of any of subdivisions one to thirteen inclusive of section one of this act shall be found by said court to come within said provisions, said court may at its discretion admonish said person and dismiss said petition.

Wards under eight or having contagious disease.

No ward who is under the age of eight years and no ward who is suffering from any contagious, infectious, or other disease which would probably endanger the lives or health of the other inmates of said state schools shall be committed thereto. No person under the age of fourteen years at the time of the commission of any offense with which he may be charged shall ever be sent to a state prison unless he has first been committed to the Whittier State School, or the Preston School of Industry, and has there proved to be incorrigible or not amenable to the discipline of said school. No ward shall be committed to said state schools unless the judge of said court shall be fully satisfied that the mental and physical condition and qualifications of said ward are such as to render it probable that such ward will be benefited by the reformatory educational discipline of such schools.

History of ward.

Accompanying the commitment papers, the court must send to the superintendent of the state institution to which said person is committed a summary of all the facts in the possession of the court, covering the history of the ward committed, including a statement of the mental and physical condition of said ward.

[Order may be modified.] Parole system not affected.

§ 9. Any order made by the court in case of any person subject to the jurisdiction of the court under the provisions of any of subdivisions one to thirteen inclusive of section one of this act may at any time be changed, modified or set aside as to the judge may seem meet and proper; provided, however, that nothing in this act contained shall be deemed to interfere with the system of parole and discharge that is now or may hereafter be provided by law, or by rule of the board of trustees of the Whittier State School, the Preston School of Industry or the California School for Girls, or any similar state institution or institutions, respectively, for the parole and discharge of wards of the juvenile court committed to the said schools or to any similar state institutions hereafter created, or with the management of the said schools, save that the court committing a ward to any of said schools may thereafter change, modify or set aside said order of commitment upon ten days' notice of the hearing of the application therefor being served by United States mail upon the superintendent of the said school to which said person has previously been committed, and providing that the court shall not then change, modify or set aside said order without due consideration of the effect thereof upon the discipline and parole system of said school or institution.

Notice to probation officer.

§ 9a. No order of court or modification thereof shall be made in any juvenile court proceedings concerning any ward of the juvenile court either in chambers, or otherwise, without notice of the application therefor having first been given by the judge or the clerk of said court to the probation officer.

Taking ward from parent.

§ 9b. No ward of the juvenile court as defined in this act shall be taken from the custody of his parent or legal guardian, without the consent of such parent or guardian unless the court shall find such parent or guardian to be incapable of providing or to have failed or neglected to provide proper maintenance, training and education for said person; or unless said person has been tried on probation in said custody and has failed to reform, or unless said person has been convicted of crime by a jury, or unless the court shall find that the welfare of said person requires that his custody be taken from said parent or guardian.

Incorrigible person returned to court.

§ 10. Should it develop, either at the time of their presentation, or after having become an inmate thereof, that any person, who has been committed to either of such institutions is an improper person to be there retained or so incorrigible or so incapable of reformation under the discipline of the school to which such person may be committed as to render his or her retention detrimental to the interests of the school, the superintendent may, with the approval of the board of trustees of such institution, return such person to the committing court. And in the event of such return, the transportation of such person shall be made in the same manner, and the compensation therefor, if any, shall be paid as is provided for in the execution of an order of commitment to such institution.

Judge to sit as committing magistrate.

When any ward of the juvenile court under subdivision thirteen of section one of this act shall have been accused of a felony and no indictment or information shall have been filed, and said ward shall have been committed to either of said schools and shall there prove to be incorrigible or not amenable to the discipline of the said school, and shall be returned to the custody of the juvenile court, which in such case the trustees of said school are hereby authorized to do, it shall be the duty of the judge of said court to sit as a committing magistrate and hold the preliminary examination of such person, and if upon said hearing he shall determine that there is probable cause to believe that the said person has committed the offense charged in the petition theretofore filed in said court, he shall hold such person to answer to the superior court, and thereupon the usual proceedings shall be had for the trial of said case in the superior court after the filing of the information in pursuance to said order of said judge sitting as a committing magistrate, and said person shall be tried by court and jury in the usual manner for the trial of a felony.

Support of ward.

§ 11. Any order providing for the care and custody of a ward of the juvenile court may provide that the expense of support and maintenance of said ward shall be paid by the parent, parents, guardian of said ward or other person liable therefor, after citation thereto, or from the earnings, property or estate of said ward, and in such case shall state the amount to be so paid. If it is found, however, that the parent, parents, guardian of said ward, or other person liable therefor, are unable to pay or that the earnings, property, or estate, of said ward is insufficient to pay the whole expense of support and maintenance of said ward, the court may direct such additional amount as may be necessary for the maintenance and support of said ward to be paid from the county treasury of the county for the support and maintenance of said ward, the amount so ordered to be paid from the treasury of said county not to exceed, in the case of any one ward, the sum of twenty dollars in any one month. No order for payment shall be made in a sum in excess of the actual cost of supporting and maintaining said ward. No order for the payment of all or part of the expense of support and maintenance of a ward of the juvenile court from the county treasury shall be effective for more than six months, and upon said original and all subsequent hearings the case shall be continued on the calendar, but in no instance to exceed six months.

Paid to probation officer.

The judge of the juvenile court may provide that the amount, or any part of the amount, so paid by parents, parent, guardian or other person liable therefor or from the earnings, property or estate of said ward, shall be paid to the probation officer, to be by him paid as the court shall direct, first, to reimburse the person, association or institution that under court order is caring for and maintaining said ward and after such reimbursement to reimburse the county. For such purpose said probation officer shall keep suitable books and accounts and shall give and keep suitable receipts and vouchers, and if such funds shall be by said probation officer kept in a bank, said bank shall be designated by the judge of said court. The auditor of said county annually in the month of January shall audit such books and accounts and shall make a report thereon to the judge of said court and to the supervisors of such county prior to the thirty-first day of said month of January.

Extent of parents' control.

In all cases the court may determine whether or not the parent, parents, or guardian shall exercise any control of said ward and shall define the extent thereof. Any disobedience or interference with the custody and control of said ward shall constitute a contempt of court.

Duty of probation officer.

It shall be the duty of the probation officer to see that such parent, guardian, or other person liable therefor, comply with such orders, or upon three months failure to make such payment to report such failure to said court. The court may thereafter set aside, change or modify any order herein provided for. [Amendment of May 9, 1919. In effect July 22, 1919. Stats. 1919, p. 476.]

Jurisdiction retained until ward is twenty-one.

§ 12. The court shall retain the jurisdiction of any person who is found to be a ward of the juvenile court until such ward attains his majority, or if a girl, until she attains the age of twenty-one years, unless she is married with the consent of the court entered upon the minutes of the court, or until said court is satisfied that said ward has fully reformed or that further direction and supervision under the provisions of this act are unnecessary or inadvisable for said ward's reformation.

Transfer of juvenile court cases. Order of transfer.

§ 13. Whenever a petition has been filed in the juvenile court of a county other than that of the residence of a person coming within any of the provisions of this act, or whenever, subsequent to the filing of a petition in the juvenile court of the county where said person resides, the residence of said person is changed to another county, the entire case may be transferred at any time to the juvenile court of the county wherein said person then resides, and such court must take jurisdiction of the case upon the filing with it of such order. The expense of the transfer of said person shall be borne by the parent, parents, or guardian of the person so transferred or shall be paid out of the earnings, property, or estate of said person, or if the parent, parents or guardian are unable to pay the same or if the earnings, property or estate of said person is insufficient to pay the same the court shall order the same to be paid from the county treasury of the county ordering the transfer. Whenever a case shall be transferred thereunder, the order of transfer shall recite (a) each and all the findings, orders or modification of orders that may have been made in said case, and (b) that said person resides in or has removed to the county to which said matter has been transferred and (c) to said order of transfer shall be attached a certified copy of the original petition in said matter. Such transfer shall be accompanied by a summary of all the facts in the possession of the court or probation officer covering the history of said person. [Amendment of May 18, 1919. In effect July 22, 1919. Stats. 1919, p. 755.]

Detention pending hearing. No commitment to jail.

§ 14. In the case of a person alleged to come within the provisions of section one of this act, the juvenile court, pending the hearing, at any time before the person is adjudged a ward or otherwise disposed of, may order that said person be detained in any detention home provided for that purpose by any county, or said person may otherwise be temporarily provided for as to the court may seem fit, in any manner provided herein for the care of a ward of the juvenile court; provided, further, that should the legislative body of the county provide a suitable place for the detention of wards of the juvenile court, such wards may be committed thereto for a definite period to be specified in such order, at the end of which time such wards shall be brought before the court for further order of court. The court may thereafter set aside, change or modify said order and provide for a further detention in said place. No court, judge, magistrate or peace officer shall commit a person under sixteen years of age to any jail or prison, before trial and conviction, or detain such person therein, but if any such person is not released pending such hearing, he may be committed to the care and custody of a sheriff, constable or other peace officer, who shall keep such person in a detention home or some other suitable place outside of the enclosure of any jail or prison, as the court may direct. When any person under sixteen years of age shall be sentenced to confinement in any institution to which adult convicts or prisoners are sentenced or confined, it shall be unlawful to confine such person in the same room, yard or enclosure with such adult convicts or prisoners, or to permit such person to come or remain in contact with such adult convicts or prisoners.

Persons free from parents' control.

§ 15. Within the meaning of this act the words "persons who should be declared freed from the custody and control of his parents" shall include any person:

1. Who has been left in the care and custody of another by his parent or parents without any provision for his support, or without communication from such parent or parents, for the period of one year with the intent to abandon said person; such failure to provide, or such failure to communicate for the period of one year shall be presumptive evidence of the intent to abandon; such person shall be deemed and called an abandoned person; or

2. Who has been cruelly treated or neglected by his parent or parents; provided, that in either instance, said person shall have been a ward of the juvenile court and the parents deprived of his custody because of such cruel treatment or neglect for the period of one year continuously immediately prior to the filing of a petition praying that he be declared free from the custody and control of his parents; or

3. Whose parent or parents are habitually intemperate; provided, that said person shall have been a ward of the juvenile court and the parents deprived of his custody because of such intemperance for the period of one year, continuously immediately prior to the filing of a petition praying that he be declared free from the custody and control of his parents.

Citation to issue upon filing of petition.

§ 15a. Upon the filing of a petition, as provided in section three of this act, alleging that there is within the county or residing therein a person who should be declared free from the custody and control of his parents, as defined in this act, and praying that the superior court deal with said person as provided in this act, a citation shall issue, requiring the person or persons having the custody or control of said person or the person or persons with whom said person may be, to appear with said person at a time and place stated in the citation. Service of such citation must be made at least ten days before the time stated therein for such appearance. The parent or parents of said person, if residing within the state of California, and if their place of residence be known to the petitioner, or, if there be no parent so residing, or if the place of residence of such parent or parents be not known to the petitioner, then some relative of said person, if any there be residing within the state, and if his residence and relationship to said person be known to the petitioner, shall be notified of the proceedings by service of citation requiring him or them to appear at the time and place stated in such citation. Service of such citations must be made at least ten days before the time stated therein for such appearance.

When parents reside outside of state.

§ 15b. If the parent or parents of said person reside outside of the state of California, or if their places of residence be not known to the petitioner, the petitioner or his agent, or attorney, shall make and file an affidavit wherein there shall be stated the names of the parent or parents who reside outside of the state and their places of residence, if known to the petitioner, and the names of the parent or parents residing in or out of the state whose places of residence are unknown to the petitioner and thereupon the judge of the juvenile court shall make an order directing a citation requiring him or them to appear at the time and place stated in such citation, to be served upon the parent or parents residing out of the state whose places of residence are known to the petitioner and upon the parent or parents residing in or out of the state whose places of residence are unknown to the petitioner by publication in some newspaper of general circulation printed and published in the county in which the court sits, and if there be no such paper in such county, then in some adjoining county to be designated by the judge of the juvenile court, which publication shall be once a week for four successive weeks.

Citation mailed.

§ 15c. Within ten days after the making of said order a copy of the citation, properly addressed and with the postage thereon fully prepaid, shall be mailed to the parent or parents who reside outside of the state at their places of residence, if known to the petitioner.

Service of citation.

§ 15d. When publication is ordered, personal service of a copy of the citation out of the state shall be equivalent to publication and deposit in the post office. In either case, the service of the citation shall be complete upon the completion of the publication and the time stated for the appearance of the parent or parents in a citation so served shall be not less than thirty days after the completion of such service.

Failure to appear, contempt.

§ 15e. In any case the judge of the juvenile court may appoint some suitable party to act in behalf of said person and may order such further notice of the proceedings to be given as he may deem proper. If any party, cited as herein provided, shall fail without reasonable cause to appear and abide by the order of the court, or to bring said person if so required in the citation, such failure shall constitute a contempt of said court. In case such citation can not be served, or the party served fails without reasonable cause to obey the same, a warrant of arrest shall issue on the order of the court, either against the parent or the custodian of said person or with whom the said person may be, or against the said person himself, or any or all said persons; or if there be no party to be served with citation as above provided, a warrant of arrest may be issued immediately against the said person.

Hearing of case.

§ 15f. On the return of the citation or other process, or as soon thereafter as may be, the court shall proceed to hear and dispose of the case, after full and careful consideration of all the evidence presented and with due regard to the legitimate rights and claims of the parent or parents of said person, and with due regard to any and all ties of blood or affection, but with the dominant purpose of serving the best interests of said person.

Order depriving parent of control.

§ 15g. Whenever the procedure laid down in section three and sections fifteen a, fifteen b, fifteen c, fifteen d, fifteen e, or fifteen f has been followed, the juvenile court shall be empowered to make a final written order signed by the judge presiding in said court, judicially depriving the parents of the custody and control of a person who should be declared free from the custody and control of his parents; provided, that nothing in this section shall be construed to impair the right of the court to make orders or commitments under any other section of this act. Any final order made and entered by the court under the provisions of this section, shall be conclusive and binding upon the person declared free from the custody and control of his parents, upon such parents, and upon all other persons who have been served with citation by publication or otherwise as herein provided. After making such final order, the court shall have no power to set aside, change or modify the same; provided, that nothing in this section shall be construed to impair the right of appeal.

Superior court known as "juvenile court."

§ 16. The superior court in every county and city and county in this state shall exercise the jurisdiction conferred by this act, and while sitting in the exercise of its said jurisdiction shall be known and referred to as the "juvenile court." In counties or cities and counties having more than one judge of the superior court, the judges of such court shall annually, in the month of January, designate one or more of their number, whose duty it shall be to hear all cases coming under this act; provided, that nothing in this section contained shall be construed in conflict with article VI, section VI of the constitution of the state of California. The orders and findings, if any, of the superior court in all cases coming under the provisions of this act, shall be entered in a suitable book or books or other form of written record, to be kept for that purpose, and known as the "juvenile court record," and the court, when acting under this act, shall be called the "juvenile court." All cases coming under the provisions of this act shall be heard at a special or separate session of the court, and no other matter shall be heard at such session, nor shall there be permitted to be present at such session, except as a witness in said matter, any person on trial or awaiting trial, or under accusation of crime, who does not come under the provisions of this act.

Private hearing.

§ 16a. Any person alleged or adjudged to come within any of subdivisions 1 to 13 inclusive of section 1 of this act shall be entitled to have any proceeding concerning such person, heard privately, and upon the request of said person, or either of his parents, or guardian, such hearing shall be had privately in the manner provided by law for private hearings at preliminary examinations.

Probation committee.

§ 17. The judge of the superior court in and for each county, or city and county, of the state, and in counties where there is more than one judge of said court, the judge of the superior court in said county who has been designated the judge of the juvenile court shall, by order entered in the minutes of the court, appoint seven citizens of good moral character, to be known as the "probation committee," and shall fill all vacancies occurring in such committee. The clerk of said court shall immediately notify each person appointed on said committee, and thereupon said person shall appear before the judge of the said court and qualify by taking an oath, which shall be entered in said juvenile court record, to perform faithfully the duties of a member of such probation committee.

Term of office. Vacancy. Removal. Meetings.

§ 17a. The members of such probation committee shall hold office for four years, and until their successors are appointed and qualify; provided, that of those first appointed, one shall hold office for one year, two for two years, two for three years, and two for four years, the terms for which the respective members shall hold office to be determined by lot as soon after their appointment as may be. When any vacancy occurs in any probation committee by expiration of the term of office of any member thereof, his successor shall be appointed to hold office for the term of four years; when any vacancy occurs for any other reason the appointee shall hold office for the unexpired term of his predecessor. Any member of the probation committee may be removed for cause at any time by an affirmative vote of four members of said committee at a meeting called for the special purpose of considering the question of said removal and the subsequent written approval of the judge of the juvenile court filed with the clerk of the juvenile court, said written approval to be filed within thirty days after the written report of said committee has been received by said judge. Written notice as to said special meeting shall be served on each of the members of said committee at least ten days prior to the day set therefor and shall specify the purpose thereof.

Examination of societies. Annual report. Supervision of wards.

§ 17b. The juvenile court, or the judge thereof, may at any time and upon request of the county board of supervisors shall require said probation committee or the probation officer to examine into the qualifications and management of any society, association or corporation, other than a state institution, receiving, or applying for, any ward of the juvenile court and to report thereon to the court; provided, that nothing in this section shall be construed as giving any probation officer or probation committee any power to enter any institution without the consent of such institution but in the event that such consent is refused, commitments thereto shall not be made. It shall be the duty of each probation committee to prepare each year one or more reports in writing on the qualifications and management of all societies, associations, corporations and institutions, except state institutions, applying for or receiving any ward of the juvenile court from the courts of their respective counties, and in such report said committee may make such suggestions or comments as to them may seem fit; such report shall be filed for the information of said court with the clerk of the juvenile court appointing such committee. The probation committee shall also make to the court an annual report to be filed as a public document prior to the first day of December, copies of which shall be filed with the county board of supervisors and the state board of charities and corrections. It shall be the duty of the probation committee to exercise a friendly supervision and visitation over the wards of the juvenile court when so directed by the court, to furnish the court in formation and assistance whenever required upon the request of the court and from time to time, to advise and recommend to the court any change or modification of the order made in the case of a ward of the juvenile court as may be for the best interests of such person. Upon request of the judge any member of the probation committee shall investigate the case of an alleged ward of the juvenile court coming under the provisions of this act, and render a report thereon to the judge.

Control of detention home.

The probation committee shall also have the control and management of the internal affairs of any detention home or branch detention home heretofore or hereafter established by the county board of supervisors; and it shall be the duty of said board of supervisors to provide for the payment of such employees as may be needed in the efficient management of such detention home or branch detention home or homes.

Compensation.

§ 17c. Members of the probation committee shall serve without compensation, but shall be allowed their reasonable traveling expenses as approved by the judge of the juvenile court; and the same shall be a charge upon the county in which the court appointing them has jurisdiction, and said expenses shall be paid out of the county treasury upon a written order of the judge of the juvenile court of said county directing the county auditor to draw his warrant upon the county treasurer for the specified amount of such expenses. All orders by the juvenile court judge upon the county treasury shall be filed in duplicate with the county board of supervisors.

Probation offices created. Term of office. Salaries. Removal. Bond.

§ 18. The offices of probation officer and assistant probation officer and deputy probation officer are hereby created. The probation officers and assistant probation officers to serve hereunder in any county shall be nominated by the probation committee in manner as the judge of the juvenile court in the respective counties shall direct, and the appointment of such probation officers and assistant probation officers shall then be made by the judge thereof. The term of office of the probation officers and assistant probation officers shall be two years from the date of their said appointments. All probation officers and assistant probation officers receiving a salary of seventy-five dollars or more per month shall devote their entire time and attention to the duties of their offices, and no such probation officer or assistant probation officer, while holding such office and receiving salary therefor, shall be a candidate for or seek the nomination for any other public office or employment, and no person shall be appointed to and receive the salary attached to such office of either probation officer or assistant probation officer who is a sheriff or constable or is related to the judge of the juvenile court or to a member of the probation committee of such county, by consanguinity or affinity within the third degree computed according to the rules of law. Such probation officers and assistant probation officers may at any time be removed by the judge of the juvenile court for good cause shown; provided, that the judge of the juvenile court may at any time in his discretion remove any such probation officer or assistant probation officer with the written approval of a majority of the probation committee. Every probation officer and every assistant probation officer receiving an official salary shall, at the time that he files his oath of office, file with the county clerk of the county his official bond approved by the judge of the juvenile court. The judge of the juvenile court shall have authority by an order entered in the minutes of said court to determine and fix the amount of bonds of the probation officer of the county and of his assistants. If said bonds, or any of them, are furnished by any surety company licensed to transact business in the state of California, the premium thereon shall be paid out of the county treasury.

Officer in each county; deputies.

There shall be appointed, as herein provided, a probation officer in every county, and he may appoint as many deputies as he may desire; provided, however, that such deputies shall not have authority to act until their appointment shall have been approved by a majority vote of the members of the probation committee, and by the judge of the juvenile court. The term of office of such deputies shall expire with the term of the probation officer making such appointment, but the probation officer with the written approval of the majority of the members of the probation committee and of the judge of the juvenile court, may, at any time in his discretion revoke and terminate such appointment. Such deputies, except as hereinafter provided, shall serve without compensation; provided, however, that in counties having charters providing a method of appointment and tenure of office for probation officers and members of the probation committee, such charter provision shall control as to such matters, and boards of supervisors, if thereto authorized thereby may increase or decrease the number of assistants and deputies and the salary of the probation officer and such assistants, deputies and clerks.

Referees in counties of first class.

§ 19. In counties of the first class the judge of the juvenile court, may appoint referees in juvenile court matters. Said referees shall have the usual power of referees in chancery cases in all such cases submitted to them by the court; shall hear the testimony of witnesses and certify to the judge of the juvenile court their findings upon the case submitted to them, together with their recommendation as to the judgment or order to be made in the case in question.

The court, after notice of the presentation of such findings and recommendation, to the parents of such person, may make the order recommended by the referee, or any other order in the judgment of the court required by the findings of the referee, or may hear additional testimony, or may set aside said findings and hear the case anew.

Female referees.

In appointing a referee for the trial of females, a female referee shall be appointed where possible. Such referee shall serve without compensation save that in counties of the first class having charters, the boards of supervisors shall fix the compensation for at least two such referees. Where a case has been submitted to a referee, as herein provided, without any previous order for temporary custody having been made, the referee shall from time to time, recommend to the court such order or orders for temporary custody as may seem necessary. Thereupon such order shall be made unless the court shall determine otherwise.

Officers in counties of first class.

§ 19a. In counties of the first class there shall be one probation officer and twenty-nine assistant probation officers, and clerks. The salaries of said officers shall be as follows: Probation officer, two hundred dollars per month; two assistant probation officers, each one hundred and fifty dollars per month; nineteen assistant probation officers, each one hundred dollars per month; one assistant probation officer to act as probation officer's bookkeeper, one hundred dollars per month; one assistant probation officer to act as probation officer's clerk eighty-five dollars per month; three assistant probation officers to act as stenographers to the probation officers in clerical work, each seventy-five dollars per month; one assistant probation officer to act as stenographer, sixty-five dollars per month; one assistant probation officer to act as telephone exchange operator, fifty dollars per month; one assistant probation officer who shall be a physician at one hundred and twenty-five dollars per month.

Probation officers in cities and counties of second class.

§ 19b. In counties or cities and counties of the second class there shall be one probation officer and nine assistant probation officers. The salaries of said officers shall be as follows: Probation officer, two hundred fifty dollars per month; one assistant probation officer, two hundred dollars per month, and eight assistant probation officers, one hundred forty dollars per month each. [Amendment of May 27, 1919. In effect July 27, 1919. Stats. 1919, p. 1299.]

Probation officers in counties of third class.

§ 19c. In counties of the third class there shall be one probation officer and ten assistant probation officers. The salaries of said officers shall be as follows: Probation officer, two hundred twenty-five dollars a month; one assistant at a salary of one hundred seventy-five dollars a month; one assistant at a salary of one hundred sixty dollars a month; one assistant at a salary of one hundred fifty dollars a month; one assistant at a salary of one hundred thirty-five dollars a month; three assistants at a salary of one hundred dollars a month each; two assistants at a salary of eighty-five dollars a month each; one assistant at a salary of seventy-five dollars a month; provided, however, that in the event an adult probation department is created in counties of the third class, from and after the creation of such department and the appointment of an adult probation officer or any deputy or assistant or like officer who shall relieve the probation officer of the adult probation work, the offices of assistant probation officer at a salary of one hundred seventy-five dollars a month and of assistant probation officer at a salary of one hundred sixty dollars a month shall cease and determine and be abolished in counties of this class. [Amendment of May 28, 1917. In effect July 27, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 1002.]

Fourth class.

§ 19d. In counties of the fourth class there shall be one probation officer, one assistant probation officer, and one deputy probation officer who shall act as probation officer's clerk. The salaries of said officers shall be as follows: Probation officer, one hundred and fifty dollars per month; assistant probation officer, one hundred dollars per month; and one deputy probation officer to act as probation officer's clerk, seventy-five dollars per month.

Sixteenth, etc., classes.

§ 19e. In each of the counties of the sixteenth, twenty-second and twenty-third classes there shall be one probation officer, whose salary shall be one hundred fifty dollars per month. In counties of the fifth class there shall be one probation officer at one hundred seventy-five dollars per month, one assistant probation officer, whose salary shall be one hundred fifty dollars per month; one assistant probation officer at a salary of one hundred dollars per month, and one assistant probation officer, who shall be a competent stenographer, at a salary of eighty-five dollars per month. In counties of the twenty-third class there shall be one assistant probation officer, whose salary shall be fifty dollars per month. In counties of the twenty-second class the probation officer shall perform in addition to his duties as probation officer, the duties of the attendance officer for the schools of the county, and investigator for the board of supervisors on applications for county and state aid, without any additional compensation except his necessary expenses and such mileage as the board of supervisors shall fix and allow in the performance of his duties. [Amendment of May 28, 1917. In effect July 27, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 1023.]

Sixth class.

§ 19f. In counties of the sixth class there shall be one probation officer and three assistant probation officers. The salaries of such officers shall be as follows: Probation officer, one hundred and seventy-five dollars per month; one assistant probation officer, one hundred and fifty dollars per month; one assistant probation officer, one hundred dollars per month; and one assistant probation officer to act as probation officer's clerk, one hundred dollars per month.

Seventh class.

§ 19g. In counties of the seventh class there shall be one probation officer and three assistant probation officers. The salaries of said officers shall be as follows: Probation officer, one hundred and seventy-five dollars per month; one assistant probation officer, one hundred and fifty dollars per month; one assistant probation officer, one hundred and twenty-five dollars per month; and one assistant probation officer, one hundred dollars per month.

Eighth class.

§ 19h. In counties of the eighth class there shall be one probation officer and one assistant probation officer. The salaries of said officers shall be as follows: Probation officer, one hundred dollars per month; assistant probation officer, seventy-five dollars per month.

Ninth, etc., classes.

§ 19i. In each of the counties of the ninth, twelfth, thirteenth, fifteenth, seventeenth, eighteenth, nineteenth, twenty-sixth, twenty-seventh, thirty-third and thirty-sixth class, there shall be one probation officer whose salary shall be one hundred dollars per month. In counties of the ninth class there shall be two assistant probation officers, whose salaries shall be as follows: One assistant probation officer, whose salary shall be seventy-five dollars per month and one assistant probation officer whose salary shall be fifty dollars per month. In counties of the twelfth class, there shall be one assistant probation officer whose salary shall be seventy-five dollars per month. In counties of the thirteenth class there shall be one assistant probation officer whose salary shall be twenty-five dollars per month. In counties of the eighteenth class there shall be four assistant probation officers whose salaries shall be twenty-five dollars per month each. In counties of the twenty-third class there shall be one assistant probation officer whose salary shall be fifty dollars per month. In counties of the twenty-sixth class there shall be one assistant probation officer, whose salary shall be sixty dollars per month; provided, that in counties of the twelfth class the probation officer shall, as a part of his duties, and without any additional compensation, except his necessary expenses, do all necessary work that the board of supervisors of said county may designate or require, in looking after the indigent and poor of said county. [Amendment of May 28, 1917. In effect July 27, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 1023.]

Tenth class.

§ 19j. In counties of the tenth class there shall be one probation officer whose salary shall be one hundred and sixty-six dollars per month, and one assistant probation officer whose salary shall be seventy-five dollars per month.

Eleventh, etc., classes.

§ 19k. In each of the counties of the eleventh, fourteenth and thirtieth class there shall be one probation officer whose salary shall be one hundred twenty-five dollars per month; provided, that in the counties of the eleventh class there shall be an assistant probation officer, whose salary shall be seventy-five dollars per month; and provided, that in counties of the fourteenth class there shall be an assistant probation officer, whose salary shall be fifty dollars per month; and provided, further, that in counties of the thirteenth class the probation officer shall, as a part of his duties, and without any additional compensation, except his necessary expenses, do all necessary work that the board of supervisors of said county may designate or require, in looking after the indigent and poor of said county. [Amendment of May 28, 1917. In effect July 27, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 1024.]

Thirty-second class.

§ 19l. In each of the counties of the thirty-second class there shall be one probation officer, whose salary shall be seventy-five dollars per month. [Amendment of May 28, 1917. In effect July 27, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 1024.]

Twentieth class.

§ 19 ll. In each of the counties of the twentieth class there shall be one probation officer, whose salary shall be one hundred dollars per month. [New section added May 28, 1917. In effect July 27, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 1024.]

Thirty-ninth, etc., classes.

§ 19m. In each of the counties of the thirty-ninth, fortieth and forty-second classes, there shall be one probation officer whose salary shall be fifty dollars per month. [Amendment of May 28, 1917. In effect July 27, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 1024.]

Twenty-first class.

§ 19nn. In each of the counties of the twenty-first class there shall be one probation officer, whose salary shall be sixty-five dollars per month. [New section added May 28, 1917. In effect July 27, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 1024.]

§ 19n. In each of the counties of the twenty-fourth, twenty-eighth, twenty-ninth, thirty-seventh, forty-first, forty-third, forty-fifth, forty-sixth, forty-seventh, forty-ninth, fifty-first, fifty-second, fifty-third, fifty-fourth, and fifty-sixth class, there shall be one probation officer whose salary shall be thirty-five dollars per month.

Forty-third class.

§ 19nm. In each of the counties of the forty-third class there shall be one probation officer, whose salary shall be fifty dollars per month. [New section added May 28, 1917. In effect July 27, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 1024.]

Twenty-fifth class.

§ 19o. In counties of the twenty-fifth class there shall be one probation officer whose salary shall be one hundred fifty dollars per month, and one assistant probation officer whose salary shall be seventy-five dollars per month. [Amendment of May 28, 1917. In effect July 27, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 1025.]

§ 19p. In each of the counties of the thirty-first class, there shall be one probation officer whose salary shall be sixty dollars per month.

§ 19q. In counties of the thirty-fourth class, there shall be one probation officer whose salary shall be ninety dollars per month.

§ 19r. In counties of the thirty-fifth class, there shall be one probation officer who shall maintain an office in the court house at the county seat. The salary of said probation officer shall be one hundred dollars per month.

§ 19s. In each of the counties of the forty-fourth and fifty-fifth class, there shall be one probation officer whose salary shall be ten dollars per month.

§ 19t. In each of the counties of the forty-eighth and fiftieth classes, there shall be one probation officer whose salary shall be twenty-five dollars per month.

§ 19u. In each of the counties of the fifty-seventh and fifty-eighth class, there shall be one probation officer whose salary shall be five dollars per month.

§ 19v. In counties of the thirty-eighth class there shall be one probation officer whose salary shall be seventy dollars per month and one assistant probation officer whose salary shall be fifty dollars per month.

Payment of salaries.

§ 19w. The salaries of all probation officers and assistant probation officers shall be paid out of the county treasury of the county for which they are appointed, respectively, in the same manner as the salaries of the other county officers. The probation officers and assistant probation officers and deputy probation officers in all counties of the state shall be allowed such necessary incidental expenses incurred in the performance of their duties as required by any laws of the state of California as may be authorized by the judge of the juvenile court; and the same shall be a charge upon the county in which the court appointing them has jurisdiction, and said expenses shall be paid out of the county treasury upon a written order of the judge of the juvenile court of said county directing the county auditor to draw his warrant upon the county treasurer for the specific amount of such expenses. The probation officer shall keep a list of expenses and file a copy monthly with the county board of supervisors.

Duty of probation officers.

§ 20. The probation officer shall inquire into the antecedents, character, family history, and environment of every person brought before the court, and of every person alleged to be a person who should be declared free from the custody and control of his parents, and into the cause of such person being brought before the juvenile court, and shall make his report in writing to the judge thereof.

To make investigations.

Whenever application is made to the district attorney of the county for the drawing of a petition hereunder, it shall be the duty of the said probation officer to make such investigation as may be required by the said district attorney, or if the application has been made to the probation officer, said probation officer shall make such investigation as to him may seem necessary for the purpose of determining the necessity for the filing of a petition. If, after such investigation it appears to said district attorney or to said probation officer to whom said application has been made that proceedings should not be brought hereunder, said district attorney or said probation officer to whom said application has been made may refuse to draw said petition.

To be in court.

It shall also be the duty of the probation officer to be present in court to represent the interests of said person when the case is heard, and to furnish to the court such information and assistance as the court may require and to make such report at such time; and to take charge of said person before and after the hearing as may be ordered. Every probation officer, assistant probation officer and deputy probation officer shall have the power of a peace officer. At any time the probation officer may bring any such ward committed to his care before the court with written report and recommendation for such further order or other action as the court may deem proper. Before any such ward is recommitted, the probation officer shall inquire into the reasons assigned for such action and shall be present in court to represent the interests of such ward.

Power of attendance officer.

Every probation officer shall have the powers of a school attendance officer, in such portions of the county, in which such probation officer has been appointed, as are not otherwise provided with a school attendance officer, and shall exercise such powers when not inconsistent with his other duties.

Probation officers' reports.

Every probation officer, within fifteen days after the thirty-first day of December, of each year, shall make in writing and file as a public document a report to the judge of the juvenile court of the county in which such probation officer is appointed, and shall furnish to the county board of supervisors and to the secretary of the state board of charities and corrections of this state a copy thereof. Such report, without giving names, shall state separately the exact number of neglected, dependent, and delinquent persons and wards of the juvenile court that remain under commitment to the care and custody of the probation officer, and the exact number of such persons of whose cases other disposition has been made, as such number exists, deducting all cases dismissed or discharged as reformed, or where such person has passed the age of twenty-one years upon such thirty-first day of December, segregating such persons as having been adjudged by such juvenile court to be neglected, dependent, delinquent, or wards of the juvenile court, as the case may be, in nineteen hundred and three, nineteen hundred and four, nineteen hundred and five, and so on, up to and including the calendar year for which such report is made and filed. Any of the duties of a probation officer may be performed by an assistant or deputy probation officer, and shall be so performed whenever directed by the probation officer; and it shall be the duty of the probation officer to see that his assistant and deputy probation officers perform their duties.

Penalties.

§ 21. Any person who shall commit any act or omit the performance of any duty, which act or omission causes or tends to cause or encourage any person under the age of twenty-one years to come within the provisions of any of subdivisions 1 to 13 inclusive of section one of this act, or which act or omission contributes thereto, or any person who shall, by any act or omission, or by threats, or commands, or persuasion, induce or endeavor to induce any such person, under the age of twenty-one years, to do or to perform any act or to follow any course of conduct, or to so live as would cause or manifestly tend to cause any such person to become or to remain a person coming within the provisions of any of subdivisions 1 to 13 inclusive of section one of this act, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine not exceeding one thousand dollars, or by imprisonment in the county jail for not more than two years, or by both such fine and imprisonment, or may be released on probation for a period not exceeding five years; and the superior court, sitting as a juvenile court, shall have original jurisdiction over all such misdemeanors. The court may also, as a condition of such probation, require a bond in such sum as the court may designate, to be approved by the judge requiring the same, to secure the performance by such person of the conditions imposed by the court on such probation. Such bond shall by its terms be made payable to the state of California and any moneys received for the breach thereof shall be paid into the county treasury.

Detention home. Superintendent and matron.

§ 22. It shall be the duty of the legislative body of every county, or city and county, immediately upon this act becoming effective, to provide and thereafter maintain, at the expense of such county, or city and county, in a location approved by the judge of the juvenile court, a suitable house or place to be known as the "detention home" of said county, or city and county, for the detention of wards of the juvenile court and of persons alleged to come under the provisions of subdivisions 1 to 13 inclusive of section one of this act. Such detention home must not be in, or connected with any jail or prison, and shall be conducted in all respects as nearly like a home as possible and shall not be deemed to be nor be treated as a penal institution. Such legislative body must also provide a suitable superintendent and matron to have charge of such detention home, and for such other employees as may be needed in the efficient management of such detention home, and provide for the payment, out of the general fund of the county, or city and county, of suitable salaries for such superintendent and matron, and such other employees, such superintendent, matron and other employees to be appointed by said legislative body upon the nomination of the probation committee and the approval of the judge of the juvenile court. The superintendent of the detention home shall keep a classified list of expenses, and shall file a duplicate copy with the county board of supervisors. The superintendent, matron, or other employee of such detention home, may, at any time be removed by the probation committee in its discretion.

Appeal from judgment.

§ 23. Every judgment or decree of a juvenile court assuming jurisdiction and declaring any person to be a ward of the juvenile court or a person free from the custody and control of his parents may be appealed from in the same manner as any final judgment, and any subsequent order may be appealed from as from an order after judgment; but no such order or judgment shall be stayed by such appeal, unless suitable provision is made for the maintenance, care and custody of such person pending the appeal, to be approved by an order of the said juvenile court. Such appeal shall have precedence in the court to which the appeal is taken over all other cases.

Construction of act.

§ 24. This act shall be liberally construed, to the end that its purpose may be carried out, to wit, that the care, custody and discipline of a ward of the juvenile court, as defined in this act, shall approximate as nearly as may be that which should be given by his parents, and in all cases where it can be properly done, the ward of the juvenile court, as defined in this act, shall be placed in an approved family, with people of the same religious belief, and become a member of the family, by legal adoption or otherwise. All commitments to institutions or for placement in family homes under this act shall be, so far as practicable, either to institutions or for placement in family homes of the same religious beliefs as that of the person so committed or of his parents or to institutions affording opportunity for instruction in such religious belief. In any detention or commitment under this act, no merely unfortunate person shall be brought into direct contact or personal association with any wayward person of evil influence. In all cases of female persons over the age of five years coming under the provisions of this act, such persons shall be dealt with, so far as possible, by or in the presence of a woman probation officer, assistant probation officer, deputy probation officer, a woman member of the probation committee, or other woman; and in transporting female persons coming under any of the provisions of this act, such persons shall be transported in the care and custody of a woman. In this act the word "county" shall include "city and county," the plural shall include the singular, and the singular shall include the plural, and the word "ward" shall mean "a ward of the juvenile court," as defined in this act.

Acts superseded.

§ 25. This act shall supersede all provisions of the act entitled "An act to establish a state school for juvenile offenders, and to make an appropriation therefor," approved March 11, 1889, and all amendments thereto, and all provisions of the act entitled "An act to establish a school of industry, to provide for the maintenance and management of the same, and to make an appropriation therefor," approved March 11, 1889, and all amendments thereto, relating to the mode of commitments to the institutions therein named; but said acts shall control as to all matters concerning the management of said institutions, respectively.

Acts repealed.

§ 26. The juvenile court law approved March 8, 1909, as amended by an act approved April 5, 1911, and as amended by an act approved June 16, 1913, and all amendments thereof, and all acts or parts of acts inconsistent herewith are hereby repealed; provided, however, that nothing herein contained shall be deemed to interfere with the management of any state school except as herein expressly provided; provided, further, that all orders and judgments heretofore made under the acts hereby repealed shall continue in full force and effect and the court shall retain jurisdiction of all persons now subject to the jurisdiction thereof, and such persons shall be herein dealt with in the same manner as if all previous orders had been made under the provisions of this act, and all proceedings now pending under said act shall be continued under the provisions of this act.

Persons charged with crime under the provisions of section twenty-six of said law of nineteen hundred eleven, or section twenty-eight of said law of nineteen hundred thirteen, shall be tried and punished under the law as it existed at the time of said alleged offense.

All officers holding office under the provisions of said acts shall be continued therein, subject hereto and nothing herein contained shall be deemed to interfere with their term or tenure of office.

Constitutionality.

§ 27. If any one section or sections, or portion or portions of a section, or any paragraph or paragraphs, or sentence or sentences of this act are declared invalid such declaration shall not affect the rest of the law.

I. CONSTITUTIONALITY.

1. Not a special statute.—The "juvenile court law" is not a special act and is constitutional.—In re Sing, 13 Cal. App. 736, 110 Pac. 693.

2. Legislative power to regulate minority without regard to sex.—The legislature is empowered to regulate minority and to treat males and females of the same age alike, as was done in the act of 1911.—Moore v. Williams, 19 Cal. App. 600, 127 Pac. 509.

3. Same.—The legislature had power to confer upon the juvenile court jurisdiction of all persons under twenty-one years of age, whether male or female, and without regard to their minority.—In re Willis, 30 Cal. App. 188, 157 Pac. 819.

4. Title.—The "juvenile court law" is not unconstitutional because of defect in title within section 24, article IV, of the constitution.—In re Maginnis, 162 Cal. 200, 202, 121 Pac. 723.

5. Same—Repeal of prior acts.—The repeal of other statutes dealing with the same subject is germane to the subject and purpose of the act.—In re Maginnis, 162 Cal. 200, 121 Pac. 723.

6. Same—Failure to refer to age, though referred to in body of act.—The provision of section 1 of the "juvenile court law" of 1911, that the act applies only to "persons under the age of twenty-one years," does not render the act unconstitutional because the title refers to "dependent and delinquent minor children."—Moore v. Williams, 19 Cal. App. 600, 127 Pac. 509.

7. Same—Subject sufficiently expressed.—The subject of the act of 1911 is sufficiently expressed in the title to meet the requirements of the constitution.—Moore v. Williams, 19 Cal. App. 600, 127 Pac. 509.

8. Same—Subjects not embraced in—Validity of act not affected.—If there are any provisions in the "juvenile court law" not embraced in the general scope of the subject covered by its title, their invalidity would not affect the validity of the act as a whole.—In re Maginnis, 162 Cal. 200, 202, 121 Pac. 723.

9. Exercise of police power—Not a "municipal affair."—The "juvenile court law" is an exercise of the police powers of the state, and concerns the whole state as much as any other extension of the judicial system, and the subject is not a "municipal affair" within the meaning of that term in the constitution, although the functions of the particular extension of the system may be exercised exclusively within incorporated cities having a municipal charter.—Nicholl v. Koster, 157 Cal. 416, 108 Pac. 302.

10. Trial on mere verified complaint—Construction rendering act unconstitutional.—To interpret the exception in subdivision 4 of section 682 of the Penal Code as authorizing the trial of an offense under section 26 of the act of 1911 by the superior court on a mere verified complaint would render it repugnant to subdivision 3 of section 25, of article IV of the constitution.—Gardner v. Superior Court, 19 Cal. App. 548, 126 Pac. 501.

II. PURPOSE.

11. Protection of all children against delinquency and dependency.—The legislature intended by the "juvenile court law" to provide protection to all children who, by the terms of the act, were either dependent or delinquent, by attaching a penalty to any act contributing to such delinquency or dependency.—In re Sing, 14 Cal. App. 512, 112 Pac. 582.

12. Same—Main purpose.—The main purpose of the act is to provide for the care and custody of children who have shown, or who, from lack of care, are likely to develop criminal tendencies, in order to have them trained to good habits and correct principles.—Nicholl v. Koster, 157 Cal. 416, 108 Pac. 302.

13. Same—Same.—The "juvenile court law" aims, as its principal object, at the proper custody and education of children who lack the care and control deemed essential to their right development, whether or not their situation be such as to be likely to lead them to actual crime.—In re Maginnis, 162 Cal. 200, 204, 121 Pac. 723.

14. Secondary purpose—Punishment of persons responsible.—The secondary purpose of the "juvenile court law" is to provide for the punishment of persons responsible for, or contributing to the dependency or delinquency of children.—In re Maginnis, 162 Cal. 200, 204, 121 Pac. 723.

15. Act of 1911 has same purpose as act of 1909.—The purposes of the act of 1911 are substantially the same as the purposes of the act of 1909.—Moore v. Williams, 19 Cal. App. 600, 127 Pac. 509.

III. CONSTRUCTION.

16. No new court set up.—The "juvenile court law" does not pretend to set up a new court district from the superior court, but merely to give that court jurisdiction of a new class of offenses created thereby.—People v. Budd, 24 Cal. App. 176, 140 Pac. 714.

17. Jurisdiction over offense properly includes jurisdiction to punish.—The subject of granting to the superior court jurisdiction over the offense of contributing to or causing delinquency or dependency, properly includes jurisdiction to punish the offense thus created.—In re Maginnis, 162 Cal. 200, 121 Pac. 723.

18. Residence—Jurisdiction not limited to children technically residing in California.—The "juvenile court law" does not limit the power of the court to children who have a technical residence in this state, and the decisions of the supreme court, so far as they go do not hold that the courts of this state are prohibited from assuming guardianship of children who may happen to be within its jurisdiction, but whose legal residence or domicile elsewhere; but the court does not decide the question whether the juvenile court has jurisdiction of a child present in the state, but whose technical residence is in Montana.—In re Maginnis, 162 Cal. 200, 205, 121 Pac. 723.

19. Same—Finding as to, not reviewable.—Where the juvenile court finds that a delinquent child was a resident of the state of California, in accordance with the allegations of the petition, such finding can not be reviewed on habeas corpus, however erroneous.—In re Maginnis, 162 Cal. 200, 121 Pac. 723.

20. Same—Technical residence in California but domiciled elsewhere.—The act does not limit the jurisdiction of the juvenile court over children who have a technical residence in the state, though actually domiciled elsewhere.—In re Maginnis, 162 Cal. 200, 121 Pac. 723.

21. Sex and age immaterial—Act of 1911.—The sex or age of a person is a negligible quantity under the act of 1911, in declaring what shall constitute "dependency" and "delinquency," and the legislature had the power to make those provisions equally applicable to males and females under twenty-one years of age.—Moore v. Williams, 19 Cal. App. 600, 127 Pac. 509.

22. Same—Act of 1909 and act of 1911 distinguished.—The act of 1909 is distinguished from the act of 1911, in that it was limited to children "under the age of eighteen years," while the latter act raised the limit to twenty-one years, and provided for additional probation officers, and adjusts the salaries of such officers by counties.—Moore v. Williams, 19 Cal. App. 600, 127 Pac. 509.

23. Children of divorced persons—Jurisdiction of court.—The superior court sitting as a juvenile court has the authority to exercise its jurisdiction under the juvenile court act for the disposition of the children of the parties to a divorce suit, notwithstanding it had, in the divorce suit, already awarded their custody to one of the parties.—Dupes v. Superior Court, 176 Cal. 440, 442, 168 Pac. 838.

24. Persons who are guilty of contributing subject to punishment.—Any one who contributes to the dependency of a child, whatever may be his relation thereto, becomes amenable to punishment under the provisions of section 26 of the act.—In re Sing, 14 Cal. App. 512, 112 Pac. 582.

25. Abandoned and neglected children.—Section 224 of the Civil Code, defines the circumstances which give the juvenile court jurisdiction to take charge of the case of the child, and determine whether there has been an abandonment or not; but it does not state all the elements or abandonment.—In re Cordy, 169 Cal. 150, 146 Pac. 532, 534.

IV. ACTIONS AND PROSECUTIONS.

26. Minor charged with crime—Absence of request for determination as to age.—Where no request is presented to have the matter submitted to the juvenile court, the superior court may proceed with the trial of a criminal prosecution of a minor under eighteen years, although the evidence adduced at the trial discloses the fact.—People v. Oxnam, 170 Cal. 211, 217, 149 Pac. 165.

27. Defective petition not bar to subsequent petition.—The filing of a petition which is defective and does not give the juvenile court jurisdiction, does not deprive the court of jurisdiction of a subsequently filed sufficient petition.—Moore v. Superior Court, 22 Cal. App. 156, 134 Pac. 352.

28. Affidavit insufficient to confer jurisdiction.—An affidavit that a fifteen-year-old female child is dependent in "that the said child is without proper guardianship and her home is an unfit place for such child," is insufficient to confer jurisdiction upon the superior court sitting as a juvenile court to make an order committing such child to special custody, and she was discharged on habeas corpus.—In re Mundell, 3 Cal. App. 472, 86 Pac. 833.

29. Information showing minority of defendant—Duty of magistrate.—Where it appeared at the preliminary examination that the defendant accused of committing lewd and lascivious acts with a child under the age of fourteen years, was himself under eighteen, it would have been the duty of the magistrate to have referred the case to the juvenile court, but when the defendant's attorney stated to the magistrate that defendant was over eighteen, he was not required to make such reference.—In re Tom, 17 Cal. App. 678, 121 Pac. 294.

30. Error not to admit evidence of age of defendant when offered—Error does not authorize release on habeas corpus.—Under the act of 1915, sections 4d and 6, it was error for a justice of the peace to refuse to hear evidence of age of a defendant, when it is suggested to him that the defendant is under eighteen years of age, but it is not sufficient to justify a release on habeas corpus, in view of section 6, which authorizes the juvenile court to examine and commit the defendant or certify him back to the magistrate.—In re Northon, 35 Cal. App. 369, 169 Pac. 1051.

30a. Minor charged with crime—Determination as to age—Presumption on appeal.—In the absence of a trial and determination as to age of a defendant in the superior court, or of any proceedings in that court calling for such trial and determination, the supreme court will assume that he is over eighteen years old, and whatever may have been the duty in the event of a suggestion as to age and the denial of a request to present the matter to the juvenile court, the court will not consider the matter not raised in the court below.—People v. Oxnam, 170 Cal. 211, 220, 149 Pac. 165.

31. Prosecution by verified complaint not permitted—Unconstitutional construction.—Subdivision 4, section 682, of the Penal Code, can not be construed to permit a prosecution under the "juvenile court law" by verified complaint, and such a construction would render that subdivision repugnant to subdivision 3 of section 25, article IV of the constitution, as well as to subdivision 33 of that section.—People v. Budd, 24 Cal. App. 176, 140 Pac. 714.

32. Same—Does not confer jurisdiction.—A verified complaint can not confer jurisdiction of a charge of contributing to the delinquency of a female under the age of twenty-one years, under the "juvenile court law."—People v. Budd, 24 Cal. App. 176, 140 Pac. 714.

33. Preliminary examination and committed required as conditions precedent to information.—A preliminary examination and commitment are conditions precedent to an information upon which only can the juvenile court try one with a misdemeanor under the "juvenile court law," even though it has jurisdiction of such offense.—In re Sing, 13 Cal. App. 736, 110 Pac. 693.

34. Preliminary examination not required—Nullity.—It is admitted that a preliminary examination is not required in prosecution of "juvenile court law" offenses, and where such examination is held, it is a nullity.—Edington v. Superior Court, 18 Cal. App. 739, 124 Pac. 450, 128 Pac. 338.

35. Information—Dependency must be alleged and proved.—In prosecutions under the "juvenile court law" for contributing to the dependency of a minor, it is essential to conviction to allege and prove that such minor has become a dependent, and such condition of dependency is an indispensable prerequisite to the maintenance of such a charge.—People v. Pierro, 17 Cal. App. 741, 121 Pac. 689.

36. Same—Plea of dependency, sufficiency of.—Where a child against whom the offense of contributing to her dependency has been committed, has been adjudicated a dependent child, it would be sufficient to plead such adjudication, but when no adjudication is relied on, the facts which make such minor a dependent under the provisions of the law must be pleaded in the information.—People v. Pierro, 17 Cal. App. 741, 121 Pac. 689.

36a. Same—Same—Definiteness required.—A general allegation that the child to whose dependency a defendant is charged with contributing, "was then and there a dependent child—within the meaning" of the "juvenile court law" of 1909, is insufficient to inform the defendant of the particulars of the charge which he is called upon to meet.—People v. Pierro, 17 Cal. App. 741, 121 Pac. 689.

37. Same—Same.—The information must set forth the facts making the minor dependent unless there has been a previous adjudication of dependency, in which case it is sufficient to allege such adjudication.—In re Goldsworthy, 22 Cal. App. 354, 134 Pac. 352.

38. Indictment or information—Prosecution must be by.—Prosecution for an offense under section 26 of the "juvenile court act" of 1911, must be by indictment or information, and the superior court has no jurisdiction to try such an offense upon a mere verified complaint.—Gardner v. Superior Court, 19 Cal. App. 548, 126 Pac. 501.

39. Same—Same—Verified complaint insufficient.—The prosecution, under the "juvenile court law" for contributing to the delinquency of a female under twenty-one years of age, must be by indictment or by information after preliminary examination by a magistrate, and not by a mere verified complaint.—People v. Budd, 24 Cal. App. 176, 140 Pac. 714.

40. Same—Sufficiency.—An information which charges the manager of a cafe with contributing to the delinquency or dependency of a minor, by being present when a girl of seventeen years of age was served with liquor in his cafe, sets forth a violation of section 21 of the act of 1915, especially since section 397b of the Penal Code, which makes his conduct a misdemeanor.—People v. De Leon, 35 Cal. App. 466, 170 Pac. 173.

41. Same—Same.—The information in this case held to state facts warranting the conclusion that the female child referred to was a dependent person within the meaning of the act of 1911.—Edington v. Superior Court, 18 Cal. App. 739, 124 Pac. 450, 128 Pac. 338.

42. Same—Same.—Although an information does not expressly nor directly declare that the minor therein named is a dependent person, the charge that defendant endeavored to induce said minor to lead an idle, dissolute and immoral life by importuning and coercing her to enter a house of prostitution, and that he had sexual intercourse with her, is sufficient.—In re Goldsworthy, 22 Cal. App. 354, 134 Pac. 352.

43. Same—Same.—The information in this case held to charge defendant with committing the public offense of contributing to the dependency of a female child of the age of fifteen years.—People v. Oliver, 29 Cal. App. 576, 156 Pac. 1005.

44. Same—Same.—An information which fails to state that the particular acts charged against defendant were committed in the presence of the children or that such acts had any direct effect upon their morals, is insufficient to charge the offense of contributing to the dependency of such children in violation of the "juvenile court law."—People v. Bergotini, 172 Cal. 717, 720, 158 Pac. 198.

45. Same—Same—Statute of limitations.—An information filed November 2, 1917, charging defendant did, on various dates between October 1, 1916 and October 1, 1917, entice a girl fifteen years of age away from her home and usual place of abode and induce her to accompany defendant to various hotels and rooming houses, where they occupied the same room, and defendant did then and there have and accomplish sexual intercourse with her, was sufficient against the objection that there was a bar of the one-year statute.—People v. Brown, 37 Cal. App. 101, 173 Pac. 621.

46. Same—Same.—An information charging defendant with inducing a girl of fifteen years of age to accompany him to hotels and rooming houses, where they occupied the same room and he accomplished with her the act of sexual intercourse, is not insufficient for failure to allege negatively they were husband and wife, where it does show that their surnames were different, and that she was only fifteen years of age.—People v. Brown, 37 Cal. App. 101, 173 Pac. 621.

47. Offense of contributing may be committed upon person not previously delinquent.—Under the act of 1911 the offense of contributing to the dependency or delinquency of a female under the age of twenty-one years, may be committed upon a person not theretofore possessing any of the characteristics of dependency or delinquency under the act.—In re Goldsworthy, 22 Cal. App. 354, 134 Pac. 352.

48. Evidence—Delinquency prior to filing information must be proved.—Upon a charge of contributing to the dependency of a girl under eighteen, by an act of sexual intercourse with her, it is necessary for the people to prove not only the act of sexual intercourse, but also that the girl was, prior to the filing of the information a dependent person within the meaning of the act, and that defendant's act caused or contributed to such dependency.—People v. Cruse, 24 Cal. App. 497, 141 Pac. 936.

49. Same—Previous acts of delinquency.—The fact that the minor may have been leading an idle, dissolute, and immoral life prior to the time she came to defendant's house is immaterial in a prosecution of the proprietress of a house of prostitution for a violation of section 21 of the "juvenile court law," by permitting such minor to commit acts of prostitution in her house.—People v. Hanford, 35 Cal. App. 799, 171 Pac. 112.

50. Same—Evidence as to other acts.—In a prosecution for contributing to the dependency of a female child of fifteen years, evidence of other acts of improper conduct with such minor, than those charged in the information, is admissible.—People v. Oliver, 29 Cal. App. 576, 156 Pac. 1005.

51. Same—Sufficient.—Evidence held sufficient to support a judgment of conviction of the offense of contributing to the dependency of a female child of the age of fifteen years.—People v. Oliver, 29 Cal. App. 576, 156 Pac. 1005.

52. Same—Defendant entitled to full measure of all legal rights.—In a prosecution under the "juvenile court law" for contributing to the delinquency of a female under twenty-one years of age by an act of sexual intercourse with her, owing to natural instincts and laudable sentiments on the part of the jury, and the usual circumstances of isolation of the parties involved in the commission of the offense, the defendant is, as a rule, so disproportionately at the mercy of the prosecutrix's evidence, that he should be given the full measure of every legal right.—People v. Cruse, 24 Cal. App. 497, 141 Pac. 936.

53. Instructions—As to moral delinquency of girl complainant.—An instruction that the moral delinquency of the girl complainant should not be considered as affecting her credibility, is proper in a prosecution under the "juvenile court law" for contributing to the delinquency of a female under the age of twenty-one years by committing an act of sexual intercourse with her.—People v. Cruse, 24 Cal. App. 497, 141 Pac. 936.

54. Orders—Not for punishment—Provision for guardianship.—Juvenile court orders are not for the infliction of punishment, but to provide suitable guardianship, and the defendant is not entitled to a jury trial.—In re Brodie, 33 Cal. App. 751, 166 Pac. 605.

55. Judgment—Discharge on ground that defendant did not stand in loco parentis.—A person convicted of a violation of the terms of section 26 of the "juvenile court law" can not be discharged on habeas corpus on the ground that he did not stand in loco parentis to the child.—In re Sing, 14 Cal. App. 512, 112 Pac. 582.

56. Same—Abandoned and neglected children—Reopened on father's petition.—Where an order of the juvenile court adjudging minor children neglected under the act was made without the father's consent, reserved the matter for the further order of the court, the court had jurisdiction, upon the petition of the father, to reopen the case.—In re Cannon, 27 Cal. App. 549, 150 Pac. 794.

57. Same—Same—Deprivation of parental custody.—The "juvenile court law" of 1913 provides that the custody of a neglected child shall not be taken from a parent, without his consent, except it is found that he is incapable of providing or has neglected or failed to provide for such child, and on an appeal from an order denying a petition of the father of minors to set aside a judgment, made without his consent, adjudging his children neglected persons within the act, and the proceedings holding up to the judgment are not in the count. It will be presumed that there was such evidence of neglect as rendered his appointment unnecessary. In re Cannon, 27 Cal. App. 349, 150 Pac. 794.

58. Same—Same—Same.—Welfare of minor. Under 1911 a finding that the welfare of the minor requires the taking away of such person from the custody of his parent or guardian is essential where this is done.—In re Brodie, 33 Cal. App. 751, 166 Pac. 522.

59. Same—Commitment to Preston—Protection. In case of an ordinary criminal information the court may commit a minor to the Preston School of Industry for a probationary period, and may change or modify the judgment at any time during the probationary term; subject to the right of the trustees to admit the prisoner to probation or to discharge him, and if so discharged he is released from all penalties and disabilities, and in case of re-arrest by order of the court, may be released on habeas corpus.—In re Johnson, 36 Cal. App. 319, 171 Pac. 1074.

60. Same—Same—Jurisdiction of trustees.—The "juvenile court law" of 1915, does not take away from the board of trustees of the Preston School of Industry the right to allow paroles or make discharges of its inmates.—In re Johnson, 36 Cal. App. 319, 171 Pac. 1074.

61. Appeal—Record—Authentication.—Prior acts contain no provision for an appeal, but the act of 1913 (§ 30) provides for an appeal to the district court of appeal, from an order sending a dependant child to a school at the mother's expense, and further provides the manner of authenticating the record to be reviewed.—In re Fowler, 24 Cal. App. 529, 141 Pac. 1053.

62. Same—Record.—An appeal from an order declaring a child dependant and sending her to a school at her mother's expense, is taken, under section 30 of the act of 1913, by a bill of exceptions, settled by the judge, engrossed and certified by the clerk, and the appeal will be dismissed if such bill is not signed by the judge, although engrossed, and certified by the clerk to have been "regularly settled and allowed by the judge."—In re Fowler, 24 Cal. App. 529, 141 Pac. 1053.

V. PROBATION OFFICER.

63. Salary—Disqualification to hold other office.—Section 18 of the act of 1915, as to salary and disqualifications of a probation officer, disqualifies such officer from holding the position of the superintendent of the detention home.—Spier v. Peck, 36 Cal. App. 4, 171 Pac. 115.

64. Same—Legislative power to create assistant.—The legislature was empowered to create the office of assistant probation officer, and to make such an officer a county officer, appointed by the juvenile court, and to fix his tenure of office and his compensation, as was done by the "juvenile court law" of 1911.—Reed v. Hammond, 18 Cal. App. 411, 155 Pac. 319.

65. Conflict of laws—Los Angeles county charter provisions.—After the adoption of the Los Angeles county charter, the board of supervisors have power to appoint a probation officer without waiting for the removal of an incumbent holding under an appointment by the juvenile court.—Gibson v. Civil Service Commissioners, 27 Cal. App. 396, 150 Pac. 78.

66. Same—Same.—The county charter of Los Angeles county providing for the removal of county officers supersedes the "juvenile court law," giving that power to the juvenile court judge, and vests it in the Los Angeles board of civil service commissioners.—Gibson v. Civil Service Commission, 27 Cal. App. 396, 150 Pac. 78.

67. County officer.—A probation officer is a county officer.—Gibson v. Civil Service Commission, 27 Cal. App. 396, 150 Pac. 78.

68. Payment of salary—Mandamus to compel.—Mandamus will lie to compel the payment of the salary of a legally appointed probation officer under the act of 1911 by the county auditor.—Moore v. Williams, 19 Cal. App. 600, 127 Pac. 509.

69. Jurisdiction of court to appoint.—Even if the legislation had made no provision for the appointment by the court of probation officers, and had made no provision for such officers, the court would have had jurisdiction, under the act, to make such appointment.—Nicholl v. Koster, 157 Cal. 416, 108 Pac. 302.

70. Power of appointment by judge not unconstitutional.—The probation officers appointed under the act are not officers of the state government, and the appointment of such officers is not necessarily a part of the duties or functions of the executive department of the state government, according to the system outlined in the constitution, and the juvenile court judge, in appointing such officers, does not exercise functions intended to be described in the constitution as those appertaining to the executive department of the state, and the provision of the act authorizing the appointment is not in conflict with article III of the constitution.—Nicholl v. Koster, 157 Cal. 416, 108 Pac. 302.

71. Legislative power to provide for appointment in county organization act.—The legislature had power to create a new county and provide for the appointment of persons to perform the duties thereof, who would be county officers.—Nicholl v. Koster, 157 Cal. 416, 108 Pac. 302.

72. Duties of.—The probation officer provided for in the act, is required to inquire into the antecedents, character, family, history, environment, and cause of delinquency of every child brought before the court, to be present in court and represent the interests of such child upon the hearing as to its being delinquent, to give to the court such information and assistance as it may require, to take charge of the child, and, in some circumstances, to act in a capacity similar to that of a guardian.—Nicholl v. Koster, 157 Cal. 416, 108 Pac. 302.

73. San Francisco city and county trans- ory is "county treasury" under the act.—The treasury of the city and county of San Francisco is, so far as the payment of the compensation of the probation officer is concerned, for that purpose, a county treasury.—Nicholl v. Koster, 157 Cal. 416, 108 Pac. 302.

74. Same—Payment of probation officer.—As the San Francisco charter neither creates the office of probation officer contemplated by the act, nor prescribes the duties thereof, nor provides for the compensation of such officer, there is nothing in its provisions which can in any way affect the validity and force of the declaration of the act that such compensation must be paid out of the county treasury.—Nicholl v. Koster, 157 Cal. 416, 108 Pac. 302.

75. Same—Act in force in San Francisco as to payment of salary of probation officer.—In the absence of charter provisions, the act is in force in the city and county of San Francisco as to its provisions relating to the compensation of the probation officers of the so-called "juvenile court."—Nicholl v. Koster, 157 Cal. 416, 108 Pac. 302.

VI. CONFLICT OF LAWS.

76. Los Angeles county charter provisions superseded by the "juvenile court law."—The provisions of the Los Angeles charter conferring exclusive jurisdiction in misdemeanor cases upon the police court, was superseded by the "juvenile court law" as to misdemeanors under that act.—In re Sing, 13 Cal. App. 736, 110 Pac. 693.

77. San Francisco charter.—The San Francisco charter does not control the provisions of this law, in so far as the law gives additional jurisdiction to the superior court, prescribes the necessary procedure and provides the means of exercising and enforcing that jurisdiction.—Nicholl v. Koster, 157 Cal. 416, 108 Pac. 302.

KELP.

CONTENTS OF CHAPTER.

ACT 2353. KELP ACT.

KELP ACT.

ACT 2353—An act to regulate the taking and harvesting of kelp and other aquatic plants of the state of California by recognizing and declaring their ownership in the state of California and providing for the control thereof by the fish and game commissioners, and providing for a license tax upon all persons, firms or corporations engaged in the industry of taking or harvesting kelp or other aquatic plants, and providing for the collection and disbursement of the revenues derived therefrom, and providing for a privilege tax upon all kelp taken in the waters of this state, and providing for the protection of kelp beds, and for the manner of taking kelp and other aquatic plants, and providing for hearings by the fish and game commissioners, and providing penalties for the violation of this act.

History: Approved May 18, 1917. In effect July 27, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 646.

Kelp state property.

§ 1. All kelp and other aquatic plants in the waters of the state are hereby declared to be the property of the state of California.

Powers of board of fish and game commissioners.

§ 2. The board of fish and game commissioners of the state of California are hereby empowered to carry out the provisions of this act, and to make proper rules and regulations for the taking and harvesting of kelp, and the conservation of kelp and aquatic plants, and to see that the laws, rules and regulations with reference thereto are strictly enforced, and to issue all licenses herein provided for, and collect the fees therefor, and to collect all moneys due or to become due under this act.

License to harvest kelp.

§ 3. Every person, firm or corporation, desiring to engage in taking or harvesting kelp or other aquatic plants for profit in the waters of this state must first obtain a license before engaging in such occupation.

Term. Fee. Privilege tax.

§ 4. Licenses granting the privilege to take or harvest kelp in this state shall be issued and delivered upon application by the state board of fish and game commissioners, who shall prepare suitable licenses, which shall license the holder of such license to take or harvest kelp or other aquatic plants in this state for the term of one year from the date of the issuance of such license. All licenses shall be numbered consecutively, and shall contain blanks for the name of the licensee, and place of business, which information shall be furnished by the applicant to the board of fish and game commissioners. The license herein provided for shall be issued to such applicant upon payment of ten dollars and before such license is delivered to the applicant said license must be countersigned by the president of the board of fish and game commissioners, and in addition to such license fee every person, firm or corporation taking or harvesting kelp shall pay a privilege tax of one and one-half cents per ton of wet kelp taken or harvested.

Record of kelp harvested.

§ 5. Every person, firm or corporation engaged in taking or harvesting kelp in the waters of this state shall cause to be weighed, all wet kelp immediately after said kelp shall be delivered to the place of business designated in said license, and the weight thereof shall be entered in a book, or books, to be kept by said person, firm or corporation, said book or books to be open at all times to the inspection of the board of fish and game commissioners, or any of its deputies; every person, firm or corporation engaged in taking or harvesting kelp shall on or before the tenth day after the last day of each month during the term of said license, render a statement of the weight of all wet kelp cut or harvested during the preceding month, and pay to the board of fish and game commissioners, the privilege tax herein provided for.

Notice of closing kelp beds. Hearing.

§ 6. If at any time the taking or harvesting of kelp will tend to destroy or impair any kelp bed or beds or parts thereof, or shall tend to impair or destroy the supply of any food for game fish, said fish and game commission shall cause to be served on every person, firm or corporation, licensed to take or harvest kelp in the waters of this state, a notice in writing that said kelp bed or beds or parts thereof shall be closed to the taking or harvesting of kelp for a period not to exceed one year. Within ten days after the service upon any person, firm or corporation licensed to take or harvest kelp under the provisions of this act, of a notice that any kelp bed or beds or parts thereof are closed to the taking or harvesting of kelp, said person, firm or corporation may demand a hearing upon the necessity for making such order, by serving on the board of fish and game commissioners a demand to be heard upon the necessity for closing said kelp bed or beds or parts thereof for the taking or harvesting of kelp, and upon such demand for a hearing, said board of fish and game commissioners shall fix a time and place for the taking of evidence upon the necessity of closing said bed or beds or parts thereof, which time shall be not less than ten days nor more than thirty days from the date of such demand for a hearing, and said fish and game commission shall cause notices in writing to said time and place to be served upon the party or parties making a demand for said hearing at least ten days before the day set for the hearing, and if no demand is made for a hearing within the time prescribed herein, said kelp bed or beds or parts thereof shall remain closed to the taking or harvesting of kelp for the time mentioned in said order.

Complaint. Answer. Evidence. Witness fees. Powers of superior court.

Complaint may be made by the commission or any of its deputies against any person, firm or corporation licensed to cut or harvest kelp in the waters of this state for any violation of the laws of this state, or any rules or regulations made by the board of fish and game commissioners for the taking or harvesting of kelp. Said complaints shall be made in writing, setting forth the particular offense charged to have been committed by said person, firm or corporation, a copy of which shall be filed with the board of fish and game commissioners and a copy of the same served upon the person, firm or corporation so charged. Said person, firm or corporation must appear or file an answer within five days from the date of service of a copy of said complaint, and if default be made, the board of fish and game commissioners shall issue an order revoking said license for the period hereinafter prescribed in this act, and said board of fish and game commissioners shall fix a time and place for the hearing of said charges, not less than ten days nor more than thirty days from the filing of said charges, and if the party accused appears and answers, a day may be fixed within the time prescribed in this act to take testimony. The evidence in any investigation, inquiry or hearing upon the necessity for closing any kelp bed or beds or parts thereof and the evidence in any hearing upon any charges made against any person, firm or corporation for violating any of the laws of the state of California for the preservation of kelp, or of the rules and regulations of the board of fish and game commissioners regulating the taking and harvesting and handling of kelp provided for in this section may be taken by any member of the board of fish and game commissioners, or such deputy fish and game commissioner or employee as the board may designate to take such evidence; and each member of the board and any of its deputies or employees designated to take evidence at the hearing provided hereby shall have the power to administer oaths, take affidavits and issue subpoenas for the attendance of witnesses at such hearing. Each witness legally subpoenaed attending a hearing shall receive for his attendance the same fees and mileage allowed by law to a witness in civil cases, which amount shall be paid by the party at whose request such witness is subpoenaed. The superior court in and for the county or city and county in which any inquiry, investigation, hearing or proceeding may be held under authority of this section, shall have power to compel the attendance of witnesses, the giving of testimony and the production of papers, as required by any subpoena issued under authority of this section.

Report of failure to obey subpoena.

The commission or representative of the commission before whom the testimony is to be given or produced may in the case of refusal of any witness to attend, or testify or produce any papers required by such subpoena, report to the superior court in and for the county or city and county in which the proceeding is pending by petition setting forth that due notice has been given of the time and place of the attendance of said witness or the production of said papers and that the witness has been summoned in the manner prescribed in this act and that the witness has failed and refused to attend or produce the papers required by the subpoena before the commission or its representatives, in the case or proceeding named in the notice of time and place of hearing and subpoena, or has refused to answer questions propounded to him in the course of said proceeding, and ask an order of said court to compel the witness to attend and testify or produce said papers before the commission or its representatives.

Order of court.

The court upon the petition of the commission or its representatives, shall enter an order directing the witness to appear before the court at any time and place to be fixed by the court in such order, the time to be not more than ten days from the date of the order, and then and there show cause why he has not attended and testified or produced said papers before the commission or its representative. A copy of said order shall be served upon said witness. If it shall appear to the court that said subpoena was regularly issued by the commission or its representative the court shall thereupon enter an order that said witness shall appear before the commission or its representatives at the time and place entered in said order, and testify or produce the required papers, and upon failure to obey said order said witness shall be dealt with as for contempt of court.

Deposition of witnesses.

The commission or its representatives, or any party designated by the fish and game commission may, in any investigation or hearing before the commission, or its representatives, cause the deposition of witnesses, residing within or without the state, to be taken in the manner prescribed by law for like depositions in civil actions in the superior courts of this state, and to that end may compel the attendance of witnesses and the production of documents and papers.

Revocation of license.

§ 7. If any person, firm or corporation, taking or harvesting kelp from any bed or beds or parts thereof, after service of a notice that said bed or beds or parts thereof are closed to the taking or harvesting of kelp, takes or harvest any kelp between the time of the service of said notice and the decision of the board of fish and game commissioners upon the hearing for the necessity for closing said kelp bed or beds or parts thereof, his license may be revoked for a period not to exceed one year.

Revocation of license.

§ 8. If any person, firm or corporation, licensed to take or harvest kelp in the waters of this state shall violate any of the laws of the state of California, regulating the taking and harvesting of kelp, or any rule or regulation of the board of fish and game commissioners regarding the taking or harvesting of kelp, said board of fish and game commissioners may, after a hearing, as provided herein, revoke said license and withhold the issuance of a new license to any such person, firm or corporation for a period not to exceed one year thereafter.

Penalty.

§ 9. Every person, firm or corporation, who takes or harvests kelp or other aquatic plants for profit in this state, without first obtaining a license therefor, is guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction shall be punished by a fine of not less than fifty dollars nor more than five hundred dollars, or by imprisonment in the county jail, in the county in which conviction shall be had for not less than fifty days nor more than one hundred and fifty days, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

Fines paid to "state university fund."

All fines and forfeitures collected for any violation of this act and all licenses fees and two-thirds of the moneys collected from the privilege tax under this act must be paid into the state treasury to the credit of the fish and game preservation fund and one-third of the moneys collected from the privilege tax under this act must be paid into the state treasury to the credit of the "state university fund." The amount so paid to the "state university fund" in accordance with the direction of this section, is hereby appropriated to be expended annually in accordance with law by the Scripps Institute of Biological Research.

License not required, when.

§ 10. The fish and game commission of this state shall have the power, subject to such rules and regulations as it may deem proper, to grant permits to any department of the United States government or to any scientific or any educational institution to take or harvest kelp at any and all times for scientific or experimental purposes without the payment of the kelp license or privilege tax herein provided.

Repealed.

§ 11. All acts and parts of acts in conflict herewith are hereby repealed.

2367. INCREASE OF SUPERIOR JUDGES.

2371. SALARIES OF SUPERIOR JUDGES.

ACT 2361—An act to provide for the issuance of bonds in the county of Kern, for the payment of the indebtedness of said county.

History: Approved March 31, 1876, Stats. 1875-76, p. 645.

This act authorized the issue of $40,000 ten per cent bonds, due January 1, 1896, for the purpose indicated.

INCREASE OF SUPERIOR JUDGES.

ACT 2367—An act to increase the number of judges of the superior court of the county of Kern, and to provide for the appointment of an additional judge.

History: Approved April 14, 1913. In effect August 10, 1913. Stats. 1913, p. 23. Prior act of February 17, 1903, Stats. 1903, p. 30, increased the number of judges from one to two.

Additional judge for Kern county.

§ 1. The number of judges of the superior court of the county of Kern, is hereby increased from two to three.

§ 2. Within thirty days after the taking effect of this act, the governor shall appoint one additional judge of the superior court of the county of Kern, state of California, who shall hold office until the first Monday after the first day of January, A. D. nineteen hundred and fifteen. At the general election to be held in November, 1914, a judge of the superior court of said county shall be elected in said county, who shall be the successor of the judge appointed hereunder, to hold office for the term prescribed by the constitution and by law.

Appointment and term of office. Election.

§ 3. The salary of said additional judge shall be the same in amount, and shall be paid at the same time, and in the same manner, as the salary of the other judges of the superior court of said county now authorized by law.

SALARIES OF SUPERIOR JUDGES.

ACT 2371—An act fixing the salaries of the judges of the superior court of the state of California, in and for the county of Kern, and providing for the payment thereof.

History: Approved May 1, 1911, Stats. 1911, p. 1421.

Salary of superior Judges of Kern county.

§ 1. The annual salary of each of the judges of the superior court of the state of California in and for the county of Kern is five thousand dollars; one-half thereof to be paid by the said state and the other half thereof by the said county; at the same times and in like manner as the salaries of the other judges of the superior court of said state are paid.

Repeal of conflicting acts.

§ 2. All acts and parts of acts so far as they conflict with this act are hereby repealed.

§ 3. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

1. Act not repealed by section 737, Political Code.—This act was not repealed by the re-enactment in 1915 of section 737 of the Political Code, fixing salaries of superior court judges in about fifty counties of the state, including Kern, the re-enacting act containing no general or special repealing clause, and making no change in the section as it existed prior to re-enactment except in the case of Sonoma county.—Peairs v. Chambers, 28 Cal. App. 584, 153 Pac. 410.

ACT 2380. ORGANIZATION ACT.

ORGANIZATION ACT.

ACT 2380—To create the county of Kings, to define the boundaries thereof, to fix the county seat thereof, and to provide for its organization and election of officers, and to classify said county.

History: Approved March 22, 1893, Stats. 1893, p. 176.

1. Constitutionality.—Collection of taxes in new county.—The provision of section 15 as to the collection of taxes for 1892 on property within the boundary of the new county is not unconstitutional on the ground of special legislation or that it is not expressed in the title of the act.—Kings County v. Johnson, 104 Cal. 198, 37 Pac. 870.

2. Same—Power to apportion debts of new county.—The power to apportion debts of a new county and an old, under section 3 of article XI of the constitution rests exclusively with the legislation, and not with the courts.—County of Tulare v. County of Kings, 117 Cal. 195, 49 Pac. 8.

3. Action for debt by old county against new county for the latter's proportion of debts.—Neither section 1432 nor 2847, Civil Code, authorizes the mother county to bring an action against the new county for the latter's just proportion of the debts of the old county.—County of Tulare v. County of Kings, 117 Cal. 195, 49 Pac. 8.

4. Swamp land fund—State as custodian.—The state has ceased to be the immediate custodian of the swamp land fund, but there is nothing in any act that confers upon any county any property right in and to this fund, and there is nothing in any act from which it may be inferred that the state has relinquished its right of legislative control over it, or has renounced, or transferred its trust; and it was placed in the county treasuries for the convenience of the landowner, and there was no provision in the organization act for the transfer of any portion of the fund in the Tulare county treasury to Kings county, on the latter's organization.—County of Kings v. County of Tulare, 119 Cal. 509, 51 Pac. 866.

5. Mandamus—Furnishing to collector of new county—List of unpaid taxes by collector of old county.—Mandamus may issue to compel the tax collector of Tulare county upon his refusal on demand of the tax collector of Kings county, to furnish the list of unpaid taxes on property within Kings county for year 1892.—Kings County v. Johnson, 104 Cal. 198, 37 Pac. 870.

6. Same—Same.—It was not the duty of the tax collector of Tulare county to collect any of the taxes for the year 1892, on land within the boundaries of Kings county, unpaid when the demand provided for in section 15 of the act is made, and if any money was collected on such taxes, the remedy is by action for money had and received by him.—Kings County v. Johnson, 104 Cal. 198, 37 Pac. 870.

BUREAU OF LABOR STATISTICS.

ACT 2401—An act to establish and support a bureau of labor statistics.

History: Approved March 3, 1883, Stats. 1883, p. 27. Amended (1) February 8, 1889, Stats. 1889, p. 6; (2) February 20, 1901, Stats. 1901, p. 12; (3) March 15, 1907, Stats. 1907, p. 306; (4) February 20, 1909, Stats. 1909, p. 36; (5) February 13, 1911, Stats. 1911, p. 39; (6) April 28, 1911, Stats. 1911, p. 1205; (7) May 29, 1915. In effect August 8, 1915. Stats. 1915, p. 925. (8) May 29, 1915. In effect August 8, 1915. Stats. 1915, p. 928. (9) May 10, 1917. In effect July 27, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 328. (10) May 7, 1919. In effect July 22, 1919. Stats. 1919, p. 330.

Term of labor commissioner.

§ 1. As soon as possible after the passage of this act, the governor of this state shall appoint a suitable person to act as commissioner of a bureau of labor statistics. The headquarters of said bureau shall be located in the city and county of San Francisco. Said commissioner shall hold office and serve solely at the pleasure of the governor, and not otherwise. [Amendment approved February 13, 1911. Stats. 1911, p. 39.]

Commissioner's bond.

§ 2. The commissioner of the bureau, before entering upon the duties of his office, must execute an official bond in the sum of five thousand (5000) dollars and take oath of office, all as prescribed by the Political Code for state officers in general.

Duties of commissioner enumerated.

§ 3. The duties of the commissioner shall be to collect, assort, systematize, and present, in biennial reports to the legislature, statistical details, relating to all departments of labor in the state, such as the hours and wages of labor, cost of living, amount of labor required, estimated number of persons depending on daily labor for their support, the probable chances of all being employed, the operation of labor-saving machinery in its relation to hand labor, etc. Said statistics may be classified as follows:

First—In agriculture.

Second—In mechanical and manufacturing industries.

Third—In mining.

Fourth—In transportation on land and water.

Fifth—In clerical and all other skilled and unskilled labor not above enumerated.

Sixth—The amount of cash capital invested in lands, buildings, machinery, material, and means of production and distribution generally.

Seventh—The number, age, sex, and condition of persons employed; the nature of their employment; the extent to which the apprenticeship system prevails in the various skilled industries; the number of hours of labor per day; the average length of time employed per annum, and the net wages received in each of the industries and employments enumerated.

Eighth—The number and condition of the unemployed, their age, sex, and nationality, together with the causes of their idleness.

Ninth—The sanitary condition of lands, workshops, dwellings, the number and size of rooms occupied by the poor, etc.; the cost of rent, fuel, food, clothing, and water in each locality of the state; also the extent to which labor-saving processes are employed to the displacement of hand labor.

Tenth—The number and condition of the Chinese in the state; their social and sanitary habits; number of married, and of single; the number employed, and the nature of their employment; the average wages per day at each employment; and the gross amount yearly; the amounts expended by them in rent, food, and clothing, and in what proportion such amounts are expended for foreign and home productions, respectively; to what extent their employment comes in competition with the white industrial classes of the state.

Eleventh—The number, condition, and nature of the employment of the inmates of the state prison[s], county jails, and reformatory institutions, and to what extent their employment comes in competition with the labor of mechanics, artisans, and laborers outside of these institutions.

Twelfth—All such other information in relation to labor as the commissioner may deem essential to further the object sought to be obtained by this statute, together with such strictures on the condition of labor and the probable future of the same as he may deem good and salutary to insert in his biennial reports.

State department officers to assist.

§ 4. It shall be the duty of all officers of state departments, and the assessors of the various counties of the state, to furnish, upon the written request of the commissioner, all the information in their power necessary to assist in carrying out the objects of this act; and all printing required by the bureau in the discharge of its duty shall be performed by the state printing department, and at least three thousand (3000) copies of the printed report shall be furnished the commissioner for free distribution to the public.

Penalty for obstructing.

§ 5. Any person who wilfully impedes or prevents the commissioner or his deputy in the full and free performance of his or their duty, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction of the same shall be fined not less than ten (10) nor more than fifty (50) dollars, or imprisonment not less than seven (7) nor more than thirty (30) days in the county jail, or both.

Office hours.

§ 6. The office of the bureau shall be open for business from nine (9) o'clock a. m. until five (5) o'clock p. m. every day except non-judicial days, and the officers thereof shall give to all persons requesting it all needed information which they may possess.

Powers of labor commissioner and deputies. Seal. Access to places of labor.

§ 7. The commissioner and his representatives duly authorized by him in writing shall have the power and authority, when in his judgment he deems it necessary, to take assignments of wage claims and prosecute actions for the collection of wages and other demands of persons who are financially unable to employ counsel in cases in which, in the judgment of the commissioner, the claims for wages are valid and enforceable in the courts; to issue subpoenas, to compel the attendance of witnesses or parties and the production of books, papers or records, and to administer oaths and to examine witnesses under oath, and to take the verification or proofs of instruments of writing, and to take depositions and affidavits for the purpose of carrying out the provisions of this act and all other acts now or hereafter placed in the bureau for enforcement. The commissioner shall have a seal inscribed "Bureau of Labor Statistics—State of California" and all courts shall take judicial notice of such seal. Obedience to subpoenas issued by the commissioner or his duly authorized representatives shall be enforced by the courts in any county or city and county. The commissioner and his representatives shall have free access to all places and works of labor, and any principal, owner, operator, manager, or lessee of any mine, factory, workshop, manufacturing or mercantile establishment, or any agent or employee of such principal, owner, operator, manager or lessee who shall refuse to said commissioner, or his duly authorized representative, admission therein, or who shall, when requested by him, wilfully neglect or refuse to furnish to him any statistics or information, pertaining to his lawful duties, which may be in his possession or under the control of said principal, owner, operator, lessee, manager or agent thereof, shall be punished by a fine of not more than two hundred dollars. [Amendment of May 7, 1919. In effect July 22, 1919. Stats. 1919, p. 330.]

This section was also amended February 8, 1880, Stats. 1889, p. 6; May 29, 1915, Stats. 1915, p. 925.

Information to be confidential. Violation of confidence and penalty.

§ 8. No use shall be made in the reports of the bureau of the names of individuals, firms, or corporations supplying the information called for by this act, such information being deemed confidential, and not for the purpose of disclosing any person's affairs; and any agent or employee of said bureau violating this provision shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine not to exceed five hundred dollars or by imprisonment in the county jail not to exceed six months. [New section added February 8, 1889. Stats. 1889, p. 6.]

The original section was amended and changed to § 9 in 1889, Stats. 1889, p. 7.

Assistants of labor commissioner. Offices.

§ 9. The commissioner shall appoint two deputies who shall have the same power as said commissioner; an assistant deputy who shall reside in the county of Los Angeles; a statistician and chief examiner; a stenographer; and such agents or assistants as he may from time to time require, at such rate of wages as he may prescribe, and actual traveling expenses for each person while employed. He shall procure rooms necessary for offices in San Francisco, Los Angeles, Sacramento, San Diego, and in such other places as he may deem necessary, at a rent not to exceed the sum of four hundred dollars per month. [Amendment of May 10, 1917. In effect July 27, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 328.]

This was originally § 8. It was changed to § 9 February 8, 1889, Stats. 1889, p. 7, and amended by the same act, and again amended March 15, 1907, Stats. 1907, p. 306; February 20, 1909, Stats. 1909, p. 36; April 28, 1911, Stats. 1911, p. 1205; May 29, 1915, Stats. 1915, p. 928.

Salaries. Traveling expenses.

§ 10. The salary of the commissioner shall be four thousand dollars per annum; the salary of each deputy commissioner shall be two thousand four hundred dollars per annum; the salary of the assistant deputy shall be two thousand one hundred dollars per annum; the salary of the statistician and chief examiner shall be two thousand seven hundred dollars per annum; the salary of the stenographer shall be one thousand two hundred dollars per annum; to be audited by the controller and paid by the state treasurer in the same manner as other state officers. There shall also be allowed a sum not to exceed forty thousand dollars per annum for salaries of agents or assistants, for traveling expenses, and for other contingent expenses of the bureau. [Amendment of May 10, 1917. In effect July 27, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 328.]

This was originally § 9. It was changed to § 10 February 8, 1889, Stats. 1889, p. 7, and amended by the same act, and again amended March 15, 1907, Stats. 1907, p. 307; February 20, 1909, Stats. 1909, p. 36; April 28, 1911, Stats. 1911, p. 1205; May 29, 1915, Stats. 1915, p. 928.

Time of taking effect of act.

§ 11. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Labor commissioner may condemn scaffoldings, etc., upon complaint. Certificate. Procedure.

§ 12. Whenever complaint is made to the commissioner that the scaffolding or the slings, hangers, blocks, pulleys, stays, braces, ladders, irons, or ropes of any swinging or stationary scaffolding used in the construction, alteration, repairing, painting, cleaning or painting of building are unsafe or liable to prove dangerous to the life or limb of any person, such commissioner shall immediately cause an inspection to be made of such scaffolding or the slings, hangers, blocks, pulleys, stays, braces, ladders, iron, or other parts connected therewith. If after examination such scaffolding or any of such parts is found to be dangerous to life or limb, the commissioner shall prohibit the use thereof, and require the same to be altered and reconstructed so as to avoid such danger. The commissioner, deputy commissioner, or agent or assistant making the examination shall attach a certificate to the scaffolding or the slings, hangers, irons, ropes or other parts thereof, examined by him, stating that he has made such examination and that he found it safe or unsafe as the case may be. If he declares it unsafe, he shall at once in writing notify the person responsible for its erection of the fact and warn him against the use thereof. Such notice may be served personally upon the person responsible for its erection or by conspicuously affixing it to the scaffolding or the part thereof declared to be unsafe. After such notice has been so served or affixed the person responsible therefor shall immediately remove such scaffolding or part thereof and alter or strengthen it in such manner as to render it safe, in the discretion of the officer who has examined it or of his superiors. The commissioner, his deputy and any duly authorized representative whose duty it is to examine or test any scaffolding or part thereof as required by this section, shall have free access, at all reasonable hours, to any building or premises containing them or where they may be in use. All swinging and stationary scaffolding shall be so constructed as to bear four times the maximum weight required to be dependent therefrom and placed thereon, when in use, and not more than four men shall be allowed on any swinging scaffolding at one time. [New section added February 20, 1901. Stats. 1901, p. 12.]

The amending acts of 1915 and 1917, contained the following section:

§ 3. All the provisions of said act in conflict with the provisions of this act are hereby repealed.

BUREAU OF LABOR STATISTICS—ATTORNEY.

ACT 2402—An act to create the office of attorney for the state bureau of labor statistics.

History: Approved June 4, 1913. In effect August 10, 1913. Stats. 1913, p. 382.

Attorney for state bureau of labor statistics.

§ 1. The office of attorney for the state bureau of labor statistics is hereby created. Said attorney shall be appointed by the commissioner of the bureau of labor statistics.

Duties.

§ 2. It shall be the duty of such attorney to act for and represent the state bureau of labor statistics and the commissioner thereof in all legal matters which may require the attention of such state bureau of labor statistics and the commissioner thereof, and to specially represent and act for and in co-operation thereof, when required, in the prevention of all acts and things which, in the judgment of the state bureau of labor statistics or the commissioner thereof, as will best subserve and carry out the provisions of an act entitled, "An act to establish and support a bureau of labor statistics," approved March 3, 1883; and also, all other acts which have been or may be hereafter designated by the legislature to be enforced by said state bureau of labor statistics or the commissioner thereof, and in all other matters pertaining to the welfare of minors and labor generally and to assist and aid the said bureau and the commissioner thereof with his advice, and to represent and act for the same in court.

Salary.

§ 3. The salary of such attorney shall be twenty-four hundred dollars per annum and shall be paid out of the state treasury, upon warrants drawn by the controller, in the same manner as the salaries of other state officers are paid.

§ 4. All acts and parts of acts in conflict with this act are hereby repealed.

ENFORCEMENT OF LABOR LAWS.

ACT 2403—An act to provide for the enforcement of labor laws of the state of California by the commissioner of the bureau of labor statistics.

History: Approved May 24, 1915. In effect August 8, 1915. Stats. 1915, p. 814.

Commissioner of bureau of labor statistics to enforce labor laws.

§ 1. The commissioner of the bureau of labor statistics shall have authority and power to enforce any and all labor laws of the state of California, the enforcement of which is not specifically vested in any other officer, board or commission, and the deputies and agents of the said labor commissioner shall have the power and authority of sheriffs and other peace officers to make arrests, and to serve any process or notice throughout the state in the enforcement of such labor laws, pursuant to the instructions of said commissioner.

PROTECTION OF WAGES OF LABOR ACT OF 1868.

ACT 2404—An act to protect the wages of labor.

CONVERSION OF FIXTURES.

ACT 2465—An act to more fully define the crime of larceny.

History: Approved March 6, 1872, Stats. 1871-72, p. 232. See Act 2466.

Grand larceny.

§ 1. Every person who shall convert any manner of real estate of the value of fifty dollars and upwards into personal property, by severing the same from the realty of another, with felonious intent to and shall so steal, take, and carry away the same, shall be deemed guilty of grand larceny, and upon conviction thereof shall be punishable by imprisonment in the state prison for any term not less than one year nor more than fourteen years.

Petit larceny.

§ 2. Every person who shall convert any manner of real estate of the value of under fifty dollars into personal property, by severing the same from the realty of another, with felonious intent to and shall so steal, take, and carry away the same, shall be deemed guilty of petit larceny, and upon conviction thereof shall be punishable by imprisonment in the county jail for a period not more than one year, or by fine not exceeding one thousand dollars, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

Editor's note: This act penalized as grand larceny the act of removing fixtures from realty and converting the same into personalty, with intent to steal the same. The Penal Code made the same act larceny, but brought the degree of the crime within the rules of that code as to the determination of such degree. See Kerr's Cyc. Penal Code, § 495. As to whether the act was superseded by the code, neither the code commission nor the supreme court have expressed an opinion; but the supreme court has referred to it as an act supplementary to the "crimes and punishments act" of 1850, as Act 2466 is declared to be by the legislature, and the court has decided that the latter act, passed by the same legislature, is in force unaffected by the codes.

1. Allegation that ore taken was severed from the ground.—It is not necessary that the information should allege that the ore taken had been severed from the ground.—People v. Opie, 123 Cal. 294, 55 Pac. 983, 55 Pac. 989.

GOLD-DUST, AMALGAM, QUICKSILVER.

ACT 2466—An act supplementary to an act entitled "An act concerning crimes and punishments," passed April sixteenth, eighteen hundred and fifty.

History: Approved March 20, 1872, Stats. 1871-72, p. 435.

Grand larceny.

§ 1. Every person who shall feloniously steal, take, and carry away, or attempt to take, steal, and carry from any mining claim, tunnel, sluice, undercurrent, riffle-box, or sulphurate [sulphuret-] machine any gold-dust, amalgam, or quicksilver, the property of another, shall be deemed guilty of grand larceny, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by imprisonment in the state prison for any term of not less than one year nor more than fourteen years.

Act takes effect when.

§ 2. This act shall be in force from and after its passage.

The act makes the stealing of gold ore grand larceny, whether severed from the earth, or not, by the party charged.—People v. Opie, 123 Cal. 294, 11 Pac. 801.

1. Act construed.—The act must be construed as having been passed subsequent to the adoption of the Penal Code, and as in force.—People v. Salvator, 71 Cal. 16, 11 Pac. 301, 11 Pac. 801.

LEASES.

CONTENTS OF CHAPTER.

ACT 2483. CERTAIN LEASES CONFIRMED AND RATIFIED.

CERTAIN LEASES RATIFIED AND CONFIRMED.

ACT 2483—An act concerning confirming and ratifying leases and other contracts made by any officer or boards of officers of this state.

History: Approved March 23, 1901, Stats. 1901, p. 601.

Ratification of leases made by state officers, etc.

§ 1. All leases for terminal facilities made or executed by any state officer or board of state officers to any person, persons or corporation within two years prior to the passage of this act and which shall be on file in the office of the secretary of state on or before February fifteenth, nineteen hundred and one, are hereby recognized, approved and ratified, and the terms, covenants and conditions thereof shall bind the parties thereto, their successors and assigns and the state of California.

China basin lease ratified.

§ 2. The lease of the lands known as China basin in the city and county of San Francisco to the San Francisco and San Joaquin Valley Railway Company for terminal facilities, made on November twenty-first, nineteen hundred, by and between said company and the board of state harbor commissioners, is hereby approved and ratified, and the covenants, conditions and terms thereof shall bind the parties thereto, their successors and assigns, and the state of California.

Repeal of conflicting acts.

§ 3. All acts and parts of acts in conflict herewith are hereby repealed.

§ 4. This act shall take effect immediately.

1. Constitutionality—Act applicable to all leases of tideland.—This act being general in its terms, applicable to all leases of tidelands made by a certain class of municipalities, is not invalid as special legislation.—San Pedro, etc., Co. v. Hamilton, 161 Cal. 610, 37 L. R. A. (N. S.) 686, 119 Pac. 1073.

2. Constitutionality — Leasing of reclaimed tidelands.—Section 3 of article XV of the constitution, does not forbid the legislature to lease reclaimed tidelands within two miles of an incorporated town or city, nor to ratify a lease already made by a state officer or board, as was done by this act.—San Pedro, etc., Co. v. Hamilton, 161 Cal. 610, 37 L. R. A. (N. S.) 686, 119 Pac. 1073.

3. Words and phrases—A “lease” not a “grant.”—The word “grant” in section 3, article XV, of the constitution, is to be taken in its ordinary and generally accepted sense, particularly where it is used in connection with the word “sale,” as there, and so interpreted, it does not include a lease.—San Pedro, etc., Co. v. Hamilton, 161 Cal. 610, 37 L. R. A. (N. S.) 686, 119 Pac. 1073.

ACT 2488—An act in relation to the currency of the United States.

History: Approved March 12, 1880, Stats. 1880, p. 8. [Ban. ed. p. 28.]

Legal-tender notes to be received at par.

§ 1. All legal-tender notes heretofore issued, or which may hereafter be issued, by the government of the United States of America, as legal-tender notes, shall be received at par in payment for all taxes due or to become due to this state, or to any county or municipal corporation thereof, and such notes shall be a legal tender for all debts, dues, and demands between citizens of this state.

Repeal of conflicting acts.

§ 2. All acts, and the provisions of any act or parts of acts, conflicting with this act are hereby repealed.

§ 3. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

As to what money constitutes a legal tender, see Kerr's Cyc. Civil Code, § 1478 and note.

1. Lien may be paid in any kind of money.—The lien of a street assessment may be paid in any kind of money, notwithstanding the board of supervisors provided that the assessment should be payable in gold coin.—Perine, etc., Co. v. Quackenbush, 104 Cal. 684, 38 Pac. 533.

CHAPTER 193.

LEGISLATION.

CONTENTS OF CHAPTER.

ACT 2494. LEGISLATIVE COUNSEL BUREAU.

2495. INVESTIGATION OF HIGHWAY LEGISLATION.

LEGISLATIVE COUNSEL BUREAU.

ACT 2494—An act to establish a legislative counsel bureau and making an appropriation therefor.

History: Approved May 26, 1913. In effect August 10, 1913, Stats. 1913, p. 626. Amended April 10, 1915. In effect August 8, 1915. Stats. 1915, p. 49. May 31, 1917. In effect July 30, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 1398.

Legislative counsel bureau created.

§ 1. A bureau is hereby created to be known as the legislative counsel bureau, which shall be in charge of a chief, who shall be a civil executive officer and who shall be known as the legislative counsel of California and who shall be appointed by the governor and who shall hold during the pleasure of the governor. The legislative counsel shall be chosen without reference to party affiliations and solely on the ground of fitness to perform the duties of his office. [Amendment of May 31, 1917. In effect July 30, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 1398.]

Duty of legislative counsel.

§ 2. It shall be the duty of the legislative counsel to prepare and assist in the preparation, amendment and consideration of legislative bills when requested or upon suggestion as herein provided. Upon request he shall advise any state officer, commissioner or bureau as to the preparation of bills to be submitted to the legislature; and when requested so to do, he shall advise as to their work with any legislative committee appointed to carry on investigations between sessions of the legislature. He shall advise the legislature from time to time as to needed revision of the statutes. He shall present to each session of the legislature a statement calling attention to laws which have been repealed by implication or which have been declared unconstitutional by the courts but which have not been expressly repealed. It shall also be the duty of the legislative counsel, whenever in his judgment there is reasonable probability that an initiative measure will be submitted to the voters of the state of California under the laws of the state relating to the submission of measures by initiative, to co-operate with the proponents of said measure in the preparation of said law when requested in writing so to do by twenty-five or more electors proposing such a measure. [Amendment of May 31, 1917. In effect July 30, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 1398.]

This section was also amended April 10, 1915, Stats. 1915, p. 49.

Preparation of legislative bills.

§ 3. The legislative counsel shall prepare or assist in the preparation or amendment of legislative bills at the suggestion, in writing and as herein set forth, of the governor of the state, or of any judge of the supreme court or of the district courts of appeal or of the superior courts of the state, or of any committee of the senate or assembly of the legislature of the state. All such suggestions shall set forth the substance of the provisions desired or which may be needed with the reasons therefor. Such suggestion by a judge of the supreme court shall be filed with the clerk of that court. Such suggestion by a judge of a district court of appeal shall be filed with the clerk of that court. Such suggestion by a judge of a superior court shall be filed with the clerk of the district court of appeal of the district within which such superior court is located. When such suggestion is so filed with the clerk of the supreme court or of a district court of appeal, that clerk shall make and send to the permanent office of said bureau a certified copy of such suggestion, and all other suggestions shall be filed at said office, and all such papers so received at such office shall be there permanently filed and recorded and copies furnished to the legislative counsel. The legislative counsel shall prepare a bill in accordance with such suggestion and shall transmit it to the chairman of the judiciary committee of each house at the next succeeding session of the legislature.

Not to urge legislation.

From the time the legislature of the state convenes until it is adjourned finally, the legislative counsel shall give such consideration to and service concerning any bill before the legislature, as circumstances will permit, and which is in any way requested by the governor of the state or the senate or the assembly or any committee of the legislature having such bills before it for consideration, and after such adjournment the legislative counsel shall still remain so subject to such request by the governor of the state as to any bill still in his hands for rejection or approval or other action. Neither the legislative counsel nor any employee of the bureau shall oppose or urge legislation, but the bureau shall, upon request, and so far as may be in its power, aid and assist any member of the legislature as to bills, resolutions and measures, drafting the same into proper form and furnishing to them the fullest information upon all matters in the scope of the bureau. Neither the legislative counsel nor any other employee of the bureau shall reveal to any person outside thereof the contents or nature of any matter which has not become a public record, except with the consent of the person bringing such matter before the bureau. [Amendment of May 31, 1917. In effect July 30, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 1399.]

Office in capitol. Temporary office.

§ 4. The legislative counsel shall be in attendance upon all sessions of the legislature and his permanent office shall be in the state capitol in Sacramento, where he shall be provided with suitable and sufficient offices convenient to the chambers of the two houses of the legislature. For the convenience of members of the legislature, however, and when in his judgment the conduct of his work requires, he may maintain temporary offices at other places in the state of California. [Amendment of May 31, 1917. In effect July 30, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 1400.]

Salaries.

§ 5. The salary of the legislative counsel shall be four thousand dollars per annum and shall be payable in equal monthly installments. The legislative counsel shall have authority to employ and to fix the compensation of such professional assistants and such clerical and other employees as he may deem to be necessary for the effective conduct of the work under his charge. The salary of the legislative counsel and of every other employee of the bureau shall be paid in the same way as the salaries of other state officers are paid. The legislative counsel shall be repaid all actual expenses incurred or paid by him in carrying out the provisions of this act. [Amendment of May 31, 1917. In effect July 30, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 1400.]

Material available to bureau.

§ 6. The material (including books and other publications) of the state library shall be made available to said bureau, and all the officers of the state, the University of California, and all departments, commissions and bureaus and other official state organizations, and all persons connected therewith, shall give the legislative counsel ready access to their records and full information and reasonable assistance in any matters of research requiring recourse to them or to data within their knowledge or control. The bureau may co-operate with any of the educational institutions of the state in any manner approved by the legislative counsel and such institutions. [Amendment of May 31, 1917. In effect July 30, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 1400.]

Books, records, etc.

§ 7. All books, papers, records and correspondence of said bureau pertaining to its work, except copies furnished to or retained by the chief of what is filed at the permanent office of said bureau, and except memoranda made by him, shall be public records and shall be filed with and recorded and kept at the permanent office of said bureau, except as herein otherwise provided.

Papers kept confidential.

§ 8. Any and all persons receiving service from said bureau, as herein provided, may by request in writing filed with the bureau have all their personal papers and correspondence temporarily kept private and confidential, but said papers and correspondence shall become public records whenever the said board or the legislature shall so order or said written request is withdrawn.

Unexpended balance available.

§ 9. The unexpended balance of the moneys heretofore appropriated for the support and salaries of the legislative counsel bureau by an act entitled "An act making appropriations for the support of the government of the state of California for the sixty-seventh and sixty-eighth fiscal years," approved May 19, 1915, is hereby made available to carry out the provisions of this act. [Amendment of May 31, 1917. In effect July 30, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 1401.]

INVESTIGATION OF HIGHWAY LEGISLATION.

ACT 2495—An act providing for an investigation by the legislative counsel of laws relating to roads, streets, highways and bridges, and for the submission of a report thereon to the governor for presentation to the legislature.

History: Approved March 25, 1919. In effect July 22, 1919. Stats. 1919, p. 18.

Report on road laws by legislative counsel.

§ 1. The legislative counsel is hereby directed to investigate and study the existing laws of this and other states relating to roads, streets, highways and bridges, and to prepare a report, accompanied by a draft of an act or acts, codifying and perfecting the laws of this state relating thereto. Such report shall be printed by the superintendent of state printing and shall be submitted to the governor on or before the first day of November in the year 1920, and shall be presented by him to the legislature at the opening of its forty-fourth session.

LEVEE DISTRICT ACT OF 1905.

ACT 2508—An act to provide for the formation of levee districts in the various counties of this state, and to provide for the erection of levees, dikes and other works for the purpose of protecting the lands within such districts and overflow and to levy assessments to erect and construct and maintain such levees, dikes and other works and to pay the necessary costs and expenses of maintaining said districts.

History: Approved March 20, 1905, Stats. 1905, p. 327. Amended March 16, 1907, Stats. 1907, p. 333; April 28, 1911, Stats. 1911, p. 1212; May 22, 1917. In effect July 27, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 824. Prior act of March 10, 1891, Stats. 1891, p. 30, repealed March 9, 1893, Stats. 1893, p. 111, which put the subject of improving innavigable streams in the manner specified in the hands of boards of supervisors. See Kerr's Cyc. Political Code, § 4085, prior to its change of number to § 4042, by Stats. 1907, p. 372, which section is substantially the same as § 52 of the county government act of 1897.

§ 1. An act to provide for the formation of levee districts in the various counties of this state and to provide for the erection of levees, dikes and other works for the purpose of protecting the lands within such districts from overflow and to levy assessments, to erect and construct and maintain such levees, dikes and other works and to pay the necessary costs and expenses of maintaining said districts, approved March 20, 1905, is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

Petition to supervisors for formation of levee district. Resolution of intention. Publication of notice.

§ 2. Whenever the board of supervisors of any county in this state shall receive a petition signed by a majority of the land owners within any portion of said county, accompanied by a deposit sufficient to cover the cost of publication of all notices required by sections 2 and 3 of this act, which said portion of said county shall be specifically described and set out by metes and bounds in said petition, asking that said portion of said county be set apart and erected into a levee district for the purpose of protecting the lands embraced in said portion of said county from overflow from any river, stream or streams, or watercourse, the board of supervisors shall pass a resolution signifying its intention to erect and set apart said portion of said county into a levee district, for the purpose of protecting the lands therein from overflow and describing the exterior boundaries of the district of lands embraced therein, and to be assessed to pay the damages, costs and expenses thereof. Such resolution shall also contain a notice to be published, which said notice shall be headed, "Notice of intention of the board of supervisors to form a levee district," and shall state the fact of the passage of such resolution, with the date thereof, the boundaries of the district, and the statement that it is proposed to assess all properties embraced within such proposed levee district for the purpose of paying the damages, costs and expenses of erecting and repairing dikes, levees and other improvements to protect the said lands from overflow, and the necessary expense of maintaining the said district and refer to the resolution for further particulars. Such notice to be given by the board of supervisors and signed by its clerk. Petitions shall be heard in the order of filing. [Amendment approved March 16, 1907, Stats. 1907, p. 333. In effect immediately.]

Term of publication.

§ 3. Such notice shall be published for a period of thirty days, in a newspaper published and circulated in said county and designated by said board of supervisors. [Amendment approved March 16, 1907, Stats. 1907, p. 334.]

Objections to formation of district. Time for hearing.

§ 4. Any person interested, objecting to the formation of such levee district or to the extent of the district of lands to be affected or benefited by erection or repair of such dikes, levees or other improvements to protect the same from overflow, and to be assessed to pay the costs and expenses thereof, may make written objections to the same within ten days after the expiration of the time of the publication of said notice, which objection shall be delivered to the clerk of said board of supervisors, who shall indorse thereon the date of its reception by him, and at the next regular meeting of said board of supervisors or at an adjourned meeting or a special meeting called for that purpose, after the expiration of said ten days lay such objections before said board of supervisors, said board shall then fix a time for hearing of said objections not less than fifteen days thereafter and direct its clerk to notify each person objecting of such day fixed for hearing, by depositing a notice thereof in the postoffice at the county seat of such county, postage prepaid addressed to such person objecting, which said notice shall be deposited in the postoffice not less than ten days before the day set for hearing. [Amendment approved March 16, 1907, Stats. 1907, p. 334.]

Hearing.

§ 5. At the time specified or to which the hearing may be adjourned, the board of supervisors shall hear the objections urged and pass upon the same. Such board may, in its discretion sustain, in whole or in part, any or all of the objections made and filed, and must declare such levee district as petitioned for formed as a subdivision of such county, and shall designate such district by name as the "—— Levee District of —— County." [Amendment approved March 16, 1907. Stats. 1907, p. 334. In effect immediately.]

Declaration of supervisors.

§ 6. If it shall appear to the satisfaction of the board of supervisors that it is the desire of a majority of the owners of land in such proposed district that the same should be erected into a levee district, and that it is just and proper, they may declare said territory a levee district for the above purposes, and record the same in a book to be kept for that purpose, giving the metes and bounds. [Amendment approved March 16, 1907, Stats. 1907, p. 334. In effect immediately.]

Notice of election of trustees. Who may vote. Conduct of election.

§ 7. Within ten days after the board of supervisors have declared the territory a levee district and recorded the same as provided in section 5 of this act, the board of supervisors must give notice of an election to be held in the said district, for the election of three eligible persons, who shall be property owners in said district and, who shall constitute when elected and qualified, the board of trustees of the district for the management of the affairs thereof, and who shall hold office for two years next succeeding their election, and until their successors are elected and qualified. The notice calling such election shall not be less than one month, and at such election every qualified elector in said district whose names shall appear on the last preceding assessment-roll of the county and having been assessed on property within the boundaries of said district, shall be entitled to vote, and a majority of votes cast at such election shall elect. The board of supervisors must appoint a time and place for holding such election. The notice of such election shall be given by publication for not less than one month, in a newspaper in the county where such district is situated. For the purpose of such election the board of supervisors of the county in which said district is situated must appoint from the qualified electors and property owners of said district, one inspector and two judges of election for such district; but in case the board of supervisors fail to appoint, or the persons appointed, fail to attend at the time and place appointed for such election, the voters present at the time and place of opening the polls may appoint the board or supply the place of the absent member thereof. Each member of the board of election must before entering upon his duties, be sworn to faithful performance thereof by some officer authorized to administer oaths. The board of election must canvass the votes cast, and issue certificates of election to the persons elected, and must place the ballots when canvassed in an envelope, and forward the same sealed to the clerk of the board of supervisors. Any legally qualified voter may challenge any vote, and the board of election shall determine, by the oath of the parties or otherwise, as they may think proper, whether or not the person challenged is entitled to vote, and in case of challenge, either one of the board of election is hereby authorized to administer oaths. The polls shall be open from 10 a. m. until 4 p. m. In case of vacancy in the board of trustees, the board of supervisors shall by appointment fill such vacancy. Similar elections shall be held every two years from and after the date of the first election, and shall be called in the same way as the first election. [Amendment approved March 16, 1907, Stats. 1907, p. 335. In effect immediately.]

Board of trustees must keep office. Powers of trustees. Yearly estimate of costs. Report to board of supervisors.

§ 8. The board of trustees must keep an office in or near the district for the transaction of the business thereof, and the books, maps, papers, records, contracts and other documents pertaining to the affairs of the district must be open for inspection to any person interested at all times. From and after the election and qualification of said trustees said district shall be deemed organized and shall have power to sue or be sued. The board of trustees shall have power to elect one of its members president thereof, to employ engineers and others, to survey, plan, locate and estimate the cost of the works and improvements necessary, in the way of erection or repair of levees, dikes and other works for the benefit of said district; to thereafter and at any time in its discretion modify or change said original plan or plans or to adopt any new supplemental or additional plan or plans, when in its judgment the same shall become necessary; to acquire by purchase, condemnation or otherwise, rights of way, and the right to take material for the construction of all works necessary for the accomplishment of the objects of the district including drains, levees and embankments, and to construct, maintain and keep in repair all works, requisite and necessary to that end; and to do all other acts and things necessary or required for the protection of the lands in said district from the overflow of any river, stream, streams or watercourse, and to employ the service of any person legal or otherwise which in the judgment of said board of trustees may be necessary to the welfare of the district. The said board of trustees shall each year estimate the total cost for all purposes of erecting, constructing or repairing levees, dikes or other works, and doing the necessary things for the protection of the lands and property within said district from the overflow of any river, stream, streams or watercourse, and maintain the same for one year, including all damages awarded to any person by reason of the erection or construction of any of said levees, dikes or other works for protection, and shall thereupon make a report of the foregoing matters to the board of supervisors in which said district is situated, showing the amount of money required by said district for all purposes for one year thereafter. Said estimate of moneys necessary for said district for each year, and said report shall be made to said board of supervisors by said board of trustees on or before the first day of September of each year after the formation of said district and said estimate made as aforesaid and report to said board of supervisors by said board of trustees as hereinbefore set out, shall in each instance form the basis of the estimates of the board of supervisors for the amount of money required to be raised by assessment on the lands and personal property within such district for such year. [Amendment of May 22, 1917. In effect July 27, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 825.]

This section was also amended March 16, 1907, Stats. 1907, p. 336.

Duty of county assessor.

§ 9. The county assessor of such county shall, on or before the 1st day of September of each year after the formation of such district, and at such other times as the board of supervisors shall require, furnish said board of supervisors with a detailed statement showing the names of all owners of land and personal property within the boundaries of said district and the assessed valuation of said lands, improvements thereon, and personal property, as shown on the last preceding assessment-roll, made by such assessor on the property within said district. [Amendment approved March 16, 1907, Stats. 1907, p. 336. In effect immediately.]

Annual tax levy.

§ 10. At the time when by law it is the duty of the board of supervisors of such county to fix the annual tax rate of such county, the said board of supervisors taking as a basis the last previous estimate and report of said board of trustees of said district as hereinbefore specified, for the amount of money necessary to be raised in said district for the purposes thereof for that year, and the valuation of the lands and improvements thereon, and personal property within such district as furnished them by the county assessor, must levy a tax upon all taxable property in such levee district sufficient to raise the amount set forth in said estimate and report as made by said board of trustees.

The rate of taxation shall be ascertained by deducting twenty per cent for anticipated delinquency from the aggregate value of all the property in said district as shown by the statement prepared and furnished to said board of supervisors by the assessor as hereinbefore provided, and then dividing the amount necessary to be raised in said levee district by the remainder of such aggregate assessed value as shown in said statement as furnished by said assessor. The taxes so levied shall be computed and entered upon the assessment-roll of the county by the county auditor and collected at the same time, and in the same manner as state and county taxes; and when collected shall be paid into the county treasury for the use of said levee district in which said taxes were levied. And all taxes so levied as hereinbefore provided shall be a lien upon the lands and property in said district, in the manner, and with the same effect, and collected in the same way, as are state and county taxes. [Amendment approved March 16, 1907. Stats. 1907, p. 336. In effect immediately.]

Disposition of moneys collected. Payment of claims.

§ 11. All moneys collected from such district for such taxes, and all moneys received from any source for the benefit of such district shall be by the county treasurer placed in a fund, to be called the "— Levee District Fund"; and all payments of any of the expenses of the work or improvements or other expenses of such district shall be made upon warrants drawn by the county auditor upon such fund, and paid by said treasurer, and all claims as well for the land and improvements taken or damaged, as for the charges and expenses of said district, shall be paid on claims prepared in the manner required by law for the preparation of claims against the county and first presented to the board of trustees of said district, and be by them approved, and then to be presented and filed as are the claims against the county, and shall thereupon be paid as are the claims against the county, and upon the order of the board of supervisors, and the claims shall be itemized in the same manner as are the claims against the county. [Amendment approved March 16, 1907. Stats. 1907, p. 337. In effect immediately.]

Construction must be by contract; exception. Sealed bids. Emergency work. Plans and details.

§ 12. No levees, dikes or other works for the benefit of said district must be constructed or repaired except on the order of the board of trustees of said district and when such repair or construction will exceed the sum of $500 the same must be repaired or constructed under a contract, let, after reasonable notice given by the said board of trustees by publishing said notice at least once a week for two weeks in a newspaper published and circulated in said county and designated by said board of trustees. All bids shall be sealed and shall be opened at the time specified in the notice, and the contract awarded to the lowest responsible bidder. The board may however, reject any and all bids. The contract and bond for its performance must be entered into and approved by the board of trustees, except however in cases of great emergency, by the unanimous consent of the whole board of trustees they may proceed at once to replace or repair any and all levees, dikes or other works of whatever nature without notice. Prior to the publication of the notice of the letting of any contract for the erection or repair of dikes, levees or other works, the board of trustees must cause to be prepared by a competent engineer, plans and specifications and working details of such work, which said plans and specifications shall be adopted by the board of trustees and filed in the office of said board and shall be subject to inspection by any person for at least two weeks prior to the date of the letting of such contract. The board of trustees must appoint an engineer to supervise the construction, repair or other works to be done under such plans and specifications and no claim shall be allowed for any work done under any contract let under such plans and specifications without a certificate being first filed in the office of the board of trustees and in the office of the clerk of the board of supervisors of said county signed by said engineer, certifying that such work has been completed and constructed according to the plans and specifications and the terms of the contract. Such engineer shall be paid such compensation as may be agreed upon by the board of trustees and such compensation shall be paid in the same manner as are other claims against said district. [Amendment approved March 16, 1907. Stats. 1907, p. 337. In effect immediately.]

When county may contribute to expenses.

§ 13. Whenever the board of supervisors of any county in which said district is situated shall consider that the construction or repair of dikes, levees or other works of said district along or upon any of the county roads of such county, will be for the mutual benefit of such district and such county, then in that event the said board of supervisors shall have power, and may contribute to the expense and cost of such work, such sums of money as they may deem proper on behalf of the county, and such moneys shall be paid out of either the general road fund or the special fund of any road district, in which said work is done, and as a majority of said board of supervisors may determine. [Amendment approved March 16, 1907. Stats. 1907, p. 338. In effect immediately.]

Bond of trustees.

§ 14. The board of trustees elected under this act shall serve without compensation, and shall each file a bond for the faithful performance of their duties in the sum of $5,000 said bond to be approved by the judge of the superior court of the county in which said district is situated. [Amendment approved March 16, 1907. Stats. 1907, p. 338. In effect immediately.]

Power to condemn land.

§ 15. The board of trustees shall have power, in the name of the district to condemn land, or other property, for the purpose of erecting levees, dikes and other improvements or obtaining material for the same for the purpose of protecting the lands embraced in said district from overflow, and for that purpose, all of the provisions of Part III, Title VII of the Code of Civil Procedure are hereby made applicable to exercise of the right of eminent domain for such purpose to the needs of such district. [Amendment approved March 16, 1907. Stats. 1907, p. 338. In effect immediately.]

Not to supersede other acts.

§ 16. This act is not intended to supersede or repeal any other act for the construction and maintenance of ditches, levees, dikes or works of protection or for drainage or for reclamation but is intended as an independent and alternative means of constructing and erecting such districts, levees, dikes or other works of protection where most applicable and desirable to the parties interested. [Amendment approved March 16, 1907. Stats. 1907, p. 338. In effect immediately.]

Land in different counties may form a levee district.

§ 17. Levee districts may be formed, governed and maintained under this act where the land embraced therein shall be situate partly in different counties, and all the preceding sections hereof shall be applicable to such districts, except as herein provided, and nothing hereinafter contained shall in any manner limit or qualify the first sixteen sections of this act. In such districts, except as hereinafter provided, all acts and duties required to be performed by any county officer or board shall be done or performed by the officer or board of the county in which the petition mentioned in section 1 shall be filed. All sections subsequent hereto in this act shall refer to districts situate partly in different counties. [New section approved April 28, 1911. Stats. 1911, p. 1212.]

Petition filed in county of larger portion of land.

§ 18. In districts situate partly in different counties the petition mentioned in section 1 shall be filed with the board of supervisors of the county in which the greater portion of the land to be embraced within such district is situate, and such board shall have the same jurisdiction for all the purposes of this act as if all the land of the district were situate within the county, except as in this act otherwise provided. [New section approved April 28, 1911. Stats. 1911, p. 1212.]

Designation.

§ 19. At the time and after the proceedings mentioned in section 4 hereof, such board of supervisors must declare such levee district formed as a subdivision of such counties and shall designate such district by the name of — joint levee district of — and — counties. [New section approved April 28, 1911. Stats. 1911, p. 1212.]

Declaration forwarded to all supervisors of counties represented.

§ 20. Upon the recording of the declaration that the levee district is formed as required by section 6 hereof, a copy thereof, duly certified by the clerk of the board of supervisors, must be immediately transmitted to the clerk of the board of supervisors of each other county in which any portion of such district may be situate, which shall be kept in the office of such last named clerk. [New section approved April 28, 1911. Stats. 1911, p. 1213.]

Publication of election notice.

§ 21. The notice of election mentioned in section 7 shall be published for the time designated therein in a newspaper published in each county in which any portion of such district is situate. [New section approved April 28, 1911. Stats. 1911, p. 1213.]

Division of estimate among counties.

§ 22. The board of trustees of such joint district shall divide the total estimate provided for in section 8 hereof, in proportion to the value of the real and personal property of the district in each county. Such value to be determined by the equalized values of the last assessment-rolls of such counties. The board of trustees shall, after the approval of the estimate as provided in said section 8, report, as provided in said section, to the board of supervisors of each of such counties, on or before the first day of September of each year, and furnish each of such boards of supervisors such estimate, together with a statement of the part thereof apportioned to each county. [New section approved April 28, 1911, Stats. 1911, p. 1213.]

Applicable to assessors and supervisors of each county.

§ 23. The provisions of section 9 shall apply to the county assessors and boards of supervisors of each county in which any portion of the district may be situate, so far as the portion of such district in such county is concerned. [New section approved April 28, 1911. Stats. 1911, p. 1213.]

To officers of each county.

§ 24. The provisions of section 10 shall apply to the officers of each county in which any portion of such district is situate. [New section approved April 28, 1911. Stats. 1911, p. 1213.]

Treasurer of county in which petition was filed to be repository of funds.

§ 25. The treasurer of the county in which the petition mentioned in section 1 was filed, and in which the district was organized, shall be the repository of the funds of the district. The treasurers of any other counties in which is situate a portion of said district, must, at any time, not more often than four times each year, upon the order of the board of trustees, pay over to the treasurer of the county where said petition mentioned in section 1 was filed, all moneys in their possession belonging to the district. Said last named treasurer is authorized and required to receive and receipt for the same, and to place the same to the credit of the district. All moneys of the district received from any source shall be by him placed in a fund to be called the — joint levee district of — and — counties. [New section approved April 28, 1911. Stats. 1911, p. 1213.]

Under section 3489 of the Political Code, as amended by Stats. 1877-8, 62, levee districts theretofore formed were authorized to reorganize as therein provided. This applies also to swamp land and reclamation districts.

See Protection Districts; Reclamation Districts; Swamp and Overflowed Lands.

1. A public corporation.—A levee district organized by the board of supervisors under the authority of an act of the legislature is a public corporation whether the legislature in terms declares it a corporation or not.—Dean v. Davis, 51 Cal. 406; Hoke v. Perdue, 62 Cal. 545.

2. Petition—Sufficient—Majority of owners not required to sign.—A petition for the formation of a levee district under the act of 1891 was sufficient if signed by a majority of the freeholders within the district owning lands along the stream, and the signature of a majority of the owners of land subject to overflow was not required.—De Baker v. Batcheller, 97 Cal. 472.

3. Publication of notice—Sufficient.—The publication of the petition under the act of 1893, showing the boundaries of the proposed district with minute detail was not defective because of the failure to publish a plat, where the petition as published contained a provision that "the proposed boundaries of said district are shown approximately by the plat thereof hereunto annexed."—De Baker v. Batcheller, 97 Cal. 472.

VALIDATION ACT OF 1915.

ACT 2509—An act to validate the organization and formation of levee districts.

History: Approved May 29, 1915. In effect August 8, 1915. Stats. 1915, p. 948.

Levee districts validated.

§ 1. All levee districts, the organization and formation of which, have been authenticated by an order or declaration of a board of supervisors in this state declaring the same a levee district, such declaration or order being recorded in a book kept for that purpose, as required by law, and which levee districts thereafter have acted in the form and manner of levee districts under the provisions of "An act to provide for the formation of levee districts in the various counties of this state, and to provide for the erection of levees, dikes and other works for the purpose of protecting the lands within such districts from overflow and to levy assessments to erect and construct and maintain such levees, dikes and other works and to pay the necessary costs and expenses of maintaining said districts," approved March 20, 1905, and the amendments thereto are hereby declared to be and to have been levee districts from the date of the recording of the declaration or order of the board of supervisors; and all the acts of said levee districts heretofore performed according to the act aforesaid are hereby validated and declared as legal.

BEAR RIVER DISTRICT NO. 1.

ACT 2510—An act to organize a levee district in Yuba, Sutter and Placer counties, and to provide for the construction, maintenance and repair of levees therein.

History: Approved March 30, 1878, Stats. 1877-78, p. 732.

"LEVEE DISTRICT NO. 1 OF SACRAMENTO COUNTY."

ACT 2511—An act to organize levee district No. 1, Sacramento county, and to provide for its government.

History: Approved March 30, 1878, Stats. 1877-78, p. 853. Amended April 15, 1880, Stats. 1880, p. 65.

1. Words and phrases—"More beneficial."

—The phrase "more beneficial" in section 15 of the act indicates that all the lands of the district are benefited in some degree and the power to assess "upon the lands" given in § 1456, Political Code, is a power only to assess all the lands, and the commissioners have no power to declare that some of the lands of the district are not benefited and omit such lands from the assessment.—Levee District, etc., v. Huber, 57 Cal. 41.

LEVEE DISTRICT NUMBER ONE OF SUTTER COUNTY.

ACT 2511a—An act to define the boundary, provide for the care, strengthening, and repairing of the levee, and for the payment of the indebtedness of Levee District Number One of Sutter county.

History: Approved March 20, 1874, Stats. 1873-74, p. 511. Amended (1) April 1, 1878, Stats. 1877-78, p. 914; (2) March 19, 1889, Stats. 1889, p. 355; (3) March 23, 1901, Stats. 1901, p. 629; (4) February 23, 1907, Stats. 1907, p. 47; (5) March 13, 1911, Stats. 1911, p. 347. The district was originally created by an act approved March 25, 1868, Stats. 1867-68, p. 316.

See Act 2513 and notes.

1. Constitutionality—Section 20 of act of 1868—Section 20 of the act of 1868 is unconstitutional in so far as it authorizes the board of supervisors, in their discretion, to remit a portion of the district taxes in a levee district.—Wilson v. Board of Supervisors, 47 Cal. 91.

2. Same—Section 21 of the act of 1868.—Section 21 of the act of 1868 was unconstitutional, a district formed thereunder has no rights, and is not protected from collateral attack, and the commissioners of such district are not estopped from disputing the validity of the bonds in a proceeding in mandamus to compel the levy of a tax to pay the principal and interest of the bonds, by retaining the benefits of the proceeds of such sale of bonds.—Brandenstein v. Hoke, 101 Cal. 131.

3. Act of 1868 imposed tax, not assessment for benefits—The act of 1868 imposed a tax and not an assessment for benefits.—People v. Whyler, 41 Cal. 351.

See, also, Hoke v. Perdue, 2 Cal. Unrep. 28.

4. Same—A tax levied by Levee District No. One of Sutter county to pay principal and interest on outstanding bonds of the district is not an assessment for benefits, but a tax.—Southern Pacific Co. v. Levee District No. 1, 172 Cal. 345, 349.

5. Local tax on properties of railroad company—The only form of local tax upon the operative properties of a railroad company, included in a levy district, which may be levied and collected by such district under section 14, article XIII, of the constitution, is a tax levied to pay the principal and interest of a bonded indebtedness created and outstanding at the time the section went into effect.—Southern Pacific Co. v. Levee Dist. No. 1, 172 Cal. 345, 353.

6. Power of board of supervisors of Sutter county under act of 1868—The board of supervisors of Sutter county had no power, under the act of 1868, to construct a levee in Colusa county.—Moulton v. Parks, 64 Cal. 166.

7. Tax paid by railroad company, right to recover—Where a railroad company pays into the state treasury the entire amount of the state tax under the provisions of section 14, article XIII, of the constitution and the acts passed to carry the same into effect, and afterwards pays a levee district tax to the district under protest, after the controller has refused to turn over to the district its proportion of the tax paid, it is entitled to recover it back.—Southern Pacific Co. v. Levee District, etc., 172 Cal. 345.

History: Approved March 31, 1891, Stats. 1891, p. 237. Amended February 23, 1907, Stats. 1907, p. 56.

See Act 2511a and notes.

1. Levee district not a municipal corporation.—A levee district is not a "municipal corporation within the meaning of the constitution of 1879, prohibiting the passing of a special act creating or recognizing such a corporation, but a corporation belonging to a class by itself, which the legislature might recognize by special act and give it a legal existence though originally formed under a void law.—People ex rel Silva v. Levee District, etc., 131 Cal. 30; Reclamation District No. 70 v. Sherman, 11 Cal. App. 399.

2. Levee district—Legislative recognition of existence.—By the present act the legislature recognized the existence of the levee district, notwithstanding the fatal irregularity of its formation under the invalidated act of 1868, as it was empowered to do and such recognition was sufficient to invest the district with the functions and attributes which it had assumed to exercise under that act and gave it a legal existence.—People ex rel Silva v. PALO VERDE JOINT LEVEE DISTRICT—VALIDATION.

ACT 2515—An act to validate bonds of Palo Verde joint levee district of Riverside and Imperial counties, California, and all proceedings relating thereto.

History: Approved May 16, 1919. In effect July 22, 1919. Stats. 1919, p. 541.

Bonds of Palo Verde joint levee district validated.

§ 1. Bonds in the amount of one million two hundred eighty-five thousand nine hundred fifty-one and eighty-six hundredths dollars of the Palo Verde Joint Levee District of Riverside and Imperial counties, California, and all the acts and proceedings of said district and of the board of trustees thereof and of the board of supervisors of Riverside county, California, and of the officers of said county leading up to and including the authorizing of said bonds and also the issuance of two hundred fifty-six thousand dollars of said bonds already sold are hereby legalized, ratified, confirmed and declared valid to all intents and purposes, and said bonds in the amount of two hundred fifty-six thousand dollars already sold, and the remainder of said bonds when issued and sold, shall be, and are hereby, declared to be legal and valid obligations of said district, and the faith and credit of said district is hereby pledged for the prompt payment and redemption of the principal and interest of said bonds, and said bonds by their issuance shall be conclusive evidence of the regularity of all proceedings leading up thereto.

LEVEE AND PROTECTION DISTRICTS—REFUNDING ACT OF 1897.

ACT 2516—An act to provide for the funding and refunding of the indebtedness of levee and protection districts.

History: Approved April 1, 1897, Stats. 1897, p. 424.

Levee or protection districts, funding or refunding indebtedness. Form of bond. Coupons.

§ 1. The board of directors or trustees of any levee or protection district having an outstanding indebtedness of not less than twenty thousand dollars, evidenced by bonds or warrants of such district, by a vote of two-thirds of all the members thereof, are empowered, if they deem it for the best interest of such district to fund and refund the same, or any part thereof, and issue bonds of such district therefor, in sums of not less than one hundred dollars nor more than one thousand dollars each, having not more than twenty years to run, and bearing a rate of interest not exceeding seven per cent per annum, payable semi-annually, which bonds shall be substantially in the following form:

No. ——. (Name of district), in the county of —, state of California, for value received, promises to pay —, or order, at the office of the treasurer of said district, in —, California, on or before the first day of —, 19—, the sum of — dollars, in gold coin of the United States, with interest at the rate of — per cent per annum, payable at the office of said treasurer semiannually, on the first day of — and — in each year, on presentation and surrender of the interest coupons hereto attached. This bond is issued by the board of — of said district in conformity with a resolution of said board, dated the — day of —, eighteen hundred and —, and under authority conferred upon said board by the provisions of an act of the legislature of California, entitled "An act to provide for the funding and refunding of the indebtedness of levee and protection districts," approved (insert date of approval of the act).

In testimony whereof, the said district, by its board of —, has caused this bond to be signed by the chairman of said board, and attested by the auditor of — county, with his seal of office attached, this — day of — 18—. _____,

Chairman of said Board.

Attest: —, Auditor of — county.

And the interest coupons shall be in the following form:

The treasurer of (name of district) will pay to the holder hereof, on the — day of —, 1—, at his office in —, — dollars, gold coin, for interest on bond of said district numbered —.

Bonds, general provisions relating to.

§ 2. Bonds issued under this act shall be numbered consecutively, signed by the chairman of the board of directors, or trustees, as the case may be, and delivered to the auditor of the county in which the levee or protection district is situated, who shall countersign the same and affix thereto his official seal, and shall by him be delivered to the treasurer of the district, who shall deliver to such auditor his receipt therefor, and said treasurer shall stand charged in his official bond with all bonds delivered to him and the proceeds thereof, and he shall sell the same or exchange them under the direction of the board of directors or trustees of such levee or protection district, on the best available terms, for any legal indebtedness of such district, but in neither case for a less sum than the face value of the bonds and all interest accrued thereon at the date of such sale or exchange; and if any portion of such bonds are sold for money, the proceeds thereof shall be applied exclusively to the payment of liabilities existing against the district at the date last above named. When they are exchanged for bonds or warrants or other legal evidences of district indebtedness, the treasurer shall at once cancel such evidences of indebtedness by indorsing thereon the amount for which they were received, the word "canceled" and the date of cancellation. He shall keep a record of all bonds sold or exchanged by him, by number, date of sale, amount, date of maturity, the name and postoffice address of purchasers, and, if exchanged, what evidences of indebtedness was received therefor, which record shall be open at all times for public inspection. No such bonds shall be sold or exchanged for any indebtedness of the district except by the approval of the board of directors or trustees thereof.

Tax levy to pay bonds and interest.

§ 3. The board of directors or trustees shall cause to be assessed and levied each year upon the assessable property of the district, in addition to the levy authorized for other purposes, a sufficient sum to pay the interest on outstanding bonds, issued in conformity with the provisions of this act, accruing before the next annual levy, and such proportion of the principal, that at the end of five years the sum raised from such levies shall equal at least twenty per cent of the amount of bonds issued, at the end of nine years at least forty per cent of the amount, and at and before the date of maturity of the bonds shall be equal to the whole amount of the principal, and the money arising from such levies shall be known as the bond fund, and shall be used for the payment of bonds and interest coupons, and for no other purpose whatever; and the treasurer shall open and keep in his books a separate and special account thereof, which at all times shall show the exact condition of said bond fund.

Provision for redemption of bonds.

§ 4. Whenever there shall be in the bond fund of such district a surplus of five hundred dollars or more, over and above the interest maturing before the next levy, the treasurer shall give notice for two weeks in one or more newspapers of general circulation, printed and published in the county in which such district is situated, stating the amount of such surplus, and that on the day and hour named in such notice, sealed proposals will be received at his office for the surrender of bonds of the district, and shall at the time and place named open the proposals and accept the lowest bid; provided, that no bid shall be accepted for an amount exceeding the par value of such bonds with accrued interest; if bids are not offered, at par, or less, sufficient to exhaust the amount on hand applicable to redemption, the treasurer shall publish for the same time and in the same manner a notice that he will redeem a bond or bonds of said district, giving the number or numbers thereof, and that if not presented for redemption within thirty days after the date of the first publication of such notice, the interest thereon will cease, and the amount due thereon will be set aside for the payment of such bond or bonds whenever presented. If any such bond be not so presented, interest thereon shall cease, and the amount due thereon shall be set aside as specified in said notice. All redemption of bonds other than those voluntarily surrendered shall be made in the exact order of their issuance, beginning with the lowest or first number.

BOND ACT OF 1911.

ACT 2517—An act authorizing levee districts of the state to incur a bonded indebtedness for the purpose of building, constructing, or repairing levees of the district; or for excavating and constructing ditches or canals of such districts; or for the purpose of acquiring rights of way for any such levees, ditches, or canals; or for any and all of said purposes.

History: Approved March 8, 1911, Stats. 1911, p. 303. Amended (1) May 29, 1915; in effect August 8, 1915, Stats. 1915, p. 914; (2) May 22, 1917; in effect July 27, 1917, Stats. 1917, p. 809.

Levee district may issue bonds.

§ 1. Any levee district formed or organized by or under the laws of California, may incur a bonded indebtedness for the purpose of building, constructing, or repairing the levee or levees of such district; or in excavating or constructing any ditches or canals in such district, or other protective works; or to purchase and acquire any levee or levees, ditches or canals, or other reclamation works already constructed or in process of construction; or for the purpose of acquiring rights of way for any such levee, or ditches, pipe-lines or canals; or for building, repairing and constructing any and all kinds of work in water and river channels, wherever situate, as ancillary to land and levee protection, including the straightening of river channels, or diverting waters from the dikes and levees themselves, or the lands they are protecting, and in general for doing any and all work of every character and description for the purpose of securing, protecting, guarding and preserving the lands protected, and the dikes, levees, ditches, excavations or other protective works; or for any and all of said purposes, or for any or more of said purposes.

Report of engineer.

Whenever it shall become necessary in the opinion of the board of trustees of any such levee district to build, construct, or repair any levee for the protection of the lands of the district from overflow; or to excavate or construct any ditches or canals, or to purchase or acquire any levee or levee system or parts thereof then constructed or in process of construction; or for acquiring rights of way for either of such purposes of building, constructing, or repairing the levee or levees of such district; or in excavating or constructing any ditches or canals in such district, or other protective works, or to purchase and acquire any levee or levees, ditches, or canals or other reclamation works already constructed or in process of construction; or for the purpose of acquiring rights of way for any such levee, or ditches, pipe-lines, or canals; or for building, repairing any and all kinds of work in water and river channels, wherever situate, as ancillary to land and levee protection, including the straightening of river channels, or diverting waters from the dikes and levees themselves, or the lands they are protecting, or in general for doing any and all work of every character and description for the purpose of securing, protecting, guarding and preserving the lands protected, and the dikes, levees, ditches, excavations or other protective works, or for any and all of said purposes, or for any one or more of said purposes, the trustees of such levee district shall, by resolution, employ some civil engineer, and direct him to make a report in writing to said board of trustees, containing his recommendations as to the best method of doing said work. Said report shall show:

1. A description of the work to be done, including all ancillary work.

2. The plans, profiles, cross sections and specifications of the work required.
3. A general description of the lands required for rights of way for the work, if any such are required.
4. An estimate of the expenses of such work, including an estimate of the cost of acquiring rights of way for such work, should such rights of way be required.
5. An estimate of the cost or value of any levee or levees, ditches or canals already constructed or in process of construction, or advisable or proposed to be acquired as part of the proposed system, including all work necessary to be done for the protection of said main works and ancillary thereto, and including moreover the amount necessary for the maintenance of the work proposed to be done for the first year.
6. An estimate of all incidental expenses likely to be incurred in connection with the work, such as clerical, engineering, inspection, printing and advertising. [Amendment of May 22, 1917. In effect July 27, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 809.]

Adoption of report.

§ 2. After the report of the engineer provided for in the next preceding section has been filed with the board of trustees of such levee district, said board shall consider the same and shall have power, by resolution, to adopt the same as filed by said engineer, or to modify or change the same, and to adopt the same as so modified or changed, and said report shall be adopted as originally presented if not modified or changed, but if modified or changed it shall be adopted as so modified or changed. [Amendment of May 22, 1917. In effect July 27, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 811.]

Notice of adoption. Publication.

§ 3. Within ten days after the adoption of the report as provided in section two of this act, the board of trustees of such levee district shall give notice thereof as herein-after provided. Such notice shall specify a day and hour when and a place where any and all persons may appear before said board and show cause, if any they have, why said work provided for in said report should not be carried out in accordance therewith, said time to be not less than twenty nor more than forty-five days from the adoption of said report.

Said notice shall briefly outline the proposed work, and shall refer to the said report on file with said board for a particular description of the work to be done. Such notice shall be given by conspicuously posting in three of the most public places within said district, and publishing in some newspaper printed and published in the county where said district is situated, or if said district is situated in more than one county then by posting in three of the most public places in that portion of the district, situated in each county and by publishing in a newspaper printed and published in each of the counties wherein any portion of said district is situated, for a period of three weeks prior to the day of hearing. Said publication shall be made once a week for three consecutive weeks in a newspaper of general circulation published in the county where said district is situated. If said district comprises land situated in more than one county, then once a week for three consecutive weeks in a newspaper of general circulation in each of the counties where said lands are situated. It shall not be necessary that publication shall be made on the same day of the week in each of the three weeks, but not less than sixteen days, including the day of the first publication, shall intervene between the first publication and the last publication, and publication shall be complete on the date of the last publication. [Amendment of May 22, 1917. In effect July 27, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 811.]

Affidavit of publisher. Objections.

§ 4. At the time mentioned in the notice provided for in section 3 of this act, to wit: At the time specified in said notice, at which the taxpayers of the district are notified to appear before the board to show cause why the work provided for in the report adopted by the board should not be carried out, there shall be filed with said board an affidavit that such notice has been posted as provided for in said section 3, and an affidavit of the printer or publisher, or the principal clerk of such printer or publisher of the newspaper or newspapers in which said notice has been published, showing that such notice has been published as provided for by said section 3. Said board of trustees or directors, before proceeding with said hearing, shall cause to be entered upon the minutes of the meeting an order reciting that such notice of said hearing has been posted and published according to law, and such recitals shall be conclusive evidence of the facts therein recited. Said board shall thereupon proceed with the hearing of any objections which shall have been made in writing and filed with said board not later than the hour fixed for said hearing as specified in said notice, and no other objections shall be considered. Said hearing may be continued from time to time by said board, and all parties interested shall be deemed to have notice of said continuances. All objection to the performance of the work specified in said report must be in writing, and must state the objector's grounds of opposition and must be signed by the objector; and objections which do not comply with these requirements shall not be considered by said board.

Board may confirm resolution.

§ 5. The board of trustees shall have power to set aside, modify, or confirm the resolution provided for in section two of this act; in case the board shall decide that it will be for the best interests of the district to proceed with the work, it shall, by resolution, so declare; and in case the said original plan of the work shall have been modified or changed, the board shall direct the engineer of the district to estimate the cost of the work in accordance with the plan so modified or changed, and to report the same to the board. The engineer of the district shall thereupon, in case such original plan shall have been changed or modified, make a report to the board in accordance with the modifications or changes adopted by it, and such report must show:

Report of engineer.

1. A description of the work to be done as changed or modified by the board, including all ancillary work.
2. The plans, profiles, cross sections and specifications of the work as so changed or modified by the board.
3. A general description of the lands required for rights of way for the work, if any such are required.
4. An estimate of the expense of such work in accordance with the plan so modified or changed by the board, including an estimate of the cost of acquiring rights of way for such work, if any such rights are acquired.
5. An estimate of the cost or value of any levee or levees, ditches or canals already constructed or in process of construction, proposed to be acquired as part of the proposed system.
6. An estimate of all incidental expenses likely to be incurred in connection with the work as planned, such as clerical, engineering, inspection, printing and advertising, including all work necessary to be done for the protection of said main works, and ancillary thereto, and including furthermore the amount necessary for the maintenance of the work proposed to be done, for the first year. [Amendment of May 22, 1917. In effect July 27, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 811.]

Reapproval of report.

§ 6. If, after the hearing provided for in section 4 of this act, the report of the engineer as finally adopted under the provisions of section 2 of this act, has not been changed or modified by said board, the board shall, by resolution, finally reapprove and readopt said report in all respects as approved and adopted under the provisions of said section 2; in case, after such hearing, the report of the engineer as finally adopted under the provisions of said section 2 has been changed or modified by said board, the board shall, by resolution, finally reapprove and readopt said report as so changed or modified; and in either case the resolution reapproving and readopting said report shall state the amount of the entire estimate of the expense of such work.

Bonds for levee districts. Order for election. Notice of election. Oath of election officers.

§ 7. Whenever in the judgment and opinion of the board of trustees in said district it would be for the best interests of said district, or the land owners therein, to issue bonds for the purpose of obtaining money to pay the cost of construction of said levee or levees, ditches or canals, or other protective works, or to purchase in whole or in part any system of levee, or levees, ditches or canals already constructed or in process of construction, or for any of the purposes set forth in section one of this act, or when a petition requesting them so to do, signed by the owners of more than one-half of the land of the district, is filed with the secretary of the board, the board of trustees of such district shall, by order entered upon the records of said board, order a special election to be held for the purpose of submitting the question of the issuance of bonds to the taxpayers of said district. Said order shall specify the amount of bonds it is proposed to issue which, in any case, shall not exceed the entire estimate of the expense of the work as planned, shall specify the rate of interest to be paid, not exceeding seven per cent, and the number of years, not exceeding forty, the whole or any part of said bonds are to run, and shall name a time and place for the holding of such election, which place shall be at some convenient place in the district. In the case of joint levee districts the said order shall specify a polling place within the district in each county, in which a portion of the district lies. The board shall also appoint one inspector, two judges and one clerk to conduct said election at each and every polling place designated, all of whom must be electors and taxpayers of said district. Notice of such election shall be given by publication, in a newspaper printed and published in the county in which said district or some part thereof is situated once a week for at least three weeks prior to such election. If said district is situated in more than one county, then publication shall be made in a newspaper printed and published in each county wherein a portion of said district is situated, and the provisions relating to publication provided in section three hereof shall apply, and such notice must contain a time and place for the holding of such election, the names of the election officers to conduct the same, and amount and denominations of the bonds, the rate of interest to be paid, and the number of years, not exceeding forty, the whole or any part of said bonds are to run. If any election officer appointed by said board and named in such notice is not present at the time for the opening of the polls, the voters present may appoint an election officer to take the place of such election officer so absent. Before opening the polls each officer of election must take and subscribe an oath faithfully to perform the duties imposed upon him by law. Any voter of the district may administer and certify such oath.

Manner of voting. Count of votes.

The polls shall be kept open for receiving votes from ten o'clock a. m. until four o'clock p. m. At such election any voter qualified to vote for the election officers of said district and none other shall be permitted to vote thereat, and such election shall be held as nearly as practicable in conformity with the general election law of the state, except that no sample ballot need be sent out, except that registration shall not be required, and except also that persons voting at such bond election shall put a cross (X) upon the ballots with pencil or ink after the words: "bonds—yes" and "bonds—no" (as the case may be) to indicate whether they have voted for or against the issuance of the bonds. The said ballots shall be of the form: "bonds—yes" and "bonds—no," or words of similar import, together with a general statement of the amount and purpose of the bonds to be issued.

At the close of the polls the board or boards of election shall at once proceed to count the votes and declare the result, and shall forward a certificate showing the same and the number of votes cast for and against the issuance of the bonds to the clerk of the board of supervisors of the county in which the greater portion of the lands of said district is situated, and deliver a duplicate thereof to the board of trustees of the district, and shall also deliver to the clerk of the said board of supervisors all ballots cast at such election, and all documents and papers used at such election.

Contest of election.

Any person owning land situated in said district may contest said election within twenty days after the result thereof has been declared by the board of supervisors, by filing a complaint in the superior court of the county where said land is situated, and if no contest shall be commenced within said time the declaration of the result by the board of supervisors shall be final and conclusive.

Canvass of returns.

The returns of such election shall be canvassed and the result declared by the board of supervisors of the county to whom said returns of election are made, at a special meeting called for that purpose or at the next regular meeting of such board after such election. No ballot shall be rejected because of any distinguishing marks made thereon. If a majority of the voters of the district voting at such election shall vote in favor of the issuance of bonds, the board of supervisors shall be, and it is, authorized and directed to issue bonds of said district to the number and amount provided in such proceedings, payable out of the bond fund of such district, naming the same, and provide that the money shall be raised by taxation upon the taxable property in said district for the redemption of said bonds and the payment of interest thereon, provided that the total amount of bonds so issued shall not exceed the entire estimate of the expense of the work as planned or determined by section one, together with the expense of the maintenance of said works for one year after their completion.

Duty of board of supervisors.

The board of supervisors to whom said returns of election are made, by an order upon its minutes shall prescribe the form of said bond and the interest coupons attached thereto, and provide whether the same shall be paid in lawful money of the United States or in gold coin, and fix the time when the whole or any part of the principal of said bonds shall be payable, which shall not be more than forty years from the date thereof; and said bonds shall be issued in sums of not less than one hundred dollars nor more than one thousand dollars each, and shall not have more than forty years to run, and shall bear interest at a rate not exceeding seven per cent per annum, payable semiannually, and said bonds shall be substantially in the following form:

Bonds to be numbered and signed.

§ 8. Bonds issued under this act shall be numbered consecutively, signed by the chairman of the board of supervisors and attested by the county auditor, who shall affix thereto his official seal. The coupons shall be numbered consecutively and signed by the treasurer by original, or engraved, or lithographed facsimile signature, and the bonds and coupons shall be payable at the office of the county treasurer. In case any officer whose signature or attestation or countersignature appears on any bonds or coupons thereof issued under the provisions of this act shall cease to be such officer before the sale or delivery of said bonds to the purchaser thereof, such signature, countersignature or attestation appearing either on the bonds or the coupons or on both shall nevertheless be valid and sufficient for all purposes, the same as if such officer had remained in office until the sale or delivery of such bonds. [Amendment of May 22, 1917. In effect July 27, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 816.]

Sale of bonds.

§ 8a. Said bonds must be sold in the manner prescribed by the board of supervisors, but for not less than par. The board of supervisors may sell all the bonds of said issue at one time, or may sell less than the whole, to wit, any part thereof, at one time, and from time to time. In the event the whole, or any part of said issue of bonds, may be offered for sale at one time, the board of supervisors may sell either the whole or any lesser number of the bonds so offered for sale. All moneys realized from the sale of said bonds shall be placed on deposit with the county treasurer to the credit of the bond fund of said district, and shall not be expended for any purpose other than that for which said bonded indebtedness was incurred as specified in section one of this act. [New section added May 22, 1917. In effect July 27, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 816.]

Action to have bonds declared valid. Summons.

§ 8b. As soon as said bonds shall have been delivered to said county treasurer, the board of trustees, or any holder of title, or evidence of title, including possessory rights, to lands contained in the district, may, in order to determine that said bonds are a legal obligation of the district, institute a proceeding therefor in the superior court of the county in which the district was organized by filing with the clerk of said county a complaint setting forth that on a date therein named bonds of said district were delivered to the said treasurer, stating the amount of such bonds, and praying that such bonds be adjudged to be a valid legal obligation of such district. The summons in such proceeding shall be served by publishing a copy thereof once a week for four weeks in some newspaper of general circulation published in each county in which any of the lands contained in said district are located. Within thirty days after the last publication thereof shall have been completed and proof thereof filed with the court, any person interested may appear and answer said complaint, in which case said answer shall set forth the facts relied upon to show the invalidity of said bonds. If no answer shall be filed within said time, the court must render judgment as prayed for in the complaint. If an answer be filed the court shall proceed as in other civil cases. Said proceeding is hereby declared to be a proceeding in rem and the judgment rendered therein shall be conclusive against all persons whomsoever and against the state of California. In the event said district comprises lands situated in more than one county, such action shall be brought in the superior court of the county in which the larger portion of the district is situated.

Treasurer's record.

The treasurer of the county shall keep a record of all bonds by number, date of sale, amount, date of maturity, and the name and post-office address of the purchaser when known, which record shall be open at all times for public inspection. [New section added May 22, 1917. In effect July 27, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 817.]

Bonds exempt from taxation.

§ 8c. Any bonds issued by any levee district under the provisions of this act are hereby given the same force, value and use as bonds issued by any municipality and shall be exempt from all taxation within the state of California.

Bonds legal investment.

The bonds of levee districts issued pursuant to this act may be lawfully purchased or received in pledge for loans by banks, trust companies, guardians, executors, administrators, and special administrators, or by any public officer or officers of this state, or of any county, city, or city and county, or other municipal or corporate body within the state, having or holding bonds which they are allowed by law to invest or loan. [New section added May 22, 1917. In effect July 27, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 817.]

Tax to pay interest and principal.

§ 9. In addition to any other estimate which the board of trustees may be required by law to make and to submit to the board of supervisors of the county in which said district is situated, the board of trustees, on or before the first day of September of each year, shall certify to the board of supervisors, if said district is situated in one county, but if it comprises lands situated in more than one county, then the respective boards of supervisors of each county within which lands of said district are situated, the amount of interest upon all outstanding bonds to grow due within the said year, and the amount of moneys necessary to redeem any or all outstanding bonds that may grow due in said year. At the time when by law it is the duty of the board of supervisors of said county to fix the annual tax rate of such county, said board of supervisors must levy a tax upon the taxable property situated in such levee district, for the interest and redemption of said bonds, and such tax must not be less than sufficient to pay the interest on said bonds for that year and such portion of the principal as is to become due during such year, and such proportion of the principal that at the end of ten years the sum raised from such levies shall equal at least twenty-five per cent of the amount of bonds issued, at the end of twenty years at least fifty per cent of the amount, and at and before the date of the maturity of the bonds shall be equal to the whole amount of the principal, and the money arising from such levies shall be known as the bond fund, and shall be used for the payment of bonds and interest coupons and for no other purpose whatever; and the county treasurer shall open and keep in his book a separate and special account which, at all times, shall show the exact condition of such bond fund.

Levy and collection. Lien on property.

Such tax shall be levied on all property in the territory comprising the district, and shall be collected at the same time and in the same manner and form as county taxes are collected, and when collected shall be held by the treasurer for the credit of said district, to be paid by orders of such treasurer issued under the authority of and signed by the president of the board of trustees of said district. Such taxes shall be a lien on all the property within the territory comprising the district, and of the same force and effect as other liens for taxes, and its collection shall be enforced by the same means and in the same manner as provided for in the enforcement of liens for county taxes.

Levy and collection of tax when land situated in more than one county.

In the event the said district comprises land situated in more than one county, then said estimate shall be furnished to the board of supervisors of each of the counties within which said lands of said district are situated. In such case at the time when by law it is the duty of the board of supervisors of said respective counties to fix the annual tax rate of each county, it shall be the duty of the board of supervisors of each of said counties respectively to levy a tax upon the taxable property in such levee district as may be situated in said county for the interest and redemption of said bonds, and such tax must not be less in the aggregate than sufficient to pay the interest on said bonds for that year and such portion of the principal as is to become due during such year, and such portion of the principal that at the end of ten years the sum raised from such levies shall equal at least twenty-five per cent of the amount of bonds issued, at the end of twenty years at least fifty per cent of the amount, and at and before the date of maturity of the bonds shall be equal to the whole amount of the principal, and the money arising from such levies shall be known as the bond fund and shall be used for the payment of bonds and interest coupons and for no other purpose whatever. The county treasurer of each county shall open and keep in his book a separate and special account which shall at all times show the exact condition of such bond fund. Such tax shall be levied on all property in the territory comprising the district situated in said county, and shall be collected at the same time and in the same manner and form as county taxes are collected, and when collected shall be held by the treasurer of each of said counties. Upon the first days of January, April, July and October of each year succeeding the date of issuance of said bonds, the county treasurer of each county, other than the county wherein the larger portion of the lands of said district is situated, shall transmit to the county treasurer of the county in which the larger portion of the lands of said district is situated all sums then in his possession in said bond fund, and the county treasurer of the county in which the larger portion of the lands of said district is situated shall issue his receipt therefor. Such taxes shall be a lien upon all the property within the territory comprising the district, and of the same force and effect as other liens for taxes, and the collection of said taxes shall be enforced by the same means and in the same manner as provided by law for the enforcement of liens for county taxes. [Amendment of May 22, 1917. In effect July 27, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 818.]

This section was also amended May 29, 1915, Stats. 1915, p. 916.

Redemption of bonds.

§ 10. Whenever there shall be in the bond fund of such district a surplus of one thousand dollars or more, over and above the interest maturing before the next levy, the treasurer shall give notice for two weeks in one or more newspapers of general circulation, printed and published in the county in which such district is situated, stating the amount of such surplus, and that on the day and hour named in such notice, sealed proposals will be received at his office for the surrender of bonds of the district, and shall at the time and place named open the proposals and accept the lowest bid; provided, that no bid shall be accepted for an amount exceeding the par value of such bonds with accrued interest; if bids are not offered at par, or less, sufficient to exhaust the amount on hand applicable to redemption, the treasurer shall publish for the same time and in the same manner a notice that he will redeem a bond or bonds of said district, giving the number or numbers thereof, and that if not presented for redemption within thirty days after the date of the first publication of such notice, the interest thereon will cease, and the amount due thereon will be set aside for the payment of such bond or bonds whenever presented. If any such bond be not so presented, interest thereon shall cease, and the amount due thereon shall be set aside as specified in said notice. All redemption of bonds other than those voluntarily surrendered shall be made in the exact order of their numbering, beginning with the lowest or first number. [Amendment of May 22, 1917. In effect July 27, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 819.]

Act full authority for issuance and sale of bonds. Levee district fund.

§ 11. This act shall without reference to any other act of the legislature of the state of California be full authority for the issuance and sale of the bonds in this act authorized, which bonds shall have all the qualities of negotiable paper under the law merchant, and when executed by the officials as provided in this act in conformity with the provisions of this act, and when sold in the manner prescribed therein and the consideration therefor received by the county treasurer for the benefit of said district, shall not be invalid for any irregularity or defect in the proceedings for the issuance and sale thereof, and shall be incontestible in the hands of bona fide purchasers or holders thereof for value. The moneys obtained from the sale of such bonds shall be by the county treasurer placed in a fund to be called the "..... levee district fund," and all payments of any of the expenses of the work or improvements for which said bonded indebtedness was incurred shall be paid out upon warrants drawn by the board of trustees of said levee district. [New section added May 22, 1917. In effect July 27, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 820.]

Old § 11. This act shall take effect immediately.

This section was not repealed, although a new section was added and given the same number.

SACRAMENTO RIVER WEST SIDE LEEVE DISTRICT.

ACT 2518—An act to create a levee district to be called and designated Sacramento river west side levee district; to prevent the overflow of flood waters from the Sacramento river from flooding onto the lands within said district by the construction of levees along the west bank of the Sacramento river and adjacent thereto and maintain the same; providing for the election and appointment of officers of said levee district; defining the powers, duties and compensation of such officers; and providing for levying and collecting assessments upon the lands within said levee district.

Commissioners.

§ 2. The officers of said district shall consist of a board of five levee commissioners who shall hold office for the term of four years from and after their election and qualification and until their successors have been elected and qualified. Said levee commissioners shall be selected from the district at large and each of them must at the time of his election be the owner of at least forty acres of land in said district, the test of his qualification as such commissioner to be such land ownership and not residence in the said district.

Election. Notice of election. Election officers. Determination of acreage for purpose of election. Vote by proxy. Polls open. Ballots. Certificate illegally issued. Commissioner takes office.

§ 3. An election shall be held within forty days after the date upon which this act shall take effect, and on the last Monday of October of every fourth calendar year thereafter, at which election said commissioners shall be elected. Said first election shall be called by the reclamation board created by that certain act of the legislature of the state of California, entitled: "An act approving the report of the California debris commission transmitted to the speaker of the house of representatives by the secretary of war on June 27, 1911, directing the approval of plans of reclamation along the Sacramento river or its tributaries or upon the swamp lands adjacent to said river, directing the state engineer to procure data and make surveys and examinations for the purpose of perfecting the plans contained in said report of the California debris commission and to make report thereof, making an appropriation to pay the expenses of such examinations and surveys, and creating a reclamation board and defining its powers," approved

December 24, 1911, or such board as may by law be made its successor. Said reclamation board shall also designate the voting place for said first election and for all succeeding elections. Notice of the time and place of holding all elections shall be given by said reclamation board by publication once a week for two weeks next preceeding such election, in some newspaper published in Colusa county and also in some newspaper published in Yolo county. In the first election the reclamation board shall, prior to the election, procure from the assessors of said counties of Yolo and Colusa, respectively, a list certified by such assessors, respectively, containing a description of all the lands of the district situated in such counties, the name of the person to whom each tract is assessed and the acreage thereof as it appears from the last prior assessment roll of said counties, which said list shall be furnished to and be used by the board of election hereinafter described in determining the number of votes each voter is entitled to cast. In all elections said reclamation board shall appoint an inspector and two judges of election, who shall constitute a board of election for such voting place. At the first election of commissioners each owner of land within said levee district as above defined, shall be entitled to cast one vote, in person or by proxy, for each commissioner to be elected therein for each acre of land or fraction thereof owned by such landowner within said district, such acreage to be determined by the aforesaid assessment roll of the county in which the same is situated. In case of town lots, or where the acreage is not stated, the board of election officers shall determine the amount of acreage therein. The estates of minors, incompetents, deceased persons and beneficiaries under a trust shall be represented by the guardian, executor, administrator or trustee in person. Where a tract is situated partly within and partly without the boundaries of such district, and the assessment roll contains the acreage of said tract of land as a whole, the same must be apportioned according to the number of acres lying within and without the boundaries of said district. In the case of all elections after the first election hereinbefore provided for, each landowner in said district shall be entitled to cast one vote, either in person or by proxy, for each commissioner to be elected therein for each dollar, or fraction thereof, assessed against his land, as shown by the first assessment list in said district as prepared by the assessors and heretofore filed with the reclamation board, as provided in section six of this act, or in the event that said assessment list has been equalized by the said reclamation board before the time of said election, then as shown by the said assessment list so equalized by the reclamation board. No person shall vote by proxy at such election, unless authority to cast such vote shall be evidenced by an instrument in writing, duly acknowledged and certified in the same manner as grants of real property, and filed with the board of election. In case no board of election shall be appointed, or if any member thereof shall fail or refuse to serve, the landowners present at the time of the opening of such election may appoint such board of election or supply the place of an absent member. Each member of the board of election must, before entering upon the discharge of his duties, be sworn to perform them faithfully. Any person entitled to vote at such election may administer the oath. The polls shall be kept open from ten o'clock a. m. till four o'clock p. m. on the day of said election. The board of election must keep a list of the names of the persons voting at such election, together with a statement of the number of votes cast by each, and shall canvass the votes and make a return thereof showing the number of votes cast for each person for levee commissioner and shall return therewith said list containing the names of the landowners voting at such election. Such election shall be by ballot, which ballots must contain the name of the person voting same, the total number of votes cast, the names of the persons voted for and the number of votes cast for each of said persons. The ballots must be inclosed in an envelope by the election board, and delivered, with the election returns, to the said reclamation board, and said reclamation board shall cause a certificate of election to be issued within five days to the person or persons receiving the highest number of legal votes. If a certificate of election shall be issued to any person who has not received the highest number of legal votes, and upon an affidavit being filed by a landowner in the said levee district, setting forth that such person did not receive the highest number of legal votes, and giving the names of the persons who cast illegal votes for such person, and the number of such illegal votes so cast, the said reclamation board shall canvass the election returns, and hear evidence touching the legality of any votes cast, and may revoke such certificate of election and issue a certificate to the person legally elected. Within fifteen days after receiving a certificate of election, and before entering upon the duties of his office, each levee commissioner shall take the oath of office prescribed by law, and file the same in the office of said reclamation board. All vacancies in the board of levee commissioners shall be filled by the said reclamation board, and such appointee shall hold office until the next succeeding election, and the qualification of his successor. Such person shall possess the same qualifications as an elected commissioner. [Amendment of May 26, 1917. In effect July 27, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 1212.]

Officers of board. Meetings. Compensation.

§ 4. The board of levee commissioners shall elect one of their number as president, and shall elect a secretary who may or may not be a member of said board, and an engineer, who shall not be a member of said board, and employ such other persons as may be necessary to assist and advise said board. The office of said board of levee commissioners shall be such place as designated by said board, but the same may be changed by the said board from time to time. The board shall hold regular meetings as the by-laws of the district may provide. At all meetings three of said members shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of any and all business. Special meetings may be called and held at such times and in such manner as the by-laws may provide. Any meeting of the commissioners, at which all members of the board are present, shall be deemed a regular meeting at which any business may be transacted. No commissioner shall be disqualified from participating in any and all proceedings or actions of the board of levee commissioners, except that he shall not cast a deciding vote upon a motion or resolution to pay money or award a contract directly to himself. Each commissioner shall receive ten dollars per day and necessary mileage actually expended while engaged in the performance of his duties.

Powers of board. Report on plans. To acquire levees on west bank.

§ 5. The board of levee commissioners shall have power to adopt by-laws not in conflict with general laws; to appoint an executive committee with such powers as shall not be in conflict with general laws; to employ engineers and others to survey, plan, locate and estimate the cost of the works necessary for the protection of the lands of the district from the flood waters of the Sacramento river overflowing or coming therefrom on the west side of said river; to thereafter, at any time, in its discretion, modify or change such original plan or plans, or adopt new, supplemental or additional plan or plans, when in its judgment the same shall have become necessary; provided, that said board of levee commissioners must report to the said reclamation board such original plan or plans of the work and every new, supplemental or additional plan, if any, together with the estimates of the cost of the works necessary for the protection of the lands of the district, in pursuance of any such plan or plans, together with an estimate of incidental expenses; such plans and estimates shall include the cost of construction and maintenance; to acquire from private persons, reclamation, swamp land, levee or other public agencies or protection districts, or corporations, all rights of way, easements, existing levees, property and material, whether outside or within the limits of the district, necessary or requisite for levees, by donation, contract, purchase or by proceedings under the provisions of title VII, part three of the Code of Civil Procedure of the state of California for condemnation thereof in the name of the district, or any other provision of law in relation to the right of eminent domain; to sue and be sued in the name of said levee district and to do all other acts or things necessary or requisite for the full exercise of its powers or necessary for the promotion of the protection of lands within said levee district from the flood waters of the Sacramento river. It shall be the duty of said board of levee commissioners to take such steps as may be necessary to acquire dominion and control of all levees along or adjacent to the west bank of the Sacramento river and within the said levee district, and to repair the breaks or openings now therein; also to reconstruct all existing levees; also to construct and maintain levees where there may be none, and generally to do all other things that it may deem necessary or requisite to prevent the flood or overflow waters from the Sacramento river flowing over or through the west bank or west levee thereof, either inside or outside of said levee district, entering the lands within said district, or any part thereof, and, for this purpose, to control the levee or levees within said district along the west bank of the said Sacramento river, or any levee or levees outside of said district, as may be necessary, for such purpose; also to construct, reconstruct and repair and maintain and protect such levees, and, for this purpose, to construct and maintain any protection or works of any kind which may be deemed necessary for the purpose of assuring the safety of such levees hereinbefore referred to, with a view of keeping the waters from the Sacramento river flowing onto the lands within said district, or any part thereof.

Assessors. List of lands. Hearing. Approval of assessment.

§ 6. The said reclamation board shall upon receipt of plans and estimates, as above set forth, appoint three assessors, who shall be disinterested persons, and who shall have no interest in any real estate within said levee district, and each of whom, before entering upon his duties, shall make and subscribe an oath that he is not in any manner interested in any real estate within said district, directly or indirectly, and that he will perform the duties of an assessor to the best of his ability. Said assessors must assess upon the land within said levee district the said sum so estimated and reported to the board of levee commissioners, and shall apportion the same according to the benefits that will accrue to each tract of land in said district, respectively, by reason of the expenditure of said sums of money. Said assessors shall make a separate list of the lands so assessed in each county, which list shall contain a description of the tracts of land assessed, by swamp land surveys, legal subdivisions, or other boundaries or references sufficient to identify the same; the name of the owner, if known or if unknown, that fact; the amount of the charge assessed against each tract. No mistake in the name of the owner or supposed owner, of any real estate shall invalidate the assessment. Said lists shall be made in duplicate, each being made as an original, and, when completed, shall be filed with the said reclamation board of the state of California. The said reclamation board shall appoint a time when it will meet for the purpose of hearing objections to said assessment, and notice of such hearing shall be given by publication for two weeks in a newspaper of general circulation published in the county of Yolo, and in a newspaper of general circulation published in the county of Colusa. At any time before the date of such hearing any person interested in any land upon which any charge has been assessed may file written objections to such assessment with said reclamation board stating the grounds of such objections, which said statement shall be verified by the affidavit of such person, or some other person who is familiar with the facts. At said hearing the said reclamation board shall hear such evidence as may be offered in support of said written objection, and may modify or amend the assessment in any particular, or make a re-apportionment of the entire assessment. If the amount of any assessment in said list shall be changed, the said reclamation board shall set a day for hearing objections to said assessment as changed, and shall give notice thereof by publication for two weeks in a newspaper of general circulation published in the county of Yolo, and in a newspaper of general circulation published in the county of Colusa. At such hearing objections in writing may be made by any person interested, and the reclamation board shall proceed to hear the same in the same manner as upon the original hearing. If the amount of any assessment shall again be changed, the said reclamation board shall proceed as before to give notice and to hear objections thereto, and shall proceed in a similar manner until the amount of each assessment shall be finally fixed and approved. The said reclamation board shall then make an order approving said assessment, and shall endorse such order upon such assessment list, and the duplicate original thereof, which said order shall be signed by the chairman of said reclamation board and attested by the clerk or secretary thereof, and such decision of said reclamation board shall be final, and thereafter said original assessment list and duplicate original assessment list shall be conclusive evidence that the said assessment has been made and levied according to law. Immediately after the approval of said assessment, the original shall, by the said reclamation board, be deposited in the office of the county treasurer of Colusa county, and the duplicate original of said assessment list shall be deposited by said reclamation board in the office of the county treasurer of Yolo county.

Charges become lien. Statement that assessment delinquent. Interest.

§ 7. From and after the filing of the original list with the county treasurer of Colusa county, and from and after the filing of the duplicate original list with the county treasurer of Yolo county, the charges assessed upon any tract of land within each respective county shall constitute a lien thereon, and shall impart notice thereof to all persons. No subsequent act or conduct of the commissioners shall invalidate said assessment or lien, but such commissioners may be compelled by mandate or other proper proceeding to perform their duties, as required by law. The list thus prepared and filed must remain in the offices of the respective treasurers for thirty days from such filing, or longer if ordered by the board of levee commissioners, and during the time they so remain, any person may pay the amount of the charge assessed against any tract of land to the treasurer of the county in which such tract is situated, in gold coin of the United States, or in warrants of the district. At the end of thirty days the treasurers must return the lists to the board of commissioners of the district. The said board, from time to time in its discretion, may, by order entered in its minutes, direct the said assessment to be collected and paid in separate installments, of such amounts and at such time, respectively, as the said board may determine. After any order has been made calling in an installment of assessment, the secretary of the said district, for the information of the landowners, shall mail to each landowner, as described in the said assessment list, if his address be known to such secretary, or, if not, then to the county seat of the county in which such land may be situated, a statement stating the amount of the call of such assessment, and stating further that said installment, if unpaid at the expiration of thirty days from the date of such order, shall become delinquent, which said statement shall be mailed by said secretary within ten days after the date of any such order calling in any installment of such assessment, and each installment of assessment, from the time of the order of said board directing the same to be collected and paid, shall bear interest at the rate of seven per cent per annum until paid; if any such installment shall remain unpaid at the expiration of thirty days from the date of the order, then said installment shall become delinquent, together with the accrued interest thereon, and ten per cent of the amount of said installment and interest shall be added thereto, and collected for the use of the district; provided, further, that the commissioners must on the first day of January of each year, order the collection of a sufficient amount of said assessment to pay all warrants that have been issued and outstanding for a period of two years or more, together with the interest on such warrants.

Immediately after the said installment has become delinquent, the board of levee commissioners must publish a notice at least once each week for three weeks in some newspaper of general circulation published in the county or counties in which any land upon which such installment may be delinquent is situated, which notice shall contain a description of the property assessed, the name of the person to whom it is assessed, or a statement that it is assessed to unknown owners, if such be the fact; the amount of the delinquent installment, the amount of the interest at the date of delinquency, the amount of the penalty that has been added as above provided, and a notice that the property assessed will be sold on a date therein stated, at such time and place in said district as the board of commissioners may in said notice designate, to pay said installment with accrued interest and the penalty hereinbefore specified.

Sale of property. Purchase by district. Redemption of property.

At the time stated in said notice, or such other time to which said sale may have been postponed, the commissioners must sell said property to the highest bidder for gold coin of the United States. Out of the proceeds of said sale the commissioners must pay the amount of said installment with the accrued interest thereon and the penalty herein provided for to the county treasurer of the county of Colusa who shall place the same in the proper funds of said district, and the commissioners must pay to the owner of said property any surplus remaining after such payment to said county treasurer. The commissioners may postpone said sale from time to time by a written notice posted at the place of sale. If no bid is made for said property equal to the amount of said installment, accrued interest and penalty, the district shall become the purchaser, and the said property must be struck off to the district for the amount of said installment, accrued interest and penalty. A certificate of such sale shall be executed by the commissioners of said levee district to the purchaser, or to the district, if the property shall have been struck off to the district, and said certificate of sale shall be recorded in the office of the county recorder of the county in which the land sold is situated, or if situated in two counties, then in the office of the county recorder of each thereof. Any person interested in said property may redeem the same at any time within one year after the date of said sale, by paying in gold coin or in warrants of said district, to the county treasurer of Colusa county the amount of said installment with the accrued interest and penalty, and interest on the said sums at the rate of two per cent per month from the date of said sale.

Sale at public auction.

If no redemption shall be made within said one year, the purchaser, or the district, if said property shall have been sold to the district, shall be entitled to a deed executed by said commissioners, and the effect of such deed shall be to convey said property free of all liens and incumbrances, excepting state, county and municipal taxes, and the liens of assessments now levied or which may hereafter be levied by any of the reclamation districts situate within said levee district, or by the Knights Landing Ridge drainage district, and the unpaid balance of said assessment of said levee district, if any, which said balance must be called in and collected in the same manner as other assessments; provided, that where said property shall have been deeded to the district and shall not have been sold by the commissioners, the same shall not be offered for sale for subsequent installments of said assessments so long as the district shall remain the owner of said property, but the commissioners may sell said property at any time at public auction after notice given for the same period and in the same manner as is herein provided for sales for delinquent installments, but not for a sum less than all delinquent unpaid installments with accrued interest and penalties, and the deed executed in pursuance of such sale shall convey said property free of all incumbrances, except state, county and other municipal taxes, the lien of any assessments levied or which may hereafter be levied by any reclamation district within said levee district, or the Knights Landing Ridge drainage district, and the unpaid balance of said assessment.

Land not charged to be charged later. Correction of errors.

In all cases where an assessment has been, or shall hereafter be, levied for any purpose on the lands embraced within said levee district, if, for any reason, any tract or tracts of land shall not have been charged with said assessment, then such tract or tracts of land shall be charged in any subsequent assessment with such proportion of the former assessment as the benefits derived by said lands from the levee works, for which said former assessment was levied, bears to the whole amount of said former assessment; or a subsequent reassessment of such tract or tracts of land may be made separately for the purpose of charging said land with its proper proportion of the costs of levee protection. Such reassessment shall be made by assessors appointed by the reclamation board, as provided by this act, and must be made and approved in the same manner as other assessments. The assessors appointed by the reclamation board must make a list of the charges assessed against each tract of land; and, if there be any error or mistake in the description of the land or in the name of the owner, or if any land which should be assessed has been, or shall be, omitted from the list, or if there is any error or mistake in any other respect, the said assessors may amend or correct the same at any time before the filing of such list with the reclamation board as hereinbefore provided. Where payment is made in warrants of the district, legal interest must be computed thereon from the date thereof to the time of such payment, when said warrants must be surrendered to the county treasurer of the county of Colusa and by him canceled.

In the event that any landowner of the said district shall have paid the amount, or any portion of the amount, assessed against any tract of land before said assessment shall have been adjudged invalid, in whole, or in part, the amount so paid by said landowner, together with legal interest thereon from the date of such payment, shall be a credit and shall be credited by the treasurer of the county where the assessment list is filed, or by said district, or upon any subsequent assessment on the tract of land on which the said invalid assessment was paid, or be applied in satisfaction pro tanto of any such subsequent assessment thereafter levied on said tract.

To whom payments are made.

All installments of assessment, after the original list and the duplicate original have been returned by the respective county treasurers to the board of levee commissioners that may be called in, shall be paid to the secretary of said board of levee commissioners, and the same and also all proceeds from any delinquent sale shall be paid into the county treasury of the county of Colusa, and be placed by the treasurer thereof to the credit of said district, and paid out upon warrants issued by the board of levee commissioners. At any time an assessment on any tract of land may be paid in full, notwithstanding the same has not been called in by the board of levee commissioners.

Moneys deposited in county treasury.

All moneys received from any source by the board of levee commissioners shall be paid by the said board, or the secretary thereof, into the county treasury of Colusa county, and be placed by the treasurer to the credit of the district, and paid out upon the warrants of the board of levee commissioners in the manner hereinbefore provided.

On the first Monday of each month the county treasurer of Yolo county shall transmit to the county treasurer of Colusa county all moneys that may be in his hands to the credit of said district arising from any source, and, likewise, all warrants that may be delivered in payment of any assessment, and all such moneys shall thereupon be placed to the credit of said district by said county treasurer of Colusa county. [Amendment of May 26, 1917. In effect July 27, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 1214.]

Payment of warrants.

§ 8. The warrants drawn by the commissioners must be presented to the treasurer of the county of Colusa, and if they are not paid on presentation, such indorsement must be made thereon and they must be registered and bear interest from the date of such warrants at the rate of seven per cent per annum and shall be payable in the order of their registration. Such warrants are, and shall be, considered as contracts in writing for the payment of money, and the period prescribed for the commencement of an action based upon the said warrants, or connected therewith, is, and shall be, the term of four years from the date of their issuance. Any owner of land in the district may, at any time, pay any assessment thereon, or any part thereof, with warrants of the district. No warrant shall be paid or received on an assessment, except within four years after the date of its issuance. The board of levee commissioners and the county treasurer of Colusa county must cancel all warrants not paid within four years after the date of issuance; provided, that any warrant not paid or received on assessment within four years after date of the issuance may, before the expiration of such four years, upon the demand of the owner or holder, be extended for a like period of four years upon the presentation of the same to the board of commissioners of the district, such extension being indorsed thereon by the said board and a record thereof filed with the county treasurer of Colusa county. Said warrants may also thereafter be renewed from time to time in the same manner.

In case of action on warrant.

In case an action or proceeding, based upon any warrant or connected therewith, be commenced within four years from the date of issuance of such warrant and final judgment be obtained in favor of the owner or holder thereof, such warrant shall be paid or received on assessment in like manner as if it had been paid or received on assessment before the expiration of said four years from the date of its issuance. In any proceedings for a writ of mandate to compel the board of levee commissioners to issue a warrant, if a controversy arises as to the amount that may be due to the plaintiff, the court must determine the same in the manner provided for determining controversies in other civil actions and shall cause a writ to issue for such sum as may be found to be due. At any time after the issuance of a warrant the holder or owner thereof with the consent of the board of levee commissioners may surrender the said warrant, and a new warrant for the face thereof and accrued interest thereon shall thereupon be issued to the owner or holder in the same manner as the original warrant. Whenever there shall be sufficient moneys in the county treasury of Colusa county to the credit of said levee district to pay any warrant or warrants which have been registered and drawing interest, the said county treasurer must give notice by a written notice posted in a conspicuous place in his office, stating therein that he is ready to pay such warrants. From and after the date of posting such notice, such warrants shall cease to draw interest.

Reclamation districts not interfered with.

§ 9. Nothing in this act is intended to, or shall be construed to, authorize or empower the said board of levee commissioners, or the said levee district, in any way to interfere with the management or control of reclamation districts numbers one hundred eight, seven hundred eighty-seven and four hundred seventy-nine, or any of them, or any other reclamation district situate within the boundaries of said levee district, or within the Knights Landing ridge drainage district, or to supersede the powers of any of them, or such districts, or any of them, except as to the control, construction and maintenance of the levee or levees along or adjacent to the eastern line of said levee district, the same being along or near the west bank of the Sacramento river, so as to prevent the overflow of flood waters from said Sacramento river flowing on to the lands within said levee district, or any part thereof, together with such protection or other works that may be necessary to protect the said levee or levees now existing, or that may hereafter be constructed, or reconstructed, or raised, or widened, or any new levee that may be hereafter constructed for such purpose.

§ 10. In case the said reclamation board should be abolished by law, and a new board is created by law, succeeding to the powers thereof, then all the duties to be performed by said reclamation board shall be performed by its legal successor, and if there be no such legal successor, in the event of such abolition, then by the board of supervisors of the county of Colusa.

§ 11. All acts and parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act are hereby repealed.

The amending act of 1917 contained the following section:

Repealed.

§ 3. All acts and parts of acts in conflict with this act are hereby repealed.

ACT 2527. UNDERTAKING FOR COSTS.

UNDERTAKING FOR COSTS.

ACT 2527—An act concerning actions for libel and slander.

History: Approved March 23, 1872, Stats. 1871-72, p. 533. Amended April 16, 1880, Stats. 1880, p. 81.

Undertaking.

§ 1. In an action for libel or slander the clerk shall, before issuing the summons therein, require a written undertaking on the part of the plaintiff in the sum of five hundred (500) dollars, with at least two competent and sufficient sureties, specifying their occupations and residences, to the effect that if the action be dismissed or the defendant recover judgment, that they will pay such costs and charges as may be awarded against the plaintiff by judgment or in the progress of the action, or on an appeal, not exceeding the sum specified in the undertaking. An action brought without filing the undertaking required shall be dismissed.

Sureties.

§ 2. Each of the sureties on the undertaking mentioned in the first section shall annex to the same an affidavit that he is a resident and householder or freeholder within the county, and is worth double the amount specified in the undertaking, over and above all his just debts and liabilities, exclusive of property exempt from execution.

Exception to sureties.

§ 3. Within ten days after the service of the summons, the defendants, or either of them, may give to the plaintiff, or his attorney, notice that they or he except to the sureties and require their justification before a judge of the court at a specified time and place, the time to be not less than five or more than ten days thereafter, except by consent of parties. The qualifications of the sureties shall be as required in their affidavits. [Amendment approved April 16, 1880. Stats. 1880, p. 81.]

Justification.

§ 4. For the purpose of justification each of the sureties shall attend before the judge at the time and place mentioned in the notice, and may be examined on oath touching his sufficiency in such manner as the judge in his discretion shall think proper. The examination shall be reduced to writing if either party desires it.

Approval. New undertaking.

§ 5. If the judge find the undertaking sufficient, he shall annex the examination to the undertaking and indorse his approval thereon. If the sureties fail to appear, or the judge finds the sureties or either of them insufficient, he shall order a new undertaking to be given. The judge may also at any time order a new or additional undertaking upon proof that the sureties have become insufficient. In case a new or additional undertaking is ordered, all proceedings in the case shall be stayed until such undertaking is executed and filed, with the approval of the judge.

Failure to file bond.

§ 6. If the undertaking as required be not filed in five days after the order therefor, the judge or court shall order the action to be dismissed.

Costs.

§ 7. In case plaintiff recovers judgment, he shall be allowed as costs one hundred (100) dollars, to cover counsel fees, in addition to the other costs. In case the action is dismissed, or the defendant recover judgment, he shall be allowed one hundred (100) dollars, to cover counsel fees, in addition to the other costs, and judgment therefor shall be entered accordingly.

2. Act not repealed by the constitution.—The act was not repealed by the adoption of the constitution.—Smith v. McDermott, 93 Cal. 421.

3. Constitutionality.—Not a special law.—The act is not a local or special law, within the meaning of the constitution.—Smith v. McDermott, 93 Cal. 421.

4. Same.—The act is constitutional.—Smith v. McDermott, 93 Cal. 421; Carpenter v. Ashley, 16 Cal. App. 302.

5. Same.—Recovery of counsel fees.—The provision allowing either party to recover counsel fees is constitutional.—Engel v. Ehret, 21 Cal. App. 112.

6. Attorney's fee not costs.—The allowance of one hundred dollars attorney's fee is not costs but a penalty and should be taxed in the statutory amount after final judgment.—Pouchain v. Godeau, 21 Cal. App. 365.

7. Same.—Recovery of counsel fees.—Counsel fees are not recoverable under the Gen. Laws—91 act unless included in the memorandum of costs.—McKinney v. Roberts, 2 Cal. Unrep. 532.

8. Costs.—The amount of recovery of costs in actions for libel and slander is governed by code provisions.—Engel v. Ehret, 21 Cal. App. 112.

9. Same.—Where recovery is less than $300.—The act does not give any costs beyond the amount allowed by the code, and a plaintiff where recovery is less than $300 is not entitled to costs.—Jacobi v. Bauer, 55 Cal. 554.

10. Same.—Later trial.—The costs of the first trial may, if a later trial is held, be taxed in favor of the prevailing party.—Pouchain v. Godeau, 21 Cal. App. 365.

11. Bond — Defendant's benefit.—The bond here required is for the defendant's benefit.—Becker v. Schmidlin, 153 Cal. 669.

12. Same.—Failure to file.—The failure to file the undertaking required by the act does not deprive the court of jurisdiction, and if objection is made because of such failure, the court may allow the plaintiff time to file the undertaking.—Dixon v.

Allen, 69 Cal. 527; Stinson v. Carpenter, 73 Cal. 571; Becker v. Schmidlin, 153 Cal. 669.

13. Same—Sureties must be residents of county.—The sureties on the bond must be residents of the county where the action is brought, and a bond by non-resident sureties is defective, and if no other bond is given or offered the action is properly dismissed.—Smith v. McDermott, 93 Cal. 421.

14. Dismissal—Failure to file undertaking.—The right of a dismissal of an action for libel for a cause recited in § 581, Code of Civil Procedure, is not limited by the provisions of the act as to dismissal for failure to file an undertaking for costs under this act.—Gaffey v. Mann, 3 Cal. App. 124.

15. Same—Issue of summons within year.—A defendant in an action for libel, who appeared by attorney, specially, to move for its dismissal on the ground of a failure to have summons issued within a year, is entitled on a dismissal of the action to one hundred dollars for attorney's fee, and his right in this respect is not limited by the plaintiff's failure to file the undertaking required by the act.—Gaffey v. Mann, 3 Cal. App. 124.

16. Same—Costs.—When an action for libel is dismissed and judgment for costs rendered for defendant, plaintiff can not appeal, except as to the judgment for costs and if they amount to less than $300, the supreme court is without jurisdiction.—Oullahan v. Morrissey, 73 Cal. 297.

2530a. COUNTY FREE LIBRARIES.

2530b. PUBLIC LIBRARIES IN UNINCORPORATED TOWNS.

2530c. DEPOSIT OF NEWSPAPER FILES IN PUBLIC LIBRARIES.

MUNICIPAL PUBLIC LIBRARIES.

ACT 2530—An act to provide for the establishment and maintenance of public libraries within municipalities.

History: Approved March 23, 1901, Stats. 1901, p. 557. Amended March 20, 1905, Stats. 1905, p. 296; April 12, 1909, Stats. 1909, p. 823. Prior act of March 18, 1878, Stats. 1877-78, p. 329, repealed by the act of April 26, 1880, Stats. 1880, p. 231, which was repealed by the present act.

Establishment.

§ 1. The common council, board of trustees, or other legislative body of any incorporated city or town in the state of California, may, and upon being requested to do so by one-fourth of the electors of such municipal corporation in the manner hereinafter provided, must, by ordinance, establish in and for said municipality a public library; provided, there be none already established therein.

Petitions for.

§ 2. The request referred to in the preceding section may be by a single petition, or by several petitions; provided, that such several petitions be substantially in the same form, and that such single petition has, or such several petitions in the aggregate have, the signatures of the requisite number of electors.

Management.

§ 3. Such public library shall be managed by a board designated as the board of library trustees, consisting of five members, to be appointed by the mayor, president of the board of trustees or other executive head of the municipality, by and with the consent of the legislative body of said municipality. Such trustees shall severally hold office for three years, serving without compensation; provided, that the members of the first board appointed shall so classify themselves by lot that one of their number shall go out of office at the end of the current fiscal year, two at the end of one year thereafter, and the other two at the end of two years thereafter. Men and women shall be equally eligible to such an appointment, and vacancies shall be filled by appointment for the unexpired term in the same manner.

Trustees, meetings of.

§ 4. Boards of library trustees shall meet at least once a month at such times and places as they may fix by resolution. Special meetings may be called at any time by three trustees, by written notice served upon each member at least three hours before the time specified for the proposed meeting. A majority of the board shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business. Such boards shall appoint one of their number president, who shall serve for one year and until his successor is appointed, and in his absence shall select a president pro tem. Such boards shall cause a proper record of their proceedings to be kept. [Amended by Stats. 1909, p. 823, though title did not state this section was amended. Also amended in 1905. Stats. 1905, p. 296.]

Powers of trustees.

§ 5. Boards of library trustees shall have power:

First—To make and enforce all rules, regulations and by-laws necessary for the administration, government and protection of the libraries under their management and all property belonging thereto.

Second—To administer any trust declared or created for such libraries, and receive by gift, devise, or bequest and hold in trust or otherwise, property situated in this state or elsewhere, and where not otherwise provided, dispose of the same for the benefit of such libraries.

Third—To prescribe the duties and powers of the librarian, secretary and other officers and employees of any such libraries; to determine the number of and appoint all such officers and employees, and to fix their compensation, which said officers and employees shall hold their offices or positions at the pleasure of said boards.

Fourth—To purchase necessary books, journals, publications and other personal property.

Fifth—To purchase such real property, and erect or rent and equip, such buildings or building, room or rooms, as may be necessary, when in their judgment a suitable building, or portion thereof, has not been provided by the legislative body of the municipality for such libraries.

Sixth—To require the secretary of state and other state officials to furnish such libraries with copies of any and all reports, laws and other publications of the state not otherwise disposed of by law.

Seventh—To borrow books from, lend books to and exchange the same with other libraries, and to allow non-residents to borrow books upon such conditions as they may prescribe.

Eighth—To do and perform any and all other acts and things necessary or proper to carry out the provisions of this act.

Annual reports.

§ 6. Boards of library trustees shall, on or before the last day of July in each year, make a report to the legislative body of their municipality, giving the condition of the library on the thirtieth day of June preceding, together with a statement of their proceedings for the year then ended, and forward a copy thereof to the state library at Sacramento. [Amended April 12, 1909. Stats. 1909, p. 825, though title did not state this section was amended. Also amended in 1905. Stats. 1905, p. 297.]

Annual tax levy.

§ 7. The legislative body of any municipality in which a public library has been established in accordance with this act, shall in making the annual tax levy and as part thereof, if the maintenance of the library has not been otherwise provided for, levy a tax for the purpose of maintaining such library and purchasing property necessary therefor, which tax shall be in addition to other taxes, the levy of which is permitted in the municipality. Provided that after two years from the establishment of new libraries thereunder, where a maintenance corresponding thereto, has not been otherwise provided, in municipalities of the first, second and third classes, such tax levy shall not exceed two mills on the dollar of assessed valuation, and in municipalities of the fourth, fifth and sixth classes such levy shall not exceed three mills on the dollar of assessed valuation. [Amended April 12, 1909. Stats. 1909, p. 825.]

Disposition of revenue.

§ 8. The revenue derived from said tax, together with all money acquired by gift, devise, bequest, or otherwise, for the purposes of the library, shall be apportioned to a fund to be designated the library fund, and be applied to the purposes herein authorized. If such payment into the treasury should be inconsistent with the conditions or terms of any such gift, devise, bequest, the board shall provide for the safety and preservation of the same, and the application thereof to the use of the library, in accordance with the terms and conditions of such gift, devise or bequest. Payments from this fund shall be made upon warrants issued after due audit by, and an order from, the library trustees, which warrants shall be signed by the president and secretary of said board of library trustees. The treasurer of the municipality shall pay such warrants without any further order or warrant from any other authority. [Amended April 12, 1909. Stats. 1909, p. 825.]

Library to be free.

§ 9. Every library established under this act shall be forever free to the inhabitants and nonresident taxpayers of the municipality, subject always to such rules, regulations and by-laws as may be made by boards of library trustees; and provided, that for violations of the same a person may be fined or excluded from the privileges of the library.

Loaning of books.

§ 10. Boards of library trustees and the legislative bodies of neighboring municipalities or boards of supervisors of the counties in which public libraries are situated, may contract for lending the books of such libraries to residents of such counties or neighboring municipalities, upon a reasonable compensation to be paid by such counties or neighboring municipalities.

Title to property, shall vest in whom.

§ 11. The title to all property acquired for the purposes of such libraries, when not inconsistent with the terms of its acquisition, or otherwise designated, shall vest in the municipalities in which such libraries are, or are to be, situated, and in the name of the municipal corporations may be sued for and defended by action at law or otherwise.

Act of 1880 repealed.

§ 12. An act entitled "An act to establish free public libraries and reading rooms," approved April twenty-six, eighteen hundred and eighty, is hereby repealed; provided, that as to existing libraries this act is to be deemed a continuation thereof, and such libraries shall be governed hereby accordingly; provided, however, that this act shall have no application to any library established or governed by the provisions of a city charter, and the provisions of any city charter shall in no manner be affected by this act.

Disestablishment of library.

§ 13. Any ordinance establishing a library adopted under the provisions of section 1 of this act must be repealed by the body which adopted the same upon being requested to do so by fifty-one per cent of the electors of such municipal corporations, as shown by the great register then in force, and upon the repeal of such ordinance such library shall be disestablished in such municipal corporation. [Amended April 12, 1909. Stats. 1909, p. 826, though title stated that this section was stricken out.]

The amending act of 1909 contained the following:

§ 2. All acts and parts of acts inconsistent with this act are hereby modified in accordance with this act.

1. Power of board to control funds donated to city.—A board of library trustees under this act are not entitled to control the construction of a public library building with a fund donated to the city eo nomine, and not to the trustees.—Board of Library Trustees v. Board of Trustees, 2 Cal. App. 760.

COUNTY FREE LIBRARIES.

ACT 2530a—An act to provide for the establishment and maintenance of county free libraries in the state of California, and repealing ‘‘An act entitled ‘An act to provide county library systems,’ approved April 12, 1909, and all acts and parts of acts in conflict with this act.’’

History: Approved February 25, 1911, Stats. 1911, p. 80. Amended (1) June 1, 1917; in effect July 31, 1917, Stats. 1917, p. 1610; (2) March 31, 1919; in effect July 22, 1919, Stats. 1919, p. 19; (3) April 4, 1919; in effect July 22, 1919, Stats. 1919, p. 23; (4) April 9, 1919; in effect July 22, 1919, Stats. 1919, p. 61; (5) April 21, 1919; in effect July 22, 1919, Stats. 1919, pp. 122, 123. Prior act of April 12, 1909, Stats. 1909, p. 811, repealed by the present act.

Supervisors may establish.

§ 1. The boards of supervisors of the several counties have power to establish and maintain, within their respective counties, county free libraries in the manner and with the functions prescribed in this act.

Not to include cities having libraries. Publication of notice.

§ 2. The board of supervisors of any county may establish at the county seat a county free library for that part of such county lying outside of incorporated cities and towns maintaining free public libraries, and outside of library districts maintaining district libraries, and for all such additional portions of such county as may elect to become a part of, or to participate in, such county free library system, as hereafter provided in this act. At least once a week for two successive weeks prior to taking such action the board of supervisors shall publish, in a newspaper designated by them and published in such county, notice of such contemplated action, giving therein the date of the meeting at which such action is proposed to be taken.

How cities having libraries may participate. May cease to participate. Publication of notice.

§ 3. After the establishment of a county free library as provided in this act, the board of trustees, common council or other legislative body of any incorporated city or town in the county maintaining a free public library, or the board of trustees of any library district maintaining a district library, may notify the board of supervisors that such city, town or library district desires to become a part of the county free library system, and thereafter such city, town or library district shall be a part thereof and its inhabitants shall be entitled to the benefits of such county free library, and the property within such city, town or library district shall be liable to taxes levied for county free library purposes. But the board of trustees, common council or other legislative body of any incorporated city or town in the county, or the board of trustees of any library district may at any time notify the board of supervisors that such city, town or library district no longer desires to be a part of the county free library system, and thereafter such city, town or library district shall cease to participate in the benefits of such county free library, and the property situated in such city, town or library district shall not be liable to taxes for county free library purposes; provided, however, that the board of trustees, common council or other legislative body of any incorporated city or town, or the board of trustees of any library district, shall publish, at least once a week for two successive weeks prior either to giving or to withdrawing such notice, in a newspaper designated by said board of trustees, city council or board of library trustees, and circulating throughout such city, town or library district, notice of such contemplated action, giving therein the date and the place of the meeting at which such contemplated action is proposed to be taken.

Cities having libraries may contract with county libraries for service.

§ 4. The board of supervisors of any county wherein a county free library has been established under the provisions of this act, shall have full power and authority to enter into contracts with any incorporated city or town maintaining a free public library, and any such incorporated city or town shall, through its board of trustees or other legislative body, have power to enter into contracts with such county to secure to the residents of such incorporated city or town the same privileges of the county free library as are granted to, or enjoyed by, the residents of the county outside of such incorporated city or town, or such privileges as may be agreed upon in such contract, upon such consideration to be named in said contract as may be agreed upon, the same to be paid into the county free library fund, and thereupon the residents of such incorporated city or town shall have the same privileges with regard to said county free library as are had by the residents of such county outside of such incorporated city or town, or such privileges as may be agreed upon by said contract.

One county may furnish library service to another. Library tax.

§ 5. The board of supervisors of any county wherein a county free library has been established under the provisions of this act, shall have full power and authority to enter into contracts or agreements with the board of supervisors of any other county to secure to the residents of such other county such privileges of such county free library as may, by such contract, be agreed upon and upon such consideration as may in said contract be agreed upon, the same to be paid into the county free library fund, and thereupon the inhabitants of such other county shall have such privileges of such county free library as may by such contract be agreed upon; and the board of supervisors of such county shall have full power and authority to enter into a contract with the board of supervisors of another county wherein a county free library has been established under the provisions of this act, as in this section provided, and shall have power to levy a library tax, as in this act provided, for the purpose of carrying out such contract, but the making of such contract shall not bar the board of supervisors of such county during the continuance of such contract from establishing a county free library therein under the provisions of this act, if none be already established therein, and upon the establishment of such county free library, such contract may be terminated upon such terms as may be agreed upon by the parties thereto, or may continue for the term thereof.

Board of library examiners. To pass on qualifications of county librarians.

§ 6. A commission is hereby created to be known as the board of library examiners, consisting of the state librarian, who shall be ex-officio chairman of said board, the librarian of the public library of the city and county of San Francisco, and the librarian of the Los Angeles public library. The members of said board shall receive no compensation for their services, except their actual and necessary traveling expenses, to be paid out of the state library fund. Said board shall pass upon the qualifications of all persons desiring to become county librarians, and may, in writing, adopt rules and regulations not inconsistent with law for its own government, and for carrying out the purposes of this act. Persons of either sex shall be eligible to certification for the office of county librarian.

County librarian, appointment.

§ 7. Upon the establishment of a county free library, the board of supervisors shall appoint a county librarian, who shall hold office for the term of four years, subject to prior removal for cause, after a hearing, by said board. No person shall be eligible to the office of county librarian unless prior to his appointment he has received from the board of library examiners a certificate of qualification for the office. At the time of his appointment, the county librarian need not be a resident of the county nor a citizen of the state of California.

Government of county library. Employees. Grades. Apprentices.

§ 8. The county free library shall be under the general supervision of the board of supervisors, which shall have power to make general rules and regulations regarding the policy of the county free library, to establish, upon the recommendation of the county librarian, branches and stations throughout the county and may locate said branches and stations in incorporated cities and towns wherever deemed advisable to determine the number and kind of employees of such library, and to appoint and dismiss such employees upon the recommendation of the county librarian. Such employee shall not be removed except for cause, and in case any such removal be made upon the ground that the services of such employee are no longer required, such removed employee shall have the first right to be restored to such employment when such services are again required, but the board of supervisors may, at the time of appointing any employee, and upon the recommendation of the county librarian, enter into an agreement that such employee be employed for a definite time only. All employees of the county free library whose duties require special training in library work shall be graded in grades to be established by the county librarian, with the advice and approval of the state librarian, according to the duties required of them, experience in library work and other qualifications for the service required; and before appointment to a position in the graded service, the candidate must pass an examination appropriate to the position sought, satisfactory to the county librarian, and show a satisfactory experience in library work. Work in approved library schools or libraries, or certificates issued by the board of library examiners, may be accepted by the county librarian in lieu of such examination. The county librarian may also accept as apprentices, without compensation, candidates possessing personal qualifications satisfactory to him and may dismiss the same at any time if in his judgment their work is not satisfactory to him.

County librarian, bond, duties. Salary.

§ 9. The county librarian shall, prior to entering upon the duties of his office, file with the county clerk the usual oath of office and a bond, conditioned upon the faithful performance of his duties, with sufficient sureties approved by a judge of the superior court in the county of which the librarian is to be the county librarian, in such sum as may be determined by the board of supervisors. The county librarian shall, subject to the general rules adopted by the board of supervisors, build up and manage, according to accepted principles of library management of the library for the use of the people of the county, and shall determine what books and other library equipment shall be purchased. The salary per annum of the county librarian shall be as follows: In counties of the first to the third classes inclusive, two thousand four hundred dollars; of the fourth to the tenth classes inclusive, two thousand dollars; of the eleventh to the twentieth classes inclusive, eighteen hundred dollars; of the twenty-first to the thirtieth classes inclusive, fifteen hundred dollars; of the thirty-first to the forty-eighth classes inclusive, twelve hundred dollars; and of the forty-ninth to the fifty-seventh classes inclusive, five hundred dollars. The salary of each of the county librarians here provided shall be paid by each of such counties in equal monthly installments, at the same time and in the same manner and out of the same fund as the salaries of other county officers are paid. The county librarian and his assistant shall be allowed actual and necessary traveling expenses incurred on the business of the office.

Counties of the thirty-second class, salary of librarian.

§ 9ff. In counties of the thirty-second class the county librarian shall receive one thousand five hundred dollars per year. [New section added April 21, 1919. In effect July 22, 1919. Stats. 1919, p. 122.]

Salary of county librarian.

§ 9gg. In counties of the thirty-third class the salary of the county librarian shall be eighteen hundred dollars per annum. [New section added June 1, 1917. In effect July 31, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 1610.]

Counties of the thirty-fifth class, salary of librarian.

§ 9ii. In counties of the thirty-fifth class the salary of the county librarian shall be one thousand eight hundred dollars per annum. [New section added April 21, 1919. In effect July 22, 1919. Stats. 1919, p. 123.]

Counties of the thirty-ninth class, salary of librarian.

§ 9mm. In counties of the thirty-ninth class the salary of the county librarian shall be one thousand five hundred dollars per annum. [New section added March 31, 1919. In effect July 22, 1919. Stats. 1919, p. 19.]

Counties of the forty-second class, salary of librarian.

§ 9pp. In counties of the forty-second class the county librarian shall receive one thousand eight hundred dollars per year, to be paid by such counties in equal monthly installments at the same time, in the same manner and out of the same fund as the salaries of other county officers are paid, and shall also be allowed the actual and necessary traveling expenses incurred on the business of the office. [New section added April 9, 1919. In effect July 22, 1919. Stats. 1919, p. 62.]

Counties of the fifty-fifth class, salary of librarian.

§ 9qcc. In counties of the fifty-fifth class the salary of the county librarian shall be one thousand two hundred dollars per annum. [New section added April 4, 1919. In effect July 22, 1919. Stats. 1919, p. 23.]

Supervision of state librarian. Convention of county librarians.

§ 10. The county free libraries of the state shall be under the general supervision of the state librarian, who shall from time to time, either personally or by one of his assistants, visit the county free libraries and inquire into their condition. The actual and necessary expenses of such visits shall be paid out of the state library fund. The state librarian shall annually call a convention of county librarians, to assemble at such time and place as he shall deem most convenient, for the discussion of questions pertaining to the supervision and administration of the county free libraries, the laws relating thereto, and such other subjects affecting the welfare and interest of the county free libraries as shall properly be brought before it. It is hereby made the duty of all the county librarians to attend and take part in the proceedings of such convention. The actual and necessary expenses of the county librarians attending the convention shall be paid out of the county free library fund.

Report.

§ 11. The county librarian shall, on or before the thirty-first day of July in each year, report to the board of supervisors and to the state librarian on the condition of the county free library, for the year ending June thirtieth preceding. Such reports shall, in addition to other matters deemed expedient by the county librarian, contain such statistical and other information as may be deemed desirable by the state librarian. For this purpose the state librarian may send to the several county libraries instructions or question blanks so as to obtain the material for a comparative study of library conditions in the state.

Tax levy. Bonds. Gifts. Fund. Claims, how paid.

§ 12. The board of supervisors, after a county free library has been established, shall annually levy, in the same manner and at the same time as other county taxes are levied, and in addition to all other taxes, a tax not to exceed one mill on the dollar of assessed valuation upon all property in such county outside of incorporated cities and towns maintaining free public libraries, and library districts maintaining district libraries, and upon all property within incorporated cities, towns and library districts, which have elected to become a part of such county free library system as provided in this act, for the purpose of purchasing property for, establishing and maintaining the county free library. County bonds may be issued, in the manner prescribed in section 4088 of the Political Code for the erection and equipment of county free library buildings and the purchase of land therefor. The board of supervisors is authorized to receive, on behalf of the county, any gift, bequest or devise for the county free library, or for any branch or subdivision thereof. The title to all property belonging to the county free library shall be vested in the county. All laws applicable to the collection of county taxes shall apply to the collection of the tax herein provided. All funds of the county free library, whether derived from taxation or otherwise, shall be in the custody of the county treasurer. They shall constitute a separate fund, called the county free library fund, and shall not be used for any purposes except those of the county free library. Each claim against the county free library fund shall be authorized and approved by the county librarian, or in his absence from the county by his assistant. It shall then be acted upon in the same manner as are all other claims against the county.

County law library.

§ 13. In any county of this state where a law library may now or hereafter exist under the provisions of sections 4190 to 4204, inclusive, of the Political Code of the state, the board of supervisors of such county shall have the power to enter into contracts, or agreements with the board of law library trustees of such law library for the co-operation of said law library and the county free library, and, in that connection to contract or agree with the board of law library trustees of such law library that the county librarian and other employees of the county free library perform the duties required to be done or performed by the officers and employees of such law library as contemplated by sections 4190 to 4204, inclusive, of the Political Code of this state for a compensation to be named in such contract or agreement, the same to be paid into the county free library fund.

School library.

§ 14. The board of supervisors shall have power to accept on behalf of the county free library, all books and other property of school libraries and of the teachers' library as provided by sections 1565, 1715 and 1716 of the Political Code, and to manage and maintain the same as a part of the county free library.

How disestablished.

§ 15. After a county free library has been established, it may be disestablished in the same manner as it was established. At least once a week for two successive weeks prior to taking such action, the board of supervisors shall publish, in a newspaper designated by them, and published in the county, notice of such contemplated action, giving therein the date of the meeting at which such contemplated action is proposed to be taken.

Contract with public library.

§ 16. Instead of establishing a separate county free library, the board of supervisors may enter into a contract according to the provisions of this section with the board of library trustees or other authority in charge of the free public library of any incorporated city or town, and the board of library trustees, or other authority in charge of such free public library, is hereby authorized to make such a contract. Such contract may provide that the free public library of such incorporated city or town shall assume the functions of a county free library within the county with which such contract is made, including incorporated cities and towns therein. The board of supervisors may agree to pay annually into the library fund of such incorporated city or town such sum as may be agreed upon. Either party to such contract may terminate the same by giving six months' notice of intention to do so.

Act of April 12, 1909, repealed.

§ 17. An act entitled "An act to provide county library systems," approved April 12, 1909, and all acts and parts of acts in conflict herewith are hereby repealed; provided, however, that any county library which may have been established and is now in existence under the provisions of the act approved April 12, 1909, shall be continued under the provisions of this act, and be considered the same as if established under the provisions of this act; and provided, further, that in any case where a contract has been entered into between any county board of supervisors and any city or incorporated town under the provisions of section 12 of said act, the same shall continue in force, and the provisions of section 16 of this act shall be applicable thereto, until the establishment and equipment of a county free library under the provisions of sections 1 to 15 inclusive of this act, unless sooner terminated under the provisions thereof.

PUBLIC LIBRARIES IN UNINCORPORATED TOWNS.

ACT 2530b—An act to allow unincorporated towns and villages to establish, equip, and maintain public libraries; to provide for the formation, government and operation of library districts; the acquisition of property thereby; the calling and holding of elections in such district; the assessment, collection, custody and disbursement of taxes therein; and to create boards of library trustees.

History: Approved April 12, 1909, Stats. 1909, p. 815. Amended March 13, 1911, Stats. 1911, p. 343.

Libraries in unincorporated towns.

§ 1. Any unincorporated town or village of this state may establish, equip and maintain a public library for the dissemination of a knowledge of the arts, sciences and general literature, in accordance with the provisions of this act.

Manner of establishment.

§ 2. Upon the application, by petition, of fifty or more taxpayers and residents of said town or village to the board of supervisors in the county in which said town or village is located, praying for the formation of a library district, and setting forth the boundaries of the said proposed district; the said board of supervisors must, within ten days after receiving said petition, by resolution, order that an election be held in the said proposed district for the determination of the question and shall appoint three qualified electors thereof to conduct said election.

Election, how called.

§ 3. Said election shall be called by posting notice thereof in three of the most public places in said proposed library district, and by publication in a daily or weekly paper therein, if there be one, at least once a week for not less than fifteen days. Said notices must specify the time, place, and the purposes of said election, and the hours during which the polls will be kept open; provided, that in districts with a population of ten thousand or over, the polls must be opened at eight o'clock a. m., and kept open until seven o'clock p. m., and in districts where the population is less than ten thousand, the polls must not be opened before one o'clock p. m., and must be kept open not less than six hours.

Conduct of election.

§ 4. Said election shall be conducted in accordance with the general election laws of this state, where applicable, without reference to form of ballot or manner of voting, except that the ballots shall contain the words, "For library district," and the voter shall write or print after said words on his ballot the word "Yes," or the word "No."

Electors, qualifications of.

§ 5. Every qualified elector, resident within the proposed district for the period requisite to enable him to vote at a general election, shall be entitled to vote at the election above provided for.

Return of result.

§ 6. It shall be the duty of the election officers to report the result of said election to the board of supervisors within five days subsequent to the holding thereof.

Trustees, appointment of.

§ 7. If a majority of the votes at said election shall be in favor of a library district, the said board of supervisors must, by resolution, establish said library district, and must appoint three trustees, who must be qualified electors and residents within the limits of the proposed library district, to be known and called a board of library trustees, of the town or village for which they are appointed. Such trustees shall severally hold office for three years from the first day of July next succeeding their election and until their successors are elected and qualified; serving without compensation; provided however, that the members of the first board appointed shall be so classified by the board of supervisors at the time of their appointment, that one of their number shall go out of office on the thirtieth day of June next succeeding his appointment, one at the end of one year thereafter, and the other at the end of two years thereafter. Vacancies shall be filled by the board of supervisors by appointment for the unexpired term.

Proceedings if proposition be defeated.

§ 8. If a majority of the votes cast shall be against a library district, the board of supervisors shall, by order, so declare; no other proceedings shall be taken in relation thereto until the expiration of one year from the date of presentation of the petition.

Facts establishing the validity of district.

§ 9. The fact of the presentation of the petition, and the order establishing the library district and making the appointment of the three library trustees, shall be entered in the minutes of the board of supervisors and shall be conclusive evidence of the due presentation of a proper petition, and that each of the petitioners was, at the time of signature and presentation of the petition, a taxpayer and resident of the proposed district, and of the fact and regularity of all prior proceedings of every kind and nature provided for by this act, and of the existence and validity of the district.

Trustees, meetings of.

§ 10. Boards of library trustees shall meet at least once a month, at such time and place as they may fix by resolution. Special meetings may be called at any time by two trustees, by written notices served upon each member at least twelve hours before the time specified for the meeting. Two members shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business. At its first meeting held after the first day of July the board shall organize by electing one of its number president, and another one of its number secretary; they shall serve as such for one year or until their successors are elected and qualified. Such boards shall cause a proper record of its proceedings to be kept, and at the first meeting of the board of trustees of any library formed under the provisions of this act, it must immediately cause to be made out and filed with the state librarian at Sacramento a certificate showing that such library has been established, with the date thereof, the names of the trustees, and the officers of the board chosen for the current fiscal year.

Powers and duties of trustees.

§ 11. The board of library trustees so appointed by the said board of supervisors, and their successors, shall be authorized and they are hereby empowered, and it shall be their duty:

First—To make and enforce all rules, regulations and by-laws necessary for the administration, government and protection of the libraries under their management, and all property belonging thereto.

Second—To administer any trust declared or created for such libraries, and receive by gift, devise, or bequest, and hold in trust or otherwise, property situated in this state or elsewhere, and where not otherwise provided, dispose of the same for the benefit of such libraries.

Third—To prescribe the duties and powers of the librarian, secretary, and other officers and employees of any such libraries; to determine the number of and appoint all such officers and employees, and fix their compensation, which said officers and employees shall hold their offices and positions at the pleasure of said boards.

Fourth—To purchase necessary books, journals, publications and other personal property.

Fifth—To purchase such real property, and erect or rent and equip, such building or buildings, room or rooms, as in their judgment may be necessary to properly carry out the provisions of this act.

Sixth—To require the secretary of state and other state officials to furnish such libraries with copies of any and all reports, laws, and other publications of the state not otherwise disposed of by law.

Seventh—To borrow books from, lend books to and exchange the same with other libraries, and to allow nonresidents to borrow books upon such conditions as the board may prescribe.

Eighth—To do and perform any and all other acts and things necessary or proper to carry out the provisions of this act.

Ninth—To file, through their secretary, on or before the last day of the month of July of each year, a report with the state librarian at Sacramento giving the condition of their library and the number of volumes contained therein on the thirtieth day of June preceding.

Tenth—To designate the hours during which the library shall be open for the use of the public; provided however, that all public libraries established under the provisions of this act, shall be open for the use of the public during every day in the year.

Estimates of cost.

§ 12. In any library district formed under the provisions of this act, which is now maintaining a public library, or which shall have petitioned for and has been granted permission to establish, and intends to maintain a public library in accordance with this act, it shall be the duty of the board of library trustees therein, to furnish to the board of supervisors of the county wherein said library district is situated, each and every year, on or before the first day of September, an estimate of the cost of leasing temporary quarters, purchasing a suitable lot, of procuring plans and specifications and erecting a suitable building, of furnishing and equipping the same, and of fencing and ornamenting the grounds, for the accommodation of the public library, and of conducting and maintaining the same for the ensuing fiscal year, or for any or all of said purposes; provided however, that the board of library trustees, may, when in its judgment it is deemed advisable, and upon the petition of fifty or more taxpayers residing within said library district, must call an election and submit to the electors of the said library district whether the bonds of said library district shall be issued and sold for any or all of the purposes of this act.

Special tax levy.

§ 13. When such estimate shall have been submitted to the board of supervisors of any county in which a public library district has been established, the said board of supervisors must, at the time of levying county taxes, levy a special tax upon all of the taxable property within the limits of the said library district, sufficient in amount to maintain the said public library, or to purchase the site, erect and equip the building, improve the grounds or building, or for any or all of the purposes of this act. The taxes so levied shall be computed, entered upon the tax-roll, and collected in the same manner as other taxes are computed, entered and collected.

Disposition of revenue.

§ 14. The revenue derived from said tax, together with all money acquired by gift, devise, bequest, or otherwise, for the purposes of the library, shall be paid into the county treasury to the credit of the library fund of the district wherein said tax was collected, subject only to the order of the library trustees of said district. If such payment into the treasury should be inconsistent with the terms or conditions of any such gift, devise, or bequest, the board of library trustees shall provide for the safety and preservation of the same, and the application thereof to the use of the library, in accordance with the terms and conditions of such gift, devise or bequest.

Library to be free.

§ 15. Every library established under the provisions of this act shall be forever free to the inhabitants and nonresident taxpayers of the library district, subject always to such rules, regulations, and by-laws as may be made by the board of library trustees; also provided, that for violations of the same a person may be fined or excluded from the privileges of the library.

Loan of books.

§ 16. Boards of library trustees and the boards of trustees of neighboring library districts, or the legislative bodies of neighboring municipalities, or boards of supervisors of the counties in which public libraries are situated, may contract to lend the books of such libraries to residents of such counties or neighboring municipalities, or library districts, upon a reasonable compensation to be paid by such counties, neighboring municipalities, or library districts.

Title to library property.

§ 17. The title to all property acquired for the purposes of such libraries, when not inconsistent with the terms of its acquisition, or not otherwise designated, shall vest in the district in which such libraries are, or are to be situated. Every library district must be designated by the name and style of — library district (using the name of the district), of — county (using the name of the county in which said district is situated); and in that name the trustees may sue and be sued, and may hold and convey property for the use and benefit of such district. A number must not be used as a part of the designation of any library district.

Election for trustees.

§ 18. An election for library trustees must be held in each library district, annually, at the public library, if there is one, and if there is none, at the place to be designated by the board of trustees; for the election of one library trustee, who shall hold office for three years dating from the first day of July next succeeding his election, or until his successor shall be elected, or appointed and qualified.

Number of trustees.

§ 19. The number of library trustees for any library district established under the provisions of this act, shall be three.

Notice of election.

§ 20. Not less than ten days before the election required in section eighteen of this act, the trustees must post notices in three public places in the district, one of which places shall be the public library; which notices must specify the time and place of election, and the hours during which the polls will be kept open; if within five days of holding the election the trustees have failed to post the notices required under this section, then any three electors of the district may give notice.

Conduct of election.

§ 21. Boards of trustees must appoint one inspector and two judges to conduct the said election; if none are so appointed, or, if those appointed are not present at the opening of the polls, the electors present may appoint them, and they shall conduct the election. Any member of the board of library trustees is hereby qualified to administer the oath and swear in the election officers.

Polls, opening and closing.

§ 22. In library districts with a population of ten thousand or over, the polls must be open at eight o'clock a. m., and kept open until seven o'clock p. m.; in districts where the population is less than ten thousand the polls must not be opened before one o'clock p. m., and must be kept open not less than six hours.

Electors, qualifications of.

§ 23. Every elector, resident of the library district, who is a qualified elector of the county, and who is registered in the district where the election is held at least thirty days before the election, may vote thereat.

Voting.

§ 24. Voting must be by ballot (without reference to the general election law in regard to nominations, form of ballot, or manner of voting), which shall be handed by the elector voting to the inspector, who shall then, in his presence, deposit the same in the ballot-box, and the judges shall enter the elector's name on the poll-list.

Challenges.

§ 25. Any person offering to vote may be challenged by any elector of the district, and the judges of election must thereupon administer to the person challenged an oath, in substance as follows: "You do swear that you are a citizen of the United States, that you are twenty-one years of age, that you have resided in this state one year, in this county ninety days, and in this library district thirty days preceding this election, and that your name is on the great register of this county and was on the great register of a precinct of this library district at least thirty days before this election, and that you have not before voted this day." If he takes the oath prescribed in this section, his vote must be received, otherwise his vote must be rejected.

Poll-lists.

§ 26. A poll and tally list must be kept and must be returned to the board of library trustees.

Canvass of votes.

§ 27. The officers of election must publicly canvass the votes immediately after closing the polls, and make, sign, and deliver certificates of election to the person elected, which must, with the oath of office of the person so elected attached, be forwarded to the county clerk and filed in his office.

Bonds, election for.

§ 28. The board of trustees of any library district may, when in their judgment it is deemed advisable, and must, upon a petition of fifty or more taxpayers and residents of said library district, call an election and submit to the electors of the district, whether the bonds of such district shall be issued and sold for the purpose of raising money for the purchase of suitable lots, of procuring plans and specifications and of erecting a suitable building, of furnishing and equipping the same, and of fencing and ornamenting the grounds, for the accommodation of the public library, or for any or all of the said purposes, or for any or all of the purposes of this act; for liquidating any indebtedness incurred for said purposes, and for refunding any outstanding valid indebtedness, evidenced by bonds or warrants of the district.

Notice of bond election.

§ 29. Such election must be called by posting notices, signed by the board, in three of the most public places in the district, for not less than twenty days before the election; and if there is a newspaper published in the district, or if not, a newspaper published in the county, by publishing such notice therein not less than once a week for three successive weeks.

What notice must contain.

§ 30. Such notice must contain:

1. Time and place of holding such election;
2. The names of inspectors and judges to conduct the same;
3. The hours during the day in which the polls will be open;
4. The amount and denomination of the bonds, the rate of interest and the number of years, not exceeding forty, the whole or any part of said bonds are to run.

Conduct of election.

§ 31. The election shall be conducted in accordance with the provisions of sections twenty-one, twenty-two, twenty-three, twenty-five, twenty-six, twenty-seven, of this act, in so far as they are applicable to the election for bonds.

Voting.

§ 32. Voting must be by ballot (without reference to the general election law in regard to form of ballot, or manner of voting), except that the words to appear on the ballot shall be, "Bonds—Yes," and "Bonds—No," and except further, that persons voting at such bond election shall put a cross (X) upon their ballots, with pencil or ink, after the words "Bonds—Yes," or "Bonds—No" (as the case may be), to indicate whether they have voted for or against the issuance of the bonds; which said ballot shall be handed by the elector voting to the inspector, who shall then, in his presence, deposit the same in the ballot box, and the judges shall enter the elector's name on the poll-list.

Canvass, bond election of library districts. Amount of bonds.

§ 33. On the seventh day after said election, at eight o'clock p. m., the returns having been made to the board of trustees, the board must meet and canvass said returns, and if it appears that two-thirds of the votes cast at said election were cast in favor of issuing such bonds, then the board shall cause an entry of such fact to be made upon its minutes and shall certify to the board of supervisors of the county, all the proceedings had in the premises, and thereupon said board of supervisors shall be and they are hereby authorized and directed to issue the bonds of said district, to the number and amount provided in such proceedings, payable out of the building fund of said district, naming the same, and that the money shall be raised by taxation upon the taxable property in said district, for the redemption of said bonds and the payment of the interest thereon; provided, that the total amount of bonds so issued shall not exceed five per cent of the taxable property of said district, as shown by the last equalized assessment-book of the county. [Amendment approved March 13, 1911. Stats. 1911, p. 343.]

Form of bonds.

§ 34. The board of supervisors by an order entered upon its minutes shall prescribe the form of said bonds and of the interest coupons attached thereto, and must fix the time when the whole or any part of the principal of said bonds shall be payable, which shall not be more than forty years from the date thereof.

Interest.

§ 35. Said bonds must not bear a greater amount of interest than six per cent, said interest to be payable annually or semi-annually; and said bonds must be sold in the manner prescribed by the board of supervisors, but for not less than par, and the proceeds of the sale thereof must be deposited in the county treasury to the credit of the building fund of said library district, and be drawn out for the purposes aforesaid as other library moneys are drawn out.

Tax levy, for interest and redemption.

§ 36. The board of supervisors, at the time of making the levy taxes for county purposes, must levy a tax for that year upon the taxable property in such district, at the equalized assessed value thereof for that year, for the interest and redemption of said bonds, and such tax must not be less than sufficient to pay the interest of said bonds for that year, and such portion of the principal as is to become due during such year, and in any event must be high enough to raise, annually, for the first half of the term said bonds have to run, a sufficient sum to pay the interest thereon, and during the balance of the term, high enough to pay such annual interest and to pay, annually, a proportion of the principal of said bonds equal to a sum produced by taking the whole amount of said bonds outstanding and dividing it by the number of years said bonds then have to run, and all moneys so levied, when collected, shall be paid into the county treasury to the credit of the said library district, and be used for the payment of principal and interest on said bonds, and for no other purpose. The principal and interest on said bonds shall be paid by the county treasurer, upon the warrant of the county auditor, out of the fund provided therefor; and it shall be the duty of the county auditor to cancel and file with the county treasurer the bonds and coupons as rapidly as they are paid.

Unsold bonds, disposition of.

§ 37. Whenever any bonds issued under the provisions of this act shall remain unsold for the period of six months after having been offered for sale in the manner prescribed by the board of supervisors, the board of trustees of the library district for or on account of which said bonds were issued, or of any library district composed wholly or partly of territory which, at the time of holding the election authorizing the issuance of such bonds, was embraced within the district for or on account of which such bonds were issued, may petition the board of supervisors to cause such unsold bonds to be withdrawn from market and canceled. Upon receiving such petition, signed by a majority of the members of said board of trustees, the supervisors shall fix a time for hearing the same, which shall be not more than thirty days thereafter, and shall cause a notice, stating the time and place of hearing, and the object of the petition in general terms, to be published for ten days prior to the day of hearing, in some newspaper published in said library district, if there is one, and if there is no newspaper published in said library district, then in a newspaper published at the county seat of the county in which said library district or part thereof is situated. At the time and place designated in the notice for hearing said petition, or at any subsequent time to which said hearing may be postponed, the supervisors shall hear any reasons that may be submitted for or against the granting of the petition, and if they shall deem it for the best interests of the library district named in the petition that such unsold bonds be canceled, they shall make and enter an order in the minutes of their proceedings that said unsold bonds be canceled, and thereupon said bonds, and the vote by which they were authorized to be issued, shall cease to be of any validity whatever.

Dissolution of district.

§ 38. The district may at any time be dissolved upon the vote of two-thirds of the qualified electors thereof, upon an election called by the library trustees of such district, upon the question of dissolution. Such election shall be called and conducted in the same manner as other elections of the district. Upon such dissolution, the property of the district shall vest in any incorporated town or city that may at such time be in occupation of a major portion of the territory of such library district and including within its town or city limits the property and buildings wherein the library is situated; and if there be no such incorporated town or city, then the property shall be vested in the board of supervisors of the county until the formation of such a town or city; provided, however, that if, at the time of such election to dissolve such district, there be any outstanding bonded indebtedness of such district, the vote to dissolve such district shall dissolve the same for all purposes excepting only the levy and collection of taxes for the payment of such indebtedness; and from the time such district is thus dissolved until such bonded indebtedness, with the interest thereon, is fully paid, satisfied and discharged, the legislative authority of such incorporated town or city, or the board of supervisors, if there be no such incorporated town or city, is hereby constituted ex officio the library board of such district. And it is hereby made obligatory upon such board to levy such taxes and perform such other acts as may be necessary in order to raise money for the payment of such indebtedness, and the interest thereon, as herein provided.

§ 39. All acts or parts of acts conflicting with the provisions of this act are hereby repealed.

§ 40. This act shall take effect immediately.

DEPOSIT OF NEWSPAPER FILES IN PUBLIC LIBRARIES.

ACT 2530c—An act to authorize the deposit of certain newspaper files kept in recorders' offices, in free public libraries.

History: Approved March 19, 1909, Stats. 1909, p. 436. Amended May 2, 1919. In effect July 22, 1919. Stats. 1919, p. 278.

Deposit of newspapers in public libraries.

§ 1. The county boards of supervisors of the several counties may authorize the recorders of their several counties to deposit with any free public library maintained at the county seat, or with the California state library, such newspaper files, or portions thereof, as may be in the custody of such recorders by virtue of an act approved April 8, 1862, and entitled "An act for the purchase and preservation of public newspapers, printed and published in the several counties of this state," or by virtue of any other act. [Amendment of May 2, 1919. In effect July 22, 1919. Stats. 1919, p. 278.]

Agreement required.

§ 2. Before making such deposit, the said board of supervisors shall obtain from the board of trustees or authorities in charge of such free public library, or the board of trustees of the California state library, an agreement that they will properly preserve and care for such newspaper files, and make them accessible to the public. [Amended May 2, 1919. In effect July 22, 1919. Stats. 1919, p. 278.]

Files may be transferred to state library.

§ 3. The county boards of supervisors of the several counties may authorize the boards of trustees or other authorities in charge of any free public library with which newspaper files have been deposited in accordance with section one of this act to deposit such newspaper files with the California state library. [New section added May 2, 1919. In effect July 22, 1919. Stats. 1919, p. 278.]

FOREIGN MINERS' LICENSES.

ACT 2532—An act to provide for the protection of foreigners, and to define their liabilities and privileges.

History: Passed March 30, 1853, Stats. 1853, p. 62. Amended (1) May 13, 1854, Stats. 1854, p. 55; (2) April 30, 1855, Stats. 1855, p. 216; (3) April 19, 1856, Stats. 1856, p. 141; (4) March 5, 1857, Stats. 1857, p. 60; (5) April 7, 1857, Stats. 1857, p. 182; (6) April 30, 1857, Stats. 1857, p. 360; (7) April 26, 1858, Stats. 1858, p. 302. Supplemented March 24, 1866, Stats. 1865-66, p. 380.

Code commissioner's note: "Doubtless unconstitutional; but see People v. Naglee, 1 Cal. 232; Lin Sing v. Washburn, 20 Cal. 544."

LICENSES TO CERTAIN ALIENS PROHIBITED.

ACT 2533—An act to prohibit the issue of licenses to aliens not eligible to become electors.

History: Approved April 12, 1880, Stats. 1880, p. 39.

See tit. "Aliens," Act 150.

Code commissioner's note: "Unconstitutional: People v. Quong On Long, 6 Pac. C. L. J. 192. See Political Code, § 3666, as amended 1901, p. 635."

FOREIGN MINERS' LICENSES. FEES GRANTED TO MINING COUNTIES.

ACT 2534—An act granting to the mining counties of this state the foreign miners' license tax collected in said counties severally.

History: Approved March 16, 1868, Stats. 1867-68, p. 173.

ENFORCEMENT OF COLLECTION.

ACT 2535—An act enforcing the collection of license taxes.

History: Approved March 21, 1872, Stats. 1871-72, p. 539.

This act imposed upon the district attorney the duty of instituting proceedings against persons neglecting to pay ferry or bridge license taxes.

LEGALIZING PAYMENTS OF SALARIES OF LICENSE COLLECTORS.

ACT 2536—An act authorizing the payment of salaries by boards of supervisors to persons who have been employed to collect county licenses, and legalizing all payments heretofore made to such persons.

History: Approved March 27, 1895, Stats. 1895, p. 267.

Unconstitutional as authorizing the payment of salaries to persons theretofore employed.—Butte Co. v. Merrill, 141 Cal. 396, 74 Pac. 1036. See, also, Powell v. Phelan, 138 Cal. 271, 71 Pac. 335.

LICENSES ON SHEEP RAISING, HERDING, ETC.

ACT 2537—An act restricting the powers of boards of supervisors in the matter of imposing licenses upon the business of raising, herding, grazing, and pasturing sheep.

History: Approved February 26, 1903, Stats. 1903, p. 41.

License tax on sheep.

§ 1. No license or licenses greater than five cents per head shall be imposed by the board of supervisors of any county on the business of raising, herding or pasturing sheep, and any and all licenses imposed by the board of supervisors of any county on the business of raising, herding or pasturing sheep, in excess of five cents per head, shall be and are hereby declared invalid; provided, the provisions of this act shall not apply to any license tax the validity of which is involved in any suit now pending, or to any such license tax due when this act takes effect.

§ 2. This act shall take effect immediately.

1. Superseded in part by later act.—The act, so far as it is inconsistent with the provisions of the act of 1907 (§ 4041, Pol. Code), giving the supervisors power to umpire license taxes for regulation only, must give way to the later act.—In re McCoy, 10 Cal. App. 116.

ITINERANT VENDOR'S LICENSE.

ACT 2538—An act imposing a license tax upon itinerant vendors of drugs, nostrums, ointments, or appliances sold for the cure of disease, injuries, or deformities.

History: Approved March 20, 1903, Stats. 1903, p. 284. Amended March 21, 1907, Stats. 1907, p. 765; March 19, 1909, Stats. 1909, p. 419.

License required.

§ 1. No person as principal or agent, shall conduct as an itinerant vendor the business of selling or in any manner disposing of drugs, nostrums, ointments or any appliances for the treatment of disease, deformities or injuries, within this state, without previously obtaining a license therefor as herein provided. [Amendment approved March 19, 1909, Stats. 1909, p. 419.]

Fee. Term of license. Pharmaceutical firms. Ex-Union soldiers.

§ 2. A license fee of one hundred dollars is hereby levied upon all such itinerant vendors doing business in this state. Said tax shall be paid to the state board of pharmacy, for the use and benefit of the state of California, and shall constitute a special fund for the enforcement of this act, and of the provisions of the act or acts creating such board of pharmacy. Upon the receipt of said sum from any persons desiring to conduct such business within this state, the secretary of said board of pharmacy shall issue a license to such person to carry on such business within this state for the term of six months next ensuing; provided that nothing in this act shall be construed to prevent the collection of any tax or license that may be imposed by any county or municipal authority; and provided, further, that nothing herein contained shall prevent manufacturing pharmaceutical firms from placing their products on the market through their agents and managers subject to the provisions of section 3 of this act. The said board of pharmacy may allow such license to be transferred during the life thereof on such terms as the board of pharmacy may deem proper; provided, however, that nothing in this act shall be held to repeal or modify the provisions of an act approved March 30, 1905, "An act permitting all ex-Union soldiers and sailors of the Civil War, honorably discharged from military or marine service of the United States, the right to vend, hawk and peddle goods, wares, fruits or merchandise not prohibited by law, in any county, town or village, incorporated city or municipality in the state of California, without paying a license." [Amendment approved March 21, 1907, Stats. 1907, p. 765.]

Itinerant vendors defined.

§ 3. Itinerant vendors under the meaning of this act shall include all persons who carry on the business above described by passing from house to house, or by haranguing the people on the public streets or in public places, or use the various customary devices for attracting crowds and therewith recommending their wares, and offering them for sale.

Statement to controller.

§ 4. Said board of pharmacy shall on the first day of July of each year make a verified and itemized statement in writing to the controller of this state, of all receipts and disbursements of money coming into their hands by reason of this act.

Penalty for violation of this act.

§ 5. Any person violating any of the provisions of this act, who shall without such license, sell or offer for sale any of the above-described drugs, nostrums, ointments, or appliances, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and for such breach of this act upon conviction therefor, shall be punished by a fine of not less than one hundred dollars nor more than two hundred and fifty dollars, or by imprisonment in the county jail for not less than fifty days or more than one hundred and twenty days, or both such fine and imprisonment. All fines recovered under this act shall be paid by the magistrate receiving the same, to the state board of pharmacy, and by said board placed in the special fund created by section 2 of this act.

Proof required.

§ 6. In all actions or prosecutions under this act it need not be alleged in the complaint nor proved by the prosecution that the defendant has not a license as required in this act, but the fact that he has such license may be plead as a matter of defense.

Repeal of conflicting acts.

§ 7. All acts or parts of acts conflicting with this act [are] hereby repealed, in and so far as they conflict.

§ 8. This act shall take effect and be in force sixty days after its passage.

1. Constitutionality.—Fourteenth amendment.—The act of 1903 (234) as amended in 1907 (765) and 1909 (419), regulating and licensing the selling of drugs by itinerant vendors, is not repugnant to the fourteenth amendment to the federal constitution.—In re Gilstrap, 171 Cal. 108, 115, Ann. Cas. 1917A, 1086, 152 Pac. 42.

2. Same—Valid exercise of police power.—The act constitutes a valid exercise of the police power of the state.—In re Gilstrap, 171 Cal. 108, 115, Ann. Cas. 1917A, 1086, 152 Pac. 42.

3. Same—General law.—It is clear that the license tax is a general law, enforceable in every part of the state.—In re Gilstrap, 171 Cal. 108, 116, Ann. Cas. 1917A, 1086, 152 Pac. 42.

4. Same—Not attempt to tax, but to regulate.—The act is not an attempt to exercise the power of taxation for purposes of revenue, but is merely intended to regulate the business of selling drugs by itinerant vendors under the police power.—In re Gilstrap, 171 Cal. 108, 117, Ann. Cas. 1917A, 1086, 152 Pac. 42.

5. "Itinerant vendor," broad enough to include "hawkers" and "peddlers."—The definition of an itinerant vendor as found in section 3 of the act, is broad enough to include hawkers and peddlers.—In re Gilstrap, 171 Cal. 108, 112, Ann. Cas. 1917A, 1086, 152 Pac. 42.

6. License tax reasonably necessary for regulation.—It can not be held as matter of law that the amount of the license fee prescribed is not reasonably necessary for the regulation of the business.—In re Gilstrap, 171 Cal. 108, 123, Ann. Cas. 1917A, 1086, 152 Pac. 42.

7. Act and pharmacy act supplementary.—The act of 1903 and the pharmacist act are supplementary and together are intended to constitute the legislative plan for regulating the entire business of selling drugs, nostrums, and ointments.—In re Gilstrap, 177 Cal. 108, 122, Ann. Cas. 1917A, 1086, 152 Pac. 42.

8. No conflict.—The third proviso of the amendment of 1907 has no application to the legislation prescribing the license tax, inasmuch as the act prescribes a state license tax, and the exemption act of 1905 referred to in the amendment plainly is limited to local licenses.—In re Gilstrap, 171 Cal. 108, 120, Ann. Cas. 1917A, 1086, 152 Pac. 42.

BICYCLE LICENSE.

ACT 2539—An act to authorize counties, cities and counties, and incorporated towns, and chartered or incorporated cities, to license bicycles, tricycles, and similar vehicles, and collect a fee therefor, for the purpose of devoting such fee to the construction of paths along county roads for the use of pedestrians, and the wheeling thereon of such vehicles.

History: Became a law under constitutional provision without governor's approval, March 16, 1901, Stats. 1901, p. 324.

Governing bodies may tax bicycles, tricycles, automobiles, etc.

§ 1. Counties, cities and counties, chartered or incorporated cities and towns in the state of California, are hereby, through the governing bodies thereof, authorized and permitted to license the use of bicycles, tricycles, automobile carriages and carts, and similar wheeled vehicles, propelled by the power of the rider, or by motor under control of the rider, owned, rented, and used within the several jurisdictions above named; provided, that such license shall be granted and issued only on payment of a fee not to exceed one dollar a year for each of such vehicles; and further provided, that the money so collected shall be appropriated and used only for the purpose of constructing and maintaining paths and walkways for the use of pedestrians, and the wheeling of the above-named vehicles; and provided also, that the sum of the taxes paid to the state, county, town, or municipality, upon any vehicle the use of which is hereby authorized to be licensed, shall be deducted from the amount of the license fee hereby authorized, and credited upon the license; it being the intention that any license fee hereby authorized shall be collected in such less sum as is represented by the subtraction of the personal property tax from the sum of the license fee fixed by such ordinance.

How license fee shall be collected.

§ 2. When an ordinance establishing such license and fixing such license fee is passed, the fee shall be collected and the license issued in the manner and by the officer or officers provided for the issuance and collection of other licenses, and the governing body of such jurisdictions named in section 1 of this act may devise such label, tag, or certificate as is deemed necessary to be witness of the possession of such license, and the payment of such fee; provided, that no license shall be required for any vehicle so named in this act as is in the possession of a merchant, manufacturer, or dealer, for the purposes of sale or barter, and not for use by the owner or his or her agent, or by persons to whom such vehicles are rented for use, by the hour, the day, the week, or other period of time.

Ordinances to enforce collection of licenses.

§ 3. It shall be lawful for such governing bodies to provide in such ordinance or ordinances for the enforcement of penalties for the violation thereof, or for failure or refusal to take such license, or pay such license fee; provided, that no penalty shall exceed the sum of the said license fee, with the costs of collection and prosecution under the ordinance added thereto; nor shall any judgment of imprisonment exceed a period of twenty-four hours for violation of said ordinance.

Application of funds derived from licenses.

§ 4. It shall be lawful to provide in any such ordinance authorized by this act, for the application of the money collected to the construction and maintenance of such paths, by said towns or cities, or consolidated cities and counties, without the limits of such town and municipal jurisdictions, but within the county, by and with the consent of the board of supervisors of such county.

Jurisdiction under the provisions of this act. Visitors and temporary residents not to be taxed.

§ 5. No municipal or town authority in this act referred to shall have authority by ordinance or otherwise to license any such vehicle for use as is in this act referred to, except the same is owned by a resident of such municipal or town jurisdiction, or is used by a resident of such jurisdiction; nor shall any county, by ordinance or otherwise, lay such license upon the use of any such vehicle named in this act, or require a license fee therefor, except the same is owned or used by a resident of the county without the boundaries of town or municipal jurisdictions in the county; provided, that if any town or municipal authority authorized under this act does not provide for such ordinance of license and fee as is permitted by this act, then, and in that case, the governing body of the county may by ordinance provide for the license herein provided for and permitted, and the collection of the fee authorized by this act, so as to make the same applicable to the residents of such town or municipality. But in no case shall any license or fee be required of travelers in counties other than that of their residence, nor from tourists, or visitors, or temporary residents of any city, town, city and county, or county.

Expenses incident to this act to be paid from collections.

§ 6. All costs and charges for licenses herein provided for, for tags, or visible evidences of issuance and possession of license, for receipts for payment of the license fee, and other necessary and inseparable expense related to such licenses, shall be paid from the sum of such collections of fees; provided, that no additional salary or fee shall be paid to any officer of any county, or town, or city, or city and county, for services in issuing or delivering licenses provided for by this act, or for collecting the fees therefor, authorized and provided for in this act.

§ 7. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

2549. LOGGERS' LIEN.

LIEN ON LIVESTOCK FOR FEEDING, ETC.

ACT 2545—An act to secure a lien on livestock kept, fed, or pastured by ranchmen and stable keepers.

History: Approved April 4, 1870, Stats. 1869-70, p. 723.

Not repealed by codes.—Johnson v. Perry, 53 Cal. 351.

This act is partially superseded, at least, see Kerr's Cyc. Civil Code, § 3051.

LOGGERS' LIEN.

ACT 2549—An act giving a lien to loggers and laborers employed in logging camps upon the logs cut and hauled.

History: Approved March 30, 1878, Stats. 1877-78, p. 747. Amended April 12, 1880, Stats. 1880, p. 38; March 8, 1887, Stats. 1887, p. 53.

Labor with logs; lien upon.

§ 1. A person who labors at cutting, hauling, rafting, driving logs or lumber, or who performs any labor in or about a logging-camp necessary for the getting out or transportation of logs or lumber, shall have a lien thereon for the amount due for his personal services, which shall take precedence of all other claims, to continue for thirty days after the logs or lumber arrive at the place of destination, for sale or manufacture, except as hereinafter provided. [Amendment approved April 12, 1880, Stats. 1880, p. 38.]

Lien to cease; how and when.

§ 2. The lien hereby created shall cease and determine unless the claimant thereof shall, within twenty days from the time of such labor shall have been completed, file and record in the office of the county recorder of the county where such labor was performed a verified claim, containing a statement:

First. Of his demand, after deducting all just credits and offsets.

Second. The time within which such labor was done.

Third. The name of the person or persons for which the same was done.

Fourth. The place where the logs or timber upon which such lien is claimed are believed to be situated, and the marks upon the same.

Fifth. The reputed owner thereof; and,

Sixth. The reputed owner of the land from which the same were cut and hauled.

Suits to be commenced in proper courts.

§ 3. All liens hereby provided for shall cease and determine unless suit to foreclose the same shall be commenced in the proper court within twenty-five days from the time the same are filed. [Amendment approved April 12, 1880, Stats. 1880, p. 39.]

Plaintiff to have lumber attached.

§ 4. The plaintiff in any such suit, at the time of issuing the summons, or at any time afterward, may have the logs or timber upon which such lien subsists attached, as further security for the payment of any judgment he may recover, unless defendant give him good and sufficient security to pay such judgment, in which event such logs shall be forthwith discharged by the sheriff from such attachment, and from the lien hereby created.

Clerk to issue writ.

§ 5. The clerk of the court must issue the writ of attachment upon receiving an affidavit by or on behalf of the plaintiff, showing:

First. That defendant is indebted to the plaintiff upon a demand for labor, for which his claim has been duly filed in accordance with section two of this act.

Second. That the sum for which the attachment is asked is an actual bona fide existing debt, due and owing from the defendant to the plaintiff, and that the attachment is not sought, and the action is not prosecuted, to hinder, delay, or defraud any creditor or creditors of the defendant.

Sheriff to attach logs.

§ 6. The writ must be directed to the sheriff of the county, and must require him to attach and safely keep the logs and timber specified in such lien, or so much thereof as may be sufficient to satisfy plaintiff's demand, unless the defendant give good and sufficient security, as provided in this act, in which case to take such security and discharge any attachment he may have made, and to deliver up such logs to defendant, who shall receive the same free from the lien upon which such suit is brought.

Sections made applicable.

§ 7. Sections five hundred and thirty-nine, eleven hundred and eighty-nine, eleven hundred and ninety-five, eleven hundred and ninety-seven, eleven hundred and ninety-eight, and eleven hundred and ninety-nine of the Code of Civil Procedure are hereby made applicable to this act. [Amendment approved March 8, 1887, Stats. 1887, p. 53.]

Attachment; how made.

§ 8. Such attachment shall be made by taking such logs into possession, and the sheriff shall make an inventory and return of his proceedings as directed in chapter four, title seven, of the Code of Civil Procedure.

Where lien shall extend.

§ 9. The lien provided for by this act shall in no case extend beyond the limits of the county in which the logs or timber in controversy were cut.

§ 10. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Superseded except as to procedure.—See Kerr's Cyc. Civil Code, § 3065.

Code commissioner's note: Concerning this statute the code commissioner says: "So much of the statute of 1877-78, p. 747, as amended in 1880, p. 38, and 1887, p. 53, relating to loggers' liens, as is deemed necessary to be preserved, is codified in the above section." The act is inserted here because that portion relating to the procedure is certainly in force.

TAMPERING WITH ANIMALS.

ACT 2560—An act to prevent tampering with animals, and to prevent the giving or administering of poison or drugs to horses, cattle, dogs, animals, and other live-stock, except for medicinal purposes, and making the same a misdemeanor.

History: Approved March 23, 1901, Stats. 1901, p. 553.

Unlawful administering of drugs to animals on exhibition.

§ 1. It shall be unlawful for any person or persons, except for medicinal purposes, to administer any poison, drug, medicine, or other noxious substance, to any horse, stud, mule, ass, mare, horned cattle, neat cattle, gelding, colt, filly, dog, animals, or other live-stock, entered or about to be entered in any race or upon any race course in the state of California, or entered or about to be entered at or with any agricultural park, or association, race-course, or corporation, or other exhibition for competition for prize, reward, purse, premium, stake, sweepstakes, or other reward, or to expose any such poison, drug, medicine, or noxious substance, with intent that the same shall be taken, inhaled, swallowed, or otherwise received by any horse, stud, mule, ass, mare, horned cattle, neat cattle, gelding, colt, filly, dog, animal, or other live-stock, with intent to impede or affect the speed, endurance, sense, health, physical condition, or other character or quality of such above-mentioned animal, or other live-stock.

Same.

§ 2. It shall be unlawful for any person or persons to cause to be taken by or placed upon or in the body of any horse, stud, mule, ass, mare, horned cattle, neat cattle, gelding, colt, filly, dog, animal, or other live-stock, entered or about to be entered in any race upon any race-course in the state of California, or entered or about to be entered at or with any agricultural park, association, race-course, or corporation, or other exhibition for competition for prize, reward, purse, premium, stake, sweepstakes, or other reward, and sponge, wood, or foreign substance of any kind, with intent to impede or affect the speed, endurance, sense, health, physical condition, of such horse, stud, mule, ass, mare, horned cattle, neat cattle, gelding, colt, filly, dog, animal, or other live-stock.

Penalty.

§ 3. Any person or persons who shall violate any of the provisions of sections one or two of this act shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Conflicting acts repealed.

§ 4. All acts or parts of acts in conflict with the provisions of this act are hereby repealed.

Act takes effect when.

§ 5. This act shall take effect immediately.

IMPORTATION OF DISEASED LIVESTOCK.

ACT 2565—An act to prevent importation into the state of California of horses, mules, dairy cattle and breeding bulls which are affected with communicable diseases, providing for the inspection or certification of such animals before being brought into the state of California, exempting certain animals from such inspection or certification, providing penalties for violating any of the provisions of this act, and repealing an act approved June 4, 1913, entitled "An act to prevent the importation into the state of California of horses, mules, asses, or cattle which are affected with any infectious or contagious disease; to provide for the inspection of such animals before they are brought into the state; to repeal an act entitled, "An act to prevent the importation of neat cattle for dairy or breeding purposes affected with tuberculosis into the state of California," approved March 7, 1911; to repeal an act entitled "An act to prevent the importation of horses, mules and asses affected with glanders into the state of California," approved March 7, 1911.

History: Approved April 12, 1915. In effect August 8, 1915. Stats. 1915, p. 59. Prior acts (1) of March 23, 1893, Stats. 1893, p. 302, to prevent the spread of contagious diseases among domestic animals; codified in 1901; See Kerr's Cyc. Penal Code, § 402d; (2) of March 7, 1911, Stats. 1911, p. 292, and (3) of March 7, 1911, Stats. 1911, p. 293; both of which were repealed by the act (4) of June 4, 1913. In effect August 8, 1913, Stats. 1913, p. 379, which was repealed by the present act.

Importation of live stock.

§ 1. It shall be unlawful for any person, firm, company or corporation, their agents and servants, to bring into the state of California any horses, mules, dairy cattle or breeding bulls except as hereinafter otherwise provided.

Cattle.

(a) Dairy cattle and breeding bulls over six months of age must be accompanied by a certificate of health and tuberculin test record signed by a qualified veterinarian showing that each of said animals is free from communicable diseases, including tuberculosis, and copy of such certificate and tuberculin test record shall be mailed to the state veterinarian of the state of California on the day the shipment of said animals starts from its origin.

Statement of state veterinarian.

(b) In lieu of such certificate of health and tuberculin test record, as provided for in subdivision (a) of this section, said dairy cattle and breeding bulls may be brought into the state of California, provided said animals are accompanied by a signed statement issued by the state veterinarian or other authority in charge of live stock sanitary work in the state from which such animals are transported, stating that the animals in the shipment originated in herds which are free from tuberculosis and are not affected with any communicable disease; and a copy of said statement shall be mailed to the state veterinarian of the state of California on the day the shipment of said animals starts from its origin.

Horses and mules.

(c) Horses and mules must be accompanied by a certificate of health signed by a qualified veterinarian, stating that each animal in the shipment is free from communicable diseases, and a copy of said certificate shall be mailed to the state veterinarian of the state of California on the day the shipment of said animals starts from its origin.

(d) In lieu of the certificate provided for in subdivision (c) of this section, horses and mules may be brought into the state of California, provided said animals are accompanied by a signed statement issued by the state veterinarian or other authority in charge of live stock sanitary work in the state from which said animals are transported stating that each animal in the shipment is free from communicable diseases, and has not recently been exposed to any communicable disease, and a copy of said statement shall be mailed to the state veterinarian of the state of California on the day the shipment of said animals starts from its origin.

Exemptions.

§ 2. Animals accompanying shipments of emigrant movables shall be exempt from the inspection or certification as provided for in this act. It is further provided that when horses, mules, dairy and breeding cattle are being brought into the state of California for exhibition or theatrical purposes, said animals shall likewise be exempt from the inspection and certification as provided for in this act; provided, however, that when dairy or breeding bulls which have been brought into the state of California for exhibition purposes are sold to remain in the state of California, said animals shall be subjected to the tuberculin test and certified to as free from tuberculosis by the state veterinarian of the state of California before said animals are delivered to the purchaser.

Quarantine against communicable diseases.

§ 3. Whenever it shall have been determined by the state veterinarian that a communicable disease exists among domestic animals in any other state or territory in the United States, or foreign country, and the importation of animals from said state or territory, or foreign country might spread such disease among animals within the state of California, nothing in this act shall be so construed as to prevent or prohibit the governor of the state of California from issuing his proclamation quarantining said state or territory, or foreign country or from prescribing the regulations under which animals might be imported into the state of California from said state or territory, or foreign country.

Act 1913 repealed.

§ 4. That certain act of the legislature of the state of California approved June 4, 1913, entitled "An act to prevent the importation into the state of California of horses, mules, asses, or cattle which are affected with any infectious or contagious disease; to provide for the inspection of such animals before they are brought into the state; to repeal an act entitled 'An act to prevent the importation of neat cattle for dairy or breeding purposes affected with tuberculosis into the state of California,' approved March 7, 1911; to repeal an act entitled 'An act to prevent the importation of horses, mules, and asses affected with glanders into the state of California,' " approved March 7, 1911, is hereby repealed.

Penalty.

§ 5. Any person, firm, company or corporation, their agents, servants and employees, who shall violate any of the provisions of this act shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof, shall be punished by a fine of not more than five hundred dollars, or by imprisonment in the county jail for a term not exceeding one hundred and eighty days, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

PREVENTING INTRODUCTION OF RABIES.

ACT 2566—An act to prevent the introduction of rabies or other animal diseases dangerous to human beings, into portions of the state not infected; to control the spread of such diseases after introduction; and authorizing the state board of health to make rules and regulations therefor.

History: Approved June 13, 1913. In effect August 10, 1913. Stats. 1913, p. 783.

Quarantine of districts infected with rabies. Quarantine defined.

§ 1. Whenever any case or cases of rabies, or other animal diseases dangerous to the health of human beings which may be declared by the state board of health as coming under the provisions of this act, shall be reported as existing in any county, city and county, or incorporated city or town in the state of California, the state board of health shall make, or cause to be made a preliminary investigation as to whether such disease does exist, and as to the probable area of the state in which the population or animals are thereby endangered. If upon such examination the state board of health shall find that any of the said diseases does exist, a quarantine shall be declared against all such animals as may be designated in the quarantine order, and living within the area specified in said order. Quarantine shall be defined for the purposes of this act as meaning the strict confinement, upon the private premises of the owners under restraint by leash or closed cage or paddock, of all animals specified by the order.

Board of health to investigate extent of disease.

§ 2. Following the order of quarantine the state board of health shall make or cause to be made a thorough investigation as to the extent of the disease, the probable number of persons and animals exposed, and the area found to be involved; and may substitute for the quarantine order such regulations as may be deemed adequate for the control of the disease in each area.

Enforcement of act.

§ 3. It shall be the duty of all peace officers and boards of health to carry out the provisions of this act. During the period for which any quarantine order is in force all officers are empowered to kill or in their discretion to capture and hold for further action by the state board of health or its representatives, all animals in a quarantine area, found on public highways, lands and streets, or not held in restraint on private premises as specified in this act.

Officers may enter private premises.

§ 4. All proper officials within the meaning of this act are hereby authorized to examine and enter upon all private premises for the enforcement of this act.

Owners violating subject to arrest.

§ 5. Any owner, or other person in the possession of any animal then being held or maintained in violation of the provisions of this act, shall be subject to arrest on the charge of committing a misdemeanor.

Rabies treatment fund created.

§ 6. For the purpose of providing funds to pay the expenses incurred in connection with the eradication of diseases included under this act, a special fund, to be known as the rabies treatment and eradication fund, is hereby created for each county, city and county, or incorporated city or town in the state of California. All moneys collected in accordance with the following procedure shall be deposited to the credit of this fund with the treasurer of the county, city and county, or incorporated city or town; provided, that funds now collected from any dog tax may continue to be collected and used for other purposes specified by local ordinances.

Special dog tax.

(a) Upon the determination by the state board of health that rabies does exist in any county, city and county, or incorporated city or town, a special dog license tax shall immediately become effective, unless a dog tax is already in force the funds from which are available for the payment of expenditures in accordance with the provisions of this act. This tax shall be levied as follows: An annual tax of one dollar and fifty cents for each male, two dollars and fifty cents for each female, and one dollar and fifty cents for each neuter dog, the same to be collected by the proper authority at the same time and in the same manner as other taxes are collected; provided, however, that there shall be collected at the first collection such proportion of the annual tax as corresponds to the number of months the tax has been in operation plus one year advance payment. After this dog license tax has been established in a county, city and county, or incorporated city or town, it shall be continued in force until an order has been issued by the state board of health declaring that county, or such portion of that county as may be deemed advisable, to be free from rabies or further danger of its spread.

One half of fines to credit of fund.

(b) One-half of all fines collected by any court or judge for violations of the provisions of this act shall be placed to the credit of the rabies treatment and eradication fund of the county, city and county, incorporated city or town in which the violation occurred.

Special measures of control. Expenditures.

§ 7. Whenever it becomes necessary in the judgment of the state board of health or its secretary, to enforce the provisions of this act in any county, city and county, or incorporated city or town, the said board or its secretary may institute special measures of control to supplement the efforts of the local authorities in any county, city and county, or incorporated city or town whose duties are specified in this act. All expenditures incurred in enforcing such special measures shall be proper charges against the special fund created by the provisions of this act, and shall be paid as they accrue by the proper authorities of each county, city and county, or incorporated city or town in which they have been incurred; provided, that all such expenditures which may be incurred after the issuance of the order establishing the said fund and before the first collection of the tax, shall be paid as they accrue from the general fund of the county, city and county, or incorporated city and town; and provided, further, that all expenditures in excess of the balance of money in this fund shall likewise be paid as they accrue from said general fund. All moneys thus expended from the general fund shall be repaid from the said special fund when the collections from said tax have provided the money.

PREPARATION AND DISTRIBUTION OF VACCINES, ETC.

ACT 2567—An act to provide for the preparation and distribution of serums or vaccines for the prevention of the disease known as cholera in hogs in the state of California, making an appropriation therefor and prescribing the duties of the controller and treasurer in relation thereto.

History: Approved April 21, 1911, Stats. 1911, p. 1064.

University to prepare hog cholera serums.

§ 1. The regents of the University of California are hereby directed to cause to be prosecuted with all possible diligence, through the agricultural experiment station, the preparation of serums or vaccines that will produce immunity in hogs against the disease known as cholera.

Serums to be furnished free.

§ 2. The regents of the University of California are hereby further authorized and directed to furnish such serums or vaccines, in quantities not exceeding five hundred cubic centimeters, as soon as possible after this act takes effect free of charge to any bona fide resident of the state of California who is engaged in the raising of hogs, upon application by such resident hog raiser.

In excess of five hundred cubic centimeters at cost.

§ 3. The regents of the University of California are also hereby further authorized and directed to furnish to any bona fide resident of this state, who is engaged in the raising of hogs, such serums or vaccines in quantities in excess of five hundred cubic centimeters, upon the applicant paying therefor the actual cost of the production of such serums or vaccines.

To owners only whose hogs are sick or in danger.

§ 4. It is herewith provided that no serums or vaccines shall be furnished free of charge to any one unless the applicant shall have first furnished sufficient evidence that the disease known as cholera exists among his hogs or among the hogs in his immediate neighborhood, and in such latter case evidence shall be furnished by said applicant that there is danger of the disease being communicated to the applicant's hogs.

Selling, etc., a misdemeanor.

§ 5. Any person who shall sell, give away or misuse any of the serums so furnished shall, upon conviction thereof, be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and be punished as in such cases provided by law.

Assistance, etc.

§ 6. The director of the agricultural experiment station shall obtain and establish such assistance, equipment, materials, appliances, apparatus and other necessary incidentals as may be necessary to the successful prosecution of this work within the appropriation herein specified.

Appropriation.

§ 7. The sum of sixteen thousand ($16,000) dollars is hereby appropriated out of any money in the state treasury not otherwise appropriated, six thousand ($6,000) dollars of which shall be available for the balance of the sixty-second fiscal year and ten thousand ($10,000) dollars of which shall be available during the sixty-third and sixty-fourth fiscal years for the use of said experiment station to be expended by the regents of the University of California in carrying out the purposes of this act, and the state controller is hereby authorized and directed to draw his warrant for the same, and the state treasurer is hereby directed to pay such warrant.

Disposition of funds.

§ 8. All money appropriated under this act, and all money received for the sale of said serums or vaccines as provided for in section 3 of this act, shall be paid to the regents of the University of California, and shall be expended under the direction of the director of the agricultural experiment station of said university for the specific purposes herein named.

PREPARATION, INSPECTION AND SALE OF HOG CHOLERA SERUMS, ETC.

ACT 2568—An act prohibiting the preparation, sale, barter, shipment or exchange of any worthless, contaminated, dangerous or harmful hog cholera serum or virus; requiring every establishment for the preparation of hog cholera serum, virus, vaccine or antitoxin to be inspected and licensed by the director of the agricultural experiment station of the University of California; and providing penalties for violation of any of the provisions hereof.

History: Approved June 1, 1915. In effect August 8, 1915. Stats. 1915, p. 1064.

Unlawful to sell dangerous hog cholera serum.

§ 1. It shall be unlawful for any person, firm or corporation to prepare, sell, barter, ship or exchange in this state any worthless, contaminated, dangerous or harmful hog cholera serum, virus, vaccine or antitoxin.

Must be prepared under direction of University of California.

§ 2. It shall be unlawful for any person, firm or corporation to prepare, sell, barter, ship or exchange in this state any hog cholera serum, virus, vaccine or antitoxin unless and until the said serum, virus, vaccine or antitoxin shall have been prepared under and in compliance with the regulations prescribed by the director of the agricultural experiment station of the University of California, hereinafter referred to as director, at an establishment holding, and operating under, an unsuspended and unrevoked license issued by the director as herein authorized.

Director authorized to inspect serum.

§ 3. The director is hereby authorized to examine and inspect all hog cholera serum, virus, vaccine or antitoxin prepared, sold, bartered, shipped or exchanged in this state and to make and promulgate from time to time such rules and regulations as may be necessary to prevent the preparation, sale, barter, shipment or exchange of any worthless, contaminated, dangerous or harmful hog cholera serum, virus, vaccine or antitoxin and to issue, suspend and revoke licenses for the maintenance of establishments for the preparation of hog cholera serum, virus, vaccine or antitoxin.

Licenses for establishments preparing serum.

§ 4. The licenses issued under the authority of this act to establishments where hog cholera serums, viruses, vaccines or antitoxins are prepared for sale, barter, shipment or exchange shall be issued on condition that the licensee shall permit the inspection of such establishment and of such products and their preparation; and the director may suspend or revoke any permit or license issued under the authority of this act after opportunity for hearing has been granted the licensee, when the director is satisfied that such license is being used to facilitate or effect the preparation, sale, barter, shipment or exchange of worthless, contaminated, dangerous or harmful hog cholera serum, virus, vaccine or antitoxin.

Director may freely enter establishments.

§ 5. The director and each of his agents duly authorized for the purpose may at any time enter and inspect any establishment where any hog cholera serum, virus, vaccine or antitoxin is prepared.

Construction of act.

§ 6. Neither this act nor any provision thereof, except when specifically so stated, shall apply or be construed to apply to commerce with foreign nations or commerce among the several states of this union, except in so far as the same may be permitted under the provisions of the constitution of the United States and the acts of congress.

Violation. Penalty.

§ 7. Any person, firm or corporation who shall violate any provision of this act shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be punished by a fine of not exceeding one thousand dollars or by imprisonment in the county jail not exceeding one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

License tax.

§ 8. For the purpose of carrying into effect this act the regents of the University of California are hereby authorized to collect and there shall be paid to the regents of the University of California by every manufacturer, importer, agent or dealer in hog cholera serum, virus, vaccine or antitoxin, a license tax of one mill for every cubic centimeter of serum, virus, vaccine or antitoxin sold or distributed, and each manufacturer or importer of any hog cholera serum, virus, vaccine or antitoxin shall file with the secretary of the board of regents of the university of the state of California, quarterly, a sworn statement showing all sales of hog cholera serum, virus, vaccine or antitoxin for the preceding quarter, accompanied by a corresponding amount of the license tax above specified; provided, however, that nothing herein shall prevent the sale or distribution of hog cholera serum, virus, vaccine or antitoxin produced in a laboratory holding a license issued by the United States department of agriculture to manufacture or import hog cholera serum, virus, vaccine or antitoxin.

PREVENTION OF SPREAD OF CONTAGIOUS ANIMAL DISEASES.

ACT 2568a—An act to prevent the spread of contagious diseases among animals.

History: Approved March 20, 1905, Stats. 1905, p. 317.

Cremation or burial of animals dying from certain diseases.

§ 1. Any person having the care, custody or control of any animal that dies from tuberculosis, glanders, farcy, Texas fever, or other infectious disease shall immediately upon the death of such animal cremate or bury the same, or cause the same to be cremated or buried.

Transportation of animals having certain diseases a misdemeanor.

§ 2. Any common carrier of persons or freight that shall transport any animal suffering with or that has died from the diseases, or any of them, mentioned in section 1 of this act a greater distance than is necessary to transport such animal to the nearest crematory, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor.

Animals dying from certain diseases not to be sold for food.

§ 3. No animal that has died of any of the diseases named in section 1 of this act, shall be sold, used or permitted to be used for the food of human beings or sold, used or permitted to be used for the food of any domestic animal or fowl.

Penalty for violation of statute.

§ 4. Any person, firm or corporation that shall violate any of the provisions of this act shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon a conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not less than $50 and not more than $500, or by imprisonment in the county jail for a term not exceeding 180 days, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

§ 5. This act shall take effect immediately.

HERDING AND GRAZING OF LIVESTOCK BY NONRESIDENTS.

ACT 2568b—An act to regulate the herding and grazing of the live stock of nonresidents and foreign corporations upon unenclosed land in the state of California and providing a penalty for any violation of any of the provisions of this act.

History: Approved May 18, 1919. In effect July 22, 1919. Stats. 1919, p. 753.

Nonresidents must have license for herding and grazing of livestock. Exemptions.

§ 1. It shall be unlawful for any person or for any corporation who or which does not have his or its principal home ranch and live stock headquarters in the state of California, except as herein provided, to herd or graze, or to cause to be herded or grazed, upon any unenclosed lands in the state of California any sheep or bovine cattle without having first obtained from the tax collector of the county in which such herding or grazing or some portion thereof is done, a valid license authorizing such herding and grazing in the state of California. Such license shall be issued by said tax collector to and in the name of such person or corporation upon compliance by him or it with the provisions of section two of this act, and shall be valid only for the calendar year in which it is dated; provided, that any person or any corporation which does not have its principal home ranch and live stock headquarters in the state of California, owning or leasing land in the state of California, shall be exempt from any license or the payment of any license for five head of sheep for each acre so owned or leased, and three head of bovine cattle for each acre so owned or leased.

Affidavit of applicant for license.

§ 2. As conditions precedent to the issuance of said license, the applicant therefor shall:

1. File with said tax collector an affidavit which shall explicitly and truly state the following facts:

(a) If the applicant is a nonresident person, his name and place of residence; or, if the applicant is a corporation, its name, the state under whose laws it is incorporated, the date of its incorporation, its principal place of business, and the names and addresses of its officers;

(b) The location of his or its principal home ranch and live stock headquarters;

(c) The number of acres of land owned or leased in the state of California, together with a description thereof.

2. Pay to the said tax collector the sum of fifty cents a head for each of the sheep, and the sum of two dollars a head for each of the bovine cattle proposed to be herded or grazed in the state of California, after deducting the number of sheep and cattle as exempted from the payment of said tax.

§ 3. No such person or corporation shall herd, graze, or cause to be herded or grazed upon any unenclosed land in any county in California any greater number of live stock than that for which he or it has previously obtained such license, and which is exempted under the provisions of this act.

Disposal of license fees.

§ 4. The tax collector collecting such license moneys shall be allowed to retain for his own compensation and in addition to his salary or other fees now provided by law six per centum of the said license moneys by him collected, and shall quarterly pay the remainder of such moneys into the general county road fund.

Penalty.

§ 5. Any person or corporation violating any of the provisions of this act shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be punishable by a fine not exceeding five hundred dollars, and shall be prohibited from herding, grazing, or causing to be herded or grazed any live stock in the state of California until such fine is paid.

When act shall become void.

§ 6. If any law passed at the present session of the legislature in any of the states bordering on California, similar to this bill affecting the citizens and corporations of the state of California, shall be declared unconstitutional and invalid by a court of last resort in any of said states, then this act shall immediately become inoperative and void.

The act of 1863 (Stats. 1863, p. 359) applied to the counties of Santa Clara, San Diego, San Bernardino, San Luis Obispo, Contra Costa, San Mateo, Alameda, Santa Barbara and Marin. The amendment of 1863-

64 extended the provisions of the act to Los Angeles county. The act of 1866 (Stats. 1865-66, p. 322) applied to the counties of Fresno, Tulare, Monterey and Mariposa.

EXTERMINATION OF BOOPHILUS ANNULATUS TICK.

ACT 2568c—An act providing for the extermination of the Boophilus annulatus tick, defining certain crimes and providing for certain civil and criminal actions.

History: Approved March 21, 1907, Stats. 1907, p. 763. Amended February 23, 1909, Stats. 1909, p. 55.

Sale of infected cattle prohibited. Punishment. Exception.

§ 1. Any person who shall willfully or intentionally sell, offer for sale, or expose in such manner as may infest other cattle or other live stock not so infested, any cattle having thereon or being infested with boophilus annulatus tick, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor; provided, however, that the moving or handling of tick infested cattle when same are to be immediately slaughtered, and where said cattle are loaded on railroad cars at point of origin of said cattle, shall not be deemed to be a willful or intentional exposing of such cattle as referred to in this section. [Amendment of February 23, 1909. Stats. and Amdts. 1909, p. 55. In effect immediately.]

When must be dipped or treated.

§ 1½. Whenever cattle infested with or exposed to the infestation of the boophilus annulatus tick are to be moved for the purpose of immediate slaughter, and where no provisions are made for the loading of such cattle directly into railroad cars at their point of origin, such cattle shall only be moved or allowed to move after said cattle have first been dipped or otherwise treated in a manner as directed by the state veterinarian or his duly authorized deputy. [Added February 23, 1909. Stats. and Amdts. 1909, p. 55. In effect immediately.]

Duty of state veterinarian.

§ 2. Whenever upon examination of any cattle located in any county of the state of California the state veterinarian or his duly authorized deputy shall find such cattle or any portion of them to be infested with the boophilus annulatus tick he shall forthwith notify in writing the owner or person in control of such cattle to dip or otherwise treat all said cattle in a manner as directed by said state veterinarian or his duly authorized deputy for the purpose of eradicating such tick. Such owner or person in control of such cattle shall, within a period of fifteen days after receiving such notice, dip or otherwise treat such cattle in a manner as directed by the state veterinarian or his duly authorized deputy for the purpose of so eradicating such tick. [Amendment of February 23, 1909. Stats. and Amdts. 1909, p. 55. In effect immediately.]

District attorney to be informed.

§ 3. If upon examining said cattle after the expiration of said period of fifteen days the said state veterinarian or his duly authorized deputy shall find that said cattle have not been so dipped or otherwise treated in a manner as directed by said state veterinarian or his duly authorized deputy, such officer shall immediately notify the district attorney of the county in which such cattle may be located. [Amendment of February 23, 1909. Stats. and Amdts. 1909, p. 55. In effect immediately.]

State veterinarian to take possession of cattle, when.

§ 4. If upon such second examination the state veterinarian or his duly authorized deputy shall find that said cattle have not been dipped or otherwise treated in a manner as directed by said state veterinarian or his duly authorized deputy for the purpose of eradicating and destroying said tick, said officer shall immediately take possession of said cattle and proceed to eradicate and destroy said tick by dipping or causing to be dipped or by otherwise treating said cattle. [Amendment of February 23, 1909. Stats. and Amdts. 1909, p. 55. In effect immediately.]

Expenses of dipping.

§ 5. All the expenses and costs of so dipping and treating said cattle shall become and remain a lien on said cattle until such lien is paid or foreclosed as provided by law.

Action to foreclose lien for expenses.

§ 6. If such lien is not paid within fifteen days after the said expenses and costs are incurred, then the state veterinarian shall, in the name of the people of the state of California, commence an action to foreclose said lien. Such action shall be commenced, tried and determined in all respects as provided in the Code of Civil Procedure for the foreclosure of mortgages on personal property.

Several treatments may be ordered.

§ 7. If however, upon examination at the end of fifteen days from the date on which the owner or person in control and possession of said cattle is given the notice required by section two of this act, the state veterinarian or his duly authorized deputy shall find that said cattle have been dipped or otherwise treated for the extermination of such ticks but are still infested with the same then he shall instruct the owner or person in possession of said cattle to dip or otherwise treat said cattle one or more time[s] as the circumstances may demand, and within such time as the state veterinarian or his duly authorized deputy shall deem advisable.

State veterinarian may repeatedly take possession.

§ 8. If upon examination at any time the said state veterinarian or his duly authorized deputy again finds that said cattle are again infested with said ticks or that the owner or person in control of said cattle has not continued to properly dip or otherwise treat said cattle for the purpose of destroying said ticks, then said state veterinarian or his duly authorized deputy shall take possession of said cattle one or more times as in this statute provided.

Owners jointly liable.

§ 9. In any action or proceeding, civil or criminal, arising under this act, any and all persons having an interest in the cattle or in control or possession of the same, and concerning which cattle such action or proceeding is had, shall be liable severally and jointly for each violation of the provisions of this act.

When cattle exempt from dipping.

§ 10. Whenever the state veterinarian or his duly authorized deputy is satisfied that any cattle are in process of fattening, and that such cattle will be ready for slaughter within a period of one hundred and twenty days, he shall exempt such cattle from dipping, as provided in this act.

§ 11. All acts or parts of acts in conflict with this act are hereby repealed.

COMBINATIONS TO OBSTRUCT SALE OF LIVE-STOCK.

ACT 2568d—An act to prevent combinations to obstruct the sale of live-stock in the state of California.

History: Approved February 27, 1893, Stats. 1893, p. 30.

Combinations to prevent buying live-stock prohibited.

§ 1. It shall be unlawful for any two or more persons, or corporations, to combine or agree together to do any act which will, in any respect, prevent any person from buying live-stock at any place in this state from any person having the same for sale, either for himself or as the representative or agent of the owner of the same.

Corporation prohibited.

§ 2. It shall be unlawful for any corporation organized under the laws of this state, or any board of directors or trustees, or stockholders, or agents, or officers of any corporation, to have, pass, or enforce any rule, by-law, or regulation, whereby any officer, stockholder, member, shareholder, agent, servant thereof, or any other person in any way interested in or connected with such corporation, shall in any respect be prohibited, prevented, or enjoined from buying live-stock from any other person having such live-stock for sale, either as owner thereof, or as the agent, representative, or assistant of such owner, in any market in this state where live-stock is brought to be sold.

By-laws of corporations.

§ 3. Every rule, regulation, or by-law of any corporation doing business in this state, which has for its purpose, or which, directly or indirectly, tends to prevent its members or stockholders from freely purchasing live-stock from any person lawfully having the same for sale, upon any live-stock market of this state, are hereby declared to be contrary to the public policy of this state, and unlawful and void; and any person or persons who shall attempt, directly or indirectly, to enforce any such rule, regulation, or by-law, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and, in addition to the penalties prescribed by this act, shall be personally liable for all damages which may arise from the enforcement of such rule, regulation, or by-law, to any person damaged thereby.

Trusts, combinations, or conspiracies.

§ 4. No trusts, combinations, or conspiracies shall be organized or exist in this state, to prevent any person or persons, or corporation, from selling live-stock on commission, for such an amount of commission as any person engaged in the business may see fit to charge; and all rules, regulations, by-laws, or agreements of any corporation, association, society, or combination of persons, whereby any such corporation, society, association, or combination of individuals are required to charge not less than a given sum for commissions, or whereby any person or commission merchant is, in any respect, restrained from charging less than a certain fixed sum for his services as such commission merchant in the sale of live-stock, are hereby declared to be contrary to the public policy of this state, and unlawful. And any person who shall enter into any such trust, combination, or conspiracy, or who shall enforce or aid, abet, assist, or encourage the enforcement of any such rule, regulation, by-law, or agreement, shall be liable to the penalties prescribed by this act, and also shall be personally liable to any person, individual, society, or corporation who may be injured in his property or business thereby, to the full extent of the injury resulting therefrom.

Selling live-stock at any market.

§ 5. Whoever shall, directly or indirectly, be a party to any combination, conspiracy, or association, which attempts, directly or indirectly, to prevent any other person from freely selling live-stock at any market in this state for such persons as see fit to engage his services, or shall endeavor to compel, directly or indirectly, any person to charge not less than a fixed minimum sum for services in the sale of live-stock, or shall, in any way, hinder or prevent another from lawfully selling live-stock for another, for such rate of commission as may be agreed upon by the owner of the live-stock and the commission merchant, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and suffer the penalties prescribed by this act, and shall be personally liable to any one aggrieved thereby, for the full amount of any damage sustained by such person.

Punishment.

§ 6. Any one who shall violate the provisions of this act shall be punished by a fine in any sum not less than five hundred dollars, and not more than five thousand dollars, or by imprisonment in the county jail not exceeding one year, or by either or both, in the discretion of the court, and shall be liable, in civil action, to any person aggrieved, in such damages as he or she may have sustained by the violation of this act.

§ 7. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

CATTLE PROTECTION BOARD.

ACT 2568e—An act to create a cattle protection board, to define its powers and duties, to protect the breeders and growers of cattle from theft, to provide for the registration of cattle brands and the licensing of cattle slaughterers and sellers of the meat thereof, to provide for the inspection of cattle and cattle hides for brands and marks, to provide for the collection of license and inspection fees, to provide for the creation of a fund to be known as the cattle protection fund, and to provide penalties for violation of the provisions hereof.

History: Approved May 28, 1917. In effect July 27, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 1237. Prior act of April 20, 1863, Stats. 1863, p. 354, amended March 28, 1864, Stats. 1863-64, p. 261, and act of March 20, 1866, Stats. 1865-66, p. 322, continued in force by the codes, see Kerr's Cyc. Political Code, § 19, and Kerr's Cyc. Penal Code, § 23, and probably superseded in part by the Political Code, see Kerr's Cyc. Political Code, § 3185, and wholly by the act of March 23, 1893, Stats. 1893, p. 235, which was in turn superseded by the present act.

Cattle protection board created.

§ 1. That there be and is hereby created a cattle protection board, to be appointed by the governor of the state of California, which shall consist of three members, two of whom shall be identified with and experienced in the cattle industry of the state of California and the other shall be the state veterinarian. Said board shall elect one of their number chairman. The members of said board shall each receive ten dollars per day for the time by him necessarily employed in discharging the duties required in this chapter; provided, however, that in no one year shall the board be in session more than sixty days, except upon the call of the governor.

Term. Appointees. Cattle protection fund.

The members of said board shall hold office during the pleasure of the governor. Said board is hereby authorized to appoint a secretary, counsel, inspectors, and such clerks as may be necessary to carry out the provisions of this act, and fix the salaries of said appointees. Such per diem and expenses of said members of the cattle protection board, as well as the salaries and expenses of all appointees of said board, including all other additional expenses incurred by enforcement of this act as hereinafter provided, shall be paid out of the cattle protection fund which fund is hereafter provided.

Duty of board.

Said board is hereby authorized, and it is made its duty, to exercise a general supervision over, and to protect the cattle of this state from theft and to make such rules and regulations as may be necessary to carry out the purposes and intent of this act.

Cattle brands. Record.

§ 2. Every person owning cattle in this state except as hereinafter provided may adopt a brand with which to brand his cattle; provided, such brand be not similar to the brand heretofore adopted by any other person, except by special permit issued by the cattle protection board. Said board shall cause said brands to be recorded in books kept for that purpose. The recording of a brand shall consist of depicting in the brand book a facsimile of the design of the brand adopted, together with an entry in said book bearing a statement of the name, residence, and postoffice address of the person adopting the same, the date the brand was presented for record, the place upon the animal where the brand is proposed to be used, the number of the district and a statement of the location of the range whereon such animals are to range. Before any such record shall be made, proof shall be made that the person applying to have such brand recorded is the owner thereof and entitled to use the same.

Districts.

The said board may divide the state into a number of districts. Such districts may be changed from time to time, so that all of the persons engaged in raising cattle within the state of California may adopt and record a brand, without requiring that any one brand shall be adopted or recorded in any two contiguous districts; provided, however, that where cattle in two or more contiguous districts are owned by one person, said person shall have the right to the use of said brand in contiguous districts.

Fees. Forfeiture.

§ 3. The sum of two dollars shall be paid to said board for the recordation of any brand; for the right to the continued use of said brand, under the provisions of this act, the owner thereof shall before the first day of January of each year after its recordation transmit to the board the sum of one and one-half dollars. A failure to make such payment shall forfeit the right to use said brand.

When the right to any brand recorded hereunder shall have become forfeited, said brand shall not be recorded by any other person until after the expiration of one year from the date of the forfeiture thereof.

Unrecorded brand.

§ 4. No person shall brand any cattle in this state with a brand that has not been recorded under the provisions of this act, nor use any device to obliterate a brand.

Sale of range cattle.

§ 5. Upon the sale or transfer of any range cattle in this state, the actual delivery of such animal shall be accompanied by a written bill of sale, giving the number, kind and marks and brands of each animal, which bill of sale shall be signed by the party giving the same and acknowledged by him before two subscribing witnesses who have been freeholders of the county for at least two years.

Not applicable to registered, etc., cattle.

§ 6. It is hereby expressly provided that the provisions in this act shall not apply to registered purebred cattle or purebred cattle which can be identified as being entitled to registration, or to the dressed carcasses of veal with unmarked or unbranded hides thereon, or cows actually used for dairy purposes.

License to slaughter cattle.

§ 7. It shall be unlawful for any person to slaughter any cattle or offer for sale, barter or exchange the meat thereof, unless he shall have a license therefor issued in accordance with the provisions of this act, except as herein otherwise provided.

Bond.

Every person slaughtering cattle as a business shall do so in a designated slaughterhouse, and before he shall begin the business of slaughtering cattle or selling the meat thereof, he shall first procure from the board a license to carry on such business, under the conditions and upon the payment of the fees herein provided for. After procuring such license and before engaging in such business he shall execute a bond to the state of California, in the penal sum of one thousand dollars ($1000.00) to be approved by the secretary of the board, condition that such person shall not slaughter, sell or expose for sale any cattle or the meat thereof, without first being the legal and equitable owner thereof, or being authorized to so slaughter, sell or expose for sale such animal, or the meat thereof, by such owner, and that in case he shall violate any of the provisions hereof, he shall pay therefor double the value of such animal. The amount so recovered shall be paid as follows: One-half to the owner of such animal and the remaining one-half to the cattle protection fund.

Annual fee. Monthly report to board.

Said board shall grant to every applicant therefor, who complies with all the provisions of this act a license to slaughter cattle and sell the meat thereof for the unexpired portion of the calendar year in which said license is granted. Every applicant for such a license shall pay to said board the following annual fee which shall be paid in advance: For applicants who slaughter less than ten head per month, one dollar per annum. For applicants who slaughter more than ten head and less than fifty head per month, ten dollars per annum. For applicants who slaughter more than fifty head per month, twenty-five dollars per annum. For a shorter term than one year a proportionate part of said fee shall be paid. The applicant for such license shall state in his application where his slaughterhouse is located, and during the term of such license he shall not slaughter any cattle at any other place than that specified in his license. If the holder of a license desires to change the location of his slaughterhouse, he shall apply to said board to have such license transferred and the board may reissue such license without any additional fee.

Every holder of such a license shall, at the expiration of each calendar month, make a written report and send the same by registered mail to said board. Such report shall include the following:

(a) The number and sex of the cattle slaughtered in such establishment during the calendar month just past.

(b) The names and addresses of persons from whom said cattle were purchased or otherwise obtained.

(c) The brands and marks on said cattle.

(d) The dates on which said cattle were purchased or otherwise obtained and the dates on which said cattle were slaughtered.

Forfeit of license on failure to make statement.

Said statement shall be signed by such licensee or his duly authorized agent. Upon failure or neglect of said licensee or his duly authorized agent for a period of fifteen days to file such a statement in the manner as herein provided, the said board shall have the power and it shall be its duty to forfeit the license of such licensee; and thereafter it shall be unlawful for the owner of said slaughtering establishment, or for any other person to slaughter any cattle in said establishment until a new application is made by him to said board, accompanied by a fee of twenty-five dollars; provided, however, that said board shall have the power and it shall be its duty to refuse to renew the license of any slaughterer who has knowingly slaughtered cattle without the consent of the owner thereof.

Record by butcher of meat purchased.

§ 8. Every peddler, butcher or retailer of meats, purchasing the meat of any bovine animal, must enter in a book to be kept for that purpose and exhibit the same on demand, the name of the person from whom said meat was purchased or otherwise obtained, the date of said purchase and the quantity so purchased.

It shall be unlawful for any peddler or retailer of meat, or person in control of any butcher shop, to purchase the meat of any slaughtered bovine animal from any person not known to him to be licensed under the provisions of this act.

Any person who fails on demand to inform any officer of this state where and from whom he has obtained any meat of any bovine animal that he has in his possession, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor.

Slaughter by ranchman for own consumption.

Nothing in this act shall be so construed as to prohibit an owner of property, or a ranchman located on a definite property as a tenant, lessee or purchaser under contract, from slaughtering cattle in small numbers on said premises for his own consumption, and nothing herein shall be so construed as to prohibit such ranchman from selling or giving away a portion thereof; provided, that such person shall not be required to take out a license.

Hides retained.

§ 9. The hides of all such cattle slaughtered by the owner thereof, or removed from any cattle which have died from any cause, shall be retained in the possession of the owner where the same may be inspected, with the brands attached thereto, and without any alteration or disfiguration thereof, for a period of at least fifteen days after the death of said cattle, or until said hides are inspected.

Record of cattle slaughtered.

Every ranchman, who so slaughters cattle on such premises, shall keep a record in a book to be kept for that purpose of all the cattle so slaughtered by him, with a description thereof, including all the marks and brands of such slaughtered cattle, the date of slaughter, and shall at the end of each month, make a true and correct copy of such record and send the same by registered mail to the office of the cattle protection board, and shall likewise exhibit the said record on demand of any officer of this state.

No cattle slaughtered until inspected.

§ 10. No cattle except cattle shipped for slaughter and which have been inspected as herein provided prior to shipment, shall be slaughtered until they shall have been first inspected and certified to as being the property of the person slaughtering same or causing same to be slaughtered or being duly authorized by the owner thereof to slaughter said cattle; provided, that any person licensed hereunder to slaughter cattle after twenty-four hours notice in writing, addressed to the local inspector demanding his presence at a specified time and place for the purpose of inspecting such cattle for slaughtering, may, without the certificate of inspection of said inspector slaughter said cattle, providing he makes a written statement designating the general description of the animal or animals slaughtered, such as the age, color, weight, etc., and specifying in detail the earmarks and brands of such animal or animals; and provided, further, that he retain the hides of such animal or animals for at least fifteen days thereafter as hereinbefore provided.

Certificate of brand, etc., before shipment.

§ 11. It shall be unlawful for any common carrier to receive any cattle, or the hides of any cattle, for transportation to points within or without this state until such carrier shall have been furnished with duplicate certificates signed by an inspector, showing, in the case of cattle, the brands and earmarks of such cattle, the number of cattle of each earmark and brand, the names of shipper and consignee and also the origin and destination of said cattle. In the case of cattle hides, the certificates shall state the number of hides, the names of shipper and consignee and also the origin and destination of said hides. One copy of said certificate shall be mailed forthwith by the agent or other person in control of the common carrier at the point at which said cattle are received for shipment, to the consignee.

Inspection of cattle to be shipped.

§ 12. It shall be the duty of inspectors to inspect all cattle for marks and brands which are offered for transportation to any common carrier at the loading stations thereof.

If upon such inspection cattle shall be found not belonging to the shipper, all such cattle shall be taken by the inspector and dealt within accordance with the rules of the board in such cases made.

Inspectors must inspect all cattle subject to inspection immediately, and when inspected, the one in charge thereof shall at once pay to the inspector therefor the sum of five cents per head, whereupon the inspector shall certify that said cattle have been inspected.

Volumes for recordation of marks and brands.

§ 13. It shall be the duty of the said board to prepare volumes for the recordation of said marks and brands, and to keep a true record of all its official transactions. When cattle or the hides thereof have been shipped or slaughtered, each record thereof must be entered under the name of the owner of said mark or brand, and must be entered in such a manner as to disclose under the record of each particular mark or brand, the number of cattle bearing any other marks or brands. An index shall be kept of unrecorded brands, as well as of those that have been recorded under the provisions hereof.

Driving cattle off range.

§ 14. Any person, not being the owner, or having the right of possession, of any cattle, who shall be found driving such cattle off its usual range, without the consent of the owner thereof, shall be guilty of grand larceny.

Report of fees by secretary.

§ 15. The secretary of the cattle protection board, at least as often as once each month, shall report to the state controller the total amount of fees collected, and at the same time he shall pay into the state treasury the entire amount of such receipts. All such receipts shall be credited to the cattle protection fund, which fund is hereby created, and shall be held subject to the uses of the cattle protection board, as defined in this act.

“Range.”

§ 16. The term “range” for the purpose of the interpretation and application of this act shall be understood to mean the enclosed or unenclosed lands outside of cities, towns and villages in this state, whether of the public domain or in private ownership, upon which by custom, license or otherwise, cattle are kept or permitted to roam and feed.

“Person.”

The term “person” wherever used includes every person, persons, firm, association or corporation.

"Cattle."

The term "cattle" wherever used includes every kind of animal of the bovine species.

Penalty.

§ 17. Any person violating any provisions of this act shall, unless otherwise specifically designated herein, be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Repealed.

§ 18. All acts and parts of acts in conflict herewith are hereby repealed.

Measurement of logs of greater length.

§ 3. For the measurement of logs of any greater length than indicated in the table set forth in section two of this act, the computation shall be made in accordance with table.

Logs, how measured.

§ 4. All logs shall be measured at the small end and inside the bark, and the contents computed according to section two of this act. [Amendment, Stats. 1880, p. 119.]

Allowances made.

§ 5. Allowance shall be made for rot, shake, or other defect in logs measured by this scale and under the provisions of this act, so as to make the survey express the actual quantity of merchantable lumber in each log.

§ 6. This act shall take effect immediately.

1. Quarter scale method.—As to the "quarter scale" method of scaling timber, see Bullock v. Consumer's Lumber Co., 3 Cal. Unrep. 609.

2. Both parties bound by decision of scaler.—Where a contract for the purchase and sale of merchantable timber provides that the merchantable character of the timber shall be passed on by a licensed scaler, in the absence of fraud, both parties are bound by the decision of such scaler.—Bullock v. Consumer's Lumber Co., 3 Cal. Unrep. 609.

ACT 2574. FREEHOLDERS' CHARTER.

2575. TIDE LAND GRANT.

FREEHOLDERS' CHARTER.

ACT 2574—Freeholders' charter.

History: Ratified at an election held February 5, 1907; adopted February 26, 1907, Stats. 1907, p. 1176. Amended October 14, 1914. Filed with the secretary of state January 28, 1915, Stats. 1915, p. 1652.

Originally incorporated as a city of the sixth class in 1888 under the general law of 883. Disincorporated in 1896. Incorporated in 1897 under the general law of 1883, as a city of the sixth class.

See Act 2575, annotations.

1. Freeholder charters, operation of—Adjacent lands.—A freeholder charter is operative over such territory only as is already erected into a municipality, and the constitution has not delegated to cities the power, in framing such charters to annex adjacent territory without consulting the inhabitants of such territory.—People ex rel. Scholler v. Long Beach, 155 Cal. 604.

2. Same—Legislative approval of, annexing adjacent lands, does not operate to include.—The approval by the legislature of a freeholder's charter including adjacent territory not legally annexed does not have the effect of fixing the boundaries of such city so as to include such territory.—People ex rel. Scholler v. Long Beach, 155 Cal. 604.

3. Charter invests city with control over public utilities.—The charter of Long Beach invests the power of control over its utilities in the city itself, and the commission has no jurisdiction therein.—Long Beach Chamber of Commerce v. Pacific Electric Co., 3 R. C. D. 611.

4. Power of utilities can not be divested by charter amendment.—The powers now vested in municipalities over public utilities can not be divested through a charter amendment, but must be brought about under the scheme provided by the legislature.—Long Beach Chamber of Commerce v. Pacific Electric Co., 2 R. C. D., 455.

5. Construction of charter provisions relating to certain improvements.—Subdivision 8 of section 3, of article XI, of the Long Beach charter, providing for a two-thirds vote on the question of a bond issue for the improvements named, is limited to such improvements and can not be construed as applying to the improvements of a different nature specified in subdivision 11 of section 21, of the same article, as to which a different rule is provided.—City of Long Beach v. Boynton, 17 Cal. App. 290.

6. Same—Construction of new pier.—Issue of bonds for the construction of a new Gen. Laws—94 pier costing in excess of the income and revenue for one year, is not governed by subdivision 8 of section 3 of article XI of the Long Beach charter, but by section 21 of that article, and an issue of bonds authorized by two-thirds of the vote on the bond, but by less than two-thirds of the votes cast at the election, is invalid.—City of Long Beach v. Boynton, 17 Cal. App. 290.

7. Power to accept tideland grant.—The city of Long Beach is empowered by its charter to accept a grant of tideland property from the state.—City of Long Beach v. Lisenby, 175 Cal. 575-579, 166 Pac. 333.

8. Power to use tidelands for harbor construction.—The city of Long Beach is authorized under the provisions of the acts of 1911 (p. 1304 and p. 1462) and certain charter provisions (article I, section 3, subdivisions 4, 5, 28; article XV, section 9, and article XXV, section 6) to use the tide and submerged lands within its boundaries for harbor construction and improvement.—City of Long Beach v. Lisenby, 175 Cal. 575, 579, 166 Pac. 333.

9. Charter does not permit dredging, etc.—Subdivision 11, section 1, article II, of the Long Beach charter does not contain a grant of power to the city to improve its harbor by dredging, deepening and improving the slips.—City of Long Beach v. Lisenby, 175 Cal. 575.

10. Words and phrases—"Waterfront."—The word "waterfront" in subdivision 11, section 1, article II, of the Long Beach charter, does not include the water comprising the harbor and the underlying land, but means the land or land and buildings fronting on the body of water.—City of Long Beach v. Lisenby, 175 Cal. 575, 577, 166 Pac. 333.

11. Bonds—Curative act did not validate.—The curative act of 1911 (Stats. 1911, p. 421) did not validate bonds authorized by a vote of less than two-thirds of the qualified electors voting at the election.—City of Long Beach v. Boynton, 17 Cal. App. 290.

12. Same—"Municipal affair."—The issue of bonds for a municipal improvement is a "municipal affair," with which the legislature can not interfere, and a curative act can not validate such bonds.—City of Long Beach v. Boynton, 17 Cal. App. 290.

TIDE LAND GRANT.

ACT 2575—An act granting to the city of Long Beach the tide lands and submerged lands of the state of California within the boundaries of the said city.

History: Approved May 11, 1911, Stats. 1911, p. 1304.

Tide lands granted to Long Beach. Purposes for which lands may be used. Harbor improved without expense to state. Discrimination in rates. Right to fish reserved.

§ 1. There is hereby granted to the city of Long Beach, a municipal corporation of the state of California, and to its successors, all the right, title and interest of the state of California, held by said state by virtue of its sovereignty, in and to all the tide lands and submerged lands, whether filled or unfilled, within the present boundaries of said city, and situated below the line of mean high tide of the Pacific Ocean, or of any harbor, estuary, bay or inlet within said boundaries, to be forever held by said city, and by its successors, in trust for the uses and purposes, and upon the express conditions following, to wit:

(a) That said lands shall be used by said city and by its successors, solely for the establishment, improvement and conduct of a harbor, and for the construction, maintenance and operation thereon of wharves, docks, piers, slips, quays, and other utilities, structures and appliances necessary or convenient for the promotion and accommodation of commerce and navigation, and said city, or its successors, shall not, at any time, grant, convey, give or alien said lands, or any part thereof, to any individual, firm or corporation for any purpose whatsoever; provided, that said city, or its successors, may grant franchises thereon, for limited periods, for wharves and other public uses and purposes, and may lease said lands, or any part thereof, for limited periods, for purposes consistent with the trusts upon which said lands are held by the state of California and with the requirements of commerce or navigation at said harbor;

(b) That said harbor shall be improved by said city without expense to the state, and shall always remain a public harbor for all purposes of commerce and navigation, and the state of California shall have, at all times, the right to use, without charge, all wharves, docks, piers, slips, quays and other improvements constructed on said lands, or any part thereof, for any vessel or other water craft, or railroad, owned or operated by the state of California;

(c) That in the management, conduct or operation of said harbor, or of any of the utilities, structures or appliances mentioned in paragraph (a), no discrimination in rates, tolls, or charges, or in facilities, for any use or service in connection therewith shall ever be made, authorized or permitted by said city or by its successors;

Reserving, however, in the people of the state of California the absolute right to fish in the waters of said harbor, with the right of convenient access to said waters over said lands for said purpose.

See Act 2574, annotations.

1. Power to accept grant.—The city of Long Beach is empowered by its charter to accept a grant of tideland from the state upon such trusts and conditions as may be imposed by law.—City of Long Beach v. Lisenby, 175 Cal. 575.

2. Power to use tidelands for harbor purposes and to create bonded indebtedness.—Under its charter and the act of 1911 (Stats. 1911, p. 1304), Long Beach has power to use the tide and submerged lands granted to it by the latter act for harbor construction to improve its harbor and to incur a bonded indebtedness therefor.—City of Long Beach v. Lisenby, 175 Cal. 575.

Tidelands—Action to quiet title.—In an action to quiet title brought by the owner of land adjacent to and above ordinary high tide, against a municipality, claiming such land by dedication and acceptance as a public street, where the defendant, by oral compromise, and by answer, admitted plaintiff's title, the judgment declaring that plaintiff was the owner of the land was a determination, conclusive upon the city and the public, and operated to divest the public use and establish plaintiff's title, as fully as if the city held the land in its proprietary capacity, or as if it were a natural person, even if the judgment was erroneous in point of law.—Strand, etc., Co. v. Long Beach, 173 Cal. 765.

3. Grant a present grant.—The grant of tide and submerged lands to the city of Long Beach, made by the act of May 1, 1911 (Stats. 1911, p. 1304) is a present grant and refers to conditions existing, and does not convey any lands then above mean high tide.—Strand Improvement Co. v. Long Beach, 173 Cal. 765, 769, 161 Pac. 975.

4. Power to dredge, etc., not given.—The city of Long Beach is not empowered under subdivision 11, section 1, article II, of its charter, to improve the harbor by dredging, deepening, and improving channels and slips.—City of Long Beach v. Lisenby, 175 Cal. 575, 576, 166 Pac. 333.

Words and phrases—"Waterfront."—The word "waterfront" in subdivision 11, section 1, article II, of the Long Beach charter, means the land or land and buildings fronting on the body of water and does not include the water comprising the harbor and the underlying land.—City of Long Beach v. Lisenby, 175 Cal. 575.

FREEHOLDERS' CHARTER.

ACT 2580—Freeholders' charter.

History: Ratified at an election held October 20, 1888. Adopted January 31, 1889, Stats. 1889, p. 455. Amended (1) December 1, 1902, adopted January 30, 1903, Stats. 1903, p. 555; (2) December 5, 1904, adopted February 16, 1905, Stats. 1905, p. 980; (3) December 4, 1906, adopted February 19, 1907, Stats. 1907, p. 1160; (4) February 2, 1909, adopted March 12, 1909, Stats. 1909, p. 1289; (5) March 6, 1911, filed with the secretary of state March 25, 1911, Stats. 1911, p. 2051; (6) January 13, 1913, filed with the secretary of state February 4, 1913, Stats. 1913, p. 1513; (7) March 24, 1913, filed with the secretary of state April 7, 1913, Stats. 1913, p. 1629; (8) October 24, 1916, filed with the secretary of state January 17, 1917, Stats. 1917, p. 1686; (9) November 5, 1918, filed with the secretary of state January 24, 1919, Stats. 1919, p. 1430.

The city was originally incorporated in 1850, Stats. 1850, p. 155. This act was supplemented 1851, p. 329; 1852, p. 186; 1854, p. 205; 1862, p. 9. It was amended 1863-4, p. 80; 1865-6, p. 15; 1867-8, pp. 89, 97, 609; 1871-2, pp. 128, 623; 1873-4, p. 633; 1875-6, p. 692; 1877-8, p. 642. It was superseded by incorporating under the present freeholders' charter.

1. Constitutionality—Controlled by general statutes.—Under section 6, article XI, of the constitution, the provisions of the Los Angeles charter are controlled by general statutes.—Davies v. Los Angeles, 86 Cal. 37.

2. Same—Not repealed but superseded by general law.—Section 6, article XI, of the constitution, as it stood prior to the amendment of 1896, is not to be construed as providing that charter provisions are repealed by a general law on the subject but that they are superseded during the operation of the paramount law.—Byrne v. Drain, 127 Cal. 663.

3. Same—Approval of charter.—The approval of the Los Angeles charter by a joint resolution of both houses of the legislature was sufficient under the constitution, to give it validity, and the enactment of a bill approved by the governor was not necessary.—Brooks v. Fischer, 79 Cal. 173.

4. Same—Same—Not exercise of "law-making power."—The legislature in approving a freeholder charter does not exercise the law-making power in the sense understood in section 13, article XI, of the constitution.—Mesmer v. Board, etc., 23 Cal. App. 578.

5. Same—Same—Legislature acts as distinct body.—The legislature is a distinct body, consisting of the senate and assembly, and is empowered by the constitution to act independently in the approval of city charters framed under section 8, article XI, of the constitution.—Brooks v. Fischer, 79 Cal. 173.

6. Same—Same—Governor's approval not required.—The legislature and the law-making power are not synonymous, and, except in the enactment of laws, does not include the governor.—Brooks v. Fischer, 79 Cal. 173.

7. Same—Same—Resolution sufficient—Title of resolution sufficient.—A resolution "approving thirteen certain amendments to the charter of Los Angeles," without specifying the subject of such amendments, is not obnoxious to the constitutional requirement that the subject of every act must be expressed in the title, and each act must embrace but one subject.—In re Pfahler, 150 Cal. 71.

8. Same—Words and phrases—"Legislative authority."—The words "legislative authority" in section 8, article XI, of the constitution, were simply intended to designate the particular body which it was recognized would exist under some name or other in every municipality as the proper official agency to submit proper amendments to charters, and were not intended to define the powers of that body, or place it in a position where it would be beyond restrictions by the organic act of the city.—In re Pfahler, 150 Cal. 71.

9. Same—Provisions of section 8, article XI, mandatory and prohibitory.—The provisions of section 8, article XI, of the constitution, relating to the adoption and amendment of freeholder charters, is mandatory and prohibitory.—Blanchard v. Hartwell, 131 Cal. 263.

10. Same—Amendment—Legislature power.—The legislature has no power to mould or amend a freeholder charter when it is before it for approval.—Mesmer v. Board, etc., 23 Cal. App. 578.

10a. Same—Amending effect of state laws.—A municipal freeholder charter in municipal affairs is superior to state laws, and the legislature has no power to amend or repeal such charter.—Mesmer v. Board, etc., 23 Cal. App. 578.

10b. Same—Same—Power of taxation for revenue.—Under a freeholder charter conferring the power of taxing for purposes of revenue, the exercise of such power is a municipal affair, and such power can not be withdrawn or abrogated by the legislature.—Ex parte Braun, 141 Cal. 204.

11. Same—Power to frame new charter.—A freeholders' charter can be amended only in the manner prescribed by the constitution, at intervals of two years, and a new charter can not be framed by a second board of freeholders and adopted by a majority vote.—Blanchard v. Hartwell, 131 Cal. 263.

12. Same—Public service commission amendment.—The public service commission amendment of 1911 of the Los Angeles charter is not violative of section 13, article XI, of the constitution, forbidding delegation of municipal functions to special commissions.—Mesmer v. Board, etc., 23 Cal. App. 578.

13. Same—Ownership and operation of electric power plants.—The constitution does not forbid, either expressly or by implication, the acquisition, ownership or operation by a municipality of electric power plants for the public service, nor does it prohibit the granting of power to acquire, own, and operate such plants.—Clark v. Los Angeles, 160 Cal. 30.

14. Same—Section 207 constitutional.—Section 207, charter of Los Angeles, is constitutional and valid, and is not in conflict with section 6, article XI, of the constitution, nor with the provisions of the Civil Code concerning the manner of creating contracts.—Frick v. Los Angeles, 115 Cal. 512.

15. Same—Entire charter not invalid because of few provisions.—An entire municipal charter can not be held invalid, because a few of its provisions, were, at the time of its adoption, inconsistent with general statute.—Brooks v. Fischer, 79 Cal. 173.

16. Same—No power to establish police court.—A police or other inferior court of a city can not be established by freeholder charter.—People v. Toal, 3 Cal. Unrep. 227.

17. Same—Exercise of privilege to create police court—Creation of second police court by legislature.—The legislature can not create another police court in a city which has exercised the permissive authority of section 8½, article XI, of the constitution, and created a police court by its freeholder charter.—Fleming v. Hance, 153 Cal. 162.

18. Same—Power to establish police court permissive only.—Section 8½, article XI, of the constitution, authorizing the establishment of police courts by freeholder charters, is permissive only, and does not preclude the legislature from establishing such courts where the municipality has not exercised this permissive authority.—Fleming v. Hance, 153 Cal. 162.

19. Same—Provision for police court not validated by subsequent constitutional amendment.—A provision in the Los Angeles charter for a police court was void, ab initio and was not revived or validated by the addition of section 8½, article XI, of the constitution, authorizing such a provision in freeholder charters.—Fleming v. Hance, 153 Cal. 162.

19a. Same—Police court provision invalid—Prosecution of police court cases.—The act creating a police court in Los Angeles is invalid, as to the requirement that the prosecuting attorney in attendance upon such court for the prosecution of state offense shall be paid by the city.—Fleming v. Hance, 153 Cal. 162.

19b. Same—Same—Same. — Prosecutions for violations of the charter and ordinances of Los Angeles are "municipal affairs," and where the charter regulates the subject, it controls the general statute prescribing the duties of district attorney as to that matter.—Fleming v. Hance, 153 Cal. 162.

19c. Same — Same — Same. — A county prosecuting attorney and his assistants acting at the request of the city attorney of Los Angeles in prosecuting violations of the city charter and ordinances, do so as his deputies, and in the absence of charter or ordinance authority can not enforce a claim against the city for such services.—Fleming v. Hance, 153 Cal. 162.

20. Same — Provision as to deposit of public money.—The provisions of section 44 of the charter, relating to the deposit of public moneys is unconstitutional and void under section 13, article II, of the constitution.—Yarnell v. Los Angeles, 87 Cal. 603.

21. Same—Incurring indebtedness in excess of revenue.—In the purchase of ground and the erection of an administration building, and the payment therefor out of the revenues of the water department, the prohibition of section 18, article XI, of the constitution, as to incurring indebtedness in excess of the revenue for any one year, is not applicable.—Mesmer v. Board, 23 Cal. App. 578.

22. Construction and effect—Section 536, Civil Code.—No provisions of the Los Angeles charter adopted in 1889, impaired section 536, Civil Code, as to a grant of a right of way to telegraph companies in the state.—Postal, etc., Co. v. Los Angeles, 160 Cal. 129.

23. Same—Section 424, 426, Penal Code.—Section 44 of the Los Angeles charter, relative to the deposit of public funds is in conflict with sections 424 and 426 of the Penal Code.—Yarnell v. Los Angeles, 87 Cal. 603.

24. Same — Legislative enactments. — Charter provisions have the force and effect of legislative enactments, and are subject to the same rules of construction and interpretation.—Dalton v. Leland, 22 Cal. App. 481.

25. Same—Same—Judicial knowledge.—The 1911 amendment of the Los Angeles charter has the effect of a law and is a matter of judicial knowledge.—Clark v. Los Angeles, 160 Cal. 30.

26. Same—Same—Statute within meaning of section 1622, Civil Code.—The charter of Los Angeles is a statute within the meaning of section 1622 of the Civil Code, providing that all contracts may be oral except when required by statute to be in writing.—Frick v. Los Angeles, 115 Cal. 512.

27. Same—Improvement of Los Angeles river.—The charter of Los Angeles authorized the city to exercise the police power of the state for local purposes, and the authorities of the city had power to improve the channel and banks of the Los Angeles river as they might deem proper.—De Baker v. Southern, etc., Co., 106 Cal. 257.

28. Same—Power to regulate public utility corporations.—Subdivision 30, section 2, article I, of the Los Angeles charter, expressly confers upon that city the power to regulate public service corporations.—Pinney & Boyle Co. v. Los Angeles, etc., Corp., 168 Cal. 12, 15, Ann. Cas. 1918D, 471, L. R. A. 1915C, 282, 141 Pac. 620.

29. Same—Same—Electric power company.—A corporation engaged in the business of supplying gas and electricity to the inhabitants of a city, and in furnishing electricity for power to be used in the consumer's private business, is a public utility.—Pinney & Boyle v. Los Angeles, etc., Corp., 168 Cal. 12, 14, Ann. Cas. 1918D, 471, L. R. A. 1915C, 282, 141 Pac. 620.

30. Same—Test of character of utility.—The use which the consumer makes of a commodity does not furnish the test, as to whether or not the regulatory powers of boards and commissions in dealing with public utilities may be invoked.—Pinney & Boyle Co. v. Los Angeles, etc., Corp., 168 Cal. 12, 14, Ann. Cas. 1918D, 471, L. R. A. 1915C, 282, 141 Pac. 620.

31. Same—Same.—It is the duty which the purveyor or producer has undertaken to perform and so owes to the public generally or to any defined portion of it, as the purveyor of a commodity, or as an agency in the performance of a service, which stamps the purveyor or the agency as being a public service utility.—Pinney & Boyle Co. v. Los Angeles, etc., Corp., 168 Cal. 12, 14, Ann. Cas. 1918D, 471, L. R. A. 1915C, 282, 141 Pac. 620.

32. Same—Police power of rate fixing.—The power of a municipality, in the reasonable exercise of its police power, is not limited, in the matter of rate fixing, to the establishment of a maximum rate, leaving the public utility free to agree with the consumer for a less rate.—Pinney & Boyle Co. v. Los Angeles, etc., Corp., 168 Cal. 12, 15, Ann. Cas. 1918D, 471, L. R. A. 1915C, 282, 141 Pac. 620.

33. Same—Same—Objects of rate regulation.—The prevention of favoritism and discrimination is one of the primary and most important objects of rate regulation.—Pinney & Boyle Co. v. Los Angeles, etc., Corp., 168 Cal. 12, 15, Ann. Cas. 1918D, 471, L. R. A. 1915C, 282, 141 Pac. 620.

34. Same—Ordinance fixing rate not discriminatory.—An ordinance which fixes the rates to be charged by a public service corporation for a definite term, and prohibits the charge of lesser rates, is not discriminatory and does not deny the consumers due process of law, because it gives the public service corporation the right to apply for a reduction of rates during the term and does not accord the same right to the consumers.—Pinney & Boyle Co. v. Los Angeles, etc., Corp., 168 Cal. 12, 16, Ann. Cas. 1918D, 471, L. R. A. 1915C, 282, 141 Pac. 620.

35. Same—Effect of ordinance on pre-existing contract.—A contract between a consumer and a public service corporation as to the rates to be charged for service is conclusively presumed to have been made in contemplation of the power of the proper board or tribunal to fix rates in every case where such power exists and may have been thereafter legally exercised.—Pinney & Boyle Co. v. Los Angeles, etc., Corp., 163 Cal. 12, 18, Ann. Cas. 1918D, 471, L. R. A. 1915C, 282, 141 Pac. 620.

36. Same—Power to regulate street car fares.—By the charter amendments of 1911 Los Angeles was vested with power to regulate street car fares, and where that city adopted regulations under that power, such regulations supersede general statutes. Suydam v. Los Angeles, 27 Cal. App. 157.

37. Same—Railroad commission without jurisdiction.—The city charter of Los Angeles gives that city the power "to prescribe the character and quality of any public utility service," and the commission is without jurisdiction to compel a gas company to resume the distribution of natural or "mixed gas" or to require a company controlling a natural gas supply to deliver to certain distributing companies such quantities as they may desire to purchase, except where the point of delivery is in unincorporated territory.—Los Angeles v. Southern California Gas Co., 5 R. C. D. 13.

38. Same—Same.—The commission has no jurisdiction in matters relating to the operation of street railroads in Los Angeles.—6 R. C. D. 946.

39. Same—Power to acquire, etc., public utilities.—The city of Los Angeles is authorized by its charter to acquire, construct, and maintain docks, warehouses, wharves, canals, waterways, and to open streets to the navigable waters in its limits.—Clark v. Los Angeles, 160 Cal. 317.

40. Same—Same—Electric power.—The supplying of electric power to the inhabitants of a city for their private use is a public use, and a dedication of a plant for that purpose is a dedication to a public use.—Clark v. Los Angeles, 160 Cal. 30.

41. Same—Same—Same.—The supplying of electric power for motive service to the inhabitants of a city is a public service in which the city may engage.—Clark v. Los Angeles, 160 Cal. 30.

42. Same—Power to establish electric light plant.—Under subdivision 7, section 2, article I, of the Los Angeles charter, as amended in 1909, the city was empowered to establish, operate and maintain an electric light plant to supply its inhabitants with electricity for private use, and to incur a bonded indebtedness therefor.—Clark v. Los Angeles, 160 Cal. 30.

43. Same—Power of public service commissions—Erection of administration building.—The Los Angeles board of public service commissioners are empowered under the charter to purchase ground and erect an administration building for its use, and to pay the cost thereof from the revenue of the water department.—Mesmer v. Board, etc., 23 Cal. App. 578.

44. Same—Purchase and use of surplus water.—Under the power to acquire water and water rights, granted by its charter, Los Angeles had a right to buy for public use surplus water supplied from an outside source, and for that purpose to purchase the entire supply at such source, including the water plant, and to operate the same and, after supplying the persons entitled to use the water, to devote the surplus to the use of the city.—Fellows v. Los Angeles, 151 Cal. 52.

45. Same—Construction of public works by day labor.—Under its charter Los Angeles may construct public works by day labor, and without letting a contract, and neither section 148 nor section 207 of the charter prevents.—Perry v. Los Angeles, 157 Cal. 146.

46. Same—Power of police commissioners is quasi judicial.—The power conferred upon the board of police commissioners by section 95a of the charter is limited and quasi judicial, and is subordinate to the power of the city council and mayor to regulate the liquor traffic.—Grumbach v. Leland, 154 Cal. 679.

47. Same—Same—Granting of permits.—The duty of the board of police commissioners to grant a permit to one who has complied with the rules and regulations prescribed by the council is ministerial, and they can not arbitrarily refuse to grant such permit.—Grumbach v. Leland, 154 Cal. 679.

48. Same—Source of power of taxation.—The source of the power granted municipalities under freeholder charters to raise money for municipal purposes by taxation is the direct grant of the people through the charter, and not any grant of the legislature.—Ex parte Braun, 141 Cal. 204.

49. Same—License taxes—Section 3366, Political Code.—The provisions of section 3366, Political Code, are not applicable to a freeholder charter city where the charter confers the power of imposing and collecting license taxes for revenue.—Ex parte Braun, 141 Cal. 204.

50. Same—Forbids discrimination in license taxes.—The provisions of the Los Angeles charter do not require all occupation licenses to be graded according to the amount of business done, but it forbids discrimination between persons engaged in the same business, and does not forbid a uniform tax upon all persons engaged in the same business.—Los Angeles v. Los Angeles, etc., Co., 152 Cal. 765.

51. Same—Bonds for school house.—A provision in the Los Angeles charter giving the city authority to issue bonds for a school house within the city limits, can not effect the power conferred on the trustees of a school district lying partly within and partly without the city, under sections 1880-1887, Political Code, to issue bonds for a like purpose.—Los Angeles School District v. Longdon, 148 Cal. 380.

52. Same—Limit of taxation—Bonds for waterworks.—The limitation of two million dollars indebtedness prescribed by the Los Angeles charter does not include the bonds issued under the authority of the constitution and general laws of the state for a waterworks system and sewage system for the benefit of the city.—Los Angeles v. Hance, 137 Cal. 490.

53. Same—Initiative, referendum and recall.—An initiative and referendum provision may be incorporated in a freeholder charter, and such a provision is not obnoxious to section 4, article IV, of the federal constitution, which does not prohibit the direct exercise of legislative power by the people of a subdivision of a state, in local affairs.—In re Pfahler, 150 Cal. 71.

53a. Same—Same.—An initiative and referendum provision in the Los Angeles charter is not obnoxious to section 13, article XI, of the constitution.—In re Pfahler, 150 Cal. 71.

53b. Same—Same.—It is sufficient that a charter is consistent with the constitution as to municipal affairs, and a provision for the initiative and referendum in a freeholders' charter is unaffected by the fact that the municipal corporation act confers no such right on other municipal corporations.—In re Pfahler, 150 Cal. 71.

53c. Same—Prohibition of occupations.—The enumeration, in subdivision 21, section 2, of article I, of the Los Angeles charter, of certain trades, callings and occupations which may be prohibited, is not a limitation either of the general police power conferred by section 11, article XI, of the constitution, or of that conferred by subdivision 34, section 2, article I of the charter.—In re Montgomery, 163 Cal. 457, 459, Ann. Cas. 1914A, 130, 125 Pac. 1070.

53d. Same—License tax on insurance agents.—An ordinance imposing a license tax upon insurance agents, unconstitutional as in violation of section 14, article XIII, of the constitution.—Hughes v. Los Angeles, 168 Cal. 764, 145 Pac. 94.

54. Claims—Necessity for demand.—Sections 216 and 222 make a previous demand a prerequisite to the maintenance of an action against the city for the recovery of taxes paid, and a complaint which fails to allege such a demand fails to state a cause of action.—Farmers, etc., Bank v. Los Angeles, 151 Cal. 655.

55. Same—Public administrator.—Where a claim is made for statutory services as attorney for the public administrator under section 21, article VI, charter of Los Angeles, the burden is on the county counsel to show that he rendered such services in conducting the ordinary proceedings in probate of the estate.—Estate of Murphy, 171 Cal. 697, 700, 154 Pac. 839.

56. City printing—Contract for letting.—Under the charter the initial steps for the letting of a contract for the city printing may be taken by the council without an ordinance.—Earl v. Bowen, 146 Cal. 754.

57. Same—Same—Signing.—The signing of a contract for the city printing by the city clerk was a mere ministerial act, involving no exercise of discretionary power, could be delegated, and the order of the city council directing the clerk to sign the contract carried with it the authority to sign and whether he signs before or after approval by the council is immaterial to the validity of the contract.—Earl v. Bowen, 146 Cal. 754.

58. Library fund—Expenditures from.—The question as to the appropriateness of an expenditure out of the Los Angeles library fund is one for the directors, and if there could be any state of circumstances to justify it will be presumed that such state was shown and acted upon by them.—Kelso v. Teale, 106 Cal. 477.

59. Same—Demand for single item.—A demand against the Los Angeles library fund for the expenses of a delegate to the world congress of librarians and the American library association conference, is for a single item within the meaning of section 215 of the charter.—Kelso v. Teale, 106 Cal. 477.

60. Parks—Acquisition of land for.—The provisions of section 119b does not prevent Los Angeles from acquiring land for park purposes subject to use for another purpose to which it has been dedicated, where the two uses are consistent and capable of existing together.—Los Angeles v. Los Angeles etc. Co., 31 Cal. App. 100.

61. Same—Acceptance of gift of land for.—The acceptance of a gift from a private person to erect and maintain buildings upon a public park of the City of Los Angeles is an exercise of a legislative function not vested in the city council by subdivision 16, section 2 of the city charter, but is withheld by the express reservation of section 12, and vested in the board of park commissioners by subdivisions (c) and (d) of section 118, and section 119 of the charter.—O'Melveny v. Griffith, 178 Cal. 1, 5, 171 Pac. 934.

62. Same—Power of commissioners.—The board of park commissioners of the City of Los Angeles is vested by the charter with the management and control of the city park system, and of the erection and maintenance of all buildings thereon, and an ordinance which has the effect to deprive it of such management and control and the erection of such buildings thereon is void.—O'Melveny v. Griffith, 178 Cal. 1, 4, 171 Pac. 934.

63. Streets—Vrooman act.—The street law provides a complete scheme for street work, and governs so far as it goes, and the Los Angeles charter can not make a different procedure by requiring more or less.—Hellman v. Shoulters, 114 Cal. 136.

64. Same—Same—"Municipal affairs" amendment.—The provisions of the Los Angeles charter which were in conflict, at the time of its adoption, with the Vrooman act were nullified by that act, and were not revived or reinstated by the "municipal affairs" amendment of section 6, article XI of the constitution.—Banaz v. Smith, 133 Cal. 102.

65. Tunnels—Assessments for.—Neither section 2 nor any other part of the amended charter of Los Angeles (Stats. 1911, p. 2059) empowers the city to levy an assessment upon a district for the purpose of raising the amount necessary for the initial establishment of a tunnel for public travel as distinguished from the repair or improvement of an existing subterranean avenue.—Thompson v. Hance, 174 Cal. 572, 578.

66. Ordinances—Words and Phrases—“Finally adopted,” “Final passage.”—The phrase “finally adopted” in section 39, and the phrase “final passage,” in section 198b of the Los Angeles charter are synonymous, and has reference to the favorable action on an ordinance by the city council, as distinct from its going into effect after such action and publication.—Solomon v. Alexander, 161 Cal. 23.

67. Same—Remedy of voters.—The only remedy left to the voters after an ordinance has gone into effect, under the Los Angeles charter, is by initiative for its repeal, and not by referendum.—Rushton v. Leland, 15 Cal. App. 448.

68. Initiative, referendum and recall—Certification of petition.—The provision of section 198b of the Los Angeles charter that petitions for referendum shall be in all respects in accordance with the provisions of section 198a, refers solely to the form, substance and certification of the original petition, and not to the unlimited amendment thereof.—Rushton v. Leland, 15 Cal. App. 448.

69. Same—Amendment of petition after thirty days.—The provisions of section 198b of the Los Angeles charter with reference to petitions for referendum are not subject to the provision of section 198a with reference to petitions for the initiative allowing amendments after thirty days, notwithstanding the clause of the former section providing that the petition shall be in all respects in accordance with the provisions of the latter section.—Rushton v. Leland, 15 Cal. App. 448.

70. Same—Sufficiency of petition.—When, under the Los Angeles charter a petition signed by twenty-five per cent of the total vote cast at the last election is required to initiate proceedings for the recall of an officer, and the certificate of the clerk who is required to compare the petition with the great register, states that 2864 votes were so cast, and that 784 names of qualified electors were signed to the petition, but such certificate also states “514 names were compared with the duplicate affidavits of registration, and the balance with the originals,” and by the pleadings and stipulations and briefs in mandamus it is shown that only 339 names were in fact on the great register, the proceedings are void.—Davenport v. Los Angeles, 146 Cal. 508.

71. Same—Time of filing petition.—The thirty-day period within which referendum petitions against ordinances may be filed commences to run from the date of the mayor's approval, and not from the date of publication.—Solomon v. Alexander, 161 Cal. 23.

72. Same—Same.—Construing sections 39 and 198b of the Los Angeles charter, a referendum petition against an ordinance should be filed within thirty days from the approval of the ordinance by the mayor and the thirty-day period does not begin from the date of the publication of the ordinance.—Solomon v. Alexander, 161 Cal. 23, 25, 113 Pac. 217.

73. Officers—Interest in contracts, etc.—The provisions of section 18 of the Los Angeles charter as forfeiture of office upon conviction of the offense of voting on or participating in any contract or transaction in which he is interested, was not superseded by the recall provisions of the charter, but are to be applied concurrently with those provisions.—Betskouski v. Superior Court, 34 Cal. App. 117.

74. Same—Same.—The charge against a member of the Los Angeles city council for violation of section 18 of the charter is not triable in the police court, but it must be tried in the superior court on an accusation under sections 758 and 772 of the Penal Code.—Betskouski v. Superior Court, 34 Cal. 117.

75. Same—Same—Clerk of police court.—The provision of the charter that all appointed officers of Los Angeles shall hold office for four years, etc., has no application to the office of clerk of the police court, which office is not provided for in the charter.—Rowe v. Rose, 26 Cal. App. 744.

DEDICATION OF LAND FOR THE WIDENING OF VERMONT AVENUE.

ACT 2593—An act dedicating certain land in the city of Los Angeles for the purpose of widening Vermont avenue, and directing the board of trustees of the state normal school at Los Angeles to convey the same to the city of Los Angeles for that purpose.

History: Approved June 5, 1913. In effect August 10, 1913. Stats. 1913, p. 387.

Los Angeles normal school land dedicated for widening Vermont avenue.

§ 1. There is hereby dedicated to the public for the purpose of widening Vermont avenue in the city of Los Angeles, that portion of the school lands of the state normal school at Los Angeles described as follows, to wit: A strip twenty (20) feet in width lying along the west side of and adjacent to Vermont avenue between Monroe street and Willowbrook avenue.

Conveyance by board of trustees.

§ 2. The board of trustees of said state normal school are authorized and directed to deliver to said city of Los Angeles, a conveyance of said described strip of land, to be used for the purpose aforesaid, and to cause the said conveyance to be executed by its president or any member of the board whom they may designate for that purpose, and to be attested by its secretary under the seal of the said board.

TIDE LAND GRANT.

ACT 2596—An act granting to the city of Los Angeles the tide lands and submerged lands of the state within the boundaries of the said city.

History: Approved May 1, 1911, Stats. 1911, p. 1256. Amended April 20, 1917. In effect July 27, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 159.

Tidelands granted to Los Angeles.

§ 1. There is hereby granted to the city of Los Angeles, a municipal corporation of the state of California, and to its successors, all the right, title and interest of the state of California, held by said state by virtue of its sovereignty, in and to all tidelands and submerged lands, whether filled or unfilled, within the present boundaries of said city, and situated below the line of mean high tide of the Pacific ocean, or of any harbor, estuary, bay or inlet within said boundaries, to be forever held by said city, and by its successors, in trust for the uses and purposes, and upon the express conditions, following, to wit:

Purposes for which lands may be used.

(a) That said lands shall be used by said city, and by its successors, solely for the establishment, improvement and conduct of a harbor, and for the construction, maintenance and operation thereon of wharves, docks, piers, slips, quays and other utilities, structures and appliances necessary or convenient for the promotion and accommodation of commerce and navigation, and said city, or its successors, shall not, at any time, grant, convey, give or alien said lands, or any part thereof, to any individual, firm or corporation for any purpose whatsoever; provided, that said city, or its successors, may grant franchises thereon for limited periods, in any event not to exceed thirty years for wharves and other public uses and purposes, and may lease said lands, or any part thereof, for limited periods, in any event not to exceed thirty years for any and all purposes which shall not interfere with commerce or navigation, and are not inconsistent with the trusts upon which said lands are held by the state of California.

Harbor improved without expense to state.

(b) That said harbor shall be improved by said city without expense to the state, and shall always remain a public harbor for all purposes of commerce and navigation, and the state of California shall have, at all times, the right to use, without charge, all wharves, docks, piers, slips, quays and other improvements constructed on said lands, or any part thereof, for any vessel or other water craft, or railroad, owned or operated by the state of California;

No discrimination in rates.

(c) That in the management, conduct or operation of said harbor, or of any of the utilities, structures or appliances mentioned in paragraph (a), no discrimination in rates, tolls, or charges, or in facilities, for any use or service in connection therewith shall ever be made, authorized or permitted by said city, or by its successors;

Right to fish reserved to people.

Reserving, however, in the people of the state of California, the absolute right to fish in the waters of said harbor, with the right of convenient access to said waters over said lands for said purposes. [Amendment of April 20, 1917. In effect July 27, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 159.]

§ 2. This act shall take effect immediately.

1. Effect of act to revoke Banning lease.—The effect of the act of May 1, 1911 (1256), was to revoke, so far as it could do so, the Banning lease, by granting all the land embraced therein to the city of Los Angeles, to be used and managed for the public purposes of navigation.—People v. Banning Co., 166 Cal. 630, 634, 138 Pac. 100.

TIDE LANDS REQUIRED FOR PUBLIC PURPOSES.

ACT 2597—An act declaring that all tide lands and submerged lands within the boundaries of the city of Los Angeles are required, and requiring such lands, for public purposes of commerce, navigation and fishing, and for purposes in aid thereof, and ratifying, approving and confirming the acts of the attorney general in bringing and prosecuting certain suits in the name of the people of the state of California, for the purpose of quieting title to, and for the recovery of the possession of said lands.

History: Approved June 6, 1913. In effect August 10, 1913. Stats. 1913, p. 413.

Tide lands within Los Angeles city required for public use.

§ 1. That all tide lands and submerged lands, whether filled or unfilled, within the present boundaries of the city of Los Angeles, a municipal corporation of this state, and situated below the line of mean high tide of the Pacific Ocean, or of any harbor, bay, inlet, estuary or other navigable water within the present boundaries of said city, are hereby declared to be, and the same are hereby, required for the public purposes of commerce, navigation and fishing, and for purposes in aid thereof.

Attorney general to bring suit for recovery.

§ 2. That the acts of the attorney general of this state in bringing and prosecuting certain suits in the courts of this state, in the name of and in behalf of the people thereof, against all persons, partnerships or private corporations claiming or possessing the tide lands and submerged lands described in section one of this act, for the purpose of quieting, in the state of California, the title to said lands, and for the recovery of possession of said lands by said state, be and the same are hereby ratified, approved and confirmed.

PROTECTION OF NAVIGATION ACT OF 1917.

ACT 2598—An act to appropriate money to be expended under the direction of the state board of control in co-operation with the federal government to carry out the project adopted by congress for the protection of the navigability of Los Angeles and Long Beach harbors, and providing for the future completion of the entire project.

History: Approved May 15, 1917. In effect July 27, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 533.

Appropriation: protection of Los Angeles and Long Beach harbors.

§ 1. The sum of two hundred fifty thousand dollars is hereby appropriated out of any moneys in the state treasury not otherwise appropriated, to be expended under the direction of the state board of control in co-operation with the federal government to carry out the project adopted by congress for the protection of Los Angeles and Long Beach harbors in accordance with the report made by the war department and printed in house document numbered four hundred sixty-two, sixty-fourth congress, first session, with such modifications and amendments as may hereafter be adopted by the war department or by congress.

Manner of expenditure.

§ 2. The money appropriated by section one of this act shall be expended by the state board of control in such manner as will comply most fully with the requirements of the report of the war department referred to in section one hereof. To that end the said board may in its discretion cause the money herein appropriated to be paid over to the treasurer of the United States for expenditure by the war department or may enter into contracts or agreements to pay and may pay expenses that may be incurred by any other duly authorized agencies in furthering the purposes of this act. It is the intent and purpose of the state of California to provide a total of one million eighty thousand dollars to be expended in carrying out said project in conjunction with the expenditure of a like amount by the federal government for said project. No contract, agreement or other obligation shall be entered into by the state board of control which, together with all other contracts, agreements and obligations entered into under this act, will commit or bind the state to the payment of a sum in the aggregate of more than said amount of one million eighty thousand dollars.

PROTECTION OF NAVIGATION ACT OF 1919.

ACT 2600—An act to appropriate money to be expended under the direction of the state board of control in co-operation with the federal government to carry out the project adopted by congress for the protection of the navigability of Los Angeles and Long Beach harbors.

History: Approved May 22, 1919. In effect July 22, 1919. Stats. 1919, p. 777.

Appropriation: protection of Los Angeles and Long Beach harbors.

§ 1. The sum of eight hundred thirty thousand dollars is hereby appropriated out of any moneys in the state treasury not otherwise appropriated, to be expended under the direction of the state board of control in co-operation with the federal government to carry out the project adopted by congress for the protection of Los Angeles and Long Beach harbors in accordance with the report made by the war department and printed in house document numbered four hundred sixty-two, sixty-fourth congress, first session, and in harmony with the provisions enacted, and moneys appropriated for said purposes by the forty-second session of the legislature, with such modifications and amendments as may hereafter be adopted by the war department or by congress.

§ 2. Of the amount appropriated by section one, two hundred fifty thousand dollars shall be available upon the taking effect of this act and five hundred eighty thousand dollars shall be available on July 1, 1921. The amount herein appropriated shall be expended by the state board of control in such manner as will comply most fully with the requirements of the report of the war department referred to in section one hereof. To that end the said board may in its discretion cause the money herein appropriated to be paid over to the treasurer of the United States for expenditure by the war department or may enter into contracts or agreements to pay and may pay expenses that may be incurred by any other duly authorized agencies in furthering the purposes of this act.

PROTECTION OF EL MONTE TOWNSHIP FROM OVERFLOW.

ACT 2609—An act to authorize the board of supervisors of Los Angeles county to protect certain lands in El Monte township against the overflow of San Gabriel river.

History: Approved March 28, 1874, Stats. 1873-74, p. 768.

This act authorized the appointment of three commissioners, and levied an assessment for the cost of work.

BRIDGE ACROSS THE SANTA ANA RIVER.

ACT 2622—An act to authorize the board of supervisors of Los Angeles county to locate and build a bridge across the Santa Ana river in Los Angeles county, and to issue bonds for the payment of the same.

History: Approved February 4, 1874, Stats. 1873-74, p. 47.

COUNTY CHARTER.

ACT 2626—Charter of Los Angeles county.

History: Voted for and ratified at the general election November 5, 1912, filed with the secretary of state January 29, 1913, Stats. 1913, p. 1484.

1. Proceedings for removal of county officer—Sections 758, et seq., Penal Code.—The provisions of the Penal Code, §§ 758, et seq., and not of the Los Angeles county charter, which went into effect in June, 1913 (Stats. 1913, p. 1484), are applicable to a proceeding to remove a county officer serving a term for which he was elected in 1910, and commencing in January, 1911, in view of the provisions of the charter itself.—Hunt v. Superior Court, 178 Cal. 470, 471, 173 Pac. 1097; Lewis v. Superior Court, 178 Cal. 812, 173 Pac. 1099.

2. Construction—Compensation of elective officers.—Section 52 of the charter of Los Angeles county (Stats. 1913, p. 1500), relating to the power to increase or diminish the compensation of an elective county or township officer during his term and three months preceding his election, means that the compensation of the sheriff during his term of office shall be controlled by whatever law was in existence on the ninety-first day preceding his election with respect to the salary of that office for and during the ensuing term.—Cline v. Lewis, 175 Cal. 315, 317, 165 Pac. 915.

3. Ordinances—Time of taking effect.—In the absence of any provision the charter of Los Angeles county determining the time when ordinances shall take, or as to the subjects of initiative and referendum, under section 7½, article XI, of the constitution, the provisions of the Political Code as a part of the general law of the state, controls.—Cline v. Lewis, 175 Cal. 315, 317, 165 Pac. 915.

“LOS ANGELES COUNTY FLOOD CONTROL ACT.”

ACT 2627—An act to create a flood control district to be called “Los Angeles County Flood Control District”; to provide for the control and conservation of flood and storm waters, and for the protection of harbors, waterways, public highways and property in said district from damage from such waters, and for the construction of works and the acquisition of property therefor; to authorize the incurring of indebtedness, and the voting, issuing and selling of bonds, and the levying and collecting of taxes by said district; to provide for the government and control of said district, and to define the powers and duties of the officers thereof.

History: Approved June 12, 1915. In effect August 11, 1915, Stats. 1915, p. 1502.

Los Angeles county flood control district created.

§ 1. A flood control district is hereby created, to be called “Los Angeles County Flood Control District,” and the boundaries and territory of said district shall be as follows:

All that portion of the county of Los Angeles lying south of the north line of township 5 north, San Bernardino base, excepting therefrom the islands of Santa Catalina and San Clemente, and the islands off the coast included in Los Angeles county.

Purposes of act.

§ 2. The objects and purposes of this act are to provide for the control of the flood and storm waters of said district, and to conserve such waters for beneficial and useful purposes by spreading, storing, retaining or causing to percolate into the soil within said district, or to save or conserve in any manner, all or any of such waters, and to protect from damage from such flood or storm waters the harbors, waterways, public highways and property in said district.

Powers.

Said Los Angeles county flood control district is hereby declared to be a body corporate and politic, and as such shall have power:

1. To have perpetual succession.
2. To sue and be sued in the name of said district in all actions and proceedings in all courts and tribunals of competent jurisdiction.
3. To adopt a seal and alter it at pleasure.
4. To take by grant, purchase, gift, devise or lease, hold, use, enjoy, and to lease or dispose of real or personal property of every kind within or without the district necessary to the full exercise of its powers.
5. To acquire or contract to acquire lands, rights of way, easements, privileges and property of every kind, and construct, maintain and operate any and all works or improvements within or without the district necessary or proper to carry out any of the objects or purposes of this act, and to complete, extend, add to, repair or otherwise improve any works or improvements acquired by it as herein authorized.
6. To have and exercise the right of eminent domain, and in the manner provided by law for the condemnation of private property for public use, to take any property necessary to carry out any of the objects or purposes of this act, whether such property be already devoted to the same use by any district or other public corporation or agency or otherwise, and may condemn any existing works or improvements in said district now used to control flood or storm waters, or to conserve such flood or storm waters or to protect any property in said district from damage from such flood or storm waters.
7. To incur indebtedness, and to issue bonds in the manner herein provided.
8. To cause taxes to be levied and collected for the purpose of paying any obligation of the district in the manner hereinafter provided.
9. To make contracts, and to employ labor, and to do all acts necessary for the full exercise of all powers vested in said district, or any of the officers thereof, by this act.

Board of supervisors.

§ 3. The board of supervisors of Los Angeles county shall be, and they are hereby designated as, and empowered to act as, ex officio the board of supervisors of said Los Angeles county flood control district, and said board of supervisors is hereby vested with the same powers, and shall perform the same duties for and on behalf of said district, and the government thereof, to carry out the objects and purposes of this act that the board of supervisors of Los Angeles county now have or may hereafter have by law for said Los Angeles county, and shall also have such other or additional powers for said district as may be necessary to carry out any of the objects or purposes of this act above mentioned, or to exercise any of the said powers of said district; provided, that such powers and duties are not in conflict with the express terms of this act; and provided, further, that the provisions of article 9 of the charter of said Los Angeles county shall not be deemed to apply to said district.

Assistants.

The county counsel, county clerk, county assessor, county tax collector, county auditor and county treasurer of the county of Los Angeles, and their successors in office, and all their assistants, deputies, clerks and employees, and all other officers of said Los Angeles county, their assistants, deputies, clerks and employees, shall be ex officio officers, assistants, deputies, clerks and employees respectively of said Los Angeles county flood control district, and shall respectively perform, unless otherwise provided by said board of supervisors, the same various duties for said district as for said Los Angeles county without additional compensation in order to carry out the provisions of this act.

Other officers.

Said board of supervisors may in their discretion appoint such other officers for said district as in their judgment may be deemed necessary, and prescribe their duties and fix their compensation, which said officers shall hold office during the pleasure of said board.

All ordinances, resolutions and other legislative acts for said district shall be adopted by said board of supervisors and certified to, recorded and published, in the same manner, except as herein otherwise expressly provided, as are ordinances, resolutions or other legislative acts for the county of Los Angeles.

Employment of engineers. Report of engineers.

§ 4. Said board of supervisors shall have jurisdiction and power, and it shall be their duty to employ by resolution a competent engineer or engineers to investigate carefully the best plan to control the flood and storm waters of said district, and to conserve such waters for beneficial and useful purposes by spreading, storing, retaining or causing to percolate into the soil within said district, or to save or conserve in any manner, any or all of such waters, and to protect the harbors, waterways, public highways and property in said district from damage from such waters; and to obtain such other information in regard thereto as may be deemed necessary or useful for carrying out the purposes of this act, and such resolution shall direct such engineer or engineers to make and file a report with said board of supervisors which shall show:

1. A general description of the work to be done.
2. General plans, profiles, cross-sections and general specifications of the work to be done.
3. A general description of the lands, rights of way, easements and property proposed to be taken, acquired or injured in carrying out said work.
4. A map which shall show the location of the proposed work and improvements, and lands, rights of way, easements and property to be taken, acquired or injured in carrying out said work, and any other information in regard to the same that may be deemed necessary or useful.
5. An estimate of the cost of such work, including an estimate of the cost of lands, rights of way, easements and property proposed to be taken, acquired or injured in carrying out said work, and also of all incidental expenses likely to be incurred in connection therewith, including legal, clerical, engineering, superintendence, inspection, printing and advertising, and stating the total amount of bonds necessary to be issued to pay for the same.

Such engineer or engineers employed by said resolution shall have power and authority, subject to the control and direction of said board of supervisors, to employ such engineers, surveyors and others as may be required for making all surveys or doing any other work necessary for the making of such report.

The said board of supervisors may at any time remove any or all of the engineers or employees appointed or employed under this act, and may fill any vacancies occurring among them from any cause.

Adoption by resolution.

§ 5. After the report of the engineer or engineers provided for in the next preceding section has been filed with the said board of supervisors, said board shall consider the same, and may by resolution either adopt the same as filed, or may refer such report to such engineer or engineers, or to any other engineer or engineers, to be modified or changed, and when a report satisfactory to said board of supervisors has been filed with said board by any such engineer or engineers employed as aforesaid, the said board shall by resolution adopt said report, and state the amount of the entire estimated cost for which bonds are to be voted, and a finding in said resolution adopted by said board of supervisors as to the sufficiency of said report, and that the same complies with all the requirements of this act in relation thereto, shall be final and conclusive against all persons except the state of California upon suit commenced by the attorney general.

Special election.

§ 6. After the adoption of the report by said board of supervisors, as above provided, said board shall without delay call a special election and submit to the qualified electors of said district the proposition of incurring a bonded debt in the amount and for the purposes stated in said report.

Said board of supervisors shall call such special election by ordinance, and shall recite therein the objects and purposes for which the indebtedness is proposed to be incurred; provided, that it shall be sufficient to give a brief general description of such objects and purposes, and refer to the report adopted by said board of supervisors, and on file for particulars; and said ordinance shall also state the estimated cost of the proposed work and improvements, the amount of the principal of the indebtedness to be incurred therefor, and what part of such indebtedness shall be paid each and every year, and which shall be not less than one-fortieth of the whole amount of such indebtedness, and the rate of interest to be paid on said indebtedness, and shall fix the date on which such special election shall be held, the manner of holding the same, and the manner of voting for or against incurring such indebtedness. The rate of interest to be paid on such indebtedness shall not exceed six per centum per annum.

For the purposes of said election, said board of supervisors shall in said ordinance establish election precincts within the boundaries of the said district, and may form election precincts by consolidating the precincts established for general election purposes in said district to a number not exceeding six for each such bond election precinct, and shall designate a polling place and appoint two inspectors, two judges and two clerks for each of such precincts.

In all particulars not recited in such ordinance, such election shall be held as nearly as practicable in conformity with the general election laws of the state.

Said board of supervisors shall cause so much of said report as covers a general description of the work to be done, and the map showing the location of the proposed work and improvements, to be printed at least thirty days before the date fixed for such election, and a copy thereof furnished to every qualified elector of said district who shall apply for the same.

Said ordinance calling such election shall, prior to the date set for such election, be published ten times in a daily, or four times in a weekly, newspaper of general circulation, printed and published in said district, and designated by said board of supervisors for said purpose. No other notice of such election need be given.

Any defect or irregularity in the proceedings prior to the calling of such election shall not affect the validity of the bonds.

If at such election a majority of the votes cast are in favor of incurring such bonded indebtedness, then bonds of said district for the amount stated in such proceedings shall be issued and sold as in this act provided.

Bonds.

§ 7. The said board of supervisors shall, subject to the provisions of this act, prescribe by ordinance the form of said bonds, and of the interest coupons attached thereto. Said bonds shall be payable substantially in the following manner: A part to be determined by said board, and which shall not be less than one-fortieth part of the whole amount of such indebtedness shall be payable each and every year on a day and date, and at a place to be fixed by said board, and designated in such bonds, together with the interest on all sums unpaid on such date until the whole of said indebtedness shall have been paid.

Denominations. Interest.

The bonds shall be issued in such denominations as the said board of supervisors may determine, except that no bonds shall be of a less denomination than one hundred dollars, nor of a greater denomination than one thousand dollars, and shall be payable on the day and at the place fixed in said bonds, and with interest at the rate specified in such bonds, which rate shall not be in excess of six per centum per annum, and shall be payable semi-annually, and said bonds shall be signed by the chairman of the board of supervisors, and countersigned by the auditor of said Los Angeles county, and the seal of said district shall be affixed thereto. The interest coupons of said bonds shall be numbered consecutively and signed by the auditor of said Los Angeles county by his engraved or lithographed signature. In case any such officer whose signatures or countersignatures appear on the bonds or coupons shall cease to be such officer before the delivery of such bonds to the purchaser, such signature or countersignature shall nevertheless be valid and sufficient for all purposes the same as if such officer had remained in office until the delivery of the bonds.

Sale of bonds.

§ 8. The said board of supervisors may issue and sell the bonds of such district authorized as hereinbefore provided at not less than par value, and the proceeds of the sale of such bonds shall be placed in the treasury of the county of Los Angeles to the credit of said district, and the proper record of such transactions shall be placed upon the books of said county treasury, and said district fund shall be applied exclusively to the purposes and objects mentioned in the ordinance calling such special bond election as aforesaid, subject to the provisions in this act contained. Payments from said district fund shall be made upon demands prepared, presented, allowed and audited in the same manner as demands upon the funds of the county of Los Angeles.

Bonds lien on property.

§ 9. Any bonds issued under the provisions of this act shall be a lien upon the property of the district, and the lien for the bonds of any issue shall be a preferred lien to that of any subsequent issue. Said bonds and the interest thereon shall be paid by revenue derived from an annual tax upon the real property within said district, and all the real property in the district shall be and remain liable to be taxed for such payments as hereinafter provided.

Tax levy.

§ 10. The board of supervisors shall levy a tax each year upon the taxable real property in such district sufficient to pay the interest on said bonds for that year, and such portion of the principal thereof as is to become due before the time for making the next general tax levy. Such tax shall be levied and collected on said real property at the time and in the same manner as the general tax levy for county purposes, and when collected shall be paid into the county treasury of said Los Angeles county to the credit of said district fund, and be used for the payment of the principal and interest on said bonds, and for no other purpose. The principal and interest on said bonds shall be paid by the county treasury of said Los Angeles county in the manner provided by law for the payment of principal and interest on bonds of said county.

Political Code tax levy provisions adopted.

§ 11. The provisions of the Political Code of this state, prescribing the manner of levying, assessing, equalizing and collecting taxes, including the sale of property for delinquency, and the redemption from such sale, and the duties of the several county officers with respect thereto, are, so far as they are applicable, and not in conflict with the specific provisions of this act, hereby adopted and made a part hereof. Such officers shall be liable upon their several official bonds for the faithful discharge of the duties imposed upon them by this act.

Bonds legal investments for trust funds, etc.

§ 12. The bonds of said Los Angeles flood control district issued pursuant to this act, shall be legal investments for all trust funds, and for the funds of all insurance companies, banks, both commercial and savings, and trust companies, and for the state school funds, and whenever any money or funds may by law now or hereafter enacted be invested in bonds of cities, cities and counties, counties, school districts or municipalities in the state of California, such money or funds may be invested in the said bonds of said district issued in accordance with the provisions of this act, and whenever bonds of cities, cities and counties, counties, school districts or municipalities, may by any law now or hereafter enacted be used as security for the performance of any act, such bonds of said district may be so used.

This section of this act is intended to be and shall be considered the latest enactment of the matters herein contained, and any and all acts or parts of any acts in conflict with the provisions hereof are hereby repealed.

Value of bonds.

§ 13. All bonds issued by said district under the provisions of this act are hereby given the same force, value and use as bonds issued by any municipality in this state, and shall be free and exempt from all taxation within the state of California.

Tax levy for maintenance.

§ 14. The board of supervisors of said district shall have power, in any year, to levy a tax upon the taxable real property in said district, to carry out any of the objects or purposes of this act, and to pay the cost and expenses of maintaining, operating, extending and repairing any work or improvements of said district for the ensuing fiscal year, and said tax shall be levied and collected at the same time and in the same manner as the general tax levy for county purposes, and the revenue derived from said tax shall be paid into the county treasury to the credit of said district, and said board of supervisors shall have the power to control and order the expenditure thereof for said purposes; provided, however, that such tax levied under this section for any one fiscal year shall not exceed ten cents on each one hundred dollars of the assessed valuation of the real property in said district, exclusive of any tax levied to meet the bonded indebtedness of said district, and the interest thereon.

Letting contracts.

§ 15. All contracts for furnishing the labor, materials or supplies required for any improvement or work, or any portion thereof, to carry out this act, shall be let to the lowest responsible bidder. The said board of supervisors of said district shall advertise by five or more insertions in a daily newspaper of general circulation, or by two or more insertions in a weekly newspaper of general circulation, printed and published in said district, inviting sealed proposals for furnishing the labor, materials and supplies for the proposed improvement or work before any contract shall be made therefor, and may let by contract separately any part of said work or improvement. The said board shall have the right to require such bonds as it may deem best from the successful bidder, to insure the faithful performance of the contract, and shall also have the right to reject any and all bids; provided, however, that nothing herein contained shall be construed as prohibiting said district itself, and when ordered by the said board of supervisors thereof, it shall have power to make proposed improvement or carry out any work or portion thereof without a contract therefor, and to purchase the materials and supplies, and employ the labor necessary for such purpose; and provided, further, that any improvement for which bonds are voted under the provisions of this act, shall be made in conformity with the report, plans, specifications and map theretofore adopted, as above specified, unless the doing of any of such work described in said report shall be prohibited by law, or be rendered contrary to the best interests of said district by some change of conditions in relation thereto, in which event said board of supervisors may, by a vote of four-fifths of all the members thereof, order necessary changes made in such proposed work or improvements, and may cause new plans and specifications to be made and adopted therefor.

Improvements along highways.

Any work or improvement provided for in this act may be located, constructed and maintained in, along or across any public road or highway in the county of Los Angeles, in such manner as to afford security for life and property, but the said board of supervisors of said district shall restore or cause to be restored such road or highway to its former state as near as may be, so as not to impair its usefulness.

Approval of plans and specifications.

The plans and specifications for any work proposed to be done, or improvements to be made, under this act, in any municipality in said district shall first be approved by the legislative body of such municipality before the commencement of such work or improvements, and before any contract shall be let therefor; provided, that in the event such legislative body shall refuse or neglect to approve the said plans and specifications for such work or improvement within thirty days after being requested by said board of supervisors so to do, then said board of supervisors shall omit the doing of such work or making of such improvements within such municipality, and such omission shall not affect the validity of its proceedings under this act, and the funds which were to be expended for such proposed work or improvement in said municipality may be expended elsewhere by said board of supervisors for carrying out the purposes of this act.

Rules and regulations.

§ 16. The said board of supervisors of said district shall have power to make and enforce all needful rules and regulations for the administration and government of said district, and to appoint or employ all needful agents, superintendents and engineers to properly look after the performance of any work provided for in this act, and to perform all other acts necessary or proper to accomplish the purposes of this act.

Power to acquire lands, rights of way, etc.

Said board of supervisors shall have power to do all work and to construct and acquire all improvements necessary or useful for carrying out any of the purposes of this act; and said board of supervisors shall have power to acquire either within or without the boundaries of said district, by purchase, condemnation, donation or by other lawful means in the name of said district, from private persons, corporations, reclamation districts, swamp land districts, levee districts, protection districts, drainage districts, irrigation districts, or other public corporations or agencies or districts, all lands, rights of way, easements, property or materials necessary or useful for carrying out any of the purposes of this act; to make contracts to indemnify or compensate any owner of land or other property for any injury or damage necessarily caused by the exercise of the powers conferred by this act, or arising out of the use, taking or damage of any property, rights of way or easements, for any of such purposes; to compensate any reclamation district, protection district, drainage district, irrigation district or other district, public corporation or agency or district, for any right of way, easement or property taken over or acquired by said Los Angeles county flood control district as a part of its work of flood control or conservation or protection provided for in this act, and any such reclamation district, protection district, drainage district, irrigation district or other district or public corporation or agency is hereby given power and authority to distribute such compensation in any manner that may be now or hereafter allowed by law; to maintain actions to restrain the doing of any act or thing that may be injurious to carrying out any of the purposes of this act by said district, or that may interfere with the successful execution of said work, or for damages for injury thereto; to do any and all things necessary or incident to the powers hereby granted, or to carry out any of the objects and purposes of this act; to compel by injunction the owner or owners of any bridge, trestle, wire line, viaduct, embankment or other structure which shall be intersected, traversed or crossed by any channel, ditch, bed of any stream, waterway, conduit or canal, so to construct or alter the same as to offer a minimum of obstruction to the free flow of water through or along any such channel, ditch, bed of any stream, waterway, conduit or canal, and whenever necessary in the case of existing works or structures, to compel the removal or alteration thereof for such purpose.

Condemnation proceedings. Diverting waters of streams.

In case of condemnation proceedings, the said board of supervisors shall proceed in the name of said district, under the provisions of title VII, part III, of the Code of Civil Procedure of the state of California, which such provisions are hereby made applicable for that purpose, and it is hereby declared that the use of the property, lands, rights of way, easements, or materials which may be condemned, taken or appropriated under the provisions of this act is a public use subject to the regulation and control of the state in the manner prescribed by law, and said board of supervisors of said district is hereby vested with full power to do all other acts or things necessary or useful for the promotion of the work of the control of the flood and storm waters of said district, and to conserve such waters for beneficial and useful purposes, and to protect from damage from such storm or flood waters the harbors, waterways, public highways and property in said district; provided, however, that nothing in this act contained shall be deemed to authorize said district, or any person or persons, to divert the waters of any river, creek, stream, irrigation system, canal or ditch, from its channel, to the detriment of any person or persons having any interest in such river, creek, stream, irrigation system, canal or ditch, or the waters thereof or therein, unless previous compensation be first ascertained and paid therefor, under the laws of this state authorizing the taking of private property for public uses; and provided, further, that nothing in this act contained shall be construed as in any way affecting the plenary power of any incorporated city, city and county, or town, or municipal or county water district, to provide for a water supply of such public corporation, or as affecting the absolute control of any properties of such public corporations necessary for such water supply, and nothing herein contained shall be construed as vesting any power of control over such properties in said Los Angeles county flood control district, or in any officer thereof, or in any person referred to in this act: and provided, further, that nothing in this act contained shall be deemed to authorize said board of supervisors to raise money for said district by any method or system other than that by the issuing of bonds, or the levying of a tax upon the assessed value of all the real property in said district in the manner in this act provided.

Power to co-operate with state and with U. S.

§ 17. Said board of supervisors of said district shall have full power and authority to co-operate with and to act in conjunction with the state of California, or any of its engineers, officers, boards, commissions, departments or agencies, or with the government of the United States, or any of its engineers, officers, boards, commissions, departments or agencies, for the purpose of carrying out the work of controlling the flood or storm waters of said district, or for the protection of property, or of any of the harbors, channels, waterways, roads or highways in said district, and to adopt a definite plan or system of work for any such purpose, and when so adopted, no substantial change shall thereafter be made in the same without the express consent of the officer, board, commission or department or agency of the state or federal government in conjunction with which the same was originally adopted.

Issuance of additional bonds.

§ 18. Whenever bonds have been issued by said district and the proceeds of the sale thereof have been expended as in this act authorized, and said board of supervisors shall by resolution passed by a vote of four-fifths of all its members determine that the public interest or necessity of said district demands the issuance of additional bonds for carrying out the work of flood control, or for any of the purposes of this act by said district, said board of supervisors may again proceed as in this act provided, and have a report made and submit to the qualified voters of said district the question of issuing additional bonds in the same manner and with like procedure as hereinbefore provided, and all the above provisions of this act for the issuing and sale of such bonds, and for the expenditure of the proceeds thereof, shall be deemed to apply to such issue of additional bonds.

Should proposition fail to carry.

§ 19. Should the proposition of issuing bonds submitted at any election under this act fail to receive the requisite number of votes of the qualified voters voting at such election to incur the indebtedness for the purpose specified, the said board of supervisors of said district shall have power and authority at the expiration of six months after such election, to call or order another election for incurring indebtedness and issuing bonds under the terms of this act, either for the same objects and purposes, or for any of the objects and purposes of this act.

Repeal of act not to affect bonds.

§ 20. No repeal or amendment of this act which shall in any way affect or release any of the property in said district from the obligations of any outstanding bonds or indebtedness of said district, shall go into effect or be valid or become operative until all such bonds and outstanding indebtedness have been fully paid and discharged.

Construction of act.

§ 21. This act, and every part thereof, shall be liberally construed to promote the objects thereof, and to carry out its intents and purposes.

Constitutionality.

§ 22. In case any section or sections, or part of any section, of this act, shall be found to be unconstitutional or invalid, for any reason, the remainder of the act shall not thereby be invalidated, but shall remain in full force and effect.

Title.

§ 23. This act may be designated and referred to as the "Los Angeles county flood control act," and any reference thereto by such designation shall be deemed sufficient for all purposes.

1. Drainage act not superseded.—The drainage act of 1903 was not superseded by this act, the purpose of the former being to dispose of the water, and of the latter to conserve it.—Van De Water v. Pridham, 33 Cal. App. 252, 164 Pac. 1136.

2. Constitutionality — "Due process." — Where, as in the case of the Los Angeles Flood Control District, the boundaries of an improvement district are fixed by the legislature, the constitutional guarantee of due process does not require the landowners to be accorded a hearing on the question of the inclusion of their lands within the district on the ground of the benefit to be derived by them from the contemplated improvement.—Los Angeles F. C. District v. Hamilton, 177 Cal. 119, 124, 169 Pac. 1028.

3. Same—Fixing boundaries of district—Determination of question of benefits.—The legislature, when it fixed the district itself, is supposed to have made proper inquiry and to have finally and conclusively determined the fact of benefits to the land included in the district, and the citizen has no constitutional right, under the due process guarantee, to any other or further hearing on the question.—Los Angeles, etc., District v. Hamilton, 177 Cal. 119, 169 Pac. 1028.

4. Same—Mere passage of act is finding that district will serve public purpose.—The mere passage of the act must be taken to impart a finding that the proposed work will answer a public purpose, that its execution will benefit the land within the district to such an extent as to warrant the imposition upon such land of the cost in manner provided, and the findings thus implied are as fully effective as if declared in express terms in the act itself.—Los An- geles, etc., District v. Hamilton, 177 Cal. 119, 169 Pac. 1028.

5. Same—Use of word "tax"—"A special assessment."—The use of the word "tax" does not invalidate the act, where it is apparent that it is intended to designate a special assessment.—Los Angeles, etc., District v. Hamilton, 177 Cal. 119, 169 Pac. 1028.

6. Same—Omission of work in non-consenting municipality.—The provision in the act which authorizes the board to omit work within a municipality which withholds its approval does not invalidate the act.—Los Angeles, etc., District v. Hamilton, 177 Cal. 119, 169 Pac. 1028.

7. Same—Ad valorem method of assessment.—The legislature may apply the ad valorem method of assessment, without any judicial inquiry into, or determination of, the extent of the benefits.—Los Angeles, etc., District v. Hamilton, 177 Cal. 119, 169 Pac. 1028.

8. Same—Issue of bonds without election.—The legislature had the power to provide for the issue of the bonds of the district without an election by the people.—Los Angeles, etc., District v. Hamilton, 177 Cal. 119, 169 Pac. 1028.

9. Same—Power to exempt property from assessment.—In the absence of a constitutional provision to the contrary the legislature may exempt property from special assessments.—Los Angeles, etc., Co. v. Hamilton, 177 Cal. 119, 169 Pac. 1028.

10. Effect of validation act.—The ratifying and confirming act of 1917 (Act 2628) cured defects in proceedings organizing the district up to and including the issue of the bonds.—Los Angeles, etc., District v. Hamilton, 177 Cal. 119, 169 Pac. 1028.

"LOS ANGELES COUNTY FLOOD CONTROL DISTRICT"—BOND VALIDATION.

ACT 2628—An act to validate bonds of the Los Angeles county flood control district and all proceedings relating thereto, and making final and conclusive, except as therein provided, the official canvass of election returns of the election at which said bonds were voted.

History: Approved May 5, 1917. In effect July 27, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 239.

Los Angeles county flood control district bonds validated.

§ 1. Bonds in the amount of four million four hundred fifty thousand dollars of the Los Angeles county flood control district, and all the acts and proceedings of said district, leading up to and including the authorizing and issuance of said bonds, are hereby legalized, ratified, confirmed and declared valid to all intents and purposes, which district was created by the Los Angeles county flood control act, approved June 12, 1915, and which bonds were authorized by virtue of an election held in said district on February 20, 1917, at which a majority of the votes cast were in favor of incurring such bonded indebtedness, as found and determined by the board of supervisors of said district upon canvassing such election returns, and which finding and determination of the result of said election shall be and is hereby declared to be final and conclusive against all persons except the state of California upon suit commenced by the attorney general. Any such suit must be commenced within thirty days after this act takes effect and not otherwise.

And all said bonds when issued and sold as in said act provided shall be and are hereby declared to be legal and valid obligations of said district, and the faith and credit of said Los Angeles county flood control district is hereby pledged for the prompt payment and redemption of the principal and interest of said bonds and said bonds by their issuance shall be conclusive evidence of the regularity of all proceedings leading up thereto, and that they were duly authorized at said election.

1. Effect of act.—The effect of this act was to cure all defects of procedure in the organization of the district up to and including the issue of the bonds.—Los Angeles, etc., District v. Hamilton, 177 Cal. 119, 169 Pac. 1028.

LOS NIETOS IRRIGATION DISTRICT.

ACT 2631—An act to provide for and regulate irrigation in the township of Los Nietos, in the county of Los Angeles.

History: Approved March 20, 1878, Stats. 1877-78, p. 374.

1. The construction of a private irrigation district is not a dedication to the public.—An irrigating ditch constructed and controlled by two or more persons is private property, and though the irrigators are numerous, and their respective rights have not been accurately defined, and they have elected a person to distribute the water, the mode they have adopted is not a dedication to the public, and such a ditch forms one of the exceptions referred to in section 6 of this act.—Cate v. Sanford, 54 Cal. 24.

ACT 2646. PAYMENT OF LOST WARRANTS AUTHORIZED.

PAYMENT OF LOST WARRANTS AUTHORIZED.

ACT 2646—An act to provide for the payment of the controller of the state's warrants which have been lost or destroyed previous to payment by the state treasurer.

History: Approved March 31, 1891, Stats. 1891, p. 294.

Lost warrants. Affidavit. Bond.

§ 1. Whenever any warrant legally drawn by the controller of state shall have been lost or destroyed before the same has been paid by the state treasurer, the amount due thereon may be recovered by the legal owner or custodian thereof, by filing with the controller of state:

First. An affidavit setting forth the fact of the loss or destruction of such state warrant, giving the number, date, amount, and name of the payee, together with all material facts relative to the loss or destruction of the same.

Second. A bond of indemnity, with two good and sufficient sureties, in double the amount of the face of the particular warrant, which bond shall be referred to the attorney general and controller of state for approval or rejection.

Approval of bond.

§ 2. It shall be the duty of the attorney general and of the controller of state to examine and pass upon the sufficiency of the said bond, and to approve or reject the same, within thirty days after it shall have been filed with the controller of state.

Duplicate warrant.

§ 3. After the filing of the approved bond, the controller of state is hereby authorized and directed to issue and deliver to the legal owner or claimant, on demand a duplicate warrant for the full amount of the original warrant, and the treasurer of state is hereby authorized and directed to pay the duplicate, in lieu of the original warrant.

ORGANIZATION ACT.

ACT 2671—To create the county of Madera, to define the boundaries thereof, to determine the county seat, and to provide for its organization and election of officers, and to classify said county.

History: Approved March 11, 1893, Stats. 1893, p. 163.

1. Determination of boundary.—The act of 1872 (Stats. 1871-72, p. 891), as amended by the act of 1874 (Stats. 1873-74, p. 100) is determinative of the boundary between Mariposa and Madera counties, and control the provisions of section 3938 of the Political Code.—County of Mariposa v. County of Madera, 142 Cal. 50.

2. Constitutionality—Fixing term of office of judge.—Section 14 of the Madera county organization act, so far as it attempts to provide that the judge of the superior court elected under the act shall hold office until January 1897, conflicts with section 6 of article VI of the constitution, fixing the terms of such judges, and it is held that the term of such judge expires on the first Monday in January, 1895, and his successor is to be elected at the general election of 1894, for the full constitutional term.—People v. Markham, 104 Cal. 232.

LABELING ARTICLES MADE FROM SHODDY.

ACT 2682—An act providing for the labeling or stamping by the manufacturer, vendor, or person, offering for sale any article of hotel, boarding or lodging-house, or domestic or office furniture, the cushions whereof are stuffed in whole or in part with materials made of second-hand or cast-off clothing, rags, or cast-off, or second-hand material of any character, so that the label or stamp shall show the character of the materials with which such articles are so partly made or stuffed, and making the violation of any of the provisions of this act a misdemeanor.

History: Approved March 18, 1909, Stats. 1909, p. 400. Amended February 28, 1911, Stats. 1911, p. 88.

Shoddy cushions, stamp must show fact.

§ 1. All persons manufacturing in this state, in whole or in part, any article of hotel, boarding-house, lodging-house or domestic or office furniture, or beds or mattresses, or cushions, used or intended to be or that could be used by human beings, that are stuffed or made in whole or in part, with material composed in whole or in part from second-hand or cast-off clothing, rags, or second-hand, or cast-off material of any character whatever, or with shoddy, shall at the time of the completion of such manufacture attach to a conspicuous place upon each of such articles so manufactured by him, a label or stamp showing the correct character of the materials with which the cushion portion of such articles of furniture or beds or cushions or mattresses are stuffed, and no person so manufacturing any such articles shall allow the same or any thereof to leave his possession in the course of trade or business unless such label or stamp is so affixed, and no person shall sell, or offer for sale, in this state any of such articles of furniture, or beds, or mattresses, or cushions, whether the same are manufactured in this state or not, unless such a label or stamp is so affixed.

Penalty.

§ 2. Any person violating any of the provisions of this act shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not less than fifty, nor more than five hundred dollars, or imprisoned not more than six months, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

Duty of labor commissioner.

§ 3. It shall be the duty of the commissioner of the bureau of labor statistics to enforce the provisions of this act. The commissioner, his deputies and agents shall have all powers and authority of sheriffs to make arrests for violations of the provisions of this act. [New section approved March 1, 1911. Stats. 1911, p. 88.]

REGISTRATION OF FACTORIES.

ACT 2683—An act to provide for the registration of factories, workshops, mills and other manufacturing establishments.

History: Approved June 2, 1913. In effect August 10, 1913. Stats. 1913, p. 444. Amended May 5, 1917. In effect July 27, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 270.

Registration of factories.

§ 1. The owner of any factory, workshop, mill or other manufacturing establishment, where five or more persons are employed, shall register such factory, workshop, mill or other manufacturing establishment with the bureau of labor statistics, giving the name of the owner, the name under which the business is carried on, the location of the plant, the address of the general offices or principal place of business and such other information as the commissioner of labor shall require. Such registration of existing factories, workshops, mills or other manufacturing establishments shall be made on or before January 1, 1914. All factories, workshops, mills or other manufacturing establishments hereafter established shall be so registered within thirty days after the commencement of business. Within thirty days after a change in the location of a factory, workshop, mill or other manufacturing establishment the owner thereof shall file with the commissioner of the bureau of labor statistics the new address.

Notice by commissioner of labor.

Whenever the commissioner of labor shall have been notified or otherwise becomes aware of the existence of a new factory, or factories, he shall forward a notification of said fact on or before the tenth day of each month to the state board of health and to the board of health or the health officer of the city and county wherein said factory or factories may be located. [Amendment of May 5, 1917. In effect July 27, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 270.]

Enforcement of act.

§ 2. The bureau of labor statistics shall enforce the provisions of this act. The commissioner, his deputies and agents, shall have all the powers and authority of sheriffs or other peace officers, to make arrests for violations of the provisions of this act, and to serve any process or notice throughout the state.

Penalty.

§ 3. Any person, firm or corporation who violates or omits to comply with the provisions of this act is guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall upon conviction thereof, be punished by a fine of not less than twenty-five dollars or more than two hundred dollars, or by imprisonment for not more than sixty days, or by both such fine and imprisonment. All fines imposed and collected under the provisions of this act shall be paid into the state treasury and credited to the contingent fund of the bureau of labor statistics.

MEDICAL AND SURGICAL APPLIANCES IN FACTORIES.

ACT 2684—An act to provide for the keeping of medical and surgical appliances in factories.

History: Approved May 19, 1913. In effect August 10, 1913. Stats. 1913, p. 511.

Medical chests in factories required.

§ 1. Every person, firm or corporation operating a factory or shop, or conducting any business in which power machinery is used for any manufacturing purpose, except for elevators or for heating or hoisting apparatus, where five or more persons are employed, shall at all times keep and maintain, in some accessible place upon the premises upon which such factory, shop or business is located, free of expense to the employees, a medical or surgical chest which shall contain an adequate assortment of absorbent lint, absorbent cotton, sterilized gauze, plain and medicated, adhesive plaster, cotton and gauze bandages, also one tourniquet, one pair scissors, one pair tweezers, one jar carbolyzed petrolatum, one bottle antiseptic solution, and one first aid manual, all of which shall cost not less than six dollars, and to be used in the treatment of persons injured or taken ill upon the premises.

Penalty.

§ 2. Any person, firm or corporation violating this act shall be subject to a fine of not less than ten dollars nor more than fifty dollars for every week during which such violation continues.

SANITATION OF FACTORIES.

ACT 2685—An act to provide for the proper sanitary condition of factories and workshops and for the preservation of the health of the employees.

ACT 2690. RECORDING MAPS OF SUBDIVISIONS.

2691. CURATIVE ACT OF 1917.

2692. ALTERATION OR VACATION OF RECORDED MAPS.

RECORDING MAPS OF SUBDIVISIONS.

ACT 2690—An act requiring the recording of maps of subdivisions of land into lots for the purpose of sale, and prescribing the conditions on which such maps may be recorded and prohibiting the selling or offering for sale of land by reference to said maps unless the same are recorded.

History: Approved March 15, 1907, Stats. 1907, p. 290. Amended (1) June 11, 1913; in effect August 10, 1913, Stats. 1913, p. 568; (2) June 12, 1915; in effect August 8, 1915, Stats. 1915, p. 1512; (3) May 2, 1919; in effect July 22, 1919, Stats. 1919, p. 164; (4) May 2, 1919; in effect July 22, 1919, Stats. 1919, p. 177; (5) May 18, 1919; in effect July 22, 1919, Stats. 1919, p. 725. Prior act of March 9, 1893, Stats. 1893, p. 96, amended March 14, 1901, Stats. 1901, p. 288, repealed by the present act.

Map of subdivision must be recorded. Matters set forth.

§ 1. Whenever any tract or subdivision of land shall be laid out into lots for the purpose of selling the same by reference to a map or plat, the owner or owners thereof shall cause to be made out and filed with the county recorder of the county in which the same is situated, an accurate map or plat thereof on cloth, drawn and attested to by a civil engineer or licensed surveyor from his own survey of the ground. Said engineer or surveyor shall, in making the surveys, leave sufficient permanent monuments so that another surveyor or engineer may retrace his work. The nature and location of these monuments shall be plainly shown on the map; provided, however, that on all maps of tracts filed for the purpose of showing as acreage, land previously subdivided into numbered or lettered lots or parcels, no survey or certificate by surveyor or engineer shall be required. The map shall also particularly set forth and describe:

First—All parcels of ground within such tract or subdivision used for public purposes or offered for dedication for public uses, whether they be intended for public highways, parks, courts, commons or other public uses and their dimensions and boundaries and the courses of their boundary lines.

Second—All lots intended for sale, or reserved for private purposes and not offered for dedication to the public use, either by number or letter, and their dimensions and boundaries and the courses of their boundary lines. All parcels of land offered for dedication as public highways and not accepted by the proper authorities upon presentation to them, shall also be designated by number or letter.

Third—The exact location of such tract or subdivision of land into lots with reference to adjacent subdivisions of land into lots, the maps or plats of which have been previously recorded, if any, or if none, then with reference to corners of a United States survey, or to some natural or artificial monument. [Amendment of May 2, 1919. In effect July 22, 1919. Stats. 1919, p. 177.]

This section was also amended June 11, 1913, Stats. 1913, p. 586; June 12, 1915, Stats. 1915, p. 1512.

Map on cloth. Size. Scale.

§ 2. Every such map or plat shall be on cloth and clearly and legibly drawn in all its details upon tracing cloth of good quality. The size of the sheets of drawing cloth must be 18 by 26 inches or 13 by 18 inches. Marginal lines must be drawn around the entire sheet, leaving a margin of one inch from the edges of the sheets, and the name, title, or other designation, and all drawings, affidavits, certificates, acknowledgments, indorsements, acceptances of dedication, and notarial seals must be within said marginal lines. The scale to which the drawing is made must be large enough to show the details clearly, and two or more sheets must be used if one does not give sufficient room to accomplish this end. If more than one sheet is used, each sheet must be numbered, connections of one sheet to another clearly given and the number of the sheets used in the subdivision must be given in the affidavit. [Amendment approved June 11, 1913. Stats. 1913, p. 569. In effect August 10, 1913.]

Consent of owner. Certificate of auditor. Bond. Land intended for public use.

§ 3. Upon every such map or plat there shall be indorsed a consent to the making thereof, signed by the owner or owners of the tract or other subdivision of land shown thereon, and also by all other persons whose consent is necessary to pass a clear title to such land, and acknowledged by all the signers in the same manner as conveyances of real property; also a certificate from the county auditor, and from the auditor or other proper officer of any municipal corporation in which any part of such tract or other subdivision is situated, showing that there are no liens for unpaid state, county, municipal or other taxes, except taxes not yet payable against said tract or subdivision of land or any part thereof; also where a tax lien attaches against any such tract or subdivision or any part thereof a certificate of the clerk of the board of supervisors that a bond has been filed with said board as provided herein; and the owner or owners of any tract, or other subdivision of land shown thereon, shall execute and file with the board of supervisors of the county wherein such tract, or subdivision, or any part thereof, is situated, a good and sufficient bond to be approved by and in amount to be fixed by said board of supervisors and by its terms made to inure to the benefit of the county wherein such tract, subdivision, or any part thereof, is situate, and conditioned for the payment of all taxes which are at the time of filing of said map, a lien against any such tract, or subdivision, or any part thereof, but not yet payable. Except that no tax bond, or certificate in regard to tax bond, by the clerk of the board of supervisors, shall be required on any map which may be recorded on or after the date upon which the taxes for the current year have become payable and before the date upon which the assessment for the next succeeding year is based. Upon every such map or plat which shows any parcels of land intended for public use and not previously dedicated therefor, there shall be indorsed a statement of the dedication of such parcels of land intended for public use, executed by the owner or owners, and by all other persons whose consent is necessary to pass a clear title to such parcels of ground to the public, and acknowledged by all persons executing the same in the same manner as conveyances of real property. [Amendment of May 2, 1919. In effect July 22, 1919. Stats. 1919, p. 164.]

This section was also amended June 11, 1913, Stats. 1913, p. 569.

Approval of map by city or county governing body. Certificate of examination as to value of territory. Highways to conform to those surrounding.

§ 4. The map or plat so made, indorsed and acknowledged shall be submitted to the governing body of the city, city and county, or county having control of public highways in the territory shown on such map or plat, for the approval of such governing body before such map or plat is filed for record in the recorder's office; provided, that said map or plat shall not be accepted or approved by such governing body unless the same is accompanied by a certificate of the county surveyor and county assessor, if such tract or subdivision of land lies in unincorporated territory, or city engineer, if such there be, and the city assessor of any incorporated city or town, in which the whole or any part of such tract or subdivision of land is situated, showing that each and every lot and block therein has been carefully examined as to its value for residence or commercial uses with their suggestions and recommendations to such governing body; and provided, further, that whenever such tract or subdivision of land lies within an incorporated city or town, the map or plat thereof shall first be submitted by the governing body thereof to the city planning commission, if such there be, of such city or town, or, if there be no city planning commission, to the city engineer, if such there be. Said city planning commission, or city engineer, shall report thereon to the governing body within ten days after receipt of said map or plat. If such tract or subdivision of land is in unincorporated territory but within three miles from the exterior boundaries of any city or town, the map or plat thereof shall first be submitted by the county board of supervisors to the city planning commission, if such there be, or to such city engineer as above provided of the city or town lying nearest to such tract or subdivision of land, whereupon such commission shall make an examination of such map or plat and submit a report thereon with its suggestions and recommendations to the governing body of the municipality. Said governing body shall thereupon submit a report thereon, with its suggestions and recommendations to the said county board of supervisors. Such governing body after considering the report of the city planning commission, or the city engineer, as the case may be, and said county board of supervisors, after considering the report of said governing body, shall approve or disapprove such map or plat within thirty days after the same is submitted to it as above provided. In the event of the failure, refusal or neglect of said city planning commission, or city engineer to so report within said ten days to the said governing body it shall then be the duty of said commission or city engineer to forthwith transmit said map or plat to said governing body for its action thereon. In the event of the failure, refusal or neglect of said governing body to so report to said county board of supervisors within twenty days after said county board has so filed said map or plat with said city planning commission, or city engineer, it shall then be the duty of said governing body to forthwith transmit said map or plat to said county board of supervisors for its action thereon. If approved, the said governing body or board of supervisors shall indorse, or cause to be indorsed, on said map, or plat its approval of the same. Without such approval the said map or plat shall not be filed for record or be recorded. Such governing body may require the public highways, if any, offered for dedication by said map or plat and the parcel or parcels of land, if any, therein reserved or indicated for highway or right of way purposes, and not offered for dedication to public use, to be as wide as and to conform, as near as practicable, to the adjoining, surrounding or neighboring streets or highways of said city, city and county, or county. If such map or plat offers for dedication any highways said governing body or board of supervisors shall indorse thereon which of the highways so offered for dedication are accepted on behalf of the public, and thereupon such highways which have been so accepted, and no others, shall be and become dedicated to the public use. [Amendment of May 18, 1919. In effect July 22, 1919. Stats. 1919, p. 725.]

This section was also amended June 11, 1913, Stats. 1913, p. 570; June 12, 1915, Stats. 1915, p. 1513.

Name of plat to be indorsed on map. Duty of recorder.

§ 5. Upon every such map or plat there shall be indorsed a name, title or designation, but no such tract or subdivision of land into lots shall be given any title, name or designation that is the same as the name of any existing city, town, tract or subdivision of land into lots in the same county, of which the map or plat has been previously recorded, or so nearly the same as to mislead the public or cause confusion as to the identity thereof. Whenever any map or plat required by this act to be made shall be presented to a county recorder for filing or recording, he shall examine the title, name or designation indorsed thereon and compare the same with the records in his office, and if he finds that said title, name or designation violates this section in any respect, he shall refuse to file or record such map or plat, whether the same be offered for record as a separate map or as a licensed surveyor's record, or as a part of any deed or other instrument.

Map must comply with this act.

§ 6. No map or plat referred to in this act shall be accepted by the county recorder for filing or recording, unless the same shall in all respects comply with the provisions of this act, and the recorder shall be entitled, before accepting or refusing such map or plat, to sufficient time to enable him to examine the same. [Amendment approved June 11, 1913. Stats. 1913, p. 570. In effect August 10, 1913.]

Book of maps.

§ 7. When any map or plat referred to in this act is presented to the county recorder and is received and accepted by him, he shall paste or otherwise fasten the same securely in a book of maps which he shall keep in his office, and it shall be deemed to have been recorded and shall become a public record.

No sale of lots before filing map.

§ 8. No person shall sell or offer for sale any lot or parcel of land, by reference to any map or plat, unless such map or plat has been made, certified, indorsed, acknowledged and filed in all respects as provided in this act, or was filed or recorded prior to the taking effect of this act and in accordance with the laws in force at the time it was so filed or recorded, and no person shall sell or offer for sale any lot or parcel of land by reference to any map or plat other than such recorded map or plat or true and correct copy thereof. [Amendment approved June 11, 1913. Stats. 1913, p. 570. In effect August 10, 1913.]

Penalty. Owners failing to file map may petition court for permission to file.

§ 9. Every person who violates any of the provisions of this act is guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be punishable by a fine of not less than twenty-five dollars and not more than five hundred dollars, or by imprisonment in the county jail for a period of not more than six months, or by both such fine and imprisonment, and the recordation of any map or plat which is not executed and approved as herein required shall be null and void; provided, however, that any owner or owners of any such tract or subdivision, who prior to the taking effect of this act caused to be prepared proper maps or plats thereof in conformity with the provisions of the act mentioned in section one hereof, and thereafter, through inadvertence or excusable neglect, failed to record the same prior to conveying lots shown thereon, may, within one year after this act takes effect, petition the superior court of the county wherein such land is situate for an order permitting such map or plat to be filed and recorded as in said act provided; and the court may, upon the hearing of such petition, if satisfied that good cause exists therefor, make such order. A copy of the petition shall be served upon the county recorder at least ten days prior to such hearing, and a certified copy of such order, if any be made, shall be filed with the map. [Amendment approved June 11, 1913. Stats. 1913, p. 571. In effect August 10, 1913.]

The amendatory act of 1913, p. 571, contained the following provision:

Repealed.

§ 8. An act entitled, "An act requiring the recording of maps of cities, towns, additions to cities or towns, or subdivisions of land into small lots or tracts for the purpose of sale, and providing a penalty for the selling or offering for sale any lots or tracts in cities, towns, additions to cities, towns, subdivisions, or additions thereto, before such maps are filed and recorded," approved March 9, 1893, and all acts and parts of acts in conflict with this act, are hereby repealed.

1. Construction—Misdemeanor.—The act makes it a misdemeanor both to sell and to offer for sale, by express reference to a map, where such map has not been recorded as the act requires.—King v. Johnson, 30 Cal. App. 63, 157 Pac. 531.

2. Same—Not a revenue measure.—The act is not a revenue measure, but a declaration of public policy, and the questions of the public interest in applying it, and of matters of private justice between individuals can not be considered.—King v. Johnson, 30 Cal. App. 63, 157 Pac. 531.

3. Same—Benefit of vendees—Broker's right of recovery for services.—The contention that the act was intended for the benefit of vendees only, and should not be construed to prevent a broker from recovering for services in selling lots which come within the provisions of the act, can not be maintained.—King v. Johnson, 30 Cal. App. 63, 157 Pac. 531.

4. Same—Prohibiting sales without map.—The act can only be construed as prohibiting sales where the property was designated, as being delineated on a map, to which express reference was made in the contract of purchase, and which had not been presented and filed for record as the act requires.—Baines v. Shank, 12 Cal. App. 391, 107 Pac. 631.

See, also, Schultz v. Redondo, etc., Co., 156 Cal. 439, 105 Pac. 118.

5. Same—Violation of act by agent.—An agent who knowingly sells land required by the act to be delineated on a map and the latter recorded, with a previous compliance with the act is guilty of an illegal act, and can not recover compensation therefor.—King v. Johnson, 30 Cal. App. 63, 157 Pac. 531.

6. Same—Acts required of proprietor.—The proprietor of land who has filed the map required by the act for record has done all that the act requires him to do, and the delay of the recorder in posting the map in the book of maps does not affect the right of such proprietor to thereafter make a sale, nor render such sale a criminal offense.—Bentley v. Hurlburt, 153 Cal. 796, 96 Pac. 890; Hurlburt v. Bentley, 153 Cal. 796, 96 Pac. 890.

7. Same—Approval of county surveyor not required.—The approval of the county surveyor is not required under the act, and if the map is in the form required by the act, the recorder is not authorized to make such approval a condition precedent to the receiving and recording of the map.—Bentley v. Hurlburt, 153 Cal. 796, 96 Pac. 890; Hurlburt v. Bentley, 153 Cal. 796, 96 Pac. 890.

8. Same—Withdrawal of map after presentation for record.—The withdrawal of the map after presentation for record for the purpose of obtaining the approval of the surveyor, at the recorder's request, does not constitute a withdrawal of the map so as to nullify the original presentation for record, and its subsequent recordation must be regarded as made pursuant to such original presentation.—Bentley v. Hurlburt, 153 Cal. 796; Hurlburt v. Bentley, 153 Cal. 796.

CURATIVE ACT OF 1917.

ACT 2691—An act to cure defects in maps or plats filed for record prior to January 1, 1917, and in deeds or conveyances referring to such maps.

History: Approved June 1, 1917. In effect July 31, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 1653.

Defects cured in maps filed prior to January 1, 1917.

§ 1. Any map or plat recorded or filed with the county recorder of the county in which the lands shown on said map or plat are situated prior to the first day of January, one thousand nine hundred seventeen, shall for all purposes be deemed to have been properly so recorded or filed and to comply with all the requirements of the laws in force at the time it was so recorded or filed, notwithstanding any defect, omission or informality in the preparation or execution of such map or plat or of the affidavits, certificates, acknowledgments, indorsements, acceptances of dedication or other matters thereon or required to be thereon by any law in force at the time of such recording or filing, and all sales or conveyances of land by reference to any such map or plat shall be valid as though said map or plat had been made, certified, indorsed, acknowledged and filed in all respects in accordance with the laws in force at the time said map or plat was so recorded or filed. And any deed or conveyance referring to any such map or plat which, prior to the passage hereof, was copied into the proper book of records kept in the office of any county recorder shall impart after the passage hereof notice of its contents to subsequent purchasers and incumbrancers, notwithstanding any defect, omission or informality in the preparation or execution of such map or plat or of the affidavits, certificates, acknowledgments, indorsements, acceptances of dedication or other matters thereon or required to be thereon by any law in force at the time of such recording or filing.

ALTERATION OR VACATION OF RECORDED MAPS.

ACT 2692—An act to provide for the exclusion of any portion of the lands embraced within a subdivision or tract of land and for the alteration or vacation of recorded maps or plats thereof.

History: Approved May 7, 1919. In effect July 22, 1919. Stats. 1919, p. 329.

Exclusion of land from subdivision.

§ 1. Upon the application of the owners of at least two-thirds of the area of the land included within the boundaries of any tract or subdivision of land described in a recorded map or plat, the superior court of the county or city and county wherein such land is situated, may cause all or any portion of such land to be excluded from the subdivision or tract and the recorded map or plat thereof to be altered or vacated as hereinafter provided.

Petition.

§ 2. The application provided for in section one hereof shall be made by filing in the office of the county clerk of the county or city and county in which the tract or subdivision, or that portion of the land sought to be excluded, is situated, a petition signed and verified by the owners of at least two-thirds of the total area of the land included within the boundaries of the tract or subdivision, as shown on the recorded map or plat, praying that all or such portions of the land included within such subdivision or tract as is described shall be excluded therefrom. Such petition shall also show the reasons therefor. The land sought to be excluded shall be accurately and distinctly described by reference to the recorded map or plat or by an accurate survey. The petition shall further show the names and addresses of all other owners of the land in the subdivision or tract so far as the same are known to the petitioners.

Notice of filing petition.

§ 3. Upon the filing of a petition as hereinbefore provided, any judge of the superior court of the county or city and county wherein such land is situated, shall make an order directing the clerk of such court to give notice of the filing of such petition. Said notice shall be for not less than thirty, nor more than fifty, days as shall be by such judge directed, by publication in some newspaper of general circulation within the county, or city and county, or if there is no newspaper published therein by posting in three of the principal places in the county or city and county. Such notice shall contain a statement of the nature of the petition together with a direction that any person may file his objection to the petition, in writing, at any time before the expiration of the time of posting or publication.

Hearing of application. Exclusion by court.

§ 4. When the time of posting or publication has expired there shall be filed with the clerk of the superior court an affidavit showing due posting or publication, whereupon the court may if no objection has been filed, proceed without further notice to hear the application. If upon such hearing the petitioners shall produce to said court satisfactory evidence of the necessity of the exclusion of said lands, and that the owners to two-thirds of the area of the land included within such tract or subdivision are such petitioners, and that there is no reasonable objection to making such exclusion, the court may proceed to exclude the lands sought to be excluded by the petition, and alter or vacate any recorded map or plat thereof, and enter its decree accordingly.

Hearing of objections.

§ 5. If objection is made to the petition which, in the judgment of the court is material, the court shall proceed to hear such objection and may adjourn the proceedings to such time as may be necessary upon proper notice to the petitioners.

Public highway not affected. Filing of decree.

§ 6. The exclusion of any territory herein provided for or the alteration or vacation of any recorded map or plat, shall not affect or vacate the whole or any part of any public highway. The exclusion of any land herein provided for or the alteration or vacation of any recorded map or plat, shall be complete with the filing in the office of the county recorder of the county or city and county in which such land is situated, of a copy of the decree of the superior court. The county recorder shall make, upon the face of any such recorded map or plat a memorandum stating briefly that such map or plat has been altered or vacated, whichever the case may be, and giving the date and reference of such degree.

New map filed.

§ 7. In case any land has been excluded and any map or plat altered pursuant to the provisions of this act, a new map or plat shall be filed with the county recorder in the manner provided by law showing the boundaries of such subdivision or tract as same appears after the exclusion and alteration.

2728. MARKING FRESH AND DRIED FRUIT CONTAINERS.

2729. LABELING ARTICLES MANUFACTURED IN STATE PRISONS, ETC.

2730. PERPETUATION OF MARKS AND BRANDS.

MARKING CITRUS FRUIT CONTAINERS.

ACT 2727—An act to provide for the marking or branding of boxes or barrels containing citrus fruit for shipment, and fixing a penalty for the violation thereof, and for the appointment of an inspector under its provisions.

History: Approved March 23, 1901, Stats. 1901, p. 663.

Marking or branding of packages of citrus fruits.

§ 1. All citrus fruit contained in boxes or barrels, which shall hereafter be shipped, or offered for shipment in this state by any person, firm, or corporation, shall have stamped, stenciled, or printed in a conspicuous place on the outside of every such box or barrel, in clearly legible letters, a statement truly and correctly designating the county and immediate locality in which such fruit was grown. Such statement shall be placed thereon by the shipper of said fruit.

Penalty for violation.

§ 2. Any person, firm, or corporation violating any of the provisions or requirements of section 1 of this act shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined in any sum not less than two hundred dollars nor more than five hundred dollars.

Inspector to be appointed. Duty to report violation of statute.

§ 3. The governor of the state of California, upon the passing of this act, shall appoint one inspector of citrus fruit shipments, to serve without compensation, whose duty it shall be to examine boxes and barrels used in the shipment of citrus fruits; and upon the discovery by said inspector of any violation of the requirements of this act he shall forthwith give notice thereof to the district attorney of the county in which the offense was committed, and upon receiving such notice it shall be the duty of such district attorney to prosecute the offender under the provisions of this act.

§ 4. This act shall take effect immediately on and after its passage.

See, post, Act 2728, and Ex parte Hayden, 147 Cal. 649, 82 Pac. 315. Also, see tit. "Fruit," various acts relating to fruit containers.

MARKING FRESH AND DRIED FRUIT CONTAINERS.

ACT 2728—An act to provide for the marking, branding, or labeling of boxes, barrels, or packages containing fruits, fresh or dried, and fixing a penalty for the violation thereof, and for the appointment of inspectors under its provisions.

History: Approved March 20, 1903, Stats. 1903, p. 338.

See Kerr's Cyc. Penal Code, § 349a, and Act 2727, and tit. "Fruit."

The act is unconstitutional as an improper exercise of the police power.—Ex parte Hayden, 147 Cal. 649.

1. Purpose of act.—The act is for the purpose of obtaining for the fruit raisers of favorable and well advertised localities an advantage for their product, and not to prevent the shipping of diseased or falsely labeled fruit, and is not for the benefit of the public health, welfare, safety, or morals, and is unconstitutional.—Ex parte Hayden, 147 Cal. 649.

LABELING OF ARTICLES MANUFACTURED IN STATE PRISONS, ETC.

ACT 2729—An act requiring the labeling of articles offered for sale and intended for personal wear, manufactured in state penitentiaries, reform schools or other institutions supported at public expense, and requiring that notice that such goods are on sale, shall be conspicuously posted in places where said goods are offered for sale.

History: Approved May 5, 1917. In effect July 27, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 249.

Articles manufactured at state institutions must be labeled.

§ 1. No person, persons, firm or corporation, by themselves, their agents or employees shall sell, offer for sale or expose for sale, or have in his or their possession for sale, any article intended for personal wear which was manufactured at a state penitentiary, state reform school or at any other institution supported at public expense and located without the boundaries of the state of California, unless said article shall have affixed, stamped or imprinted thereon, a label in letters three-eighths of an inch in height, designating the state penitentiary, state reform school or other public institution, where said article was manufactured.

Notice that articles manufactured at state institutions are for sale.

§ 2. No person, persons, firm or corporation, by themselves, their agents or employees shall sell, offer for sale or expose for sale, or have in his or their possession for sale, any article intended for personal wear which was manufactured at a state penitentiary, state reform school or at any other institution supported at public expense and located without the boundaries of the state of California unless there is kept on exhibition in a conspicuous place, where said article is exposed or offered for sale, a notice at least twelve inches in length by six inches in height, stating that goods so manufactured are on sale there.

Penalty.

§ 3. Whoever shall knowingly violate any of the provisions or sections of this act shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall, upon conviction thereof, be punished for the first offense by a fine of not less than twenty dollars nor more than one hundred dollars; or by imprisonment in the county jail for not less than ten days and not exceeding thirty days; and for each subsequent offense by a fine of not less than fifty dollars nor more than two hundred dollars, or by imprisonment in the county jail for not less than twenty days nor more than one hundred days, or by both such fine and imprisonment, at the discretion of the court.

Duty of district attorney.

§ 4. It shall be the duty of the district attorney of each and every county in this state, upon application, to attend to the prosecution in the name of the people of any action brought for the violation of any of the provisions of this act within his district.

PERPETUATION OF MARKS AND BRANDS.

ACT 2730—An act to perpetuate marks, brands and counterbrands established in the several counties of the state under sections three thousand one hundred sixty-eight and three thousand one hundred sixty-nine of the Political Code, to provide methods of perpetuation and declaring all marks, brands and counterbrands not so perpetuated to be inoperative and void.

History: Approved April 16, 1917. In effect July 27, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 138.

Notice to perpetuate marks, brands, and counterbrands.

§ 1. The county recorder of each county in whose office there are recorded more than one hundred marks, brands and counterbrands under the provisions of section three thousand one hundred sixty-eight of the Political Code, shall, within thirty days after this law goes into effect, cause to be published in a newspaper of general circulation in such county, the following notice:

“Every person, who, under and by virtue of compliance with section three thousand one hundred sixty-eight of the Political Code, owns a mark, brand or counterbrand, must, within three months after final publication of this notice, notify the county recorder of his desire to continue and perpetuate such mark, brand and counterbrand. This notification must be in words of positive and reasonable intendment and must be either by registered letter or by personal application addressed to said county recorder. Any person failing to so continue and perpetuate such mark, brand and counterbrand, shall lose all right, title and interest therein.

First publication: (naming date).

Last publication: (naming date).

“.....
“County recorder of.....county.”

Publication.

§ 2. The notice set forth in section one shall be published six times at intervals of four weeks, final publication to be not more than five months later than the original publication thereof.

Continuance of marks, etc.

§ 3. Every person desiring to continue and perpetuate any mark, brand and counterbrand must comply with the provisions set forth in the notice under section one, and the county recorder shall, upon such compliance, write or stamp opposite the record of such mark, brand or counterbrand the word "perpetuated."

Marks, etc., deemed abandoned.

§ 4. At the termination of three months after final publication of notice set forth in section one, the county recorders of the several counties shall transfer the records of all marks, brands and counterbrands perpetuated under section three to a new book set apart for the purpose described in section three thousand one hundred sixty-eight of the Political Code, and all marks, brands and counterbrands in the custody of the county recorders of the several counties not so continued and perpetuated shall be deemed to have been abandoned by the owner thereof and to be inoperative and void.

§ 5. Nothing in this act shall be construed as repealing sections three thousand one hundred sixty-eight and three thousand one hundred sixty-nine of the Political Code.

DAY OF REST FROM LABOR.

ACT 2770—An act to provide for a day of rest from labor.

History: Approved February 27, 1893, Stats. 1893, p. 54.

Employee entitled to one day's rest in seven.

§ 1. Every person employed in any occupation of labor shall be entitled to one day's rest therefrom in seven; and it shall be unlawful for any employer of labor to cause his employees, or any of them to work more than six days in seven; provided, however, that the provisions of this section shall not apply to any case of emergency.

Meaning of term "day's rest."

§ 2. For the purposes of this act, the term day's rest shall mean and apply to all cases, whether the employee is engaged by the day, week, month, or year, and whether the work performed is done in the day or night time.

Penalty for violation of act.

§ 3. Any person violating the provisions of this act shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor.

§ 4. This act shall take effect and be in force thirty days from and after its passage.

CAMP SANITATION.

ACT 2772—An act regulating the sanitation and ventilation in and at camps where five or more persons are employed; and providing a penalty for the violation thereof.

History: Approved May 29, 1913. In effect August 10, 1913. Stats. 1913, p. 328. Entire act, except title amended and two new sections, 7 and 8, added May 18, 1915. In effect August 8, 1915. Stats. 1915, p. 497. Amended again May 5, 1919. In effect July 22, 1919. Stats. 1919, p. 244.

Camps to be kept clean.

§ 1. In or at any camp where five or more persons are employed, bunk houses, tents or other suitable sleeping places must be provided for all the employees. Such bunk houses, tents or other sleeping places must be in good structural condition, and so constructed as to provide shelter to the occupants against the elements and so as to exclude dampness in inclement weather. The bunk houses, tents and other sleeping places shall be kept in a cleanly state, and free from vermin and matter of an infectious and contagious nature, and the grounds around such bunk houses, tents or other sleeping places shall be kept clean and free from accumulations of dirt, filth, garbage, and other deleterious matter. [Amendment of May 5, 1919. In effect July 22, 1919. Stats. 1919, p. 245.]

Air space in bunk house. Bunks.

§ 2. Every bunk house, tent or other sleeping place used for the purpose of a lodging or sleeping apartment in such camp, shall contain sufficient air space to insure an adequate supply of fresh air for each person occupying such bunk house, tent or other sleeping place. Suitable bunks or beds shall be provided for all employees. Such bunks or beds shall be made of steel, canvas or other sanitary material, and shall be so constructed as to afford reasonable comfort to the persons occupying the same. [Amendment of May 5, 1919. In effect July 22, 1919. Stats. 1919, p. 245.]

Kitchen, etc., to be kept clean.

§ 3. Every mess house, dining room, mess tent, dining tent, kitchen or other structure where food is cooked, prepared or served in such camp shall be kept in a clean and sanitary state and the openings of such structures shall be screened. [Amendment of May 18, 1915. In effect August 8, 1915. Stats. 1915, p. 498.]

Bathing facilities. Toilet facilities.

§ 4. For every such camp there shall be provided convenient and suitable bathing facilities of a reasonable nature to suit conditions, which shall be kept in a clean and sanitary condition. For every such camp there shall be provided convenient and suitable privy or other toilet facilities, which shall be kept in a clean and sanitary state. A privy other than a water-closet shall consist of a pit at least two feet deep, with suitable shelter over the same, and the openings of the shelter and pit shall be enclosed by screening or other suitable fly netting. No privy pit shall be filled with excreta to nearer than one foot from the surface of the ground and the excreta in the pit shall be covered with earth, ashes, lime or other similar substance. [Amendment of May 5, 1919. In effect July 22, 1919. Stats. 1919, p. 245.]

Garbage disposal.

§ 5. All garbage, kitchen wastes and other rubbish in such camp shall be deposited in suitable covered receptacles which shall be emptied daily or oftener if necessary, and the contents burned, buried or otherwise disposed of in such a way as not to be or become offensive or insanitary. All drainage from the kitchen sink shall be carried through a covered drain to a covered cesspool or septic tank or otherwise disposed of in such a way as not to become offensive or insanitary. [Amendment of May 5, 1919. In effect July 22, 1919. Stats. 1919, p. 245.]

Duty of employees.

§ 6. It shall be the duty of any person, firm, corporation, agent or officer of a firm or corporation employing persons to work in or at camps to which the provisions of this act apply and the superintendent or overseer in charge of the work in or at such camps to carry out the provisions of this act. At every such camp such owner, superintendent or overseer shall appoint a responsible person to assist in keeping the camp clean. [Amendment of May 5, 1919. In effect July 22, 1919. Stats. 1919, p. 246.]

Commission of immigration and housing to administer act.

§ 7. The commission of immigration and housing of California shall administer this act and secure the enforcement of the provisions thereof, and for such purposes shall have the right to enter and inspect all camps to which the provisions of this act apply. Any camp coming under the provisions of this act which does not conform to the provisions of this act is hereby declared a public nuisance and if not made to so conform within five days, or within such longer period of time as may be allowed by the commission of immigration and housing of California, after written notice given by the said commission, shall be abated by proper action brought for that purpose in the superior court of the county in which such camp, or the greater portion thereof, is situated. [New section added May 18, 1915. In effect August 8, 1915. Stats. 1915, p. 498.]

Violation of provisions. Penalty.

§ 8. Any person, firm, corporation, agent or officer of a firm or corporation, or any superintendent or overseer in charge of the work in or at any camp coming under the provisions of this act, who shall violate or fail to comply with the provisions of this act, is guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall upon conviction thereof, be punished by a fine of not more than two hundred dollars, or by imprisonment for not more than sixty days, or by both such fine and imprisonment. [New section added May 18, 1915. In effect August 8, 1915. Stats. 1915, p. 498.]

The amending act of 1915 contained the following provision:

Appropriation.

§ 2. Out of any money in the state treasury not otherwise appropriated the sum of ten thousand dollars or so much thereof as may be necessary is hereby appropriated to be expended by the commission of immigration and housing of California in accordance with law to carry out the provisions of this act.

FURNISHING PURE DRINKING WATER.

ACT 2772a—An act to require employers of labor to furnish, without charge, pure drinking water to their employees during working hours.

History: Approved May 24, 1915. In effect August 8, 1915. Stats. 1915, p. 815.

Employers must furnish pure drinking water.

§ 1. Every employer of labor in this state shall, without making a change therefor, provide fresh and pure drinking water to his employees during working hours. Access to such drinking water shall be permitted at reasonable and convenient times and places.

Penalty for violation.

Any violation of the provisions of this act shall be deemed a misdemeanor and punishable for each offense by a fine of not less than twenty-five dollars ($25.00), nor more than one hundred dollars ($100.00), or by imprisonment for not more than thirty (30) days, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

LUNCH HOUR IN SAWMILLS, ETC.

ACT 2773—An act to provide for a lunch hour for laborers in sawmills, shake-mills, shingle-mills, and logging camps.

History: Approved February 28, 1901, Stats. 1901, p. 75.

Lunch-hour for laborers in lumber camps and mills.

§ 1. Every person, corporation, copartnership, or company operating a sawmill, shake-mill, shingle-mill, or logging-camp, in the state of California, shall allow to his or its employees, workmen, and laborers a period of not less than one hour at noon for the midday meal.

Punishment for violating statute.

§ 2. Any person, corporation, copartnership, or company, his or its agents, servants, or managers, violating any of the provisions of this act shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not more than two hundred dollars nor less than one hundred dollars for each violation of the provisions of this act.

§ 3. This act shall take effect and be in force on the first day of April, nineteen hundred and one.

MISREPRESENTATIONS AS TO CONDITIONS OF EMPLOYMENT.

ACT 2774—An act to prevent misrepresentations of conditions of employment, making it a misdemeanor to misrepresent the same, and providing penalties therefor.

History: Approved March 20, 1903, Stats. 1903, p. 269. Amended April 10, 1915. In effect August 8, 1915. Stats. 1915, p. 52.

Misrepresentations of conditions of employment prohibited.

§ 1. It shall be unlawful for any person, partnership, company, corporation, association, or organization of any kind, directly or through any agent or attorney, to induce, influence, persuade, or engage any person to change from one place to another in this state or to change from any place in any state, territory, or country to any place in this state, or to change from any place in this state to any place in any state, territory or country, to work in any branch of labor, through or by means of knowingly false representations, whether spoken, written, or advertised in printed form, concerning the kind or character of such work, the compensation therefor, the sanitary conditions relating to or surrounding it, or the existence or non-existence of any strike, lockout, or other labor dispute affecting it and pending between the proposed employer or employers and the persons then or last theretofore engaged in the performance of the labor for which the employee is sought. [Amendment of April 10, 1915. In effect August 8, 1915. Stats. 1915, p. 52.]

Penalty.

§ 2. Any violation of section one or section two hereof shall be deemed a misdemeanor, and shall be punished by a fine of not exceeding two thousand dollars or by imprisonment for not more than one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

Act takes effect when.

§ 3. This act shall take effect on the date of its passage.

As to misrepresentations of employment of union labor, see Kerr's Cyc. Penal Code, § 349c.

ADVERTISEMENTS FOR EMPLOYEES DURING STRIKES, ETC.

ACT 2774a—An act to regulate advertisements and solicitations for employees during strikes, lockouts and other labor troubles.

History: Approved June 7, 1913. In effect August 10, 1913. Stats. 1913, p. 678.

Advertising for labor during strikes.

§ 1. If any person, firm, or corporation, acting either for himself, or itself, or as the agent of another person, firm, or corporation, during the continuance of a strike, lockout, or other labor trouble among his, or its employees, or among the employees of the person, firm, or corporation, for whom he, or it is acting, advertises for employees in the newspapers, or by posters, or otherwise, or solicits persons to work for him, or the persons, firm, or corporation, for whom he is acting, in the place of the strikers, he shall plainly and explicitly mention in such advertisements or oral or written solicitations, that a strike, lockout or other labor disturbance exists; provided, that the foregoing provisions shall not apply to advertisements or solicitations published solely or made within the same city or locality where the strike, lockout or other labor disturbance exists.

Penalty.

§ 2. If any person, firm, association or corporation violates any provision of this act, he or it shall be punished by a fine not less than twenty-five dollars and not exceeding two hundred and fifty dollars for each offense.

INTERFERENCE WITH POLITICAL ACTIVITIES OF EMPLOYEES.

ACT 2774b—An act prohibiting employers of labor from interfering with the political activities of their employees and providing penalties for a violation hereof.

History: Approved April 10, 1915. In effect August 8, 1915. Stats. 1915, p. 47.

Political activities of laborers not to be interfered with.

§ 1. It shall be unlawful for any employer of labor to make, adopt or enforce any rule, regulation or policy forbidding or preventing his employees, or any of them, from engaging or participating in politics or from becoming candidates or a candidate for public office, or controlling or directing, or tending to control or direct the political activities or affiliations of such employees or any of them; or to coerce or influence or attempt to coerce or influence such employees or any of them through or by means of threat of discharge or loss of employment to adopt or follow or refrain from adopting or following any particular course or line of political action or political activity. The expression "employer of labor" as herein used shall be deemed to mean and include any person, firm or corporation regularly having in his or its employ twenty or more employees.

Penalty.

§ 2. Any employer violating the provisions of this act shall upon conviction thereof, if an individual, be punishable by imprisonment in the county jail for not to exceed one year or by a fine of not to exceed one thousand dollars or by both such fine and imprisonment, and, if a corporation, by a fine of not to exceed five thousand dollars. In all prosecutions hereunder the person, firm or corporation violating this act, shall be held responsible for the acts of his or its managers, officers, agents and employees.

§ 3. Nothing herein contained shall be construed to prevent the injured employee from recovering damages from his employer for injury suffered through a violation of this act.

TIPPING ACT.

ACT 2774c—An act to prohibit employers or certain agents or representatives of employers from demanding or receiving any money or other consideration from an employee as a condition of employment or of continuing to perform services in such employment; and to provide for the enforcement of this act by the commissioner of the bureau of labor statistics; and to provide a penalty for the violation thereof; and to repeal an act entitled "An act to forbid managers, superintendents, foremen and other persons having authority from their respective employers to hire, employ, or direct the services of other persons in such employments, to demand or receive any fee, gift or other remuneration in consideration of any such hiring, employment or permission to continue to perform work or services in such employment; and to provide for the enforcement of this act by the commissioner of the bureau of labor statistics," approved April 12, 1915.

History: Approved May 5, 1917. In effect July 27, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 257. Prior act of April 12, 1915; in effect August 8, 1915, Stats. 1915, p. 61, repealed by the present act.

Employer receiving gifts or part of tips from employees guilty of misdemeanor.

§ 1. Any employer or agent or representative of an employer or other person having authority from his employer to hire, employ or direct the services of other persons in the employment of said employer, who shall demand or receive directly or indirectly from any person then in the employment of said employer, any fee, gift or other remuneration or consideration, or any part or portion of any tips or gratuities received by such employee while in the employment of said employer, in consideration or as a condition of such employment or hiring or employing any person to perform such services for such employer or of permitting said person to continue in such employment, is guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be fined not more than three hundred ($300.00) dollars for such offense, or by imprisonment for not more than six months or by both fine and imprisonment. All fines imposed or collected under provision of this act shall be paid into the state treasury and credited to the contingent fund of the bureau of labor statistics.

Employment agencies excepted.

§ 2. Nothing contained in this act shall be construed to apply to employment agencies or employment agents licensed and operating under the laws of the state of California.

Enforcement.

§ 3. This act shall be enforced by the commissioner of the bureau of labor statistics.

Stats. 1915, p. 61, repealed.

§ 4. An act entitled "An act to forbid managers, superintendents, foremen and other persons having authority from their respective employers to hire, employ, or direct the services of other persons in such employments to demand or receive any fee, gift, or other remuneration in consideration of any such hiring, employment or permission to continue to perform work or services in such employment; and to provide for the enforcement of this act by the commissioner of the bureau of labor statistics," approved April 12, 1915, and designated chapter fifty-six of the statutes of 1915, is hereby repealed.

The act is invalid as in conflict with the "due process" clause of the federal constitution and with section 13, article I of the California constitution.—In re Farb, 178 Cal. 592.

"SPOTTER" ACT.

ACT 2774d—An act providing that any public service corporation, agent, superintendent, or manager thereof employing special agents, detectives, or so-called spotters shall, before disciplining or discharging any employee upon a report by such special agent, detective, or so-called spotters, give notice and accord a hearing to such employee upon his request therefor, and providing for the punishment for the violation thereof.

History: Approved April 14, 1915. In effect August 8, 1915. Stats. 1915, p. 69.

Employee not to be discharged on "spotter's" report without hearing.

§ 1. It shall be unlawful for any public service corporation, agent, superintendent or manager thereof, employing any special agent, detective, or person commonly known as "spotter" for the purpose of investigating, obtaining and reporting to the employer, its agent, superintendent or manager, information concerning its employees to discipline or discharge any employee in its service, where such act of discipline or the discharge is based upon a report by such special agent, detective or spotter, which report involves a question of integrity, honesty or a breach of rules of the employer, unless such employer, its agent, superintendent or manager, shall give notice and accord a hearing to the employee thus accused, when requested by said employee, at which hearing said employer shall state specific charges on which said act or discharge is based and at which said accused employee shall have the right to furnish testimony in his defense.

Penalty.

§ 2. Each and every violation of this act by any person, firm, association or corporation shall be deemed a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not less than fifty dollars and not more than three hundred dollars, or by imprisonment in the county jail for a period of not more than one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment. In case of a public service corporation committing any violation of this act the imprisonment when imposed shall be imposed upon the officers or agents thereof committing such offense.

1. Constitutionality—"Due process."—Held unconstitutional as in contravention of the "due process" clause of the federal constitution, and section 13, article I of the constitution of California.—In re Farb, 178 Cal. 592, 596, 174 Pac. 320.

TEMPORARY FLOOR ACT.

ACT 2775—An act to provide for temporary floors in buildings more than three stories high in the course of construction and for the protection of the life and limb of workmen employed in such buildings from falling through joists or girders and from falling bricks, rivets, etc.

History: Approved March 6, 1909, Stats. 1909, p. 157. Entire act, except title, amended April 26, 1911, Stats. 1911, p. 1112.

Temporary floors in buildings more than two stories high.

§ 1. Any building more than two stories high in the course of construction shall have joists, beams or girders of each and every floor below the floor or level where any work is being done, or about to be done, covered with flooring laid close together, or with such other suitable material to protect workmen engaged in such building from falling through joists or girders, and from falling planks, bricks, rivets, tools, or any other substance whereby life and limb are endangered.

Not to be removed.

§ 2. Such flooring shall not be removed until the same is replaced by the permanent flooring in such building.

Duty of contractor.

§ 3. It shall be the duty of the general contractor having charge of the erection of such building to provide for the flooring as herein required, or to make such arrangements as may be necessary with subcontractors in order that the provisions of this act may be carried out.

Duty of owner.

§ 4. It shall be the duty of the owner or the agent of the owner of such building to see that the general contractor or subcontractor carry out the provisions of this act.

When contractor fails to provide.

§ 5. Should the general contractor or subcontractors of such building fail to provide for the flooring of such building, as herein provided, then it shall be the duty of the owner or the agent of the owner of such building to see that the provisions of this act are carried out.

Misdemeanor.

§ 6. Failure upon the part of the owner, agent of the owner, general contractor, or subcontractors to comply with the provisions of this act shall be deemed a misdemeanor and shall be punishable as such.

§ 7. This act shall take effect within sixty days.

SCAFFOLDING ACT.

ACT 2776—An act to regulate certain scaffolding or staging for the protection of workmen; requiring that in addition to the duties imposed by any law upon employers using or directing or permitting the use of scaffolding or staging swung or suspended from an overhead support such employers shall be subject to the provisions of this act; fixing penalties for a violation hereof to be the same as provided in section 402c of the Penal Code; and providing for the enforcement of this act by the commissioner of the bureau of labor statistics.

History: Approved April 22, 1913. In effect August 10, 1913. Stats. 1913, p. 49.

Safety rail on scaffolding.

§ 1. All scaffolding or staging, swung or suspended from an overhead support which is more than twenty feet from the ground or floor, shall have a safety rail of wood or other equally rigid material of sufficient strength to bear any sudden strain there against equal to four times the weight of an ordinary man, such rail to be properly secured and braced in a manner to withstand a sudden strain as hereinbefore prescribed; such rail to rise at least thirty-four inches above the floor or floors or main portions of such scaffolding or staging, and extending along the entire length of the outside and the ends thereof, and properly attached thereto to withstand any strain as hereinbefore provided; and such scaffolding or staging shall be fastened so as to prevent the same from swaying from the building or structure, or place of work where such scaffolding or staging is being used. Any and all parts of such scaffolding or staging shall be of sufficient strength to support, bear, or withstand, with safety, any weight of persons, tools, appliances, or materials that may be placed thereupon or that are to be supported thereby while such scaffolding or staging is being used for any of the purposes thereof.

Safety lines.

§ 2. In addition to the duties imposed upon an employer by any law regulating or relating to scaffolding or staging, it shall be the duty of such employer who uses or permits the use of scaffolding or staging, as defined in section one of this act, in connection with construction, alteration, repairing, painting, cleaning or the doing of any other kind of work upon any building structure, or other thing or place of work, to furnish safety lines to tie all hooks and hangers back on the roof of such building, structure or other thing or place of work, and to provide safety lines hanging from the roof, securely tied thereto, and one such line to be provided between each pair of hangers or falls and near the ends of all such scaffolding or staging. When planks are used for the platforms or floors of such scaffolding or staging, they shall be not less than fourteen inches in width, and not less than one and one half inches in thickness, and shall be of wood free from knots or fractures impairing the strength of such planks. Not more than two men shall be allowed or placed to work between two hangers or falls upon such scaffolding or staging.

Penalty.

§ 3. Any violation of the provisions of this act shall be punishable as provided in section four hundred and two c of the Penal Code, and shall be in addition to the penalties provided therein for the violation of any of the provisions of the said section.

§ 4. It shall be the duty of the commissioner of the bureau of labor statistics to enforce the provisions of this act.

PAYMENT OF WAGES BY NEGOTIABLE ORDER.

ACT 2777—An act prohibiting the issuance as payment for wages of any evidence of indebtedness unless the same is negotiable and payable without discount, and providing that the same must be payable upon demand.

History: Approved March 1, 1911, Stats. 1911, p. 259. Amended June 5, 1915. In effect August 8, 1915. Stats. 1915, p. 1215.

Wage checks must be negotiable.

§ 1. No person, firm or corporation shall issue, in payment of or as an evidence of indebtedness for wages due an employee, any order, check, memorandum, or other acknowledgment of indebtedness, unless the same is negotiable, and is payable upon demand without discount in cash at some bank or other established place of business in the state; and no person, firm or corporation shall issue in payment of wages due, or wages to become due an employee, or as an advance on wages to be earned by an employee, any scrip, coupons, cards or other thing redeemable in merchandise or purporting to be payable or redeemable otherwise than in money. But nothing herein contained shall be construed to prohibit an employer from guaranteeing the payment of bills incurred by an employee for the necessities of life or for the tools and implements used by such employee in the performance of his duties; provided, however, that the provisions of this act shall not apply to counties, cities and counties, municipal corporations, quasi-municipal corporations or school districts organized and existing under the laws of this state. [Amendment of June 5, 1915. In effect August 8, 1915. Stats. 1915, p. 1215.]

Penalty.

§ 2. Any person, firm or corporation, or agent or officer thereof, who shall violate any of the provisions of this act shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof, shall be punished by a fine not to exceed five hundred dollars, or by imprisonment in the county jail for not more than six months, or by both such fine and imprisonment. [Amendment of June 5, 1915. In effect August 8, 1915. Stats. 1915, p. 1215.]

1. Constitutionality upheld.—The act of March 1, 1911, as amended July 5, 1915 (1215) relative to payment of wages is valid and constitutional as applied to the ordinary transactions between employers and employees of the character referred to in the act.—In re Ballestra, 173 Cal. 657, 658, 161 Pac. 120.

2. Same.—Reasonable regulation of right of contract.—The right to make a contract is subject to reasonable regulations, which are valid if they do not impose unreasonable burdens upon individuals.—In re Ballestra, 173 Cal. 657, 658, 161 Pac. 120.

3. Sufficiency of affidavit to charge an offense under act of March 1, 1911, as amended July 5, 1915 (1215) relative to payment of wages.—In re Ballestra, 173 Cal. 657, 658, 161 Pac. 120.

PAYMENT OF WAGES ACT OF 1919.

ACT 2778—An act to regulate the payment of wages or compensation for labor or service in private employments, establishing regular pay days, providing penalties for the violation of its provisions, authorizing the commissioner of the bureau of labor statistics to enforce this act, defining the duties of district attorneys relative to its enforcement, providing for the collection of certain penalties by civil action at the direction of said commissioner and for the disposition of penalties so collected; repealing an act entitled "An act providing for the time of payment of wages," approved May 1, 1911, as amended April 28, 1915, and repealing an act entitled "An act to regulate the payment of wages or compensation of employees in private employment; to provide for regular pay days in such employment; providing a penalty for the violation thereof; and authorizing the commissioner of the bureau of labor statistics to enforce the provisions of this act," approved June 8, 1915.

History: Approved May 6, 1919. In effect July 22, 1919. Stats. 1919, p. 294. Prior act of May 1, 1911, Stats. 1911, p. 1268. Amended April 28, 1915; in effect August 8, 1915, Stats. 1915, p. 299; and act of June 8, 1915; in effect August 8, 1915, Stats. 1915, p. 1292, repealed by the present act.

Wages of discharged employee.

§ 1. Whenever an employer discharges an employee, the wages or compensation for labor or service earned and unpaid at the time of such discharge shall become due and payable immediately. Whenever an employee not having a written contract for a definite period quits or resigns his employment, the wages or compensation shall become due and payable not later than seventy-two hours thereafter, unless such employee shall have given seventy-two hours previous notice of his intention to quit, in which latter case such employee shall be entitled to his wages or compensation at the time of quitting.

Wages due semi-monthly. Exceptions.

§ 2. All wages or compensation other than those mentioned in section one of this act earned by any person in any employment not exempt by section eleven of this act, shall become due and payable semimonthly or twice during each calendar month, on days to be designated in advance by the employer as the regular pay days; provided, however, that services rendered between the first and fifteenth days, inclusive, of any calendar month shall be paid for between the sixteenth and the twenty-sixth day of the month during which services were rendered, and for all services rendered between the sixteenth and the last day, inclusive, of any calendar month, said services shall be paid for between the first and tenth day of the following month; provided, however, that in agricultural, viticultural and horticultural pursuits, in stock or poultry raising, and in household domestic service, and when the employees in the said employments are boarded and lodged by the employer, the wages or compensation due any employee remaining in such employment shall become due and payable monthly or once in each calendar month, on a day designated in advance by the employer as the regular pay day, but no two successive such pay days to be more than thirty-one days apart, and the payment or settlement shall include all amounts due for labor or service up to the regular pay day.

What wages shall include.

§ 3. The wages or compensation subject to the provisions of this act shall include all amounts for labor or service performed by employees of every description, whether the amount is fixed or ascertained by the standard of time, task, piece, or other method of calculating the same, or whether the labor or service is performed under contract, subcontract, partnership, subpartnership, station plan, or other agreement for the performance of labor or service; provided, that the labor or service to be paid for is performed personally by the person demanding payment. Nothing contained in this act shall in any way limit or prohibit the payment of wages or compensation at more frequent intervals, or in greater amounts, or in full when or before due.

Notice of time and place of payment. In case of strike.

§ 4. Every employer shall post and keep posted conspicuously at the place of work, if practicable, or otherwise where it can be seen as employees come or go to their place of work, or at the office or nearest agency for payment kept by the employer, a notice specifying the regular pay days and the time and place of payment, also any changes in those regards occurring from time to time. Every employee who is discharged shall be paid at the place of discharge, and every employee who quits or resigns shall be paid at the office or agency of the employer in the county or city and county where such employee has been performing the labor or service for the employer. All payments of money or compensation shall be made in the manner provided by law. In the happening of any strike, the unpaid wages or compensation earned by such striking employees shall become due and payable on the employer's next regular pay day, and the payment or settlement shall include all amounts due such striking employees without abatement or reduction, and the employer shall return to each such striking employee any deposit or money or other guaranty required by him from such employee for the faithful performance of the duties of the employment. Any violation of the provisions of this section shall be punishable as for a misdemeanor, and any failure to post any notice as in this section prescribed shall be deemed prima facie evidence of a violation of this act.

Failure of employer to pay.

§ 5. In the event that an employer shall wilfully fail to pay, without abatement or reduction, any wages or compensation of any employee who is discharged or who resigns or quits, as in section one of this act provided, then as a penalty for such non-payment the wages or compensation of such employees shall continue from the due date thereof at the same rate until paid, or until an action therefor shall be commenced; provided, that in no case shall such wages continue for more than thirty days; and provided, further, that no such employee who secretes or absents himself to avoid payment to him, or who refuses to receive the payment when fully tendered to him, including any penalty then accrued under the provisions of this section, shall be entitled to any benefit under this act for such time as he so avoids payment.

Refusal of employer to pay.

§ 6. Any person, firm, association, or corporation, or agent, manager, superintendent, or officer thereof, who having the ability to pay, shall wilfully refuse to pay the wages due and payable when demanded, as herein provided, or falsely deny the amount or validity thereof, or that the same is due, with intent to secure for himself, his employer or other person, any discount upon such indebtedness, or with intent to annoy, harass, or oppress, or hinder, or delay, or defraud, the person to whom such indebtedness is due, shall, in addition to any other penalty imposed upon him by this act, be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Enforcement by bureau of labor statistics.

§ 7. It shall be the duty of the commissioner of the bureau of labor statistics to inquire diligently for any violations of this act, and to institute the actions for penalties herein provided, and to enforce generally the provisions of this act.

Enforcement by district attorney.

§ 8. Nothing herein contained shall be construed to limit the authority of the district attorney of any county or city and county to prosecute actions, both civil and criminal, for such violations of this act as may come to his knowledge, or to enforce the provisions hereof independently and without specific direction of the commissioner of the bureau of labor statistics.

Constitutionality.

§ 9. If any section, sentence, clause, or part of this act, is for any reason held to be unconstitutional, such decision shall not affect the remaining portion of this act. The legislature hereby declares that it would have passed this act, and each section, sentence, clause, or part thereof, irrespective of the fact that one or more sections, sentences, clauses, or parts be declared unconstitutional.

Public employment excepted.

§ 10. Nothing in this act shall apply to the payment of wages or compensation of employees directly employed by any county, city and county, incorporated city or town, or other municipal corporation. Nor shall anything herein apply to employees directly employed by the state, any department, bureau, office, board, commission, or institution thereof. All other employments shall for the purposes of this act be deemed private employments and subject to the provisions hereof.

Acts, Stats. 1911, p. 1268, Stats. 1915, p. 299, and Stats. 1915, p. 1292, repealed.

§ 11. An act entitled "An act providing for the time of payment of wages," approved May 1, 1911, as amended April 28, 1915; and an act entitled "An act to regulate the payment of wages or compensation of employees in private employments; providing a penalty for the violation thereof; and authorizing the commissioner of the bureau of labor statistics to enforce the provisions of this act," approved June 8, 1915, are hereby repealed; but such repeal shall not affect any prosecution or action for the violation of either of said acts commenced within the time allowed by the statute of limitations of actions.

1. Constitutionality—Uniform operation of law.—The act of 1911 as amended in 1915 was not obnoxious to section 11, article I, of the constitution, as to the uniform operation of laws.—Moore v. Indian Spring, etc., Co., 37 Cal. App. 370, 174 Pac. 378.

2. Same—Not a local or special act.—The act of 1913 as amended in 1915, is not a local or special law within the meaning of subdivision 33, section 25, article IV of the constitution.—Moore v. Indian Spring, etc., Co., 37 Cal. App. 370, 174 Pac. 378.

3. Same—"Due process"—The act of 1913 as amended in 1915, was not violative of the "due process" clause of the federal constitution.—Moore v. Indian Spring, etc., Co., 37 Cal. App. 370, 174 Pac. 378.

4. Same—Imprisonment on mesne process.—The act of 1913 is unconstitutional in so far as it permits an imprisonment on mesne process for debt.—In re Crane, 26 Cal. App. 22, 145 Pac. 733.

SEASONAL LABOR WAGES.

ACT 2779—An act regulating the payment of wages earned in seasonal labor and prescribing the powers and duties of the commissioner of the bureau of labor statistics, in relation thereto.

History: Approved May 28, 1913. In effect August 10, 1913. Stats. 1913, p. 343.

"Seasonal labor" defined.

§ 1. For the purpose of this act the term "seasonable labor" shall include all work performed by any person employed for a period of time greater than one month, and where the wages for such work are not to be paid at any fixed intervals of time, but at the termination of such employment, and where the work is to be performed outside of this state; provided, that such person is hired within this state and the wages earned during such employment are to be paid in this state at the termination of such employment.

Wages paid in presence of examiner.

§ 2. Upon application of either the employer or the employee, the wages earned in seasonal labor, shall be paid in the presence of the commissioner of the bureau of labor statistics or an examiner appointed by him.

Wages disputes.

§ 3. The commissioner shall hear and decide all disputes arising from wages earned in seasonal labor and he shall allow or reject any deductions made from such wages; provided, however, that he shall reject all deductions made for gambling debts incurred by the employee during such employment and for liquor sold to the employee during such employment.

Findings filed.

§ 4. After final hearing by the commissioner, he shall file in the office of the bureau of labor statistics, a copy of the findings upon facts and his award.

Award, wages due.

§ 5. The amount of the award of the commissioner shall be conclusively presumed to be the amount of the wages due and unpaid to the employee at the time of the termination of the employment, and prosecution may be commenced under the provisions of an act entitled, "An act providing for the time of payment of wages," approved May 1, 1911.

May issue subpoenas.

§ 6. The commissioner or any examiner appointed by him, shall have power and authority to issue subpoenas to compel attendance of witnesses or parties, and the production of books, papers or records and to administer oaths. Obedience to such subpoenas shall be enforced by the courts of any county or city and county.

Not applicable to seamen.

§ 7. This act shall not be construed to apply to the wages earned by seamen or other persons, where the payment of wages is regulated by federal statute.

ENFORCED PURCHASE ACT.

ACT 2779a—An act prohibiting employers of labor from coercing employees in the purchase of things of value, and prescribing a penalty for the violation of the provisions hereof.

History: Approved April 26, 1917. In effect July 27, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 207.

Unlawful to force employee to patronize employer.

§ 1. It shall be unlawful for any employer of labor, or any officer, agent or employee of any employer of labor to make, adopt or enforce any rule or regulation compelling or coercing any employee to patronize said employer, or any other person, firm or corporation, in the purchase of any thing of value; provided, however, that nothing herein shall be interpreted as prohibiting any employer of labor from prescribing the weight, color, quality, texture, style, form and make of uniforms required to be worn by their employees.

Penalty.

§ 2. Any person, whether as an individual, or as an agent or employee of a firm, or as an officer, agent or employee of a corporation, who shall violate any of the provisions of this act, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine not exceeding one hundred dollars or by imprisonment in the county jail for a term not exceeding six months, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

SERVICE LETTERS FOR EMPLOYEES.

ACT 2779b—An act to provide for the furnishing by public utility corporations, to employees thereof leaving their service, of service letters.

History: Approved June 1, 1917. In effect July 31, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 1520.

Service letters by public utility corporations.

§ 1. Every public utility corporation shall, upon request therefor made to it by any employee thereof leaving its service, give to such employee a letter covering and stating the period during which such service was and kind of service rendered to such corporation by such employee.

Penalty.

§ 2. Every public utility corporation violating the provisions of this act shall, for each offense, suffer a fine of not less than twenty-five dollars, nor more than one hundred dollars; which fine shall be collected by the district attorney of the county in which such corporation has its principal place of business.

COST OF BONDS AND PHOTOGRAPHS.

ACT 2779c—An act to require employers to pay the cost of bonds and photographs required of and furnished by employees or applicants for employment.

History: Approved April 20, 1917. In effect July 27, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 151.

Employer must pay for bond or photograph.

§ 1. Whenever a bond or photograph of an employee or applicant for employment is required by any employer of labor, said employer shall pay the cost of such bond or photograph.

Penalty.

§ 2. Any person violating any provision of this act shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, punishable by a fine not less than twenty-five dollars nor exceeding five hundred dollars.

Enforcement.

§ 3. The commissioner of the bureau of labor statistics of the state of California shall enforce the provisions of this act.

SEMI-MONTHLY PAY DAYS FOR COUNTY EMPLOYEES.

ACT 2779d—An act to provide for semi-monthly pay days of laborers in the employ of any county of the first or second class.

History: Approved May 22, 1917. In effect July 27, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 800.

Semi-monthly pay days of county employees.

§ 1. The wages of all employees of any county of the first or second class, whose compensation is based on a daily rate of payment, shall be paid at not less than two stated times in each calendar month, and at substantially equal intervals.

Penalty for violation.

§ 2. Any officer, employer or agent of any county of the first or second class, or of any department or institution thereof, who fails, refuses or neglects to comply with the requirements of this act, in so far as the payments are prescribed or controlled by him, is guilty of a misdemeanor.

THE WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION, INSURANCE AND SAFETY ACT OF 1917.

ACT 2781—An act to promote the comfort, health, safety and general welfare of the people of this state as affected by injury causing the disability or death of employees in the course of their employment, providing for a complete plan of workmen's compensation by creating a liability on the part of immediate employers, principal employers, contracting employers and their insurance carriers to compensate employees and their dependents for such disability or death, irrespective of the fault of any party, providing the means and methods of enforcing such liability and providing for certain liens upon compensation; and regulating compensation insurance coverage against such liability, securing the payment of compensation and confirming the establishment and transactions of the state compensation insurance fund; and requiring safety in all employments and places of employment in this state and providing the means and methods of enforcing such safety; and requiring reports of industrial injuries; and providing penalties for offenses, as defined herein, by employers, their officers and agents, and by employees and other persons and corporations; and defining the powers and duties of the industrial accident commission under this act, and providing for a review of its orders, decisions and awards; and repealing sections two, twelve, thirteen, fourteen, fifteen, sixteen, seventeen, eighteen, nineteen, twenty, twenty-one, twenty-two, twenty-three, twenty-four, twenty-five, twenty-six, twenty-seven, twenty-eight, twenty-nine, thirty, thirty-one, thirty-two, thirty-three, thirty-four, thirty-five, fifty-one, fifty-two, fifty-three, fifty-four, fifty-five, fifty-six, fifty-seven, fifty-eight, fifty-nine, sixty, sixty-one, sixty-two, sixty-three, sixty-four, sixty-five, sixty-six, sixty-seven, sixty-eight, sixty-nine, seventy, seventy-one, seventy-two, seventy-three, seventy-four, seventy-five, seventy-five a, seventy-six, seventy-seven, seventy-eight, seventy-nine, eighty, eighty-one, eighty-two, eighty-three, eighty-four, eighty-five, eighty-six and eighty-seven of chapter one hundred seventy-six, statutes of 1913, and all other acts and parts of acts inconsistent herewith, except sections one, three, four, five, six, seven, eight, nine, ten, eleven, thirty-six, thirty-seven, thirty-eight, thirty-nine, forty, forty-one, forty-two, forty-three, forty-four, forty-five, forty-six, forty-seven, forty-eight, forty-nine, fifty, eighty-eight and ninety of said chapter one hundred seventy-six, statutes of 1913.

History: Approved May 23, 1917. In effect January 1, 1918. Stats. 1917, p. 831. Amended May 22, 1919; in effect July 22, 1919, Stats. 1919, p. 910. Prior act of April 8, 1911; in effect September 1, 1911, Stats. 1911, p. 796, commonly known as the "Roseberry Act," was repealed by the act of May 26, 1913; in effect January 1, 1914, Stats. 1913, p. 279, known as the "Boynton Act," which was amended (1) May 27, 1915; in effect August 8, 1915, Stats. 1915, p. 913; (2) June 3, 1915; in effect August 8, 1915, Stats. 1915, p. 1079; (3) June 8, 1915; in effect August 8, 1915, Stats. 1915, p. 1302; (4) by the present act. The amendments made by the present act, eliminated the compensation provisions of the "Boynton Act," and left only the administrative and insurance features of the original act, which appears under the title "Industrial Accident Commission," Act 2106.

Intention of act. Social public policy of state declared.

§ 1. This act and each and every part thereof is an expression of the police power and is also intended to make effective and apply to a complete system of workmen's compensation the provisions of section seventeen and one-half of article XX and section twenty-one of article XX of the constitution of the state of California. A complete system of workmen's compensation includes adequate provision for the comfort, health, safety and general welfare of any and all employees and those dependent upon them for support to the extent of relieving from the consequences of any injury incurred by employees in the course of their employment, irrespective of the fault of any party; also full provision for securing safety in places of employment, full provision for such medical, surgical, hospital and other remedial treatment as is requisite to cure and relieve from the effects of such injury, full provision for adequate insurance coverage against the liability to pay or furnish compensation, full provision for regulating such insurance coverage in all its aspects including the establishment and management of a state compensation insurance fund, full provision for otherwise securing the payment of compensation, and full provision for vesting power, authority and jurisdiction in an administrative body with all the requisite governmental functions to determine any matter arising under this act to the end that the administration of this act shall accomplish substantial justice in all cases expeditiously, inexpensively and without innumbrance of any character; all of which matters contained in this section are expressly declared to be the social public policy of this state, binding upon all departments of the state government.

Title.

§ 2. This act shall be known and may be cited as the "workmen's compensation, insurance and safety act of 1917" and shall apply to the subjects mentioned in its title.

Definitions.

§ 3. The following terms as used in this act shall, unless a different meaning is plainly required by the context be construed as follows:

"Commission."

(1) The term "commission" means the industrial accident commission of the state of California as created under the provisions of chapter one hundred seventy-six of the laws of 1913.

"Commissioner."

(2) The term "commissioner" means one of the members of the commission.

"Compensation."

(3) The term "compensation" means compensation under this act and includes every benefit or payment conferred by sections six to thirty-one, inclusive, of this act upon an injured employee, or in the event of his death, upon his dependents, without regard to negligence.

"Injury."

(4) The term "injury," as used in this act, shall include any injury or disease arising out of the employment including injuries to artificial members. In case of aggravation of any disease existing prior to such injury, compensation shall be allowed only for such proportion of the disability due to the aggravation of such prior disease as may reasonably be attributed to the injury.

"Damages."

(5) The term "damages" means the recovery allowed in an action at law as contrasted with compensation under this act.

"Person."

(6) The term "person" includes an individual, firm, voluntary association, or a public, quasi-public or private corporation.

"Insurance carrier."

(7) The term "insurance carrier" includes the state compensation insurance fund and any private company, corporation, mutual association, reciprocal or interinsurance exchange authorized under the laws of this state to insure employers against liability for compensation under this act and any employer to whom a certificate of consent to self-insure has been issued.

Singular and plural.

(8) Whenever in this act the singular is used, the plural shall be included; where the masculine gender is used, the feminine and neuter shall be included. [Amendment of May 22, 1919. In effect July 22, 1919. Stats. 1919, p. 911.]

Assistant to attorney.

§ 4. The commission shall have power and authority to appoint an assistant to its attorney, who shall be an attorney at law of this state, and who shall hold office at the pleasure of the commission. It shall be the right and duty of such assistant attorney to perform any of the duties of the attorney of the commission under the direction of the commission or its attorney.

Powers and duties.

§ 5. Said commission is hereby vested with full power, authority and jurisdiction under the provisions of this act and charged with the duties defined by the provisions of this act in addition to all other power, authority, jurisdiction and duties conferred upon it and exercised by it as heretofore created, constituted and existing.

Employer's liability.

§ 6. (a) Liability for the compensation provided by this act, in lieu of any other liability whatsoever to any person, shall, without regard to negligence, exist against an employer for any injury sustained by his employees arising out of and in the course of the employment and for the death of any such employee if the injury shall proximately

mately cause death, in those cases where the following conditions of compensation concur:

(1) Where, at the time of the injury, both the employer and employee are subject to the compensation provisions of this act.

(2) Where, at the time of the injury, the employee is performing service growing out of and incidental to his employment and is acting within the course of his employment.

(3) Where the injury is proximately caused by the employment, either with or without negligence, and is not caused by the intoxication of the injured employee, or is not intentionally self-inflicted.

Misconduct of injured employee.

(4) Where the injury is caused by the serious and wilful misconduct of the injured employee, the compensation otherwise recoverable by him shall be reduced one-half; provided, however, that such misconduct of the employee shall not be a defense to the claim of the dependents of said employee, if the injury results in death, or to the claim of the employee, if the injury results in a permanent partial disability equaling or in excess of seventy per cent of total; and provided, further, that such misconduct of said employee shall not be a defense where his injury is caused by the failure of the employer to comply with any provision of law, or any safety order of the commission, with reference to the safety of places of employment; and provided, further, that in case of an injury suffered by an employee under sixteen years of age, it shall be conclusively presumed that such injury was not caused by serious and wilful misconduct.

Recovery of compensation.

(b) Where such conditions of compensation exist, the right to recover such compensation, pursuant to the provisions of this act, shall be the exclusive remedy against the employer for the injury or death; provided, that where the employee is injured by reason of the serious and wilful misconduct of the employer, or his managing representative, or if the employer be a partnership, on the part of one of the partners, or if a corporation, on the part of an executive or managing officer or general superintendent thereof, the amount of compensation otherwise recoverable for injury or death, as hereinafter provided, shall be increased one-half, any of the provisions of this act as to maximum payments or otherwise to the contrary notwithstanding, provided, however, that said increase of award shall in no event exceed two thousand five hundred dollars.

(c) In all other cases where the conditions of compensation do not concur, the liability of the employer shall be the same as if this act had not been passed. [Amendment of May 22, 1919. In effect July 22, 1919. Stats. 1919, p. 912.]

“Employer.”

§ 7. The term “employer” as used in sections six to thirty-one, inclusive, of this act shall be construed to mean: The state, and each county, city and county, city, school district, irrigation district, all other districts established by law and all public corporations and quasi-public corporations and public agencies therein, and every person, firm, voluntary association, and private corporation, including any public service corporation, who has any person in service under any appointment or contract of hire, or apprenticeship, express or implied, oral or written, and the legal representative of any deceased employer. [Amendment of May 22, 1919. In effect July 22, 1919. Stats. 1919, p. 913.]

“Employee.”

§ 8. (a) The term “employee” as used in sections six to thirty-one, inclusive, of this act shall be construed to mean: every person in the service of an employer as defined by section seven hereof under any appointment or contract of hire or apprenticeship, express or implied, oral or written, including aliens, and also including minors, whether lawfully or unlawfully employed, and all elected and appointed paid public officers, and all officers and members of boards of directors of quasi-public or private corporations, while rendering actual service for such corporations for pay, but excluding any person whose employment is both casual and not in the course of the trade, business, profession or occupation of his employer, and also excluding any employee engaged in household domestic service, farm, dairy, agricultural, viticultural or horticultural labor, in stock or poultry raising and any person holding an appointment as deputy clerk, deputy sheriff or deputy constable appointed for the convenience of such appointee, who receives no compensation from the county or municipal corporation or from the citizens thereof for services as such deputy; provided, that such last exclusion shall not deprive any person so deputized from recourse against any private person employing him for injury occurring in the course of and arising out of such employment.

"Independent Contractor." Partner receiving wages.

(b) Any person rendering service for another, other than as an independent contractor, or as expressly excluded herein, is presumed to be an employee within the meaning of this act. The term "independent contractor" shall be taken to mean, for the purposes of this act: any person who renders service, other than manual labor, for a specified recompense for a specified result, under the control of his principal as to the result of his work only and not as to the means by which such result is accomplished. A working member of a partnership receiving wages irrespective of profits from such partnership shall be deemed an employee within the meaning of this section.

"Casual."

(c) The term "casual" as used in this section shall be taken to refer only to employments where the work contemplated is to be completed in not exceeding ten working days, without regard to the number of men employed, and where the total labor cost of such work is less than one hundred dollars. The phrase "course of the trade, business, profession or occupation of his employer" shall be taken to include all services tending toward the preservation, maintenance or operation of the business, business premises or business property of the employer. The words "trade, business, profession or occupation of his employer" shall be taken to include any undertaking actually engaged in by him with some degree of regularity, the trade name, articles of incorporation or principal business of the employer to the contrary notwithstanding.

Watchmen.

(d) Watchmen for nonindustrial establishments, paid by subscription by several persons, shall not be held to be employees within the meaning of this act. In other cases where watchmen, paid by subscription by several persons, have at the time of the injury sustained by them taken out and maintained in full force and effect insurance upon themselves as self-employing persons conferring benefits equal to those conferred by this act, the employer shall not be liable under this act.

Employees of state, etc.

(e) It shall not be a defense to the state, or any political subdivision or institution thereof, or public or quasi-public corporation, that a person injured while rendering service for it was not lawfully employed by reason of the violation of any civil service or other law, rule, or regulation respecting the hiring of employees.

Workmen under partnership agreement.

(f) Workmen associating themselves under a partnership agreement, the principal purpose of which is the performance of the labor on a particular piece of work, shall be deemed employees of the person having such work executed, and, in the event the average weekly earnings are not otherwise ascertainable, shall be deemed to be employed at an average weekly wage of twelve dollars; provided, however, that if such workmen shall have taken out and maintained in full force and effect insurance, in an insurance carrier as defined in this act, insuring to themselves and all persons employed by them benefits identical with those conferred by this act, the person for whom such work is to be done shall not be liable as an employer under this act.

§ 9. Where liability for compensation under this act exists, such compensation shall be furnished or paid by the employer and be as provided in the following schedule:

Change of physicians. Employer maintaining hospital staff.

(a) Such medical, surgical and hospital treatment, including nursing, medicines, medical and surgical supplies, crutches and apparatus, including artificial members, as may reasonably be required to cure and relieve from the effects of the injury, the same to be provided by the employer, and in case of his neglect or refusal seasonably to do so, the employer to be liable for the reasonable expense incurred by or on behalf of the employee in providing the same; provided, that if the employee so requests, the employer shall tender him one change of physicians and shall nominate at least three additional practicing physicians competent to treat the particular case, or as many as may be available if three can not reasonably be named, from whom the employee may choose; the employee shall also be entitled, in any serious case, upon request, to the services of a consulting physician to be provided by the employer; all of said treatment to be at the expense of the employer. If the employee so requests, the employer must procure certification by the commission or a commissioner of the competency for the particular case of the consulting or additional physicians; provided, further, that the foregoing provisions regarding a change of physicians shall not apply to those cases where the employer maintains, for his own employees, a hospital and hospital staff, the adequacy and competency of which have been approved by the commission. Nothing contained in this section shall be construed to limit the right of the employee to provide, in any case, at his own expense, a consulting physician or any attending physicians whom he may desire. Controversies between employer and employee, arising under this section, shall be determined by the commission, upon the request of either party.

Time of disability payments.

(b) If the injury causes temporary disability, a disability payment which shall be payable for one week in advance as wages on the eighth day after the injured employee leaves work as a result of the injury. If the injury causes permanent disability, a disability payment which shall be payable for one week in advance as wages on the eighth day after the injury. Such indemnity shall thereafter be payable on the employer's regular pay day, but not less frequently than twice in each calendar month, unless otherwise ordered by the commission, subject, however, to the following limitations:

Disability less than 7 days.

(1) If the period of disability does not last longer than seven days from the day the employee leaves work as the result of the injury, no disability payment whatever shall be recoverable.

Disability more than 7 days.

(2) If the period of disability lasts longer than seven days from the day the employee leaves work as the result of the injury, no disability payment shall be recoverable for the first seven days of disability suffered.

Amount of disability payments.

2. The disability payment shall be as follows:

(1) If the injury causes temporary total disability, sixty-five per cent of the average weekly earnings during the period of such disability, consideration being given to the ability of the injured employee to compete in an open labor market;

(2) If the injury causes temporary partial disability, sixty-five per cent of the weekly loss in wages during the period of such disability;

(3) If the temporary disability caused by the injury is at times total and at times partial the weekly disability payment during the period of each such total or partial disability shall be in accordance with paragraphs one and two of this subdivision respectively;

Aggregate disability payments.

(4) Paragraphs one, two, and three of this subdivision shall be limited as follows: Aggregate disability payments for a single injury causing temporary disability shall not exceed three times the average annual earnings of the employee, nor shall the aggregate disability period for such temporary disability in any event extend beyond two hundred forty weeks from the date of the injury.

Computation of payments when disability permanent.

(5) If the injury causes permanent disability, the percentage of disability to total disability shall be determined and the disability payment computed and allowed as follows: For a one per cent disability, sixty-five per cent of the average weekly earnings for a period of four weeks; for a ten per cent disability, sixty-five per cent of the average weekly earnings for a period of forty weeks; for a twenty per cent disability, sixty-five per cent of the average weekly earnings for a period of eighty weeks; for a thirty per cent disability, sixty-five per cent of the average weekly earnings for a period of one hundred twenty weeks; for a forty per cent disability, sixty-five per cent of the average weekly earnings for a period of one hundred sixty weeks; for a fifty per cent disability, sixty-five per cent of the average weekly earnings for a period of two hundred weeks; for a sixty per cent disability, sixty-five per cent of the average weekly earnings for a period of two hundred forty weeks; for a seventy per cent disability, sixty-five per cent of the average weekly earnings for a period of two hundred forty weeks, and thereafter ten per cent of such weekly earnings during the remainder of life; for an eighty per cent disability, sixty-five per cent of the average weekly earnings for a period of two hundred forty weeks and thereafter twenty per cent of such weekly earnings during the remainder of life; for a ninety per cent disability, sixty-five per cent of the average weekly earnings for a period of two hundred forty weeks and thereafter thirty per cent of such weekly earnings during the remainder of life; for a hundred per cent disability, sixty-five per cent of the average weekly earnings for a period of two hundred forty weeks and thereafter forty per cent of such weekly earnings during the remainder of life.

(6) The payment for permanent disabilities intermediate to those fixed by the foregoing schedule shall be computed and allowed as follows: If under seventy per cent, sixty-five per cent of the average weekly earnings for four weeks for each one per cent of disability; if seventy per cent or over, sixty-five per cent of the average weekly earnings for two hundred forty weeks and thereafter one per cent of such weekly earnings for each one per cent of disability in excess of sixty per cent to be paid during the remainder of life.

(7) In determining the percentages of permanent disability, account shall be taken of the nature of the physical injury or disfigurement, the occupation of the injured employee, and his age at the time of such injury, consideration being given to the diminished ability of such injured employee to compete in an open labor market.

Only one payment.

(8) Where an injury causes both temporary and permanent disability, the injured employee shall not be entitled to both a temporary and permanent disability payment, but only to the greater of the two.

Permanent disabilities presumed to be total.

(9) The following permanent disabilities shall be conclusively presumed to be total in character: Loss of both eyes or the sight thereof; loss of both hands or the use thereof; an injury resulting in a practically total paralysis; an injury to the brain resulting in incurable imbecility or insanity. In all other cases, permanent total disability shall be determined in accordance with the fact.

(10) The percentage of permanent disability caused by any injury shall be so computed as to cover the permanent disability caused by that particular injury without reference to any injury previously suffered or any permanent disability caused thereby.

Schedule for determination of permanent disabilities.

(11) The commission may prepare, adopt, and from time to time amend, a schedule for the determination of the percentages of permanent disabilities, such table to be based upon the proper combinations of the factors indicated in subdivision seven above. Such schedule shall be available for public inspection and without formal introduction in evidence shall be prima facie evidence of the percentage of permanent disability to be attributed to each injury covered by said schedule.

3. The death of an injured employee shall not affect the liability of the employer under subsections (a) and (b) of this section, so far as such liability has accrued and become payable at the date of the death, and any accrued and unpaid compensation shall be paid to the dependents, if any, or, if there are no dependents, to the personal representative of the deceased employee or heirs or other persons entitled thereto, without administration, but such death shall be deemed to be the termination of the disability.

Death benefits.

(c) If the injury causes death, either with or without disability, the burial expense of the deceased employee as hereinafter limited and a death benefit which shall be payable in installments equal to sixty-five per cent of the average weekly earnings of the deceased employee, upon the employer's regular pay day, but not less frequently than twice in each calendar month, unless otherwise ordered by the commission, which death benefit shall be as follows:

If deceased employee leaves dependents.

(1) In case the deceased employee leaves a person or persons wholly dependent upon him for support, such dependents shall be allowed the reasonable expense of his burial, not exceeding one hundred dollars, and a death benefit, which shall be a sum sufficient, when added to the disability indemnity which at the time of death has accrued and become payable, under the provisions of subsection (b) hereof, and the said burial expense, to make the total disability indemnity, cost of burial and death benefit equal to three times his average annual earnings, such average annual earnings to be taken at not less than three hundred thirty-three dollars, and thirty-three cents nor more than one thousand six hundred sixty-six dollars and sixty-six cents.

If employee leaves persons partially dependent.

(2) In case the deceased employee leaves no person wholly dependent upon him for support, but one or more persons partially dependent therefor, the said dependents shall be allowed the reasonable expense of his burial, not to exceed one hundred dollars, and, in addition thereto, a death benefit which shall amount to three times the annual amount devoted by the deceased to the support of the person or persons so partially dependent; provided, that the death benefit shall not be greater than a sum sufficient, when added to the disability indemnity which, at the time of the death, has accrued and become payable under the provisions of subsection (b) hereof, together with the cost of the burial of such deceased employee, to make the total disability indemnity, cost of burial and death benefit equal to three times his average annual earnings, such average annual earnings to be taken at not less than three hundred thirty-three dollars and thirty-three cents nor more than one thousand six hundred sixty-six dollars and sixty-six cents.

If no dependents.

(3) If the deceased employee leaves no person dependent upon him for support, the death benefit shall consist of the reasonable expense of his burial, not exceeding one hundred dollars and such other benefit as may be provided by law.

(d) Payment of compensation in accordance with the order and direction of the commission shall discharge the employer from all claims therefor. [Amendment of May 22, 1919. In effect July 22, 1919. Stats. 1919, pp. 913-917.]

Inspection of hospital facilities. Reports of receipts, etc. Facilities declared inadequate.

§ 10. The commission shall have power to inspect and determine the adequacy of hospitals and hospital facilities supplied by employers or by mutual associations of employees, with or without the concurrence of the employer, for the treatment of injuries coming within the provisions of this act. No part of any contribution paid by employees or deducted from their wages for the maintenance of such hospital facilities shall be devoted to the payment of any portion of the cost of providing compensation prescribed by this act. Nothing contained in this section shall be taken to prevent any hospital association or medical department furnishing the treatment prescribed in this act free of charge to employees. Every such hospital shall make to the commission from time to time, upon demand, but not less frequently than once a year, reports of receipts, disbursements and services rendered to or for employees. If in the judgment of the commission the services or equipment of any hospital are inadequate to meet the reasonable requirements of medical treatment contemplated in section nine (a) of this act, the commission may, after notice and an opportunity to be heard, declare such facilities to be inadequate and thereafter injured employees of such employer may procure treatment elsewhere, and the reasonable cost thereof shall be a charge against such employer under said section nine (a). Any finding of the commission, after such notice, determining the fact of such inadequacy, shall be conclusive evidence in any proceeding for compensation of the fact of such inadequacy during the period covered by such finding. Such finding of inadequacy may be amended, modified or rescinded by the commission at any time upon good cause appearing therefor.

Right to institute proceedings barred when. Periods within which proceedings for collection may be commenced.

§ 11. (a) Unless compensation is paid or an agreement for its payment made within the time limited in this section for the institution of proceedings for its collection, the right to institute such proceedings shall be barred; provided, that the filing of an application with the commission for any portion of the benefits prescribed by this act shall render this section inoperative as to all further claims of any person or persons for compensation arising from the same transaction, and the right to present such further claims shall be governed by the provisions of section twenty (d) and section sixty-five (b) of this act.

(b) The periods within which proceedings for the collection of compensation may be commenced are as follows:

(1) Proceedings for the collection of the benefit provided by subsection (a) of section nine or for the collection of the disability payment provided by subsection (b) of said section nine must be commenced within six months from the date of the injury, except as otherwise provided in this act.

(2) Proceedings for the collection of the death benefit provided by subsection (c) of said section nine must be commenced within one year from the date of death, and in any event within two hundred forty weeks from the date of the injury, and can only be maintained when it appears that death ensued within one year from the date of the injury, or that the injury causing death also caused disability which continued to the date of the death and for which a disability payment was made, or an agreement for its payment made, or proceedings for its collection commenced within the time limited for the commencement of proceedings for the recovery of the disability payment.

(c) The payment of compensation, or any part thereof, or agreement therefor, shall have the effect of extending the period within which proceedings for its collection may be commenced, six months from the date of the agreement or last payment of such compensation, or any part thereof, or the expiration of the period covered by any such payment; provided, however, that nothing contained in this section shall be construed to bar the right of any injured employee to institute proceedings for the collection of compensation within two hundred forty-five weeks after the date of the injury upon the grounds that the original injury has caused new and further disability; and the jurisdiction of the commission, in such cases, shall be a continuing jurisdiction at all times with such period; provided, further, that the provisions of this section shall not apply to an employee who is totally disabled and bedridden as a result of his injury, during the continuance of such condition or until the expiration of six months thereafter.

Guardian for minor or incompetent.

(d) If an injured employee, or in the case of his death, one or more of his dependents, shall be under twenty-one years of age or incompetent at any time when any right or privilege accrues to such person under the provisions of this act, a general guardian, appointed by the court, or a guardian ad litem or trustee appointed by the commission or a commissioner may, on behalf of any such person, claim and exercise any such right or privilege with the same force and effect as if no such disability existed; and no limitation of time provided by this act shall run against any such person under twenty-one years of age or incompetent unless and until such guardian or trustee is appointed. The commission shall have power to determine the fact of the minority or incompetency of any injured employee and may appoint a trustee to receive and disburse compensation payments for the benefit of such minor or incompetent and his family.

Refusal to submit to medical treatment.

(e) No compensation shall be payable in case of the death or disability of an employee if his death is caused, or if and so far as his disability is caused, continued, or aggravated, by an unreasonable refusal to submit to medical treatment, or to any surgical treatment, the risk of which is, in the opinion of the commission, based upon expert medical or surgical advice, inconsiderable in view of the seriousness of the injury.

Previous disability does not affect later disability.

(f) The fact that an employee has suffered a previous disability, or receives compensation therefor, shall not preclude him from compensation for a later injury, or his dependents from compensation for death resulting therefrom, but in determining compensation for the later injury, or death resulting therefrom, his average annual earnings shall be fixed at such sum as will reasonably represent his annual earning capacity at the time of the later injury.

Payments not due employee.

(g) Any payment, allowance or benefit received by the injured employee during the period of his incapacity, or by his dependents in the event of his death, which by the terms of this act was not then due and payable or when there is any dispute or question concerning the right to compensation, shall not, in the absence of any agreement, be construed to be an admission of liability for compensation on the part of the employer, or the acceptance thereof as a waiver of any right or claim which the employee or his dependents may have against the employer, but any such payment, allowance or benefit may be taken into account by the commission in fixing the amount of the compensation to be paid.

Affirmative defense.

(h) The running of the period of limitations prescribed by this section is an affirmative defense and operates to bar the remedy and not to extinguish the right of the employee. It may be waived, and failure to present such defense prior to the submission of the cause for decision shall be a sufficient waiver.

Average annual earnings.

§ 12. (a) The average annual earnings referred to in section nine hereof shall be fifty-two times the average weekly earnings referred to in said section; in computing such earnings the average weekly earnings shall be taken at not less than six dollars and forty-one cents nor more than thirty-two dollars and five cents, and three times the average annual earnings shall be taken at not less than one thousand dollars nor more than five thousand dollars, and between said limits said average weekly earnings shall be arrived at as follows:

Average weekly earnings.

(1) If the injured employee has worked in the same employment, whether for the same employer or not, during at least two hundred sixty days of the year preceding his injury, his average weekly earnings shall consist of ninety-five per cent of six times the daily earnings at the time of such injury where the employment is for six full working days a week. Where his employment is for five, five and one-half, six and one-half or seven working days a week, the average weekly earnings shall be ninety-five per cent of five, five and one-half, six and one-half or seven times the daily earnings at the time of the injury, as the case may be.

(2) If the injured employee has not so worked in such employment during at least two hundred sixty days of such preceding year, his average weekly earnings shall be based upon the daily earnings, wage or salary of an employee of the same class working at least two hundred sixty days of such preceding year in the same or a similar kind of employment in the same or a neighboring place, computed in accordance with the provisions of the preceding subdivision.

(3) If the earnings be irregular or specified to be by the week, month, or other period, then the average weekly earnings mentioned in subdivisions (1) and (2) above shall be ninety-five per cent of the average earnings during such period of time, not exceeding one year, as may conveniently be taken to determine an average weekly rate of pay.

When less than 5 days, or seasonal.

(4) Where the employment is for less than five days per week or is seasonal or where for any reason the foregoing methods of arriving at the average weekly earnings of the injured employee can not reasonably and fairly be applied, such average weekly earnings shall be taken at ninety-five per cent of such sum as shall reasonably represent the average weekly earning capacity of the injured employee at the time of his injury, due consideration being given to his actual earnings from all sources and employments during the year preceding his injury; provided, that the earnings from other occupations shall not be allowed in excess of the rate of wages paid at the time of the injury.

Overtime, board, etc.

(b) In determining such average weekly earnings, there shall be included overtime and the market value of board, lodging, fuel, and other advantages received by the injured employee, as part of his remuneration, which can be estimated in money, but such average weekly earnings shall not include any sum which the employer may pay to the injured employee to cover any special expenses entailed on him by the nature of his employment.

If injured employee is under 21.

(c) If the injured employee is under twenty-one years of age, and his incapacity is permanent, his average weekly earnings shall be deemed, within the limits fixed, to be the weekly sum that under ordinary circumstances he would probably be able to earn after attaining the age of twenty-one years, in the occupation in which he was employed at the time of the injury or in any occupation to which he would reasonably have been promoted if he had not been injured, and if such probable earnings after attaining the age of twenty-one years can not reasonably be determined, such average weekly earnings shall be based upon three dollars a day for a six-day week.

Weekly loss in wages in case of temporary partial disability.

§ 13. The weekly loss in wages in case of temporary partial disability shall consist of the difference between the average weekly earnings of the injured employee, computed according to the provisions of section nine, and the weekly amount which the injured employee will probably be able to earn during the disability, to be determined in view of the nature and extent of the injury. In computing such probable earnings due regard shall be given to the ability of the injured employee to compete in an open labor market. If evidence of exact loss of earnings be lacking, such weekly loss in wages may be computed from the proportionate loss of physical ability or earning power caused by the injury.

Who are deemed wholly dependent.

§ 14. (a) The following shall be conclusively presumed to be wholly dependent for support upon a deceased employee; provided, that these presumptions shall not apply in favor of aliens who are nonresidents of the United States at the time of the injury.

(1) A wife upon a husband with whom she was living at the time of his injury, or for whose support such husband was legally liable at the time of his injury.

(2) A child or children under the age of eighteen years, or over said age, but physically or mentally incapacitated from earning, upon the parent with whom he or they are living at the time of the injury of such parent or for whose maintenance such parent was legally liable at the time of injury, there being no surviving dependent parent.

(b) In all other cases, questions of entire or partial dependency and questions as to who constitute dependents and the extent of their dependency shall be determined in accordance with the fact, as the fact may be at the time of the injury of the employee.

(c) No person shall be considered a dependent of any deceased employee unless in good faith a member of the family or household of such employee, or unless such person bears to such employee the relation of husband or wife, child, posthumous child, adopted child or stepchild, father or mother, father-in-law or mother-in-law, grandfather or grandmother, brother or sister, uncle or aunt, brother-in-law or sister-in-law, nephew or niece.

Distribution of death benefit.

(d) 1. If there is one or more persons wholly dependent for support upon a deceased employee, such person or persons shall receive the entire death benefit, and any person or persons partially dependent shall receive no part thereof.

2. If there is more than one such person wholly dependent for support upon a deceased employee, the death benefit shall be divided equally among them.

3. If there is more than one person partially dependent for support upon a deceased employee, and no person wholly dependent for support, the amount allowed as a death benefit shall be divided among the persons so partially dependent in proportion to the relative extent of their dependency.

Commission may reassign death benefit.

(e) The commission may, anything in this act contained to the contrary notwithstanding, set apart or reassign the death benefit to any one or more of the dependents in accordance with their respective needs and as may be just and equitable, and may order payment to a dependent subsequent in right, or not otherwise entitled, upon good cause being shown therefor. Such death benefit shall be paid to such one or more of the dependents of the deceased or to a trustee appointed by the commission or a commissioner for the benefit of the person or persons entitled, as may be determined by the commission. The person to whom the death benefit is paid for the use of the several beneficiaries shall apply the same in compliance with the findings and directions of the commission. In the event of the death of a dependent beneficiary of any deceased employee, if there be no surviving dependent, the death of such dependent shall terminate the death benefit, which shall not survive to the estate of such deceased dependent, except that payments of such death benefit accrued and payable at the time of the death of such sole remaining dependent shall be paid upon the order of the commission to the heirs of such dependent, or, if none, to the heirs of the deceased employee, without administration. [Amendment of May 22, 1919. In effect July 22, 1919. Stats. 1919, p. 917.]

Notice to employer.

§ 15. No claim to recover compensation under this act shall be maintained unless within thirty days after the occurrence of the injury which is claimed to have caused the disability or death, notice in writing, stating the name and the address of the person injured, the time and the place where the injury occurred, and the nature of the injury, and signed by the person injured or some one in his behalf, or in case of his death, by a dependent or some one in his behalf, shall be served upon the employer; provided, however, that knowledge of such injury, obtained from any source, on the part of such employer, his managing agent, superintendent, foreman, or other person in authority, or knowledge of the assertion of a claim of injury sufficient to afford opportunity to the employer to make an investigation into the facts, shall be equivalent to such service; and provided, further, that the failure to give any such notice, or any defect or inaccuracy therein, shall not be a bar to recovery under this act if it is found as a fact in the proceedings for the collection of the claim that there was no intention to mislead or prejudice the employer in making his defense, and that he was not in fact so misled or prejudiced thereby.

Medical examination of employee.

§ 16. (a) Whenever the right to compensation under this act would exist in favor of any employee, he shall, upon the written request of his employer, submit from time to time, as may be reasonable, to examination by a practicing physician, who shall be provided and paid for by the employer, and shall likewise submit to examination from time to time by any physician selected by the commission or any member or referee thereof.

If employee refuses to submit to examination.

(b) The request or order for such examination shall fix a time and place therefor, due consideration being given to the convenience of the employee and his physical condition and ability to attend at the time and place fixed. The employee shall be entitled to have a physician provided and paid for by himself present at any examination required by his employer. So long as the employee, after such written request of the employer, shall fail or refuse to submit to such examination or shall in any way obstruct the same, his right to begin or maintain any proceeding for the collection of compensation shall be suspended; and if he shall fail or refuse to submit to examination after direction by the commission, or any member or referee thereof, or shall in any way obstruct the same, his right to the disability payments which shall accrue during the period of such failure, refusal or obstruction, shall be barred. Any physician who shall make or be present at any such examination may be required to report or testify as to the results thereof.

Hearing on disputes. Service of notice.

§ 17. (a) Upon the filing with the commission by any party in interest, his attorney, or other representative authorized in writing, of an application in writing stating the general nature of any dispute or controversy concerning compensation, or concerning any right or liability arising out of, or incidental thereto, jurisdiction over which is vested by this act in the commission, a time and place shall be fixed for the hearing thereof, which hearing, unless otherwise agreed to by all the parties thereto, must be held not less than ten days nor more than thirty days after the filing of such application. The person filing such application shall be known as the applicant and the adverse party shall be known as the defendant. A copy of said application, together with a notice of the time and place of hearing thereof, shall forthwith be served upon all adverse parties and may be served either as a summons in a civil action or in the same manner as any other notice that is authorized or required to be served under the provisions of this act. A notice of the time and place of hearing shall also be served upon the applicant.

Jurisdiction of commission.

(b) The jurisdiction of the commission shall include any controversy relating to or arising out of the provisions of sub-section (a) of section nine of this act, unless an express agreement shall have been made between the persons or institutions rendering such treatment and the employer or insurance carrier fixing the amount to be paid for the services.

But one cause of action.

(c) There shall be but one cause of action for each transaction coming within the provisions of this act, and all claims brought for medical expense, disability payments, death benefits, burial expense, liens or any other matter arising out of such transaction may, in the discretion of the commission, be joined in the same proceeding at any time.

Death of employer.

(d) The death of an employer subsequent to the sustaining of an injury by an employee shall not impair the right of such employee to proceed before the commission against the estate of such employer, and the failure of such employee or his dependents to cause the claim to be presented to the executor or administrator of the estate shall not in any way bar or suspend such right. [Amendment of May 22, 1919. In effect July 22, 1919. Stats. 1919, p. 918.]

Defendant's answer.

§ 18. (a) If any defendant desires to disclaim any interest in the subject-matter of the claim in controversy, or considers that the application is in any respect inaccurate or incomplete, or desires to bring any fact, paper or document to the attention of the commission as a defense to the claim, or otherwise, he may, within five days after the service of the application upon him, file with or mail to the commission his answer setting forth the particulars in which the application is inaccurate or incomplete, and the facts upon which he intends to rely. A copy of such answer must be forthwith served upon all adverse parties. Evidence upon matters not pleaded by answer shall be allowed only upon such terms and conditions as may be imposed by the commission or commissioner or referee holding the hearing.

Application for relief.

(b) If the defendant fails to appear or answer, no default shall be taken against him, but the commission shall proceed to the hearing of the matter upon such terms and conditions as it may deem proper. Such defendant failing to appear or answer, or subsequently contending that no service was made upon him, or claiming to be aggrieved in any other manner by want of notice of the pendency of the proceedings, may apply to the commission for relief substantially in accordance with the provisions of section four hundred seventy-three of the Code of Civil Procedure, and the commission is hereby authorized to afford such relief. No right to relief, including the claim that the findings and award of the commission or judgment entered thereon are void upon their face, shall accrue to such defendant in any court unless prior application shall have been made to the commission in accordance with this subsection, and in no event shall any application to any court be allowed except as prescribed in sections sixty-seven and sixty-eight of this act.

Dismissal of application.

(c) If upon the filing of an application, such application shows upon its face that the applicant is not entitled to compensation, the commission may, upon its own motion or upon the motion of the adverse party, and after opportunity to the applicant to be heard orally or in writing, and upon good cause appearing therefor, dismiss the application prior to any hearing thereon. The pendency of such motion or notice of intended dismissal shall not, unless otherwise ordered by the commission, delay the hearing upon the application upon its merits.

Attachment of defendant's property.

(d) Upon the filing of an application by or on behalf of an injured employee or his dependents or any other party in interest, the commission may, in its discretion, in the cases mentioned in section four hundred twelve of the Code of Civil Procedure, direct the county clerk of any county or city and county to issue writs of attachment authorizing the sheriff to attach the property of the defendant in an amount not to exceed the greatest probable award against him in such matter, to be fixed by the commission, as security for the payment of any compensation which may thereafter be awarded. The provisions of part two, title seven, chapter four, of the Code of Civil Procedure of this state, as far as applicable to proceedings before the commission, shall govern the proceedings upon attachment, and the commission shall be substituted for the superior court in said provisions for the purpose of this act. No writ of attachment shall be issued except upon the order of the commission or a commissioner, and such order shall not be made where it appears from the application or affidavit in support thereof that the employer was, at the time of the injury to the employee, insured against liability imposed by this act in any insurance carrier licensed to do business in the state of California. If it should at any time after the levying of an attachment be made to appear that such employer was so insured, and the requisites for dismissing said employer from the proceeding and substituting the insurance carrier as defendant under any of the methods prescribed under section thirty (e) of this act be established, the commission must forthwith discharge the attachment. In levying such attachment, preference must be given to the real property of the employer.

Testimony.

§ 19. (a) No pleadings, other than the application and answer, shall be required. The hearing on the application may be adjourned from time to time and from place to place in the discretion of the commission or commissioner or referee holding such hearing. Either party shall have the right to be present at any hearing, in person or by attorney or by any other agent, and to present such testimony as shall be pertinent under the pleadings, but the commission may, with or without notice to either party, cause testimony to be taken, or inspection of the premises where the injury occurred to be made, or the time-books and pay roll of the employer to be examined by any commissioner or referee appointed by the commission, and may from time to time direct any employee claiming compensation to be examined by a regular physician; the testimony so taken and the results of any such inspection or examination to be reported to the commission for its consideration.

Stipulation of facts.

(b) The parties to a controversy may stipulate the facts relative thereto in writing and file such stipulation with the commission. The commission may thereupon make its findings and award based upon such stipulation, or may in its discretion set the matter down for hearing and take such further testimony or make such further investigations as may be necessary to enable it to completely determine the matter in controversy.

Evidence.

(c) The commission may receive as evidence, either at or subsequent to a hearing, and use as proof of any fact in dispute, the following matters, in addition to sworn testimony presented in open hearing.

- (1) Reports of attending or examining physicians.
- (2) Reports of special investigators appointed by the commission or a commissioner or referee to investigate and report upon any scientific or medical question.
- (3) Reports of employers containing copies of time sheets, book accounts, reports and other records, properly authenticated.
- (4) Properly authenticated copies of hospital records of the case of the injured employee.
- (5) All publications of the commission.
- (6) All official publications of state and United States governments.
- (7) Excerpts from expert testimony received by the commission upon similar issues of scientific fact in other cases and the prior decisions of the commission upon such issues; provided, however, that transcripts of all testimony taken without notice and copies of all reports and other matters added to the record, otherwise than during the course of an open hearing, be served upon the parties to the proceeding, and opportunity be given to produce testimony in explanation or rebuttal before decision is rendered.

Affirmative defenses.

(d) The burden of proof lies upon the party holding the affirmative of the issue. The following are affirmative defenses, and the burden of proof shall rest upon the employer to establish them:

(1) That an injured person claiming to be an employee is an independent contractor or otherwise excluded from the protection of this act, where there is proof that such injured person was at the time of his injury actually performing service for the alleged employer.

(2) Intoxication of an employee causing his injury.

(3) Wilful misconduct of an employee causing his injury.

(4) Aggravation of disability by unreasonable conduct of the employee.

(5) Prejudice to the employer by failure of the employee to give notice, as required by section fifteen.

Autopsy.

(e) Where it is represented to the commission, either before or after the filing of an application that an employee has died as a result of injuries sustained in the course of his employment, the commission may require an autopsy and the report of the physician performing such autopsy may be received in evidence in any proceedings theretofore or thereafter brought. If at the time such autopsy is requested the body of such employee be in the custody of the coroner, the coroner must, upon the request of the commission or of any party interested, afford reasonable opportunity for the attendance of any physicians named by the commission at any autopsy ordered by him. If the coroner should not require, or shall have already performed such autopsy, he shall permit an autopsy or re-examination to be performed by physicians named by the commission. No fee shall be charged by the coroner for any service, arrangement or permission given by him.

If the body is not in the custody of the coroner, the commission shall have authority to authorize the performance of such autopsy and the exhumation of the body for such purpose if necessary. If the dependents, or a majority thereof, of any such deceased employee, having the custody of the body of such deceased employee, shall refuse to allow the performance of such autopsy, such autopsy shall not be held; but upon the hearing of any stipulation for compensation it shall be a disputable presumption that the injury or death was not due to causes entitling the claimants to benefits under this act.

Findings and award.

§ 20. (a) After final hearing by the commission, it shall, within thirty days, make and file (1) its findings upon all facts involved in the controversy and (2) its award which shall state its determination as to the rights of the parties.

(b) The commission in its award may fix and determine the total amount of compensation to be paid and specify the manner of payment, or may fix and determine the weekly disability payment to be made and order payment thereof during the continuance of such disability.

(c) If, in any proceeding under sections six to thirty-one, inclusive, of this act, it is proved that an injury has been suffered for which the employer would be liable to pay compensation if disability had resulted therefrom, but it is not proved that any incacapacity had resulted, the commission may, instead of dismissing the application, award a nominal disability indemnity, if it appears that disability is likely to result at a future time.

Amending orders, etc.

(d) The commission shall have continuing jurisdiction over all its orders, decisions and awards made and entered under the provisions of sections six to thirty-one, inclusive, of this act and may at any time, upon notice, and after opportunity to be heard is given to the parties in interest, rescind, alter or amend any such order, decision or award made by it upon good cause appearing therefor, such power including the right to review, grant or regrant, diminish, increase or terminate, within the limits prescribed by this act, any compensation awarded, upon the grounds that the disability of the person in whose favor such award was made has either recurred, increased, diminished or terminated; provided, that no award of compensation shall be rescinded, altered or amended after two hundred forty-five weeks from the date of the injury. Any order, decision or award rescinding, altering or amending a prior order, decision or award shall have the same effect as is herein provided for original orders, decisions or awards.

Findings filed in superior court.

§ 21. (a) Any party affected thereby may file a certified copy of the findings and award of the commission with the clerk of the superior court of any county, or city and county, and judgment must be entered by the clerk in conformity therewith immediately upon the filing of such findings and award.

Judgment roll.

(b) The certified copy of the findings and award of the commission and a copy of the judgment shall constitute the judgment roll. The pleadings, all orders of the commission, its original findings and award, and all other papers and documents filed in the cause shall remain on file in the office of the commission.

Stay of execution.

(c) The commission, or any member thereof, may stay the execution of any judgment entered upon an award of the commission, upon good cause appearing therefor and upon such terms and conditions as may be imposed. A certified copy of such order shall be filed with the clerk entering judgment. Where it is deemed desirable to stay the enforcement of an award and a certified copy of said findings and award has not been issued by the commission, the commission, or any member thereof, may order such certified copy to be withheld with the same force and under the same conditions as it might issue a stay of execution if said certified copy had been issued and judgment entered thereon.

Entry of satisfaction.

(d) When a judgment is satisfied in fact, otherwise than upon an execution, the commission may, upon motion of either party or of its own motion, order the entry of satisfaction of the judgment to be made, and upon filing a certified copy of such order with the said clerk, he shall thereupon enter such satisfaction, and not otherwise.

Review of findings, etc.

§ 22. The orders, findings, decisions or awards of the commission made and entered under sections six to thirty-one, inclusive, of this act may be reviewed by the courts specified in sections sixty-seven and sixty-eight hereof and within the time and in the manner therein specified and not otherwise.

Fees. Costs.

§ 23. No fees shall be charged by the clerk of any court for the performance of any official service required by this act, except for the docketing of awards as judgments and for certified copies of transcripts thereof. In all proceedings under this act before the commission, costs as between the parties shall be allowed or not in the discretion of the commission and the commission may, in its discretion, where payments of compensation have been unreasonably delayed, allow the beneficiary thereof interest thereon, at not to exceed one and one-half per cent per month, during such period of delay.

Claim not assignable.

§ 24. (a) No claim for compensation shall be assignable before payment, but this provision shall not affect the survival thereof, nor shall any claim for compensation, or compensation awarded, adjudged or paid, be subject to be taken for the debts of the party entitled to such compensation, except as hereinafter provided. No compensation, whether awarded or voluntarily paid, shall be paid to any attorney at law or in fact or other agent, but shall be paid directly to the claimant entitled to the same, unless otherwise ordered by the commission. Any payment made to such attorney at law or in fact or other agent in violation of the provisions of this section shall not be credited to the employer.

Lien against amount due as compensation.

(b) The commission may fix and determine and allow as a lien against any amount to be paid as compensation:

(1) A reasonable attorney's fee for legal services pertaining to any claim for compensation or application filed therefor and the reasonable disbursements in connection therewith.

(2) The reasonable expense incurred by or on behalf of the injured employee, as defined in subsection (a) of section nine hereof.

(3) The reasonable value of the living expenses of an injured employee or of his dependents, subsequent to the injury.

(4) The reasonable burial expenses of the deceased employee, not to exceed the sum of one hundred dollars.

(5) The reasonable living expenses of the wife or minor children of the injured employee, or both, subsequent to the date of the injury, where such employee has deserted or is neglecting his family, to be allowed in such proportion as the commission shall deem proper, upon application of the wife or guardian of the minor children.

Notice of claim. Award by commission.

(c) If notice in writing be given to the employer setting forth the nature and extent of any claim that may be allowed as a lien, the said claim shall be a lien against any amount thereafter to be paid as compensation, subject to the determination of the amount and approval thereof by the commission. The commission may, in its discretion, order the amount of such claims as fixed and allowed by it paid directly to the person entitled, either in a lump sum or in installments. Where it appears in any proceeding pending before the commission that a lien should be allowed if the same had been duly requested by the party entitled thereto, the commission may, in its discretion, and without any request for such lien having been made, order the payment of such claim to be made directly to the person entitled, in the same manner and with the same effect as though such lien had been regularly requested, and the award to such person shall constitute a lien against unpaid compensation due at the time of service of said award.

Excessive claim for legal services.

(d) No claim or agreement for the legal services or disbursements mentioned in paragraph (1) of subsection (b) hereof, or for the expense mentioned in paragraph (2) of said subsection (b), in excess of a reasonable amount, shall be valid or binding in any respect, and it shall be competent for the commission to determine what constitutes such reasonable amount.

Preference of claim for compensation.

(e) A claim for compensation for the injury or death of any employee, or any award of judgment entered therein, shall have preference over all other unsecured debts of the employer or insurance carrier. [Amendment of May 22, 1919. In effect July 22, 1919. Stats. 1919, p. 919.]

Liability of principal employers and contractors.

§ 25. The liability of principal employers and contracting employers, general or intermediate, for compensation under this act, when other than the immediate employer of the injured employee, shall be as follows:

(a) When any such employer undertakes to do, or contracts with another to do, or to have done, any work, either directly or through contractors or subcontractors, then such principal employer or contracting employer shall be liable to pay to any employee injured while engaged in the execution of such work, or to his dependents in the event of his death, or to any other person, any compensation which the immediate employer is liable to pay, and the commission shall have jurisdiction to determine all controversies arising under this section.

(b) The person entitled to such compensation shall have the right to recover the same directly from his immediate employer, and in addition thereto the right to enforce in his own name, in the manner provided by this act, the liability for compensation imposed upon other persons by this section, either by making such other persons parties to the original application or by filing a separate application; provided, however, that payment in whole or in part of such compensation by either the immediate employer or other person shall, to the extent of such payment, be a bar to recovery against the other.

(c) When any person, other than the immediate employer, shall have paid any compensation for which he would not have been liable independently of this section, he shall, unless he caused the injury, be entitled to recover the full amount so paid from the person primarily liable therefor, and jurisdiction to determine his claim shall be vested in the commission; provided, that such right of reimbursement against the person primarily liable for compensation shall not exist in favor of any insurance carrier insuring such other persons upon whom liability is imposed by this section, in any case where the immediate employer shall have joined with any of such other persons in taking out such policy of insurance or shall have contributed to the payment of the premium for such insurance, with the intent of securing joint protection thereby, anything in the policy to the contrary notwithstanding.

Limitations on liability.

(d) The liability imposed by this section shall be subject to the following limitations:

(1) Such liability shall exist only in cases where the injury occurred on or in or about the premises on which the principal employer or contracting employer, whether general or intermediate, has undertaken to execute or to have executed any work, or when such premises or work are otherwise under his control or management.

(2) Such liability shall not exist in the event that the immediate employer, or other person primarily liable for the compensation shall, previous to the suffering of such injury, have taken out, and maintained in full force and effect, compensation insurance with any insurance carrier, covering his full liability for compensation.

(3) The commission may, in its discretion, order that execution against such principal employer or contracting employer be stayed until execution against the immediate employer shall be returned unsatisfied.

(e) The findings and award of this commission entered against the immediate employer shall be conclusive for or against all persons upon whom liability is imposed by this section as to the fact and extent of liability of such immediate employer.

"Employee." Suits for damages from person other than employer. If employee joins in suit.

§ 26. The term "employee," as used in this section shall include the person injured and any other person in whom a claim may arise by reason of the injury or death of such injured person. The death of the employee, or of any other person, shall not abate any right of action established by this section. The claim of an employee for compensation shall not affect his right of action for damages arising out of injury or death against any person other than the employer; and any employer having paid, or having become obligated to pay, compensation, may likewise bring an action against such other person to recover said damages. If either such employee or such employer shall bring such action against such third person, he shall forthwith notify the other in writing, by personal service or registered mail, of such fact and of the name of the court in which such suit is brought, filing proof thereof in such action, and, if the action be brought by either, the other may, at any time before trial on the facts, join as party plaintiff or must consolidate his action, if brought independently. If the suit be prosecuted by the employer alone evidence of any expenditures which the employer has paid or become obligated to pay by reason of said injury or death shall be admissible, and such expenditures shall be deemed a part of the damages, including a reasonable attorney's fee to be fixed by the court; and if in such suit the employer shall recover more than the amount he has paid or become obligated to pay as compensation he shall pay the excess to the injured employee or other person entitled. If the employee joins in or prosecutes such suit, evidence of the amount of disability indemnity or death benefit paid by the employer shall not be admissible, but proof of all other expenditures on account of said injury or death shall be admissible and shall be deemed part of the damages. The court shall, on application, allow as a first lien against any judgment recovered by the employee the amount of the employer's expenditures for compensation. When any injury or death shall have been suffered by an employee, no release or settlement of any claim for damages by reason of such injury or death and no satisfaction of judgment in such proceedings, shall be valid without the written consent of either both employer and employee, or one of them, together with the consent of the commission or the court in which any such action may be pending. [Amendment of May 22, 1919. In effect July 22, 1919. Stats. 1919, p. 920.]

Right to compromise.

§ 27. (a) No contract, rule or regulation shall exempt the employer from liability for the compensation fixed by this act, but nothing in this act contained shall be construed as impairing the right of the parties interested to compromise, subject to the provisions herein contained, any liability which may be claimed to exist under this act on account of such injury or death, or as conferring upon the dependents of any injured employee any interest which such employee may not divert by such compromise or for which he, or his estate, shall, in the event of such compromise by him, be accountable to such dependents or any of them.

Valid release or compromise agreement.

(b) The compensation herein provided shall be the measure of the responsibility which the employer has assumed for injuries or death that may occur to employees in his employment when subject to the provisions of this act, and no release of liability or compromise agreement shall be valid unless it provide for the payment of full compensation in accordance with the provisions of this act or unless it shall be approved by the commission.

Award based on release or compromise agreement.

(c) A copy of such release or compromise agreement signed by both parties shall forthwith be filed with the commission. When such release or compromise agreement is filed with the commission and approved by it, the commission may of its own motion, or on the application of either party, without notice, enter its award based upon such release or compromise agreement.

Contents of release or compromise agreement.

(d) Every such release or compromise agreement shall be in writing, duly executed and attested by two disinterested witnesses, and shall specify the date of the accident, the average weekly wages of the employee, determined according to section twelve hereof, the nature of the disability, whether total or partial, permanent or temporary, the amount paid or due and unpaid to the employee up to the date of the release or agreement or death, as the case may be, and, if any, the amount of the payment or benefits then or thereafter to be made, and the length of time that such payment is to continue. In case of death there shall also be stated in such release or compromise agreement the date of death, the name of the widow, if any, the names and ages of all children, if any, and the names of all other dependents, if any, and whether such dependents be total or partial, and the amount paid or to be paid as a death benefit and to whom such payment is to be made.

Compensation payable in lump sum.

§ 28. (a) At the time of making its award, or at any time thereafter, the commission on its own motion, either with or without notice, or upon application of either party with due notice to the other, may, in its discretion, commute the compensation payable under this act to a lump sum, if it appears that such commutation is necessary for the protection of the person entitled thereto, or for the best interest of either party, or that it will avoid undue expense or hardship to either party, or that the employer has sold or otherwise disposed of the greater part of his assets, or is about to do so, or that the employer is not a resident of this state, and the commission may order such compensation paid forthwith or at some future time.

Determination of amount of commuted payment.

(b) The amount of the commuted payment shall be determined in accordance with the following provisions:

(1) If the injury causes temporary disability, the commission shall estimate the probable duration thereof and the probable amount of the temporary disability payments therefor, in accordance with the provisions of section nine hereof, and shall fix the lump sum payment at such amount so determined.

(2) If the injury causes permanent disability or death, the commission shall fix the total amount of the permanent disability payment or death benefit payable therefor in accordance with the provisions of said section nine, and shall estimate the present value thereof, assuming interest at the rate of six per cent per annum, disregarding the probability of the beneficiary's death in all cases except where the percentage of permanent disability is such as to entitle the beneficiary to a life pension, and then taking into consideration the probability of the beneficiary's death only in estimating the present value of such life pension.

Manner of making lump sum payment.

(c) The commission in its discretion may order the lump sum payment, determined as hereinbefore provided, paid directly to the injured employer or his dependents, or deposited with any savings bank or trust company authorized to transact business in this state, that will agree to accept the same as a deposit bearing interest, or the commission may order the same deposited with the state compensation insurance fund. Any such amount so deposited, together with all interest derived therefrom, shall thereafter be held in trust for the injured employee, or in the event of his death, for his dependents, and the latter shall have no further recourse against the employer. Payments from said fund, when so deposited, shall be made by the trustee only in the same amounts and at the same time as fixed by order of the commission and until said fund and interest thereon shall be exhausted. In the appointment of the trustee preference shall be given, in the discretion of the commission, to the choice of the injured employee or his dependents. Upon the making of such payment, the employer shall present to the commission a proper receipt evidencing the same, executed either by the injured employee or his dependents, or by the trustee, and the commission shall thereupon issue its certificate in proper form evidencing the same, and such certificate, upon filing with the clerk of the superior court in which any judgment upon an award may have been entered, shall operate as a satisfaction of said award and shall fully discharge the employer from any further liability on account thereof.

Payments from state compensation insurance fund.

(d) The commission may, where the employer is uninsured and the payments of compensation awarded are to be paid for a considerable time in the future, determine the present worth of said future payments, discounted at the rate of three per cent per annum, and order the said present worth paid into the state compensation insurance fund, which fund shall thereafter pay to the beneficiaries of said award the future payments as they become due.

Ways of securing payment of compensation.

§ 29. (a) Every employer as defined in section seven hereof, except the state and all political subdivisions or institutions thereof, shall secure the payment of compensation in one or more of the following ways:

1. By insuring and keeping insured against liability to pay compensation in one or more insurance carriers duly authorized to write compensation insurance in this state.

2. By securing from the commission a certificate of consent to self-insure, which may be given upon his furnishing proof satisfactory to the commission of ability to carry his own insurance and pay any compensation that may become due to his employees, the commission may, in its discretion, require such employer to deposit with the state treasurer a bond or securities, but not both a bond and securities, approved by the commission, in an amount to be determined by the commission. Such certificate may be revoked at any time for good cause shown. So long as the certificate of consent to self-insure has not been revoked, and the self-insurer has deposited with the state treasurer such bond or securities, the self-insurer shall not be required or obliged to pay into the state compensation insurance fund any sums covering liability for compensation, excepting life pensions; but shall be permitted, and such permission is hereby given the self-insurer, to fully administer any and all such compensation benefits assessed against the said insurer.

Action against employer. Right to attach property.

(b) If any employer shall fail so to secure the payment of compensation, any injured employee or his dependents may proceed against such employer by filing an application for compensation with the commission, and, in addition thereto, such injured employee or his dependents may bring an action at law against such employer for damages, the same as if this act did not apply, and shall be entitled in such action to the right to attach the property of the employer, at any time upon or after the institution of such action, in an amount to be fixed by the court, to secure the payment of any judgment which may ultimately be obtained. Such judgment shall include a reasonable attorney's fee to be fixed by the court. The provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure, except in so far as they may be inconsistent with this act, shall govern the issuance of and proceedings upon such attachment; provided, that if as a result of such action for damages a judgment is obtained against such employer in excess of the compensation awarded under this act, the compensation awarded by the commission, if paid, or if security approved by the court be given for its payment, shall be credited upon such judgment; provided, further, that in such action it shall be presumed that the injury to the employee was a direct result and grew out of the negligence of the employer, and the burden of proof shall rest upon the employer to rebut the presumption of negligence. In such proceeding it shall not be a defense to the employer that the employee may have been guilty of contributory negligence, or assumed the risk of the hazard complained of, or that the injury was caused by the negligence of a fellow servant. No contract, rule or regulation shall be allowed to restore to the employer any of the foregoing defenses. [Amendment of May 22, 1919. In effect July 22, 1919. Stats. 1919, pp. 921, 922.]

Right of employer to insure in mutual companies, etc.

§ 30. (a) Nothing in this act shall affect the organization of any mutual or other insurance company, or any existing contract for insurance, or the right of the employer to insure in mutual or other companies, in whole or in part, against liability for the compensation provided by this act; or to provide by mutual or other insurance, or by arrangement with his employees, or otherwise, for the payment to such employees, their families, dependents or representatives, of sick, accident or death benefits, in addition to the compensation provided for by this act; or the right of the employer to waive the waiting period provided for herein by insurance coverage; provided, however, that it shall be unlawful for any employer to exact or receive from any employee any contribution, or make or take any deduction from the earnings of any employee, either directly or indirectly, to cover the whole or any part of the cost of compensation under this act, and it shall be a misdemeanor so to do.

Liability not reduced by insurance, etc.

(b) Liability for compensation shall not be reduced or affected by any insurance, contribution, or other benefit whatsoever due to or received by the person entitled to such compensation, except as otherwise provided by this act, and the person so entitled shall, irrespective of any insurance or other contract, except as otherwise provided in this act, have the right to recover such compensation directly from the employer, and in addition thereto, the right to enforce in his own name, in the manner provided in this act, either by making the insurance carrier a party to the original application or by filing a separate application, the liability of any insurance carrier, which may, in whole or in part, have insured against liability for such compensation; provided, however, that payment in whole or in part of such compensation by either the employer or the insurance company shall, to the extent thereof, be a bar to recovery against the other of the amount so paid; and provided, further, that as between the employer and the insurance company, payment by either directly to the employee, or to the person entitled to compensation, shall be subject to the conditions of the insurance contract between them.

Insurance carrier directly liable to employee.

(c) Every contract insuring against liability for compensation, or insurance policy evidencing the same, must contain a clause to the effect that the insurance carrier shall be directly and primarily liable to the employee and, in the event of his death, to his dependents, to pay the compensation, if any, for which the employer is liable; that, as between the employee and the insurance carrier, the notice to or knowledge of the occurrence of the injury on the part of the employer shall be deemed notice or knowledge, as the case may be, on the part of the insurance carrier; that jurisdiction of the employer shall, for the purpose of this act, be jurisdiction of the insurance carrier; and that the insurance carrier shall in all things be bound by and subject to the orders, findings, decisions or awards rendered against the employer under the provisions of this act.

Lien of employee on amount owing on policy.

(d) Such policy must also provide that the employee shall have a first lien upon any amount which shall become owing on account of such policy to the employer from the insurance carrier, and that in case of the legal incapacity or inability of the employer to receive the said amount and pay it over to the employee or his dependents, the said insurance carrier may and shall pay the same directly to the said employee or his dependents, thereby discharging, to the extent of such payment, the obligations of the employer to the employee; and such policy shall not contain any provisions relieving the insurance carrier from payment when the employer becomes insolvent or is discharged in bankruptcy, or otherwise, during the period that the policy is in operation or the compensation remains owing. Every contract insuring against liability for compensation, provided by this act, or insurance policy evidencing the same shall be conclusively presumed to contain all of the provisions required by this act.

Employer relieved from liability by insurance carrier.

(e) (1) If the employer shall be insured against liability for compensation with any insurance carrier, and if after the suffering of any injury such insurance carrier shall serve or cause to be served upon any person claiming compensation against such employer a notice that it has assumed and agreed to pay the compensation, if any, for which the employer is liable, and shall file a copy of such notice with the commission, such employer shall thereupon be relieved from liability for compensation to such claimant and the insurance carrier shall, without notice, be substituted in place of the employer in any proceeding theretofore or thereafter instituted by such person to recover such compensation, and the employer shall be dismissed therefrom. Such proceedings shall not abate on account of such substitution but shall be continued against such insurance carrier. If at the time of the suffering of an injury for which compensation is claimed, or may be claimed, the employer shall be insured against liability for the full amount of compensation payable, or that may become payable, the employer may serve or cause to be served upon any person claiming compensation on account of the suffering of such injury and upon the insurance carrier a notice that the insurance carrier has in its policy contract or otherwise, assumed and agreed to pay the compensation, if any, for which the employer is liable, and may file a copy of such notice with the commission. If it shall thereafter appear to the satisfaction of the commission that the insurance carrier has, through the issuance of its contract of insurance or otherwise, assumed such liability for compensation, such employer shall thereupon be relieved from liability for compensation to such claimant and the insurance carrier shall, after notice, be substituted in place of the employer in any proceeding theretofore or thereafter instituted by such person to recover such compensation, and the employer shall be dismissed therefrom. Such proceeding shall not abate on account of such substitution, but shall be continued against such insurance carrier.

Order of commission.

(2) The commission may, with or without the filing of the notice required by the preceding paragraph, enter its order relieving the employer from liability where it appears from the pleadings, stipulations or proof that an insurance carrier joined as party to the proceeding is liable for the full compensation which the employer in such proceeding is liable to pay.

Insurance carrier subrogated to rights of employer.

(f) Where any employer is insured against liability for compensation with any insurance carrier and such insurance carrier shall have assumed the liability of the employer therefor in the manner provided by this section, or shall have paid any compensation for which the employer is liable, or furnished or provided any medical services required by this act, such insurance carrier shall be subrogated to all the rights and duties of such employer and may enforce any such rights of its own name.

State fund may insure.

(g) The state compensation insurance fund may insure against any liability fixed under this act to the same extent as any insurance carrier.

"Limited compensation policy."

§ 31. (a) If any insurance policy shall be issued covering liability for compensation, which policy shall contain any limitation as to the compensation payable, such limitation shall be printed in the body of such policy in bold-face type and in addition thereto the words "limited compensation policy" shall be printed on the top of the policy in bold-face type not less than eighteen point in size. Failure to observe the foregoing requirement shall render such policy unlimited.

(b) No insurance carrier shall insure against the liability of the employer for the additional compensation recoverable under the provisions contained in section six (b) hereof.

Organization of state compensation insurance fund continued.

§ 32. Nothing contained in this act shall be taken or construed to limit, interfere with, disturb, or render ineffective in any degree, the creation, existence, organization, control, management, contracts, rights, powers, duties and liabilities of the state compensation insurance fund, but all such matters and things are hereby expressly confirmed, saved and continued.

Definitions.

§ 33. The following terms, as used in sections thirty-three to fifty-four, inclusive, of this act, shall, unless a different meaning is plainly required by the context, be construed as follows:

"Place of employment."

(1) The phrase "place of employment" shall mean and include every place, whether indoors or out or underground, or elsewhere, and the premises appurtenant thereto, where, either temporarily or permanently, any industry, trade, work or business is carried on, or where any process or operation directly or indirectly related to any industry, trade, work or business, is carried on, including all construction work, and where any person is directly or indirectly employed by another, but shall not include any place where persons are employed solely in household domestic service, or any place of employment, concerning the safety of which jurisdiction may have been vested by law heretofore or hereafter in any other commission or public authority.

"Employment."

(2) The term "employment" shall mean and include any trade, work, business, occupation or process of manufacture, or any method of carrying on such trade, work, business, occupation or process of manufacture, including construction work, in which any person may be engaged, except where persons are employed solely in household domestic service.

"Employer."

(3) The term "employer" shall mean and include every person, firm, voluntary association, corporation, officer, agent, manager, representative or other person having control or custody of any employment, place of employment or of any employee.

"Employee."

(4) The term "employee" shall mean and include every person who may be required or directed by any employer, to engage in any employment, or to go to work or be at any time in any place of employment.

"Order."

(5) The term "order" shall mean and include any decision, rule, regulation, direction, requirement or standard of the commission or any other determination arrived at or decision made by such commission under the safety provisions of this act.

"General order."

(6) The term "general order" shall mean and include such order, made under the safety provisions of this act, as applies generally throughout the state to all persons, employments or places of employment, or all persons, employments or places of employment of a class under the jurisdiction of the commission. All other orders of the commission shall be considered special orders.

"Local order."

(7) The term "local order" shall mean and include any ordinance, order, rule or determination of any board of supervisors, city council, board of trustees or other governing body of any county, city and county, city, or any school district or other public corporation, or an order or direction of any other public official or board or department upon any matter over which the industrial accident commission has jurisdiction.

"Safe" and "Safety."

(8) The terms "safe" and "safety" as applied to an employment or a place of employment shall mean such freedom from danger to the life or safety of employees as the nature of the employment will reasonably permit.

"Safety device" and "Safeguard."

(9) The terms "safety device" and "safeguard" shall be given a broad interpretation so as to include any practicable method of mitigating or preventing a specific danger. [Amendment of May 22, 1919. In effect July 22, 1919. Stats. 1919, pp. 922, 923.]

Employer to make employment safe.

§ 34. Every employer shall furnish employment which shall be safe for the employees therein and shall furnish a place of employment which shall be safe for employees therein, and shall furnish and use such safety devices and safeguards, and shall adopt and use such practices, means, methods, operations and processes as are reasonably adequate to render such employment and place of employment safe, and shall do every other thing reasonably necessary to protect the life and safety of such employees.

Use of safety devices.

§ 35. No employer shall require, permit or suffer any employee to go or be in any employment or place of employment which is not safe, and no such employer shall fail to furnish, provide and use safety devices and safeguards or fail to adopt and use methods and processes reasonably adequate to render such employment and place of employment safe, and no such employer shall fail or neglect to do every other thing reasonably necessary to protect the life and safety of such employees, and no such employer shall occupy or maintain any place of employment that is not safe.

Construction of unsafe place.

§ 36. No employer, owner or lessee of any real property in this state shall construct or cause to be constructed any place of employment that is not safe.

Employee not to interfere with safety devices.

§ 37. No employee or other person shall remove, displace, damage, destroy or carry off any safety device, safeguard, notice or warning, furnished and provided for use in any employment or place of employment, or interfere in any way with the use thereof by any other person, or interfere with the use of any method or process adopted for the protection of any employee, including himself, in such employment, or place of employment, or fail or neglect to do every other thing reasonably necessary to protect the life and safety of such employees. [Amendment of May 22, 1919. In effect July 22, 1919. Stats. 1919, p. 924.]

Jurisdiction of commission over places of employment.

§ 38. The commission is vested with full power and jurisdiction over, and shall have such supervision of, every employment and place of employment in this state as may be necessary adequately to enforce and administer all laws and all lawful orders requiring such employment and place of employment to be safe, and requiring the protection of the life and safety of every employee in such employment or place of employment.

Power of commission to prescribe devices, standards, etc.

§ 39. The commission shall have power, after a hearing had upon its own motion or upon complaint, by general or special orders, rules or regulations, or otherwise:

(1) To declare and prescribe what safety devices, safeguards or other means or methods of protection are well adapted to render the employees of every employment and place of employment safe as required by law or lawful order.

(2) To fix such reasonable standards and to prescribe, modify and enforce such reasonable orders for the adoption, installation, use, maintenance and operation of safety devices, safeguards and other means or methods of protection, to be as nearly uniform as possible, as may be necessary to carry out all laws and lawful orders relative to the protection of the life and safety of employees in employments and places of employment.

(3) To fix and order such reasonable standards for the construction, repair and maintenance of places of employment as shall render them safe.

(4) To require the performance of any other act which the protection of the life and safety of employees in employments and places of employment may reasonably demand.

(5) To declare and prescribe the general form of industrial injury reports, the injuries to be reported and the information to be furnished in connection therewith, and the time within which such reports shall be filed. Nothing in this act contained shall be construed to prevent the commission from requiring supplemental injury reports.

Notice of hearing to consider general safety order.

§ 40. Upon the fixing of a time and place for the holding of a hearing for the purpose of considering and issuing a general safety order or orders as authorized by section thirty-nine hereof, the commission shall cause a notice of such hearing to be published in one or more daily newspapers of general circulation published and circulated in the city and county of San Francisco, and also in one or more daily newspapers of general circulation published and circulated in the county of Los Angeles, such newspapers to be designated by the commission for that purpose. No defect or inaccuracy in such notice or in the publication thereof shall invalidate any general order issued by the commission after hearing had.

Order to make employment safe.

§ 41. Whenever the commission, after a hearing had upon its own motion or upon complaint, shall find that any employment or place of employment is not safe or that the practices or means or methods or operations or processes employed or used in connection therewith are unsafe, or do not afford adequate protection to the life and safety of employees in such employment or place of employment, the commission shall make and enter and serve such order relative thereto as may be necessary to render such employment or place of employment safe and protect the life and safety of employees in such employment and place of employment and may in said order direct that such additions, repairs, improvements or changes be made and such safety devices and safeguards be furnished, provided and used, as are reasonably required to render such employment or place of employment safe, in the manner and within the time specified in said order.

Time for compliance with order.

§ 42. The commission may, upon application of any employer, or other person affected thereby, grant such time as may reasonably be necessary for compliance with any order, and any person affected by such order may petition the commission for an extension of time, which the commission shall grant if it finds such an extension of time necessary.

Investigation of unsafe employment.

§ 43. Whenever the commission shall learn or have reason to believe that any employment or place of employment is not safe or is injurious to the welfare of any employee it may, of its own motion, or upon complaint, summarily investigate to same with or without notice or hearings, and after a hearing upon such notice as it may prescribe, the commission may enter and serve such order as may be necessary relative thereto, anything in this act to the contrary notwithstanding.

Obeying order.

§ 44. Every employer, employee and other person shall obey and comply with each and every requirement of every order, decision, direction, rule or regulation made or prescribed by the commission in connection with the matters herein specified, or in any way relating to or affecting safety of employments or places of employment, or to protect the life and safety of employees in such employments or places of employment, and shall do everything necessary or proper in order to secure compliance with and observance of every such order, decision, direction, rule or regulation.

Review of orders.

§ 45. The orders of the commission, general or special, its rules or regulations, findings and decisions, made and entered under the safety provisions of this act, may be reviewed by the courts specified in sections sixty-seven and sixty-eight of this act and within the time and in the manner therein specified and not otherwise.

Powers of supervisors, etc., not affected.

§ 46. Nothing contained in this act shall be construed to deprive the board of supervisors of any county, or city and county, the board of trustees of any city, or any other public corporation or board or department, of any power or jurisdiction over or relative to any place of employment; provided, that whenever the commission shall, by order, fix a standard of safety for employments or places of employment, such order shall, upon the filing by the commission of a copy thereof with the clerk of the county, city and county, or city to which it may apply, establish a minimum requirement concerning the matters covered by such order and shall be construed in connection with any local order relative to the same matter and to amend or modify any requirement in such local order not up to the standard of the order of the commission.

Restraining injunction against unsafe employments.

§ 46½. If the condition of any employment or place of employment or the operation of any machine, device or apparatus shall constitute a serious menace of the lives or safety of persons about it, the commission, or a commissioner, may apply to the superior court of the county in which such place of employment, machine, device or apparatus is situated, for an injunction restraining the use or operation thereof until such condition shall be corrected. The said application accompanied by affidavit showing that such place of employment, machine, device or apparatus is being operated in violation of a general or special safety order of the commission, and that such use or operation constitutes a menace to the life or safety of any person or persons employed thereabout, accompanied by a copy of the order or orders applicable thereto shall constitute a sufficient prima facie showing to warrant, in the discretion of the court, the immediate granting of a temporary restraining order. No bond shall be required from the commission as a prerequisite to the granting of any restraining order. When in the opinion of the industrial accident commission a machine or any part thereof is in a dangerous condition or is not properly guarded or is dangerously placed, the use thereof shall be prohibited by the commission, and a notice to that effect shall be attached thereto. Such notice shall not be removed except by an authorized representative of the commission, nor until the machinery is made safe and the required safeguards or safety appliances or devices are provided, and in the meantime such unsafe or dangerous machinery shall not be used. [New section added by amendment of May 22, 1919. In effect July 22, 1919. Stats. 1919, p. 924.]

Museums of safety and hygiene.

§ 47. The commission shall have further power and authority:

(1) To establish and maintain museums of safety and hygiene in which shall be exhibited safety devices, safeguards and other means and methods for the protection of the life and safety of employees, and to publish and distribute bulletins on any phase of this general subject.

Lectures.

(2) To cause lectures to be delivered, illustrated by stereopticon or other views, diagrams or pictures, for the information of employers and their employees and the general public in regard to the causes and prevention of industrial accidents, occupational diseases and related subjects.

Advisers.

(3) To appoint advisers who shall, without compensation, assist the commission in establishing standards of safety and the commission may adopt and incorporate in its general orders such safety recommendations as it may receive from such advisers.

Order admissible as evidence.

§ 48. Every order of the commission, general or special, its rules and regulations, findings and decisions, made and entered under the safety provisions of this act shall be admissible as evidence in any prosecution for the violation of any of the said provisions and shall, in every such prosecution, be conclusively presumed to be reasonable and lawful and to fix a reasonable and proper standard and requirement of safety, unless, prior to the institution of the prosecution for such violation or violations, proceedings for a rehearing thereon or a review thereof shall have been instituted as provided in sections sixty-four to sixty-eight, inclusive, of this act and not then finally determined.

Penalty for violation.

§ 49. Every employer, employee or other person who, either individually or acting as an officer, agent or employee of a corporation or other person, violates any safety provision contained in sections thirty-four, thirty-five, thirty-six or thirty-seven of this act, or any part of any such provision, or who shall fail or refuse to comply with any such provision or any part thereof, or who, directly or indirectly, knowingly induces another so to do is guilty of a misdemeanor. In any prosecution under this section it shall be deemed prima facie evidence of a violation of any such safety provision, that the accused has failed or refused to comply with any order, rule, regulation or requirement of the commission relative thereto and the burden of proof shall thereupon rest upon the accused to show that he has complied with such safety provision.

Separate and distinct offense.

§ 50. Every violation of the provisions contained in sections thirty-four, thirty-five, thirty-six or thirty-seven of this act, or any part or portion thereof, by any person or corporation is a separate and distinct offense, and, in the case of a continuing violation thereof, each day's continuance thereof shall constitute a separate and distinct offense.

Accident prevention fund. Percentage of amount gross premiums. Estimates submitted to board of control. Revolving fund.

§ 51. All fines imposed and collected under prosecutions for violations of the provisions of sections thirty to fifty-four of this act shall be paid into the state treasury to the credit of the "accident prevention fund," which fund is hereby created. In addition to other sources of income of said accident prevention fund, the state compensation insurance fund shall pay into the said accident prevention fund, on or before the first Monday in July, 1918, and annually thereafter, the sum of two per cent upon the amount of the gross premiums received by it upon its business done in this state during the preceding calendar year, less return premiums and reinsurance in companies or associations authorized to do business in this state, which payment is intended to be the equivalent of the taxes imposed upon private insurance companies by the laws of this state relating to revenue and taxation. The state compensation insurance fund shall also pay into the said accident prevention fund interest from September 1, 1917, at the rate of four per cent per annum, payable quarterly, upon the sum of one hundred thousand dollars heretofore advanced by the state to said state compensation insurance fund as long as the said fund shall retain the said sum of one hundred thousand dollars. The commission is authorized to draw from said accident prevention fund toward the support of its department of safety. The commission shall submit from time to time to the state board of control an estimate of the amount it desires to withdraw from the accident prevention fund, and when such estimate shall be approved by the state board of control, the controller is directed to draw his warrant on said fund in favor of said commission for such amount, and the treasurer is authorized and directed to pay the same. The commission shall account to the state board of control and to the state controller for all moneys so received, furnishing proper vouchers therefor. The said accident prevention fund shall be a revolving fund.

Unlawful to divulge confidential information.

§ 52. It shall be unlawful for any member of the commission, or for any officer or employee of the commission, to divulge to any person not connected with the administration of this act any confidential information obtained from any person, concerning the failure of any other person to keep any place of employment safe, or concerning the violation of any order, rule or regulation issued by the commission. Any member of the commission or any officer or employee of the commission divulging such confidential information shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Reports of injuries.

§ 53. (a) Every employer of labor, without any exceptions, and every insurance carrier, and every physician or surgeon who attends any injured employee, is hereby required to file with the commission, under such rules and regulations as the commission may from time to time make, a full and complete report of every injury to an employee arising out of or in the course of his employment and resulting in loss of life or injury to such person; provided, that such report shall not be required unless disability resulting from such injury lasts through the day of the injury or requires medical service other than ordinary first aid treatment. Where the injury results in death a report shall be made by the employer to the commission by telephone or telegraph forthwith. Such reports shall be furnished to the commission in such form and such detail as the commission shall from time to time prescribe, and shall make specific answers to all questions required by the commission under its rules and regulations. It shall be unlawful for any person, firm, corporation, agent or officer of a firm or corporation, to fail or refuse to comply with any of the provisions of this section, and any such person, firm, corporation, agent or officer of a firm or corporation, who fails or refuses to comply with the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor for each and every offense and upon conviction thereof shall be punishable by a fine of not less than ten dollars nor more than one hundred dollars. Any such employer or insurance carrier who shall furnish such report shall be exempt from furnishing any similar report or reports authorized or required under the laws of this state.

Filling out blanks.

(b) Every employer or insurance carrier receiving from the commission any blanks with directions to fill out the same shall cause the same to be properly filled out so as to answer fully and correctly each question propounded therein; in case he is unable to answer any such questions a good and sufficient reason shall be given for such failure.

Information not open to public inspection.

(c) No information furnished to the commission by an employer or an insurance carrier shall be open to public inspection or made public except on order of the commission, or by a commissioner or referee in the course of a proceeding. Any officer or employee of the commission who, in violation of the provisions of this subsection, divulges any such information shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. [Amendment of May 22, 1919. In effect July 22, 1919. Stats. 1919, p. 924.]

Investigation of injuries.

§ 54. (a) The commission shall investigate the cause of all industrial injuries occurring within the state in any employment or place of employment, or directly or indirectly arising from or connected with the maintenance or operation of such employment or place of employment, resulting in disability or death and requiring, in the judgment of the commission, such investigation; and the commission shall have the power to make such orders or recommendations with respect to such injuries as may be just and reasonable; provided, that neither the order nor the recommendation of the commission shall be admitted as evidence in any action for damages or any proceeding to recover compensation, based on or arising out of such injury or death.

Inspectors, etc., may enter place of employment.

(b) For the purpose of making any investigation which the commission is authorized to make under the provisions of this section, or for the purpose of collecting statistics or examining the provision made for the safety of employees, any member of the commission, or other person designated by the commission for that purpose, may enter any place of employment; and in the performance of such duties shall have the power to subpoena witnesses, administer oaths and take testimony.

Penalty for violation.

(c) Any employer, insurance carrier, responsible agent or employee of such employer or insurance carrier, or any other person who shall violate or omit to comply with any of the provisions of this section, or who shall in any way obstruct or hamper the commission, any commissioner or other person conducting any investigation authorized to be undertaken or made by the commission, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. [Amendment of May 22, 1919. In effect July 22, 1919. Stats. 1919, p. 925.]

Proceedings instituted before commission.

§ 55. (a) All proceedings for the recovery of compensation, or concerning any right or liability arising out of or incidental thereto, or for the enforcement against the employer or an insurance carrier of any liability for compensation imposed upon him by this act in favor of the injured employee, his dependents or any third person, or for the determination of any question as to the distribution of compensation among dependents or other persons, or for the determination of any question as to who are dependents of any deceased employee, or what persons are entitled to any benefit under the compensation provisions of this act, or for obtaining any order which by this act the commission is authorized to make, or for the determination of any other matter, jurisdiction over which is vested by this act in the commission, shall be instituted before the commission, and not elsewhere, except as otherwise in this act provided, and the commission is hereby vested with full power, authority and jurisdiction to try and finally determine all such matters, subject only to the review by the courts in this act specified and in the manner and within the time in this act provided.

Orders, etc., prima facie lawful.

(b) All orders, rules and regulations, findings, decisions and awards of the commission shall be in force and shall be prima facie lawful; and all such orders, rules and regulations, findings, decisions and awards shall be conclusively presumed to be reasonable and lawful, until and unless they are modified or set aside by the commission or upon a review by the courts in this act specified and within the time and in the manner herein specified.

Service of notice, etc.

§ 56. (a) Any notice, order or decision required by this act to be served upon any person or party either before, during or after the institution of any proceeding before the commission, may be served in the manner provided by chapter five, title fourteen of part two of the Code of Civil Procedure of this state, unless otherwise directed by the commission or a member thereof, in which event the same shall be served in accordance with the order or direction of said commission or member thereof. The commission or a commissioner may also, in the cases mentioned in the Code of Civil Procedure of this state, order service to be made by publication of the notice of time and place of hearing. Where service is ordered to be made by publication the date of the hearing may be fixed at more than thirty days from the date of filing the application.

(b) Any such notice, order or decision affecting the state or any city and county, city, school district or public corporation therein, shall be served upon the same officer, officers, person or persons, upon whom the service of similar notices, orders or decisions is authorized by law.

Secretary, etc., have powers of peace officers.

(c) The secretary, assistant secretaries and the inspectors appointed by the commission shall have all the powers conferred by law upon peace officers to carry weapons, make arrests and serve warrants and other process in this state.

Powers of commission.

§ 57. (a) The commission shall have full power and authority:

Rules of practice.

(1) To adopt reasonable and proper rules of practice and procedure.

Representation of minors, etc.

(2) To regulate and provide the manner, and by whom, minors and incompetent persons shall appear and be represented before it.

Appoint trustee to appear for minor or incompetent.

(3) To appoint a trustee or guardian ad litem to appear for and represent any such minor or incompetent upon such terms and conditions as it may deem proper; and such guardian or trustee must, if required by the commission or a commissioner, give a bond in the same form and of the same character required by law from a guardian appointed by the courts and in such an amount as the commission or a commissioner may fix and determine, such bond to be approved by the commission or a commissioner, and such guardian or trustee shall not be discharged from liability until he shall have filed an account with the commission or with the probate court and such account shall have been approved. The trustee or guardian shall be entitled to receive such compensation for his services as shall be fixed and allowed by the commission or by the probate court.

Joinder of interested persons.

(4) To provide for the joinder in the same proceeding of all persons interested therein, whether as employer, insurance carrier, employee, dependent, creditor or otherwise.

Notices.

(5) To regulate and prescribe the kind and character of notices, where not otherwise prescribed by this act, and the service thereof.

Proofs.

(6) To regulate and prescribe the nature and extent of the proofs and evidence.

Controversies over insurance policies.

(b) The commission shall also have jurisdiction to determine controversies arising out of insurance policies issued to self-employing persons, conferring benefits identical with those prescribed by this act.

Acting as arbitrator.

The commission may try and determine matters referred to it by the parties under the provisions of part three, title ten, of the Code of Civil Procedure, with respect to controversies arising out of insurance issued to self-employing persons under the provisions of this act. Such controversies may be submitted to it by the signed agreement of the parties, or by the application of one party and the submission of the other to its jurisdiction, with or without an express request for arbitration. The state compensation insurance fund must submit to the commission, the consent of the other party being obtained, all controversies susceptible of being arbitrated under this section. In acting as arbitrator under the provisions of this section, the commission shall have all the powers which it may lawfully exercise in compensation cases, and its findings and award upon such arbitration shall have the same conclusiveness and be subject to the same mode of reopening, review and enforcement as in compensation cases. No fee or cost shall be charged by the commission to any party for arbitrating the issues presented under this section.

Controversies over injuries outside of state.

§ 58. The commission shall have jurisdiction over all controversies arising out of injuries suffered without the territorial limits of this state in those cases where the injured employee is a resident of this state at the time of the injury and the contract of hire was made in this state, and any such employee or his dependents shall be entitled to the compensation or death benefits provided by this act.

Reference of cases.

§ 59. The commission may upon the agreement of the parties, upon the application of either, or of its own motion, and either with or without notice, direct and order a reference in the following cases:

(1) To try any or all of the issues in any proceeding before it, whether of fact or of law, and to report a finding, order, decision or award to be based thereon.

(2) To ascertain a fact necessary to enable the commission to determine any proceeding before it or to make any order, decision or award that the commission is authorized to make under this act, or that is necessary for the information of the commission.

Referees.

(b) The commission may appoint one or more referees in any proceeding, as it may deem necessary or advisable, and may refer matters arising out of the same proceeding to different referees. It may also, in its discretion, appoint general referees who shall hold office during the pleasure of the commission. Any referee appointed by the commission shall have such powers, jurisdiction and authority as is granted under the law, by the order of appointment and by the rules of the commission, and shall receive such salary or compensation for his services as may be fixed by the commission.

Objection to appointments.

(c) Any party to the proceeding may object to the appointment of any person as referee upon any one or more of the grounds specified in section six hundred forty-one of the Code of Civil Procedure and such objection must be heard and disposed of by the commission. Affidavits may be read and witnesses examined as to such objections.

Oath of referee.

(d) Before entering upon his duties, the referee must be sworn before an officer authorized to administer oaths, faithfully and fairly to hear and determine the matters and issues referred to him, and to make just findings and report according to his understanding.

Report of referee.

(e) The referee must report his findings in writing to the commission within fifteen days after the testimony is closed. Such report shall be made in the form prescribed by the commission and shall include all matters required to be included in the order of reference or by the rules of the commission. The facts found and conclusions of law must be separately stated.

Order, etc., based on report of referee.

(f) Upon the filing of the report of the referee, the commission may confirm, adopt, modify or set aside the same or any part thereof and may, either with or without further proceedings, and either with or without notice, enter its order, findings, decision or award based in whole or in part upon the report of the referee, or upon the record in the case.

Hearings by referees.

(g) The provisions of the preceding subdivisions of this section shall not be construed to prevent the commission from requiring its referees merely to hold hearings and to make return of the testimony to the commission.

Commission not bound by statutory rules of evidence and procedure.

§ 60. (a) All hearings and investigations before the commission or any member thereof, or any referee appointed thereby, shall be governed by this act and by the rules of practice and procedure adopted by the commission, and in the conduct thereof neither the commission nor any member thereof, nor any referee appointed thereby, shall be bound by the common law or statutory rules of evidence and procedure, but may make inquiry in such manner, through oral testimony and written and printed records, as is best calculated to ascertain the substantial rights of the parties and carry out justly the spirit and provisions of this act. No informality in any proceeding or in the manner of taking testimony shall invalidate any order, decision, award, rule or regulation made, approved or confirmed by the commission; nor shall any order, award, rule or regulation be invalidated because of the admission into the record, and use as proof of any fact in dispute, of any evidence not admissible under the said common law or statutory rules of evidence and procedure.

Depositions.

(b) The commission, or a commissioner or referee, or any party to the action or proceeding, may, in any investigation or hearing before the commission, cause the deposition of witnesses residing within or without the state to be taken in the manner prescribed by law for like depositions in civil actions in the superior courts of this state, and to that end may compel the attendance of witnesses and the production of books, documents, papers and accounts; provided, that depositions taken outside of the state may be taken before any officers authorized to administer oaths.

Power of commission to administer oaths, etc. Witness fees and mileage.

§ 61. The commission and each member thereof, its secretary, assistant secretaries and referees, shall have power to administer oaths, certify to all official acts, and to issue subpoenas for the attendance of witnesses and the production of papers, books, accounts, documents and testimony in any inquiry, investigation, hearing or proceeding in any part of the state. Each witness who shall appear, by order of the commission or a member thereof, or a referee appointed thereby, shall be entitled to receive, if demanded, for his attendance the same fees and mileage allowed by law to a witness in civil cases, which amount shall be paid by the party at whose request such witness is subpoenaed, unless otherwise ordered by the commission. When any witness who has not been required to attend at the request of any party is subpoenaed by the commission, his fees and mileage may be paid from the funds appropriated for the use of the commission in the same manner as other expenses of the commission are paid. Any witness subpoenaed, except one whose fees and mileage may be paid from the funds of the commission, may, at the time of service, demand the fee to which he is entitled for travel to and from the place at which he is required to appear, and one day's attendance. If such witness demands such fees at the time of service, and they are not at that time paid or tendered, he shall not be required to attend before the commission, member thereof, or referee as directed in the subpoena. All fees and mileage to which any witness is entitled, under the provisions of the section, may be collected by action therefor instituted by the person to whom such fees are payable.

Power of superior court to compel attendance of witnesses, etc.

§ 62. The superior court in and for the county, or city and county, in which any inquiry, investigation, hearing or proceeding may be held by the commission or any member thereof or referee appointed thereby, shall have the power to compel the attendance of witnesses, the giving of testimony and the production of papers, including books, accounts and documents, as required by any subpoena issued by the commission or member thereof or referee. The commission or any member thereof or the referee, before whom the testimony is to be given or produced, in case of the refusal of any witness to attend or testify or produce any papers required by such subpoena, may report to the superior court in and for the county, or city and county in which the proceeding is pending, by petition, setting forth that due notice has been given of the time and place of attendance of said witness, or the production of said papers, and that the witness has been subpoenaed in the manner prescribed in this act, and that the witness has failed and refused to attend or produce the papers required by the subpoena, or has refused to answer questions propounded to him in the course of such proceeding, and ask an order of said court, compelling the witness to attend and testify or produce said papers before the commission. The court, upon the petition of the commission or such member thereof or referee, shall enter an order directing the witness to appear before the court at a time and place to be fixed by the court in such order, the time to be not more than ten days from the date of the order, and then and there show cause why he had not attended and testified or produced said papers before the commission, member thereof or referee. A copy of said order shall be served upon said witness. If it shall appear to the court that said subpoena was regularly issued by the commission or member thereof or referee and that the witness was legally bound to comply therewith, the court shall thereupon enter an order that said witness appear before the commission or member thereof or referee at a time and place to be fixed in such order, and testify or produce the required papers, and upon failure to obey said order, said witness shall be dealt with as for contempt of court. The remedy provided in this section is cumulative, and shall not be construed to impair or interfere with the power of the commission or a member thereof to enforce the attendance of witnesses and the production of papers, and to punish for contempt in the same manner and to the same extent as courts of record.

General power of commission.

§ 63. (a) The commission is hereby vested with full power, authority and jurisdiction to do and perform any and all things, whether herein specifically designated, or in addition thereto, which are necessary or convenient in the exercise of any power, authority or jurisdiction conferred upon it under this act.

Power to issue writs, etc.

(b) The commission and each member thereof shall have power to issue writs or summons, warrants of attachment, warrants of commitment and all necessary process in proceedings for contempt, in like manner and to the same extent as courts of record. The process issued by the commission or any member thereof shall extend to all parts of the state and may be served by any persons authorized to serve process of courts of record, or by any person designated for that purpose by the commission or any member thereof. The person executing any such process shall receive such compensation as may be allowed by the commission, not to exceed the fees now prescribed by law for similar services, and such fees shall be paid in the same manner as provided herein for the fees of witnesses.

Application for rehearing.

§ 64. (a) Any party or person aggrieved directly or indirectly by any final order, decision, award, rule or regulation of the commission, made or entered under any provision contained in this act, may apply to the commission for a rehearing in respect to any matters determined or covered by such final order, decision, award, rule or regulation and specified in the application for rehearing within the time and in the manner hereinafter specified, and not otherwise.

No cause for action unless application for rehearing.

(b) No cause of action arising out of any such final order, decision or award shall accrue in any court to any person until and unless such person shall have made application for such rehearing, and such application shall have been granted or denied; provided, that nothing herein contained shall be construed to prevent the enforcement of any such final order, decision, award, rule or regulation in the manner provided in this act.

Grounds for application.

(c) Such application shall set forth specifically and in full detail the grounds upon which the applicant considers said final order, decision, award, rule or regulation is unjust or unlawful, and every issue to be considered by the commission. Such application must be verified upon oath in the same manner as required for verified pleadings in courts of record and must contain a general statement of any evidence or other matters upon which the applicant relies in support thereof. The applicant for such hearing shall be deemed to have finally waived all objections, irregularities and illegalities concerning the matter upon which such rehearing is sought other than those set forth in the application for such rehearing.

Service upon adverse parties.

(d) A copy of such application for rehearing shall be served forthwith upon all adverse parties by the party applying for such rehearing, and any such adverse party may file an answer thereto within ten days thereafter. Such answer must likewise be verified. The commission may require the application for rehearing to be served on such other persons or parties as may be designated by it.

Rehearing.

(e) Upon filing of an application for a rehearing, if the issues raised thereby have theretofore been adequately considered by the commission, it may determine the same by confirming without hearing its previous determination, or if a rehearing is necessary to determine the issues raised, or any one or more of such issues, the commission shall order a rehearing thereon and consider and determine the matter or matters raised by such application. If at the time of granting such rehearing it shall appear to the satisfaction of the commission that no sufficient reason exists for taking further testimony, the commission may reconsider and redeterminate the original cause without setting a time and place for such further rehearing. Notice of the time and place of such hearing, if any, shall be given to the applicant and adverse parties, and to such other persons as the commission may order.

Changing order, etc. Action within 30 days.

(f) If after such rehearing and a consideration of all the facts, including those arising since the making of the order, decision or award involved, the commission shall be of the opinion that the original order, decision or award, or any part thereof, is in any respect unjust or unwarranted, or should be changed, the commission may abrogate, change or modify the same. An order, decision or award made after such rehearing, abrogating, changing or modifying the original order, decision or award, shall have the same force and effect as an original order, decision or award, but shall not affect any right or the enforcement of any right arising from or by virtue of the original order, decision or award, unless so ordered by the commission. An application for a rehearing shall be deemed to have been denied by the commission unless it shall have been acted upon within thirty days from the date of filing; provided, however, that the commission may, upon good cause being shown therefor, extend the time within which it may act upon such application for not exceeding thirty days.

Grounds for rehearing of order awarding compensation.

§ 65. (a) At any time within twenty days after the service of any final order or decision of the commission awarding or denying compensation, or arising out of or incidental thereto, any party or parties aggrieved thereby may apply for such rehearing upon one or more of the following grounds and upon no other grounds:

- (1) That the commission acted without or in excess of its powers.
- (2) That the order, decision or award was procured by fraud.
- (3) That the evidence does not justify the findings of fact.
- (4) That the applicant has discovered new evidence, material to him, which he could not, with reasonable diligence, have discovered and produced at the hearing.
- (5) That the findings of fact do not support the order, decision or award.

(b) Nothing contained in this section shall, however, be construed to limit the grant of continuing jurisdiction contained in subsection (d) of section twenty of this act.

Grounds for rehearing of order not pertaining to compensation.

§ 66. (a) At any time within twenty days after the service of any final order, decision, rule or regulation, other than an order or award pertaining to compensation, any party or parties, person or persons aggrieved thereby or otherwise affected, directly or indirectly, may apply for such rehearing upon one or more of the following grounds and upon no other grounds:

- (1) That the commission acted without or in excess of its powers.
- (2) That the order or decision was procured by fraud.
- (3) That the order, decision, rule or regulation is unreasonable.

Right of commission to adopt new rules, etc.

(b) Nothing contained in this section shall be construed to limit the right of the commission, at any time and from time to time, to adopt new or different rules or regulations or new or different standards of safety, or to abrogate, change or modify any existing rule, regulation or standard, or any part thereof, or to deprive the commission of continuing jurisdiction over the same, or to prevent the enforcement in the manner provided by this act, of any rules, regulations or standards of the commission, or any part thereof when so adopted, or changed, or modified.

Application for writ of review.

§ 67. (a) Within thirty days after the application for a rehearing is denied, or, if the application is granted, within thirty days after the rendition of the decision on the rehearing, any party affected thereby may apply to the supreme court of this state, or to the district court of appeal of the appellate district in which such person resides, for a writ of certiorari or review, hereinafter referred to as a writ of review, for the purpose of having the lawfulness of the original order, rule, regulation, decision or award, or the order, rule, regulation, decision or award on rehearing inquired into and determined.

Record of commission.

(b) Such writ shall be made returnable not later than thirty days after the date of the issuance thereof, and shall direct the commission to certify its record in the case to the court. On the return day the cause shall be heard in the court unless for good cause the same be continued. No new or additional evidence may be introduced in such court, but the cause shall be heard on the record of the commission as certified to by it. The review shall not be extended further than to determine whether:

- (1) The commission acted without or in excess of its powers.
- (2) The order, decision or award was procured by fraud.
- (3) The order, decision, rule or regulation was unreasonable.
- (4) If findings of fact are made, such findings of fact support the order, decision or award under review.

Judgment of court.

(c) The findings and conclusions of the commission on questions of fact shall be conclusive and final and shall not be subject to review; such questions of fact shall include ultimate facts and the findings and conclusions of the commission. The commission and each party to the action or proceeding before the commission shall have the right to appear in the review proceeding. Upon the hearing the court shall enter judgment either affirming or setting aside the order, decision or award or may remand the case for further proceedings before the commission.

Jurisdiction of courts limited.

(d) The provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure of this state relating to writs of review shall, so far as applicable and not in conflict with this act, apply to proceedings in the courts under the provisions of this section. No court of this state, except the supreme court and the district courts of appeal to the extent herein specified, shall have jurisdiction to review, reverse, correct or annul any order, rule, regulation, decision or award of the commission, or to suspend or delay the operation or execution thereof, or to restrain, enjoin or interfere with the commission in the performance of its duties; provided, that a writ of mandamus shall lie from the supreme court or the district courts of appeal in all proper cases.

Order, etc., suspended by application for rehearing.

§ 68. (a) The filing of an application for a rehearing shall have the effect of suspending the order, decision, award, rule or regulation affected, in so far as the same applies to the parties to such application, unless otherwise ordered by the commission, for a period of ten days, and the commission may, in its discretion and upon such terms and conditions as it may by order direct, stay, suspend or postpone the same during the pendency of such rehearing.

Stay of order by court.

(b) The filing of an application for, or the pendency of, a writ of review, shall not of itself stay or suspend the operation of the order, decision, award, rule or regulation of the commission subject to review, but the court before which such application is filed may, in its discretion, stay or suspend in whole or in part the operation of the order, decision, award, rule or regulation of the commission subject to review, upon such terms and conditions as it may by order direct, except as provided in the following subsection.

Written undertaking by petitioner.

(c) The operation of any order or award entered by the commission under the provisions of sections six to thirty-one, inclusive, of this act, or any judgment entered thereon, shall not at any time be stayed by the court to which petition is made for a writ of review, unless a written undertaking be executed on the part of the petitioner by two or more sureties, to the effect that they are bound in double the amount named in such order, award or judgment; that if the order, award or judgment appealed from, or any part thereof, be affirmed, or the proceeding upon review be dismissed, the petitioner shall pay the amount directed to be paid by the order, award or judgment, or the part of such amount as to which the order, award or judgment is affirmed, if affirmed only in part, and all damages and costs which may be awarded against the petitioner; and that, if the said petitioner does not make such payment within thirty days after the filing with the commission of the remittitur from the reviewing court, judgment may be entered, on motion of the adverse party, in his favor, and to which the said undertaking may be transferred, in any superior court in which a certified copy of the order or award may be filed against the sureties for such amount, together with interest that may be due thereon, and the damages and costs which may be awarded against the said petitioner. The provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure, except in so far as they may be inconsistent with this act, are applicable to said undertaking. Such undertaking shall be filed with the commission, and the certificate of the commission, or any proper officer thereof, of the filing and approval of such undertaking, is sufficient evidence of the compliance of the petitioner with the provisions of this subsection.

Interpretation by court.

§ 69. (a) Whenever this act, or any part or section thereof, is interpreted by a court, it shall be liberally construed by such court with the purpose of extending the benefits of the act for the protection of persons injured in the course of their employment.

Constitutionality.

(b) If any section, subsection, subdivision, sentence, clause or phrase of this act is for any reason held to be unconstitutional, such decision shall not affect the validity of the remaining portions of this act. The legislature hereby declares that it would have passed this act, and each section, subsection, subdivision, sentence, clause or phrase thereof, irrespective of the fact that any one or more sections, subsections, subdivisions, sentences, clauses or phrases is declared unconstitutional.

Employers engaged in interstate commerce.

(c) This act shall not be construed to apply to employers or employments which, according to law, are so engaged in interstate commerce as not to be subject to the legislative power of the state, or to employees injured while they are so engaged, except in so far as this act may be permitted to apply under the provisions of the constitution of the United States or the acts of congress.

Other employers may come under provisions of act.

§ 70. (a) Any employer, having in his employment any employee not included within the term "employee" as defined by section eight of this act or not entitled to compensation under this act, and any such employee, may, by their joint election, elect to come under the compensation provisions of this act in the manner hereinafter provided.

(b) Such election on the part of the employer shall be made by filing with the commission a written statement to the effect that he accepts the compensation provisions of this act, which, when filed, shall operate, within the meaning of section six of this act, to subject him to the compensation provisions thereof, and of all acts amendatory thereof, for the term of one year from the date of filing, and thereafter without further act on his part, for successive terms of one year each, unless such employer shall, at least sixty days prior to the expiration of such first or succeeding year, file in the office of the commission a notice in writing that he withdraws his election. Such acceptance shall be held to include employees whose employment is both casual and not in the course of the trade, business, profession or occupation of the employer, unless expressly excluded therefrom. In case any employer is insured against liability for compensation under this act, he shall be deemed to have so elected during the period that such policy shall remain in force, without filing such written notice with the commission, as to all classes of employees covered by such policy of insurance, anything in this act to the contrary notwithstanding.

Other employers subject to compensation privileges when.

(c) Any employee in the service of any employer who has made an election in either of the modes above prescribed, shall be deemed to have accepted, and shall, within the meaning of section six of this act, be subject to the compensation provisions of this act, and of any act amendatory thereof, at the time of the injury for which liability is claimed:

(1) The employer charged with such liability is subject to the compensation provisions of this act, whether the employee has actual notice thereof or not; and

(2) Such employee shall not, at the time of entering into the employment, have given to his employer notice in writing that he elects not to be subject to the compensation provisions of this act; or, in the event that such employment was entered into in advance of the election by the employer, such employee shall have given to his employer notice in writing that he elects to be subject to such provisions, or without giving either of such notices, shall have remained in the service of such employer for five days after the employer has filed his election, in which case the time at which the employee becomes subject to said compensation provisions shall be deemed to be at the beginning of said period.

State employments.

(d) The state, and all political or other subdivisions thereof, as defined in section seven, and all state institutions, shall be conclusively presumed to have elected to come within the provisions of this act as to all employments otherwise excluded from this act.

Acceptance of act of 1913 continued.

(e) All written acceptances filed by employers with the commission prior to the taking effect of this act, accepting the provisions of the workmen's compensation, insurance and safety act, chapter one hundred seventy-six, statutes of 1913, and all acts amendatory thereof, shall, unless written notice be given to the contrary by said employer within sixty days after the taking effect of this act, be deemed acceptances of the provisions of this act, and all acts amendatory thereof, in accordance with the provisions of this section.

Repealed. Continued.

§ 71. Sections two, twelve, thirteen, fourteen, fifteen, sixteen, seventeen, eighteen, nineteen, twenty, twenty-one, twenty-two, twenty-three, twenty-four, twenty-five, twenty-six, twenty-seven, twenty-eight, twenty-nine, thirty, thirty-one, thirty-two, thirty-three, thirty-four, thirty-five, fifty-one, fifty-two, fifty-three, fifty-four, fifty-five, fifty-six, fifty-seven, fifty-eight, fifty-nine, sixty, sixty-one, sixty-two, sixty-three, sixty-four, sixty-five, sixty-six, sixty-seven, sixty-eight, sixty-nine, seventy, seventy-one, seventy-two, seventy-three, seventy-four, seventy-five, seventy-five a, seventy-six, seventy-seven, seventy-eight, seventy-nine, eighty, eighty-one, eighty-two, eighty-three, eighty-four, eighty-five, eighty-six and eighty-seven of chapter one hundred seventy-six, statutes of 1913, and all other acts and parts of acts inconsistent herewith, are hereby repealed; provided, that nothing contained in this act shall be construed as limiting or repealing sections one, three, four, five, six, seven, eight, nine, ten, eleven, thirty-six, thirty-seven, thirty-eight, thirty-nine, forty, forty-one, forty-two, forty-three, forty-four, forty-five, forty-six, forty-seven, forty-eight, forty-nine, fifty, eighty-eight and ninety of the said chapter one hundred seventy-six, statutes of 1913.
Gen. Laws—100

Proceedings, etc., under act of 1913 not disturbed.

§ 72. Nothing contained in this act shall be construed to limit, interfere with, disturb, or render ineffective in any degree, any matter, proceeding or transaction pending, done or performed under the provisions of chapter one hundred seventy-six, statutes of 1913, and all acts amendatory thereof, or supplementary thereto, by the industrial accident commission, or any department or division thereof, or to affect any right or liability accrued or accruing or to accrue under said acts, but each and every part thereof are hereby expressly saved and continued under the jurisdiction of said industrial accident commission, with full power, authority and jurisdiction, and with the right and duty in said industrial accident commission to fully administer and dispose of the same.

[Compensation provisions have no retroactive effect.]

§ 73. The compensation provisions of this act, except procedural provisions, shall not apply to any injury sustained prior to the taking effect hereof.

In effect when.

§ 74. This act shall take effect on the first day of January, 1918.

1. Roseberry act.—The general scheme of the workmen's compensation act of 1911 (Stats. 1911, p. 796) is constitutional, the provisions allowing awards for death benefits are valid, and the act authorizes awards for injuries received by mariners in navigable waters.—North Pacific S. S. Co. v. Industrial Acc. Com., 174 Cal. 500, 501, 163 Pac. 910.

2. Same — Not "class legislation."—The Roseberry act is not "class legislation" and not unconstitutional on that ground.—Bloxham v. Tehama, etc., Co., 29 Cal. App. 326, 155 Pac. 654.

3. Same—Jurisdiction of supreme court.—In the absence of some special constitutional authorization—and there was none such when the Roseberry act was passed—the constitutional jurisdiction of the supreme court could not be taken away or impaired by legislative act.—Great Western Power Co. v. Pillsbury, 170 Cal. 180, 182, 149 Pac. 35.

4. Same—Industrial accident commission validly constituted.—The industrial accident commission is a validly constituted commission empowered to apply the Roseberry act to cases arising before January 1, 1914.—Great Western Power Co. v. Pillsbury, 170 Cal. 180, 182, 149 Pac. 35.

5. Act of 1913—Not unconstitutional as to payment to aliens.—The workmen's compensation, insurance and safety act of 1913 is not unconstitutional because of a requirement as to payment to aliens.—Western Metal Supply Co. v. Pillsbury, 172 Cal. 407, 414, Ann. Cas. 1917E, 390, 156 Pac. 491.

6. Same—Not inimical to federal constitution.—The provisions in the workmen's compensation, insurance and safety act of 1913, relative to death benefits are not inimical to the federal constitution.—Western Metal Supply Co. v. Pillsbury, 172 Cal. 407, 414, Ann. Cas. 1917E, 390, 156 Pac. 491.

See, also, Kirkpatrick v. Industrial Accident Commission, 31 Cal. App. 668, 161 Pac. 274.

7. Same—Provision as to death benefits constitutional.—The provision for death benefits to dependents in the act of 1913, is constitutional.—Kirkpatrick v. Industrial Accident Commission, 31 Cal. App. 668, 161 Pac. 274.

See, also, Western, etc., Co. v. Pillsbury,

172 Cal. 407, Ann. Cas. 1917E, 390, 156 Pac. 491.

8. Same—Valid marriage immaterial to dependency.—The legislature had the right to make the requirement of a valid marriage inapplicable in determining the question of dependency.—Temescal Rock Company v. Industrial Accident Co., 180 Cal. 637, 182 Pac. 447; (Rodriguez v. Temescal Rock Company, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 202.)

9. Object of constitutional amendment.—The object and purpose of section 21, article 20, of the constitution, was to establish the authority of the legislature to pass laws making the relation of employer and employee subject to a system of rights and disabilities different from those prevailing at the common law, and it is to be given a reasonable interpretation.—Western Metal Supply Co. v. Pillsbury, (Cal.) 3 I. A. C. Dec. 109 (Mason v. Western, etc., Co., 1 I. A. C. Dec. 284).

10. Same—Discrimination as to burial expenses.—The legislature had power to make a discrimination in allowing burial expenses in cases of partial dependency and not in cases of total dependency, and the provisions of the act in that respect are not invalid.—Northern, etc., Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 34 Cal. App. 2, 166 Pac. 828.

11. Same—"Due process."—The act of 1913 is held not violative of the "due process" and "equal protection" clauses of the federal constitution, and to be a valid exercise of the police power.—Western Indemnity Co. v. Pillsbury, 170 Cal. 686, 701, 151 Pac. 398.

12. Same—Same—Employer's freedom from liability not a property right.—Freedom from liability on the part of an employer who has been guilty of no fault is not a fundamental property right.—Western Indemnity Co. v. Pillsbury, 170 Cal. 686, 696, 151 Pac. 398.

13. Same—Same—Change of existing rules as to master's liability.—A law which disturbs no vested right of property, which is not retroactive in its operation upon the conduct of persons, but which, looking to the future merely changes the existing rules governing the liability of masters for injuries caused by accidents occurring to their servants while in the service, does not come within the scope of the fourteenth amendment.—Western Indemnity Co. v. Pillsbury, 170 Cal. 686, 698, 151 Pac. 398.

14. Same—"Classification."—The classification of the legislature in excluding certain kinds of employees from the benefit of the act is held to be reasonable, and not arbitrary.—Western Indemnity Co. v. Pillsbury, 170 Cal. 686, 702, 151 Pac. 398.

15. Same—Same—Exception from benefits of certain classes.—The exception of casual, farm, and other employees from the benefit of the act does not make the Boynton act special legislation, and does not invalidate the act as a non-compliance with the provisions of section 21, article XX, of the constitution.—Western Indemnity Co. v.

Pillsbury, 170 Cal. 686, 701, 702, 151 Pac. 398.

16. Same—Extra hazardous occupations.—The fact that the act is not limited in its application to extra hazardous occupations is immaterial so far as concerns the fourteenth amendment.—Western Indemnity Co. v. Pillsbury, 170 Cal. 686, 699, 151 Pac. 398.

17. Same—Legislative power to create new liability.—Section 21, article XX, of the constitution measures and limits the power to create a new liability arising out of the relations of employer and employee and a tribunal to settle disputes arising out of such to be created liability.—Pacific Coast Casualty Co. v. Pillsbury, 171 Cal. 319, 322, 153 Pac. 24.

18. Same—Legislative power—Injuries outside of employment.—If the provisions of paragraph (e) of section 16 of the act constitute an exception to the rule of compensation which exclude all other exceptions, and authorize the commission to award compensation for subsequent injuries not occurring during the employment, it is beyond the authority given the legislature by the constitution, and that paragraph must be construed so as to have no effect whatever upon the question of compensation for such injuries that do not occur during the employment, except when the complication named arises.—Pacific Coast Casualty Co. v. Pillsbury, 171 Cal. 319, 324, 153 Pac. 24.

18a. Same—Same—Settlement of disputes arising under the constitutional provision only.—The legislature is empowered to provide for the settlement of disputes only which are contemplated by section 21, article XX, of the constitution.—Western Metal Supply Co. v. Pillsbury, 172 Cal. 407, 156 Pac. 491; Carstens v. Pillsbury, 172 Cal. 572, 158 Pac. 218.

18b. Section 25 of the act of 1917 is unconstitutional in so far as it attempts to authorize the commission to award compensation against a third person not an employer.—Perry v. Industrial Accident Commission, 180 Cal. 497, 181 Pac. 788, 789; Pacific Gas and Electric Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 180 Cal. 497, 180 Pac. 788, 789; Kendall v. Perry, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 167.

19. Same—Same—Settlement of disputes other than those between employer and employee.—The legislature can not empower the commission to settle disputes and allow compensation from an employer to a person who has been or is an employee, for a personal injury which was not incurred by him "in the course of" his employment, or which happened after the employment had ceased and was not the natural and proximate result of the employment, or of some injury which did occur in the course of his employment.—Pacific Coast Casualty Co. v. Pillsbury, 171 Cal. 319, 322, 153 Pac. 24.

19a. The provisions of section 21, article XX, of the constitution, grants the power to confer judicial power upon the commission "to create and enforce a liability on the part of all employers" only, and this does not include the power to create and enforce the liability of any person not an employer.—Carstens v. Pillsbury, 172 Cal. 572, 158 Pac. 218.

19b. The amendment of section 21, article XX, of the constitution, does not ratify the legislation in section 30 of the act of 1913, which was held unconstitutional in Carstens v. Pillsbury, 172 Cal. 572, 158 Pac. 218; Perry v. Industrial Accident Commission, 180 Cal. 497, 181 Pac. 788, 789; Pacific Gas and Electric Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 180 Cal. 497, 181 Pac. 788, 789. (Kendall v. Perry, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 167.)

20. Same—Legislative power to vest commission with judicial functions.—The power to determine the existence of a right to an award and to fix the amount thereof is a judicial power which, in view of section 1, article VI, of the constitution, in the absence of a special enabling provision of the constitution, the legislature can not vest in the commission in the absence of a special enabling provision therefor, and such provision is found in section 21, article XX, of the constitution.—Western Metal Supply Co. v. Pillsbury, 172 Cal. 407, 410, Ann. Cas. 1917E, 390, 156 Pac. 491, 3 I. A. C. Dec. 109 (Mason v. Western Metal, etc., Co., 1 I. A. C. Dec. 284).

21. Same—Power of legislature to provide for death benefits.—Independently of section 21, article XX, of the constitution, the commission has no power to make an award against an employer in favor of the dependents of a deceased employee, where death is the result of accident.—Western Metal Supply Co. v. Pillsbury, 172 Cal. 407, 410, Ann. Cas. 1917E, 390, 156 Pac. 491, 3 I. A. C. Dec. 109 (Mason v. Western Metal, etc., Co., 1 I. A. C. Dec. 284).

21. Same—Subsection 17 (a) (3).—Subsection 17 (a) (3) of the act of 1913 as amended in 1915 is not unconstitutional as a grant of legislative power to the industrial accident commission in permitting such body to fix the multiplier in computing annual earnings, but is a grant of judicial power.—City of Los Angeles v. Industrial Accident Commission, 25 Cal. App. Dec. 100, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 227.

22. Same—Hearsay testimony.—The provisions of section 77 (a) of the act of 1913 as amended in 1915, permitting hearsay testimony of statements made by a deceased employee relating directly to his injury, are constitutional.—Western Indemnity Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 174 Cal. 315, 163 Pac. 60, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 39.

23. Act of 1917—Increase of compensation for serious and wilful misconduct of employer.—The provisions of section 6b of the act for the increase of compensation by one-half where the injury was caused by the serious and wilful misconduct of the employer are constitutional.—Horst Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, (Cal.) 193 Cal. 105.

24. Same—Sections 25 and 58 not violative of federal or state constitution.—Section 58 of the act is not violative of section 10, of article I, section 2, of article IV, or section 1, of article XIV, of the amendments of the federal constitution, and section 25 of the act is not violative of section 21, of article XX, of the constitution of California.—Owe Ming v. Alaska Packers Association, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 67. Award in this case annulled by the supreme court on ground of unconstitutionality of section 58 (?).

25. Same—Section 30—Liability of third persons.—Under the constitution the legislature has no power to confer judicial authority to inquire into, determine and enforce liability under section 30, workmen's compensation, insurance and safety act, in favor of an employee against persons other than his immediate employee.—Thaxter v. Finn, 178 Cal. 270, 272, 173 Pac. 163.

26. Same—Extra-territorial operation.—The legislature has power to provide for the creation of a compulsory obligation to compensate for an injury suffered elsewhere as an incident of a contract of employment entered into in this state, whether the contracting employee be a citizen of this state or not.—Quong Ham Wah Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission (Cal.), 6 I. A. C. Dec. 248 (Owe Ming v. Alaska Packers Association, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 67).

27. Section 58 of the act of 1917 is unconstitutional.—Quong Ham Wah Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission (Cal.), 6 I. A. C. Dec. 248 (Owe Ming v. Alaska Packers Association, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 67).

28. Inasmuch as a non-resident, under the act has no standing before the commission or before any California court, to make a claim for compensation under the act, no member of the class discriminated against in section 58 of the act can ever raise the constitutional question, and, therefore, any person whose rights are directly affected thereby may assail its constitutionality.—Quong Ham Wah Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 59 Cal. Dec. 18, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 248 (Owe Ming v. Alaska etc., 6 I. A. C. Dec. 67).

Affirmed on rehearing as to right of employer to raise constitutional question.—Quong Ham Wah Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission (Cal.), 192 Pac. 1021.

29. The fact that a person's own rights are directly affected entitles him to attack the constitutionality of the act.—Quong Ham Wah Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission (Cal.), 6 I. A. C. Dec. 248 (Owe Ming v. Alaska Packers Association, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 67).

But see Estabrook Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 177 Cal. 767, 769, 177 Pac. 848.

30. Section 58 of the act of 1917 so far as it attempts to provide a substantial privilege as an incident to a contract of employment in this state to citizens of this state, and that such privilege shall not be incident to identical contracts entered into in this state by citizens of other states, is in contravention of the equal privileges and immunities clause of the federal constitution.—Quong Ham Wah Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission (Cal.) 192 Pac. 1021.

32. Section 58 of the act of 1917 is not invalid because in contravention of the equal privileges and immunities clause of the constitution of the United States, but the effect of that clause is merely to extend the operation of that section so as to give the residents of other states the same privileges, without regard to the intent of the legislature.—Quong Ham Wah Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission (Cal.), 192 Pac. 1021.

33. Same—Imposes charge on industry not on individual.—The act is constitutional only because it imposes a charge upon the branch of industry and not upon the individual employer, and gives the latter an opportunity to protect himself by insurance.—Miller & Lux, Inc., v. Industrial Accident Commission, 179 Cal. 764, 7 A. L. R. 1191, 178 Pac. 960, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 34.

34. Same—Section 8b—Definition of "independent contractor."—The effect of the definition of "independent contractor," as given in section 8(b) of the act of 1917, is to restrict that term and enlarge correspondingly the meaning of the term "employee," and to extend the jurisdiction of the commission beyond the limits of the original constitutional grant of section 21, article XX, of the constitution.—Flickenger v. Industrial Accident Commission, 58 Cal. Dec. 374, 184 Pac. 851, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 169 (Reeves v. Flickenger, 5 Cal. App. Dec. 127, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 173, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 11).

35. Same—Same—"Employers," "employees," "employment."—The terms "employers," "employees," and "employment," as used in the 1911 amendment to section 21, article XX, of the constitution, must be construed in the light of their meaning at the time of the adoption of that amendment, and can not be extended by legislative definition.—Flickenger v. Industrial Accident Commission, 58 Cal. Dec. 374, 185 Pac. 851, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 169 (Reeves v. Flickenger, 28 Cal. App. Dec. 127, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 173, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 11).

36. Same—Same.—The amendment of November 5, 1918, of section 21, article XX, of the constitution, did not validate section 8 (b) of the act.—Simpson v. Decker, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 216.

II. ROSEBERRY ACT.

37-39. Requires election of both employer and employee.

40. State not liable.

41. State not liable as an employer.

41a. No right of action against a municipality.

42. Liability of employer—Negligence of physician.

43. Act compensates injury in course of employment.

44. Injury while performing, under employer's order, services outside employment.

45, 46. Assumption of risk abolished.

47. Same—Not a defense.

48-49a. Employee no longer assumes known hazard.

50. Assumption of risk presupposes employer's negligence.

51. Same—Negligence of employer not shown.

52. Defenses of assumption of risk and fellow servant's negligence not available.

53. Negligence of fellow servant is negligence of employer.

54. Employer responsible for negligence of fellow servant and unsafe place of employment.

55. Employer liable where injured employee had direction and control of negligent co-employee.

56, 56a. Contributory negligence does not bar recovery.

57-59. Same—Where employee's negligence slight and employer's gross by comparison.

60. Same—Same—Diminish damages proportionately.

61. Same—Defense not destroyed by the act.

62. Question of proportionate negligence for the jury.

63. Instruction as to definition of gross negligence.

64. Instruction as to law of proportionate negligence.

65. Contributory negligence without fault of employer.

66. Contributory negligence—Slight negligence of employer.

67. Contributory negligence—Violation of statute—Conclusive presumption.

68, 69. Same—Violation of statute proximate cause of injury.

37. Requires election of both employer and employee.—The application of the employees' liability act of 1911, depends upon the election of both employer and employee.—Miller v. Pillsbury, 164 Cal. 199, 203, Ann. Cas. 1914B, 886, 128 Pac. 327.

38. The Roseberry act (Stats. 1911, p. 796) is elective or optional, and requires both parties to a contract of employment to elect to come under the act.—Miller v. Pillsbury, 164 Cal. 199, Ann. Cas. 1914B, 886, 128 Pac. 327.

39. The Roseberry act made application to the system of compensation for accidental injuries adopted by it, elective.—Great Western Power Co. v. Pillsbury, 170 Cal. 180, 183, 149 Pac. 35.

40. State not liable.—A sovereign state can not be required to compensate employees for injuries received in its service, and no right of recovery against it for such injuries, in the absence of statute.—Miller v. Pillsbury, 164 Cal. 199, Ann. Cas. 1914B, 886, 128 Pac. 327.

41. State not liable as employer.—The state of California is not an employer within the meaning of the employer's liability act of 1911, and is not bound by the provisions of section 4 thereof to make compensation to an employee for personal injuries.—Miller v. Pillsbury, 164 Cal. 199, 201, Ann. Cas. 1914B, 886, 128 Pac. 327.

41a. No right of action against a municipality.—No right of action is given by the act of 1911 (1115) against a municipality for a personal injury except where the officer charged with the duty of repairing a street should be innocent of knowledge or notice of the condition of the street from which the accident became possible.—Coffey v. City of Berkeley, 170 Cal. 258, 262, 149 Pac. 559.

42. Liability of employer—Negligence of physician.—The liability of an employer, under the Roseberry act and at common law, for the negligence of a physician engaged by him to treat his employee is secondary, and depends upon the showing of negligence on the part of the physician.—Foreman v. Hunter Lumber Co., 36 Cal. App. 763, 173 Pac. 408.

43. Act compensates injury in course of employment.—When the Roseberry act limits its protection to an employee who shall sustain injury "while engaged in the line of his duty or in the course of his employment as such" it means no more than to deny the right to invoke the act to one who, during the hours of his employment, is engaged in some undertaking which is not a part of his duty under his employment, as where he occupied in affairs of his own, or where he undertakes something not in the course of his duty, as a mere volunteer.—Burian v. Los Angeles Cafe Co., 173 Cal. 625, 628, 161 Pac. 4.

44. Injury while performing, under employer's order, services outside employment.—Where an employee was performing services imposed upon him by his employer under circumstances moving him to undertake them, he is entitled to the remedial provisions of the Roseberry act, although such services were outside the duties of his usual vocation and employment.—Burian v. Los Angeles Cafe Co., 173 Cal. 625, 627, 161 Pac. 4.

45. Assumption of risk abolished.—The provision of section 1 of the employer's liability act of 1911 (Stats. 1911, p. 796), abolishing the doctrine of assumption of risk, applies to all actions based on the negligence of the employer brought by an employee, irrespective of whether the parties elected to come under the act or not.—Hughes v. Warman Steel Casting Co., 174 Cal. 556, 565, 163 Pac. 885.

46. Under the Roseberry act the assumption of risk of a known hazard is not a defense to a claim for damages for personal injuries by an employee against an employer.—Earl v. San Francisco Bridge Co., 31 Cal. App. 339, 160 Pac. 570; Reynolds v. E. Clemens Horst Co., 35 Cal. App. 711, 170 Pac. 1082.

47. Same—Not a defense.—A right of action for the death of a mining employee can not, in view of the employer's liability act of 1911, be defeated on the ground of employee's assumption of risk.—Crabbe v. Mammoth, etc., Co., 168 Cal. 500, 502, 143 Pac. 714.

48. Employee no longer assumes known hazard.—Where an employee's work required him to pass over boards temporarily laid for construction work and not for use as a platform or place for the workmen to walk, in using such boards for purposes of passing he did not, since the enactment of the Roseberry act, assume the risk of their unsafe condition.—Morrill v. Stone & Webster, etc., Co., 177 Cal. 199, 170 Pac. 405.

49. An employee did not, under the Roseberry act, assume the risk arising from the dangers of the place in which he was at work.—Nolen v. F. O. Engstrom Co., 175 Cal. 464, 166 Pac. 346.

49a. In an action by a fireman against a railroad company for injuries caused by a permanent signboard maintained by the company so close to the track as to strike the plaintiff while performing service on a passing engine, it was proper, under the Roseberry act (1911-796) to give an instruction that the fireman did not assume the risk of the unsafe position of the sign unless he fully understood, comprehended and appreciated the dangers incident thereto.—Humphres v. Western Pacific Ry. Co., 173 Cal. 428, 430, 160 Pac. 415.

50. Assumption of risk presupposes employer's negligence.—Assumption of risk by an employee presupposes and must be based upon some act of negligence on the part of the employer.—Burian v. Los Angeles Cafe Co., 173 Cal. 625, 628, 161 Pac. 4.

51. Same—Negligence of employer not shown.—An employer restaurant owner is not guilty of negligence in directing a minor employed by him as a waiter, doing the work and getting the wages of an adult, to carry a hundred and fifty pound box, without giving him assistance or warning him of the danger of injury in doing so.—Burian v. Los Angeles Cafe Co., 173 Cal. 625, 629, 161 Pac. 4.

52. Defenses of assumption of risk and fellow servant's negligence not available.—The defenses of assumption of risk and negligence of a fellow servant were not available to a defendant employer under the employer's liability act of 1911 (Stats. 1911, p. 796).—Scherer v. Danziger, 178 Cal. 253, 255, 173 Pac. 85.

53. Negligence of fellow servant is negligence of employer.—In view of the employer's liability act (1911-796) negligence of fellow servant is the negligence of the employer, and not a defense in action by an employee for personal injuries.—Scott v. McPherson, 168 Cal. 783, 785, 145 Pac. 529.

54. Employer responsible for negligence of fellow servant and unsafe place of employment.—Under the act of 1911 (796), an employer is responsible for an injury to an employee resulting from the negligence of a co-employee, and for all dangers arising from the employment itself and the place where it was carried on.—Lassen v. Southern Pacific Co., 173 Cal. 71, 72, 159 Pac. 143.

55. Employer liable where injured employee had direction and control of negligent co-employee.—Under the Roseberry act, abolishing the fellow servant defense, an employer is liable for injury resulting from the negligence of a fellow servant, notwithstanding the fact that the injured employee had the direction and control of his culpable fellow employee.—Gibson v. Kennedy, etc., Co., 172 Cal. 294, 302, 156 Pac. 56.

56. Contributory negligence does not bar recovery.—An employee's right of action was not destroyed by the fact of contributory negligence, under the employer's liability act of 1911 (Stats. 1911, p. 796).—Scherer v. Danziger, 178 Cal. 253, 255, 173 Pac. 85.

56a. Under the act of 1911 (796) the contributory negligence of an employee does not bar recovery against his employer for an injury caused by the latter's or a co-employee's negligence, if it was slight and that of the employer or co-employee was gross by comparison, but the jury may diminish the amount of the recovery in proportion to the negligence charged to him.—Lassen v. Southern Pacific Co., 173 Cal. 71, 73, 159 Pac. 143.

57. Same—Where employee's negligence slight and employer's gross by comparison.—Under the Roseberry act contributory negligence does not bar a recovery where it is slight and that of the employer gross by comparison, but the damages may be diminished by such contributory negligence.—Tubbs v. Stone & Webster, etc., Co., 30 Cal. App. 705, 159 Pac. 242; Gideon v. Howard, 33 Cal. App. 5, 164 Pac. 11; Lincoln v. Pacific Electric Ry. Co., 33 Cal. App. 83, 91, 164 Pac. 412; West v. Jesse A. Linney & Co., 33 Cal. App. 164, 164 Pac. 608.

58. Where an employee's contributory negligence was slight and his employer's gross by comparison, his right of recovery is not barred completely, under the Roseberry act.—Cozad v. Raisch Improvement Co., 175 Cal. 619, 166 Pac. 1000.

59. Under the employer's liability act of 1911 (Stats. 1911, p. 796) an employee was entitled to recover, even though guilty of contributory negligence, if such contributory negligence was slight and that of the employer gross by comparison.—Scherer v. Danziger, 178 Cal. 253, 256, 173 Pac. 85.

60. Same—Same—Diminish damages proportionately.—Under employer's liability act of 1911 (Stats. 1911, p. 796) an employee could recover notwithstanding his contributory negligence, the jury being permitted to diminish the damages "in proportion to the amount of negligence attributable to such employee."—Scherer v. Danziger, 178 Cal. 253, 256, 173 Pac. 85.

61. Same—Defense not destroyed by the act.—The defense of contributory negligence was not destroyed by the Roseberry act, but on the contrary the act clearly recognizes such defense.—Schuh v. R. H. Herron Co., 177 Cal. 13, 19, 169 Pac. 682.

62. Question of proportionate negligence for the jury.—The question whether a plaintiff employee was guilty of such gross negligence as to bar him from recovery under the Roseberry act (Stats. 1911, p. 796), in view of the evidence as his inexperience and disregard of directions of his superior, was a question for the jury.—McGuire v. Miller & Lux, 178 Cal. 644, 645, 174 Pac. 898.

63. Instruction as to definition of "gross negligence."—It was not error in an instruction on the law of contributory negligence, as qualified by the Roseberry act, to omit a definition of "gross" negligence, in the absence of a request for a more definite instruction.—Bruce v. Western, etc., Co., 177 Cal. 25, 169 Pac. 660.

64. Instruction as to law of proportionate negligence.—It is proper, under the Roseberry act (1911-796) to instruct a jury in an action by an employee against an employer, to the effect that plaintiff's contributory negligence, if any, shall not bar a recovery where such contributory negligence was slight and that of the employer gross by comparison, but that the damages might be diminished by the jury in proportion to the amount of negligence attributable to such employee.—Humphres v. Western Pacific Ry. Co., 173 Cal. 428, 436, 160 Pac. 415.

65. Contributory negligence without fault of employer.—The Roseberry act does not impose liability on an employer for injury to an employee due solely to the latter's own negligence and without the fault of the former.—Spivok v. Independent Sash and Door Co., 173 Cal. 438, 440, 160 Pac. 565.

66. Contributory negligence—Slight negligence of employer.—The provisions of the Roseberry act have no application to a case where, if the employer was guilty of negligence at all it was extremely slight as compared with the very gross negligence of the employee.—Hontz v. San Pedro, etc., Co., 173 Cal. 750, 759, 161 Pac. 971.

67. Contributory negligence — Violation of statute—Conclusive presumption of negligence.—In view of the provisions of the Roseberry act declaring that it is to be conclusively presumed that an employee was not guilty of contributory negligence in any case where the employer's violation of any statute for the safety of his employees contributed to the injury, the refusal of all instructions based on contributory negligence was proper under the facts of the present case.—Frinier v. C. J. Kubach Co., 177 Cal. 722, 171 Pac. 952.

68. Same—Violation of statute proximate cause of injury.—Where the presumption declared by the Roseberry act to be conclusive rests upon the violation of a statute regulating the hours of labor of minors, it must be shown not only that the employee was working during the forbidden hours, but also that that fact contributed proximately to the injury.—Williams v. Southern Pacific Co., 173 Cal. 525, 533, 160 Pac. 660.

69. To warrant the presumption contained in the Roseberry act not only must the injury be shown, but it must also be shown that the employer's violation of a statute for the safety of employees contributed to the injury.—Williams v. Southern Pacific Co., 173 Cal. 525, 533, 160 Pac. 660.

III. CONSTRUCTION OF ACT.

70. State laws superseded by federal act in interstate commerce.—All state laws upon the subject of employer's liability for his employees' injuries are superseded by the federal act, so far as relates to persons employed in interstate commerce, and the California commission has no jurisdiction to make an award to any one so employed.—Smith v. Industrial Accident Commission, 26 Cal. App. 560, 147 Pac. 600.
71. Strict construction not to be given.—The aim of section 21, article XX, of the constitution, is to enlarge the power of the legislature, or to remove doubts upon its power to legislate on a given subject and the courts are not to give it too strict and literal an interpretation.—Western Metal Supply Co. v. Pillsbury, 172 Cal. 407, 414, Ann. Cas. 1917E, 390, 156 Pac. 491.
72. New system of law of master and servant.—Section 21, article XX, of the constitution was designed to empower the
73. Commission vested with judicial power to determine liability of employer.—Section 21, article XX, of the constitution, authorizes the legislature to create and enforce a liability on the part of an employee for an award to the dependents of a deceased employee where death resulted from accident and was authorized thereunder to vest in the commission the judicial power to determine such liability.—Western Metal Supply Co. v. Pillsbury, 172 Cal. 407, 410, Ann. Cas. 1917E, 390, 156 Pac. 491.
74. Statute adopted from another state—Rule of construction.—The rule that when a statute is adopted and re-enacted from another state, it is so adopted and re-enacted in consonance with the judicial construction given it in the courts of the state of its origin, applies to the clauses of the workmen's compensation act of California taken literally from the workmen's compensation act of England.—Ocean, etc., Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 173 Cal. 313, 317, L. R. A. 1917B, 336, 159 Pac. 1041.
75. Law operates on status.—This law operates upon the status of employer and employee, and affixes certain rights and obligations to that status.—North Alaska Salmon Co. v. Pillsbury, 174 Cal. 1, 2, L. R. A. 1917E, 642, 162 Pac. 93.
76. Relations depend upon the statute not on contract.—The relation of employer and employee has its inception in a contract, but once the relation is created, its incidents depend not upon the agreement of the parties, but upon the provisions of the workmen's compensation act.—North Alaska Salmon Co. v. Pillsbury, 174 Cal. 1, 2, L. R. A. 1917E, 642, 162 Pac. 93.
77. Liability of employer arises from act not from contract.—The liability of an employer to pay compensation to his injured employee, under this act, arises from the act itself and not from any agreement of the parties.—North Alaska Salmon Co. v. Pillsbury, 174 Cal. 1, 2, L. R. A. 1917E, 642, 162 Pac. 93.
78. Act is compulsory and is not dependent on election and consent of parties.—Under a compulsory statute, such as the California workmen's compensation act, the correlative rights and obligations of the employer and employee are not founded upon contract, as in the case of statutes whose compensation provisions are dependent upon the election and consent of the parties.—North Alaska Salmon Co. v. Pillsbury, 174 Cal. 1, 3, L. R. A. 1917E, 642, 162 Pac. 93.
79. Section 75—Nature and extent of proof.—If the effect of section 75 of the act is to confer upon the commission power to enact laws prescribing the nature and extent of proof necessary to justify an award, it would be a delegation of power which the Statute adopted from another state—Rule of construction.—The rule that when a statute is adopted and re-enacted from another state, it is so adopted and re-enacted in consonance with the judicial construction given it in the courts of the state of its origin, applies to the clauses of the workmen's compensation act of California taken literally from the workmen's compensation act of England.—Ocean, etc., Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 173 Cal. 313, 317, L. R. A. 1917B, 336, 159 Pac. 1041.

75. Law operates on status.—This law operates upon the status of employer and employee, and affixes certain rights and obligations to that status.—North Alaska Salmon Co. v. Pillsbury, 174 Cal. 1, 2, L. R. A. 1917E, 642, 162 Pac. 93.
76. Relations depend upon the statute not on contract.—The relation of employer and employee has its inception in a contract, but once the relation is created, its incidents depend not upon the agreement of the parties, but upon the provisions of the workmen's compensation act.—North Alaska Salmon Co. v. Pillsbury, 174 Cal. 1, 2, L. R. A. 1917E, 642, 162 Pac. 93.
77. Liability of employer arises from act not from contract.—The liability of an employer to pay compensation to his injured employee, under this act, arises from the act itself and not from any agreement of the parties.—North Alaska Salmon Co. v. Pillsbury, 174 Cal. 1, 2, L. R. A. 1917E, 642, 162 Pac. 93.
78. Act is compulsory and is not dependent on election and consent of parties.—Under a compulsory statute, such as the California workmen's compensation act, the correlative rights and obligations of the employer and employee are not founded upon contract, as in the case of statutes whose compensation provisions are dependent upon the election and consent of the parties.—North Alaska Salmon Co. v. Pillsbury, 174 Cal. 1, 3, L. R. A. 1917E, 642, 162 Pac. 93.
79. Section 75—Nature and extent of proof.—If the effect of section 75 of the act is to confer upon the commission power to enact laws prescribing the nature and extent of proof necessary to justify an award, it would be a delegation of power which the legislature to establish a system of law making the relations of master and servant subject to new rights and liabilities different from those at common law.—Western Metal Supply Co. v. Pillsbury, 172 Cal. 407, 414, Ann. Cas. 1917E, 390, 156 Pac. 491.

73. Commission vested with judicial power to determine liability of employer.—Section 21, article XX, of the constitution, authorizes the legislature to create and enforce a liability on the part of an employee for an award to the dependents of a deceased employee where death resulted from accident and was authorized thereunder to vest in the commission the judicial power to determine such liability.—*Western Metal Supply Co. v. 75. Law operates on status.—This law operates upon the status of employer and employee, and affixes certain rights and obligations to that status.—North Alaska Salmon Co. v. Pillsbury, 174 Cal. 1, 2, L. R. A. 1917E, 642, 162 Pac. 93.

76. Relations depend upon the statute not on contract.—The relation of employer and employee has its inception in a contract, but once the relation is created, its incidents depend not upon the agreement of the parties, but upon the provisions of the workmen's compensation act.—North Alaska Salmon Co. v. Pillsbury, 174 Cal. 1, 2, L. R. A. 1917E, 642, 162 Pac. 93.

77. Liability of employer arises from act not from contract.—The liability of an employer to pay compensation to his injured employee, under this act, arises from the act itself and not from any agreement of the parties.—North Alaska Salmon Co. v. Pillsbury, 174 Cal. 1, 2, L. R. A. 1917E, 642, 162 Pac. 93.

78. Act is compulsory and is not dependent on election and consent of parties.—Under a compulsory statute, such as the California workmen's compensation act, the correlative rights and obligations of the employer and employee are not founded upon contract, as in the case of statutes whose compensation provisions are dependent upon the election and consent of the parties.—North Alaska Salmon Co. v. Pillsbury, 174 Cal. 1, 3, L. R. A. 1917E, 642, 162 Pac. 93.

79. Section 75—Nature and extent of proof.—If the effect of section 75 of the act is to confer upon the commission power to enact laws prescribing the nature and extent of proof necessary to justify an award, it would be a delegation of power which the legislature is not authorized, under section 21, article XX, of the constitution, to make.—Englebreton v. Industrial Accident Commission, 170 Cal. 793, 797, 151 Pac. 421.

80. Fault or negligence of employer necessary.—Some fault or negligence on the part of the employer proximately causing the injury was essential to recovery in an action by employee against employer for personal injuries prior to the act of 1913 (1913-279).—Bracquee v. Mottet Co., 175 Cal. 258, 259, 165 Pac. 696.

81. Commission exercises judicial functions.—In awarding compensation under the act the commission exercises judicial functions.—Carstens v. Pillsbury, 172 Cal. 572, 158 Pac. 218.

See, also, Western Metal Supply Co. v. Pillsbury, 172 Cal. 407, 156 Pac. 491; Pacific Coast Casualty Co. v. Pillsbury, 171 Cal. 319, 153 Pac. 26.

82. Award against third person not authorized.—The commission is not empowered to make an award of compensation against the owner of a building in favor of an injured employee of the independent contractor who is erecting the same, or of a sub-contractor to whom such independent contractor has let the erection of a portion of the same.—Carstens v. Pillsbury, 172 Cal. 572, 158 Pac. 218.

83. Taking evidence secretly.—"Due process."—No power is given to the commission to take evidence secretly, and if it were given it would be in violation of the "due process" clause of the federal constitution.—Carstens v. Pillsbury, 172 Cal. 572, 158 Pac. 218.

84. Section 24—Read and construed as entirety.—Section 24 must be read and construed as an entirety and in the light of the rule that an unconstitutional construction should not be given, if another meaning is reasonably discoverable from the language.—Mesmer & Rice v. Industrial Accident Commission, 26 Cal. App. Dec. 220, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 22 (Wilson v. Mesmer & Rice, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 139).

85. Comparative negligence ignored—Roseberry act repealed.—In an action for damages for death of an employee, against an employer, where the cause of action arose March 4, 1914, an instruction which ignored the "comparative negligence" provisions of the Roseberry act, was not for that reason erroneous, in view of the fact that that act was repealed by the act of 1913 to take effect January 1, 1914.—Brown v. Lemon Cove Ditch Co., 36 Cal. App. 94, 171 Pac. 705.

86. Repeal of Roseberry act—Intent as to inclusion of county officers.—The fact that the act of 1911 (p. 797, § 6) expressly excluded elected or appointed officers of a county, and the act of 1913, did not, is not sufficient to show a legislative intent to include such officers in the later act.—Mono Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 175 Cal. 752, 755, 167 Pac. 377.

87. Compensation for disease authorized.—The act of 1917 authorizes an award of compensation for disease, provided the other conditions of the act are met, and is not for that reason unconstitutional.—San Francisco v. Industrial Accident Commission (Cal.), 191 Pac. 26; Engels, etc., Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission (Cal.), 192 Pac. 845.

88. Accident injury — "Accident."—The word "accident" in section 12 of the Boynton act is to be construed as popularly understood, to referred to unexpected and unintentional injuries sustained by employees.—Fidelity & Cas. Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 177 Cal. 614, 616, L. R. A. 1918F, 856, 171 Pac. 429.

89. Same—Assault may be accidental.—The fact that an injury was the result of a wilful or criminal assault does not exclude the possibility that it was accidental.—Western Indemnity Co. v. Pillsbury, 170 Cal. 686, 705, 151 Pac. 398.

90. An injury may be accidental, even though it be intentionally inflicted by a third person.—Western Metal Supply Co. v. Pillsbury, 172 Cal. 407, 418, Ann. Cas. 1917E, 390, 156 Pac. 491, 3 I. A. C. Dec. 109 (Mason v. Western, etc., Co., 1 I. A. C. Dec. 284).

91. Same—Killing of night watchman.—The death of a night watchman killed while on the premises he was employed to watch, under circumstances tending to show that he was killed in the performance of his duty, is held to be death from accident within the meaning of the act.—Western, etc., Co. v. Pillsbury, 173 Cal. 135, 141, 159 Pac. 423, 3 I. A. C. Dec. 109 (Mason v. Western, etc., Co., 1 I. A. C. Dec. 284).

92. Same—Injury from use of wood alcohol.—A show card writer, while using wood alcohol to clean apparatus used in making special dyes, had his vision impaired by the exposure of the optic nerve to the vapor of the alcohol in unusual quantity, and it was held that this was an "injury sustained by accident" within the meaning of section 12 of the act of January 1, 1914.—Fidelity, etc., Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 177 Cal. 614, L. R. A. 1918F, 856, 171 Pac. 429, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 38 (DeWitt v. Jacoby Bros., 1 I. A. C. Dec. 170).

93. Same—Construction of English decisions.—The phrase "injury sustained by accident" as used in section 12 of the act of 1914 was taken from the English act with the construction placed on it prior to its incorporation in the California act, and is to be liberally interpreted to make it applicable to injuries to workmen which are unexpected and unintentional.—Fidelity, etc., Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 177 Cal. 614, L. R. A. 1918F, 856, 171 Pac. 429, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 38 (DeWitt v. Jacoby Bros., 1 I. A. C. Dec. 170).

- 168a. Liability of carrier must be valid and enforceable to relieve employer of liability.

1. Employer. a. In general.

94. Term defined—"Employer" and "employee."—Every person who has any person in service under a contract of hire, express or implied, is an "employer"; and every person thus in service is an "employee."—Kirkpatrick v. Industrial Accident Commission, 31 Cal. App. 668, 161 Pac. 274.

95. Reclamation district not an employer.—Reclamation district No. 900 is not a public corporation within the definition of section 284, Civil Code.—Bettencourt v. Industrial Accident Commission, 175 Cal. 559, 560, 166 Pac. 323.

96. Reclamation districts exempted.—Reclamation districts are exempted from the operation of the act, being neither public nor private corporation within the meaning of section 13 of the act defining "employers" but are governmental mandatories or agents vested with limited powers to accomplish limited and specific work.—Bettencourt v. Industrial Accident Commission, 175 Cal. 559, 166 Pac. 323, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 210; Hartford, etc., Co. v. Reclamation, etc., No. 900, Yolo County, 3 I. A. C. Dec. 266.

97. No compensation to other than employees authorized.—Under the terms of section 21, of article 20, of the constitution, the commission has no jurisdiction to award compensation for injuries to other than employees of the person against whom compensation is claimed.—Thaxter v. Finn, 54 Cal. Dec. 620, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 433 (Thaxter v. Thaxter, 1 I. A. C. Dec. 196).

98. Injury to employee of sub-contractor.—Neither the owner of a building nor the contractor for the erection thereof is liable for the injury, or to pay compensation therefor to an injured employee of a sub-contractor on such building.—Thaxter v. Finn, 54 Cal. Dec. 620, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 433 (Thaxter v. Thaxter, 1 I. A. C. Dec. 196).

98a. Injury to member of train crew, employed by grading contractor.—A member of a train crew employed by a contractor engaged in grading a roadbed for an electric railway company, who received an injury while hauling materials for laying the track on a portion of the grade that had been completed, is not to be considered, in so far as such hauling was concerned, an employee of the railway company, notwithstanding it was no part of the contractor's contract to lay track, where the track was laid at the contractor's request, and was necessary to enable him to complete his contract.—Georgia Casualty Co. v. Industrial Accident Company, 177 Cal. 289, 170 Pac. 625, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 16 (on rehearing of 53 Cal. Dec. 705, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 170; Sims v. Sherer & Co., 3 I. A. C. Dec. 197).

99. Injury to municipal election officer.—Non-liability of city.—A judge of an election board at a municipal election is not an employee of the municipality within the meaning of that term as used in the act, and is not entitled to compensation from the city for injuries received while taking the election returns in his own automobile to the city hall after the counting of the ballots.—City of Los Angeles v. Industrial Accident Commission, 35 Cal. App. 31, 169 Pac. 260, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 322 (Meehan v. City of Los Angeles, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 52).

b. Identity of employer.

100. Decided according to facts.—Not on what parties thought.—The determination of the identity of the employer can not be arrived at merely on the ground of what the parties themselves thought in relation to employment, but must be decided in accordance with the facts.—Hartman v. Ralston Iron Works, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 13.

101. Loan of employees.—Where an employee of a corporation was loaned to another corporation to assist in certain emergency work, in which the former had no interest or control over, and the employee was retained on the payroll of the former and received full wages, which were reimbursed by the latter, and the workman was injured while so employed, it was held that there was no community of interest of said corporations as to control or ultimate benefit in the work and the former corporation was not liable.—Marken v. Yellow Aster, etc., Co., 6 I. A. C. Dec. 101.

102. When two individuals maintaining adjoining plants habitually loaned employees to each other for mutual convenience, and the employees were paid and controlled by each employer, respectively, during the period of their service for him. It is held the individual to whom the employees were loaned was the employer of such employee while working for him.—Frederick v. Dallerup, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 110.

103. An employee temporarily loaned by his employer for service to another, who pays and controls him, without profit on the transaction to the first employer, was held to be an employee of the second individual while so engaged.—Proctor v. Lindgren Co., 5 I. A. C. Dec. 115.

104. Owner of pumping plant.—Employee of independent contractor.—The commission is without the power to make an award against the owner of the land and in favor of an employee of an independent contractor engaged in installing a pumping plant thereon.—Western Indemnity Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 172 Cal. 766, 767, 158 Pac. 1033.

105. Owner of building.—Employee of independent contractor.—The commission has no power to award compensation against the owner of property erecting a building thereon, through an independent contractor, whose only relation to the injured person employed by such contractor is such ownership.—Carstens v. Pillsbury, 172 Cal. 572, 578, 158 Pac. 218.

106. Employee of sub-contractor of independent contractor.—The industrial accident commission has no jurisdiction to award, against an owner, compensation under the act in favor of the injured employee of a sub-contractor of an independent contractor.—First Church v. Industrial Accident Commission, 173 Cal. 552, 553, 160 Pac. 675.

107. A sub-contractor to whom was sublet the work of excavating, refilling and resurfacing a trench for a drainage conduit, and not the contractor for the construction of the conduit, is liable for the compensation of a laborer employed by such sub-contractor for an injury sustained in excavating such trench to a depth exceeding that called for by the sub-contract at the actual cost of the labor of such extra excavation.—Worswick, etc., Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 58 Cal. Dec. 453, 185 Pac. 953, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 226; Employer's, etc., Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 58 Cal. Dec. 453, 185 Pac. 953, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 226.

Also, Worswick, etc., Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 58 Cal. Dec. 460, 185 Pac. 953; Employer's, etc., Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 58 Cal. Dec. 460, 461, 185 Pac. 953.

108. Farmer—County.—A farmer who constructs a fence between his farm and the county highway is the employer of the carpenter who builds the fence, although the county reimburses him for the cost of the fence.—Jenkins v. Rhinehart, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 180.

109. Foreman and water and power company.—Where a foreman, employed by a water and power company, was authorized to employ laborers for the company, and employed a teamster in accordance with such authority, such teamster was an employee of the company, and not of such foreman, notwithstanding the fact that he was employed to drive the foreman's team, hired to the company.—Yolo, etc., Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 35 Cal. App. 14, 168 Pac. 1146.

110. Fighting fire on premises of third person.—A section hand engaged in fighting fire on the property of another person, and receiving pay from such other person, was not in the employ of the railroad company, although he was directed to perform the service by his foreman.—London, etc., Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 173 Cal. 642, 643, 161 Pac. 2.

111. Railroad conductor—Grading contractor.—A conductor, employed and paid by a grading contractor, in charge of a construction train, engaged in hauling materials for laying track upon a portion of the roadbed already completed, which, although not within the contract, and intended for permanent use, was being laid at the request of the contractor, and was necessary, according to the terms of the contract, to the use of the steam shovel to complete the grading contract, was an employee of the contractor, and not of the railroad company.—Georgia C. Company v. Industrial Accident Commission, 177 Cal. 289, 291, 170 Pac. 621.

112. Member railroad train crew—Grading contractor.—Where a member of a railroad train crew employed by a grading contractor was injured while hauling materials for the laying of the track upon a completed portion of the grade, the laying of the track being incidental to the work of grading, it was held that such member is not to be regarded as an employee of the railroad company for the time being, notwithstanding the work when completed would be a part of the equipment of the railroad company.—Georgia Casualty Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 53 Cal. Dec. 705, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 170 (Simms v. Sherer & Co., 3 I. A. C. Dec. 197).

113. Flagman employed by two railroads.—A flagman employed by one of two railroad companies, having separate and distinct systems but whose tracks ran parallel at a street crossing, to warn the operators of the trains of both companies at such crossing, under an oral arrangement between the two companies that one was to employ him and pay his wages and render a monthly bill for one-half of such wages, was an employee of both companies.—San Francisco-Oakland Terminal Railways v. Industrial Accident Commission, 180 Cal. 121, 179 Pac. 386, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 45.

114. Night watchman employed by several corporations.—A night watchman employed at a fixed monthly salary is an employee within the meaning of the act, even though also employed as a night watchman by other corporations under separate contracts for monthly compensation from each.—Western Metal Supply Co. v. Pillsbury, 172 Cal. 407, 416, Ann. Cas. 1917E, 390, 156 Pac. 491.

115. Where several corporations employed a night watchman under separate and independent contracts calling for the payment of a separate monthly salary from each of them, they did not constitute an "association" within the meaning of section 13 of the act.—Western Metal Supply Co. v. Pillsbury, 172 Cal. 407, 416, Ann. Cas. 1917E, 390, 156 Pac. 491.

116. Millwright doing special work at foreman's request.—Where a millwright was requested by the foreman of another department of his employer's plant to do certain work on Saturday afternoon and Sunday, when the plant would be closed, and it was usual for said millwright to do work as requested, and nothing was said to him to communicate that it would be working for any one else than his regular employer or that such work was in fact the private work of said foreman, it was held that in doing such work he was in the course of his regular employment, and not working for the foreman.—Baker v. Heard, etc., Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 200.

116a. Employee of teaming company working for lumber company.—The accidental death of the employee of a teaming company, while hauling lumber for a lumber company, under his employer's direction, is compensable, and the teaming company is liable to his dependents for such compensation.—Kirkpatrick v. Industrial Accident Commission, 31 Cal. App. 668, 161 Pac. 274.

117. Caddy at country club.—The fact that an injured caddy employed by a country club reported for duty and was employed on specific days does not militate at all against the proposition that he was an employee within the meaning of section 14, workmen's compensation act, and entitled to compensation thereunder.—Claremont C.

Club v. Industrial Acc. Com., 174 Cal. 395, 398, 163 Pac. 209.

118. A country club, owning and maintaining a golf links for its members, the general control of which is vested in appropriate committees of the club, the club providing caddies under the supervision of a caddy master, the caddies being stationed in a caddy house provided by the club until their services are requisitioned, and their wages being paid according to a schedule fixed by the club committee, is an employer within the meaning of section 13, workmen's compensation act, notwithstanding such caddies are paid by the individual members playing, whom they attend, and are under the exclusive control of such member while in attendance.—Claremont C. Club v. Industrial Acc. Com., 174 Cal. 395, 397, 163 Pac. 209.

119. Special police officer employed by private property owners.—Where a special police officer was employed and paid by private property owners to patrol their property at night, with the privilege on his part of substituting another patrolman in his stead, and the officer undertook to watch certain property on his beat and to station an extra guard during the day on a bridge across a public street which traversed said property, and for the services of such day guard the property owner paid to the officer a daily sum, and said day guard reported for instructions to said property owner, who withdrew him from the day patrolling and placed him on day guard on the property, without consulting the officer, it was held that such guard was an employee of the property owner, under an appointment of hire.—Hartman v. Ralston Iron Works, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 13.

119a. Citizen aiding peace officer to make arrest.—Where a citizen volunteered his services to aid a peace officer in making an arrest at a threatened breach of the peace and his offer of aid was accepted by the arresting officer and he was injured while so assisting said officer, it was held that since said citizen rendered said aid solely by reason of a duty imposed upon him by law, he was not an employee of the municipality at the time of said injury.—Richardson v. City of Santa Rosa, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 380.

120. Copartners assignment to creditor.—Where copartners, as individuals, gave a power of attorney to a creditor authorizing him to manage the business in the interest of certain creditors, and there was no assignment by the partnership, and no sale or transfer or assignment for the benefit of creditors, an insurance carrier for such partnership is not released from liability for compensation insurance to employees of the partnership who are injured.—United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co., v. Industrial Acc. Com., 174 Cal. 616, 622, 163 Pac. 1013.

120a. The insurer of a partnership against injuries to employees is not released from liability by reason of the fact that the injuries occurred after the partners had made an individual assignment of the assets and business to a creditor to hold until such creditor and certain other creditors were paid.—United States, etc., Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 174 Cal. 616, 163 Pac. 1013, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 79; (Maffia v. Aquilino, 3 I. A. C. Dec. 15; Zanotti v. Aquilino, 3 I. A. C. Dec. 53).

120b. Where an employer transferred his business and all his employees, including applicant, to another person, and the applicant continued to work under the exclusive control of the latter until the date of the injury, it was held such circumstances were sufficient to put the applicant on inquiry as to the identity of his employee.—Pierce v. Rosenberg, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 241.

121. Partnership furnishing skilled labor to corporation.—Where a partnership under contract supplied skilled labor to a corporation for a percentage of the payroll, it was held that the partnership and corporation were joint employers.—Coulter v. Wellman, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 67.

122. Hired by one partner, paid by another.—An employee who was hired and directed by one partner and paid by another partner, held to have been an employee of the partnership and not of the second partner.—Mendez & Arneill v. Boge, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 32.

123. Joint liability of partners.—A cement manufacturing company and a partnership engaged in installing and handling large machinery are jointly liable for the death of an employee while performing services on the grounds of the cement company, upon an arrangement entered into between the cement company and the partnership by which the latter was to secure and furnish employees to perform such services, the cement company furnishing the materials and exercising direction and control over such employees.—Ocean, etc., Corporation v. Industrial Accident Commission, 179 Cal. 432, 177 Pac. 273, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 228; Aetna, etc., Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 179 Cal. 432, 177 Pac. 273, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 228; Employers, etc., Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 179 Cal. 432, 177 Pac. 273, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 228 (Coulter v. Wellman, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 64).

124. Lessor and lessee joint employers.—Under the facts of this case, an arrangement entered into was incorporated as a lease and not as a partnership, and the lessor and lessee as joint employers of a carpenter employed by said parties jointly, and not as copartners.—Perry v. Johnson, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 163.

125. Persons holding themselves out as partners.—Where two individuals permitted the use of their names in the firm's business, were interested in its management and in the lease of the real estate used in its business, obtained credit from a bank for the firm by representing themselves as copartners, and took over much of its property upon dissolution, such conduct was sufficient to establish that they were co-employees with the firm, notwithstanding their contrary testimony.—Pierce v. Rosenberg, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 239.

125a. Assignee for creditors—Owners of business.—Where the full control of a wine business was turned over to a creditor by power of attorney, the creditor to manage the business for the benefit of himself and the owners of the business, it was held that the employees of the business were sole employees of the business and not of the manager.—Zanotti v. Aquilino & Lagomarsino Co., 3 I. A. C. Dec. 53.

125b. Joint liability of principal and immediate employers.—The principal and the immediate employer were held jointly liable for compensation where the employee was injured on premises on which principal employer's work was to be done.—Kesson v. Duncan, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 121.

c. "Gross negligence"—Serious and wilful misconduct of employer.

126. Remedy of act exclusive—Gross negligence of employer.—The remedy afforded by the act is exclusive of all other statutory or common law remedies, except, as provided by section 12 (b), that the employee may, at his option, maintain an action for damages in the conditions named.—Helme v. Great Western, etc., Co., 30 Cal. App. Dec. 84, 58 Cal. Dec. 483, 185 Pac. 510, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 161.

127. Option of employee in case of gross negligence of employer.—Under the industrial compensation act the only cases in which an employee is given an option to claim compensation under the act or bring an action at law, are where the injury was caused by the employer's gross negligence, and where it was caused by his wilful misconduct of a specified character.—San Francisco Stevedoring Co. v. Pillsbury, 170 Cal. 321, 322, 149 Pac. 586.

128. Option of employee—Demurrer to complaint.—The sustaining of a demurrer to the complaint in an action by an employee against his employer simply determines that the allegations of the complaint do not state a cause of action within the case named in the industrial compensation act as giving the employee an option to proceed in an action at law, and does not bar his right to claim compensation under the act.—San Francisco Stevedoring Co. v. Pillsbury, 170 Cal. 321, 322, 149 Pac. 586.

129. Employee's action for damages.—Where an employee, seeking recovery for personal injuries by an action at law, relies upon the failure of his employer to house certain gears on a machine used for packing bran, to recover he must allege and prove by a preponderance of evidence (1) that defendant's failure to house the gears was of itself "gross negligence," or "wilful misconduct"; (2) that such failure was the personal failure of an elective officer or officers of defendant corporation, as for example, a director or directors; and (3) that such failure indicated a wilful disregard of the life, limb and bodily safety of defendant's employees.—Helme v. Great Western, etc., Co., (Cal. App.) 185 Pac. 510, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 161.

130. "Gross negligence."—"Gross negligence," within the meaning of section 12(b) of the act of 1913 is the entire failure to exercise care, or the exercise of so slight a degree of care as to justify the belief that there is an entire indifference to the interest and welfare of the employee.—Helme v. Great Western, etc., Co., (Cal. App.) 185 Pac. 510, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 161.

131. Failure to house gears.—Failure to house the gears of a bran packing machine by a milling company is not wilful misconduct within the meaning of section 12(b) of the act, unless the housing was made a duty by some general or special order of the commission, or by the act itself, and some one of the company's elective officers, with a wilful disregard of the life, limb, or bodily safety of defendant's employees, having actual knowledge of the peril incident to the unhoused gears, or having what in law is equivalent to such actual knowledge, consciously failed to house the gears, so as to avert injury.—Helme v. Great Western, etc., Co., (Cal. App.) 185 Pac. 510, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 161.

132. Same—Not gross negligence.—A simple failure to house the gears of a machine does not show gross negligence, unless the employer appears to have consciously violated some order of the commission, or some particular safety provision of the act itself.—Helme v. Great Western, etc., Co., (Cal. App.) 185 Pac. 510, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 161.

133. "Wilful misconduct."—"Wilful misconduct," within the meaning of section 12(b) of the act, means something different from and more than negligence, however gross, and to constitute such wilful misconduct, there must be actual knowledge, or that which in law is deemed the equivalent of actual knowledge, of the peril to be apprehended from the failure to act, coupled with a conscious failure to act to avert injury.—Helme v. Great Western, etc., Co., (Cal. App.) 185 Pac. 510, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 161.

134. Same—Disregard of safety order of commission.—The duty of a corporation and its executive or managing officer to comply with the requirements of sections 33-36, of the act of 1917, and provide safe conditions of employment, and with an order of the commission requiring the safeguarding of all transmission shafting, could not be delegated so as to free them from responsibility therefor, and constituted serious and wilful misconduct on the part of the employer, which was the proximate cause of an injury to an employee, and entitled the latter to an increase of one-half of her compensation under section 6(b) of the act.—Hamilton v. E. Clemens Horst Co., 6 I. A. C. Dec. 185.

135. Statutory duty to provide safe place of employment.—It is the statutory duty of a milling company in the absence of a special or general order of the commission, given and made in the mode provided by the act, to use such devices and safeguards as are "reasonably adequate" to render the place of employment safe, and as free from danger to the life and safety of its employees as the nature of the employment will reasonably permit.—Helme v. Great Western, etc., Co. (Cal. App.) 185 Pac. 510, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 161.

136. Same—Instruction exacting greater than statutory degree of care.—An instruction which declares that it was the duty of defendant to provide such safety devices over the gears as would tend to mitigate or prevent the danger of plaintiff coming in contact with them, was error, in that it exacted of defendant a greater degree of care than the act requires.—Helme v. Great Western, etc., Co. (Cal. App.) 185 Pac. 510, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 161.

137. Serious and wilful misconduct—Proof under act of 1917.—Under the act of 1913 the injured employee was required to bring home the serious and wilful misconduct referred to in section 12(b) to an elective officer of his corporation employer; but this requirement is not made by the act of 1917, and it is sufficient that the officer charged with such conduct should be invested with the general conduct and control of the particular place, whether elective or appointed.—Horst Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, (Cal.) 193 Pac. 105.

138. Same — Failure to comply with safety order of commission.—The failure of the president and general manager of a corporation, owning and operating a vegetable drying plant, to comply with a safety order of the commission requiring the boxing of all transmission shafting within seven feet of the floor or ground constituted serious and wilful misconduct.—Horst Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, (Cal.) 193 Pac. 105.

139. Same — Defined. — "Serious misconduct" on the part of an employer means conduct which the employer either knew, or ought to have known, if he had turned his mind to the matter, to be conduct likely to jeopardize the safety of his employees.—Horst Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, (Cal.) 193 Pac. 105.

140. "Serious misconduct" may be defined as conduct that an average workman in being guilty of either would know, or ought to know, if he turned his mind to consider the matter, to be conduct likely to jeopardize his own and his fellow workmen's safety.—Horst Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, (Cal.) 193 Pac. 105.

140a. Same—Increase of compensation.—The increase of compensation on account of the serious and wilful misconduct of the employer includes the disability indemnity, but not the expense of medical treatment to which the injured employee is entitled.—Hamilton v. E. Clemens Horst Co., 6 I. A. C. Dec. 185.

141. The increase of one-half compensation provided for by section 6(b) of the act of 1917, where the employer's serious and wilful misconduct was the proximate cause of the injury is to be paid by the employer and not by the insurance carrier.—Hamilton v. E. Clemens Horst Co., 6 I. A. C. Dec. 185.

2. Insurance carrier.

142. Employer member of association—Not "insurance carrier."—Where an employer is a member of an association of employers in the same line of business, the by-laws of which association provide for the reimbursement to its members, out of dues collected for that purpose, of amounts which they had actually paid as compensation to injured employees, it was held that such an arrangement is not a contract of insurance within the meaning of section 34 of the act; that the insurer is not an "insurance carrier" as defined by subdivision 6 of section 2 of the act and that the commission is without jurisdiction to determine the respective rights and liabilities of the parties to such an arrangement.—Eris v. Rohde, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 86.

143. Policy specifically designating employees covered.—A workmen's compensation policy covering employees specifically designated as miners, hoistmen, surface trammes, timekeeper and roustabout, millmen, blacksmith and helper, and cook and waiter, does not include the occupation of a mine superintendent, where there is nothing in the contract from which an intent to extend the policy beyond the employees specifically designated.—Pacific Coast C. Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 176 Cal. 24, 25, 167 Pac. 539.

144. One of two joint employers insured—Insurance carrier and other employer liable.—Where one of two joint employers was insured against liability for compensation and nothing was said as to the interests of the other employer, and an injury occurred which was covered by said insurance and the insurance carrier was insured, it was held that the insurance carrier and the other employer were jointly liable for compensation.—Perry v. Johnson, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 163.

145. Construction of policy—Mining superintendent not included.—In the present case a mining superintendent was held not included in the policy of insurance covering employees of a mining company.—Pacific, etc., Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 176 Cal. 24, 167 Pac. 539, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 272 (Angus v. White Gulch Mining Co., 3 I. A. C. Dec. 87).

146. Employee specifically covered—Insurance carrier can not claim non-liability because illegally employed.—Where a policy of insurance was issued upon an old application for a single employee and at the time of the application no inquiry was made as to whether such employee was legally employed or not, the insurance carrier can not afterwards claim non-liability because of the fact that the employee was an errand boy under 15 years and illegally employed under section 10 of the California child labor law.—Sharon v. Bornstein, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 166.

147. Policy excluding executive officers—Mining superintendent not executive officer.

—An assistant superintendent of a mining company also occupying the position of a nominal director of the company was held not to be actually employed in an executive capacity within the meaning of the policy which excluded the executive offices of the assured.—Aby v. Casualty & Guaranty Co., 5 I. A. C. Dec. 160.

148. "Executive officer"—Dummy director not executive officer.—An executive officer is one who acts in an official capacity regardless whether or not he is on the board of directors, and a "dummy director" is not an executive officer, unless in addition to his nominal executive office, he is actually employed in an executive capacity.—Morgan v. Morgan Improvement Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 66.

149. Same—Director executive officer.—A director of a corporation was held in the present case to be an executive officer of the corporation within the meaning of an insurance policy which covered the risk of "clerical office employees, excluding executive officers."—Kohnhorst v. Employers, etc., Co., Corporation, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 138.

150. Interpretation of policy—"General farm work, excluding the operation of farm machinery."—Where an insurance policy contained under the manual classification of kind of occupation the statement "general farm work excluding the operation of farm machinery (no blasting)" and contained as estimated pay roll of all employees and an estimated advance premium, and provided that the estimated pay roll included the entire remuneration of all persons employed in the service of the employer in his business operations and was given to fix the estimated advance premium and that if the employer should make any extension or change in his business, he should pay an additional premium, it was held that the quoted statement merely afforded a basis for computing the advance premium and did not exclude the operation of farm machinery from the occupations covered by the policy.—Dobson v. Ellis, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 357.

151. Same—Same—Assistant to tractor engineer.—The engineer of a caterpillar engine used to pull a disc harrow is not covered by the policy, but a person whose duty it was to stand at one end of the field and hold a lantern to guide the engineer on his return from the other end, is covered, since he was assisting in plowing the field, and not in the special part of the work requiring the operation of machinery.—Maryland, etc. Co., v. Industrial Accident Commission, 178 Cal. 491, 173 Pac. 993, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 154. (Dobson v. Ellis, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 357).

152. Assignment or change of interest.—Where a policy issued by an insurance carrier, contained a clause to the effect that no assignment or change of interest should be valid unless endorsed in the policy and signed by an officer of the carrier, the insurance ceases on such transfer, notwithstanding the business continued to be conducted by the new owner under the same firm name.—Disberg v. Karber, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 30.

152a. Assignment for benefit of creditors.—Where the full control of a wine business was turned over to a creditor by power of attorney to manage for the benefit of himself and other creditors and the owners of the business, it was held that the liability of the insurance carrier continued to cover the employees of the owners after such transfer of control.—Zanotti v. Aquilino & Lagomarsino Co., 3 I. A. C. Dec. 53.

153. Padding of pay roll without carrier's knowledge.—A subcontractor's employees were not insured by the contractor's insurance policy, where the latter's premium was estimated from his pay roll which, without the carrier's knowledge contained the subcontractor's pay roll.—Alvarado v. Donaldson, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 84.

154. Insurance carrier—Loss of right to do business in state.—The fact that the insurance carrier, after the injury, has lost the right to do business in the state, can not deprive the employee of the right to give the notice required by section 34 of the act.—Weiser v. Industrial Accident Commission, 172 Cal. 538, 540, 157 Pac. 593.

155. Policy specifically covering chauffeurs.—Policy of insurance carrier covering employer's business operations in connection with his electrical store, and specifically covering chauffeurs, was held to cover a fatal injury to a chauffeur incurred while driving the automobile used in the employer's business while carrying as a passenger a former employee, under his employer's instruction, from the office of another company to her home.—Millard v. Kennedy, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 118.

156. Clause of policy excluding "construction of sewers."—Under an insurance policy, covering liability of a company engaged in road or street making, a clause that the policy shall cover changes in and extensions of the business of the insured, does not cover the excavation of a trench for a conduit for the drainage of a swimming tank where it contained a proviso that it should not cover the "construction of sewers."—Worswick etc. Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 58 Cal. Dec. 453, 185 Pac. 953, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 226; Employer's etc. Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 58 Cal. Dec. 453, 185 Pac. 953, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 226; Worswick etc. Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 58 Cal. Dec. 460, 461, 185 Pac. 953, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 223, 224; Employer's etc. Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 58 Cal. Dec. 460, 461, 185 Pac. 953, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 223, 224.

157. Rescission of policy for misrepresentation after commencement of proceeding.—A policy can not be avoided after the commencement of proceedings for a death benefit.—Mann v. Johnson, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 253.

158. Liability of insurance carrier—After accrual of rights.—Where the rights of an applicant for a death benefit had accrued at the time of the injury and before cancellation tion of the policy, the policy could not be avoided because of the employer's misrepresentations.—Mann v. Johnson, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 253.

159. Insurance carrier bound by representations of his agent.—An insurance carrier was held bound by the representations of his agent that the policy was in full force and effect at the time of the injury, notwithstanding the failure of the agent to account for the premium received by him and the issue of a five day's notice of cancellation to which the attention of the local agent was called and promised to correct the matter, but failed to do so.—Marion v. Fuller, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 281.

160. An insurance carrier is bound by the act of his agent in renewing an old policy so as to date from its expiration according to the custom of such insurance carrier.—Lamb v. Pond, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 99.

161. Renewal of policy dated after injury.—Where a renewal policy, dated from the expiration of the old policy according to the custom of the insurance carrier, although issued after an injury was held to have protected the employer and employee covered by the old policy.—Lamb v. Pond, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 99.

162. Waiver of illegal employment.—The illegality of the employment of a minor is not waived by an insurance carrier where it had no knowledge of such illegality.—Maryland Casualty Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 179 Cal. 716, 178 Pac. 858, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 30.

163. Illegal employment of minor.—An award under the act against an insurance carrier of the employers of a minor of the age of fifteen years and two months without the issuance of the certificate required by the child labor law of 1915, and its presentation to his employers; and the illegal character of the employment is not changed by the fact that he was injured after school hours, where he was employed six days in the week and during the whole day; nor is it changed by the fact that such minor was attending night school.—Maryland Casualty Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 179 Cal. 716, 178 Pac. 858, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 30.

164. Policy covering all employees—Minor illegally employed covered.—A policy of indemnity issued by an insurance carrier to cover all employees legally employed is not void ab initio, because of the illegal employment of a minor, but would attach as to such minor upon the issuance to him of a proper certificate or to any other employee who might take his place.—Maryland Casualty Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 179 Cal. 716, 178 Pac. 858, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 30.

165. Condition against illegal employment.—Where there was a condition in the policy that no person should be employed in violation of law, the employment of a minor below the legal age in violation of law voided the policy notwithstanding condition of the same policy, providing that no default as to any condition of the policy shall affect the right of the employee to compensation.—Clarke v. Gise, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 219.

166. Where an insurance policy excluded minors employed in violation of law and no written permit of employment was obtained for a minor employee, though oral assurance was given, it was held that the insurance carrier was not liable.—Yeager v. Universal, etc., Co. 5 I. A. C. Dec. 131.

167. Requirement as to notice must be complied with.—The provisions of the policy with reference to notice from the employer to the insurance carrier must be complied with and the presumption of section 30 can not be relied upon.—Fry v. McKay, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 136.

168. Compliance with requirement as to notice must be proved.—The notice required by the policy to be given by the employer to the insurance carrier must be proved in a claim by the employer's physician against the insurance carrier.—Fry v. McKay, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 136.

168a. Liability of carrier must be valid and enforceable to relieve employer of liability.—It is held that the assumption of liability of the insurance carrier must be valid and enforceable in order to relieve the employer from liability under the terms of the act.—Hoover v. Kuykendall, 3 I. A. C. Dec. 51.

V. RIGHT TO COMPENSATION.

1. Employee. a. In general.

169. Who are employees—Personal control.
170. "Employee"—Broad interpretation to be given.
171. Boxer in bout at social club.
172. Volunteer services—Fireman.
173. Same—Picket for labor union.
174. Tentative engagement without pay—Porter at county hospital.

- 253. Remarriage of widow of deceased employee.
- 254. Wife confined in insane asylum.
- 255. Stranger to the blood—Housekeeper for employee.

1. Employee. a. In general.

169. Who are employees—Personal control.—Whether one is an employee within the meaning of the workmen's compensation act or not, depends upon those particular circumstances which tend to show whether, at the precise time of the accident for which compensation is sought, the petitioner had power to exercise over the applicant such personal control as to attribute to him the characteristic of an employee.—Brown v. Industrial Acc. Com., 174 Cal. 457, 460, 163 Pac. 664.

170. "Employee"—Broad interpretation to be given.—As to liberal construction of the act by giving the term "employee" a broad interpretation.—Western Indemnity Co. v. Pillsbury, 172 Cal. 807, 159 Pac. 721.

Who is a workman within the meaning of the workmen's compensation act.—See note to Walker v. Crystal Palace Football Club, Ann. Cas. 1913C, 28.

The subject of workmen's compensation acts is elaborately discussed in Labatt's work on Master and Servant (2d ed.). See, also, Honnold's Treatise on American and English Workmen's Compensation Laws, with the 1918 supplement.

171. Boxer in bout at social club.—An injury to a boxer in a bout at a social club is not compensable.—Andrich v. Young, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 171.

172. Volunteer services.—Fireman.—A voluntary fireman is in the service of the city under a contract of hire even though he serves without pay.—Noyes v. City of Eureka, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 163.

173. Same.—Picket for labor union.—Where a member of a labor union volunteered for picket duty which was not compulsory, and he worked for only such time as he desired and he received strike benefits regardless of any service as picket, it was held that said picket was not an employee of said labor union.—Olsen v. Riggers & Stevedores Union, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 252.

174. Tentative engagement without pay.—Porter at county hospital.—A patient in a county hospital engaged as a porter on trial is during such tentative engagement, an employee of the hospital.—Hippensteel v. County of Fresno, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 304.

175. Contract of hire not necessary.—Appointment sufficient.—An appointment of hire is sufficient without a contract of hire, to create the status of employer and employee under the provisions of sections 13 and 14 of the act.—Hartman v. Ralston Iron Works, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 13.

176. Teamster for share of daily earnings without sharing losses.—Where one drives another's team and wagon for one-half the daily earnings, less the cost of the feed of the team, without sharing losses, he is an employee and not a partner.—Hieronimus v. California, etc., Co., 6 I. A. C. Dec. 19.

177. Husband as employee of wife.—There is considerable doubt whether under the laws of California, either a husband or a wife can be an employee of the other.—Braun v. Braun, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 90.

178. Lumber tallyman.—Procured through association.—A tallyman is an employee of a lumber shipper though his services are procured through the tallyman's association.—Holcomb v. Standard Oil Co., 5 I. A. C. Dec. 216.

179. Flagman for two railroads.—A flagman performing duties for two adjoining railroads was held to be a joint employee of both, although directed and paid by one company only.—Robinson v. San Francisco, etc., Railways, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 138.

b. Employment.

180. "Manual labor"—Expressman.—The work of an expressman is manual labor within the meaning of the act, although he also furnishes a truck.—Reeves v. Flickenger, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 173.

181. Compensation.—On commission and salary.—The fact that the compensation of an employee is partly by salary and partly by commission, does not affect the employer's liability, where the latter is entitled to all the employee's working hours, and to direct his labor, and such employee would be entitled to compensation if injured while earning commission as when earning salary.—Cameron v. Pillsbury, 173 Cal. 83, 84, 159 Pac. 149.

181a. Salesman on commission.—Injury in hotel fire.—A salesman on commission does not come within the benefits of the act of 1913, and his injuries and losses in a fire in a hotel where he was stopping for the night, in a town where he was to be located indefinitely, are not compensable.—Forman v. Industrial Accident Commission, 31 Cal. App. 441, 160 Pac. 857.

182. Donation of services.—No intention of hiring.—An applicant for compensation was not working in the employment of another within the meaning of section 8(a) of the act of 1917, where he donated his services, and there was no intention to enter into a contract of hire or apprenticeship.—Hitchcock v. American National Red Cross, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 58.

183. Employee furnished by agency.—Commencement of employment.—Where an employee was furnished by an employment agency for work on a state highway and was killed in an automobile accident while on his way to the place of his employment sixty miles distant, it was held that under the circumstances the contract of employment had been consummated when the arrangement was entered into and that adverse action by the foreman on the job after the employee reached such place would be a discharge and not a refusal to confirm the employment.—McGillivray v. California Highway Commission, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 181, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 208.

184. Continuation of employment after engaging in outside work.—In this case it was held that the relation of employer and employee continued after salary of a masseuse was discontinued and she was allowed to engage in outside work and keep the tips and fees collected from her patients, her duties remaining the same and she continuing to receive her board and lodging.—McLean v. Guenther, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 300.

185. Work while final negotiations for employment pending.—Work performed pending final negotiations as to the terms of the employment is held to be work performed pursuant to a contract of hire and an injury sustained in course thereof is compensable.—Kendall v. Perry, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 167.

186. Termination of employment.—Effect of letter refusing increase in salary.—A letter written by an employer to his employee in answer to a request for a raise of salary, which gave the latter the option of leaving or of continuing the employment at the existing salary, did not have the effect of terminating the employment, and a finding of the commission that the employment still existed can not be disturbed.—Krobitzsch v. Industrial Accident Commission, 58 Cal. Dec. 445, 185 Pac. 396, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 218 (Starkey v. Krobitzsch, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 61).

186a. Chauffeur selling second-hand automobiles on commission.—Where the chauffeur employed by an automobile owner is incidentally given, by the proprietor of the garage where the automobile is kept, opportunity in his leisure moments to aid in the sale of second-hand automobiles on commission, but is under no duty to do so nor under the control or direction of the proprietor, it was held that he was not in the employment of the proprietor.—Lane v. Herrick, 3 I. A. C. Dec. 29.

c. Minors.

187. Work for parent, etc.—Positive evidence of employment required.—Where services are being rendered by a minor child to its parent, by a wife to a husband or by a husband for the benefit of his wife and family, the normal presumption is that the services were rendered in the course of the duties arising out of such relationship, unless there be positive evidence to establish an additional relationship.—Braun v. Braun, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 90.

188. Same—Unemancipated minor son.—The father of a minor of 19 years of age living with his parents at their home on the father's ranch, is not entitled to payment from the insurance carrier which issued its policy protecting against claims for injuries on the part of his employees and for medical and other expenses incurred, by him, growing out of an injury to his son received while the son was rendering services to his father, where the evidence shows that the minor had not been emancipated, and therefore unable to enter into a valid contract of hiring.—Aetna, etc., Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 175 Cal. 91, L. R. A. 1918F, 194, 165 Pac. 15, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 119 (Aetna, etc., Co. v. Rieck, 3 I. A. C. Dec. 163).

189. Fourteen-year-old Mexican — Employee of motion picture company.—A fourteen-year-old Mexican boy was held under the circumstances of this case to have been an employee of a motion picture company.—Villaneva v. Fox Film Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 191.

189a. Employee as taxi-driver.—In this case, the applicant for compensation, who was a boy sixteen years old, was held to be an employee of the defendant as a taxi-driver.—Ellis v. Pedroni, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 258.

190. Majority of female employee.—Under the provisions of the act a female employee attains her majority at twenty-one years of age.—Michaud v. Gouanillon, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 264.

d. Official.

191. Justice of the peace not an employee.—A duly elected and qualified justice of the peace is not an employee within the meaning of the compensation act.—Meadows v. County of Kings, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 274.

192. Sheriff not an employee.—A sheriff is not an "employee" within the meaning of section 14 of the act, which defines an employee to be every person in the service of an employer as defined by section 13 of the act "under any appointment or contract of hire or apprenticeship."—Mono County v. Industrial Accident Commission, 175 Cal. 751, 167 Pac. 377, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 269 (Dolan v. Mono County, 3 I. A. C. Dec. 358).

193. Citizen aiding peace officer to make arrest not an employee.—Where a citizen volunteered his services to aid a peace officer in making an arrest at a threatened breach of the peace and his offer of aid was accepted by the arresting officer and he was injured while so assisting said officer, it was held that since said citizen rendered said aid solely by reason of a duty imposed upon him by law, he was not an employee of the municipality at the time of said injury.—Richardson v. City of Santa Rosa, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 380.

194. Judge of an election board not an employee.—The judge of an election board at a municipal election is not an employee of the city, and is not entitled to compensation under the act for injuries received while performing the political duty, not within the control of the city, so as to require it to provide means for his safety, of carrying the election returns from the polling place to the city hall.—Los Angeles v. Industrial Accident Commission, 35 Cal. App. 31, 169 Pac. 260.

195. A teamster employed at a municipal woodyard for unemployed persons, to perform all such services as were required by him by the superintendent, was held to be an employee of the city within the meaning of the compensation act.—North v. City of Oakland, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 231.

196. Employment on behalf of municipality.—A helper hired by a municipal employee in the belief of both parties that he was authorized to do so for the municipality, was held not to have been an employee of the defendant municipality and since it was understood by the parties that the employment was by the city, the said employee was not the employer of the helper.—Good v. City of San Bernardino, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 116.

e. Independent contractor.

197. Test of independent employment.—The test of an independent contractor is that he renders services in the course of an independent employment or occupation, following his employer's desires only as to the results of his work, but not in the means whereby it is to be accomplished.—Brown v. Industrial Accident Commission, 174 Cal. 457, 460, 163 Pac. 664.

198. Employee and independent contractor—Distinction.—As to distinction between a "servant" or "employee" and an independent contractor.—Western Indemnity Co. v. Pillsbury, 172 Cal. 807, 159 Pac. 721.

199. Woodchopper on piecework basis—Employee.—A woodchopper working on a piecework basis was held under the circumstances of the present case to be an employee and not an independent contractor.—Duncan v. Parsons, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 201.

200. A woodchopper working on a piecework basis is an employee and not an independent contractor.—Mills v. Pomon, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 295.

201. Woodchopper—Employee.—Where a woodchopper was engaged to cut wood at so much a cord he and his companions to supply their own tools, and no hours of service agreed upon and the arrangement could be terminated by either party at any time, it was held that his services consisted of "manual labor" and that he was an employee and not an independent contractor.—Swain v. Scott, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 143.

202. Same—Independent contractor.—A woodchopper engaged to cut a specified amount of railroad ties and cordwood at a specified rate per cord and per tie, to furnish his own tools, select his own place of work, and to work at such times and in such manner as he chose, subject to no control except that the defendant retained the right to reject any ties or wood not up to specifications, was held to be an independent contractor and not an employee.—Fleming v. Bucksport, etc., Co., 5 I. A. C. Dec. 53.

203. One who agrees with the owner of land to cut wood thereon for a specified price per cord, furnishing his own tools and working when he pleased, is an independent contractor, although there was nothing specific in the contract as to the number of cords to be cut, and the employment might be terminated at the will of either party.—Parsons v. Industrial Accident Commission, 178 Cal. 394, 173 Pac. 585.

204. One who agrees with the superintendent of a corporation to cut cordwood and posts at a specified rate per cord and per post, with the understanding that he was to keep at work until notified by the superintendent that a sufficient quantity had been produced, without any agreement as to hours of labor or methods to be pursued, is an independent contractor and not an employee under the act.—Fidelity & Deposit Co. v. Brush, 176 Cal. 448, 449, 168 Pac. 890.

205. Where the son of an independent contractor entered into an agreement with his father to work with him and divide equally the amount to be received, he was himself an independent contractor, whether he was a partner or employee of his father, so far as the company contracting with his father was concerned, although the superintendent of the latter knew and approved of arrangement.—Fidelity & Deposit Co. v. Brush, 176 Cal. 448, 450, 168 Pac. 890.

206. One who contracts to cut wood for a stipulated price per cord is an independent contractor, and the owner of the land is not liable under the act for compensation for personal injuries suffered by an employee of a subcontractor.—Donlon Bros. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 173 Cal. 250, 251, 159 Pac. 715.

207. A tie cutter on a piecework basis, without any specification as to hours of labor, who furnishes his own tools for making the ties, and the owner furnishes the tools for felling the trees, is, under section 8(b) of the act, not an employee, but an independent contractor.—Simpson v. Decker, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 216.

208. Lumber piler—Employee.—Where a lumber piler contracted with a lumber company to pile lumber cut in its mill at a certain rate per thousand feet piled and he hired the men to do the work and controlled and discharged them, and the amount of lumber piled was reported to the company each night and the lumber piler did not work himself and the earnings were divided equally between him and the men, who were paid directly by the company, it was held that said men and said lumber piler were employees of said company.—Singley v. Standard Lumber Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 161.

209. Driver of bakery wagon—Selling bread on commission—Employee.—The driver of a bakery wagon, selling bread on commission, who received a guarantee of fifteen dollars per week, returning to the bakery owner all over fifteen dollars per week, and who received nothing extra for different work, was held to be an employee of such bakery owner, and entitled to compensation as such.—Easton v. Industrial Accident Commission, 34 Cal. App. 321, 167 Pac. 288 (Sohn v. Easton, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 104).

210. Same—Choosing own time, not conclusive.—The fact that a bakery wagon driver, selling bread on a commission basis, chose his own time to go out on his route, and return, and was not directed by the bakery owner where to go or when to return, has some probative force but was not conclusive of the relationship of employer and employee.—Easton v. Industrial Accident Commission, 34 Cal. App. 321, 167 Pac. 288.

211. Laundry collector on commission basis—Employee.—A laundry collector and solicitor on a commission basis, held an employee under section 8(b) of the act.—Page v. Peerless Laundry Co., 6 I. A. C. Dec. 56.

212. Real estate salesman on commission basis—Employee.—A person employed to sell real estate, who, by the terms of his contract of employment is required to devote all his time to making such sales, and to receive as compensation for his services a commission upon the selling price of each lot sold, the owner reserving the right to approve all sales and to designate the territory in which the agent should work, is an employee within the meaning of the act.—Brown v. Industrial Accident Commission, 174 Cal. 457, 163 Pac. 664, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 73 (Skidmore v. Brown, 2 I. A. C. Dec. 493).

213. Traveling salesman on commission basis—Employee.—A traveling salesman on commission basis held to be an employee and not an independent contractor.—Linder v. McBride, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 151.

213a. A salesman with exclusive sales rights, on commission—Employee.—A salesman, with exclusive sales rights under commission, and a bonus for certain incidental expenses, whose whole time is devoted to the service, is an employee and not an independent contractor.—Simmons v. Shepard Salesbrook Co., 6 I. A. C. Dec. 145.

214. Foreman of a "station gang" on the Hetch-Hetchy project — Employee.—The foreman of a "station gang" on the Hetch-Hetchy project, who had signed a station gang contract with the general contractor, was an employee of the general contractor and not an independent contractor or member of an association of independent contractors.—Athanasios v. Rolandi, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 134.

215. Expressman — Employee.—An expressman engaged to haul goods for remuneration for himself and his truck to be fixed later, is an employee and not an independent contractor.—Reeves v. Flickenger, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 173.

216. School boy engaged to assist in janitor work—Employee.—Where a school boy was engaged by the head janitor of the public school to assist in janitor work and to perform the head janitor's duties while the latter was ill, was held to be an employee and not an independent contractor.—Hurlburt v. McBurney, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 243.

217. Shingle maker on piecework basis—Employee.—An applicant for compensation, injured while at work under a contract for shingle production on piecework basis, the employer to control methods of work, held to be an employee and not an independent contractor.—Sutro v. Metropolitan, etc., Co., 6 I. A. C. 72.

218. Cemetery employment — Employee.—A person engaged by a cemetery corporation to remove from the cemetery property, by the use of explosives and blasting, some concrete foundations which had formerly supported some discarded water tanks, is an employee, and not an independent contractor, where he was to be paid by the day and no restrictions were placed upon the power of the employer to direct and control his operations at will; and for an injury received, he is entitled to compensation.—Rosedale, etc., Association v. Industrial Accident Commission, 37 Cal. App. 706, 174 Pac. 351, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 148.

219. Trim sawyer for lumber mill—Employee.—Where by the terms of a written agreement a trim sawyer was to trim all lumber sawed at a mill at a certain rate per thousand feet, was to furnish the necessary labor subject to the lumber company's approval as to persons employed and wages paid, was to do the work in the manner prescribed by the company and use the company's tools and equipment, was paid only after all wages to his helpers had been paid and could not sublet any right under the agreement without the written consent of the company, it was held that said sawyer was an employee of the said lumber company and not an independent contractor.—Reinoldson v. Red, etc., Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 367.

220. Newspaper carrier — Employee.—A newspaper carrier, under the control of the newspaper company, and paid according to the number of papers delivered held to be an employee and not an independent contractor.—Smith v. Evening Herald, etc., Co., 6 I. A. C. Dec. 192.

221. Newsboy—Independent contractor—Employee.—A newsboy purchasing papers at wholesale and selling them at retail is an independent contractor and not an employee, but where he is paid a weekly wage for his exclusive services in addition to his earnings, he is an employee.—Serval v. Chronicle Publishing Co., 6 I. A. C. Dec. 23.

222. Employee or self-employee—Painters—Employees.—Where a partnership undertook as independent contractors to do certain painting and arranged with two painters to help with the work for an equal division of the proceeds of the undertaking and said painters were subject to the complete control of said partnership in the work and could be discharged at any time, it was held that they were employees of said partnership and were not independent contractors or self-employing persons.—Wilcut v. Cudahy Packing Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 308.

223. Same—Independent contractor.—Under the circumstances of the present case a painter was held to be an independent contractor and not an employee.—Wilcut v. Cudahy Packing Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 308.

224. Farmer hauling pipe for his own farm, for a contractor—Employee.—Where a farmer contracted with a pipe contractor for the laying of pipe on his farm, and he agreed to haul the pipe for a specified price per hundred feet and was subject to the direction and control of the defendant as to the time and manner of doing the work, it was held that he was an employee of the pipe contractor.—O'Hara v. Concrete Pipe and Construction Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 277.

225. Independent contractor or employee—Foreman of water power company, furnishing team and driver; both held employee of company.—The foreman of a water and power company employed on a daily wage basis and authorized to hire men and teams for the company is not an independent contractor in a case where he furnished both men and teams; and where he furnished his own team and hired a person to drive it, and such person was injured, the latter is an employee of the company within the meaning of the act, and entitled to an award of compensation.—Yolo, etc., Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 35 Cal. App. 14, 168 Pac. 1146, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 319.

226. Independent contractor — Italians pruning vines, etc.—Employees.—Under an agreement by which the applicant on behalf of himself and three fellow Italians agreed to prune all the vines, burn all the brush and pull all the weeds in a vineyard for a fixed rate per acre, it was held that all four were employees and not independent contractors.—Giusti v. Covell Bros., 5 I. A. C. Dec. 137.

227. Truck driver—Independent contractor.—One engaged in the "truck business," doing a general hauling business, and owning his own truck, was an independent contractor and not an employee.—Flickenger v. Industrial Accident Commission, 58 Cal. Dec. 374, 184 Pac. 851, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 169; (Reeves v. Flickenger, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 173; Flickenger v. Industrial Accident Commission, 28 Cal. App. 127, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 117).

228. Aviator—Independent contractor.—Where an aviator entered into a written contract with an exposition company to make a specified number of flights on the days and at the hours designated, each flight to include specified maneuvers; which agreement restricted him to flight for said exposition only, within a designated territory; provided for a division of the gate receipts as his remuneration and relieved the exposition company from any liability for damages in the event of an accident, it was held that said aviator was an independent contractor and not an employee.—Bocquel v. Panama, etc., Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 88.

229. Teaming and grading—Independent contractor.—A person engaged in the business of "teaming and grading," who contracts to furnish a contractor teams, wagons and drivers, at six dollars per day in the aggregate, for each wagon, team and driver, and who himself pays the drivers, is not an employee of the contractor within the meaning of the act, even though he may drive one of the teams.—Western Indemnity Co. v. Pillsbury, 172 Cal. 807, 808, 159 Pac. 721.

229a. Teamster using own time—Hauling tanbark at fixed price per ton.—It was held in the present case that a teamster using his own time hauling tanbark at a fixed price per ton, was an employee and not an independent contractor.—Seward v. Sunset, etc., Co., 3 I. A. C. Dec. 49.

230. Window washer—Independent contractor.—It was held under the circumstances of this case that a window washer was an independent contractor and not an employee.—Sabini v. Loura, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 212.

f. Partners as employees.

231. Act of 1917—Working partner receiving wages.—A working partner who receives wages is an employee under the act of 1917.—Britten v. Rotary, etc., Co., 5 I. A. C. Dec. 187.

232. Act of 1913 — Partner receiving wages.—A member of a partnership performing services for it under an agreement between him and his copartners for wages and expenses, is not an employee within the meaning of the workmen's compensation act (Stats. 1913, p. 284, § 14).—Cooper v. Industrial Accident Commission, 177 Cal. 685, 171 Pac. 684 (Cooper v. Bunker Hills Syndicate, not reported; Cooper v. Industrial Accident Commission, 55 Cal. Dec. 480, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 47).

2. Dependent.

233. "Member of family"—Definition.—The term "member of family of deceased employee" as used in section 19(c) of the act, means a member of a collective group or household under one domestic government and maintenance, whether or not actually related to the deceased.—Landis v. Prosser, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 204.

234. Daughter-in-law and grandchild.—A dependent daughter-in-law and a grandchild are not members of a contributor's family and under the act of 1917 are not entitled to a death benefit.—Block v. Board of Public Service Commissioners, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 239.

235. Termination of assumed obligation to support sister.—Where the obligation of a deceased employee assumed to support his sister terminated by her marriage on the day before he sustained his fatal injury, she was not at the time of his death being supported by him and was not entitled to a death benefit.—Leonock v. Southwestern, etc., Co., 6 I. A. C. Dec. 234.

236. Non-resident parents—Presumption as to dependency.—In view of subdivision (b) of section 19 of the act there is no conclusive presumption that the non-resident father and mother of a deceased employee were either wholly or partially dependent upon him for support.—Garcia v. Industrial Accident Commission, 171 Cal. 57, 58, 151 Pac. 741.

237. Minor child of divorced parents.—The minor child of parents who are divorced, without provision made for its support, is dependent where a father orally agrees to support the child.—Tamagni v. Moore, etc., Co., 5 I. A. C. Dec. 176.

238. Same—Father's statutory obligation not ended by divorce decree.—A father is not relieved from liability for the maintenance of his child by an order of court in a divorce decree requiring him to pay a specified sum at stated intervals for that purpose, such order not creating in place of the statutory liability, an ordinary debt or money obligation.—Robert Sherer & Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, (Cal.) 185 Pac. 797.

239. Dependency of father on minor son.—Where a minor son earns only enough to buy his own clothing, the dependency of his father is not established.—Peabody v. Hamner & Main, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 175.

240. Stepmother — Stepmother of deceased employee, living with him in a house owned by her but kept up entirely by him, supported entirely by him, was held to be totally dependent upon him, and the potential income from the house was disregarded.—Reichsrath v. Fortin, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 93.

241. Invalid son—Wife's earnings.—It was held that under the circumstances of the present case an invalid husband was totally dependent on his father, although his wife's earnings contributed to a small extent to the family expenses.—Block v. Public Service Commissioners, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 239.

242. Wife—Interlocutory decree of divorce without alimony.—A widow who had obtained an interlocutory decree of divorce without alimony from her husband on the ground of desertion, and he is not living with her at the time of his death, was held not in fact to be dependent for support and that he was not legally liable for the support and that she was not entitled to a death benefit.—Perry v. Fresno Herald, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 110.

243. Under the act a wife who was not living with her husband at the time of his death, and who had obtained an interlocutory decree of divorce from him, on her complaint alleging wilful neglect, not asking alimony or other provision for her support, and which decree made no provision for her support, and contained no reservation of jurisdiction to award alimony or maintenance, is not entitled to compensation, since he was not at the time of his death "legally liable for her support."—London, etc., Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 58 Cal. Dec. 393, 184 Pac. 864, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 196 (Oberg v. London, etc., Co., 6 I. A. C. Dec. 90).

244. Where an employee was killed by an industrial injury, after his wife had been granted an interlocutory decree of divorce, without alimony, but before final decree, and no actual dependency being shown, he was not legally liable for her support, and she was not entitled to compensation under the act.—Capley v. Carkey, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 203.

244a. Under the provisions of section 14(a)(1) of the act of 1917, a deceased employee was liable for the support of his wife, who had obtained an interlocutory decree of divorce, but not a final decree, prior to his death, notwithstanding the interlocutory decree did not make provision for alimony or support.—Oberg v. California Construction Company, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 80.

245. Divorce—No condition as to support of children—No dependency of children.—Where a wife of a deceased employee had been granted a divorce while on publication of summons only, and was awarded the exclusive custody of the minor children, without any condition of support for the children, it was held that he was not legally liable for the support of such children and that such children were not dependent upon him for support at the time of his death.—Browning v. Swanston, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 282.

246. Illegitimate minor children living with his family.—Where an employee was living apart from his wife, who had obtained an interlocutory decree of divorce without alimony, and his two illegitimate children and their mother were living with him as members of his family at the time of his death, it was held that the children were total dependents upon deceased for support, and that the entire total benefit should be apportioned to them.—Perry v. Industrial Accident Commission, 176 Cal. 706, 709, 169 Pac. 353 (Perry v. Fresno Herald, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 110).

246a. Same—Finding supported by evidence.—When the evidence showed the deceased employee had separated from his wife several years before his death, and she had received nothing from him during separation, had sought nothing from him, did not expect anything, and was seeking a divorce without support, the finding of the commission against her dependency was supported by the evidence.—Perry v. Industrial Accident Commission, 176 Cal. 706, 708, 169 Pac. 353.

247. Woman and employee living together in good faith as husband and wife, though not married.—Where the applicant and the deceased employee were living together in good faith as husband and wife without marriage, under the mistaken belief that the possession of the marriage license issued by the county clerk was sufficient and that no ceremony need be performed, it was held that the applicant was a member of his family and a dependent within the meaning of the act.—Temescal Rock Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 180 Cal. 637, 182 Pac. 447 (Rodriguez v. Temescal Rock Co., 5 I. A. C. Dec. 202).

248. Woman and employee living together—No legal liability for support.—Where the applicant was living with the deceased employee as his wife and was supported by him and there is no legal liability to support under the evidence and no evidence of marriage, it was held that she was not dependent under the act.—Blanca v. King, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 196.

249. Woman married to employee without divorce from previous husband.—A woman who erroneously believing herself divorced, remarried, is a member of the family for purposes of dependency under the act of her putative husband.—Howe v. Eisenmayer-Main Grain Co., a corporation, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 174.

250. Wife separated from employee because of latter's desertion—Decree for separate maintenance.—Under section 14(a)(1) a woman not living with her husband at the time of his death because of his desertion of her is entitled to compensation, in the theory that he was "legally liable for her support" at the time of his death, notwithstanding the existence of a maintenance decree in her favor.—Continental, etc., Co. v. Pillsbury, 58 Cal. Dec. 338, 8 A. L. R. 1110, 184 Pac. 658, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 158.

251. Wife living separate and apart from her husband against his will.—Where a wife voluntarily leaves her husband against his will and continues to live separate and apart from him and was self-supporting, and the husband refused to sign an agreement of separation and there was a settlement of property rights, is not dependent upon her husband for support.—Mills v. Pomona, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 295.

252. Wife's justified desertion of employee.—Where a wife's desertion of her husband was justified by his misconduct and he had commenced suit against her for divorce on the grounds of desertion, and the wife's default had been entered but had not been tried at the time of his death, it was held that he was at the time of his death legally liable for her support and also of an illegitimate child by another woman and that since there was no surviving parent of said child, both it and the wife were totally dependent upon the deceased for their support.—Wilcut v. Cudahy Packing Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 308.

253. Remarriage of widow of deceased employee.—The death benefit awarded the widow of a deceased employee is not terminated by her remarriage under the circumstances of this case.—Walters v. Mes-sick, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 111.

254. Wife confined in insane asylum.—A wife confined in a state hospital for the insane is wholly dependent upon the husband, though no support is given.—Hanson v. Jones, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 147.

255. Dependency—Stranger to the blood—Housekeeper for employee.—A stranger to the blood of a deceased employee who kept house for him in his lifetime and who was not supported otherwise, was held to be a total dependent.—Barry v. Fleishhacker & Co., 5 I. A. C. Dec. 162.

a. Arising out of employment.

See above subtitle "Employee."

See below, subtitles "Course of Employment"; "Proximately Caused by Employment"; and "Disability."

266. Conditions of right to compensation.—Section 12 of the act provides for an award of compensation to the dependents of an employee only where the proximate cause of the death of such employee was a personal injury sustained "by accident arising out of and in the course of the employment."—Brooker v. Industrial Accident Commission, 176 Cal. 275, 276, L. R. A. 1918F, 878, 168 Pac. 126.

267. The accidents which arise out of the employment of a person injured and which entitle him to compensation under the act are those in which it is possible to trace the injury to the nature of the employee's work or to the risks to which the employer's business exposes him.—Continental Casualty Company v. Indiana Accident Commission, (Cal.) 190 Pac. 849 (Skidmore v. Golden State, etc., Co., 6 I. A. C. Dec. 183).

268. Where there is apparent to a rational mind, upon consideration of all the circumstances, a causal connection between the conditions under which the work is required to be performed and the resulting injury, such injury arises out of the employment within the meaning of the act.—Globe, etc., Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 36 Cal. App. 280, 171 Pac. 1088, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 36.

269. An employer can not be held liable under the act unless the accident arises out of and in the course of the employment and it devolves on the claimant to establish this fact by evidence from which such a conclusion is fairly inferable.—Casualty Company v. Industrial Accident Commission, 54 Cal. Dec. 599, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 340.

270. Performance of necessary and natural act, and cessation of work for act of self-indulgence.—On petition for rehearing the court was of the opinion that the only difference between a case where the employee pauses in his work to do some necessary and natural act, and the case where there is a cessation of work for an indulgence in some act merely pleasant and convenient to the employee, is that in the latter case the employer may have the right, by reasonable rules and regulations, to forbid indulgence, as smoking, during working hours. There was no such rule in the present case.—Whiting-Mead, etc., Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 26 Cal. App. Dec. 262, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 38 (original decision, 26 Cal. App. Dec. 112, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 4; Duarte v. Whiting-Mead, etc., Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 182). Rehearing denied. Affirmed by supreme court, 178 Cal. 505, 5 A. L. R. 1518, 173 Pac. 1105, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 152.

271. Compensable injuries—Risk reasonably incident to employment.—The rule is that those injuries only are compensable which result from risk reasonably incident to the employment.—Coronado Beach Co. v. Pillsbury, 172 Cal. 682, 686, L. R. A. 1916F, 1164, 158 Pac. 212.

277. Injury must arise out of employment as well as be received in the course of the employment.—An injury of an employee for which compensation is claimed under the act must not only be received in the course of the employment, but must also arise out of the employment.—Kimbol v. Industrial Accident Commission, 173 Cal. 351, 353, Ann. Cas. 1917E, 312, L. R. A. 1917B, 595, 160 Pac. 150.

278. Conditions of compensation under act of 1913.—Under the act of 1913 (p. 279), section 12(a), an employer is liable for an injury suffered by an employee only when such injury is caused by an "accident arising out of and in the course of the employment," and this right compensation is not broadened by subdivision 2 of that section in the event of death, but is made more specific by the addition of the clause "acting within the course of his employment as such."—Ocean Acc., etc., Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 173 Cal. 313, 316, L. R. A. 1917B, 336, 159 Pac. 1041.

279. Injury must arise out of and in course of employment.—The act creates a liability against the employer in favor of the injured employee only when the injury is the result of accident arising out of and in the course of the employment.—Englebreton v. Industrial Accident Commission, 170 Cal. 793, 796, 151 Pac. 421.

280. Conditions of liability.—An employer can not be held liable for accidental injuries, under the act, unless the accident arises out of and in the course of the employment.—Casualty Company v. Industrial Accident Commission, 176 Cal. 530, 533, 169 Pac. 76.

281. Liability of employer — Accident arising out of employment.—Section 12(a) of the act imposes liability for compensation only where the injury results from an accident arising out of and in the course of the employment of the person injured.—Coronado Beach Co. v. Pillsbury, 172 Cal. 682, 684, L. R. A. 1916F, 1164, 158 Pac. 212.

282. Proper test of meaning of phrase.—A proper test of the meaning of the phrase "arising out of the employment" used in the act in defining a compensable injury excludes an injury which can not be fairly traced to the employment as a contributing cause, and which comes from a hazard to which the workman would be equally exposed apart from the employment.—Kimbol v. Industrial Accident Commission, 173 Cal. 351, 353, Ann. Cas. 1917E, 312, L. R. A. 1917B, 595, 160 Pac. 150.

283. When accident "arises out of" employment.—An accident "arises out of" the occupation when there is a causal connection between the conditions under which the servant works and the resulting injury.—Balboa, etc., Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 35 Cal. App. 793, 171 Pac. 108, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 6 (Stanley v. Balboa, etc., Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 162).

284. Existence of causal connection between employment and incident.—When it is apparent to the rational mind, upon consideration of all the circumstances, that a causal connection exists between the conditions under which the work is to be performed and the resulting injury, and, under this test, it can be seen that the injury followed as a natural incident of the work, and to have been contemplated by a reasonable person familiar with the whole situation as a result of the exposure occasioned by the nature of the employment, then it arises "out of" the employment.—Kimbol v. Industrial Accident Commission, 173 Cal. 351, 353, Ann. Cas. 1917E, 312, L. R. A. 1917B, 595, 160 Pac. 150.

285. Causal connection between injury and conditions of the employment.—An injury arises out of the employment within the meaning of the act, where a causal connection between the injury and the conditions under which the work is required to be done.—Elk Grove, etc., District v. Industrial Accident Commission, 34 Cal. App. 589, 168 Pac. 392.

286. Accidents arising out of the employment of the person injured are those in which it is possible to trace the injury to the nature of the employee's work or to the risks to which the employer's business exposes the employee.—Balboa, etc., Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 35 Cal. App. 793, 171 Pac. 108, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 6 (Stanley v. Balboa, etc., Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 162).

287. An accident arising out of the employment within the meaning of the act is that in which it is possible to trace the injury to the nature of the employee's work, or to the risks to which the employer's business exposes the employee.—Ward v. Industrial Accident Commission, 175 Cal. 42, L. R. A. 1918A, 233, 164 Pac. 1123, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 117 (Ward v. Ward, 3 I. A. C. Dec. 220).

288. Causative danger must be peculiar to the employment at the time and place.—The causative danger, to bring the injury within the benefit of the act, must be peculiar to the work and not common to the neighborhood, incidental to the character of the business and not independent of the relation of master and servant; it need not be foreseen or expected, but after the event it must appear to have had its origin in a risk connected with the employment and to have flowed from that source as a rational consequence.—Kimbol v. Industrial Accident Commission, 173 Cal. 351, 353, Ann. Cas. 1917E, 312, L. R. A. 1917B, 595, 160 Pac. 150.

289. Exposure to particular danger different from the commonality.—Where an employee is exposed to a particular danger, differing substantially from the normal risk to which all are subject, and the employment necessarily accentuates and increases his danger above that to which persons generally are subject, then it may be fairly held that the conclusion is warranted that the accident, although unexpected and unusual and unanticipated in any way, arose out of the employment.—Kimbol v. Industrial Accident Commission, 173 Cal. 351, 355, Ann. Cas. 1917E, 312, L. R. A. 1917B, 595, 160 Pac. 150.

290. Unsafe condition of place of employment.—Where the injury to the employee is due to the unsafe condition of the place where he is employed and required to work, the injury results from a risk reasonably incidental to the employment.—Kimbol v. Industrial Accident Commission, 173 Cal. 351, 355, Ann. Cas. 1917E, 312, L. R. A. 1917B, 595, 160 Pac. 150.

291. Safe access to employer's premises.—An employer is not required to furnish a safe means of access to the premises on which his employees work.—Mentz v. Pacific, etc., Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 292.

292. Quarrels among employees—Injuries not usually compensable.—Ordinarily, and outside of certain exceptions, injuries suffered by employees during quarrels among themselves may not be made the basis of compensation under the act.—Metropolitan Redwood Lumber Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 28 Cal. App. Dec. 1075, 182 Pac. 315, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 78.

See Gireaux v. Metropolitan Redwood Lumber Co., 6 I. A. C. Dec. 4.

293. Foreman of gang of railroad hands —Assault by section hand.—An injury sustained by a foreman in charge of a gang of railroad section hands, at the hands of one of the latter, as a result of an assault growing out of an altercation, arising from the justifiable efforts of the injured employee to maintain his authority and protect his employer's property, was an injury resulting from an accident arising out of and in the course of his employment.—Western Indemnity Co. v. Pillsbury, 170 Cal. 686, 706, 151 Pac. 398.

294. Employee assaulted by foreman.

An injury sustained by an employee by reason of an assault by his foreman was held to have been incident to the employment and not because of an altercation due to personal feeling.—Catalina v. Redwood, etc., Co., 5 I. A. C. Dec. 89.

295. Hotel elevator conductor—Assault by fellow employee.—An injury sustained by a hotel elevator conductor from an assault by a fellow employee in the course of a personal altercation as to the proper use of the elevator under the rules of the employer, was held to be an injury arising out of the employment and compensable.—Waldstein v. Hotel Richelieu, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 177.

296. Employee assaulted by fellow employee.

An injury sustained by an employee while performing service in his employment, by an assault on the part of a fellow servant, known by the employer to be of a quarrelsome nature not due to blame or fault on the part of the injured employee, but to quarrelsome nature of the assailant, and is held to have arisen out of and been proximately caused by the employment, and to be, compensable.—Tamborini v. Melville, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 217.

297. Assault by fellow employee — Personal feeling.

An injury resulting from a fellow employee's assault, provoked by personal feeling, was held not to have arisen out of or been proximately caused by the employment, and was not compensable.—Albert v. Bethlehem Shipbuilding Co., 6 I. A. C. Dec. 65.

298. Same—Personal quarrel.

An injury from a fellow servant's assault provoked solely by a personal quarrel, applicant being the aggressor, held not to have arisen out of the employment, and was not proximately caused thereby, and was not compensable.—Taddei v. Pioneer Motor Company, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 65.

299. Unprovoked assault by fellow employee.

In the case of an injury from an unprovoked assault by a fellow employee, it was held that there was an absence of special risk, and that the injury did not arise out of the employment.—Mendel v. Redlick-Newman Co., 5 I. A. C. Dec. 69.

299a. Storekeeper of lumber company—

Assault by co-employee.—An injury, the result of an assault, sustained by a storekeeper in the employ of a lumber company, at the hands of a fellow clerk employed as bookkeeper and postmaster by the same company, the postoffice being located in the store, the assault being due to friction between the two employees, and arising in connection with the employment, arose out of and was proximately caused by the employment, although the injured employee was engaged at the time of the injury in performing services at the request of the company's manager, which was not strictly in the line of his duty.—Gireaux v. Metropolitan, etc., Co., 6 I. A. C. Dec. 4.

300. Assault due to conflict of work and not personal feeling.

Where an employee of one sub-contractor was assaulted and injured by an employee of another sub-contractor working on the same job and it appeared that the assault was prompted by a conflict of work and not by any personal feeling, it was held that the injury arose out of and was approximately caused by the employer.—Mishler v. Bay City, etc., Co., 5 I. A. C. Dec. 119.

301. Hotel houseman—Assault by applicant for employment.

A hotel houseman, having charge of the hiring of help, was specially exposed, by reason of his employment, in excess of the commonalty, to the danger of assault from a person applying for employment, and it is held that an injury resulting from such an assault arose out of and was proximately caused by his employment.—Badger v. Fryman, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 108.

302. Foreman of construction of county road—Assault by discharged employee.

An injury sustained by a foreman of a gang of men employed by a county in the construction of a concrete road, from being struck by a blow by a laborer discharged by him for refusing to perform the work in the manner directed, is an injury arising out of and in the course of his employment.—County of San Bernardino v. Industrial Accident Commission, 35 Cal. App. 33, 169 Pac. 255, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 324.

303. Clerk in cigar store—Aggressive attack on stranger.

Where a clerk in a cigar store became involved in a quarrel with a stranger and became the aggressor and attacked the stranger, and the latter made an attack which caused injuries resulting in such clerk's death, it was held that the altercation and assault did not arise out of the employment, and that the risk thereof was not incidental to or a part of the employment.—Treadwell v. Marks, 3 I. A. C. Dec. 3.

304. Restaurant cook — Assault by drunken customer.

Where a restaurant cook was employed at night and was required to keep a toilet clean and presentable for the use of customers and a drunken customer soiled the seat of the toilet and the cook remonstrated with him, whereupon the customer assaulted and injured the cook, it was held that employee was specially exposed thereby to the risk of such assault and therefore the injury arose out of the employment.—Hendricksen v. London, etc., Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 366.

305. Saloon manager—Injury while ejecting disturbing customer—Unprovoked assault.

Where it was the duty of a saloon manager to maintain order in the saloon and eject disturbing customers and an intoxicated customer made an unprovoked assault upon him and in self-defense and in an attempt to eject him, the manager sustained an injury to his hand, it was held that said injury arose out of and was proximately caused by said employment.—Scott v. Scott, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 193.

306. Barkeeper, shot in "holdup."—A barkeeper was shot in a "holdup" in his employer's saloon by robbers near midnight, and it was held that he was subjected to a special risk of such assaults and that therefore the injury was compensable.—Griffin v. Yribarne, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 165.

306a. Waiter in cafe—Killed while ejecting unruly persons.—Where it is a part of the duty of a waiter in a cafe to assist in keeping order, quell disturbances, and eject unruly persons, his widow and a minor son are entitled to compensation under the act, for his death while assisting in stopping a brawl in such cafe previously started between a disorderly patron and another waiter.—Stevens v. Industrial Accident Commission, 179 Cal. 592, 178 Pac. 296.

307. Grocery employee—Struck by mistake—Altercation between co-employees.—An employee, whose duties required him to stand at the foot of a chute down which various objects used in his employer's business were projected, was injured by being struck by a fellow employee, who, in the course of a personal altercation with another employee fell down the chute, and it was held that the injury arose out of and was proximately caused by the employment. — Deuel v. Ralphs Grocery Co., 6 I. A. C. Dec. 182.

308. Employee of commission house—Accidental killing during altercation between customer and fellow employee.—An employee in a commission house, who was killed by an accident caused by being shoved against a knife held in the hands of a customer during an altercation between such customer and a fellow employee, arising from an incident in the employment, but without any intent to make the deceased a party to the dispute, and in fact, without being aware of his proximity, was held not to be compensable, on the ground that the employment exposed the deceased to no greater risk of such an assault than a bystander not so employed.—Pereira v. Hunt, Hatch & Co., 5 I. A. C. Dec. 170.

309. Employee of lumber company—Loading lumber.—An employee of a lumber company who was injured in some manner while pulling a piece of timber from a pile from which he was loading lumber, was injured by an accident arising out of and in course of the employment, within the meaning of section 12 of the act of 1913.—Southwestern Surety Ins. Co. v. Pillsbury, 172 Cal. 768, 770, 158 Pac. 762.

310. Miner—Injured while riding on mine truck.—An employee at a mine, injured while riding on the mine truck on his return from an absence on leave to a distant point on his own affairs, who might have returned on the stage, was not injured in an accident arising out of and in the course of his employment notwithstanding the fact that before boarding the truck he stopped en route to the mine, at the request of the superintendent, and helped to unload the truck upon the superintendent's promise to pay him wages for the service, and continued his journey on the truck on the superintendent's invitation, and an award by the commission was unauthorized.—Bogges v. Industrial Accident Commission, 176 Cal. 534, 536, L. R. A. 1918F, 883, 169 Pac. 75.

311. Laborer in the erection of a building—Fall due to epileptic fit.—Under the act, an injury resulting in the death of a laborer employed in the erection of a building from falling from the scaffold upon which he was working to the ground thirty-nine feet below, is not an injury arising out of his employment, where it is shown that he was seized with an epileptic fit and fell to the surface of the scaffold and from thence to the ground.—Brooker v. Industrial Accident Commission, 176 Cal. 275, L. R. A. 1918F, 878, 168 Pac. 126, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 311 (Fuente v. Goodbody 3, I. A. C. Dec. 492).

312. Chambermaid in hotel—Killed by falling down light well.—A woman employed and performing service as chambermaid in a hotel, killed by falling down a light well of the hotel while voluntarily performing the service as janitor of cleaning the light well, and in spite of warning of the danger, and without knowledge of her employer, was not killed by an accident arising out of and in the course of her employment.—Williamson v. Industrial Accident Commission, 177 Cal. 715, 718, 171 Pac. 797.

313. Sailor—Disappearance without explanation—Presumption.—Where a sailor disappeared from the ship on which he was employed while on a voyage on the high seas, without explanation, the presumption is that his death arose out of his employment.—Karus v. Charles Nelson Company, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 125.

314. Bank messenger.—A bank messenger injured while having his automobile, furnished by his employer, repaired, at the employer's direction, was performing service in the course of his employment, and was entitled to compensation.—Angier v. First National Bank, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 156.

315. Cook's helper on construction train.—A cook's helper on a construction train, in which he was required by the terms of his contract of employment to work, eat and sleep, was injured by a fall when leaving the bunk car at night to attend to call of nature, and it was held that the danger of such injury was inherent in the use of the living conditions provided by the employer, and that the injury arose out of the employment and was compensable.—Ientzseh v. Southern Pacific Co., 6 I. A. C. Dec. 158.

316. Boatman—Drowning.—The circumstances held to indicate that a boatman employed on Western Pacific mole at San Francisco bay was drowned in the performance of his duties.—McLeod v. Clement & Son, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 18.

317. Marine fireman—Jumping to dock instead of using gangplank.—Where a marine fireman was injured in attempting to jump across a space of three and a half feet from a wharf to the barge where he was employed and where he slept instead of going over the gangplank, which he erroneously believed not strong enough to support him, the injury arose out of and was proximately caused by the employment.—Dado v. Standard Oil Co., 6 I. A. C. Dec. 9.

318. Sailor—Finger infection.—An infection of the finger of a sailor, who had not been off the ship where he was employed, which the evidence showed to be to some condition or injury to which he was specially exposed by reason of his employment, although the precise cause did not appear, held to have arisen out of and to have been proximately caused by the employment.—Gresswell v. Matson, etc., Co., 6 I. A. C. Dec. 49.

319. Bargehand—Fell from deck and drowned.—Where a deckhand on a barge, whose sole duty was to help load and unload the barge, while on a voyage from San Francisco to Oakland, in ignorance of a rule prohibiting him from being on deck, fell from the deck and was drowned, it is held that he was killed by accident occurring in the course of and arising out of his employment within the meaning of the act.—W. R. Rideout Co. v. Pillsbury, 173 Cal. 132, 134, 159 Pac. 435.

320. Dishwasher—Collapse of restaurant floor.—Where a dishwasher employed in a restaurant located upon the ground floor of a building was injured in the place of his employment by the sudden giving way of the floor immediately above the restaurant, not in any way connected with the latter and not under the control of the restaurant owner, it was held that the injury arose out of employment within the meaning of the act.—Kimbol v. Industrial Accident Commission, 173 Cal. 351, 354, Ann. Cas. 1917E, 312, L. R. A. 1917B, 595, 160 Pac. 150.

321. Laborer employed to shovel gravel—Driving team during temporary exchange of work.—The driving of a team during a temporary exchange of work with the teamster by a laborer employed to shovel gravel, is not the regular employment of such laborer, and an award for an injury received by him while so engaged, on the ground that it arose out of and in the course of his employment must be annulled.—Modoc Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 32 Cal. App. 548, 163 Pac. 685.

322. Street car conductor—Injured while on personal errand.—It was held in this case that at the time of the injury the street car conductor was engaged in an unauthorized personal errand and that therefore the injury did not arise out of or in the course of employment.—Rydberg v. San Francisco, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 333.

323. Injury in automobile accident—Risk of commonality.—Where an employee was paid mileage, and his wages while being transported from his home to his place of employment, and was injured in an automobile accident, it was held that the risk of such injury was not a risk of the commonality and said injury arose out of and in the course of employment.—Summers v. California Iron Works, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 275.

324. Hotel porter—Injured by kicking hose of vacuum cleaner.—Where a hotel porter kicked the hose of a vacuum cleaner and suffered a slipping of the semilunar cartilage of his knee and several years theretofore he had suffered an injury to the same knee, but had suffered no intervening disability therefrom, it was held that said injury arose out of the employment and was compensable.—Evans v. Meyers, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 250.

325. Bootblack on ferryboat while on his way to lunch on board.—Where a bootblack employed upon a ferryboat was required by the nature of his employment to eat his lunch upon said ferryboat and, while descending the stairs on his way from the bootblack stand to the lower deck where he ate his lunch, he slipped and sustained a hernia, it was held that said hernia arose out of and was proximately caused by said employment.—Lomoglio v. Green, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 249.

326. President and shop foreman injured while delivering a message for vice president.—Where the president and shop foreman of a corporation was asked to deliver a message for the vice president, who lived near the applicant's home, and after performing the errand he was injured, it was held that such injury was incurred in the course of his employment, and the injury arose out of the employment.—Goodwin v. National Cornice Works, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 245.

327. Making repairs on automobile used in employer's business.—Where an employee used his father's automobile in the course of his employment and his employer paid for the gasoline and oil consumed, and while performing services in the course of his employment said employee started for his home in order to make necessary repairs on said automobile and he was injured on the way, it was held that the making of such repairs was so closely connected with said employment that the injury arose out of and was proximately caused by said employment.—Davis v. Earl Publishing Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 234.

328. Injury sustained while obeying unauthorized order.—It was held under the present circumstances that an injury sustained by an employee while obeying an unauthorized order of his employer's representative, was an injury which arose out of and in the course of the employment, it being the duty of such employee to obey such directions, regardless of the power or authority of the latter to give said directions.—Norton v. City of Oakland, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 231.

329. Performance of unauthorized act.—An employee who, even in the performance of a duty of his employment, does an unauthorized act reasonably incident to his employment, thereby enters upon an undertaking outside the scope of his employment and an injury sustained while so doing does not arise out of or in the course of such employment.—Townsend v. Los Angeles, etc., Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 193.

330. Injury while going to lunch on employer's premises.—Where the employees keep their lunches in the dressing room provided by the employer and eat them upon the employer's premises, and one of said employees is injured while proceeding from the place where the duties of her employment are performed to said dressing room to get her lunch, it was held that said injury arose out of and in the course of her employment.—Mulholland v. Western, etc., Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 182.

331. Gamekeeper—Injury while serving self.—Where a gamekeeper was employed to bait duck ponds, keep trespassers away and care for the game preserve, and as part of his wages he lived upon the preserve and was supplied with provisions, including fresh meat, and was injured while attempting to shoot some mud hens for his own use, it was held that the procuring of said fresh meat was a matter of the applicant's own preference and convenience and that said injury therefore did not arise out of the employment.—Elliott v. Meek, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 178.

332. Same—Accidental gunshot.—The accidental killing of a gamekeeper while engaged in doing that which he was employed to do, patrolling his employer's ranch in quest of poachers, and in connection therewith, under express orders from his employer, assisting an authorized hunter in finding and killing a deer, is an act arising out of his employment within the meaning of the act.—O. L. Shafter Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 175 Cal. 522, 525, 166 Pac. 24.

333. Packing oranges—Breaking uterine adhesions.—Where, at the time of entering defendant's employ, a woman had abdominal adhesions, due to a uterine infection, which had not theretofore caused any disability, and said adhesions were strained or torn by a simple bodily movement while packing oranges, it was held that the injury arose out of and was proximately caused by the employment.—Hawley v. El Cajon, etc., Association, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 167.

334. Infection of vaccination wound.—Where death occurred from tetanus caused by an infected vaccination wound from a vaccination required as a condition precedent to employment, it was held that the evidence was insufficient to establish that said death arose out of or in course of employment.—Royer v. Atchison, etc., Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 159.

335. An injury sustained because of vaccination required of an applicant, precedent to such employment, does not arise out of or in the course of the employment which is given after such vaccination.—Royer v. Atchison, etc., Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 159.

336. Teamster—Automobile accident.—An injury sustained by a teamster on the premises of his employer, as a result of an attempted rescue of a child getting in the way of the employer's automobile, is held to be compensable.—Sibley, etc., Co. v. Nelson, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 203.

337. Hotel clerk—Gunshot inflicted for personal reasons.—An injury sustained by a hotel clerk from an assault and gunshot by a woman with whom he had been on extremely friendly and intimate relations, which had been discontinued shortly before the shooting, was held not to have been an injury arising from the performance of any of his duties and that the risk of being so assaulted and shot was not an incident of his employment and that therefore the injury was not proximately caused by the employment.—Griffin v. Argonaut Hotel, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 195.

338. Employee killed by insane employer.—The dependents of a deceased employee who was killed by his employer while the latter was laboring under an insane hallucination that the employee was robbing him, were not entitled to compensation, on the ground that the death did not arise out of and was not proximately caused by the employment, it appearing that the insanity was the sole actuating cause.—Wheeler v. McCaw, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 185.

339. Health officer—Mountain fever.—Where an employee of the state board of health was engaged in an anti-rabies campaign, which necessitated living and working in a wild country and exposed him to danger of tick bites, and by reason of such bites he contracted Rocky Mountain spotted fever, it was held that such exposure was greater than that to which his usual occupation subjected him or to which the commonality in the same locality was exposed and that therefore such disease arose out of the employment.—Adams v. State of California, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 62.

340. Construction camp—Use of water.—Where it was intended that the water of a certain spring should be furnished for the personal use of a large number of employees living at a construction camp, but the spring water was not always conveniently available and the employees without being cautioned as to the danger of so doing, used and drank water from a creek which flowed through the camp, and from his use of such creek water one of said employees contracted typhoid fever, it was held that the typhoid fever arose out of the employment and was compensable.—Price v. Bates, Borland & Ayer, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 99.

341. Employee injured on street—Special exposure to risk.—Where an employee was sent by his employer upon two express errands to be performed during the noon hour and the employee, after performing the first errand, and loitering upon the street a few minutes was injured while catching a street car to perform the second errand, it was held that he was specially exposed to the risk of such injury by reason of his employment, and that the injury arose out of the employment.—Cousins v. Hanlon, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 97.

342. Employee injured in automobile accident.—An injury in an automobile accident, the use of the automobile being authorized by the employer, was held to have resulted from special exposure to risk of such an injury by reason of the employment, and therefore to have arisen out of the employment.—Kelley v. American, etc., Co., 5 I. A. C. Dec. 53.

343. Fire fighter—Injured after services ended.—One employed to fight a fire, injured after his services were ended and he was ready to go home, was not injured in the course of his employment, and his injury did not arise out of the same, within the meaning of section 12a of the act.—London, etc., Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 173 Cal. 642, 645, 161 Pac. 2.

343a. Employee at mine accidentally shot by guard.—The guard, although acting recklessly and negligently, was in the performance of an act within the general scope of his duties, and was not acting maliciously, and the injured employee was entitled to recover compensation for the injury.—Atolia Mining Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 175 Cal. 691, 693, 167 Pac. 148.

344. Employee killed by fall down elevator shaft.—Where the employee was killed by falling down an elevator shaft from a floor of the employer's premises where he was not employed and where the duty of his employment did not call, the award of the commission was not authorized.—Casualty Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 176 Cal. 530, 534, 169 Pac. 76.

345. Retail buyer killed on way to the wholesale district.—A retail buyer for his employer's store, killed by a street car while on his way from his home to the wholesale district to buy the day's stock of fruit for the store, according to the regular routine of his employment, held to have been injured while on his way to the place of his employment, which was the wholesale district, that such injury was the result of a risk of the commonalty and not one to which he was specially exposed, and did not arise out of and was not sustained in the course of his employment.—Weyl v. L. D. McLean Co., 6 I. A. C. Dec. 64.

346. Employee injured while working under his foreman's direction for another corporation.—Employee of steel company working under the direction of a foreman employed by the steel company and also by a railroad company, was injured while working under the foreman's direction, for the latter company, with the knowledge of the former company, held that such injury arose out of and in the course of applicant's employment with the steel company and was compensable.—Thurow v. Noble Electric Steel Co., 6 I. A. C. Dec. 70.

347. Barber shop porter—Elevator accident.—An injury in an elevator in the building where applicant was employed, while he was on his way to obtain a bottle of milk for his lunch, was held to have been from a risk to which he was specially exposed, and not a risk of the commonalty and was compensable.—Miles v. Papi-neau, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 74.

348. Employee burned while extinguishing pan of burning alcohol.—An employee, fatally burned while attempting to extinguish a pan of burning alcohol, an act outside her express duties, was held, under the circumstances, to have suffered the injury while performing an act reasonably incidental to her employment.—Carlson v. Brunt, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 81.

349. Employee injured while cutting wood to keep warm.—An employee, occupying furnished lodgings as a part of his wages, was injured while cutting wood to keep warm after working hours. Held not compensable.—Hollas v. Noble Electric Steel Co., 6 I. A. C. Dec. 85.

350. Camp employee—Crossing railroad tracks.—Where an employee of a rice growers association resided at his employer's camp through which passed the tracks of a railroad, and was run over and killed by a train while crossing such track while on his way from his breakfast to his work, it was held that by reason of the nature of the facilities provided he was specially exposed to the risk of the injury he sustained, and that therefore such injury arose out of and was proximately caused by the employment.—Korean National Association of America v. State Compensation Insurance Fund, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 92.

351. Employee on way to place of employment—Transportation by employer.—Where transportation to the place of work is furnished by the employer as a part of the contract of hire, as in the present case, the employment commences when the employee starts to the place of work, and when injured on the way, the injury arises out of and in the course of the employment.—George v. Agelakis, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 109.

352. Employee injured while using employer's automobile for personal purposes.—An employee injured while using his employer's automobile on a personal errand, held not to be entitled to compensation.—Clarke v. Anderson Motor Co., 6 I. A. C. Dec. 123.

353. Employee of smelting plant—Burnt while warming foot over molten metal.—Where the employees of a smelting plant were customarily permitted by the employer to stand near the fires or other sources of heat in its plant to warm themselves, an injury sustained by an employee by warming his foot over molten metal, it was held that the act was not inherently foolhardy or dangerous or done in disregard of common prudence or in deliberate violation of any safety rule and therefore did not constitute serious and wilful misconduct, and that the injury was compen-sable.—Kusulas v. Great Western, etc., Co., 6 I. A. C. Dec. 187.

353a. Injury to hand by putting it into pipe to warm it.—An employee who suffered an injury to his hand by putting it into a pipe containing a revolving fan, for the purpose of warming it, without knowledge that the fan was there, was not guilty of wilful misconduct and his action was reasonably incidental to the employment and so connected with the conditions thereof that the injury was held to have been suffered arose out of the employment and was proximately caused thereby.—Mercado v. Joannes Brothers Co., 6 I. A. C. Dec. 259.

354. Weigher on coal barge—Epileptic seizure.—Where a weigher on a coal barge, on his way to lunch, but before leaving the dock where the barge was moored, was seen to lean against a boxcar standing on a track there, and to fall upon the track when the train was moved, and received injuries from which he died, it appeared that he was subject to epilepsy, and the question was whether the injury was proximately caused by an epileptic seizure, or by the employment. It was held that the evidence was insufficient to establish that the injury was proximately caused by an epileptic seizure, or that it was other than accidental, and that it was incidental to the conditions of the place of employment, and was compensable.—Battles v. King Coal Co., 6 I. A. C. Dec. 202.

355. Employee undergoing hospital treatment for injury—Death from influenza.—The death of an employee from influenza contracted during hospital treatment for an injury was held not to be compensable.—Perez v. Southern Pacific Co., 6 I. A. C. Dec. 190.

356. "Skylarking" with fellow employee.—A fall down a flight of stairs occasioned by a playful act of a fellow employee, in thrusting a newspaper in his ribs to tickle him, is not an accident arising out of the employment, although it occurred in the course of the employment.—Coronado Beach Co. v. Pillsbury, 172 Cal. 682, 684, L. R. A. 1916F, 1164, 158 Pac. 212.

357. It is immaterial that the playful act of a fellow employee, was momentary and void of malice, and not in excess of the usual practice among servants.—Coronado Beach Co. v. Pillsbury, 172 Cal. 682, 685, L. R. A. 1916F, 1164, 158 Pac. 212.

358. An injury to an employee in a toy establishment, caused by a trick camera containing a spring occasioned by the playful act of a fellow employee of normal capacity and intelligence in pointing the camera at him and releasing the spring, is not one arising out of and in the course of his employment.—Fishing v. Pillsbury, 172 Cal. 690, 158 Pac. 215.

359. "Skylarking."—An injury which was the result of "skylarking," although sustained while engaged in the duties of the employment, was held not to have arisen out of the employment.—Moore v. Lokard, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 185.

360. Clerk — Friendly personal intercourse.—Where a clerk, in greeting a fellow employee who was delivering supplies, placed his hand upon the latter's shoulder by way of a passing act of friendliness, without intent to indulge in funmaking or horseplay, and his hand was cut by a butcher knife which, without the clerk's knowledge the other was carrying under his arm, it was held that the injury was the result of an act not in excess of the usual intercourse customary while at work, and arose out of the employment.—Goldenson v. Southern Pacific Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 65.

361. Oil well driller—Employee killed on way to work.—Where a well driller was killed by a freight train while riding his motorcycle from his employer's shop to his place of employment and he was under no duty to report to the shop before going to work, it was held that the risk of being struck by such train was not a special exposure arising out of the employment but was a risk of the commonality.—Brown v. Borden, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 5.

362. Where a well driller stopped as usual at his employer's shop early in the morning and obtained some oil for his motorcycle, and also obtained a chain, and on his way to the place of employment nine miles distant was killed by a freight train; and the evidence showed that the chain had previously been used in the well drilling, though the decedent's purpose in taking it did not appear; that the deceased and his fellow employees frequently took tools on their motorcycles for use in their work and that they were required to report at the shop at night and frequently did report in the morning, though not under any duty to do so, and that they had no definite hours of labor but had to work nine hours a day, the work commencing at the well, it was held that while going from the shop to the well, deceased was not performing a service arising out of the employment.—Brown v. Borden, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 5.

363. Oil derrick carpenter—Added risk—Employee boarding slowly moving truck on which he was entitled to ride from work.—Where an oil derrick carpenter was permitted by the terms of his employment to ride from work to camp on his employer's truck, and while boarding a slowly moving truck for that purpose, was jostled by another employee who was boarding said truck, fell and was injured, it was held that said attempt to board the moving truck did not involve a greater risk than that inhering in the character of the service being then performed by him and that the injury therefore arose out of and happened in the course of his employment.—Radish v. Associated Oil Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 375.

364. Oil well driller—Fainting from exhaustion—Arising out of employment.—Where an oil well driller had been doing exhausting work for a considerable period with little rest, by reason of which he fainted and fell from a stool on which he was sitting and was injured, it was held that the injury arose out of and was proxmately caused by the employment.—Bellis v. Doan, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 340.

365. A supervising mechanical engineer of a cemetery, who was injured while going from his place of residence which was also his employer's business office, and to the cemetery for the performance of duties there, was held to have been specially exposed by reason of his employment to the risk of such street injury, and that the injury arose out of such employment.—Tally v. Roman Catholic Archbishop of San Francisco, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 96.

366. Injury after work while on way home—Risk of commonalty.—Where an employee was injured after work and while going from his employer's premises to his home by means of a private path traversing private property of a third party, which was the only means of access to the employer's premises, it was held that the risk of such injury was a risk of the commonalty and that the injury did not arise out of the employment.—Mentz v. Pacific, etc., Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 292.

367. Railroad employee—Injured on way to lunch on company's cars.—Where a railroad employee rode to and from his lunch each day on his employer's cars without the payment of a fare and just after leaving a car on his way to lunch, he was killed by another of his employer's cars, it was held that said death did not arise out of said employment.—Read v. United Railroads of San Francisco, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 251.

368. Injury on employer's premises, while gaining admission to place of employment.—The injury of an employee sustained on his employer's premises while gaining admission to such premises pursuant to his employer's expressed direction, was held to have been an injury arising out of and in course of the employment and to have occurred while the employee was performing services incidental to his employment and was therefore compensable.—Millar v. Moore & Scott Iron Works, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 98.

369. Bond officer of bank—Injured on return from pleasure trip incidental to business trip.—Where a bond officer of a bank, made a pleasure trip incidental to a business trip, in the course of which he decided to return to San Francisco and resume his duties, and was injured while on the way to San Francisco, it was held that the pleasure trip and the business trip were separable, and since the injury occurred on the way to San Francisco to resume his duties, it arose out of and in the course of employment.—Rogers v. Capital, etc., Bank, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 133.

370. Employee injured on way from work.—Where an employee was injured on his way from work, his transportation being paid for but not furnished by the employer as a part of the contract of hire, and it was held that the injury did not arise out of and was not proximately caused by the employment.—Richardson v. Los Angeles, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 71.

371. Employee killed while crossing railroad track on way from work.—Injury of employee by being struck by a motor truck while going from work across a third party's property, that route being required by his employer, held, notwithstanding such requirement, to have been proximately caused by a risk of the commonalty, and not to have arisen out of or been proximately caused by the employment.—Gomez v. Aetna, etc., Co., 6 I. A. C. Dec. 54.

372. Employer on way from employment agency to place of work.—An award was unauthorized for the death of a person not employed, who was killed while on his way from an employment agency to the place of his prospective employment, the foreman at the latter place having the sole power to engage laborers, and the employment agency having no authority other than to find and send laborers, notwithstanding such agency paid their transportation.—California Highway Commission, etc., v. Industrial Accident Commission, 40 Cal. App. 465, 181 Pac. 112, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 54.

373. Employee injured out of office on his return out of office hours.—When an employee left the place of his employment during the regular hours of employment, and was injured on his return after such hours to perform unfinished duties, which were ordinarily performed during such hours, although he was subject to emergency calls, such injury was not received when "performing service growing out of and incident to his employment and acting within the course of his employment" within the meaning of the act, and was not entitled to compensation under the act.—Fidelity, etc., Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, (Cal.) 193 Pac. 166.

374. Truck driver—Killed in automobile accident.—Where a truck driver ate his lunch upon his employer's premises and during the noon hour was told by his employer to start to perform a duty of his employment and while crossing the street to his truck he was killed by another automobile, it was held that he was obeying the express order to start at that time, and the injury arose out of and happened in the course of his employment.—Fickett v. Burton, etc., Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 306.

375. Driver of delivery wagon—Deviation from direct route.—An injury suffered by a driver of a delivery wagon while deviating from route, with employer's consent, on special errand, is held compensable.—Lauglais v. Fillmore Free Market, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 73.

376. Locomotive engineer—Sarcoma.—Death from sarcoma incited by trauma held to have been proximately caused by and to have arisen out of the employment of a locomotive engineer.—Carroll v. State Compensation Insurance Fund, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 191.

377. Truck driver for mining company.—The act of a truck driver for a copper mining company in using a circular saw to cut side boards for the truck in his charge, for the purpose of increasing its carrying capacity, was held to be a reasonable incident of the employment and an act which he could properly undertake without specific orders.—Jordan v. Calaveras Copper Co., 6 I. A. C. Dec. 193.

378. Automobile driver—Injured in automobile accident.—An injury sustained by an automobile driver employed to take passengers to a dance and back home again at the close of the dance, during the dance, while backing the automobile for the accommodation of certain of his passengers, is held to have arisen out of his employment and while he was performing service growing out of and incidental thereto.—Kochiopulos v. Aronson, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 40.

379. Driver of automobile truck—Killed by passing automobile.—Under the act, the death of the driver of an automobile truck for a transfer company happened in the course of and arose out of his employment, where it was shown that the deceased left his loaded truck at the noon hour on the opposite side of the street from his employer's office, and then proceeded to the office, where he remained about forty-five minutes, and was killed by a passing automobile while attempting to recross the street to his truck.—Burton, etc., Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 37 Cal. App. 657, 174 Pac. 72, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 157 (Fickett v. Burton, etc., Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 306).

380. Automobile delivery driver—Special exposure to danger of such injury.—The employment of an automobile delivery driver which caused him to travel continuously in the course of his employment, specially exposes him to the danger of street and road accidents, and an injury in such accident therefore arises out of the employment.—Employers' Liability, etc., Corporation v. Elmore, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 359.

381. Traveling salesman—Entertainment of customers.—Where a traveling salesman was authorized to entertain customers at his employer's expense, it was held that such entertainment was not a duty or service arising out of his employment in the sense that an injury incurred thereby is compensable.—Hamnett v. Pennsylvania Rubber Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 50.

382. Traveling salesman—Injury on vacation.—A traveling salesman, injured while on vacation, held under the circumstances of this case, to have been on a special errand for the benefit of his employer, and that the injury arose out of and was proximately caused by the employment, and was compensable.—Skidmore v. Golden State, etc., Co., 6 I. A. C. Dec. 183.

383. Traveling salesman—Poison oak poisoning.—Where a salesman rode over a country road with his wife in the course of his employment and his wife plucked some flowers at the side of the road near some poison oak shrubbery and he contracted poison oak but did not touch any object from which he could contract said ailment, it was held that there was no special exposure by reason of the employment to the risk of contracting poison oak and that therefore the ailment did not arise out of the employment.—Gates v. Ocean, etc., Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 368.

384. Traveling salesman—Assault by robber on country road.—Where a traveling salesman was required by his employment to travel by automobile on county roads and he carried small amounts of money which he collected from his employer's customers, and he was assaulted and killed by a stranger who had requested a ride and who robbed him of the money and valuables which he carried, and it did not appear that the region through which the deceased was traveling was especially subject to robberies or that the deceased carried or was reputed to carry such amounts of money or valuables as specially to subject him to the risk of assault, it was held that deceased was not specially exposed by reason of his employment to the risk of assault by robbers and that therefore the death did not arise out of the employment.—Cullom v. Co-operative, etc., Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 365.

385. Nurse—Death from influenza—Not specially exposed by reason of employment.—The death of a nurse, not specially exposed, from influenza, during an epidemic, held not compensable.—Frisbee v. State Compensation Insurance Fund, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 77.

386. Hospital interne—Influenza.—Influenza contracted by a hospital interne attending influenza patients exclusively, held to have arisen out of the employment.—Schwartz v. County of Fresno, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 132.

See, also, Slattery v. San Francisco, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 140, which was the case of a hospital steward who attended influenza patients in a closed ambulance, helped to undress and put them to bed and contracted the disease after five days of service, and died from the effects of the same, and a similar conclusion was reached, and compensation awarded.

387. Hospital steward's special exposure to highly infectious disease.—Where a disease is contracted because of its highly infectious character and an employee's special exposure to it, by reason of his employment, it constitutes an injury within the meaning of the act.—Slattery v. San Francisco, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 140.

388. Policeman—Influenza—Special exposure.—A policeman, whose duties required him to be in close contact with influenza patients was held to be more specially exposed to the danger of contracting the disease than the commonalty, and his death from the disease therefore arose out of and way proximately caused by his employment.—Holcomb v. State Compensation Insurance Fund, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 144.

389. Ranch foreman—Accidentally shot.—Where a ranch foreman, while performing the duties of the employment was accidentally shot by a gun in the possession of a fellow employee who intended to use same outside of work hours for purposes unconnected with said employment, it was held that the injury arose out of and was proximately caused by said employment.—Estes v. Channon & Estes, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 130.

390. Same—Injury from accidental discharge of gun.—Where an employer supplied a gun to his ranch employees with which to kill ranch pests, and an employee was injured at work by reason of the accidental discharge of the gun while it was being cleaned by another employee at the foreman's direction, it was held that the injury was a natural incident of the work and a normal result of the exposure occasioned thereby and that the injury therefore arose out of and was proximately caused by the employment.—Padrino v. Shedd, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 350.

391. An injury received by an employee from the accidental discharge of a gun, due to the jolting of the wagon in which such person was proceeding to his place of employment, is not an injury arising out of and in the course of his employment where the gun was taken along for the pleasure of a fellow employee as part of his belongings being conveyed to said place and had no connection with or bearing upon any part of his work notwithstanding the employer knew that he was taking the gun and made no protest thereto.—Ward v. Industrial Accident Commission, 175 Cal. 42, L. R. A. 1918A, 233, 164 Pac. 1123, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 117 (Ward v. Ward, 3 I. A. C. Dec. 220).

392. Millwright—Traveling employment.—An injury sustained by a millwright while journeying in an automobile belonging to his son to a place where he had been directed to go by his employer to install machinery, is an injury arising out of the employment, where it is shown that his employment was in the nature of a traveling employment.—London, etc., Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 35 Cal. App. 681, 170 Pac. 1074, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 386 (Summers v. California Iron Works, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 275).

393. Mill employee—Returning across railroad track from lunch.—Where employees of a milling company customarily, with the employer's knowledge, spent their lunch time on premises near the mill controlled though not owned by the employer, and were accustomed to cross a railroad track on their return to work, an employee injured while so crossing the track was held to have been performing service in the course of his employment at the time of his injury, and that the injury arose out of the employment.—Jamison v. Sperry Flour Company, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 132.

394. Mill employee—Actinomycosis.—Actinomycosis, contracted by a mill employee while grinding and sacking wheat and barley for feed, and filling sacks with pulverized grain from the spout of a grinding mill, is, under the circumstances of this case, an injury arising out of and in the course of his employment under the act of 1913.—Hartford, etc., Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 32 Cal. App. 481, 163 Pac. 225.

395. Piano salesman—Elevator accident on Sunday.—An employee of a piano company, who was hurt by falling into the elevator shaft in the building where the company occupied rented floor space, while attempting to use the elevator on his way to work, the elevator being under the sole control of the owner of the building, and maintained and operated for common use of all the tenants in the building has sustained an accident arising out of the course of his employment.—Starr Piano Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 58 Cal. Dec. 379, 184 Pac. 860, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 174 (Steinkamp v. Starr Piano Co., 57 Cal. Dec. 212, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 81, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 39).

396. The fact that an employee entered the building where his employer occupied rented floor space, on Sunday, by means of a key surreptitiously obtained, and was injured while attempting to operate the elevator, in the absence of the operator, does not affect his right to compensation, under the circumstances of the present case.—Starr Piano Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 58 Cal. Dec. 379, 184 Pac. 860, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 174 (Steinkamp v. Starr Piano Co., 57 Cal. Dec. 212, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 81, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 39).

397. An employee of a piano company, in charge of the company's exhibit on the fourth floor of the building, injured by falling in the passenger elevator shaft, into the open door of which he had entered for the purpose of operating the elevator to take himself and his companions to the floor on which was the exhibit, on Sunday, in the absence of the elevator operator, there being a safe means of reaching the floor by stairway, and he having entered the building with a passkey without the consent of his employer, is not entitled to compensation under the act.—Starr Piano Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 57 Cal. Dec. 212, 184 Pac. 860, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 39.

398. Typist—Elevator accident.—The act of a typist employed on the fourth floor of a building in going to the only restroom for women in the building on the ninth floor was an act reasonably incident to her employment, and was a proper use of the facilities provided for the employees of the tenants of the building, and the place of the injury on the ninth floor was constructively a part of the employer's premises, and the injury was compensable.—O'Connell v. Blum's Advertising Agency, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 225.

399. Clerk and bookkeeper—Automobile accident while mailing letters for employer.—An injury sustained by a clerk and bookkeeper from being run down by an automobile while crossing a public street to mail letters for his employer is an injury arising out of his employment.—Globe, etc., Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 36 Cal. App. 280, 171 Pac. 1088, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 36.

400. Bookkeeper—Injury from cranking automobile.—Where a bookkeeper was employed to work during the day only but on account of extra work was required to work with the manager at night with the understanding that he would be taken home from such night work in the employer's automobile and he was injured while cranking the automobile to go home from such work, it was held that said injury arose out of and happened in the course of the employment.—Schentz v. Los Angeles, etc., Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 384.

401. Employee voluntarily remaining at work after office hours to help fellow employee.—An applicant for compensation who was injured while remaining on employer's premises after work and as voluntarily assisting a fellow employee, held not entitled to compensation, because performing service outside his duties.—Speth v. Firestone, etc., Co., 6 I. A. C. Dec. 201.

402. Lighting cigarette by employee setting fire to oil-soaked bandage.—An injury sustained by an employee from the burning of a bandaged hand caused by the ignition of the bandage from a match which he had struck for the purpose of lighting a cigarette is an injury arising out of his employment.—Whiting, etc., Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 178 Cal. 505, 5 A. L. R. 1518, 173 Pac. 1105, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 152 (Duarte v. Whiting, etc., Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 182, S. C., 5 I. A. C. Dec. 4, 38).

403. Same—Personal acts which an employee may do.—Under the act such acts as are necessary to the life, comfort and convenience of the servant while at work, though strictly personal to himself, and not acts of service, are incidental to the service, and injury sustained in the performance thereof is deemed to have arisen out of the employment.—Whiting, etc., Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 178 Cal. 505, 5 A. L. R. 1518, 173 Pac. 1105, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 152 (Duarte v. Whiting, etc., Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 182, S. C., 5 I. A. C. Dec. 4, 38).

404. Janitor in public school.—Where a janitor of a public school was required to act as caretaker of the school premises during the summer vacation when he had few strictly janitorial services to perform, and he was specifically instructed not to allow any one to go through the building alone, and he was injured while showing through the building an insurance inspector who desired data on insurance rates in that vicinity, it was held that the act was reasonably incidental to his duties in general and that therefore the injury arose out of and happened in the course of his employment.—Brown v. Conley School District, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 353.

405. School teacher—Moving heavy seats to get needed book from bookcase.—An injury sustained by a public school teacher in moving a section of desks and seats in order to get to a bookcase and obtain a book therefrom, which she required in the course of her duties, was held to be an injury arising out of and sustained in the course of her employment.—Elk Grove, etc., District v. Industrial Accident Commission, 34 Cal. App. 589, 168 Pac. 392, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 284 (Hoag v. Elk Grove, etc., District, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 70).

406. Moving picture actor—Automobile accident.—An injury sustained by an actor employed by a moving picture company while standing in a public street, engaged in social converse, from being struck by an automobile, is not an injury arising out of his employment, notwithstanding the corners of the intersecting street were occupied by the company as parts of its plant.—Balboa, etc., Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 35 Cal. App. 793, 171 Pac. 108, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 6 (Stanley v. Balboa, etc., Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 162).

407. An injury received by a moving picture actor, while standing in a street, engaged in a social conversation with other employees of the same company, by being run over by an automobile driven by an officer of the same company, was not an injury arising out of his employment, although the company's plant occupied the four corners of the street crossing and he was at the time waiting to be called for service.—Balboa, etc., Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 35 Cal. App. 793, 171 Pac. 108.

408. Same — Same — Prerequisites to award.—To entitle an employee to compensation under the act it must appear that the injury is traceable to the nature of the employee's work or to the risks to which the employer's business exposes the employee, and that there is a causal connection between the conditions under which the employee works and the resulting injury; but it need not appear that the injury was foreseen or expected, but that after the event it must appear that it had its origin in a risk connected with the employment and to have followed that employment as a rational consequence.—Balboa, etc., Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 35 Cal. App. 793, 171 Pac. 108.

409. Watchman—Killed at post of duty.—The evidence in this case held sufficient to establish that the employee, a watchman, was assaulted while protecting his employer's property and that his death arose out of and was approximately caused by the employment.—Drager v. Rosenberg, etc., Co., 6 I. A. C. Dec. 135.

410. Death with no witnesses present—Presumption.—Where an employee sustains a violent death while at work, with no witnesses present, and the circumstances are consistent with death caused in the course of and arising out of the employment, it will be presumed that such was the fact.—Drager v. Rosenberg, etc., Co., 6 I. A. C. Dec. 135.

411. Night watchman—Performing service for fellow employee.—A corporation engaged in the construction of a railroad is not liable under the act for the death of a night watchman of a locomotive engine, whose duties were to stay on the engine nights and have it in readiness for the day's work, where such death occurred while he was temporarily in charge of a steam shovel, also operated in connection with the work, pursuant to a request of the person having the exclusive care and control of the shovel, which was without the knowledge or consent of his employer.—Robert Sherer & Co. v. Industrial Accident Commis- sion, 175 Cal. 615, 166 Pac. 313, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 220 (Bowin v. Sherer, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 16).

412. Night watchman—Wilfully inviting detrimental occurrence.—An award made to the widow of a night watchman and janitor is not supported by sufficient evidence, where it may be deduced therefrom that the deceased wilfully stepped aside from the performance of his duties, and invited by direct action on his part the occurrence of the detrimental causes which produced his death.—John A. Roebbling's Sons Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 36 Cal. App. 10, 171 Pac. 987, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 11 (Bundshu v. John A. Roebbling's Sons Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 215).

413. Unexplained fall—Presumption.—An injury from an unexplained fall, not shown to be due to an attack of pre-existing illness, and not causally unconnected with the employment, occurring while performing service in the employment, held to have arisen out of and proximately caused by the employment, and proof of such injury so occurring discharges the burden of proof resting upon the applicant.—Schwartz v. Hines, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 238.

414. Fireman—Performing work according to custom out of the usual manner.—An award for the death of a fireman employed in a rolling mill operated by a railroad company, is within the jurisdiction of the commission, where the evidence shows that at the time of the death the deceased was performing the duty of his employment in accordance with the custom of the workmen, known to the foreman in charge, although not in the usual manner of performance.—Southern Pacific Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 177 Cal. 378, 170 Pac. 822, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 20 (Hunt v. Southern Pacific Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 107).

414a. Bookkeeper working extra hours at night—Taken home in employer's automobile.—Where a bookkeeper was employed to work during the day only but on account of extra work was required to work with the manager at night with the understanding that he would be taken home from such night work in the employer's automobile, which was used in the business, and he was injured while cranking the automobile to go home from such work, it was held that the said injury arose out of and happened in the course of the employment.—Schnetz v. Los Angeles, etc., Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 384.

414b. Teamster handling tanbark—Poisoned hands.—An injury sustained by a teamster handling rough tanbark which caused his hands to be bruised and poisoned, there being no time at which an accident occurred, was held to be an injury arising in the course of the employment and due to the occupation.—Seward v. Sunset, etc., Co., 3 I. A. C. Dec. 49.

414c. Night watchman on engine—Temporarily operating steam shovel.—A corporation engaged in the construction of a railroad is not liable under the act for the death of a night watchman of a locomotive engine, whose duties were to stay on the engine nights and have it in readiness for the day's work, where such death occurred while he was temporarily in charge of a steam shovel, also operated in connection with the work, pursuant to a request of the person having the exclusive care and control of the shovel, which was without the knowledge or consent of his employer.—Sherer v. Industrial Accident Commission, 54 Cal. Dec. 64, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 220 (Dunn v. Steigh, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 16).

414d. Not arising out of employment.—The injury in the present case was held not to have arisen out of the employment.—Fishing v. Daly Bros., 2 I. A. C. Dec. 607 (see, also, 3 I. A. C. Dec. 215); Vittorio v. California Pottery Co., 3 I. A. C. Dec. 26.

414e. Employee on vacation.—An employee on vacation engaged in the diversions of horseback riding, deer hunting, etc., is not entitled to compensation, etc., and injured while so engaged, is not entitled to compensation, such injury not being reasonably incident to his employment or traceable to the nature of his work.—Continental Casualty Company v. Indiana Accident Commission (Cal.), 190 Pac. 849 (Skidmore v. Golden State, etc., Company, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 183).

b. Course of employment.

415. Reasonable act outside express duties—Employee not bound to fixed and unchangeable limits.—An employee is not bound to operate within fixed and unchangeable limits but is entitled to use his own judgment in the discharge of his duties to his employer, and a reasonable act performed by him in the general line of the duties of his employment, although outside of the strict limits of his instructed or usual duties, is within the course of his employment.—Landis v. Prosser, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 204.

416. Right not limited to injury sustained while actually manipulating the tools of his calling.—The right to compensation under the act is not restricted to injuries occurring while an employee is actually present manipulating the tools of his calling.—Judson, etc., Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 58 Cal. Dec. 29, 184 Pac. 1, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 151 (Gallia v. Judson, etc., Co., 6 I. A. C. Dec. 33).

417. Service not injury in course of the employment.—The right to an award under the act is not founded upon the fact that the injury grows out of and is incidental to his employment, but upon the fact that the service he was rendering at the time of the injury grows out of and is incidental to the employment.—Ocean, etc., Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 173 Cal. 313, 322, L. R. A. 1917B, 336, 159 Pac. 1041.

418. Injury sustained while going to or returning from work.—An employee injured while going to or returning from his work, whether his journey takes him over private or public ways, is not entitled to the benefits of the act.—Ocean, etc., Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 173 Cal. 313, 322, L. R. A. 1917B, 336, 159 Pac. 1041.

419. Exception to rule—Use of only available means of access.—Where an employee was killed about twenty feet in front of his employer's premises, while going there to work, the death was compensable, since deceased was approaching the only available access to the premises and the only way of reaching the entrance, and this means of approach had, to the knowledge of the employer, been used for years by his employees, although he owned no right of way there.—Gallia v. Judson Manufacturing Co., 6 I. A. C. Dec. 33.

420. Same—Special exposure to risk.—The circumstances here take the case but of the rule that injuries incurred off the employer's premises, while going to or returning from work, are not compensable and show a special exposure to risk, and therefore the death is held to have arisen out of and to have been proximately caused by the employment.—Gallia v. Judson Manufacturing Co., 6 I. A. C. Dec. 33.

421. Same—Special exposure of particular means of access.—Exception to rule that injuries incurred off employer's premises while going to or returning from work are not compensable is where the particular means of access specially exposed the employee to great risk of injury, and the employer fails to provide other means.—Gallia v. Judson, etc., Co., 6 I. A. C. Dec. 33.

See, also, De Constantin v. Public Service Commission, 83 S. E. 88; Hills v. Blair, 148 N. W. 243; In re Sundine, 105 N. E. 433 (Gomez v. Etna, etc., Co., 6 I. A. C. Dec. 54).

422. Miner—Return to mine after temporary absence on private business.—An injury sustained by a miner while returning to the mine after a temporary absence on private business to a distant city, was held not to be an injury happening in the course of his employment.—Bogges v. Industrial Accident Commission, 54 Cal. Dec. 598, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 343 (Fenner v. Bogges, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 40).

423. Injury on way to receive pay check, after discharge.—An employee who was injured after his discharge while on his way to receive his pay draft, was held to have been engaged in the course of his employment.—McFarland v. Madera, etc., Co., 5 I. A. C. Dec. 124.

424. Returning after quitting employment.—Where a woodsman quit his employment for a week-end trip, with the expectation of being re-employed on his return, and his employer advanced to him the railroad fare, to be deducted from his wages thereafter to be earned, and the employee was injured while returning on a train for further employment, it was held that said injury did not happen in the course of any employment of said woodsman.—McKenzie v. McCloud, etc., Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 389.

425. Seaman—Reaching and departing from ship.—A seaman or other employee of a vessel is entitled to the benefits of the act if injured while using the instrumentality provided either in reaching or departing from his ship, and in case no instrumentality at all is provided.—Ocean, etc., Co. v.

Industrial Accident Commission, 173 Cal. 313, 322, L. R. A. 1917B, 336, 159 Pac. 1041.

426. Same—Seeking to board vessel.—A seaman or employee of a vessel can not be said to be seeking to board his vessel, within the meaning of the rule allowing him compensation in such a case, until he has come into such proximity as to be using or immediately about to use the gangplank, ladder or other instrumentality "specifically connected with the ship."—Ocean, etc., Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 173 Cal. 313, 322, L. R. A. 1917B, 336, 159 Pac. 1041.

427. Seaman—Adopting perilous means of boarding ship, when no other instrumentality is provided.—In the case of a seaman or other employee an injured employee will not be excluded from the benefits of the act if he adopts some perilous means of boarding his ship, as by endeavoring to leap to her deck from the pier, where no instrumentality of reaching the ship is provided.—Ocean, etc., Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 173 Cal. 313, 322, L. R. A. 1917B, 336, 159 Pac. 1041.

428. Use of hazardous means of exit from employer's premises when safe means exist.—The use by an employee of a hazardous means of leaving his employer's premises when a perfectly safe method of exit is afforded him and he uses such hazardous means for his own convenience and in order to save a few minutes of his own time, is an added risk not contemplated in the contract of hire and an injury sustained thereby was held not to arise out of or in the course of the employment, nor while performing any service in the same.—Sharp v. Mammoth, etc., Co., 5 I. A. C. Dec. 124.

429. Injury while leaving place of employment by unusual and dangerous exit.—The dependents of a ship bolter who sustained a fatal injury while leaving the place of employment to go to lunch, by an unusual and dangerous exit were not entitled to compensation.—Moore & Scott Iron Works v. Industrial Accident Commission, 36 Cal. App. 582, 172 Pac. 1114, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 85.

429a. Rule of reasonable time to get off employer's premises.—Where an employee performing services as guard at a battery house situated at a point between the smelter and the mine belonging to his employer and all located on property of such employer, was injured on a railroad connecting the mine and the smelter, it was held that the rule that an employee should be allowed a reasonable margin of time to get off the employer's premises did not apply, owing to the large extent of the property.—Sharp v. Mammoth, etc., Co., 5 I. A. C. Dec. 124.

430. On way to place of employment.—If an employee is merely on his way to the place of employment, and is injured, the injury is not one sustained in the course of the employment.—Starr Piano Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 58 Cal. Dec. 379, 184 Pac. 860, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 174 (Steinkamp v. Starr Piano Co., 57 Cal. Dec. 212, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 81, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 39).

431. Arrival at place of employment, seeking entrance, sufficient.—It is sufficient, under the act, if the employee has come to the employer's premises, and is seeking entrance thereto by the means of access provided by the employer, or reasonably used by the employee, to entitle him to compensation for an injury then sustained, and it is not necessary that he should have actually begun to render service.—Starr Piano Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 58 Cal. Dec. 379, 184 Pac. 860, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 174 (Steinkamp v. Starr Piano Co., 57 Cal. Dec. 212, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 81, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 339).

432. Arrival at place of employment, ready to perform service.—When an employee has arrived at the premises of his employer and is thereon for the purpose of immediately commencing his work, he is performing service incidental to his employment within the meaning of the act.—Judson, etc., Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 59 Cal. Dec. 291, 184 Pac. 1, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 151 (Gallia v. Judson, etc., Co., 6 J. A. C. Dec. 33).

433. Injury while about to enter place of employment.—An employee about to go aboard of the dredger where he was employed to assume his duties, was injured by a wire fastening the dredger to the bank and it was held that the injury was compensable.—Gust v. Sacramento, etc., Co., 5 I. A. C. Dec. 164.

434. Injury on way to business in employer's automobile on employer's time.—An employee who was injured while being conveyed to work in his employer's vehicle and upon his employer's time, was held to have been injured in the course of his employment.—Proctor v. Lindgren Co., 5 I. A. C. Dec. 115.

435. Injured in automobile accident on way to work.—Where an employer furnishes his employee with an automobile to convey him about while engaged in his employment, and while not so engaged, and paid the expenses of the upkeep of such machine, and such employee was injured while on his way to work, in such machine, it was held that he was entitled to compensation, since the risks of that mode of conveyance, when selected by the employer, became a part of the risks of the employment.—Johnson v. Pure Milk Dairy Co., 6 I. A. C. Dec. 257.

436. Employee injured while on his way to attend a meeting called by employer.—An employee fatally injured while on his way to attend a meeting of the employees with the executive officer of the employer in charge of the employees' department, by the direction of the employer, and concerning the employer's business and his interest, in the employer's automobile, was held to have been engaged on a special errand in the course of his employment, and that the risk of the street injury was a risk to which he was specially exposed by reason of his employment, and that the injury was compensable.—McConaughy v. Board of Public Service Commissioners of Los Angeles, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 260.

437. Injury while crossing the street on way to work—Stopping to converse with fellow employee an allowable personal act.—Where an employee in the course of the duties of his employment, while crossing the street, stopped on the street to converse for a minute with a fellow employee, it was held that the act of stopping was one of the many personal acts which an employee may do in connection with his employment without taking him out of the course of his employment.—Stanley v. Balboa, etc., Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 162.

But see Balboa, etc., Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 35 Cal. App. 793, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 6.

438. Going to and from work—Payment of transportation.—If transportation is provided as part of the contract of hire, injuries are usually construed compensable if the employee is likewise paid for his time both "going and coming" the case is clearly compensable.—Wedgwood v. Victory Motor Co., 5 I. A. C. Dec. 215.

439. Going to and from work—Cost of transportation deducted from employee's wages.—Where an employee was transported at close of work to his home in an automobile neither owned nor operated by his employer, and a charge therefor was made, it was held that the employer did not furnish the transportation and that the injury to the employee while being so transported was not in the course of the employment.—Wedgwood v. Victory Motor Co., 5 I. A. C. Dec. 215.

440. Injury during transportation from work to camp.—Where pursuant to the terms of the employment an employer transported its employees on auto trucks between the camp where they lived and the place in which they worked, and employees were allowed to ride on any of the employer's trucks if enough trucks regularly provided were not available, and an employee was injured while boarding a truck not usually used for conveyance it was held that the injury happened in the course of the employment.—Radish v. Associated Oil Company, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 375.

441. On way to lunch on employer's premises.—An injury sustained by an employee while on his way to lunch, is an injury in the course of employment, when occurring in part of employer's premises which was in use, even though such employee had left the actual scene of his own work.—Koster v. Union Lumber Co., 5 I. A. C. Dec. 179.

442. Barber shop employee—Injured in elevator.—The fact that the elevator, in the closing doors of which an employee of a tenant of the building was caught and injured, was controlled by the owners of the building from whom the employer leased his shop, is unimportant, and such elevator was a part of the employer's premises.—Popineau v. Industrial Accident Commission, (Cal. App.), 187 Pac. 988, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 246 (Miles v. Popineau, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 74).

And the fact that the elevator was used by all persons having occasion to do so as a means of access to the building did not affect the injured employee's right to compensation.—Same v. same.

443. Same—Employee leaving place of employment with employer's consent.—If an employee leaves the place of his employment with his employer's consent and approval, to procure a bottle of milk to use with his lunch, as was his custom, he, though ministering to himself, is, nevertheless, in a remote sense, in that one who works must eat, engaged in an act which contributes to his efficiency and furtherance of his work.—Popineau v. Industrial Accident Commission, (Cal. App.) 187 Pac. 938, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 246 (Miles v. Popineau, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 74).

444. Employee of different employers—Deviation from direct route home.—Where an applicant for compensation was employed by different employers at different times of the day and was unable to complete all the duties of the first employment before he entered upon the duties of the second employment, and while serving the second employer he had to go to his home and intended to deviate from a direct route home to complete the duty for the first employer, but before making said deviation he was injured, it was held that said injury happened in the course of the employment of the second employer only.—Davis v. Earl Publishing Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 234.

445. Stopping to take drink while on errand for employer.—An injury sustained by an employee while performing an errand and when stopping for a drink was held to be compensable.—Roney v. Ne Page, etc., Co., 5 I. A. C. Dec. 129.

446. Injury on return from business trip after temporary digression for pleasure.—An injury when returning from a business trip after a temporary digression for pleasure held to have been incurred in the course of the employment.—Kelley v. American, etc., Co., 5 I. A. C. Dec. 53.

447. On way home after service—No fixed hours of employment.—Where a bookkeeper, after inspecting certain of his employer's vineyards, such inspection being a duty of his employment, went to his home to leave his bicycle and get some refreshments, and he was injured while riding in an automobile from his home to his employer's office, and he was employed on a monthly salary and had no prescribed hours of employment, was held to have arisen out of and in course of said employment.—Rata v. Setchel, etc., Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 184.

448. Maid employed to do housework injured while off duty.—A maid, employed to do general housework in a sanitarium, and in addition to attend patients, was not entitled to compensation for an injury sustained by slipping on a wet floor, at a time when she was not on duty, and while she was preparing to do work for herself.—Gernhardt v. Industrial Accident Commission, 30 Cal. App. 129, 185 Pac. 307, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 166.

449. Miner—Washing up after end of time on duty.—Where a miner working on a night shift, at the end of his hours of labor, went to his tent, washed up, and returned to the mine, according to custom, for the purpose of investigating two unexploded blasts left by his shift, for the purpose of making them safe for the next shift, and, on his return to his tent after performing this necessary duty, was shot by a mine watchman, it is held that his injury grew out of and occurred in the course of his employment.—Atolia Mining Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 175 Cal. 691, 692, 167 Pac. 148.

450. Traveling salesman on trip—Injury at hotel after end of day's work.—Where a traveling salesman on a trip in his employment, was injured while entering the washroom in his hotel after concluding his work for the day, it was held that the injury did not arise out of or in the course of his employment.—Peterson v. Arnstein, etc., Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 85.

451. Fireman taking rock from loaded car to bed furnace.—The act of a fireman in taking rock used to bed his furnace, from loaded cars, outside of his expressed and usual duties, for purposes of preventing delay and inconvenience in firing the furnace, was held under the circumstances of the emergency to be reasonable and proper within the course of his employment.—Hunt v. Southern Pacific Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 107.

452. Mine truck driver—Adding side boards to truck.—Where a truck driver at a copper mine was injured while using a rip saw in the company's sawmill for the purpose of cutting material for side boards to his truck to enable him to haul a larger quantity of lumber, and he had been instructed prior to the accident to use or assist in using such saws, and no objection was made to the use upon that occasion by the sawyer in charge, it was held that the injury arose while such person was acting within the scope of his employment, and the evidence was sufficient to sustain the award.—Calaveras Copper Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission (Cal. App.) 6 I. A. C. Dec. 243 (Jordan v. Calaveras Copper Co., 6 I. A. C. Dec. 193).

453. Attempting rescue of child in danger.—Where the essential question was whether the employee was injured in the course of his employment, and it was shown that the injury was received while the employee was engaged in stabling a team of horses for his employer, by being struck by an automobile accidentally backed upon him by an officer of the employer, who was there on the employer's business, and while in the act of attempting to rescue a child in danger of being run over by the automobile, the failure of the commission to give the insurance carrier an opportunity to cross-examine witnesses or introduce counter-testimony, was without prejudice to it.—The Ocean, etc., Corporation, Limited, v. Industrial Accident Commission, 57 Cal. Dec. 4764, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 82.

454. Teamster at municipal woodyard.—Performance of service ordered by superintendent.—A teamster employed at a municipal woodyard, the object of the establishment of which was the relief of indigent persons, was entitled to compensation from the municipality for an injury received while on his way, in compliance with the orders of the superintendent of the yard, to make the household effects of an indigent family.—Oakland v. Industrial Accident Commission, 35 Cal. App. 484, 170 Pac. 430, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 363 (Norton v. Oakland, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 231).

455. Hotel chambermaid.—Cleaning light well.—An injury received by a chambermaid while engaged in cleaning a light well, which was no part of her duties, and which she voluntarily assumed to perform in the absence of her employer and without the employer's knowledge or sanction, is not an injury arising out of and in the course of her employment, even though the attempted duty was done from the viewpoint of loyalty to the employer's interest.—Williamson v. Industrial Accident Commission, 177 Cal. 715, 171 Pac. 797, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 60 (Landis v. Williamson, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 204).

456. Ranch hand, after finishing work, on trip to town to assist foreman to get other workmen.—Where a ranch hand, after finishing his Sunday work, accompanied the foreman on a trip to town to get other workmen, although he went for his own pleasure and would have performed other services at the ranch that evening had he remained, and his injury was occasioned by cranking the foreman's automobile in town, it was held that since the ranch hand was actually assisting the foreman in a service in line with the duties of his employment, he was acting within the course of his employment.—Crawford v. Jones, etc., Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 180.

457. Caring for horses on employer's ranch after end of day's work.—Employment by day.—Where a teamster who was employed with a team for a per diem wage, and the keep of his horses on his employer's ranch, was injured while caring for the horses after the close of the day's work, it was held that the injury was non-compensable, on the ground that the employment ended at the termination of the day's work, and the act of caring for the horses therefore were personal to the applicant and the injury not sustained in course of employment.—Roux v. Batcher, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 113.

458. Unusual employment — Laborer shoveling gravel.—Driving gravel teams.—Under the act of 1913 an injury received by a person employed as a laborer to shovel gravel, while driving a team hauling a gravel wagon under a temporary exchange of places between him and the teamster, is not an injury arising out of the course of his employment.—County of Modoc v. Industrial Accident Commission, 32 Cal. App. 548, 163 Pac. 685, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 25 (Lytle v. County of Modoc, 3 I. A. C. Dec. 382).

459. Chauffeur of taxicab shot by intoxicated passenger.—A chauffeur employed by a taxicab company who was shot by a passenger whom he had taken, together with a woman, to a roadhouse, while the passenger was intoxicated, was held to have sustained the injury in his employment and was entitled to compensation.—Harvey v. O'Neil, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 28.

460. Secretary of garage corporation.—Injury on way to inspect land proposed in exchange for garage business.—Where the secretary of a garage corporation was injured by an automobile accident while engaged in inspecting farm land for which it was proposed to exchange the garage business it was held that the injury was sustained while rendering services incidental to the employment, that the employment at the time of the injury was neither casual or outside of the usual course of the employee's business and that it was not farm repair.—Evans v. Bay Cities, etc., Corporation, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 122.

461. "Dump tender" or "ice puller," injured by fall from floor to which he had not been assigned.—Where a "dump tender" or "ice puller" for an ice and cold storage company was injured by a fall from one of the upper floors of the building down the elevator shaft to the basement, it was held that the injury was not sustained in the course of his employment, he not having been expressly assigned to duty which would take him on the upper floor.—Casualty Company v. Industrial Accident Commission, 54 Cal. Dec. 599, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 340.

462. Stevedore on employer's premises.—Chopping wood to keep warm.—Where a stevedore sustained an injury on the premises of the company while chopping firewood with which to keep warm during a temporary cessation of labor because of rain, no provision being customarily made by the employers for shelter as part of their wages, it was held that said injury did not occur in the course of employment of the applicant.—Peters v. Schirmer, etc., Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 134.

463. Night watchman.—Injured while using circular saw.—An award of compensation made by the commission to a night watchman for an injury received while using a circular saw for the purpose of making a board of suitable length to barricade a door of the premises which he was employed to watch is unwarranted, as the resort to the use of the saw was beyond the scope of his employment, and not a resort to reasonable means for the purpose of securing the end intended.—Brusster v. Industrial Accident Commission, 35 Cal. App. 81, 169 Pac. 258, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 327 (Gaspar v. Brewster, Jr., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 240).

464. Employee stopping to light cigarette.—Accidental gunshot.—Where an employee went to the bunkhouse and procured some nails and matches and he stopped for a moment outside the bunkhouse to light a cigarette and was shot in the leg as a result of the accidental discharge of a gun which was being cleaned by a fellow employee, it was held that he was injured in the course of the employment.—Padrino v. Shedd, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 350.

465. Motion picture actors racing horses to corral.—It was held in the present case that a fourteen-year-old Mexican boy employed by a motion picture company was injured while racing his horse to a corral, that said employee was acting within the course of his employ and said injury arose out of said employment.—Villaneva v. Fox Film Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 191.

466. Driver of street flushing vehicle.—Fall from same.—The driver of a street flushing vehicle is entitled to compensation for an injury sustained by falling from the vehicle while in the act of attempting to prevent a wrench from falling from the footboard into the street, although, at the time of the accident he had permitted another person to run the truck, while he was manipulating the lever to discharge the water.—Employer's, etc., Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 36 Cal. App. 568, 177 Pac. 171, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 79.

467. Surveyor.—Inspection and consultation.—A surveyor in the present case was held to have been injured in the course of his employment, the act of inspection and consultation being within the general scope of the duties of a surveyor in such circumstances.—Brackins v. Trinity, etc., Co., 3 I. A. C. Dec. 22.

467a. Employment of special officer as watchman.—Where a private company or individual employs a watchman or special officer, and in making the selection deliberately chooses an officer of the law, in order to take advantage of his authority, and such officer performs acts advantageous to and expressly or impliedly directed by the employer, which happen, at the same time, to be acts which would be his official duty to perform, such employee is acting within the course of his employment within the meaning of the proviso of section 8(a) of the act.—Engels, etc., Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 58 Cal. Dec. 411, 8 A. L. R. 187, 185 Pac. 182, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 206.

468. Going to aid of fellow workman in dangerous situation.—An employee who comes to the aid of a fellow workman in a dangerous situation is in the course of his employer's business.—United States, etc., Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 174 Cal. 616, 163 Pac. 1013, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 79 (Maffia v. Aquilino, 3 I. A. C. Dec. 15; Zanotti v. Aquilino, 3 I. A. C. Dec. 53).

469. Nursing influenza patients, outside employment, with employer's consent.—Where an employee, by way of special service outside his regular employment, with his employer's consent, attended influenza patients in his employer's hospital, and contracted the disease, his services as such attendant were within the scope of his employment and the disease was an injury which, because of special exposure beyond the commonalty, arose out of and was proximately caused by the employment.—

Rebstock v. Engels, etc., Co., 6 I. A. C. Dec. 146.

470. Voluntary services.—Services outside of employment, performed at employer's request.—An injury sustained by an employee in the performance of services outside his duties, voluntary in nature, is not an injury suffered in the course of the employment, but where a safety engineer at a mine was directed by the superintendent to assist in caring for influenza patients, his services were not voluntary, though exceptional, and were in the actual scope of his employment because rendered in response to the company's direction, and his disability from heart disease, due to contracting influenza, was compensable.—Engels, etc., Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, (Cal.) 192 Pac. 845.

See, also, San Francisco v. Industrial Accident Commission, (Cal.) 191 Pac. 26.

471. Employee, paid full salary, serving the government voluntarily.—An employee, paid full salary, while serving the government, with employer's consent, but not by its direction, and injured while so engaged, was not injured in the course of his employment, and his employer was not liable for compensation.—Lord v. Goodyear, etc., Co., 6 I. A. C. Dec. 148.

472. Voluntary service.—Assistance to person injured by employer's train.—A clerk in the freight auditing department of a railroad company was not performing a service growing out of or incidental to his employment when he, voluntarily and without orders, alighted from a train of the company to render assistance to a person injured by the train, and was killed while attempting to reboard the train, notwithstanding the fact that he was traveling in the performance of his duty as such clerk, the rules of the company not requiring him to render assistance in such a case, but on the contrary, confined that duty to the conductor and brakemen.—Northwestern Pacific Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 174 Cal. 297, L. R. A. 1918A, 286, 163 Pac. 1001.

473. Service volunteered.—Acquiesced in by employer.—An employee, who, for his own pleasure, actually renders a service for his employer in line with the duties of his employment at his own request or suggestion and with the acquiescence of his employer, is acting within the course of his employment.—Crawford v. Jones, etc., Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 180.

474. Voluntary service with employer's acquiescence.—Motive immaterial.—The motive of an employee for rendering voluntary service is immaterial where employer acquiesces.—Crawford v. Jones, etc., Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 180.

475. Employee at home, compelled to go to employer's place of business to open safe for robbers.—Where an employee, entrusted with the combination and a key to the inner door of his employer's safe, was killed by a robber, prompted by a desire to rob the safe, and because of the employee's inability or unwillingness to assist him with his knowledge of the combination and use of the key, he was held to have been killed in the course of his employment, although not during the hours of duty and not on the premises at the time.—Smith v. Germantown Rochdale Co., 5 I. A. C. Dec. 25.

c. Proximately caused by employment.

476. Unexplained death—Absence of evidence to contrary—Presumption.—In the absence of evidence to the contrary, an unexplained death of an employee, occurring under the circumstances of this case, is presumed to have arisen out of and to have been proximately caused by the employment and is therefore compensable.—Fahey v. Woodward, etc., Co., 6 I. A. C. Dec. 216.

477. Employed in violation of law—Injury to sixteen-year-old boy.—Where a foreman erroneously, but not wilfully, employed a sixteen-year-old boy to operate a tin pressing machine, in violation of the child labor law of 1917, an injury resulting from an accident in operating such machine, was held not to have been caused by such violation of the law.—Lundgren v. Hammer-Bray Co., 6 I. A. C. Dec. 17.

478. Actinomyces following employment in grain mill.—An award of the commission to an employee of a grain and milling company for an affliction of the nose and mouth (actinomyces), claimed to have been contracted while employed in the work of grinding and sacking wheat and barley for feed, and while actively engaged in filling sacks from the spout of the grinding mill, is held to have been properly made where it is shown by expert evidence that such disease could be conveyed by grain to the human organism, and by the testimony of the employee himself that he had not theretofore suffered from any such disorder.—Hartford, etc., Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 32 Cal. App. 481, 163 Pac. 225, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 1 (Burris v. Perkins, 3 I. A. C. Dec. 465).

479. Apoplexy following quickly injuries to left hip and elbow from fall.—Where a teamster suffered severe injuries to his left elbow and hip from a fall from his wagon and suffered about three hours afterwards an apoplectic stroke resulting in paralysis, it was held that under the circumstances the injury was the proximate cause of the entire disability.—Selaya v. Ruthven & Cerrano, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 238.

480. Acute bronchitis following injury to chest.—Where an employee sustained an injury to his chest and two days afterwards was found to be suffering from acute bronchitis, and medical opinion was to the effect that bronchitis is not a direct result of trauma but may be a secondary effect produced by the lowering of vitality caused by trauma, it was held that the connection between the injury and the bronchitis was too indirect and uncertain to warrant a finding that the bronchitis was proximately caused by the injury.—Vieira v. California, etc., Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 87.

481. Hysterical blindness following electric flash.—It was held in the present case that hysterical blindness which followed an electric flash, was not proximately caused by and did not arise out of the employment.—Embee v. Western, etc., Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 279.

482. Dementia praecox can not be caused by a fracture of the right tibia.—It was held that dementia praecox can not be caused or precipitated by trauma and that this type of insanity following a fracture of the right tibia was not caused by the accident.—Oliver v. Birdsall, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 193.

483. Dislocation of knee cartilage from distinct trauma.—A recurrence of a dislocation of cartilage of knee following a distinct trauma is compensable.—Saunders v. Northwestern, etc., Co., 6 I. A. C. Dec. 222.

484. Duodenal affection following blow.—Where an employee in good health and without signs of stomach or duodenal trouble received a blow in that region, and at once was affected with pains and continuous disability, the blow being sufficient to cause internal injuries and two months later his ailment was diagnosed as duodenal ulcer, but its previous existence was only conjectural, or if it existed at the time of the accident, was dormant, and that it would have become acute by reason of the blow, it was found that the disability would not have been sustained but for the accident, and that it was proximately caused thereby.—Snyder v. Pacific, etc., Co., 3 I. A. C. Dec. 1.

485. Fainting spell—Distinguished from Bellis v. Doan, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 340.—Fainting spell, resulting in injury, distinguished from the case of Bellis v. Doan, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 340, in that the circumstances do not show that the applicant's work in the course of his employment was sufficient to be considered as the proximate cause of the fainting fit and resulting injury.—Baker v. Sloane, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 1.

486. Fall down stairs—Apoplexy.—In this case it was held that the injury and death of the employee was caused by an accidental fall down a flight of stairs at the place of employment and not because of an attack of apoplexy, and that the death rose out of and was proximately caused by the employment.—Henna v. Coppa's Red Paint Restaurant, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 33.

487. Death from rupture of right ventricle following fall from ladder.—Where upon a proceeding to review an award of the commission for the death of a painter, the only point made in opposition to the award was that the fracture of the pelvic bone which the deceased sustained from a fall from a ladder was the proximate cause of death, but the immediate cause of death was a small rupture of the right ventricle of the heart and there is substantial testimony justifying the inference that the fall was the cause of the death, the award must be affirmed.—Santa v. Industrial Accident Commission, 175 Cal. 235, 165 Pac. 639, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 169 (Cordova v. Santa, 3 I. A. C. Dec. 180).

488. Hernia resulting from constant heavy lifting.—Hernia gradually produced by constant heavy lifting in an employment as a concrete laborer requiring such lifting is compensable.—Andersen v. Healy Tibbitts, etc., Co., 6 I. A. C. Dec. 222.

489. Death from tubercular pneumonia following operation for hernia.—Death from tubercular pneumonia, following an operation for hernia, incurred in employment, held compensable.—Cox v. California, etc., Co., 5 I. A. C. Dec. 10.

490. Lobar pneumonia following bruise on left side between lower ribs and hip bone.—Lobar pneumonia, from which death resulted, held not to have been proximately caused by an injury from a bruise on the left side midway between the hip bone and the lower ribs.—Durnford v. Moore Shipbuilding Co., 6 I. A. C. Dec. 41.

491. Manic depressive insanity—Blow on head.—Employee's injury held under the circumstances shown, to have caused manic depressive insanity precipitated by a blow on the head.—Aetna, etc., Co. v. Burgner, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 20.

492. Malposition of bone after fracture of leg.—It was held in the present case, where a disability resulting from the malposition of a bone after fracture of the leg in the course of employment, was proximately caused by the original injury.—Silveira v. Grayson, etc., Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 229.

493. Osteoarthritis following sprain of back, hips and leg.—Where a piano repairer sprained his back, hips and left leg and felt a sudden pain but continued to work for two weeks and was then disabled from a condition of osteoarthritis for six weeks, after which his disability ceased and he returned to work, and he had suffered no such disability theretofore, it was held that said disability was proximately caused by said injury.—Thomas v. Eiler's Music Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 212.

494. Pemphigus—Skin disease following cut of hand of butcher.—Where a butcher cut his hand while working on the carcass of a sheep in a slaughter house and he thereafter suffered a skin disease and the medical testimony was to the effect that the symptoms manifested thereby were characteristic of pemphigus, it was held that said disease was proximately caused by and arose out of employment.—Guihan v. Fagan, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 289.

495. Death from pneumonia following injury to head.—Fatal pneumonia suffered by an employee when recovering from an injury to the head, held not to have been caused by the injury.—Meyer v. Los Angeles, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 235.

496. Prolapsus uteri following lifting of heavy bundle.—Where a woman employed as a sleeve-setter, at the time of lifting a bundle weighing fifty pounds experienced an abdominal pain which subsequent medical examination disclosed to be the result of prolapsus uteri, disabling her after two weeks of further work and the evidence showed that malposition of the uterus must have antedated the pain though unknown to the employer and that but for the strain of said lifting she would have been able to continue with her work indefinitely though without a strain she was likely to have become disabled at some time, it was held that the disability was proximately caused out of the lifting and arose out of the employment.—Bart v. Cohn Goldwater Co., 5 I. A. C. Dec. 241.

497. Pulmonary pneumonia ten days after injury to arm.—It was held that death from pulmonary tuberculosis ten days after an injury to an arm, was not proximately caused by the injury nor by the employment, and was not compensable.—Scott v. Birch Oil Co., 5 I. A. C. Dec. 197.

498. Tachycardia and hyperthyroidism—Vibrations of air drill against chest.—It is held that tachycardia and hyperthyroidism did not result from the vibrations of an air drill against an employee's breast.—Ellis v. Los Angeles, etc., Co., 6 I. A. C. Dec. 266.

499. Tonsillitis and diabetes following blow on abdomen.—Where a boilermaker was struck in the abdomen and three weeks thereafter suffered tonsillitis, and shortly thereafter he was found to be suffering from diabetes, it was held that the evidence was insufficient to show that said tonsillitis and diabetes were proximately caused by said injury or arose out of said employment.—Williams v. California, etc., Works, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 202.

500. Disability characteristic of injury and specific disease.—Where an employee sustained an injury to his head and thereafter suffered symptoms characteristic of both such an injury and a specific disease, and the results of the injury could be complicated and the disability increased by such disease but the injury itself could not precipitate such acute symptoms and it was doubtful whether the employee had such disease and he was able to do hard work, it was held that the whole difficulty was proximately caused by the injury.—Wilson v. Mesmer & Rice, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 139.

501. Disability due partly to injury and partly to pre-existing disease.—Where a disability is due partly to an injury received by the employee and in part to pre-existing osteoarthritis, it is held that the disability due to the osteoarthritis was non-compensable.—Porter v. Morse, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 199.

502. Existing disability is accepted by employer.—An employer accepts an employee subject to a physical disability existing at the time the latter entered his employment, and an injury sustained because of such existing disability is nevertheless compensable.—Phillips v. Southern California Edison Co., 6 I. A. C. Dec. 237.

503. Disability aggravated by specific disease.—Where an injury is sufficient to produce symptoms similar to those which follow the injury but such symptoms are aggravated to a comparatively slight degree by a previous existing specific disease, the whole condition is proximately caused by the injury unless the injury merely precipitated an acute exacerbation of such disease.—Wilson v. Mesmer & Rice, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 139.

504. Impetus to pre-existing disease given by injury.—Where a carpenter suffered from dizziness and headaches and died of softening of the brain soon after or within a short time after a fall from a scaffold, it was held that in view of the testimony of brain and medical witnesses that while the ailment would have ultimately caused death, the injury would probably not have proved fatal except for the impetus given to the pre-existing injury to the brain, it was held that the death was proximately caused by the injury.—Perry v. Brown, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 163.

505. Osteoarthritis and arteriosclerosis lighted up by blow.—Where a painter had chronic osteoarthritis and arteriosclerosis, which, however, were causing him no disability, and he fell and sustained a blow on the foot which lighted up the osteoarthritis in his foot and caused a disability, it was held that the whole of said disability was proximately caused by said injury and was compensable.—Williamson v. Shell Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 222.

506. Sarcoma following trauma.—It was held in the present case that a sarcoma was a subsequent acceleration or aggravation of the same, which followed trauma, and was proximately caused by the injury.—Villa v. Santa Ana Sugar Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 147.

507. Pre-existing disease — Disability prolonged by.—Although the employer takes the employee subject to his physical condition at the time of entering the employment, more serious disabilities proximately caused by a specific disease are to be distinguished from ordinary disabilities which are prolonged by the disease but which, without the injury to precipitate them, would not have been caused by the specific disease.—Peterson v. Bristol, etc., Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 122.

508. Pre-existing disease — Prolongation of disability due to injury.—Where a cook sustained an injury to his knee, which was diagnosed as a chronic synovitis, and the disability was prolonged by a pre-existing condition of syphilis which could be cured in about two months by appropriate treatment, it was held that the whole disability was proximately caused by the injury and that the cook was entitled to anti-syphilitic treatment by his employer.—Peterson v. Bristol Bay Packing Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 122.

508a. Same—Increase of hernia.—Where an applicant had had a hernia for several years, which occasionally descended, and which he reduced by himself, and for which he wore a truss, felt a slight sensation without violent symptoms on lifting a heavy article at his work, and upon removing his truss that night the hernial mass descended to a greater extent than ever before and strangulated, the increased hernia constituted a compensable injury.—Heinz v. State Compensation Insurance Fund, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 74.

509. Pre-existing chronic arthritis of finger joints and Dupuytren's contraction of both palms—Slight injury to finger.—Where an employee when he was hired by his employer was suffering from chronic arthritis of his finger joints and a Dupuytren's contraction of both palms, and he sustained a slight injury to his finger, which became infected, and was treated by his employer's physician, and was restored to the physical condition in which he was before his injury, it was held that the employer was not liable on account of the employee's previous condition.—Landrath v. Mountain Copper Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 112.

510. Partial deafness rendered serious by blow on nose.—Where an employee already affected with partial deafness was struck on the nose by a twenty-five-pound chair, while unloading a truck, which did not knock him down, render him unconscious, or cause his nose to bleed, but was followed almost immediately by serious deafness, it was held that there was no causal connection between the blow and the increased deafness.—Hampton v. U. C. Express Co., 5 I. A. C. Dec. 31.

510a. Pre-existing systemic affection causing severe headaches accentuated by injury to head.—Where an employee sustained an injury to his head, which set into a disabling form a pre-existing systemic infection causing severe headaches, it was held that the disability was caused by the injury, recovery having ensued as a result of rest from labor, in accordance with the advice of a physician.—Frazier v. Universal, etc., Co., 5 I. A. C. Dec. 179.

511. Acute glaucoma caused, and loss of vision from pre-existing chronic glaucoma hastened, by blow on head.—It was held in the present case that acute glaucoma was proximately caused and loss of vision precipitated a hastening from pre-existing chronic glaucoma of the progressive type, by a blow on the head.—Cousins v. Hanlon, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 97.

512. Rupture of aortic aneurysm from normal and usual exertion—Pre-existing condition.—Where the death of an employee was caused by the rupture of an aortic aneurysm while he was undergoing a normal and usual exertion in his occupation, which he had followed for many years, and the evidence showed that the aneurysm had been progressing for a year and a half and was the result of disease and likely to rupture at any time, it was held that the death was not proximately caused by and did not arise out of the employment.—Anderson v. De Paoli, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 82.

513. Death from pre-existing heart trouble following slight injuries.—Death from pre-existing heart trouble after slight injuries held not to have been proximately caused by the injuries.—Bollinger v. Pacific, etc., Co., 5 I. A. C. Dec. 14.

514. Increase of hernia following blow in groin.—A considerable and disabling increase in the size of a hernia, following a low in the groin, held to be compensable.—Wardwell v. Ekwood Lumber Co., 6 I. A. C. Dec. 52.

515. Depressive insanity, following injury and previous predisposition.—Where an employee was severely burned about the neck, back and arms while in the course of his employment and thereafter a mental derangement was noted and upon becoming progressively worse he was legally admitted to a state hospital for the insane and it was found that the mental derangement was of the type entitled manic depressive insanity and that it resulted from the injury, it appearing that the employee was predisposed to this kind of mental trouble and no other conditions were shown which would precipitate the derangement independently of the accident, it was held that the disability was produced by the injury.—Garat v. Pacific, etc., Co., 5 I. A. C. Dec. 181.

516. Recurring displacement of semi-lunar cartilage resulting from primary injury to knee.—Under the circumstances of the present case, it was held that the recurring displacement of the semi-lunar cartilage resulted from the primary injury to the knee, and that the employer was liable for disabilities resulting from such recurrence.—Schultz v. Schmidt, etc., Co., 5 I. A. C. Dec. 191.

517. Rupture of pre-existing pancreatic cyst from fall.—Where a pancreatic cyst, which might ultimately have ruptured without trauma at some indefinite time but which could be absorbed by natural means and might never rupture, was ruptured as the result of a fall, it was held that the employer takes the employee subject to his condition at the time of entering the employment, and that the disability was proximately caused by and arose out of the employment.—Rategan v. Bates, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 78.

518. Sarcoma lighted up by injury.—It was held in this case, where pre-existing sarcoma was lighted up by an injury sustained by an employee, and thereafter such employee died from sarcoma throughout the body, due to metastasis, that the death of the employee was proximately caused by the injury.—Schneider v. Norton, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 332.

519. Exacerbation of pre-existing lung disease from inhalation of dust.—Bronchitis resulting from a diseased condition of the lungs, exacerbated by inhalation of dust while at work, held to have been caused by the employment.—Deichen v. Acme, etc., Co., 5 I. A. C. Dec. 91.

520. Tubercular affection exacerbated by chest injury.—In a case where an employee sustained a chest injury and was disabled by a tubercular affection of the lungs, it was held that the chest injury exacerbated the pre-existing lung affection, and compensation was awarded.—Moore, etc., Co. v. Marks, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 245.

521. Exacerbation of pre-existing pulmonary tuberculosis from severe strain.—A stevedore employed by a lumber company experienced exacerbation of pre-existing pulmonary tuberculosis following a severe strain in handling a piece of lumber, and it was held that the disability was a proximate result of the injury.—Mendes v. E. K. Wood, etc., Co., 6 I. A. C. Dec. 191.

522. Death from pre-existing tumor, following injury.—The death of an employee from a tumor, previously existing, shortly after receiving an injury, was held to have been proximately caused by the tumor and not the injury.—Brady v. Standard Oil Co., 6 I. A. C. Dec. 105.

523. Dilation of saphenous vein—Pre-existing varicosity.—Notwithstanding pre-existing varicosity, a dilation of the saphenous vein, produced by a strain while engaged in his work, constituted a specific injury which arose out of and was proximately caused by an employment as a bolter-up in a construction plant.—Duvel v. Union Construction Co., 6 I. A. C. Dec. 150.

524. Pre-existing disability—Secondary disability from slight injury.—Disability may be properly ascribed to a pre-existing condition or ailment if the injury is slight.—Snyder v. Pacific, etc., Co., 3 I. A. C. Dec. 1.

525. Second injury—Proximate and natural result of original injury.—A second or subsequently occurring injury may, under some circumstances, be the natural and proximate result of the original injury, and not due to an intervening cause, and when such is the case an award may be made by the commission as compensation for the further disability arising from such second or subsequent injury.—Head Drilling Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 177 Cal. 194, 196, 170 Pac. 157.

526. Whether a second or subsequent injury is the proximate result of the original injury, or of an independent intervening cause, is a question of fact for the determination of the commission, and its conclusion must be sustained if supported by any evidence to justify it on any reasonable theory.—Head Drilling Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 177 Cal. 194, 198, 170 Pac. 157.

527. Second injury while recovering from original injury.—Where an employee sustained a spiral fracture of the leg, and three days after his discharge from the hospital sustained a second injury, causing a displacement of the bones, from the accidental striking of the heel of the foot of the injured limb against the pedestal of a table or chair to prevent himself from falling, such second injury is an injury proximately and naturally resulting from the original injury and warranting further compensation under the act.—Head Drilling Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 177 Cal. 194, 170 Pac. 157, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 1 (Scott v. Head Drilling Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 9).

527a. Additional injury not in course of original employment, and not aggravating first injury.—Where an employee has sustained an injury by accident arising out of and in the course of the employment, the commission is not authorized by the act to award him compensation for an additional injury sustained by him afterward, not in the course of his employment, by an accident or act which aggravated the first injury and prolongs the disability.—Pacific Coast Casualty Co. v. Pillsbury, 171 Cal. 319, 321, 153 Pac. 24.

528. Secondary disability—Blood poisoning, following an accidental abrasion of the skin suffered in the course of the employment by an employee, held to be an injury of which the accident was the proximate cause within the meaning of the workmen's compensation act.—Great Western Power Co. v. Pillsbury, 171 Cal. 69, L. R. A. 1916A, 281, 151 Pac. 1136.

529. Same—Second fracture of leg, before complete recovery from the first.—Where an employee sustained a fracture of the leg and about seven weeks later was discharged from the hospital with his leg still in a cast and three days thereafter sustained a trifling blow upon the heel of the injured leg, and a few days later was found to have sustained a separation of the fragments of the bone which prolonged his disability, and the evidence showed that such displacement could have occurred spontaneously or as a result of the blow on the heel, and was reasonably to be expected and was natural considering the character of the fracture, and there was no evidence of any independent intervening cause, it was held that the resulting further disability was proximately caused by the original injury.—Scott v. Head Drilling Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 9.

530. Sprain of ankle one year after original injury.—A sprain of an ankle, occurring over one year after injury to foot, was held under the circumstances of the present case to have been due to the original injury.—Noren v. Palace Hotel Co., 5 I. A. C. Dec. 190.

531. Sunburn while undergoing treatment—Prolongation of disability.—A burn from an intentional exposure of the injured part to sun's rays during medical care, thereby prolonging disability, is not an independent intervening cause of disability, but where the prolongation of the disability was from that cause or mere conjecture, it was held that the whole period of disability was compensable.—De Barrows v. Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 220.

532. Osteoarthritis from dental abscesses—Prolonged inactivity incidental to treatment for hernia caused by injury.—Osteoarthritis, due primarily to abscesses in the teeth and connected with the injury only through prolonged inactivity incidental to treatment for the hernia caused by the injury, held not to be compensable.—Anderson v. Moore Shipbuilding Co., 6 I. A. C. Dec. 122.

533. Death from operation following second injury resulting from obeying the doctor's directions.—Where an employee sustained a second injury while obeying the doctor's instructions to exercise his leg, broken in the first, and died as a result of an operation necessitated by such second injury, it was held that the second injury and death arose from the condition produced by the first injury, and the commission was authorized to award compensation for such second injury and death.—Shell Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 36 Cal. App. 463, 172 Pac. 611.

533a. Erysipelas of foot resulting from laceration of great toe.—Erysipelas of foot resulting from laceration of great toe in course of employment, and transferred to face, causing death, held to be compensable.—Caffrey v. Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 63.

534. Death from facial erysipelas—Injury to toe which became infected.—Where death occurred from a facial infection following an injury to one of employee's toes which became infected, the commission properly found that the death was proximately caused by the original injury, upon expert testimony that the germs causing the facial infection were carried to the face by external means.—Bethlehem, etc., Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 58 Cal. Dec. 421, 7 A. L. R. 1180, 185 Pac. 179, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 211 (Caffrey v. Bethlehem, etc., Co., 6 I. A. C. Dec. 63).

534a. Same—Chain of causation.—The fact that infecting germs reached the face from the toe by external means can not, as matter of law, be said to have broken the chain of causation.—Bethlehem, etc., Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 58 Cal. Dec. 421, 185 Pac. 179, 7 A. L. R. 1180, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 211 (Coffrey v. Bethlehem, etc., Co., 6 I. A. C. Dec. 63).

535. Death resulting from operation after second injury.—Compensation is properly awarded to the dependents of a deceased employee who met his death from heart failure from an accumulation of gas in the stomach after a surgical operation required to adjust a second fracture of the leg, occurring while exercising for a first fracture received in the course of the employment.—Shell Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 36 Cal. App. 463, 172 Pac. 611, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 50.

536. Continuance of disability—Death following second operation.—It was held in this case that the evidence supported a finding of the commission that "a slight disability consisting of said sinus and hernia was present continually from the date of the first operation until the date of the second operation," notwithstanding evidence that he returned to work and there were no visible signs of continuing trouble with the surgical wound, and that he believed himself to be cured.—Western Indemnity Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 54 Cal. Dec. 787, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 376 (Henne v. Hjul, 3 I. A. C. Dec. 433).

536a. Continuing disability—Unreasonable refusal of medical treatment.—Where an insurance carrier furnished hospital treatment to an applicant for the cure of a sacroiliac slip and traumatic neurosis, and said applicant, over protest of the attending physician, discontinued said treatment and left the hospital, it was held that the applicant's refusal to continue said treatment was unreasonable and proximately caused any disability suffered by him after he left the hospital and that said insurance carrier was not liable for further indemnity payments or medical treatment thereafter.—Porter v. Morse, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 355.

536b. Neglect or refusal of employee to procure or submit to medical treatment.—Where the neglect or refusal of the employee to demand or obtain medical treatment caused what might result in a slight disability to become a serious disability, it was held that the rights of the employer were defined in section 16(e) of the act, rather than section 20, and it will be held in such action that the prolonged disability was not proximately caused by the injury, but by a new cause of disability.—Telford v. Healy-Tibbitts Construction Co., 3 I. A. C. Dec. 41.

VII. CONDITIONS AVOIDING LIABILITY FOR COMPENSATION.

Industrial Accident Commission*, 180 Cal. 423, 181 Pac. 784 (Weiss v. Hyman, etc., Co., 5 I. A. C. Dec. 71).

605. Minor attempting to wipe moving machinery while in motion.—Where a seventeen-year-old boy employed as a laborer in machine shop was injured while thoughtlessly attempting to wipe off a stream of grease on moving machinery without first stopping the same, contrary to instructions on a sign affixed to the machine, and he had been given no instructions in this respect by his superiors except general safety injunctions, and it does not appear that he knew of the consequences likely to result from disobeying the instructions on the sign, it was held that he was not guilty of serious and wilful misconduct.—Dean v. Western Pacific Railroad Co., 5 I. A. C. Dec. 245.

606. Wiping part of machine in motion.—Where the operator of a drill was injured while wiping the vertical shaft of the machine when in motion, and on a sudden impulse made a dive to stop the flow of a stream of grease running down the framework, from the upper shaft, he was held not guilty of wilful misconduct, so as to bar him from the benefit of the act.—Western Pacific Rd. Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 180 Cal. 416, 181 Pac. 787 (Dean v. Western Pacific Rd. Co., 5 I. A. C. Dec. 245).

607. Operation of freight elevator in violation of orders.—Where it was shown that an errand boy, killed while ascending to his place of employment in a freight elevator, had been expressly warned not to ride in or attempt to operate the freight elevators in the building, under penalty of discharge, and that similar notices were posted at or near the entrances of such elevators, and no notice of any disobedience of this order, or any negligence from which such knowledge would be chargeable, the commission was without jurisdiction to make an award for the death.—Pacific Coast Casualty Co. v. Pillsbury, 31 Cal. App. 701, 162 Pac. 1040.

608. Serious and wilful misconduct of employee in disobeying an order of his employer and placing himself deliberately in a place of serious danger held to have proximately caused his injury, and his compensation was reduced one-half.—Lindquist v. Rhoads, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 48.

609. Removing safety guard.—The removal by an experienced laundryman, while operating a wringing machine, intentionally, deliberately, and wilfully, of a safety guard placed on his machine for his protection and to prevent accidents was an act of "wilful misconduct" within the meaning of section 12 (3) of the act of 1913, so as to prevent an award of compensation for an injury which resulted from such removal.—Bay Shore, etc., Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 36 Cal. App. 547, 172 Pac. 1128.

610. Brakeman using foot to align drawbar in making coupling.—The act of a railroad brakeman, while making a coupling, in using his foot to align the drawbar, did not violate a rule of the company amounting to no more than a general safety rule, and his act was not a deliberate and wilful violation of any positive safety rule understood and well enforced as such, and did not amount to serious and wilful misconduct on his part.—Harmon v. Hines, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 200.

611. Electric lineman—Failure to use safety belt, in violation of rule.—A lineman who is supposed to use a safety belt while at work at the top of a pole, but who neglects to do so, thereby violating a printed rule of his employer that a safety belt must be used, and it appears that the use of the belt would have prevented the injury, due to the employee being thrown to the ground by an accidental jerk of the pole, was held to have been guilty of wilful misconduct.—Lockwood v. Pacific, etc., Co., 3 I. A. C. Dec. 26.

612. Failure to display warning signals on car in violation of rules of employer.—The failure of a fireman who went upon a car to get some rock to use in the course of his employment to display thereon certain signals required by the rules of his employer to be displayed, was not wilful misconduct.—Hunt v. Southern Pacific Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 107.

613. No apparent need for a violation of rule.—Where an employee engaged in reaming saddle bolt holes in a locomotive without putting on his goggles to protect his eyes, used a chisel to remove the burrs and was struck and his eye injured, it was held that such voluntary act was not within the support of the rule requiring the use of goggles, that there was no apparent danger in the act without wearing goggles, that there was no deliberate violation of any known safety rule and that such employee was not guilty of such serious or wilful misconduct.—Hogan v. Los Angeles, etc., Co., 5 I. A. C. Dec. 118.

614. Violation of safety rule of commission.—A laundry worker who deliberately and intentionally removed a safety guard on a machine placed there for his protection in accordance with the "laundry safety orders" of the commission, knowing fully its purpose, having been engaged in that line of work for twenty years, was guilty of wilful misconduct, although he did not thereby violate an enforced rule or instruction of his employers.—Bay Shore, etc., Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 36 Cal. App. 547, 172 Pac. 1128, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 75.

615. Deviation from specified route to take a more dangerous one.—Where a messenger was instructed by his employer to deliver a package as quickly as possible, going and returning by a specified route, and the messenger went by the designated route but started to return by another which was not inherently more dangerous than that designated by his employer, it was held that the messenger was not guilty of wilful misconduct and that the injury sustained on the return journey arose out of and in course of the employment.—Phillips v. Calif. Special Messenger Service, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 28.

616. Failure to observe safety ruling.—A machinist in a can manufactory was held to have been guilty of wilful misconduct when he was injured while attempting to remove an obstruction from a die which he was operating, without disconnecting the machinery, as his employer's rules required him to do.—Deak v. American Can Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 18.

617. Deliberate and intentional failure to comply with safety rule.—A brakeman who neglected to use a fuse in accordance with the rules of the employer, a violation of which rule was punishable by dismissal, as a result of which a collision occurred and he was injured and it was shown that the failure to use the fuse was deliberate and intentional, was guilty of wilful misconduct.—Throla v. Atchison, etc., Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 143.

618. Violation of rule not known to employee.—The use of roller skates by a newsboy in delivering papers on his route did not constitute wilful misconduct, although in violation of a rule of his employers, he having no knowledge of such rule, and it not being an unusual practice by newsboys to use roller skates while engaged in delivering papers, and the use of roller skates was not a hazardous and uncommon means of conveyance under the circumstances.—Batchelder v. Kahn, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 78.

619. Failure to obey rules—Knowledge of rules.—Under section 6, subdivision 4, of the act of 1917, where a machinist's helper voluntarily and intentionally omitted to obtain and use goggles, contrary to the rules of the employer company, having knowledge of such rules, and in consequence sustained a serious injury to his eye from a glancing piece of steel, the compensation he would otherwise have been entitled to recover was cut in half.—McAdoo v. Industrial Accident Commission, 40 Cal. App. 570, 181 Pac. 400, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 58.

620. Failure to understand order.—Where an employee violated an order of his foreman, not wilfully and deliberately, but because he did not understand it, it is held that he was not guilty of wilful misconduct.—Gonzales v. Mountain, etc., Co., 5 I. A. C. Dec. 43.

621. Violation of order not intended or understood as safety order.—It was held under the circumstances of the present case that the evidence failed to show that an order to stop work in one part of a quarry and work in another part without any reason pointed out or known to the laborers, was intended or understood to be a safety order, or that the deceased employee knew of any danger in working in the place where work had been stopped and that therefore he was not guilty of any wilful misconduct which caused his death.—Leal v. Gray, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 218.

622. Returning to wrecked steamer in disobedience of captain's order.—A second officer of a steamship is not guilty of "wilful misconduct" within the meaning of the act, in returning to the steamer after the captain had ordered the crew to take to the boats, where the boat was still attached to the steamer at the time of such return, and there is no evidence compelling an inference that the return was a deliberate and intentional defiance of his superior's command in reckless disregard of his own safety, at a time of greatest peril.—North Pacific S. S. Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 174 Cal. 500, 163 Pac. 910, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 76 (Bolger v. North Pacific S. S. Co., 2 I. A. C. Dec. 324).

623. The second officer of a steamer about to strike on the rocks can not be said as matter of law under the facts of the case to have been guilty of wilful misconduct in returning to the ship after having, in obedience to his captain's orders, entered a lifeboat.—North Pacific S. S. Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 174 Cal. 500, 502, 163 Pac. 910.

624. Entering empty wine tank without testing the atmospheric conditions.—A workman employed in a winery is not guilty of wilful misconduct in entering an empty wine tank for the purpose of cleaning the same, without first testing the atmospheric conditions in the tank, where there were no rules formulated by the employer prohibiting an employee from so entering before making the test, and it is not shown that the employee had knowledge of a custom among winemakers to test the atmosphere of such a tank before entering the same.—United States, etc., Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 174 Cal. 616, 163 Pac. 1013, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 79 (Maffia v. Aquilino, 3 I. A. C. Dec. 15; Zanotti v. Aquilino, 3 I. A. C. Dec. 53).

625. Same—Never informed as to danger.—It was held under the circumstances of the present case that the death of an employee by asphyxiation upon entering an empty wine tank without having first burned a candle therein to determine the purity of the air, and it does not appear by the evidence that this employee had ever been informed of such danger, or that he actually knew of such risk, or that he did not first burn a candle therein before entering, was not caused by wilful misconduct.—Zanotti v. Aquilino & Lagomarsino Co., 3 I. A. C. Dec. 53.

626. Same—Violation of long-established custom not formulated into a rule.—A workman might be held guilty of "wilful misconduct" in violating a custom crystallized by long and universal practice into a rule although not formulated by the employer into a written precept or a spoken command.—United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 174 Cal. 616, 621, 163 Pac. 1013.

627. Same—Same—Knowledge of custom.—An employee who had knowledge of such custom can not be held guilty of wilful misconduct from his mere presence in the tank, and in a dying condition, where the circumstances surrounding his death do not show whether or not he made any test before entering the tank.—United States, etc., Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 174 Cal. 616, 163 Pac. 1013, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 79 (Maffia v. Aquilino, 3 I. A. C. Dec. 15; Zanotti v. Aquilino, 3 I. A. C. Dec. 53).

627a. Same—Attempt to save life of fellow employee.—An attempt to save the life of a fellow employee, even though intensely hazardous, is not wilful misconduct.—Maffia v. Aquilino, 3 I. A. C. Dec. 15.

628. Involuntary violation of safety order.—A violation of a safety order, done involuntarily by reason of constantly repeated movements required by employment, was not wilful misconduct.—Weiss v. Hyman, etc., Co., 5 I. A. C. Dec. 71.

629. Inadvertent failure to comply with order.—Serious and wilful misconduct of employee held not to be predicated upon inadvertent failure to wear goggles while hurrying at foreman's direction to attend certain vats filled with a strong lye solution for removing the skin of fruit, even though he was required to wear such goggles, and they were close at hand and would have protected his eyes from the injury sustained.—California Packing Corporation v. Larson, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 41.

630. Conduct due to inadvertence and inattention.—Where a delivery man drove his employer's automobile along a road at about twenty-five miles an hour, and was injured by being struck by a train, although signals indicated that the train was approaching, and just prior thereto he had been driving at a prudent rate of speed and had crossed other intersecting tracks and believed that he had crossed all the tracks in that vicinity, it was held that the conduct of said employee was due to inadvertence and inattention and was not wilful in character.—Employers', etc., Corporation v. Elmore, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 359.

631. Exposure to special danger in disregard of warning.—Where a dancer was injured as a result of a filmy dress worn by her catching fire from a gas stove while on her way to the stage, it was held that she was guilty of serious misconduct in taking the route directly by the stove after being warned of the danger, but that such misconduct was not wilful.—Burton v. Sloan, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 178.

632. Acts not in violation of orders and not inherently wilful misconduct.—Acts of employee considered and found not in violation of orders of employer or inherently constituting wilful misconduct.—Owe Ming v. Alaska Packers Association, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 67.

633. Foolhardy act of seventeen-year-old boy.—An act of a seventeen-year-old boy employed in a printing office in putting his hand into a paper press to remove clogged sheets of paper while the machine was in motion, although the employees of such shop or office had been prohibited from doing the same thing and he had been told expressly not to do so, it was held that his act was one of foolhardiness and amounted to wilful misconduct; it was further held that the act was so obviously dangerous as to amount to wilful misconduct even in the absence of specific safety rule or instruction.—Greenleaf v. San Pedro Daily News, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 305.

634. Jumping from automobile just before collision with train.—Where an employee was riding in his employer's automobile and an instant before a collision with a train he jumped from the automobile and was killed, it was held that although said act may have been unwise or the result of poor judgment, it was entirely natural and justifiable under the circumstances and contained no element of wilful misconduct.—Bird v. Smith, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 299.

635. Driving automobile with which employee had no experience.—An employee of a hardware and metal company is entitled to compensation for injuries received from a collision between an automobile, in which he was traveling on business of his employer, and a street car, notwithstanding the fact that the accident was due to the lack of familiarity of the employee with the automobile which he was driving, no orders having been given by his employer as to the use of any particular automobile, and the employee having the right to travel by an automobile of his own choosing.—Maryland Casualty Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 39 Cal. App. 229, 178 Pac. 542, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 225 (Showalter v. Union, etc., Co., 5 I. A. C. Dec. 46).

636. Use by a truck driver of circular saw without permission.—The driver of a truck wagon for a copper mining company was held not to have been guilty of serious and wilful misconduct in using a circular saw to cut some side boards for the truck in his charge, for the purpose of increasing its carrying capacity, no rule forbidding its use by him for that purpose having been brought to his attention.—Jordan v. Calaveras Copper Co., 6 I. A. C. Dec. 193.

637. Leaving vessel by jumping across space of three and a half feet to dock instead of using the gangplank.—Serious and wilful misconduct can not be charged to a marine fireman for attempting to jump across a space of three and a half feet from the dock to the barge where he was employed, instead of using the gangplank, where it was shown that he believed, though erroneously, that the gangplank was not strong enough to support him.—Dado v. Standard Oil Co., 6 I. A. C. Dec. 9.

638. Use of unfamiliar machine without permission by boy of eighteen.—An eighteen-year-old boy employed as a helper at a stamping machine in a can factory, in the temporary absence of his superior in charge of the machine, without experience in its operation, without specific instructions not to operate it, and without warning that it was dangerous to attempt to do so, undertook to operate it, and received an injury to his hand, and it was held that he was not guilty of serious and wilful misconduct, and that the injury arose out of and was proximately caused by the employment.—Metz v. American Can Company, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 267.

639. Act of mine employee not wilful misconduct.—An employee of a mine, having finished his underground labors and while waiting for a fresh assignment from the foreman, was not guilty of "wilful misconduct" within the meaning of subdivision 3, section 12, of the act, in seating himself in the shade of an ore bin to recuperate from the heat, no warning ever having been given against doing so.—Brooklyn Mining Co. v. State Industrial Accident Commission, 172 Cal. 774, 775, 159 Pac. 162.

640. Gamekeeper's acts not wilful misconduct.—A gamekeeper engaged in assisting the lessees of a game preserve to find and kill a deer can not be said to have been guilty of wilful misconduct in proceeding to a point in advance of that agreed on, nothing appearing to indicate that he thus intentionally imperiled his life, or recklessly sought the position of danger where he was killed.—O. L. Shafter Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 175 Cal. 522, 526, 166 Pac. 24.

641. Use of unfamiliar tool without permission.—Serious and wilful misconduct of employee is not predicated from the fact that the injured employee, a seventeen-year-old boy, was injured while attempting to make a wooden guide for a saw used by him as a sawyer, it appearing that other employees made such guides, and that such guides would prevent accidents such as he sustained.—Lucky v. Hammond Lumber Co., 6 I. A. C. Dec. 3.

642. Occupying a place on deck of barge during voyage.—On review of an award made for the death of a barge employee by falling from the deck of the barge and drowning, the court can not say that he was acting recklessly and in defiance of orders in occupying the place on deck during the voyage.—W. R. Rideout Co. v. Pillsbury, 173 Cal. 132, 134, 159 Pac. 435.

1. Compensation. a. In general.

643. Employment without pay.—A "student" motorman on a street railway is an employee and is entitled to compensation when injured, although receiving no pay.—Beatty v. San Diego Electric Railway Co., 5 I. A. C. Dec. 241.

644. Failure to limit award to two hundred and forty weeks.—An award of the commission is not open to objection because the order fails in terms to limit the time of payment to two hundred and forty weeks, since the statute itself makes that limitation, and the order can not be effective beyond that period.—Southwestern Surety Ins. Co. v. Pillsbury, 172 Cal. 768, 773, 158 Pac. 762.

645. Award in the alternative.—While an award may be beyond the powers of the commission because of an invalid alternative which might require payment for surgical treatment longer than ninety days, yet where the other alternative is complete in itself, and the insurance carrier need not accept the objectionable alternative, the latter does not invalidate the award.—Southwestern Surety Ins. Co. v. Pillsbury, 172 Cal. 768, 773, 158 Pac. 762.

646. Temporary indemnity — Permanent disability not determinable.—Where the injured employee was a miner and permanently disabled and the permanent disability was not yet determinable he was given a temporary indemnity at a weekly rate payable for permanent indemnity.—Quilien v. Pennington Sons, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 135.

647. Further disability.—An award for further disability is authorized where the subsequent injury is the proximate and natural result of the original injury received in the course of the employment.—Head Drilling Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 177 Cal. 194, 170 Pac. 157, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 1 (Scott v. Head Drilling Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 9).

648. Termination of compensation—Refusal to undergo operation justified.—An award is not subject to reduction or termination by a finding that the person disabled can be relieved by a surgical operation, in view of the seriousness of the disability, where others on finding that the employee refused or was unwilling to undergo the operation or that he had the means to pay for it.—Marshall v. Ransome, etc., Co., 33 Cal. App. 782, 166 Pac. 846, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 154 (Marshall v. Ransome, etc., Co., 2 I. A. C. Dec. 304).

649. Agreement to pay compensation.—As to the effect of an agreement between injured employee and employer as to payment of disability indemnity, under section 16 of the act, and the essentials of such agreement.—Northwestern Pacific Rd. Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 173 Cal. 652, 161 Pac. 123.

b. Medical and surgical treatment.

650. Employer bound to tender, on notice.—An employer is bound to tender medical and surgical treatment on his becoming aware of the injury and of the necessity of medical treatment thereof, and becomes liable for the reasonable value of the treatment after the date of the notice of the injury.—Geier v. Myers Darling Hinton Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 263.

651. Written notice not required—Actual knowledge — Information.—Although the employer's boss had no written notice or actual knowledge of the injury sustained by the employee, where he was informed by other employees of the injury and he knew that the employee was disabled, it was held that the employer had sufficient opportunity to furnish the medical treatment required on account of said injury and neglected to do so.—Hopper v. Cuthbert Burrell Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 141.

652. Liability of employer—Notice—Rule stated.—An employer's knowledge or notice of injury to his employee must be such as to afford to the employer a reasonable notification of the need of medical treatment of the employee's claim thereof in order to make such employer liable for medical treatment.—Ward v. Fox, etc., Co. 4 I. A. C. Dec. 135.

653. Leaving hospital with employer's Gen. Laws—104 consent.—An employer who consents to his employee leaving the hospital is liable for the continued treatment of such employee, who fails to return to the hospital because of physical inability to travel.—Fernandez v. Mountain Copper Co., 5 I. A. C. Dec. 110.

654. Improper treatment furnished by employer and insurance carrier.—It was held in the present case that the refusal of the employer's physician to permit the employee to go elsewhere for treatment was unjustifiable, and having gone elsewhere on account of improper treatment, the employer must pay the full medical bill.—Campbell v. White Lumber Co., 3 I. A. C. Dec. 33.

655. Liability for consequences of treatment procured by employee.—Although an insurance carrier is discharged from liability for the cost of treatment procured by an injured employee after his refusal to accept the treatment tendered by the insurance carrier, the latter is not thereby discharged from liability for the consequences of the treatment, provided said treatment is adequate as a matter of law.—Silveira v. Grayson, etc., Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 229.

656. Neglect of employer and insurance carrier to furnish treatment.—Facts in the instant case held to warrant the conclusion that the employer and insurance carrier neglected to provide the surgical treatment reasonably required, and that the employee did not lose his right to hold the carrier liable for the services of his family physician, under section 15(a) of the act.—Massachusetts, etc., Co. v. Pillsbury, 170 Cal. 767, 170, 151 Pac. 419.

657. Employer relieved of liability by failure of employee to afford him opportunity to furnish treatment.—The failure of an injured employee to afford to his employer opportunity to provide medical treatment, relieves the employer from the obligation to furnish such treatment during the time such opportunity was denied, but does not exempt the employer from tendering treatment as soon as he has an opportunity to do so.—Geier v. Myers Darling Hinton Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 263.

658. Employer not liable unless he has fair opportunity to furnish treatment.—Where an employer did not have a fair opportunity to furnish the required medical treatment after learning of the injury, he was held not liable for the employee's medical expenses.—Gant v. Kraft, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 339.

659. Employer not liable unless he neglects or refuses to furnish treatment.—Under the requirements of section 15(a) of the act, the employer has the right to designate and select the physicians who are to give treatment to the employee and the latter is authorized to make his own selection at the expense of the employer only where the latter has neglected or refused to supply the necessary services.—Leadbetter v. Georgia Casualty Co., 179 Cal. 468, 177 Pac. 449, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 233 (S. C. 26 Cal. App. Dec. 1268, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 143).

660. Employee did not afford employer sufficient opportunity to furnish treatment.—It was held in the present case that the injured employee did not afford his employer a sufficient opportunity to furnish the required medical treatment and that such employer was not liable for the cost of the treatment procured by the applicant.—Ward v. Fox, etc., Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 135.

661. Employee left hospital and procured his own treatment—Employer not liable.—Where an injured employee, while under treatment by a physician and at a hospital supplied by the insurance carrier, abandons such treatment without adequate cause or justification, and without the knowledge of the insurance carrier, and procures other hospital and medical treatment at his own expense with the employer's consent, it is held that notwithstanding such consent, the insurance carrier is not liable for the expense of such medical and hospital charges.—Spring v. J. G. Miller Co., 3 I. A. C. Dec. 4.

662. Hospital charges—Failure to comply with employer's instructions.—Where the injured employee was directed by his employer's physician to go to a certain hospital and the address given him, and the employee went to a different hospital, the commission therefore refused to make an award covering hospital charges, since under such circumstances no neglect or refusal on the part of the employer to furnish hospital services is shown, which is a requirement to such an award.—Cella v. Industrial Accident Commission, 38 Cal. App. 760, 177 Pac. 490, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 206.

663. Employee not guilty of unreasonable refusal to submit to treatment.—It was held in the present case that the injured employee was not guilty of an unreasonable refusal to submit to medical treatment.—Anderson v. Pacific, etc., Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 203.

664. Unreasonable refusal of by employee to submit to medical treatment—Offer must be peremptory and unequivocal.—To constitute an unreasonable refusal to submit to medical treatment as that term is used in section 16(e) of the act, the tender of treatment must be both peremptory and unequivocal and must be so understood by the injured employee.—Anderson v. Pacific, etc., Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 203.

665. Refusal by employee—Offer not sufficiently definite.—It was held in the present case that the offer of medical treatment was not sufficiently definite to constitute the employee's failure to accept the same an unreasonable refusal to submit to medical treatment tendered by the employer.—Norton v. City of Oakland, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 231.

666. Repair of damage to false teeth not medical and surgical treatment.—Repair of damage to false teeth is not medical and surgical treatment required to be furnished by the employer, though the furnishing of artificial teeth where such is rendered necessary by an injury is so required.—De Witt v. California Highway Commission, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 140.

667. Physician of applicant presumed to be competent.—The commission can not, in the absence of convincing testimony, presume that if the employee had been in the hands of a physician furnished by the defendants he would have been more quickly cured than if in the hands of any other surgeon authorized to practice his profession in this state.—Telford v. Healy-Tibbitts, etc., Co., 3 I. A. C. Dec. 41.

668. Services of second physician to observe operation—Not compensable.—A physician called in by an employee to observe an operation made necessary by hernia sustained in course of employment, and the applicant at the suggestion of his physician had present a second physician to observe the operation in order to be able to give testimony as to the nature of the hernia if necessary, it was held not to be compensable for medical services within the meaning of the term as employed in the act.—Beiter v. Rosenberg, etc., Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 94.

669. Employee not entitled to reimbursement for treatment by Chinese herb doctor.—An injured employee is not entitled to reimbursement for the expense of treatment by a Chinese herb doctor who is not licensed to practice medicine.—Knock v. Reliance, etc., Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 181.

670. Treatment by prayer.—Where an employee sustained a muscular strain and consulted a healer who made no diagnosis and used no drugs or mechanical appliances in healing, but who healed by prayer and the laying on of hands and who was not licensed by the state medical board to practice medicine in this state, it was held that such treatment does not constitute medical treatment within the meaning of the act and that the defendants were not liable for the cost thereof.—Miller v. Boos Bros. Cafeteria, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 388.

671. Surgical operation may be optional.—An order requiring a surgical operation may be optional where there is a likelihood but no certainty of improvement of condition.—Hughes v. Northwestern, etc., Co., 5 I. A. C. Dec. 137.

672. Hospital treatment not allowed when disability becomes definitely permanent.—Where the evidence showed that the injured employee's disability had become definitely permanent and that recovery or further improvement would not result from further medical treatment, it was held that further hospital treatment was not allowed under the act.—Employers', etc., Corporation v. Elmore, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 359.

673. Surgical treatment to improve condition—Disability not decreased.—An employer may be ordered by the commission to furnish a permanently, totally disabled employee with surgical treatment where the same may improve his physical condition, although the same may not decrease disability.—United States, etc., Co. v. Silvestro, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 161.

674. Where large employer does not maintain hospital.—In every case where a large employer has provided no adequate hospital facilities for serious cases, the commission will sanction the taking of such injured person out of the hands of the physician of the employer and placing him in a proper hospital and under the care of a proper physician.—Campbell v. White, etc., Co., 3 I. A. C. Dec. 33.

675. Employee entitled to board, lodging and attendance when hospital not available.—Where a hospital is not available, the injured employee is entitled to equivalent board, lodging and attendance.—Casler v. Byrne, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 224.

676. Unwarranted recommendation for surgical operation at carrier's expense—Award not vitiated.—An award of compensation made by the commission is not vitiated because it contains an unwarranted recommendation that the insurance carrier offer to the injured employee to pay the cost of a surgical operation for the purpose of reducing its liability, and that the employee accept the offer, as the same may be disregarded like any other gratuitous suggestion or recommendation.—Marshall v. Ransome Concrete Co., 33 Cal. App. 732, 166 Pac. 846, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 154 (Marshall v. Ransome, etc., Co., 2 I. A. C. Dec. 704).

c. Death benefit.

677. Division of death benefits—Authority of commission.—Under the provision of section 19(a)(3) the commission may award a death benefit on the dependents of a deceased employee in such manner as may be in proportion to their respective needs and just and equitable.—Perry v. Industrial Accident Commission, 54 Cal. Dec. 743, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 370 (Perry v. Fresno Herald, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 110).

678. Division of death benefit—Award to minor children to exclusion of wife.—An award of the entire death benefit to the minor children—issue of a union with a woman to whom he was not married, but with whom he lived for three years prior to his death—to the exclusion of his wife, from whom he had been separated for several years, and who was pressing a claim for a divorce from him without any provision for support, is not an abuse of discretion.—Perry v. Industrial Accident Commission, 54 Cal. Dec. 743, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 370 (Perry v. Fresno Herald, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 110).

d. Burial expenses.

679. Burial expenses may be allowed in addition to death benefits in case of partial dependency.—Where the employee leaves persons partially dependent upon him, the cost of burial may be allowed in addition to the death benefit awarded, while in cases of total dependency such cost may not be allowed in addition to the death benefit.—Northern, etc., Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 34 Cal. App. 2, 166 Pac. 828, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 173.

680. Burial expenses not an asset of the estate.—The administrator of the estate of a deceased employee without dependents has a claim for the payment to him exclusively for the burial expenses and not as an asset of the estate generally.—Reed v. San Diego, etc., Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 40.

681. In case of part payment by lodge.—Where a deceased employee's lodge paid a part of his burial expense, the dependent is entitled to payment for the balance due over the lodge's contribution.—Hitzelberger v. Rolph, etc., Co., 5 I. A. C. Dec. 123.

e. Liens.

682. Living expenses—Construction of section 29.—The payment of disability indemnity mentioned in section 29(b)(3) refers to a first payment of disability indemnity and the amount thereafter to be paid mentioned in section 29(c) refers to the amount of compensation due and which remains unpaid.—Pankey v. Western, etc., Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 158.

683. Same — Settlement agreement.—Where pursuant to settlement agreement and before approval of the same by the commission, compensation was paid for the full amount of the applicant's estimated disability and liens were thereafter filed for the reasonable value of living expenses of the injured employee, said liens were denied and the settlement agreement was approved.—Pankey v. Western, etc., Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 159.

684. Same—Payment of compensation extinguishes right to lien.—Payment of compensation extinguishes the right to file a lien for the reasonable value of living expenses of an injured employee against compensation thereafter payable.—Pankey v. Western, etc., Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 158.

685. Same—Allowance of lien mere matter of procedure.—The allowance of the lien contemplated by section 24(b)(5) of the act of 1917, by the wife of an injured employee, for the amount of reasonable living expenses for herself and minor children, upon the ground that her husband had deserted her and was neglecting his family, is, when the employee files his written consent, a mere matter of procedure, and therefore, under section 73, the lien can be allowed after January 1, 1918, against compensation due for an injury occurring before.—Jensen v. Jensen, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 45.

686. Same—Where no application for compensation filed.—Where no application for compensation on account of injury had been filed, no award made and no liability therefor admitted either by employer or by insurance carrier, it was held that the commission was without jurisdiction to allow a lien for hospital treatment furnished to the injured employee's wife at his request, and for her board and room.—Harvey v. McNeil, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 112.

687. Same—Same—Disappearance of employee.—Under the provisions of section 17 of the act of 1917, the commission has jurisdiction of a claim of a wife for a lien upon the compensation due an injured employee, for living expenses, and where such employee, after the injury, disappeared without applying for or receiving compensation, and his whereabouts were unknown, the commission, after publication of notice of the wife's claim under section 412, Code of Civil Procedure, as provided in section 17(a) of the act, allowed the lien asked for.—Schaeffer v. California, etc., Co., 6 I. A. C. Dec. 266.

688. Same—Alimony.—Under the provisions of section 24(b)(5) a lien was allowed a divorced wife for back alimony due under an agreement, without an application and award to the injured husband.—Harrison v. London, etc., Co., 5 I. A. C. Dec. 29.

689. Medical services — Notice prerequisite to claim of lien.—Under section 29 of the act the notice is a prerequisite to the claim of lien of the physician or other purpose for services in treating the injured employee.—Pacific Coast Casualty Co. v. Pillsbury, 171 Cal. 319, 325, 153 Pac. 24.

690. Same—Charge against carrier and not against employee.—Where an injured workman was taken by a fellow employee to a physician and the physician informed the insurance carrier of the injury and of his treatment, and afterwards made his charge against the carrier for his services and not against the employee, it was held that the commission was without jurisdiction to award a lien to such physician, the matter being a question of contract between the physician and the employer.—Paul v. Johnson Bros., 3 I. A. C. Dec. 32.

691. Same—Must be incurred as is required by section 24.—Medical expense incurred by employer not allowed as a lien against compensation, where not incurred as required by section 24 of the act of 1917, although the reasonable value of services rendered was awarded.—Abele v. Spenson, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 22.

692. Attorney's fee—Payment of, may be ordered direct to attorney by employer.—In order to make effective the lien of the attorney provided for in section 29(b) of the workmen's compensation act, the commission may adopt the method of ordering the amount allowed as a fee to be paid directly by the employer to the attorney.—North Pacific S. S. Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 174 Cal. 500, 504, 163 Pac. 910.

693. Expenses of burial—Limited to $100.—The cost of a burial lot and transportation of the remains can only be allowed as a lien when their cost comes within $100, nevertheless, on the request of the person entitled to the death benefit, the commission will order the payment of more than $100 direct to the undertaker.—Sigman v. Columbia, etc., Co., 3 I. A. C. Dec. 2.

2. Computation. a. Disability.

694. Measure of disability.—The ability of the workman to do the exact work on which he was employed at the time of the injury is not the sole measure of disability, but, under the provisions of subdivision 2 [7], section 15, of the act, account should be taken of the nature of the physical injury or disfigurement, the occupation of the injured employee and his age at the time of the injury.—Frankfort G. Ins. Co. v. Pillsbury, 173 Cal. 56, 58, 159 Pac. 150.

695. Percentage of disability, a question of fact.—The percentage of disability in the case before it is a matter to be determined by the commission in the exercise of its sound discretion, based upon a fair view of all the circumstances, and its conclusion in a matter is the determination of a question of fact, and is not subject to review by the courts unless palpably contrary to the undisputed evidence.—Frankfort G. Ins. Co. v. Pillsbury, 173 Cal. 56, 59, 159 Pac. 150.

696. Nature, extent and duration of disability.—Where an employee was suffering from the initial stages of glaucoma, which would after an indefinite period have produced total blindness independently of any injury, and he sustained an injury which precipitated acute glaucoma and hastened the inevitable condition of total blindness, it was held that the disability was temporary and total and that the period of disability proximately caused by the injury was the period during which vision would have remained if there had been no injury.—Cousins v. Hanlon, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 97.

697. Permanent disability—20% of total disability.—Where a carpenter suffered the loss of a kidney as a result of a fall, which prevented him from performing the strenuous work of a carpenter, he was held to have sustained a permanent disability, although the remaining kidney was normal and performing the functions of both kidneys, and such permanent disability equaled 20 per cent of the total disability.—Fraser v. Healy-Tibbetts, etc., Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 242.

698. Same—Commission not bound by schedule.—Where the circumstances of a special case indicate that the rating appearing in the schedule published by the commission, as respects a certain kind of permanent disability, is too low, or where the testimony shows that the framers of such schedule made an underestimate as regards a certain class of permanent disability, the commission will not be bound by such schedule but will rate such disability upon the basis indicated by the evidence to be proper.—Lee v. Pacific, etc., Co., 3 I. A. C. Dec. 28.

699. Same—Minor.—A ripsawyer at the age of nineteen years, who received a permanent injury to the right eye, was entitled to compensation under section 12(c) of the act of 1917, computed upon the probable wages which he would have received at the time he would become a journeyman brakeman, to the end that the injured brakeman may not be compensated on the injury on the basis of a boy's wages.—Pacific Manufacturing Co. v. Pasquinelli, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 184.

700. Same—Disability that does not affect efficiency.—The loss by an electric lineman, as a result of an industrial injury, of the senses of taste and smell does not interfere with his efficiency as a lineman nor cause a diminution of earning power in such occupation, and is therefore not compensable.—Dotson v. Southern California, etc., Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 90.

701. Same—Child dancer—Scar on arm.—It was held that a child dancer was entitled to a rating for a permanent disability for a scar or burn on her arm.—Yeager v. Universal, etc., Co., 5 I. A. C. Dec. 131.

702. Partial permanent disability—Jurisdiction of commission.—Under the liberal construction enjoined by section 86(a), it is held that under sections 12 and 15, the commission is authorized to make an award for partial permanent disability where it is less than ten per cent of total disability.—Massachusetts, etc., Co. v. Pillsbury, 170 Cal. 767, 768, 151 Pac. 419.

703. Preliminary treatment—Compensation for period of.—Where it was necessary to give the injured employee preliminary treatment before undergoing an operation required to cure the injury received, the disability will be compensable for the entire period, including preliminary treatment.—Bishop v. National, etc., Co., 5 I. A. C. Dec. 223.

704. Damage to plate of false teeth not compensable.—A damage to removable plate of false teeth is an injury to property as distinguished from a compensable injury such as the knocking out of a natural tooth or damage to a bridge which is attached to and firmly fixed together with a part of the physical structure of the mouth; and the commission is without jurisdiction over a controversy concerning damage to such plate.—DeWitt v. California Highway Commission, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 140.

705. Cannery employee rendering divers seasonal duties.—Where a cannery employee whose employment was as forelady and also at times as labeler, so as to be employed continuously during the season, she was held to have sustained a compensable disability from an injury which prevented her from continuing in the occupation of labeling, though it did not prevent her from performing her work as forelady.—Russell v. Western Indemnity Co., 5 I. A. C. Dec. 111.

706. Impairment of vision due to use of wood alcohol.—An impairment of vision due to effect of wood alcohol used in cleaning an apparatus used by an employee is an accidental injury within the meaning of section 12 of the Boynton act as it stood January 1, 1914.—Fid. & Cas. Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 177 Cal. 614, 616, L. R. A. 1918F, 856, 171 Pac. 429.

707. Release no bar to subsequently developing disability.—A release of all claims against the insurer by an injured employee on payment of an award for temporary disability does not bar a claim for permanent disability developing subsequent to the original award.—Massachusetts, etc., Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 176 Cal. 488, 492, 168 Pac. 1050.

708. Award of 50 per cent compensation.—An injured shipfitter able to do light work not accessible to him and not furnished by his employer was awarded fifty per cent compensation.—Brown v. Southwestern Shipbuilding Co., 6 I. A. C. Dec. 71.

709. Compensation for vacation period.—An employee, who, after sustaining a compensable injury, takes his regular vacation without pay, which he would have taken even if he had not been injured, but at a different time, should be compensated for the vacation period, even though there was no loss of wages during the same.—Bickelnitzky v. Acme Brewing Co., 3 I. A. C. Dec. 5.

710. Employer takes employee subject to existing disability.—Employer takes an employee subject to his tubercular condition at the time of the employment.—Cox v. California, etc., Co., 5 I. A. C. Dec. 10.

711. Same—Rule not to be applied to work unjustly.—The rule that the employer takes the employee subject to his physical condition at the time of entering his employment should not be applied where it would be unreasonable or would work injustice.—Anderson v. De Paoli, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 82.

712. Same—Impossible to determine extent of disability due to pre-existing condition.—It was held in the present case that the employer takes his employee as he finds him and where it is impossible to determine how much of the disability was due to the accident and how much to pre-existing conditions, it will be held that all of the disability is compensable.—Rouda v. Massachusetts, etc., Co., 3 I. A. C. Dec. 36.

713. Same—Injury causing disability by reason of weakness from pre-existing diseased condition.—Where a laborer sustained a strain which caused no disability at the time and he continued working for five days and sustained another similar strain which was followed by a disabling gastro-intestinal trouble due to a pre-existing abdominal weakness of considerable standing, it was held that only such proportion of the disability as was reasonably attributable to the strains was compensable.—Kibler v. State, etc., Fund, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 361.

714. Same—When disability ascribed to pre-existing condition.—Disability may properly be ascribed to a pre-existing condition or ailment, if the injury is slight and the condition or ailment is known to have existed at the time.—Snyder v. Pacific, etc., Co., 3 I. A. C. Dec. 1.

715. Occupational disease—Police officer—Flat feet and broken arches.—The employment of a patrolman and traffic officer, requiring him to stand eight hours a day in a very small space, usually on the pavement, was held to especially expose him to the danger of broken arches and flat feet, and such injury after five years employment arose out of and was proximately caused thereby and was compensable.—Hedden v. State Compensation Insurance Fund, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 1.

716. Same—Test of.—The test of whether a disease is occupational is whether it arose out of and in the course of the employment and it is immaterial whether infection was unavoidable.—Adams v. State of California, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 62.

717. Same—Occupation at which engaged at time of injury.—The occupation to be considered in making a permanent disability rating is that at which the employee was engaged at the time of the injury, and not other and additional occupations.—Felsen v. Atchison, etc., Ry. Co., 3 I. A. C. Dec. 11.

718. Disability caused by injury compensable regardless of disability due to pre-existing condition.—Where a mangle worker sustained an abdominal strain and a ventral hernia which disabled her from work and she was later found to be suffering also from a disabling heart trouble which was not caused by the injury or the employment, it was held that the disability caused by the injury was compensable, regardless of the disability due to the heart condition.—Burns v. Snyder's I. X. L. Laundry, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 241.

719. "Further disability."—Where an employee returned to work three weeks after the injury and worked continuously for five weeks and was then taken ill with metastatic infection and boils resulting from the original injury and was laid off for three weeks and then returned to work for two weeks, although able to do only a half day's work, it was held that the metastatic infection was a "further disability" within the meaning of section 16(c) of the act.—4 I. A. C. Dec. 101.

720. Same—When disability is.—A disability becomes a "further disability" within the meaning of the statute when it partially or wholly prevents the injured employee from employment after he returns to work subsequent to injury.—Kemper v. Nathan-Dohrmann Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 101.

721. Same—New employer not liable.—The facts of this case show a new and further disability because of the incompletely healed fracture of the original injury, while serving a new employer, and it is held that the original employer and not the new employer was liable for compensation under the act.—Snover v. Samuels, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 215.

722. Same—Blindness from injury to eye producing cataract.—Where an employee sustained an injury to his eye and after medical treatment therefor returned to his regular work and about a year thereafter a cataract appeared which produced blindness, it was held that said blindness constituted a "further disability" within the meaning of the act.—Lara v. Los Angeles Stone Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 298.

723. Same—Question of fact.—The question as to when the "further disability" under subdivision c of section 16 commences is a question of fact for the industrial accident commission to decide from the facts.—Employees Credit Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 177 Cal. 46, 49, 169 Pac. 1001.

723a. Same—Defined.—"Further disability" under section 16 (c) of the act of 1913, refers to any disability in addition to that for which proceedings were commenced within six months from the date of the injury, or that for which disability indemnity has been paid or agreed to be paid.—Kauffman v. Industrial Accident Commission, 37 Cal. App. 500, 174 Pac. 630.

724. Same — Subsequent incapacity.—Where, after an injury to his leg an employee suffered no loss of wages and required no medical treatment, although constantly in some discomfort because of the injury, and thereafter he became incapacitated from work by reason of the injury, it was held that the subsequent incapacity was a "further disability" within the meaning of section 16 (c) of the act of 1913.—Larsen v. Sherer & Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 126.

725. Where an injury to the eye caused no immediate disability beyond the waiting period, but after eighteen months resulted in a traumatic cataract which caused permanent disability, it was held that such cataract was a "further disability" within the meaning of section 16 (c) of the act as amended in 1915.—Ready v. City of Oakland, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 89.

726. Same—Subsequent injury.—A "further disability" not caused by the original injury, but by the employee's own carelessness, and not happening in the course of a subsequent employment by the same employer, and arising out of it, is not compensable at all under the act.—Head Drilling Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 177 Cal. 194, 170 Pac. 157, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 1, (Scott v. Head Drilling Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 9).

b. Earnings.

727. "Neighboring place" — Transitory occupation.—In view of the transitory nature of the occupation of a bricklayer, the term "neighboring place" as used in subdivision (2) section 17 (a) of the act of 1913, should be construed to include the various localities within the territory contiguous to the place where the deceased employee was working at the time of his death.—Roche v. Gilson, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 95.

728. "Days when so employed."—The phrase "days when so employed" in section 17a (1) refers to the number of days during which the employee was actually engaged in work, and not to the number of working days during which he might have been expected to work.—Frankfort G. Ins. Co. v. Pillsbury, 173 Cal. 56, 59, 159 Pac. 150.

729. "Rate of wages."—"Rate of wages" referred to in subdivision 4 of section 12 (a) of the act of 1917, means the daily rate.—Mitchell v. Langley and Livingston, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 188.

730. Average earnings—Standard wages.—In view of section 17, subdivision 2 of the act of 1913, an award of compensation on a basis of $4.50 per day, to a painter employed at $2.50 per day, for injuries sustained two days after he was employed, is not open to review, where it appeared that $4.50 was the standard wage scale for painters in that locality.—Hickox v. Industrial Accident Commission, 35 Cal. App. 403, 169 Pac. 1048.

731. Average annual earnings — Salary definitely fixed.—The average annual earnings of a deceased employee are to be computed in accordance with the terms of section 17(a)(2) and not under the provisions of section 17 (a) (1) where his salary is definitely fixed and his employment not for a portion of the year but for all the year around, although at the time of his death he was not working in the employment substantially the whole of the year immediately preceding death. — Northern etc., Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 34 Cal. App. 2, 166 Pac. 828, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 173.

732. Same—Salary not definitely fixed.—Under the provisions of section 17 (a) (2) of the act, where the wage or salary of the deceased employee working in the class referred to by such subdivision has not been definitely agreed to and fixed, the wage or salary of an employee of the same class, who had worked at the same or similar kind of employment substantially the whole of the year immediately preceding the death of the employee, earned during the days when so employed, should be adopted as the basis of computation. — Northern, etc., Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 34 Cal. App. 2, 166 Pac. 828, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 173.

733. Same—Earnings of others similarly employed.—The average annual earnings upon which a death benefit for the death of a bricklayer was computed upon the basis of the average daily earnings of other bricklayers, as provided in subdivision (2) of section 17 (a), instead of upon the average annual earning capacity of the deceased employee, as provided in subdivision (3) of that section. — Roche v. Gilson, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 95.

734. Same—School teacher.—A school teacher engaged to teach on five days per week for a term of ten months of the year at an annual salary is not employed substantially the whole year and her average annual earnings computed under section 17 (a) (3) of the act are the amount of her salary for the year. — Hoag v. Elk Grove, etc., District, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 70.

735. Same—Intermittent character of work.—Where an award of the commission for injuries received by an employee of a contractor, while engaged in cleaning a roof, was fixed by the commission at 300 times his daily wage and it was shown that his employment was occasional and irregular, and that neither himself nor any other person was employed steadily at it, the award was erroneous. — Mahaffey v. Industrial Accident Commission, 54 Cal. Dec. 740, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 368.

736. Same—Act contemplates steady and permanent employment—Where not shown to exist.—Both subdivisions 1 and 2 of section 17 of the act contemplate steady and permanent employment and the amount of average annual earnings is fixed accordingly at 300 times the daily wage, but where this kind of employment is not shown to exist, the case falls within subdivision 3, under which the annual earnings are to be taken as the sum which will "reasonably represent the average annual earning capacity" of the employee "in the kind of employment in which he was then working, or in any employment comparable therewith, but not of a higher class." — Mahaffey v. Industrial Accident Commission, 54 Cal. Dec. 740, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 368.

737. Same—Seven day a week employee.—Under the act, where an injury occurred to an employee who labors seven days a week, resort is to be had to subsection 17 (a) (3) of the act, in computing the average annual earnings and not to either subsections 17 (a) (1) or 17 (a) (2) which required the use of the multiplier 300. — City of Los Angeles v. Industrial Accident Commission, 25 Cal. App. Dec. 100, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 227.

738. Same—Neither employee nor any other working at the employment two hundred and sixty days in year.—Where an applicant for compensation did not work two hundred and sixty days during the year preceding the injury, as a theatrical stage electrician and there was no evidence that any one else did, neither subdivision 1, 2 nor 3 of section 12 (a) of the act of 1917 applied, but his average earnings must be determined under the provisions of subdivision 4 of that section. — Mitchell v. Langley and Livingston, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 188.

739. Same—Carpenter's per diem wages taken, where no carpenter in neighborhood worked whole year.—Where a carpenter had been working for three months, six days in the week at $4.00 a day, and had been working as a carpenter for several years and it did not appear whether such work continued substantially for the whole year in that neighborhood, it was held that his average annual earnings should be computed under section 17 (a) (3) on the basis of the carpenter's average annual earning capacity and thus computed were fixed at $1200. — Hardwick v. Armstrong, etc., Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 109.

740. Same—Where employee worked 364 days in year.—Where the evidence showed that the employee had worked for the employer an average of 364 days a year during the three years immediately preceding his injury, it was held the average annual earnings in the manner prescribed by subsection 3 of section 17 (a) of the act of 1913, and not by that of subsections 1 and 2 of the same section. — Western Indemnity Co. v. Neill, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 91.

741. Same—"Occasional jobs."—Subdivision 3 of section 17, and not subdivisions 1 and 2 (Stats. 1915, p. 1087), provides the basis for the computation of an injured employee who took "occasional jobs" from the contractor in whose service he was injured. — Mahaffey v. Industrial Accident Commission, 176 Cal. 711, 171 Pac. 298.

742. Same—Earnings in other occupations.—When the earnings of a student motorman in other occupations were in excess of wages paid him at the time of his injury, they can not be considered in computing his average earnings at the time of the injury under section 12 (a) (4), but under section 12 (a) (2) his average weekly earnings should be based upon the earnings of regular motormen, since he was at the time of his injury an employee of the same class as a regular motorman, who worked two hundred and sixty days of the year preceding the injury.—Boyce v. Pacific G. & E. Co., 6 I. A. C. Dec. 147.

743. Same—Weekly earnings at normal wages.—Where the normal wages of a teamster do not exceed three dollars per day, and an injured employee, under an agreement to share earnings, less cost of feeding team, earned an average of five dollars per day, his average weekly earnings should be computed according to the method provided by section 12 (a) (4).—Heironimus v. California, etc., Co., 6 I. A. C. Dec. 19.

744. Same—Average earnings of election clerk.—The average annual earnings of an election clerk were computed on the average of the daily earnings of an employee in a similar employment under the provisions of section 17 (a) (2).—Meehan v. City of Los Angeles, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 52.

745. Same—Part of wages under bonus system.—Where the deceased employee received a certain per cent of his wages under the bonus system during the last three months of the year preceding his fatal injury, it was held that under the provisions of section 12 (a) of the act of 1917, his average annual earnings should be computed by adding to the weekly average of the rate of pay the average of the bonus received during the period the bonus system was in existence.—Standley v. Pacific Coast Steel Co., 5 I. A. C. Dec. 130.

746. Same—Overtime.—In computing the average earnings of an injured employee, the overtime earned during the few days next preceding the injury was included.—Charley v. Hammond Lumber Co., 5 I. A. C. Dec. 192.

747. Same—Variations in wages—Wages for last two months taken.—Where the rate of daily pay increased during the year preceding the injury, the amount of compensation is computed by taking the average of all wages received during the last two months when the highest wage was paid.—Jacobson v. United Railroads, etc., 5 I. A. C. Dec. 195.

748. Same—Same—Wages received at time of injury.—The wages of a machinist increased at various intervals, the last increase having been two months prior to his injury are held not to have been irregular within the meaning of subdivision (3) of section 12 (a) of the act of 1917 and his average annual earnings should therefore be determined according to the provisions of subdivision (1) of that section, that is on the basis of the wages which he was receiving at the time of his injury.—Spillane v. Cyclops Iron Works, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 98.

749. Same—Same—Method of computation.—Where the rate of pay of a deceased employee varied during the year preceding his injury and death and was therefore irregular, the computation provided by the first three months prescribed in section 12 of the act of 1917 can not be reasonably and fairly applied, and his average weekly earning capacity was ascertained by taking the product of the total number of hours worked during the year at the yearly rate received at the time of the injury, plus a bonus received during the year, and the same divided by 52.—Grindell v. Maryland Casualty Co., 5 I. A. C. Dec. 193.

750. Same—Employee under twenty-one—Expected increase not considered.—Average annual earnings of a person, under twenty-one years of age, shown to be earning $15 per month, for five days work after school, and Saturday, full day, and that after graduation from high school, six months before he would reach his majority, he would then be able to work full time at $4.00 to $5.00 per day, would be computed at the normal figure, under the condition of the business existing at the time of the injury, the expected increase pertaining solely to applicants personal circumstances and not due to the characteristics of the business.—Rodey v. Marshall, etc., Fund, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 2.

751. Same—Same—Based on conditions at time of injury.—In computing compensation for the permanent disability of an employee under 21 years of age, the probable wages after attaining 21 years, are to be based upon conditions at the time of the injury.—Henneberry v. Union Iron Works, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 158.

See Claremont C. Club v. Industrial Acc. Com., 174 Cal. 395, 399, 163 Pac. 209.

752. The probable wages of an employee under 21 years of age are based upon conditions at the time of the injury.—Quilien v. Pennington Sons, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 135.

753. Same—Same—Expected increase may be considered.—In awarding compensation to a minor permanently injured it is proper for the Industrial Accident Commission, supporting the provisions of section 17, workmen's compensation act, to take into consideration the increased wage which a minor may be fairly expected to earn after reaching the age of twenty-one.—Claremont C. Club v. Industrial Acc. Com., 174 Cal. 395, 399, 163 Pac. 209.

754. Same—Same—Probable wage after majority may not be considered.—The commission has no power under section 17(c) of the act of 1913, to award compensation to an employee a few months under twenty-one, on the basis of his probable wages after reaching twenty-one.—Hyman, etc., Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 180 Cal. 423, 181 Pac. 784 (Weiss v. Hyman, etc., Co., 5 I. A. C. Dec. 71).

See Claremont C. Club v. Industrial Accident Commission, 174 Cal. 395, 399, 163 Pac. 209.

755. The commission had no power under section 17(c) of the act of 1913 to award compensation to an injured employee under twenty-one upon the basis of his probable earnings within a reasonable time after attaining the age of twenty-one.—Western Pacific Rd. Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 180 Cal. 416, 181 Pac. 787 (Dean v. Western Pacific, etc., Co., 5 I. A. C. Dec. 168, 245).

See Claremont C. Club v. Industrial Acci-

Cent Commission, 174 Cal. 395, 399, 163 Pac. 209.

756. Same—Newsboy selling both morning and afternoon papers for different employers—Average earnings.—Where a newsboy sells morning and afternoon papers for different publishers, his compensation for injury sustained while selling morning papers is based upon average earnings from sale of both morning and afternoon papers.—Servel v. Chronicle Publishing Co., 6 I. A. C. Dec. 23.

757. Same—Full earnings in excess of maximum.—Where an employee's full earnings exceeded the maximum, he was held to be entitled to compensation for partial disability in an amount 65 per cent of the difference between his pay during partial disability and the maximum average of weekly earnings.—Roney v. Ne Page, etc., Co., 5 I. A. C. Dec. 129.

758. Same—Cannery employee at divers seasonal duties.—Where a cannery employee was employed continuously in divers seasonal duties and suffered a disability which prevented her from the performance of one of these classes of duties, but not in the other, it was held that her average annual earnings should not be limited to her earnings in the particular work she was engaged in at the time of her injury, but should include all her earnings throughout the year in her employment at the cannery.—Russell v. Western Indemnity Co., 5 I. A. C. Dec. 111.

759. Same—Bricklayer as volunteer fireman.—When a volunteer fireman rendered service as such only when occasion required, and at other times engaged in his regular occupation as a bricklayer, it was held that his average annual earnings should be determined on the basis of his earnings as such fireman and not on his earnings as bricklayer.—Gilmore v. City of Whittier, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 58.

760. Same—Machinist earning wages as musician.—Where an injury sustained by a machinist results in the loss of his ability to play and teach the violin, whereby he earned considerable in addition to his wages as a machinist, it was held that such additional earnings must be disregarded in computing his average annual earnings, since the act contemplates an imposition of compensation only upon the basis of earnings in the industry in which the injury occurs.—Felsen v. Atchison, etc., Ry. Co., 3 I. A. C. Dec. 11.

761. Same—Where no remuneration—Computed at minimum.—Where there is no remuneration from which the amount of compensation may be computed under this act, it will be computed at the prescribed minimum.—Noyes v. City of Eureka, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 163.

762. Same—Working as typist for two employers—Entire wages.—Where an injured employee worked for two employers as a typist, the disability indemnity rate for an injury sustained by her should be computed on the basis of her earnings from both employers.—O'Connell v. Blum's Advertising Agency, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 225.

763. Same—Two employers—Entire wages.—Where a joint employee of two railroads, one of which was not within the jurisdiction of the commission, was injured, it was held that his compensation should be computed on his entire wages from both companies, for which the company not in interstate commerce should be liable although said company paid only one-half his wages.—Robinson v. San Francisco, etc., Railways, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 138.

764. Same—Night watchman—Several employees.—Where a night watchman was employed by a corporation for a portion of his time, and was killed while in such employ, an award for a death benefit against such corporation was properly made, although employed under separate contracts in the same capacity by five other corporations; and the amount of the award was properly based upon his earnings in the aggregate from all his employers, instead of his earnings from the employer against whom the award was made.—Western Metal Supply Co. v. Pillsbury, 72 Cal. 407, 418, Ann. Cas. 1917E, 390, 156 Pac. 491, 3 I. A. C. Dec. 109 (Mason v. Western Metal Supply Co., 1 I. A. C. Dec. 284).

765. Same—Waiter's tips and allowance for board, etc., considered.—The commission in estimating the compensation of a waiter in a hotel, may take into consideration the amount received in tips at the time of the injury as well as his regular wage and a proper allowance for board, etc.—Hartford, etc., Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 28 Cal. App. Dec. 1374, 183 Pac. 234.

766. Same—Student nurse—Value of instruction not considered.—In computing the compensation of a student nurse for injuries received in the course of her employment as such, it was held that no value is to be given to the instruction received by her.—Burroughs v. Santa Barbara Cottage Hospital, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 175.

767. Same—Wages definitely fixed.—Where a deceased employee's wage or salary is definitely fixed, no necessity exists for further testimony of such fact.—North-ern, etc., Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 34 Cal. App. 2, 166 Pac. 828, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 173.

4. Dependency.

768. "Member of the family."—The words "member of the family" in section 19 (c) of the act, do not include a woman living in the illicit relationship of wife of an employee.—Pollock v. Wagner Leather Co., 3 I. A. C. Dec. 37.

769. "For whose support such husband was legally liable."—Where, at the time of his death, a laborer was supporting his wife in Spain by remittances during the two years of his absence from her, it was held that she was entitled to the presumption of total dependency by reason of the amendment of the act, effective August 8, 1915, conferring the right to such presumption on a widow "for whose support such husband was legally liable."—Lopez v. Fremont, etc., Co., 3 I. A. C. Dec. 31.

770. Partial dependency.—"Annual amount devoted."—The term "annual amount devoted" is to be interpreted under section 9 (c) (2) and 14 (b) of the act of 1917, as the actual amount contributed during the year preceding the injury, irrespective of any increase of earnings during the course of such year enabling the contributor to enlarge the amount of support at a rate which would have been continued had there been no injury.—Schaffer v. Moore Shipbuilding Co., 5 I. A. C. Dec. 198.

771. Same—Income from property less than expense thereof.—The dependency upon an employee is partial, where such dependent received, in addition to the employee's contributions, certain income from property which was less than the expense thereof, and from the income from both sources paid her living expenses and purchased certain real estate.—Anderson v. Union Iron Works, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 42.

772. Same—Rate where earnings covered portion of year.—Where earnings have been made only during a portion of the preceding year, the contributions for the whole year are estimated at the same rate as for the entire period of actual contribution.—Schaffer v. Moore Shipbuilding Co., 5 I. A. C. Dec. 198.

773. Same—Receiving money for room rent in house rented by employee.—Where, with the exception of a small amount per month received as room rent from lodgers in the house occupied by the family, the deceased employee paid all the living expenses of his mother and sister, including the rent of the house occupied by them, it was held that the fact of receiving money as room rent did not render the dependency only partial but that the mother and sister were totally dependent upon the deceased for support.—Corbitt v. Moore & Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 389.

774. Same—Where both father and son contributed.—A father and mother were only partially dependent on a son for support, where the latter lived at home, and habitually gave his mother his pay check, and occasionally received small amounts for his own use, and the earnings of the father and son were used for the support of family, and a small monthly payment on a mortgage on the home.—Wilson v. Southern, etc., Co., 6 I. A. C. Dec. 106.

775. Same—Part support from income of own property.—Where the applicant was partly supported by the contributions of the deceased employee and partly by income from her own property, it appeared that she had deposited in a savings bank the amount of the contribution received from such deceased employee, it was held that in determining the amount of the death benefit, the amount of the banked deposits should not be considered but that the savings should be treated as though derived entirely from the personal income.—Dunn v. Johns-Manville Co., 5 I. A. C. Dec. 205.

776. Same — Contributions for entire year not necessary.—It is not necessary in a case of partial dependency that the deceased employee should have contributed to claimant's support for a year, and the annual amount provided by section 15(c)(2) of the act of 1913 may exceed the amount actually contributed during the year.—Sharon v. Bornstein, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 70.

777. Same — Contributions not constant.—Where the contributions made by a deceased employee have not been constant, either in amounts or times of payment, but fluctuated during the year preceding his demise, the determination of the "annual amount" rests largely in the discretion of the commission based upon the evidence, and is not subject to review if there is any evidence to support it.—Popst v. Industrial Accident Commission (Cal. App.), 192 Cal. 296.

778. Disposition of benefit—Needs of dependents.—The question what disposition in any particular case is in proportion to the respective needs of the dependents and is just and equitable is one of fact, the determination of which is committed to the discretion of the commission.—Perry v. Industrial Accident Commission, 176 Cal. 706, 710, 169 Pac. 353.

779. Mother of family of illegitimate children.—Where a woman cohabits with a man for a long period of years, and is the mother of a family of children by such man, but was not the wife of such man, but of one who had previously deserted her, and such woman and family are in fact totally dependent on such man, it was held that such woman is not entitled to the presumption of total dependency accorded a wife.—Pollock v. Wagner Leather Co., 3 I. A. C. Dec. 37.

780. Maintenance of child — Amount father ordered to pay.—It is competent for the commission to determine as a matter of fact that the father was liable for the maintenance of the child where it finds upon competent evidence that the sum which he was ordered to pay was fully sufficient for its entire support.—Robert Sherer & Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission (Cal.), 188 Pac. 797.

781. Source of earnings not considered.—The source of earnings contributed to a dependent will not be considered by the commission, and where the earnings of a 17-year-old boy contributed to his mother's support were obtained after he had escaped from the state reform school, the source of such contributions will not bar the mother's right to a death benefit, and this notwithstanding such commitment and assumption of guardianship by the state.—Silva v. Red River Lumber Co., 5 I. A. C. Dec. 190.

782. Repayments of debt, not contributions.—Repayments of debt do not constitute contributions for the support of dependent to be considered in fixing the compensation of such dependent.—Beacom v. Miller & Lux, Inc., 6 I. A. C. Dec. 61.

783. Claims of nonresident dependents—Policy of commission.—In dealing with death benefit claims by nonresident dependents, it is the policy of the commission to require at least some testimony as to contributions for support to be corroborated by documentary evidence of remittances.—Claudio v. California, etc., Ry. Co., 3 I. A. C. Dec. 7.

784. Support of nonresident wife — Imprisonment of husband.—Failure of an Italian resident in this state to remit contributions for his wife's support during a year's imprisonment and for six months after, is not inconsistent with the fact of total dependency of his nonresident wife, where he had previously made remittances, and there is no affirmative evidence of an intent, during the period of nonremittances, to sever family relations.—Claudio v. California, etc., Ry. Co., 3 I. A. C. Dec. 7.

785. Same — Presumption of partial support.—Although a wife in Italy has been supported for seven years by contributions from her husband in this country, she will be presumed to be only partially dependent on him at the time of his death, one and one-half years, after the seven year period, if during such one and one-half years he made no remittance, and she was living with three adult children at least two of whom were presumably able to support her.—Claudio v. California, etc., Ry. Co., 3 I. A. C. Dec. 7.

786. Same — Presumption that husband and wife were "living together."—Evidence that an Italian resident in this state sent $140 to his wife in Italy during 1912, and $40 in the following February, and after eleven months' imprisonment resumes work and is killed in June, 1914, without having made any further remittance to his wife, is insufficient, without other evidence, to support a conclusive presumption that the husband and wife were "living together" within the meaning of the act.—Claudio v. California, etc., Ry. Co., 3 I. A. C. Dec. 7.

787. The commission will entertain no conclusive presumption, that a wife, resident abroad, and for nine years separate from her husband, is "living with" him, within the meaning of section 19 (a) (1) of the act of 1913, in the absence of sufficient evidence of regular and substantial contributions by him tending to show an intent to renew family relations.—Claudio v. California, etc., Ry. Co., 3 I. A. C. Dec. 7.

788. Nonresident widow in Spain—"Living with" husband employee.—Where up to the time of his death a laborer has by means of remittances been supporting his wife who, during two years of his absence from her had remained in the foreign country of their birth, it was held that she was "living with" him at the time of his death within the meaning of section 19 of the act.—Lopez v. Mourenzae, 3 I. A. C. Dec. 31.

789. Nonresident widow in Italy—"Living with" husband employee.—Where the intent of the deceased employee was to re-unite with his wife, separated from him for a period of three years, either in California or Italy, it was held that she was living with him at the time and because of such fact and also because of such actual support, such widow was entitled to a death benefit as a total dependent.—Petrucchi v. The Red River, etc., Co., 3 I. A. C. Dec. 40.

IX. PAYMENT OF COMPENSATION.

790. Set-off against amount awarded.

791. Payment of compensation by carrier.

792. Reduction for serious and wilful misconduct.

793. Payment of "scrip" is payment of compensation.

794. Payment of full wages during portion of period of disability.

795. Payment of full wages for full services, before expiration of partial disability period.

796. Payment of full wages to employee working on half pay.

797-802. Payment of wages as part compensation.

803. Same—Absence of agreement.

790. Set-off against amount awarded.—The amount of an award for compensation must be paid whether the employee owes money to the employer or not.—Manford v. Carstenbrook, 3 I. A. C. Dec. 21.

791. Payment of compensation by carrier.—The payment of compensation by the insurance carrier is payment in behalf of the employer in discharge of the employer's liability.—Frandsen v. Llewellyn Co., 3 I. A. C. Dec. 23.

792. Reduction for serious and wilful misconduct.—The compensation of an injured employee, which he would ordinarily have received, will be reduced in half when such injury is a result of his own serious and wilful misconduct but such reduction will affect the number but not the amount of the weekly installments.—Solari v. Theodore Pappas, George Pappas, Harry Demas and Gus Demas, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 180.

793. Payment of "scrip" is payment of compensation.—Where an employer paid to the injured employee "scrip" as money for living expenses and such "scrip" was accepted as money, it was held that such payment of "scrip" constituted payment of compensation and that therefore the application was not barred by the statute of limitations.—Guerrero v. Red River, etc., Co., 5 I. A. C. Dec. 117.

794. Payment of full wages during portion of period of disability.—Where during the first five weeks of total disability following the injury, the applicant received full wages from his employer, and during the next six weeks of total disability received more than 65 per cent of his earnings, it was held that the full sum paid be not treated as 100 per cent compensation during the five weeks, but the whole sum paid be credited in full on whatever sum is awarded to the applicant.—Ramirez v. Binkley & Wayne, 3 I. A. C. Dec. 33. (See, also, Cypher v. United Development Co., 1 I. A. C. Dec. 425, and Turner v. City of Santa Cruz, 2 I. A. C. Dec. 917.)

795. Payment of full wages for full services, before expiration of partial disability period.—Where an injured employee is awarded compensation for a permanent partial disability, and returns to work, performing full service, at full pay before the weekly payments expired, it was held that the employer was not entitled to credit on the award with any part of the wages received by the employee for such service.—Wray v. P. P. I. E. Co., 3 I. A. C. Dec. 6.

796. Payment of full wages to employee working on half pay.—Payment of full wages to partially disabled employee, working on half pay, held to be payment of partial disability indemnity, for which the employer is entitled to reimbursement from the insurance carrier.—Tucson v. York, etc., Co., 6 I. A. C. Dec. 110.

797. Payment of wages as part compensation.—Where the employer pays full wages after the injury, and the commission deems such payment as compensation, he will receive credit on the claim for compensation for the total amount paid, less 65 per cent as full disability indemnity.—Oders v. Great Western, etc., Co., 6 I. A. C. Dec. 95.

798. Where an industrial disability was permanent and involved a fixed indemnity based upon the degree of permanent disability and not upon the length of time the employee was disabled, the defendant was entitled to credit on the permanent partial disability indemnity for the amount of wages paid during temporary disability rather than for the time such wages were paid.—Brown v. San Francisco, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 261.

799. Full wages paid to an injured employee, should be considered as of disability indemnity, regardless of the motive of his employer in paying the same.—Angier v. First National Bank, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 156.

800. Full wages paid injured employee, and deemed compensation for injuries, should be considered as indemnity at the rate of 100 per cent of the earnings rather than 65 per cent of the average weekly earnings, and the insurance carrier was entitled to credit for the period covered by the payments rather than the actual amount thereof.—Angier v. First National Bank, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 156.

801. Payments of full wages during temporary total disability, should be credited upon the amount of partial permanent disability compensation, and not as 100 per cent of total disability compensation for the temporary period.—Francis v. Shephard, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 124.

802. Where an applicant was working at light work for full wages, the payments must be considered, in the absence of special circumstances, as wages, and not as part compensation, and the statute is not tolled.—Enoidi v. Standard Oil Co., 6 I. A. C. Dec. 124.

803. Same—Absence of agreement.—In the absence of a showing that there was an agreement or understanding between an employee and his employer that the full pay he received after returning to work after his injury, or any portion thereof, was to be in the nature of compensation for such injury, or that the work he performed was unsatisfactory to his employer, or that the compensation he received was more than his services were worth, it can not be held that the mere fact that the employer permitted the employee to return to his old position at full pay and to continue therein for several months, could give rise to the claim that a portion of such pay was in the nature of compensation for his injuries.—Hunt v. Industrial Accident Commission, 30 Cal. App. Dec. 45, 185 Pac. 215, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 154.

1. Jurisdiction. a. In general.

804. Commission exercises judicial functions.—The industrial accident commission in awarding compensation under the act exercises judicial functions, and is a judicial body, and must observe the requirements of the federal constitution with respect to due process of law.—Carstens v. Pillsbury, 172 Cal. 572, 158 Pac. 218.

805. Jurisdiction—Liberal construction of act.—The industrial accident commission is a tribunal of limited jurisdiction, whose powers do not extend beyond the settlement of disputes arising under the legislation contemplated by section 21, article XX, of Gen. Laws—105 the constitution; but that section is to be liberally construed to effect its purpose.—Employer's, etc., Corp. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 177 Cal. 771, 775, 171 Pac. 935.

806. Commission has no general jurisdiction.—The industrial accident commission is wholly without power or authority in matters of general jurisdiction without the scope of its limited jurisdiction under the act.—Gamble v. Superior Court, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 26, 39 Cal. App. 661, 179 Pac. 717.

807. Jurisdiction of commission is derived from the act.—The power of the commission to award compensation is derived from the act, and exists only in the cases and to the extent defined therein.—Massachusetts, etc., Co. v. Pillsbury, 170 Cal. 767, 769, 151 Pac. 419.

808. Enforcement of liability against other than employer.—Section 21, article XX, of the constitution confers no authority upon the legislature to create or enforce any liability against any except employers.—Carstens v. Pillsbury, 172 Cal. 572, 579, 158 Pac. 218.

809. Section 21, article XX, confers no power upon the legislature to authorize the industrial accident commission to inquire into, determine and enforce liabilities under section 30 of the act in favor of an injured employee against persons other than his employer.—Sturdivant v. Pillsbury, 172 Cal. 581, 582, 158 Pac. 222.

810. Same—Subject to annulment—Not incurably void.—Although an award by the industrial accident commission in favor of an employee against a person other than his immediate employer, is subject to annulment on review, as in excess of the constitutional power of the commission, it is not necessarily and incurably void, and unless annulled in the manner prescribed by the act is conclusively presumed to be valid and binding.—Thaxter v. Finn, 178 Cal. 270, 275, 173 Pac. 163.

811. Reimbursement of funeral expenses advanced by third person.—In the absence of an application the commission has no jurisdiction to make an allowance for reimbursement to a third person for money advanced to pay the funeral expenses of a deceased employee.—Western Indemnity Company, 35 Cal. App. 104, 169 Pac. 261.

811a. Reimbursement for funeral expenses—No application.—The commission is without authority to allow a sum of money paid for funeral expenses of a deceased employee in the absence of the filing of an application therefor with the commission.—Western Indemnity Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 35 Cal. App. 104, 169 Pac. 261, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 328 (Pavlovic v. Glick, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 114).

812. Injury to employee of sub-contractor where original contractor is not liable.—The commission is only authorized to decide disputes between employer and employee in regard to claims for compensation for industrial injuries such as are allowed by the act and it has no power to decide upon a claim by an employee for compensation against a general contractor where his employer is a sub-contractor, or against the owner of the building where he is employed, or against any one who is not his employer.—Thaxter v. Finn, 178 Cal. 270, 173 Pac. 163, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 101 (Thaxter v. Thaxter, 1 I. A. C. Dec. 197).

S13. Power to determine question of jurisdiction after apparent bar of statute.—The commission has power to determine whether it has jurisdiction to hear a controversy after the apparent bar of the statute has fallen.—Kemper v. Industrial Accident Commission, 177 Cal. 618, 171 Pac. 426, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 41 (Kemper v. Nathan-Dohrmann Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 101).

S14. Consent can not confer jurisdiction.—Jurisdiction of the subject-matter may not be conferred by consent, but the parties may stipulate as to the existence of such a state of facts as bring the case within the jurisdiction of the commission.—Employer's L. A. Corp. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 177 Cal. 771, 171 Pac. 935.

S15. Where jurisdiction conceded, facts should be interpreted in support of.—Where the parties expressly concede the jurisdiction of the commission, the specific facts admitted or proven should, so far as reasonably can be done, be interpreted so as to support the concession.—Employer's L. A. Corp. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 177 Cal. 771, 171 Pac. 935.

S15a. Liability of insurer.—The commission has jurisdiction to determine all questions of law and fact upon which the liability of an insurance carrier depends.—Employer's, etc., Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 177 Cal. 771, 171 Pac. 935, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 72 (Mann v. Johnson, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 253).

S16. Requiring large corporation to deposit security not abuse of discretion.—It is not abuse of discretion on the part of the commission to order a large corporation, engaged in an extensive business, with many millions of dollars surplus, to deposit securities or give bond as a condition of being allowed to carry its own insurance since the highest purpose of the act is that compensation shall be made available to the injured employee when it is most needed.—Bank of Los Banos v. Industrial Accident Commission, 181 Cal. 150, 183 Pac. 538, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 129.

S16a. Same—Jurisdiction of employer is jurisdiction of carrier.—Jurisdiction of the employer is jurisdiction of the carrier, and where the application was filed against the carrier within the statutory period, jurisdiction is acquired over the carrier though not made a party until the lapse of that period.—Washburn v. Morrison, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 123.

S16b. Same — Controversy between employer and carrier.—The commission has no jurisdiction to determine the employer's right to be reimbursed by the insurance carrier for disability indemnity payments made prior to the hearing.—Tucson v. York, etc., Co., 6 I. A. C. Dec. 110.

S16c. The commission has no jurisdiction over a proceeding brought by an employer against his insurance carrier.—St. Josephs, etc., v. Hartford, etc., Co., 5 I. A. C. Dec. 139.

S16d. Same—Power to determine all questions of law and fact.—The commission, having jurisdiction to make an award against an insurance carrier, has power to determine all questions of law and fact upon which the liability of such insurance carrier, including an alleged breach by the employer of certain warranties contained in the policy, and the alleged cancellation, upon such breach, of such policy.—Employer's L. A. Corp. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 177 Cal. 771, 171 Pac. 935.

S16e. Power to determine validity of insurance policy.—The commission has jurisdiction to consider and determine the validity of a policy of insurance against liability under the act.—Mann v. Johnson, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 253.

S16f. Power to determine question of "willful misconduct."—While the question of "willful misconduct" goes to the jurisdiction of the court to make an award, the commission has the right to hear and determine the controversy, and in this sense "willful misconduct" is not jurisdictional but purely a matter of affirmative defense.—United States Fidelity and Guaranty Co. v. Industrial Acc. Com., 174 Cal. 616, 163 Pac. 1013.

S16g. Lack of legal authority to file application.—An unauthenticated letter purporting to authorize the filing of an application for compensation under the act on behalf of the dependent of an employee is not sufficient legal authority to initiate the proceeding.—Western Indemnity Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 35 Cal. App. 104, 169 Pac. 261, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 328 (Pavlovic v. Glick, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 114).

S16h. Same—Consul of Russia—Treaty relations.—A consul of Russia can not, by virtue of treaty relations, between Russia and the United States, institute proceedings for death benefit without express authorization from dependents.—Strasdin v. Oceanic Steamship Co., 5 I. A. C. Dec. 237.

S16i. Same—Alien enemy.—An Austrian citizen applying for compensation under the act was held not to be barred from the right to receive compensation as an alien enemy where at the time of sustaining the injury and at the time of submission of case for decision no proclamation had been made by the President of the United States, declaring war against Austria.—Selecht v. Illinois, etc., Co., 5 I. A. C. Dec. 122.

S16j. Reconsideration must be upon same facts—Denial of rehearing.—The jurisdiction of the commission to make a second award, solely upon a reconsideration of the facts upon which the first award was made, expired upon the denial of a rehearing thereon, and it has no jurisdiction after such denial to make a second award not predicated on new facts occurring subsequent to its original award.—Georgia C. Company v. Industrial Accident Commission, 177 Cal. 289, 294, 170 Pac. 621.

816k. Award void on its face—Collateral attack.—An authorized award which shows upon its face want of jurisdiction of the commission to make the same, is not final and conclusive against the parties by reason of failure to apply for a rehearing or ask for a writ of review, but is void on its face, subject to attack in any proceeding in which it is drawn in question.—Thaxter v. Finn, 54 Cal. Dec. 620, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 433 (Thaxter v. Thaxter, 1 I. A. C. Dec. 196).

816l. Unauthorized award—Lack of jurisdiction—Collateral attack.—An unauthorized award of compensation may be collaterally attacked in a proceeding in mandamus to compel the execution of the award.—Thaxter v. Finn, 54 Cal. Dec. 620, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 433 (Thaxter v. Thaxter, 1 I. A. C. Dec. 196).

816m. Physician's claim for services.—The commission has jurisdiction over the claims of an employer's physician for the reasonable value of his services.—Fry v. McKay, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 136.

816n. Committee performing governmental functions.—The commission has no jurisdiction of a committee performing governmental functions.—Lord v. Goodyear, etc., Co., 6 I. A. C. Dec. 148.

b. Interstate commerce.

817. Nature of employment — Question of law, where facts admitted.—Where all the facts touching the nature of the employment are admitted, the question as to whether it was interstate or intrastate was one of law, and if it was an interstate employment, the commission had no jurisdiction.—Southern Pacific Co. v. Pillsbury, 170 Cal. 782, 783, L. R. A. 1916E, 916, 151 Pac. 277.

818. The case of Southern Pacific Co. v. Pillsbury, 170 Cal. 782, L. R. A. 1916E, 916, 151 Pac. 277 (Ruth case) is held not to be controlling, in view of the case of Minneapolis, etc., Co. v. Winters, 242 U. S. 353, 37 Sup. Ct. 170, 61 L. ed. 358, Ann. Cas. 1918B, 54, with which it is wholly at variance.—Hines v. Industrial Accident Commission (Cal.), 192 Pac. 859 (Brizzolara v. Hines, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 236).

819. Federal employer's liability act—Decisions of U. S. courts control.—The decisions of the United States courts are controlling on the question as to whether a given employment falls within the scope of the Federal Employer's Liability Act (35 U. S. Stats. 65).—Southern Pacific Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 178 Cal. 20, 22, 171 Pac. 1071.

820. The decisions of the United States supreme court are the ultimate authority as to whether an employee engaged in keeping in repair or in suitable condition for use, a railroad used indiscriminately in both interstate and intrastate commerce, is, while so engaged, employed in interstate commerce.—Southern Pacific Co. v. Industrial

Acc. Com., 174 Cal. 8, 10, L. R. A. 1917E, 262, 161 Pac. 1139.

821. Test of employment in interstate commerce.—Where the applicability of the federal act is uncertain, the character of the employment in relation to commerce may be adequately tested by inquiring whether the employee when injured was engaged in work so closely connected with interstate commerce as practically to be a part of it.—Southern Pacific Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 251 U. S. 259, 40 Sup. Ct. Rep. 130, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 274 (Butler v. Southern Pacific Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 294. Reviewed 55 Cal. Dec. 569, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 86).

821a. The test as to whether a railroad employee of a carrier engaged in both intrastate and interstate business was employed in one or the other at the time he sustained an injury is the nature of his employment at the time.—Southern Pacific Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 24, 179 Cal. 665, 178 Pac. 706.

822. California act inapplicable where employment is in interstate commerce.—If the work in which a railroad's electric line-man was engaged when he received a fatal electric shock was part of interstate commerce the California act was inapplicable.—Southern Pacific Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 251 U. S. 259, 40 Sup. Ct. Rep. 130, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 274 (Butler v. Southern Pacific Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 294. Reviewed 55 Cal. Dec. 569, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 86).

823. Nature of service being performed determined by general character of employment.—The nature of the service as to whether it is interstate or intrastate is to be determined not by the general character of the employment, but by the nature of the immediate service being rendered at the time of the injury.—Morton v. Southern Pacific Co., 5 I. A. C. Dec. 118.

824. New construction facilities, such as a water tower, which on completion is to be used in interstate commerce, is not a part of, and does not facilitate such commerce.—Dautrich v. Hines, Director General, etc., 6 I. A. C. Dec. 73.

825. The work of rearranging, transferring, and changing tracks, which are used for both interstate and intrastate commerce indiscriminately is labor in expediting interstate commerce.—Cuebas v. Atchison, etc., Ry. Co., 3 I. A. C. Dec. 17.

826. Loading intrastate baggage.—A station agent killed while loading intrastate baggage upon a local train carrying interstate baggage, was held to be engaged in facilitating and expediting interstate commerce, and that therefore the commission was without jurisdiction to consider a claim for compensation on account of such death.—Gabriel v. Southern Pacific Co., 6 I. A. C. Dec. 62.

827. Unloading intrastate freight.—The work of unloading intrastate freight from a car of a railroad engaged in both intrastate and interstate commerce, was not necessary or incidental to the transportation of interstate commerce, and an employee of the railroad company engaged in such work was not employed in interstate commerce while so engaged.—Perez v. Southern Pacific Co., 6 I. A. C. Dec. 190.

828. A railroad car repairer, whose duties required him to pass from one car to another and one track to another, seeking tagged cars requiring light repairs, his employer being engaged in both interstate and intrastate commerce, is engaged in interstate commerce and the commission is without jurisdiction to determine the question of liability for compensation for his death while pursuing his duties under the circumstances of the present case.—Southern Pacific Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 179 Cal. 59, 175 Pac. 453, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 188 (Morton v. Southern Pacific Co., 5 I. A. C. Dec. 114).

829. Carpenter repairing freight car withdrawn from interstate commerce for repairs.—Where a carpenter fell and was injured while repairing a freight car which had been used in interstate commerce but which was temporarily withdrawn for the purpose of repairs from use in the conveyance of goods, it was held that at the time of said injury said carpenter was not engaged in interstate commerce.—Vangorder v. Southern Pacific Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 354.

830. Repairing locomotive taken from interstate commerce for the purpose.—A locomotive taken from interstate service for repairs and thereafter returned to such service, was held not to have been in interstate commerce while undergoing repairs.—Schwartz v. Hines, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 238.

831. Repairs to locomotive taken from and returned to interstate service held to be an instrumentality of interstate commerce.—Burton v. Hines, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 242.

832. Same—Grinding bolt for use in repair.—A machinist's helper employed by a railroad company engaged in grinding a bolt at an emery wheel for use in a drill with which to do certain repair work on a locomotive which had been used exclusively in interstate commerce, and on completion of the repairs would be returned to such use, was held to have been engaged in work not so directly connected with interstate commerce as to be a part of it, and the commission therefore had jurisdiction to hear and determine his claim.—Van Gaasbeek v. Los Angeles, etc., Co., 5 I. A. C. Dec. 97.

833. Same — Repair of truck.—A truck builder and repairer of trucks for locomotives employed in a roundhouse used for storing of locomotives used in both interstate and intrastate commerce, in making repairs on a locomotive used the previous day in interstate commerce, and returned to such use three days after, but withdrawn at the time, was employed in interstate commerce.—Southern Pacific Co. v. Pillsbury, 170 Cal. 782, 783, L. R. A. 1916E, 916, 151 Pac. 277.

But see Hines v. Industrial Accident Commission (Cal.), 192 Pac. 859.

834. Same—Finding as to interstate commerce held conclusion of law.—A finding that an employee of a railroad company killed while repairing an engine withdrawn from service for that purpose, and not then engaged in any service, interstate or intrastate, was not, at the time, engaged in interstate commerce, was a conclusion of law, and subject to review on certiorari.—Hines v. Industrial Accident Commission (Cal.), 192 Pac. 859.

835. Same—Not in interstate commerce.—A broken down engine, in the shops for such repairs as may be necessary, is not in interstate commerce, and its character as an instrument of such commerce depends upon its employment at the time, and not upon the probability or the accident that may, at a later date, make it such an instrument.—Hines v. Industrial Accident Commission (Cal.), 192 Pac. 859.

836. The repair of a locomotive temporarily withdrawn from service is not so immediately and directly connected with interstate commerce as to form a part of it, and the commission has jurisdiction of an application for an injury sustained while making such repairs.—Dell'Era v. Southern Pacific Co., 6 I. A. C. Dec. 202.

837. A shopworker in a railroad roundhouse engaged in making light repairs to a locomotive used in interstate commerce was held to have been employed in interstate commerce.—Rossetti v. Southern Pacific Co., 6 I. A. C. Dec. 149.

838. Steamfitter at railroad roundhouse.—A steamfitter working on steam pipes used to conduct steam from boilers to a railroad roundhouse, hospital and hotel, used by both interstate and intrastate employees, was held to be doing service too remotely and indirectly connected with interstate commerce to render it a part of such commerce, and the commission assumed jurisdiction and awarded compensation for such injury.—Hunt v. Western Pacific Rd. Co., 6 I. A. C. Dec. 188.

838a. An employee engaged in the operation of a steam shovel in a gravel pit from which gravel was produced for distribution on the roadbed of the main line of a railroad used indiscriminately in interstate and intrastate commerce was awarded compensation for an injury sustained while so engaged, for similar reasons.—Kling v. Southern Pacific Co., 6 I. A. C. Dec. 189.

839. Track repairs.—The liability of a railroad company using its tracks indiscriminately in interstate and intrastate commerce, to an employee injured while engaged in keeping the tracks in suitable condition for use as an instrumentality of interstate commerce, is measured entirely by the provisions of the act of congress of April 22, 1908, and the industrial accident commission of California is without jurisdiction to make an award in such a case.—Southern Pacific Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 174 Cal. 8, 13 L. R. A. 1917E, 262, 161 Pac. 1139; Southern Pacific Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 174 Cal. 16, 17, 161 Pac. 1142.

840. A railroad track used indiscriminately by a carrier in both its interstate and intrastate commerce is an instrumentality of interstate commerce, and notwithstanding its double use, those "engaged in its repair or in keeping it in suitable condition for use," are, while so engaged, employed in interstate commerce.—Southern Pacific Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 174 Cal. 8, 10, L. R. A. 1917E, 262, 161 Pac. 1139.

841. Construction of new track.—A laborer injured in the construction of a railroad track not yet used in commerce was not engaged in furthering or expediting interstate commerce. — Lopez v. King, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 45.

842. Repairing main line track.—Where a section laborer was killed while maintaining and repairing the main line of a railroad lying wholly within this state but over which interstate commerce was transported, was held to be engaged in interstate commerce.—Antonopoulos v. Northwestern, etc., Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 195.

843. Repairing driveway over which goods in interstate commerce move.—Where a laborer was injured while breaking rock to surface a drive-way over which only goods moving in interstate commerce were hauled, it was held that said laborer was not engaged in interstate commerce.—Villalobus v. Atchison, etc., Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 115.

844. Wiping insulators on main power line of electric railway.—Where a railroad's electric lineman, when he sustained a fatal shock, was wiping insulators supporting a wire carrying electric power so intimately connected with the propulsion of cars that if it had been short-circuited through his body they would have stopped instantly, the work was directly connected with interstate transportation as an essential part, and the federal and not the state act, governed the case and the rights of the lineman's dependents.—Southern Pacific Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 251 U. S. 259, 40 Sup. Ct. Rep. 130, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 274; Butler v. Southern Pacific Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 294. Reviewed, 178 Cal. 20, 22, 171 Pac. 1071, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 86.

844a. Electric lineman.—An electric lineman employed by a railroad, killed while engaged in removing an overhead telephone wire from where it had fallen across the trolley wire, used by the railroad company in the operation of a line of electric railway, constituting its passenger system, both interstate and intrastate, and in constant use as such, was held to be employed in interstate commerce, it being shown that it was impossible to operate trains over the track until the telephone wire was removed, and the liability of the company for his death was measured by the act of congress of April 22, 1908, and the industrial accident commission of California was without jurisdiction to make an award in such case.—Southern Pacific Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 174 Cal. 19, 20, 161 Pac. 1143.

845. Rerailing derailed engine obstructing interstate trains.—A brakeman on a wrecking train sent to rerail a derailed engine which was obstructing the tracks of an interstate railway, and at the time of derailling was hauling several cars of interstate freight, was held to be engaged in expediting interstate commerce.—James v. San Pedro, etc., Rd. Co., 3 I. A. C. Dec. 13.

845a. Removing derailed car, not obstructing interstate commerce.—Where a car was derailed on a main line of an interstate carrier and for a time obstructed the movement of interstate commerce but was moved aside so that it did not interfere with the passage of interstate traffic, and a shop foreman proceeded from a neighboring station to remove the car and was killed while returning with it to said station, it was held that the whole transaction was indivisible and that since the car had obstructed interstate commerce, said deceased employee was at the time of his injury engaged in such commerce.—Grisinger v. Southern Pacific Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 354.

846. Kitchen assistant in a railroad restaurant.—A kitchen assistant in a railroad restaurant accommodating both interstate and intrastate passengers and employees, is too remotely connected with interstate commerce to be connected with it, and the commission assumed jurisdiction and awarded compensation for an industrial injury.—Ernest v. Hines, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 208.

847. Cutting wood to heat interstate train.—The cutting of wood for the heating of an interstate train is not employment in interstate commerce, and the wood when cut does not become an instrumentality of interstate commerce until it is put to use for that purpose, whatever may have been the intention in cutting it.—Saunders v. Northwestern, etc., Co., 6 I. A. C. Dec. 222.

848. Flagman.—A flagman employed on a railroad used indiscriminately in interstate and intrastate commerce, whose duties, besides looking after the safety of persons attempting to cross the track, extended to keeping the track itself in suitable condition for the passage of trains, may be fairly said to be directly engaged, in substantial part, in interstate commerce.—Southern Pacific Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 174 Cal. 8, 11, L. R. A. 1917E, 262, 161 Pac. 1139; Southern Pacific Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 174 Cal. 16, 17, 161 Pac. 1142.

849. Special officer killed by tramps on interstate train.—A special officer of a railroad, killed by tramps while he was investigating their presence on an interstate train without authority, held to have received the fatal injury while employed in interstate commerce, and that the commission was without jurisdiction to award compensation.—Harris v. Atchison, etc., Co., 6 I. A. C. Dec. 233.

849a. Railroad watchman injured while driving off trespassers.—A railroad watchman injured while driving trespassers off the property of his employer's interstate train, was engaged, when so injured, in interstate commerce, and the state commission had no jurisdiction to entertain his application for compensation under the state act.—Smith v. Industrial Accident Commission, 26 Cal. App. 560, 147 Pac. 600.

850. Yard engine foreman moving incidentally interstate cars.—A yard engine foreman employed on the properties of a railroad company was injured while moving certain cars, including two interstate freight cars, which latter were moved only to separate them from the other cars, it was held that the interstate movement of the cars had terminated, and that the applicant's acts did not concern interstate commerce, and that the commission had jurisdiction to award compensation.—Linney v. Hines, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 258.

851. A brakeman employed on a construction train of a carrier engaged in both intrastate and interstate business, a part of whose duty was to flag approaching trains to prevent collisions, and who was injured while alighting from his train, under the direction of his conductor, to flag an approaching train engaged in interstate commerce, was employed in interstate commerce, and the commission was without jurisdiction to make an award for such injury.—Southern Pacific Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 24, 179 Cal. 665, 178 Pac. 706.

852. Brakeman employed on interstate train.—Although the specific work being done by a brakeman employed on an interstate train, at the time of his fatal injury, was local and intrastate in its character, nevertheless it was an incident of the general movement of the train which constituted an indivisible act and that at the time of his injury he was engaged in facilitating the movement of commerce, and the proceeding for compensation was accordingly dismissed for want of jurisdiction.—Hudson v. Southern Pacific Co., 6 I. A. C. Dec. 86.

853. Brakeman on work train on its way to repair a bridge.—A brakeman on a work train on its way to repair a bridge, injured while flagging an interstate train, was held to have been engaged in working his own train and not the particular train following, and that he was not engaged in interstate commerce.—Rouse v. Southern Pacific Co., 5 I. A. C. Dec. 184.

854. Telegraph lineman.—The commission has jurisdiction over an injury sustained by a lineman employed on a telegraph line, notwithstanding the line extends from one state to another.—Yonker v. Western Union Telegraph Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 267.

855. Engine herder.—Where an engine herder was injured while piloting from the train to its berth in the roundhouse an engine which had just pulled into the yard an interstate train, it was held that at the time of said injury said engine herder was engaged in interstate commerce.—McFar- lane v. Los Angeles, etc., Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 113.

856. Receiving clerk for food supplies used on interstate train.—A receiving clerk, whose duty it was to receive and check at the ferry slip food supplies which are later used for meals served to both interstate and intrastate passengers on ferryboats operated by the railroad in connection with its railroad system, was held not to be engaged in interstate commerce.—Goldenson v. Southern Pacific Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 65.

857. Night watchman guarding tools and materials to be used in new construction.—A night watchman employed by a railway, who was injured while guarding tools and materials intended to be used in the construction of a new station and new tracks, was not engaged in interstate commerce at the time of his injury, though the new station and tracks were designed for use when finished, in interstate commerce.—New York, etc., Co. v. White, 243 U. S. 188, 37 Sup. Ct. 247, 61 L. ed. 667, L. R. A. 1917D, 1.

858. Tunnel not yet in use.—An employee of an interstate railway, injured while at work on a tunnel not yet in use, was not at the time of the injury employed in interstate commerce.—Raymond v. Chicago, etc., Co., 243 U. S. 268, 37 Sup. Ct. 268, 61 L. ed. 583.

858a. Transportation of U. S. mail—Interstate commerce.—The transportation of mail between different states and territories is interstate commerce, and a railroad employee performing services in connection with such transportation is employed in interstate commerce.—Zenz v. Industrial Accident Commission, 176 Cal. 304, 308, L. R. A. 1918D, 423, 168 Pac. 364.

859. Same—Delivering pouches of mail.—An employee of a railroad company injured while delivering pouches of mail from the company's depot to a train of the company used at the time in interstate commerce, was injured while employed in interstate commerce, to which the federal employer's liability act is applicable, and the industrial accident commission of California has no jurisdiction to make an award in such a case.—Zenz v. Industrial Accident Commission, 176 Cal. 304, 308, L. R. A. 1918D, 423, 168 Pac. 364.

860. Same—Commission without jurisdiction.—The commission is without jurisdiction under the act to make an award for injuries sustained by a call boy while delivering pouches of United States mail from a depot to a train of a railroad company engaged in interstate commerce.—Benz v. Industrial Accident Commission, 176 Cal. 304, L. R. A. 1918D, 423, 168 Pac. 364, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 316 (Zenz v. Atchison, etc., Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 125).

861. Same—Railroad agent of government.—Although a railroad company engaged in the transportation of United States mail is an agent of the government in discharging a governmental function and therefore subject to the transportation of such mails, nevertheless the carriage of mails destined to points outside the state is an act of interstate commerce.—Zenz v. Atchison, etc., Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 125.

c. Maritime jurisdiction.

862. Loading a steamer at a foreign port.—The commission is without jurisdiction to make an award for injuries received by the employee of a steamship company while engaged in assisting in loading a steamer, owned and managed by the company, at a foreign port, where such employee was hired in this state for a voyage to foreign port and return, as such a contract of service was a maritime contract relating to foreign commerce and within the admiralty and maritime jurisdiction of the courts of the United States.—Tallac Co. v. Pillsbury, 176 Cal. 236, 168 Pac. 17, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 310 (Classen v. Pollard, S. S. Co., 2 I. A. C. Dec. 598).

863. Award in a maritime case.—An award by the commission to a claimant for compensation under the act in a maritime case is void and not collectible by action at law.—Northern Pacific S. S. Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission (U. S. Dis. Ct.), 5 I. A. C. Dec. 207.

864. Right and remedy of act within saving clause of federal act of 1789.—The right created by the workmen's compensation, insurance and safety act, and the remedy provided thereunder, are within the saving clause of the federal judiciary act of 1789, granting admiralty jurisdiction to the district courts, "saving to suitors in all cases the right of a common law remedy where the common law is competent to give it," such saving clause being held to include rights and remedies provided by statutes enacted subsequently.—North Pacific S. S. Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 174 Cal. 346, 353, 163 Pac. 199.

865. Authorities.—The following cases were decided upon the authority and following the case of Northern Pacific, etc., Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 174 Cal. 346, 163 Pac. 199; Alaska, etc., Co. v. Pillsbury, 174 Cal. 389, 163 Pac. 204, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 49; S. S. Bowdoin Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 174 Cal. 390, 163 Pac. 204, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 48 and 2 I. A. C. Dec. 386.

866. Admiralty jurisdiction of federal courts not exclusive.—The admiralty jurisdiction of the federal courts in cases of injuries of seamen on the high seas is not exclusive in all cases, and the industrial accident commission has jurisdiction to make an award of compensation in such a case under the California workmen's compensation act where the seaman was injured while employed on board a vessel owned by citizens of California.—North Pacific S. S. Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 174 Cal. 346, 163 Pac. 199.

866a. Seaman has an election of remedies.—An injured seaman is not deprived by the act of his right of action in the admiralty court for damages due to his employer's negligence in providing defective appliances for his use.—Riegel v. Higgins, 241 Fed. 718.

866b. Seaman bound by election of remedies.—If an injured seaman subjects himself to the state tribunal and claims and receives the compensation to which he is entitled under the act, or if he accepts payment by agreement with full knowledge of his injuries, he can not maintain an action in admiralty for the same injuries.—Riegel v. Higgins, 241 Fed. 718.

866c. Same—No election made.—It was held in the present case that the employee made no such election to take compensation under the act as would preclude him from recovering damages in admiralty.—Riegel v. Higgins, 241 Fed. 718.

866d. Admiralty not bound by state law.—Where a court of admiralty enforces a state statute in a matter of admiralty cognizance it will do so according to admiralty principles unaffected by state law.—Western Fuel Co. v. Garcia, 255 Fed. 817, 167 C. C. A. 145.

866e. A cause of action, maritime in character, is unaffected by any state statute, and its rights, obligations and liabilities are measured by maritime law.—Western Fuel Co. v. Garcia, 255 Fed. 817, 167 C. C. A. 145.

866f. Court of equity will enforce a state statute in admiralty.—If a case is of admiralty cognizance, a court of equity will enforce a state statute, although without such statute plaintiff would have no relief in admiralty.—Western Fuel Co. v. Garcia, 255 Fed. 817, 167 C. C. A. 145.

867. Injuries on the high seas.—The commission has jurisdiction to award compensation for injuries received by a seaman in the course of his employment while his vessel is on the high seas.—North Pacific S. S. Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 174 Cal. 346, 163 Pac. 199, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 42 (Rose v. Northern Pacific S. S. Co., 2 I. A. C. Dec. 71; Falvik v. Nott, 2 I. A. C. Dec. 469).

868. Same — California - owned ship.—Where an employee on a California-owned ship was a resident of the state and his contract of employment was made in that state, the commission had jurisdiction of an application for compensation for an injury on board the vessel on the high seas.—Mestrand v. Comyn Mackall & Co., 6 I. A. C. Dec. 126.

869. The commission had jurisdiction of an application for compensation for a death on board a California-owned ship on the high seas.—Karus v. Charles Nelson Company, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 125.

870. An injury to a seaman on a California ship on the high seas is within the jurisdiction of the commission.—Johansen v. Geo. E. Billings Co., 6 I. A. C. Dec. 236.

871. Stevedore discharging vessel in port.—The occupation of a stevedore employed in discharging a vessel in port is maritime in its essence, and the commission has jurisdiction to award compensation for injuries received while employed.—North Pacific S. S. Co. v. Industrial Acci- dent Commission, 174 Cal. 346, 163 Pac. 199, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 42 (Rose v. Northern Pacific S. S. Co., 2 I. A. C. Dec. 71; Falvik v. Nott, 2 I. A. C. Dec. 469).

872. The occupation of a stevedore is in its essence maritime; hence, it is held that the same principles that are declared in the case of North Pacific S. S. Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 174 Cal. 346, as to the jurisdiction of the commission to award compensation, where the injured person was a seaman, govern here.—North Pacific S. S. Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 174 Cal. 357, 388, 163 Pac. 203; Alaska Pacific S. Co. v. Pillsbury, 174 Cal. 389, 390, 163 Pac. 204; Steamship Bowdoin Co. v. Pillsbury, 174 Cal. 390, 391, 163 Pac. 204.

873. Stevedore—Fall from gangplank over navigable water.—A fatal injury sustained by a stevedore from a fall from the gangplank between the ship and the pier, over navigable waters, was a maritime injury, and the commission was without jurisdiction.—Karagoums v. Napa, etc., Co., 5 I. A. C. Dec. 83.

874. Longshoreman working on dock.—The commission has jurisdiction to award a death benefit in the case of a longshoreman fatally injured while working on a dock.—Price v. San Pedro Stevedoring Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 265.

875. Laws of parent state, when inapplicable to vessels.—The laws of the parent state apply to a ship on the high seas, but not to vessels lying in the ports of alien nations or states (as to accident occurring before section 75(a) of the act became effective).—Kruise v. Pillsbury, 174 Cal. 222, 162 Pac. 891, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 20 (Sanberg v. Kruise, 1 I. A. C. Dec. 441).

876. Working on ship in Oakland estuary—Presumption from stipulation.—Where the parties expressly concede the jurisdiction of the commission and stipulate that the employee was injured while working on a ship on the Oakland estuary, such stipulation is entirely consistent with the possibility that the ship was in course of construction and not launched, and in support of the concession as to jurisdiction will be so interpreted.—Employer's L. A. Corp. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 177 Cal. 771, 774, 171 Pac. 935 (Mann v. Johnson, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 253).

877. Work on ship prior to launching.—The maritime jurisdiction of the federal courts does not extend to claims arising out of the death of a workman employed in the construction of a ship occurring prior to its launching, and the jurisdiction of the industrial accident commission in such a case is ample.—Employer's Liability Assurance Corp. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 177 Cal. 771, 774, 171 Pac. 935 (Mann v. Johnson, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 253).

878. Employee installing apparatus on vessel in course of construction.—Where a vessel had been launched while under course of construction—but had not yet been fully fitted out or turned over to the purchaser—and an electrician was injured while installing electrical apparatus of the ship construction company, it was held that neither said employment nor said injury was maritime in character and that this commission had jurisdiction to award compensation.—Bernard v. Employer's Liability Corporation, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 382.

879. Engineer installing refrigerator on vessel under construction.—An injury sustained by an engineer while installing a refrigerator on a vessel in course of construction was not a maritime injury and the commission had jurisdiction to award compensation.—Johnson v. Vulcan Iron Works, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 314.

879a. Shipwright repairing vessel on bottom in Oakland estuary.—An injury sustained by a shipwright while engaged in repairing a vessel resting on the bottom of Oakland estuary at low tide, was a maritime injury.—Pauline v. Tibbets, etc., Co., 5 I. A. C. Dec. 72.

880. Navigable waters—Launching basin.—A launching basin dredged out of land owned by a ship construction company and used by it for the purpose only of launching ships in the course of construction is not navigable water within the admiralty jurisdiction of the United States.—Bernard v. The Employers' Liability Corporation, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 382.

881. A contract for the construction of a vessel is not maritime.—A contract concerning a vessel becomes maritime, not at the time of launching a vessel, but at the time of its completion and delivery to the owners.—Johnson v. Vulcan Iron Works, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 314.

882. Barge pilot sawing wood while vessel laid up for winter.—Where an applicant was employed and paid as a barge pilot and deckhand throughout the year and during the winter months sawed wood on board said barge for sale by his employer, it was held that his duties were severable and that while so sawing wood his employment was not maritime.—Holder v. Island, etc., Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 268.

883. Contract for polishing shoes on ferryboat.—A contract of employment for the polishing of shoes of passengers on a ferryboat is not a maritime contract and the commission has jurisdiction over an injury sustained by the bootblack on board the ferryboat.—Lomoglio v. Green, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 249.

884. Ferryboat used for transporting train on inland waters.—A ferryboat used for transporting cars across bay used in both interstate and intrastate business, is a part of the railroad's extension and not a maritime agency, and the death of an employee thereon is not a maritime injury, and when it occurred while the boat was temporarily withdrawn from service, is compensable.—Hughes v. Southern Pacific Co., 5 I. A. C. Dec. 27.

885. Effect of Johnson bill.—An injury occurring upon navigable waters while the so-called Johnson bill was in effect, was held to be compensable thereunder.—Soarez v. Sudden & Christensen, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 164.

d. Extraterritorial.

886. "Resident."—The term "resident" in section 58 of the act of 1917, applies only to citizens and aliens domiciled in California.—Quong Ham Wah Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, (Cal.), 192 Pac. 1021, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 248 (Owe Ming v. Alaska Packers Association, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 67).

887. Test of residence.—Where a cattle buyer left this state frequently on purchasing trips lasting several months at a time but had a room in his employer's plant which he used as his living headquarters when in this state, and he registered as a voter and paid his poll tax in this state and his will recited that he was "of the county of Santa Clara" it was held that he was a resident of this state within the meaning of section 75(a) of the act.—Furlong v. Woodward-Bennett Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 116.

888. Traveling salesman residing in New Jersey, under exclusive control of California agent of New York corporation.—Where a traveling salesman, a resident of New Jersey and an employee of a New York corporation, who was under complete and exclusive control of the California agent of the employing company, was injured while performing his duties in this state, it was held that the commission has jurisdiction to award compensation for such injury.—Benjamin v. Garneau Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 61.

889. Enforcement of obligation in tort by lex fori.—The lex fori will not undertake to enforce an obligation in tort where the obligation was not created by the lex loci delicti.—Quong Ham Wah Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission (Cal.), 6 I. A. C. Dec. 248 (Owe Ming v. Alaska Packers Association, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 67).

890. Sailor of California ship lying in port of another state.—Where a sailor was killed on board a vessel owned and chartered within this state while lying in the port of another state, such injury was subject to the laws of the state where the vessel was at the time of the death, notwithstanding such ship may be considered a part of the territory of this state while on the high seas, and the commission is without jurisdiction to make an award.—Kruse v. Pillsbury, (Cal.) 162 Pac. 891.

891. Liability for the death of an employee killed on board a vessel owned in California but lying at the time of the accident in the boundaries of the state of Washington, and in a port subject to the shipping and other laws of that state, is governed by the laws of Washington.—Kruse v. Pillsbury, 174 Cal. 222, 224, 162 Pac. 891.

892. Mandates have no effect beyond territorial limits.—The other states may give effect to them, but as law, the mandates of a sovereign state can have no effect beyond its territorial limits.—Quong Ham

Wah Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, (Cal.) 172 Pac. 1021.

893. Non-maritime employment under California contract by California residents.—The commission has jurisdiction of an injury sustained by an employee without the state, where the employment was non-maritime in character, and the contract of employment was made in this state by residents thereof, notwithstanding the services were to be performed wholly without the state and the employment was to cease on arriving in the state.—Polin v. Bristol, etc., Co., 3 I. A. C. Dec. 12.

893a. Contract of hire of California resident made in California.—An employee, resident of the state, and employed under a contract of hire made in the state, is within the jurisdiction of the commission under the express provisions of section 75(a) of the act.—Kistler v. Simpson, etc., Co., 5 I. A. C. Dec. 26.

894. Contract under act of 1917—Act a regulation.—The act of 1917 is not an attempt to create an obligation merely as an incident to a status, but is, in form and substance, a genuine regulation of contracts subject to the sovereignty of the state, and the legislature was lawfully empowered to impose the same duties and rights as incidents of such contracts abroad as are incidents of the same acts occurring within the geographical limits of the state.—Quong Ham Wah Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, (Cal.) 192 Pac. 1021.

895. Unconstitutional enactment—Creation of privilege in favor of citizens of California.—When the legislature attempts to provide that a substantial privilege shall be incidental to certain contracts of employment when entered into in this state by citizens of this state, and that the same privilege shall not be incident to identical contracts of employment when entered into in this state by citizens of other states of the Union, the enactment is clearly violative of section 2, of article IV, of the federal constitution.—Quong Ham Wah Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, (Cal.), 6 I. A. C. Dec. 248 (Owe Ming v. Alaska Packers Association, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 67).

896. Release in New Mexico.—A release of compensation for an injury compensable under the California act, executed in New Mexico, for an injury sustained in the latter state, is subject to jurisdiction of the California commission, and where such release does not provide for payment of full compensation it does not divest the employee of his rights under the act.—Kistler v. William Simpson, etc., Co., 5 I. A. C. Dec. 26.

897. Constitutionality of section 75(a).—The section is not subject to attack on the ground of unwarranted discrimination against non-resident employees, by employers, since they do not belong to the excluded class.—Estabrook Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 177 Cal. 767, 177 Pac. 848, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 65; Klamath S. S. Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 55 Cal. Dec. 521, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 65.

898. Section 75(a) not limitation but grant of power.—Section 75(a) was obviously not designed as a limitation upon the jurisdiction theretofore vested in the commission, but was intended, rather, as a grant of power.—North Alaska Salmon Co. v. Pillsbury, 174 Cal. 1, 6, L. R. A. 1917E, 642, 162 Pac. 93.

899. Jurisdiction prior to enactment of 1915.—Prior to the amendment of 1915, adding section 75(a) to the workmen's compensation act, the commission had no jurisdiction over questions of compensation under the act, where the injury occurred outside the territorial limits of the state of California.—North Alaska Salmon Co. v. Pillsbury, 174 Cal. 1, 6, L. R. A. 1917E, 642, 162 Pac. 93; Kruse v. Pillsbury, 174 Cal. 222, 223, 162 Pac. 891.

900. Effect of section 75 (a) of act—Death benefit for injury and death in another state.—The commission has jurisdiction to award a death benefit for the injury and death in another state after the section became effective, of an employee who was a resident of and hired in this state.—Furlong v. Woodward-Bennett Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 116.

2. Notice of injury.

901. Notice of original injury required, not notice of "further disability."—The notice in writing required to be given to the employer under section 20 of the act is a notice of the original injury, and not the further disability under subdivision c of section 16, where compensation has been given for the original disability.—Employee's Credit Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 177 Cal. 46, 49, 169 Pac. 1001.

902. Notice by registered letter sufficient.—Where an injured employee mailed to his employer's address a registered letter notifying him of the injury in form sufficient to satisfy the requirements of the act and the letter was delivered within thirty days from the date of injury at the employer's address, but the employer did not receive it because of a temporary absence, until the period of thirty days had expired, it was held that such employee had given sufficient written notice of such injury.—Cuthbert Burrel Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 141.

903. Evidence insufficient to establish actual notice.—Evidence considered and held to be insufficient to establish actual notice on the part of the employer.—Smith v. Industrial Accident Commission, 174 Cal. 199, 201, 162 Pac. 636.

904. Actual knowledge—Oral information.—Oral information on the part of the employer of the employee's injury does not take the place of the actual knowledge which is the equivalent of the written notice required by section 20 of the workmen's compensation act, or the written notice itself.—Smith v. Industrial Accident Commission, 174 Cal. 199, 203, 162 Pac. 636.

905. Notice of injury—Actual knowledge of employer.—Under the proviso of section 20 of the act of 1917 actual knowledge of the "accident" is not equivalent to actual knowledge of the "injury."—Smith v. Industrial Accident Commission, 174 Cal. 199, 203, 162 Pac. 636, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 2 (Rives v. Smith, 2 I. A. C. Dec. 888).

906. Actual knowledge is equivalent to notice.—Under the provisions of section 20 of the act, which provides for actual knowledge on the part of the employer, shall be equivalent to service of notice, the commission is justified in concluding that the employer had knowledge of the injury of the applicant where the foreman had knowledge that for some time after the accident, he suffered pain and was not able to do his usual work, although the employee thought that he had suffered no substantial injury and rejected the suggestion of the foreman that a report of the accident be made.—Leadbetter v. Georgia Casualty Co., 179 Cal. 468, 177 Pac. 449, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 233 (S. C. 26 Cal. App. Dec. 1268, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 143).

907. Same—Actual or first-hand knowledge.—The proviso of section 20 of the act of 1913 that actual knowledge of the employer of the injury shall be equivalent to service of written notice therefor, contemplates actual or first-hand knowledge, and oral information of the injury conveyed to such employer is insufficient.—Smith v. Industrial Accident Commission, 53 Cal. Dec. 58, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 2 (Rives v. Smith, 2 I. A. C. Dec. 888).

908. Not prejudiced by want of notice.—Where no written notice of injury was given to the employer by or in behalf of the injured employee, but the employer was not prejudiced by the lack of such notice and he had oral information of said injury from the injured employee and knew in detail of the employee's claim for compensation on the day the injury was sustained, it was held that said employer was notified as required by section 20.—Rives v. Smith, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 121; Hopper v. Cuthbert Burrel Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 141; Hoag v. Elk Grove, etc., Dist., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 70; Cousins v. Hanlon, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 97.

909. Same—Making defense.—Under the circumstances of the present case it is held that the defendant had not sufficient opportunity to investigate the facts and was prejudiced in making his defense by failure to give notice of injury within the time and in the manner prescribed by the workmen's compensation act.—Kirkwood v. Giant Powder Co., 5 I. A. C. Dec. 198.

910. Same—No "intention to mislead or prejudice employer."—It was held in the present case that the failure to notify the employer of the injury in the time required, did not under the circumstances of this case show an "intention to mislead or prejudice the employer" or that he was "in fact misled or prejudiced thereby" as those words are used in section 20 of the act.—Telford v. Healy-Tibbitts Construction Co., 3 I. A. C. Dec. 41.

911. Notice of employer to employee under section 34.—The assumption of liability by an insurance carrier does not dispense with the necessity for the employer to give written notice to the employee of that fact.—Hoover v. Kuykendall, 3 I. A. C. Dec. 51.

912. Under section 34 of the act, when an employer, who is insured against liability for compensation under the act with a company authorized to do such business in the state, gives to the claimant and the insurance carrier, and files with the commission the notices required by that section, he is relieved from liability for compensation, even though, when the notices are so served and filed, the right of the insurance carrier to do business in the state has been revoked.—Weiser v. Industrial Accident Commission, 172 Cal. 538, 539, 157 Pac. 593.

913. Waiver by employer of right to select physician.—Where the employer believing that the injuries suffered by an employee were only trivial, as did the latter after visiting a physician, tendered medical services preliminarily, he would be justified in resting upon the assurances presented by these conditions until he had notice to the contrary, and where the employee later found that the disability continued and became more aggravated and endeavored first to secure relief through physicians who he was informed and believed were the employer's physicians and the employer had notice thereof and failed to offer the services of a physician of his own selection, the right to make such selection was waived.—Leadbetter v. Industrial Accident Commission, 26 Cal. App. Dec. 1268, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 143.

3. Application.

914. No particular form required.—It being the policy of the law to encourage informality in proceedings before the commissioner, no particular form is required for an application for compensation.—Knudsen v. Kallstrom, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 259.

915. Filing request for disability rating.—The filing of a request for a rating upon one of the customary blanks supplied by the commission, accompanying a surgeon's report giving a detailed description of the permanent injury sustained and a certificate of the employer setting forth the applicant's wages, constitutes the filing of an application within the meaning of section 22 of the act.—Knudsen v. Kallstrom, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 259.

916. The filing of a request for a rating on one of the customary applications supplied by the commission, accompanying an affidavit setting forth details entitling the employee to general relief is the filing of an application within the meaning of section 22 of the act of 1913.—Miller v. Oak Ridge, etc., Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 129.

4. Evidence.

917. Evidence taken prior to service of notice of hearing—Invalid award.—The industrial accident commission can not make a valid award upon evidence taken prior to service of notice of hearing upon the party liable.—First Church v. Industrial Accident Commission, 173 Cal. 552, 553, 160 Pac. 675.

917a. Evidence taken before the commission in support of a claim for an award against an owner of property, as an employer, without notice, can not be considered in support of findings against him.—Carstens v. Pillsbury, 172 Cal. 572, 158 Pac. 218.

917b. The commission is not authorized under section 24 to proceed secretly without notice to interested parties.—Mesmer & Rice v. Industrial Accident Commission, 26 Cal. App. Dec. 220, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 22 (Wilson v. Mesmer & Rice, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 139).

917c. Where evidence is taken without notice to an interested party, it is in violation of the due process clause of the federal constitution, and is a question of jurisdiction and not one of mere procedure.—Mesmer & Rice v. Industrial Accident Commission, 26 Cal. App. Dec. 220, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 22 (Wilson v. Mesmer & Rice, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 139).

917d. Same—Testimony given without opportunity to cross-examine.—Where the principal question before the commission was whether the applicant's disabilities were the result of the accident or arose from a certain disease with which it was claimed he was afflicted, and it was stipulated the commission's physician should examine him, the commission is without jurisdiction to consider the unverified reports of two other physicians, who were called in for consultation, without notice to the employer, or allowing him to cross-examine them, notwithstanding such reports were but cumulative of the report of the commission's physician.—Mesmer & Rice v. Industrial Accident Commission, 26 Cal. App. Dec. 220, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 22 (Wilson v. Mesmer & Rice, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 139).

917e. Same—Hearing before referee.—Under the act of 1917, where a proceeding for compensation is heard before a referee without notice to the insurance carrier, and without its being represented, and testimony is heard, directly controverting the contention of the carrier, and without an opportunity for cross-examination, it is the duty of the commission to reopen the matter for such cross-examination or for counter-testimony, unless there is no possibility of changing the result by that means.—Ocean, etc., Corporation, Limited v. Industrial Accident Commission, 180 Cal. 389, 182 Pac. 35.

917f. Lack of notice—Contravention of constitutional provisions.—Under section 25, a notice showing that the employee claims that a temporary disability has become permanent since the award was made, and stating it would be amended so as to provide a further allowance to cover a permanent disability rating "unless good cause to the contrary be shown in writing and filed with the commission within ten days, is sufficient, does not contravene the provisions of the act and is not open to objection on constitutional grounds.—Massachusetts, etc., Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 176 Cal. 488, 491, 168 Pac. 1050.

918. Evidence—Power to take secretly—Want of due process.—Even if the language of section 24 were capable of an interpretation giving the commission power to take evidence secretly, it would clearly be a violation of the right to due process of law.—Carstens v. Pillsbury, 172 Cal. 572, 577, 158 Pac. 218.

919. Evidence of medical expert—Not given under oath, and not given after notice.—The opinion of a medical expert, not made under oath, and not a part of the evidence given before the referee or the commission, and given without any information to the employer and insurer that it was to be given, or considered, or that it was filed, and without any opportunity to interrogate the medical expert, or to make further proof, is not entitled to any weight in the court's consideration of the question.—Pacific Coast Casualty Co. v. Pillsbury, 171 Cal. 319, 324, 153 Pac. 24.

920. Burden of proof—Relationship of employer and employee.—The existence of the relation of employer and employee at the time of accidental injury or death is essential to the jurisdiction of the commission to make an award, and the burden of proving such relationship is on the claimant.—Connolly v. Industrial Accident Commission, 173 Cal. 405, 407, 160 Pac. 239.

921. Same—Accident arising out of and in course of employment.—It devolves upon one claiming compensation to establish by evidence the fact that the employee was injured by an accident arising out of and in the course of the employment.—Casualty Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 176 Cal. 530, 533, 169 Pac. 76.

922. Same—Unexplained injury.—Where applicant proved that the employee was killed while at work, by an unexplained fall, she has established a prima facie case of an injury arising out of and proximately caused by the employment, and the burden of proving that the fall was due to other causes was upon the defendants, and upon failure to do so a death benefit was awarded.—Schwartz v. Pacific, etc., Co., 6 I. A. C. Dec. 67.

923. Same—Existence of compensable injury.—The burden of proving that the injury for which compensation is asked was suffered in the course of the employment and arose out of the employment is upon the claimant.—John A. Roeblings, etc., Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 36 Cal. App. 10, 171 Pac. 987, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 11 (Bundshu v. John A. Roeblings, etc., Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 215).

924. Same—Employee not required to establish source of injury scientifically.—The employee is not required to account scientifically for the source of contagion or the cause of a disease affecting him, but only to establish by the preponderance of likelihood that his disability arose out of and happened in the course of his employment.—Reeves v. Diamond Match Co., 5 I. A. C. Dec. 236.

924a. Same—Same—Reasonable certainty only required.—In order to charge a disability to a pre-existing condition, such condition must be established to a reasonable certainty.—Snyder v. Pacific, etc., Co., 3 I. A. C. Dec. 1.

925. Same—Same—Demonstration not required—Only reasonable certainty.—The act requires only that degree of proof which produces conviction in an unprejudiced mind, and a demonstration as to the cause of a death.—Shell Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 36 Cal. App. 463, 172 Pac. 611.

926. Same—Willful misconduct not required to be shown affirmatively.—An applicant for an award under the workmen's compensation act is not required to show affirmatively the absence of willful misconduct upon the part of the killed or injured employee.—United States Fidelity and Guaranty Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 174 Cal. 616, 619, 163 Pac. 1013.

927. Same—Same—Affirmative defense.—The burden of proof is not on the employee to prove jurisdictional facts and he need not affirmatively prove the absence of willful misconduct. The defense of willful misconduct is a matter of affirmative defense, to be established by the employer.—Zanotti v. Aquilino & Lagomarsino Co., 3 I. A. C. Dec. 53.

928. Same—Not on dependents to prove innocence of willful misconduct.—In proceedings before the industrial accident commission the burden of proof is not upon the injured workman or the surviving dependents of a deceased employee to prove innocence of willful misconduct. In such proceedings willful misconduct on the part of the injured employee is a matter of affirmative defense.—United States, etc., Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 174 Cal. 616, 163 Pac. 1013, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 79 (Maffia v. Aquilino, 3 I. A. C. Dec. 15; Zanotti v. Aquilino, 3 I. A. C. Dec. 53).

929. Same—Employee must show that influenza resulted from exceptional exposure of employment.—Where an employee claimed compensation for a disability caused by heart disease resulting from an attack of influenza, the burden is on him to show that his disability resulted from the exceptional exposure to which he was subjected in caring for influenza patients at his employer's request.—Engels, etc., Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, (Cal.) 192 Pac. 845.

See, also, San Francisco v. Industrial Accident Commission, (Cal.) 192 Pac. 26 (Slattery v. San Francisco, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 140).

930. Same—After prima facie case—Burden is on employer.—Where an injured employee has once established as a fact that his total disability was proximately caused by injury, the burden of proof that disability was not so caused is upon the employer.—State Compensation Insurance Fund v. Tripp, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 151.

931. Same—Every contrary possibility need not be negatived.—Even though the burden of proof is upon the applicant, it is not necessary that every possibility of death by other than accidental means should be negatived.—W. R. Rideout Co. v. Pillsbury, 173 Cal. 132, 134, 159 Pac. 435.

932. Same—Circumstantial evidence.—The burden of proof of death of the employee by violence is upon the applicant, but it is satisfied by circumstantial evidence, and proof of the finding of the body is not a prerequisite.—Western, etc., Co. v. Pillsbury, 173 Cal. 135, 138, 159 Pac. 423.

933. Hearsay testimony—Status of employee can not be shown by.—The status of an employee, for whose accidental death compensation is asked, can not be shown by hearsay testimony.—Connolly v. Industrial Accident Commission, 173 Cal. 405, 407, 160 Pac. 239.

944. Same—Statements of deceased employee competent.—Hearsay testimony relative to the statements of a deceased employee relating directly to his injury is competent under section 77(a) of the workmen's compensation, insurance and safety act of 1915.—Western Indemnity Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 174 Cal. 315, 163 Pac. 60.

945. Same—Section 77(a)—Declarations of deceased.—Under section 77(a) of the act of 1913, as amended in 1915, declarations of the deceased to the effect that his crutch slipped and he fell and refractured his leg are admissible where death followed an operation made necessary by the injury.—Shell v. Industrial Accident Commission, 36 Cal. App. 463, 172 Pac. 611.

946. Same—Same—Relating directly to injury, admissible.—Under the amendment of section 77(a), hearsay evidence is admissible in cases of death where the hearsay testimony relates directly to the injury in question. Hearsay evidence as to the occurrence of the death which resulted from a second accident was the direct outcome of the first, is admissible.—Shell Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 36 Cal. App. 463, 172 Pac. 611, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 50.

947. Same—Same—Section 75 (6)—Not technical rule of evidence.—Neither the provisions of section 75 (subdv. 6) nor of section 77, authorize the commission to make an award where it is based solely on hearsay evidence, since the rule as to hearsay is not a technical rule of evidence.—Englebretson v. Industrial Accident Commission, 170 Cal. 793, 797, 151 Pac. 421.

948. Same—Section 60(a) act of 1917—Deposition admissible.—Under section 60, subdivision (a) of the act of 1917, a deposition, although hearsay as to the parties against whom it was introduced and not within any exception to the hearsay rule, was yet admissible.—The Ocean, etc., Corporation, Limited v. Industrial Accident Commission, 180 Cal. 389, 182 Pac. 35, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 82.

949. Same—Sufficiency of, as to dependency.—A finding of the commission of the dependency of an applicant for compensation based upon the hearsay testimony of a person with whom the deceased employee had deposited money, that such person, from time to time, had, at the request of the deceased, advanced money to him upon the statement that he wanted to send the money home, is unsupported.—Western Indemnity Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 35 Cal. App. 104, 169 Pac. 261, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 328 (Pavlovic v. Glick, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 114).

950. Unverified report of physician—Same as allegation of complaint—Not evidence.—An unverified report of a physician, made a part of an application for an amendment of an award for temporary disability by providing an additional allowance for permanent disability, has the same standing as an allegation of a complaint in an ordinary action at law, and does not raise a question as to the competency of evidence.—Massachusetts, etc., Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 176 Cal. 488, 493, 168 Pac. 1050.

951. Testimony by physicians—Not conclusive as against unprofessional testimony.—The commission is not bound by the fact that the testimony of physicians offered on a medical point is unanimous; and if their testimony is weak or contradictory, and unprofessional testimony is found to be inherently more probable, the commission will be governed by the merits.—Snyder v. Pacific, etc., Co., 3 I. A. C. Dec. 1.

952. Report of physician—Scope of inquiry.—Where the question arose as to whether the disability of the applicant was due to a certain disease with which it was claimed he was afflicted rather than to the injury received at the time of the accident, the physician had the right to employ assistance to make certain observations as to the applicant, including a serological examination, and to report the result for his information in observing the applicant and in coming to a conclusion.—Mesmer & Rice (a corporation) v. Industrial Accident Commission, 178 Cal. 466, 173 Pac. 1099, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 150 (Wilson v. Mesmer & Rice (a corporation), 4 I. A. C. Dec. 139, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 22).

953. Mental incompetency—Recital as to in court order, not binding on commission.—The recitals in a superior court order appointing a guardian as to mental incompetency prior to petition, are not binding on the commission.—Ghiorso v. Standard Lumber Co., 5 I. A. C. Dec. 172.

954. Marriage—Want of record.—The fact that a dependent and deceased employee were living together as husband and wife was not sufficient evidence of marriage in the absence of record required by law.—Blanca v. King, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 196.

955. Circumstantial evidence does not overturn presumption of lawful conduct.—Where a deceased employee was killed while driving an automobile, an award of compensation will not be annulled because the deceased was driving faster than the lawful limit of thirty miles per hour allowed by the motor vehicle act, where the evidence of such violation of the act was circumstantial, in view of the presumption that he was driving at a lawful rate of speed.—United States, etc., Co. v. Indus- trial Accident Commission, 181 Cal. 147, 183 Pac. 540, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 127.

956. Unauthenticated letter, not written or signed by dependent insufficient evidence of authority.—An unauthenticated letter from the father of a deceased employee, not written or signed by such father, directed to an attorney, is not sufficient to authorize the filing of a claim for a death benefit, and the irregularity is not cured by a purported power of attorney, where there is nothing in the record to show that it was acknowledged, or its execution proved in a manner that could be accepted as a sufficient authentication thereof.—Western Indemnity Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 35 Cal. App. 104, 169 Pac. 261.

957. Admissions made in delirium or while dazed or in shock after an inquiry sustained, are held not to be sufficient to support an allegation of attempted rescue of a child as the cause of an injury.—Sibley, etc., Co. v. Nelson, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 203.

958. Commission not bound by stipulation as to facts.—The commission is not bound to make its award upon a stipulation of facts alone, but is authorized, under subdivision b of section 24, take further testimony, after the parties stipulate as to the facts.—Frankfort G. Ins. Co. v. Pillsbury, 173 Cal. 56, 58, 159 Pac. 150.

958a. Oral testimony as to relations of parties.—Upon the hearing of an application for compensation for injuries received while the applicant was personally discharging duties which devolved upon him by virtue of his written contract with his employer, the commission may admit oral testimony as to the actual relations of the parties, where the contract merely provided for furnishing a delivery truck and driver, but did not provide for any personal services by the applicant.—Eng-Skell Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 30 Cal. App. Dec. 450, 186 Pac. 163, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 209.

959. Average annual earnings—Payrolls of employer.—Where the only evidence of the amount of the earnings of the deceased employee were contained in the payrolls of certain coal companies for which the deceased had worked, it was held that testimony of fellow employees to the effect that the deceased had earned an average of $25 a week during the year preceding his death, was held to be sufficient to justify a finding that the decedent's weekly earnings averaged that amount.—Souza v. Western, etc., Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 95.

960. Conflict of evidence—Commission final arbiter.—Where there is a conflict in the testimony, or where opposing inferences may reasonably be drawn, the commission is the final arbiter.—Walker v. Industrial Accident Commission, 177 Cal. 737, 738, L. R. A. 1918F, 212, 171 Pac. 954.

961. Evidence sufficient to establish willful misconduct.—Evidence held insufficient to establish the willful misconduct of the injured employee.—Maffia v. Aquilino, 3 I. A. C. Dec. 15.

962. Evidence insufficient to establish deliberate and intentional failure to observe rule.—It was held that the evidence in the present case showed a deliberate and intentional failure to observe a safety rule.—Thorla v. Atchison, etc., Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 143.

963. Evidence sufficient to establish that injury proximately caused disability.—It was held in the present case that the evidence was sufficient to establish by a reasonable preponderance of likelihood that the disability to a sarcoma was proximately caused by the injury.—Villa v. Santa Ana Sugar Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 147.

964. Evidence not sufficient to show serious and willful misconduct.—Held that serious and willful misconduct of the employer was not shown by the evidence in this case.—Pierce v. Rosenberg, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 241.

965. Willful misconduct—Absence of inference.—Upon this application for a writ of review to annul an award made by the commission to the dependents of a deceased employee, it is held that the inference that the deceased was guilty of willful misconduct in returning to work to the place from which he had been taken earlier in the day and where he ultimately met his death, is not to be drawn from such action.—Gray v. Industrial Accident Commission, 34 Cal. App. 713, 168 Pac. 702, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 296 (Leal v. Gray, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 218).

966. Evidence sufficient—Skin disease contracted from wood dust.—Where a workman required continuously to walk in wood dust an inch thick, contracted a skin affection in the lower limbs, and a few other workmen similarly exposed were likewise affected, and no other probable cause for the affection was presented, it was held that the evidence was sufficient to establish that the dust was the cause of the skin affection.—Reeves v. Diamond Match Co., 5 I. A. C. Dec. 236.

967. Evidence sufficient—Death result of injury.—The evidence in the present case is held to be sufficient to prove that the death of the deceased employee while employed as a pitman of a steam shovel was a result of an injury sustained in the course of employment.—Duffy v. California, etc., Co., 5 I. A. C. Dec. 204.

968. Evidence insufficient—Injury caused death.—It was held in the present case that the evidence was insufficient to establish that death was proximately caused by the fall of a carpenter.—Lind v. Anderson, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 103.

969. Evidence sufficient to show cause of disability as alleged.—It was held in the present case that the evidence was sufficient to warrant a finding that the disability was proximately caused as alleged.—Hoag v. Elk Grove, etc., District, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 70.

970. Evidence not sufficient to show husband employee of wife.—It was held that the evidence in the present case was not sufficient to show that the husband was an employee of his wife, but that it showed rather that the construction was engaged in as a community or partnership undertaking for their general benefit.—Braun v. Braun, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 90.

971. Evidence insufficient to overturn inherent improbability.—It was held under the circumstances of the present case to be inherently improbable that the applicant sustained a traumatic injury, or that the injury claimed to have been sustained was the cause of the ailment of the eye claimed.—Singh v. Reclamation District, etc., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 29.

972. Evidence not sufficient to establish that injury caused death.—It was held in the present case that the evidence was not sufficient to establish as a fact that death resulting from abscesses and pyemia was not proximately caused by a horse bite suffered in the course of his employment.—Manning v. United Milk Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 19.

973. Evidence sufficient to show cause of disability as claimed.—The evidence in the present case was held to be sufficient to prove that the employee at employer's construction camp contracted typhoid fever from the use of the water of a creek which flowed through the camp.—Price v. Bates, Borland & Ayer, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 99.

974. Evidence insufficient to show that alleged willful misconduct proximately caused the injury.—An award of compensation for an injury to an eye of an employee of an electro-chemical company from getting caustic therein while engaged in the course of his employment is not subject to annulment on the ground of willful misconduct in not, at the time of the injury, protecting his eyes by glasses furnished by the company and directed by it to be used, where the evidence is such that it can not be said as to whether or not the absence of the glasses in any way contributed to or caused the injury.—Great Western, etc., Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 25 Cal. App. Dec. 895, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 362.

975. Absence for less than seven years may be sufficient proof of death.—Absence for less than seven years, coupled with other circumstances, may be sufficient proof of death at an earlier date.—Western, etc., Co. v. Pillsbury, 173 Cal. 135, 139, 159 Pac. 423.

976. Custom or usage, binding effect of.—A custom or usage in order to have any binding effect must be certain, well known, long established and acquiesced in; and a custom among the employees, unknown to and unrecognized by the employer, can not operate to change one kind of employment into another so as to render an accident therein compensable if it was not incidental to or in the course of the work for which the injured person was employed.—County of Modoc v. Industrial Accident Commission, 32 Cal. App. 548, 163 Pac. 685, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 25 (Lytle v. County of Modoc, 3 I. A. C. Dec. 382).

5. Instructions.

977. Instructions to jury — Rule as to weight of evidence — Applicable to industrial accident commission.—The principle behind the rule that juries are to be instructed that "they are not bound to decide in conformity with the declarations of any number of witnesses, which do not produce conviction in their mind, against a less number . . . satisfying their minds" operates as strongly upon the commission as instructions under it do upon juries.—Santa Ana, etc., Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 25 Cal. App. Dec. 1509, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 381 (Villa v. Santa Ana, etc., Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 147).

6. Findings.

978. Finding as to employment, if supported, is not reviewable.—The question whether a claimant for compensation under the workmen's compensation, insurance and safety act is engaged in horticultural labor, and so not within the purview of the act is one of fact to be determined by the commission, and its finding, if supported by any rational view of the evidence, is beyond review by the supreme court.—George v. Industrial Accident Commission, 178 Cal. 733, 735, 174 Pac. 653.

978a. Status of deceased.—Employee or independent contractor.—The finding of the commission that the deceased was a servant of the petitioner and not an independent contractor is conclusive.—Western Metal Supply Co. v. Pillsbury (Cal.), 3 I. A. C. Dec. 109 (Mason v. Western, etc., Co., 1 I. A. C. Dec. 284).

979. Finding as to cancer resulting from fall, held supported by the evidence.—In this case it was held that the finding of the commission that the disability from cancer resulted from a fall is supported by the evidence.—Santa Ana, etc., Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 25 Cal. App. Dec. 1509, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 381 (Villa v. Santa Ana, etc., Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 147).

980. General rule of practice.—Findings should conform to.—The commission exercises judicial functions, and its findings should conform to and be judged by the general rules of practice and law governing the same.—Smith v. Industrial Accident Commission, 26 Cal. App. 560, 147 Pac. 600.

981. Findings and award have effect of judgment.—The findings and award made by the commission in the original proceedings for disability indemnity by an injured employee, have the effect of a judgment binding upon the insurance carrier in a matter pertinent to the inquiry regarding the cause of the employee's death, where such death followed the same injury, and it makes no difference whether the testimony upon which those findings and award were based was itself properly admitted in the widow's proceeding for death indemnity, or not.—Western Indemnity Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 176 Cal. 776, 783, 169 Pac. 663.

982. Knowledge or notice.—Actual knowledge.—A finding by the commission that the defendant "had knowledge or notice of the happening of the accident within the time prescribed by law" is not a finding that he had "actual knowledge" of the injury within the proviso of section 20 of the act making actual knowledge equivalent to the written notice of the particulars of the injury.—Smith v. Industrial Accident Commission, 174 Cal. 199, 200, 162 Pac. 636.

983. Findings upon ultimate, not probative, facts required.—Specific findings upon probative facts are not required of the commission, but a finding upon the ultimate fact is sufficient.—Frankfort G. Ins. Co. v. Pillsbury, 173 Cal. 56, 60, 159 Pac. 150.

984. Finding upon conflicting evidence not reviewable.—A finding of the commission upon conflicting evidence that the injuries of the employee were received while engaged in the performance of his duties under the employment, can not be disturbed on certiorari.—McDonagh v. Industrial Accident Commission, 34 Cal. App. 177, 166 Pac. 1024, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 208.

985. Finding not warranted—Negligence in communication of infection.—The facts in this case are held not to warrant a conclusion that the commission was bound to find that infection reached the face from the toe was due to the negligence of the employee.—Bethlehem, etc., Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 58 Cal. Dec. 421, 185 Pac. 179, 7 A. L. R. 1180, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 211 (Caffrey v. Bethlehem, etc., Co., 6 I. A. C. Dec. 63).

985a. Finding as to bar of statute justified.—Upon this application to review an award made by the industrial accident commission for compensation for "further disability" under subdivision (c) of section 16 of the act, it is held that the finding of the commission that the right was not barred at the time of filing of the application is justified by the evidence.—Rea v. Employees, etc., Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 384.

7. Orders.

986. Service—Dismissal for want of.—Where an employer was erroneously named in an application and was not served, the proceeding was dismissed after the expiration of the limitation of time.—Quaranga v. Ancil Creek Mine, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 129.

986a. Dismissal on own motion for want of jurisdiction on face of petition.—Under section 18 (c) of the act of 1917, the commission is authorized to dismiss an application for compensation on its own motion, where it appears on the face of the application that the commission is without jurisdiction to award compensation.—Williams v. United States, etc., Co., 5 I. A. C. Dec. 44.

987. Consolidation of two proceedings—For disability and for death.—Where the two compensable conditions, injury and death, arose out of the same casualty, the two proceedings—the one by the employee for the injury and the other by the widow for his death—are separate ones, and the continuing jurisdiction given by section 25 (d) is immaterial to the widow's application, and the order consolidating the two proceedings was a mere act of caution and without significance or effect, being wholly unnecessary.—Western Indemnity Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 176 Cal. 776, 782, 169 Pac. 663.

8. Statute of limitations.

988. Statute affects only the remedy.—This section furnishes a bar within the meaning of the rule that the statute of limitations affects only the remedy, and, as matter of defense, is waived if not pleaded.—Red River Lumber Co. v. Pillsbury, 174 Cal. 37, 39, 161 Pac. 982.

989. The provisions of section 11 of the act of 1917 are procedural.—The provisions of section 11 of the act of 1917 are procedural and apply to any proceedings after the act became effective, although for the purpose of recovering compensation for an injury sustained under an earlier act, and where an application is filed within six months after the furnishing by the employee of medical treatment the application is not barred.—Kinnle v. Southern Pacific Co., 6 I. A. C. Dec. 57.

990. Force and effect of phrase "wholly barred."—The language of this section is that the right to institute the proceeding is "wholly barred" by the specified lapse of time, and it does not mean that the provision relates back and avoids the claim from the beginning or forfeits the right.—Red River Lumber Co. v. Pillsbury, 174 Cal. 37, 40, 161 Pac. 982.

991. Significance of word "barred."—The use of the word "barred" in this section in itself implies that the lapse of time constituting the bar must be raised as a defense, and if it is not raised it will be of no avail.—Red River Lumber Co. v. Pillsbury, 174 Cal. 37, 40, 161 Pac. 982.

992. Filing of application for rating not a commencement of proceedings for compensation.—The filing of an application for a permanent disability rating with the rating department of the commission does not constitute a commencement of proceedings for the collection of compensation under section 16 of the workmen's compensation act.—Fidelity & Cas. Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 177 Cal. 472, 170 Pac. 1112 (Knudson v. Kallstrom, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 259).

993. Filing of request for permanent disability rating stops running of statute.—The filing of a request for permanent disability rating, together with an affidavit setting forth details sufficient to entitle applicant to general relief, stops the running of the period of time limited for instituting proceedings before the commission.—Millar v. Oak Ridge, etc., Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 129.

But see Fidelity & Cas. Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 177 Cal. 472, 170 Pac. 1112 (Knudson v. Kallstrom, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 259).

994. Application of section 16 (c), act of 1913.—The extension of the limitation period of six months provided by section 16 (c) is limited to the specified case, and does not apply for the purpose of extending the time for the commencement of proceedings upon an original claim not previously recognized by the employer by payment of indemnity or agreement.—Ehrhart v. Industrial Accident Commission, 172 Cal. 621, 624, Ann. Cas. 1917E, 465, 158 Pac. 193.

995. Date of last payment of compensation.—When the act, in section 16, speaks of the date of last payment of compensation, it means the date on which the money is actually paid, and the claimant must commence his proceeding within six months thereafter, unless there is some agreement for payment of compensation.—Miller v. Industrial Accident Commission, 172 Cal. 473, 474, 156 Pac. 1033.

996. Extension of period by payment of compensation.—Where a claim was filed against an employer and insurance carrier on October 2, 1915, for an injury sustained on November 11, 1914, and compensation was paid up to August 25, 1915, by the insurance carrier, but none was paid by the employer, it was held that such compensation was in the partial discharge of the liability of the employer, and therefore as to such employer extended the commencement of the running of the statute until payments of compensation ceased.—Hoover v. Kuykendall, 3 I. A. C. Dec. 51.

997. Payment of wages—Without performing service.—Payment of full wages to an employee, after injury, although performing no service, can not be considered either as wages or gratuities, but must be deemed compensation under section 11 of the act, and a claim for compensation filed more than six months after the injury though less than six months after the last payment of wages, is not barred by the statute.—Odgers v. Great Western, etc., Co., 6 I. A. C. Dec. 95.

998. Same—Performing part service.—An employee, who was paid full wages after injury, which disabled him from full performance of his duties, but remained at work, the payment of wages can not be considered as payment of compensation, and a claim for compensation filed more than six months after the injury but less than six months from the last payment of wages, was held barred.—McManes v. Ocean, etc., Corporation, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 94.

999. Same—Excess of wages as compensation.—Where an employee who is partially disabled by reason of an industrial injury, is given light work and paid his full wages by his employer, the excess of wages paid over the wages earned is not to be considered as payments of compensation unless, in addition to these facts, an intent on the part of the employer so to consider it appeal from the circumstances of the case.—Narta v. Union Brewing, etc., Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 152.

1000. Same—One day following injury.—Payment of wages for one day following injury did not constitute payment of compensation permitting institution of proceedings within six months from said payment.—Balczynski v. Pacific, etc., Co., 5 I. A. C. Dec. 222.

Gen. Laws—106

1001. Same—Immaterial whether compensation is due.—It is immaterial whether payments made to an injured employee are intended as compensation or not whenever compensation is due; as a matter of fact, payments made for the benefit of the injured employee shall be treated as disability indemnity, and whenever such payments are made within six months prior to the filing of the application the application is not barred.—Howell v. Lanfair, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 176.

1002. Furnishing medical treatment.—Under the act of 1917 the furnishing of medical treatment is payment of compensation, and the statute of limitations runs from the last day of treatment.—Cooper v. Anaheim, etc., Association, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 187.

1003. Payment for medical services—Act of 1917.—Payment for medical services extends the period of limitations, under act of 1917.—Hughes v. United States, etc., Co., 5 I. A. C. Dec. 134.

1004. Same—Payment for prior treatment.—Payment within six months for treatment theretofore furnished by employer, does not toll the statute of limitations.—Fossett v. Venable, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 66.

1005. Payment of damages under admiralty law.—Payment of damages under admiralty law for an injury to a seaman on board a ship on the high seas held not to bar a claim for compensation under the act, but the employer will be credited for the amount paid.—Mestrand v. Comyn Mackall & Co., 6 I. A. C. Dec. 126.

1006. Collection of death benefit.—Under subdivision 2 of section 16 of the act, a proceeding to collect a death benefit can be maintained, although death ensues more than one year from the date of injury, where it is commenced within one year from the date of the death and within two hundred and forty weeks from the date of the injury.—Western Indemnity Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 176 Cal. 776, 782, 169 Pac. 663, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 376 (Henne v. Hjul, 3 I. A. C. Dec. 433).

1007. Under the act of 1913.—An application for compensation filed within six months after a payment of disability indemnity under the act of 1913, is not barred, although more than six months after the injury was sustained.—Kinnie v. Southern Pacific Co., 6 I. A. C. Dec. 57.

1008. Same—Filing of application for disability rating.—Where proceedings for the collection of compensation were not commenced within six months after the date of the injury, it is barred, although an application for a disability rating was filed with the rating department prior to the expiration of that period.—Fidelity & Cas. Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 177 Cal. 472, 170 Pac. 1112.

1009. Claim by foreign dependent—Application within one year from death.—It was held under the circumstances of this case, of a claim by a foreign dependent of the deceased employee who had sent to his attorney in fact a formal power of attorney, and the attorney in fact thereafter within one year after the death filed an application for a death benefit, that the application filed in the statutory period was sufficient and that the commission had jurisdiction to award a death benefit.—Pavlovic v. Glick, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 114.

1010. Disability uncertain.—Where an assayer suffered darkening or discoloration of the skin, due to fumes to which he was subjected by reason of his employment, and the disability resulting from such disfigurement was uncertain, it should be considered on application after six months from the award.—Smith v. Treasure Mining Co., 5 I. A. C. Dec. 97.

1011. "Further disability."—If there have been no proceedings commenced within six months from the date of the injury, and no payment of disability indemnity or agreement thereof, the employee is not entitled to institute proceedings grounded upon "further disability" under section 16 (c) of the act of 1913, after six months from the date of the injury.—Kauffman v. Industrial Accident Commission, 37 Cal. App. 500, 174 Pac. 690.

1012. Same — Application of phrase.—The words "further disability" in the proviso of subdivision (c) of section 16 of the act refers to any disability in addition to that for which proceedings were commenced within six months of the date of injury, or for which disability indemnity has been paid, or agreed to be paid, and where no proceedings were commenced within six months from the date of the injury and no payment of disability indemnity or agreement thereof, the employee is not entitled to institute proceedings founded upon "further disability" after expiration of six months from the date of the injury.—Kauffman v. Industrial Accident Commission, 37 Cal. App. 500, 174 Pac. 690, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 132 (Kauffman v. Federal Drilling Co., 5 I. A. C. Dec. 56).

1013. Same — Continuing disability.—A continuing disability in the sense that a subsequent incapacitation caused by the original injury is a continuation of the original disability and not a further disability within the meaning of section 16 (c), must be sufficient to render an employee entitled to compensation.—Larsen v. Sherer, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 126.

1014. Same — Not further disability.—Where an employee suffered no disability after an industrial injury within six months, for which compensation had been or agreed to be paid, or for which he had received an award, and he thereafter suffered a compensable disability, it was held that he had suffered no further disability within the meaning of section 16 (c) of the act of 1913.—Kauffman v. Federal Drilling Co., 5 I. A. C. Dec. 56.

1015. Same — Same — Steadily failing sight.—Where an injury to employee's eye occurred more than a year before filing claim, during which time his sight had been noticeably and steadily failing and he had received no compensation or agreement, it was held that he had suffered no "further disability," and that his claim for compensation was barred.—Kauffman v. Federal Drilling Co., 5 I. A. C. Dec. 56.

1016. Same — Injury occurring prior to amendment of section 16 (c).—Where an injury occurred less than six months before the amendment to section 16 (c) became effective, a proceeding based upon a "further disability" by reason of the injury may be commenced within 245 weeks of the date of the original injury.—Ready v. City of Oakland, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 89.

1017. Same — When statute has run against original disability.—Where the statute has run against the original injury a claim for compensation can lie only for a new and further disability.—Engel v. National, etc., Co., 5 I. A. C. Dec. 239.

1018. Same—When statute begins to run against new disability.—Where an employee sustained a further disability about a year after the original disability, it was held that the statutory period for the institution of proceedings on account of said second disability began to run from the date of the appearance of the disability caused thereby.—Lara v. Los Angeles Stone Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 298.

1019. Same—Date statute begins to run.—The statutory period for the institution of proceedings on account of a "further disability" begins to run at the date of the appearance of the further disability and not from the date of the original injury.—Lara v. Los Angeles Stone Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 298.

1020. Same—When claim barred.—Where proceedings are instituted for the collection of compensation on the ground that the original injury has caused further disability, the right to compensation is barred for any disability existing more than six months previous to the date for filing the application.—Larsen v. Sherer, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 126.

1021. Unless proceedings are instituted within six months of the date when the injured employee is compelled to discontinue work by reason of a further disability, his claim is barred.—Kemper v. Nathan-Dohrmann Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 101.

1022. Same—Reduction of earning power.—The loss of wages or the reduction of earning power taken by itself is not a sufficient ground upon which to predicate a new and further disability within the meaning of the act, but the same must be accompanied by a recurrence or new development of physical incapacity traceable to the original injury.—Hafely v. Georgia Casualty Co., 5 I. A. C. Dec. 194.

1023. Same — Arising two years after original injury.—Where an injury and further disability arose two years after the original injury, the claim therefore was barred, even though two medical treatments were given at the beginning.—Balczynski v. Pacific, etc., Co., 5 I. A. C. Dec. 222.

1024. Continuing jurisdiction of commission.—The continuing jurisdiction of the commission provided by section 25 (d) applies only to orders, decisions and awards already made, and for the purpose of making an award based upon an original injury, for which no claim was made within the period of limitation prescribed by section 16.—Ehrhart v. Industrial Accident Commission, 172 Cal. 621, 625, Ann. Cas. 1917E, 465, 158 Pac. 193.

1025. Two distinct injuries — One only named.—Where an employee suffered two distinct injuries from the same accident, and in his application named only one, and compensation awarded was based solely on that one, no mention being made of the other at the hearing, the commission was without jurisdiction to make a second award for the other injury after the expiration of the six month's limitation prescribed by section 16.—Ehrhart v. Industrial Accident Commission, 172 Cal. 621, 623, Ann. Cas. 1917E, 465, 158 Pac. 193.

1026. Claim of lien for medical services.—Where an application for an award for medical expenses was filed within six months of an injury and subsequent to death, which occurred more than six months after the injury, one of the attending physicians filed an application to be substituted for the deceased employee, it was held that the physician's claim was through the employee by way of lien, and was not barred.—Caseri v. Marin County, etc., Association, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 63.

1027. Effect of minority.—A female employee, who sustained a compensable injury during her minority, applied for compensation, was denied compensation on the ground of the six months bar, all during minority, and no guardian having been appointed for, and after attaining her majority, and within a reasonable time thereafter, disaffirmed her former application, and again applied for compensation, was held to be entitled thereto.—Michaud v. Gonanillon, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 264.

1028. Bar must be pleaded in five days.—The defendant must plead the bar of this section within five days as provided in section 23.—Red River Lumber Co. v. Pillsbury, 174 Cal. 37, 39, 161 Pac. 982.

1029. Same—Failure to plead waiver.—The failure of the defendant to set up the statute of limitations of section 16 (a) in his answer, or otherwise suggest or raise the point that the claim is barred in a proceeding for compensation under the workmen's compensation act, amounts to a waiver of that defense.—United States Fidelity and Guaranty Co. v. Pillsbury, 174 Cal. 198, 199, 162 Pac. 638.

1030. A defendant in a proceeding to fix an award for disability under this act is required by section 23 of the act to file with the commission an answer setting up the bar provided in section 16, within 5 days after service of the application upon him, and a failure to do so is a waiver of that defense.—Red River Lumber Co. v. Pillsbury, 174 Cal. 37, 39, 161 Pac. 982.

1031. In a proceeding to review and annul an award of a permanent partial disability indemnity made by the commission, the petitioner can not contend that the application for relief was not filed in time, where in his answer in the original proceeding he failed to plead directly or indirectly the statutory limitation provided by section 16 (a) of the act.—United States, etc., Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 53 Cal. Dec. 61, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 4 (McGee v. Daniels, etc., Co., 3 I. A. C. Dec. 50).

1032. Agreement to forego operation of statute.—The parties to a controversy before the industrial accident commission may enter into an agreement to forego the statute of limitations for a definite period, and such an agreement may operate as an estoppel to a plea of the statute.—Kemper v. Industrial Accident Commission, 177 Cal. 618, 620, 171 Pac. 426.

1033. Power of commission to set aside defense of statute.—Where the evidence shows that the statutory period has run, the commission has no power to set aside and refuse to consider a defense of the statute, even though there is evidence to show that the employer had promised to waive this defense.—Kemper v. Nathan-Dohrmann Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 101.

1034. Failure to file claim within agreed time.—A finding of the commission that it was without jurisdiction to hear an application for compensation filed after the expiration of the period prescribed in section 16 will not be set aside on certiorari, where the waiver was limited in its application to the filing of a claim with the commission within a reasonable time from its date, and the applicant did not rely on the waiver or file his claim until six months thereafter.—Kemper v. Industrial Accident Commission, 177 Cal. 618, 171 Pac. 426, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 41 (Kemper v. Nathan-Dohrmann, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 101).

9. Judgment or award.

a. Finality and conclusiveness.

1035. Reopening decisions on change of law.—It is in accordance with the sound policy of the commission not to reopen its earlier decisions whenever a change in the construction of the law is made by higher courts, where such construction could have been claimed before said decisions became final and that therefore said award would not be annulled.—Soley v. North, etc., Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 289.

1036. Testimony taken before referee.—Findings and award in any proceeding where testimony is taken by a single commissioner or referee, made and signed by such, are valid when approved and confirmed by the commission, even though not accompanied by a transcript or report of the testimony.—Hammond Lumber Co. v. Ferguson, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 137.

1037. Annulled on newly discovered evidence.—Findings and award were annulled and the proceedings dismissed without prejudice at a rehearing at which the applicant introduced newly discovered evidence showing that his employer at the time of his injury was not the defendant against whom the award was rendered but was a third person, not a party to the proceedings.—Grizzel v. Aaron, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 131.

1038. Same — Applicant not widow.—In this case it was found that the applicant for a death benefit was not the widow of the deceased employee and was not dependent upon him for support, and the award was accordingly rescinded.—Cordova v. Santa, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 330 (Original decision reported in 3 I. A. C. Dec. 180. The opinion of the supreme court is reported in Santa v. Industrial Accident Commission, 175 Cal. 235, 165 Pac. 689, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 169).

1039. Dismissal of employer—Reinstatement.—Where an award was rendered against the employer and insurance carrier jointly and the latter applied for a rehearing, which was denied, and afterward for a writ of review, and the employer was dismissed from the proceeding at its request, and on review the insurance carrier was held not liable, the commission had power under section 25 (d) on a petition for a rescission of the order dismissing the employer, to rescind said order.—Angus v. White Gulch Mining Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 330.

1040. Error of procedure does not vacate award.—Conceding that a notice to an insurance carrier that an award will be amended by providing an additional allowance for permanent disability "unless good cause be shown" places the burden upon the insurer instead of the injured employee, where it belongs, the fact, even if true, would not avoid the award, inasmuch as it would be a mere error of procedure, and in any event it would not be prejudicial to the insurer who did not seek any opportunity to introduce evidence upon the facts alleged against him.—Massachusetts, etc., Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 176 Cal. 488, 492, 168 Pac. 1050.

b. Alteration, amendment, etc.

1041. Waiver of objections not made.—Where the insurer objected to the amendment of an award solely upon the ground that the relation of master and servant did not exist, other objections were waived.—Massachusetts, etc., Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 176 Cal. 488, 491, 168 Pac. 1050.

1042. Jurisdiction to amend not unlimited.—In view of subdivision (b) of section 82, the continuing jurisdiction of the commission to amend, alter and rescind its awards, is not unlimited, but only extends in its exercise to the consideration of facts only as arise after the making of the award, and it is only upon proof of such facts that the commission has jurisdiction to review, diminish or increase such award.—Georgia C. Company v. Industrial Accident Commission, 177 Cal. 289, 293, 170 Pac. 621.

1043. Findings, not attacked, final before proceeding to amend begun, conclusive.—In a proceeding under section 25 (d) to amend an award by providing an additional allowance to cover a rating for a permanent disability, the original findings as to the relation of the injured employee, not attacked by any proceeding in review, and that had become final long before the new proceeding began, is conclusive.—Massachusetts, etc., Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 176 Cal. 488, 491, 168 Pac. 1050.

1044. Notice of hearing of proceeding to amend—Sufficiency.—Where a notice of the hearing of an application to amend an award did not set the time for the hearing, but merely declared that the previous award would be amended unless good cause to the contrary was not shown in writing within ten days, the amended award is not in excess of the jurisdiction of the commission.—Massachusetts, etc., Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 176 Cal. 488, 168 Pac. 1050, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 336 (Kelley v. Manley, 2 I. A. C. Dec. 355).

1045. Changed conditions must be shown as basis of application to amend.—Under sections 25, 81, and 82, when the commission has once made an award and denied a rehearing its jurisdiction to annul or alter its award is exhausted, except upon the ground that the disability has increased, diminished or terminated, when based upon changed conditions or new facts occurring after the award.—Georgia Casualty Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 177 Cal. 289, 170 Pac. 625, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 16 (on rehearing of 53 Cal. Dec. 705, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 170; Sims v. Sherer & Co., 3 I. A. C. Dec. 197).

10. Rehearing.

1046. Notice of hearing—Right of person against whom award is made.—The right to be present at any hearing necessarily includes the right to have notice of such hearing in time to attend.—Carstens v. Pillsbury, 172 Cal. 572, 577, 158 Pac. 218.

1047. Petition for rehearing, contents.—The provisions of subdivision (c), section 81, of the act, as to the contents of a petition for a rehearing require something more than a mere statement that a certain finding is not sustained by the evidence.—Pacific Coast Casualty Co. v. Pillsbury, 171 Cal. 52, 54, 151 Pac. 658.

1048. Points raised for first time.—Points made for the first time on petition for rehearing will not be considered.—Estabrook Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 177 Cal. 767, 177 Pac. 848, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 100; Klamath Steamship Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 177 Cal. 767, 177 Pac. 848, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 100 (see same case 5 I. A. C. Dec. 65).

1049. Same—Point of lack of jurisdiction.—A rehearing of an application for a writ of certiorari to annul an award of the commission will not be granted on the ground that the facts were such as to bring the proceeding within the exclusive admiralty jurisdiction of the federal courts where no such point was suggested in the argument on which the case was originally submitted for decision.—A. F. Estabrook Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 177 Cal. 767, 177 Pac. 848, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 100; Klamath Steamship Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 177 Cal. 767, 177 Pac. 848, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 100 (see same case 177 Cal. 767, 177 Pac. 848, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 65).

1049a. Same—Maritime injury.—Where the jurisdictional defense that the injury was maritime in character was raised for the first time on petition for rehearing and it did not appear that this defense could not have been raised at the hearing, it was held that said defense could not be considered.—Mann v. Johnson, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 253.

1050. Failure to make express finding—Want of objection.—Under section 81 of the workmen's compensation act of 1913, an employer against whom an award has been made, who fails to make an objection because of the failure of the commission to make an express finding upon an issue raised as to an existing agreement as to indemnity in case of disability, on its application for a rehearing, must be deemed to have waived the same.—Northwestern Pacific Rd. Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 173 Cal. 652, 653, 161 Pac. 123.

1051. Jurisdiction of commission expires on denial of rehearing.—The jurisdiction of the commission over its awards expires when it derives a rehearing, or when the time to make an application has expired, except where in section 20 (d) it is empowered to alter or amend its awards on the presentation of new facts occurring since the award was made.—Northern, etc., Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 30 Cal. App. Dec. 367, 185 Pac. 991, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 204 (Lay v. Northern, etc., Co., 3 I. A. C. Dec. 271, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 181).

1052. Substitution of insurance carrier—Request after time for rehearing has expired.—A request for the substitution of the insurance carrier in place of the employer, made after the decision of the commission, can be considered only on petition for rehearing, and where it is made after the time for rehearing has expired, the commission has no authority, either under section 24(d) of the act of 1913, or under section 20(c) of the act of 1917, to grant it.—Lay v. Northern, etc., Co., 6 I. A. C. Dec. 181.

1053. "Filing" not "service."—Filing petition for rehearing is not "service" with the commission's rules, nor section 1013, code of civil procedure.—Deichen v. Acme, etc., Co., 5 I. A. C. Dec. 91.

1054. Same—Code provision not superseded.—The provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure as to service by mail are not superseded by the commission's rule.—Deichen v. Acme, etc., Co., 5 I. A. C. Dec. 91.

11. Review.

1055. Respondents—Members of commission.—The members of the industrial accident commission are not proper parties defendant in proceedings by certiorari under section 84 of the act; but the proceedings should be brought against the industrial accident commission by name.—Carstens v. Pillsbury, 172 Cal. 572, 574, 158 Pac. 218.

1056. Attack upon award—Intent of act.—It was the clear intent of the legislature to render awards by the commission of compensation to employees for industrial injuries free from review or attack of any kind, except as prescribed in the act.—Thaxter v. Finn, 178 Cal. 270, 173 Pac. 163, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 101 (Thaxter v. Thaxter, 1 I. A. C. Dec. 197).

1057. Limitation of review of awards.—The legislature has full authority to limit the review of awards made by the commission and to make them conclusive, except on a review in the manner and at the times specified in the act.—Thaxter v. Finn, 178 Cal. 270, 173, Pac. 163, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 101 (Thaxter v. Thaxter, 1 I. A. C. Dec. 197).

1058. The legislature is authorized to preclude, so far as the courts of this state are concerned, any attack, direct or collateral, upon any award of the industrial accident commission, except in the manner prescribed, provided, always, of course, that jurisdiction of the person of the party against whom the award is made is not wanting.—Thaxter v. Finn, 178 Cal. 270, 277, 173 Pac. 163.

1059. Want of evidence to sustain findings—Newly discovered evidence—Grounds for rehearing but not for review.—Under the provisions of section 82 of the workmen's compensation act the commission may grant a rehearing upon the grounds of want of evidence to sustain the findings, or newly discovered evidence; but the supreme court can not review the proceedings on such grounds.—Cardoza v. Pillsbury, 169 Cal. 106, 145 Pac. 1015.

1060. Power to annul awards—Grounds.—Section 84 of the act gives the supreme court power to annul awards only when the commission acted without or beyond its powers, or when the award was procured by fraud, or is unreasonable, or when unsupported by the findings.—Southern Pacific Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 177 Cal. 378, 170 Pac. 822, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 20 (Hunt v. Southern Pacific Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 107).

1061. Scope of jurisdiction of supreme court.—The authority of the supreme court with respect to the commission's conclusions on questions of fact, goes no further than to permit the annulment of an award where the commission's finding of fact is without any evidence whatever to support it.—Walker v. Industrial Accident Commission, 177 Cal. 737, 738, L. R. A. 1918F, 212, 171 Pac. 954.

1061a. Scope of inquiry on review under act of 1913.—Under the act of 1913 on an application for a writ of review the inquiry can go only to the question of jurisdiction, but this includes the question whether any material finding is unsupported, in which case the award of the commission must be set aside and annulled.—Modoc Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 32 Cal. App. 548, 163 Pac. 685.

1062. Certiorari—Grounds restricted to those stated in section 84.—The courts are restricted to the grounds for a review of proceedings of the industrial accident commission to those stated in section 84 of the act.—Cardoza v. Pillsbury, 169 Cal. 106, 145 Pac. 1015.

1063. Annulment of award on review.—Grounds of.—Section 84 of the workmen's compensation act, authorizes the supreme court to annul an award only when the commission acted without or beyond its powers, or when the award was procured by fraud, or is unreasonable, or when the findings of fact do not support it.—Southern Pacific Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 177 Cal. 378, 381, 170 Pac. 822.

1064. Exercise of discretion not reviewable, unless wholly unsupported in the record.—No court should interfere with exercise of commission's discretion under the act unless it is clearly made to appear that the conclusion is without substantial support in the record.—Perry v. Industrial Accident Commission, 176 Cal. 706, 710, 169 Pac. 353.

1065. Same.—Determination as to reasonable time.—Where an insurer stipulated to waive the statute of limitations provided the claimant should present his claim within a reasonable time, the commission was authorized to determine what was a reasonable time, and its determination in that respect can not be overruled.—Kemper v. Industrial Accident Commission, 177 Cal. 618, 621, 171 Pac. 426.

1066. Annulment of award on review, when.—Under section 84 of the act of 1913, an award of the commission may be annulled by the supreme court in a proceeding by writ of review, when the commission, in making the award, exceeded its powers, or its decision procured by fraud, or is unreasonable or not supported by the findings, but not because of errors of procedure, or insufficiency of the evidence if there is substantial evidence to support it, and not for error in the admission or exclusion of evidence, not affecting its jurisdiction.—Massachusetts B. & I. Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 176 Cal. 488, 490, 168 Pac. 1050.

1067. Award may be reviewed but not collaterally attacked.—An award made to an employee of a sub-contractor against the general contractor is subject to annulment upon application for a writ of review made within the time provided by the act, but is not subject to collateral attack for want of jurisdiction of the subject matter, since the well settled principles relative to collateral attacks upon judgments are not applicable.—Thaxter v. Finn, 178 Cal. 270, 173 Pac. 163, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 101 (Thaxter v. Thaxter, 1 I. A. C. Dec. 197).

1068. Jurisdiction of supreme court.—Power to weigh evidence.—The supreme court in reviewing an award of the commission is not acting as a court of appeal, and has no power to weigh the effect of positive evidence, but must assume that the commission believed all the evidence given which tends to sustain the award.—Southern Pacific Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 177 Cal. 378, 170 Pac. 822, 5

I. A. C. Dec. 20 (Hunt v. Southern Pacific Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 107).

1069. Supreme court not a court of appeal.—The supreme court, in reviewing awards of the commission, is not acting as a court of appeal, and has no power to weigh the effect of positive evidence, but must assume that the commission believed all the evidence given which tends to sustain the award made.—Southern Pacific Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 177 Cal. 378, 380, 170 Pac. 822.

1070. A writ of review of an award made by the commission is not an appeal; an award can be annulled if the commission exceeded its powers in making it, or if it was procured by fraud, or if it is unreasonable, or if the findings of facts upon which it was made do not support it, but it can not be set aside for errors of procedure only, or for insufficiency of the evidence where there is substantial evidence to support the findings, or for rulings upon the admission or exclusion of evidence, amounting only to error and not affecting the jurisdiction.—Massachusetts, etc., Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 176 Cal. 488, 168 Pac. 1050, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 336 (Kelley v. Manley, 2 I. A. C. Dec. 355).

1071. Appeals not provided for in the "Boynton act."—There is no provision for appeals under the "Boynton act" (Stats. 1913, p. 279), but section 84 provides for a review of the decisions of the commission by the supreme and district courts of appeal, and such review may go far enough to determine whether findings support the order, decision or award under review.—Smith v. Industrial Accident Commission, 26 Cal. App. 560, 147 Pac. 600.

1072. Application for review must be made within the proper time.—A review of the proceedings of the industrial accident commission can be had only where a proceeding therefor is instituted in the proper court at the proper time.—Thaxter v. Finn, 178 Cal. 270, 272, 173 Pac. 163.

1073. Time to apply for certiorari.—A petition for writ of review directed to the commission must be made within thirty days after the award, whether such award shows on its face that it was beyond or in excess of the commission's jurisdiction, or not, and unless so made, will be dismissed.—North Pacific Steamship Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 34 Cal. App. 488, 168 Pac. 30.

1074. An application for a writ of certiorari filed January 24, 1918, to review an order denying a rehearing made and entered December 22, 1917, is, under section 67(a) of the act of 1917, too late.—Neal v. Industrial Accident Commission, 36 Cal. App. 40, 171 Pac. 696.

1075. Under section 67(a) of the act of 1917, an application for a writ of certiorari to review proceedings denying a rehearing comes too late when the order was made December 22, 1917, and the writ was filed January 24, 1918.—Neal v. Industrial Accident Commission, 36 Cal. App. 40, 171 Pac. 696, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 15.

1076. Same—Medical services—Order not final judgment.—Premature application for writ of review.—A judgment of the commission ordering petitioner to pay the reasonable value of medical and surgical attention, "the claims therefor to be approved by the commission before payment," is not a final judgment, can not be enforced in that form, and an application for a writ of review thereof is premature.—Garratt-Callahan Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 171 Cal. 334, 336, 153 Pac. 239.

1077. Review of evidence, extent of.—Great Western Power Co. v. Pillsbury, 170 Cal. 180, followed and approved as to extent of review of the evidence on certiorari. Rule not changed by new provisions as to conclusiveness of findings of commission.—Western Indemnity Co. v. Pillsbury, 170 Cal. 656, 704, 151 Pac. 398.

1078. Award nullified for insufficiency of evidence.—Where the jurisdiction of the commission depends upon proof that the employed was murdered, the supreme court may examine the evidence, and if it is insufficient to justify a finding of death by violence, the court will nullify the award.—Western, etc., Co. v. Pillsbury, 173 Cal. 135, 138, 159 Pac. 422.

1079. If any evidence, to support finding, award affirmed.—If there be any evidence to support the finding of the commission, its award must be affirmed.—Yolo, etc., Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 35 Cal. App. 14, 168 Pac. 1146, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 319.

1080. An award must be affirmed where there is any evidence to sustain the finding of the commission.—Royal Indemnity Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 35 Cal. App. 90, 168 Pac. 245.

1081. Admission of incompetent evidence, no ground for annulment, if supported by competent evidence.—An award is not subject to annulment because of the admission of incompetent evidence, provided there is enough competent evidence to uphold the same.—Maryland, etc., Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 178 Cal. 491, 173 Pac. 993, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 154 (Dobson v. Ellis, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 357).

1082. On review — Every reasonably drawn inference taken in aid of findings.—On review of an award by the commission every inference which may reasonably be drawn from the evidence must be taken in aid of the findings of the commission as to facts.—Leadbetter v. Industrial Accident Commission, 26 Cal. App. Dec. 1268, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 143.

1083. Same—Drawing different conclusions.—The commission has the right under the act where different conclusions may be rationally and fairly drawn from the evidence, one sustaining and the other opposed to the right of compensation, to adopt the conclusion favorable to the claim, and its conclusion in that regard is beyond the scope of review.—John A. Roeblings Sons Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, (Cal.) 171 Pac. 956, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 62 (Bundshu v. John A. Roeblings Sons Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 215). See same case reported 36 Cal. App. 10, 171 Pac. 987, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 11.

1084. Same — If conclusion could be reached by a reasonable man.—The supreme court can not disturb an award unless it can be said that a reasonable man could not reach the conclusion from the evidence that was before the commission.—Engel, etc., Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, (Cal.) 192 Pac. 845; San Francisco v. Industrial Accident Commission, (Cal.) 191 Pac. 26.

1085. Same—Finding supported under any rational view of evidence.—The industrial accident commission is charged with the determination of the issues of fact in proceedings for compensation of employees, and its findings are not reviewable where they find support under any rational view of the evidence.—North Pacific S. S. Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 174 Cal. 500, 502, 163 Pac. 910.

1086. Same—Findings and conclusions not subject to review if reasonably supported.—The commission is the final judge of the facts and its findings can not be overturned, where they have the support of evidence upon which a reasonable man could come to the conclusion which was reached.—Santa v. Industrial Accident Commission, 175 Cal. 235, 237, 165 Pac. 689.

1087. Same—Order within jurisdiction, under facts, not reviewable.—The power to weigh the evidence and determine whether presumptions are overcome rests in the commission, and the courts may not assume to review its acts within its jurisdiction.—United States, etc., Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 28 Cal. App. Dec. 157.

1088. Petition for certiorari—Showing of insufficiency of evidence.—A petition for a writ of review that fails to show a lack of evidence to support the finding of the commission that the employee's injury arose out of the employment is insufficient.—Garratt-Callahan Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 171 Cal. 334, 335, 153 Pac. 239.

1089. Same—Same—Finding sustained—Application dismissed.—An application for a writ of review will be dismissed where the record shows that the finding of the commission is sustained by the law and the evidence.—Globe, etc., Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 35 Cal. App. 89, 169 Pac. 257.

1090. Where the evidence sustains the conclusion of the commission that the relationship of employer and employee existed, the writ of review to annul the award for the reason that such relationship is not to be shown to exist will be dismissed.—Gorter v. Industrial Accident Commission, 35 Cal. App. 88, 169 Pac. 262.

1091. Findings supported—Origin of sarcoma.—In the case of an award for an injury arising from sarcoma or cancer, alleged to have resulted from a fall, it is held that the finding of the commission is supported by the evidence.—Santa Ana, etc., Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 35 Cal. App. 652, 170 Pac. 630.

1092. Findings as to relationship of parties conclusive.—Upon an application for a permanent disability rating, the original findings and award made on the temporary disability award as to the relationship of the parties is conclusive.—Massachusetts, etc., Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 176 Cal. 488, 168 Pac. 1050, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 236 (Kelley v. Manley, 2 I. A. C. Dec. 355).

1093. Finding as to dependency not reviewable.—A finding of the commission, after regular hearing, that neither of the petitioners had been "wholly nor partially dependent" upon the deceased employee for support, can not be reviewed by an appellate court.—Crosaro v. Industrial Accident Commission, 38 Cal. App. 758, 177 Pac. 489, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 205.

1094. Review of award—Questions of fact.—The authority of the supreme court with respect to the commission's conclusions of fact goes no further than to permit the annulment of the award when the commission's finding is without evidence to support it.—Walker v. Industrial Accident Commission, 177 Cal. 737, L. R. A. 1918F, 212, 171 Pac. 954, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 63 (Robinson v. Walker, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 93).

1095. Award without proof of accident, nullified.—An award made without proof that the injury resulted from accident is void, and will be annulled on certiorari.—Englebreton v. Industrial Accident Commission, 170 Cal. 793, 796, 151 Pac. 421.

1096. Award annulled for total want of evidence to sustain.—The award of the industrial accident commission for accidental death was annulled on the ground that the finding as to absence of willful misconduct was wholly without support, in the evidence.—Great Western Power Co. v. Pillsbury, 170 Cal. 180, 190, 149 Pac. 35.

1097. Award set aside for want of support in the evidence—Unsupported award will be set aside.—An award unsupported by the evidence will be set aside on certiorari.—Elk Grove, etc., District v. Industrial Accident Commission, 34 Cal. App. 589, 168 Pac. 392.

1098. Findings totally unsupported are subject to review.—If totally unsupported by the evidence a finding that employee's injury was the result of his own willful misconduct is subject to review by the supreme court.—North Pacific S. S. Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 174 Cal. 500, 501, 163 Pac. 910.

1099. Relationship—Finding on hearsay testimony, binding on appellate court.—A finding of the commission as to the relationship of employer and employee, though based on hearsay testimony is binding on the appellate court.—Perry v. Industrial Accident Commission, 57 Cal. Dec. 535; Pacific Gas and Electric Co. v. Industrial Accident Co., 57 Cal. Dec. 535 (Kendall v. Perry, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 167).

1100. Finding of jurisdictional fact on hearsay testimony.—An award of the commission can not stand if a finding of a jurisditional fact is without any support except that of hearsay testimony.—Employer's, etc., Corp. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 170 Cal. 800, 801, 151 Pac. 423.

1101. Annulment of award—Hearsay statements of deceased.—Where the only evidence to support the award was the hearsay statements of the deceased made to various persons, the award is beyond the power of the commission and should be annulled on writ of review.—Employer's, etc., Corp. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 170 Cal. 800, 802, 151 Pac. 423.

1102. Admission of hearsay evidence immaterial if other evidence sufficient.—Where there is substantial evidence to justify an award, the further admission of evidence of an incompetent character, because hearsay, upon same facts, would be mere error, which would not oust the jurisdiction nor justify a writ of review.—Southern Surety Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 173 Cal. 678, 160 Pac. 884.

1103. Findings on conflicting evidence.—Where there is a conflict of evidence the finding of the commission under the Roseberry act can not be inquired into by the supreme court.—Great Western Power Co. v. Pillsbury, 170 Cal. 180, 184, 149 Pac. 35.

1103a. An award of compensation for injuries made by the commission will not be interfered with on certiorari where the evidence upon which the award is founded is in substantial conflict.—Richmond Dredging Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 33 Cal. App. 97, 164 Pac. 407, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 67.

1104. Same—Not subject to review.—The supreme court can not disturb, on review, the finding of the commission based on conflicting evidence.—Southwestern Surety Ins. Co. v. Pillsbury, 172 Cal. 768, 773, 158 Pac. 762.

1105. Finding as to status of employee on conflicting evidence.—The finding of the commission as to the status of a claimant for compensation under the act, made upon a substantial conflict of evidence, will not be disturbed on certiorari.—Western Indemnity Co. v. Pillsbury, 172 Cal. 807, 809, 159 Pac. 721.

1106. Findings not subject to question on review, where the evidence in support is conflicting.—The findings of fact of the commission are not subject to question, if there is any evidence to support them.—Smith v. Industrial Accident Commission, 26 Cal. App. 560, 147 Pac. 600.

1107. Findings upon conflicting evidence will not be disturbed where there is some support.—Findings of the commission will not be disturbed on certiorari, when there is a conflict, and some evidence to support the findings.—McDonagh v. Industrial Accident Commission, 34 Cal. App. 177, 166 Pac. 1024; Easton v. Industrial Accident Commission, 34 Cal. App. 321, 167 Pac. 288.

1108. Arising out of and in course of employment—Finding on conflicting evidence upheld.—Where the evidence is conflicting as to whether the injury arose out of or in the course of the employment, the finding of the commission must be upheld.—Krobitzsch v. Industrial Accident Commission, 58 Cal. Dec. 445, 185 Pac. 396, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 218 (Starkey v. Krobitzsch, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 61).

1109. Irregularities or errors in procedure not jurisdictional.—Under the act, an order of the commission is not subject to annulment on the ground that the commission granted a rehearing for newly discovered evidence in violation of its own rule requiring such evidence to be set out in detail in the application for a rehearing, or for taking testimony without solicitation from either party, since irregularities, or errors in mere matter of procedure do not go to the jurisdiction of the commission to make awards.—Maryland, etc., Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 178 Cal. 491, 173 Pac. 993, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 154 (Dobson v. Ellis, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 357).

1110. Inconsistent findings not ground for review.—The supreme court has no power to annul an award on the ground that the findings are inconsistent, and if there are findings which sustain the award, the fact that there are findings inconsistent therewith, if taken alone, will not be available to annul it.—Southern Pacific Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 177 Cal. 378, 170 Pac. 822, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 20 (Hunt v. Southern Pacific Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 107).

1111. Consideration of evidence in support of findings.—Where the findings are meager in detailing facts upon which the commission based its conclusion, the court may refer to the evidence, for the purpose of explaining or supplementing, but not for the purpose of varying or contradicting the findings.—Kramer v. Industrial Accident Commission, 31 Cal. App. 673, 161 Pac. 278.

1112. Evidence taken without notice to party affected by award.—Where all the evidence tending to show the connection of the person against whom an award is made with the injury is taken before such person was made a party and before notice to him, such award is without due process of law, and the evidence can not be considered in support of the findings of the commission.—Carstens v. Pillsbury, 172 Cal. 572, 577, 158 Pac. 218.

1113. Errors in admission or exclusion of evidence not reviewable.—In view of sections 77 and 84, errors of the commission in the admission or exclusion of evidence is not subject to review.—Frankfort G. Ins. Co. v. Pillsbury, 173 Cal. 56, 61, 159 Pac. 150.

1114. Findings of fact upon which jurisdiction is based are reviewable.—Findings of fact by which the commission determines itself clothed with jurisdiction are reviewable on certiorari.—Miller & Lux v. Industrial Accident Commission, 179 Cal. 764, 7 A. L. R. 1191, 178 Pac. 960, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 34.

1115. Jurisdictional facts must be supported by competent evidence.—There must be competent evidence in support of every jurisdictional fact involved in an application for compensation.—Elk Grove, etc., Dis- trict v. Industrial Accident Commission, 34 Cal. App. 589, 168 Pac. 392.

1116. Finding as to jurisdictional fact unsupported—Award annulled.—Notwithstanding the provisions of the act as to the conclusiveness of the findings of the commission, an award is the subject of review and may be annulled whenever the finding as to a jurisdictional fact is without substantial support.—Employer's, etc., Corporation v. Industrial Accident Commission, 170 Cal. 800, 801, 151 Pac. 423.

1117. Question of relationship of employer and employee jurisdictional, and subject to review.—The question of the relationship of an owner of land contracting with a woodcutter to cut wood at a stipulated price per cord, to the employee of a sub-contractor who furnishes his own tools and labors at his own pleasure and not under the owner's authority, as to liability for compensation under the act, is jurisdictional and reviewable by the supreme court.—Donlon Bros. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 173 Cal. 250, 252, 159 Pac. 715.

1118. Questions as to whether accident arose out of employment, and whether willful misconduct proximately caused accident are jurisdictional.—Both the question whether the accident causing the injury occurred or arose out of and in the course of the employment, and the question whether the accident was or was not the direct result of the willful misconduct of the injured employee are jurisdictional facts.—Elk Grove, etc., District v. Industrial Accident Commission, 34 Cal. App. 589, 168 Pac. 392.

1119. "Roseberry act"—Question of willful misconduct jurisdictional.—Under the Roseberry act the question whether the accident was caused by the willful misconduct of the employee is one that goes to the jurisdiction of the board, and is therefore open to inquiry on certiorari.—Great Western Power Co. v. Pillsbury, 170 Cal. 120, 186, 149 Pac. 35.

1120. Review—Question as to willful misconduct of employee reviewable.—The question whether an employee was guilty of willful misconduct at the time he was killed is a jurisdictional one, and subject to review by the supreme court.—Fidelity, etc., Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 171 Cal. 728, 729, L. R. A. 1916D, 903, 154 Pac. 834.

1121. Question of "willful misconduct" jurisdictional.—The question as to whether an employee was guilty of willful misconduct at the time of his injury was a jurisdictional one, and subject to review by the supreme court.—Hyman, etc., Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 180 Cal. 423, 181 Pac. 784 (Weiss v. Hyman, etc., Co., 5 I. A. C. Dec. 71).

1121a. Willful misconduct of employee.—An award is subject to review on the question as to whether or not the employee was guilty of misconduct at the time of his injury.—Fidelity, etc., Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission (Cal.), 3 I. A. C. Dec.

9 (Head v. Fidelity, etc., Co., 1 I. A. C. Dec. 451).

1122. Double employment.—Finding as to excluded employment.—Where an employee engaged in the dual capacity of janitor and gardener, was injured while trimming an acacia tree, there was evidence to justify the finding of the commission that at the time of the injury the employee was engaged in horticultural labor and that it was without jurisdiction to award compensation and this finding can not be reviewed on appeal.—George v. Industrial Accident Commission, 56 Cal. Dec. 220, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 169 (George v. Wilson, 4 I. A. C. Dec. 55).

1123. Scope of section 84. Reviewable facts.—The phrase "such questions of fact shall include ultimate facts and the findings and conclusions of the commission" in section 84 of the act of 1913, refer wholly to conclusions of facts.—Smith v. Industrial Accident Commission, 26 Cal. App. 560, 147 Pac. 600.

XI. MISCELLANEOUS.

1. Release.

- 1124. Release at time of employment does not exempt employer from liability for compensation.
- 1125, 1126. Release not providing for full compensation, not a defense.
- 1127. Release under maritime law—Election of remedies.

2. Assignment of claim.

- 1128. Claim for compensation operates as assignment.
- 1129, 1130. Same—Right of action against tort-feasor.

3. Subrogation.

- 1130a. Right not affected by release.
- 1130b. Joint employers.
- 1130c. Employer and insurance carrier.
- 1130d. Insurance carrier bound by action of employer.
- 1130e. Right of action of carrier against tort-feasor.

4. Election of remedies.

- 1130f. Election of remedy.
- 1131-1136. Same—Serious and wilful misconduct as ground for action at law for damages.

5. Action against tort-feasor.

- 1137. Parties to action—Employer and carrier.
- 1138. Same—Father.
- 1139. Settlement of claim—Credited on indemnity.
- 1140. Judgment against tort-feasor—Offset against compensation award.

6. Jurisdiction of state courts.

- 1141. Actions under federal employer's liability act.
- 1142. Equitable actions.
- 1143. Same—Enjoin collection, of award.

1. Release.

1124. Release at time of employment does not exempt employer from liability for compensation.—An agreement between an employee and employer at the time of the employment releasing the employer from any claims arising or on account of hernia, the existence of which then appeared on physical examination, did not, in view of section 27(a) of the act of 1917, exempt employer from liability for compensation.—Hines v. Industrial Accident Commission, (Cal.) 188 Pac. 277.

1125. Release not providing for full compensation, not a defense.—A release by an employee to his employer that does not provide for the payment of full compensation under the act, is not a defense to a proceeding for an award by the industrial accident commission.—Employee's Credit Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 177 Cal. 46, 47, 169 Pac. 1001.

1126. A release which does not provide for full compensation is, under section 32b, not valid.—Massachusetts, etc., Co. v. Industrial Accident Commission, 176 Cal. 488, 493, 168 Pac. 1050.

1127. Release under maritime law—Election of remedies.—The giving of a release on payment of full wages and all the money an injured seaman was entitled to under admiralty law, did not constitute an election of remedies sufficient to bar him from the right to compensation under the act.—Johansen v. George E. Billings Co., 6 I. A. C. Dec. 236.

2. Assignment of claim.

1128. Claim for compensation operates as assignment.—When an injured employee makes a claim for compensation under the act such action operates to assign his claim against a tort-feasor for damages for such injury as fully as though such assignment had been expressly made in writing, and any settlement which such tort-feasor might thereafter make with such employer would be ineffectual to destroy or impair the right of the employer or the insurer who pays the claim for compensation.—Massachusetts, etc., Co. v. San Francisco-Oakland Terminal Railways, 39 Cal. App. 388, 178 Pac. 974.

1129. Same—Right of action against tort-feasor.—The provisions of section 31, and of subdv. (f) of section 34, of the act of 1913, were intended to permit an assignment of the injured employee's right of action for the injury, and to provide that the making of a lawful claim under the act should operate as such an assignment to his employer or the latter's insurer, who pays such claim.—Massachusetts, etc., Co. v. San Francisco-Oakland Terminal Railways, 39 Cal. App. 388, 178 Pac. 974.

1130. Under sections 31 and 34(f) of the act, the collection by a father of compensation for the death of a minor from his son's employer, works an assignment to the employer of the cause of action against the party whose negligence caused such death, and the employer or insurance carrier can maintain such action in their own names.—Stackpole v. Pacific Gas & Elec. Co., (Cal.) 186 Pac. 354, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 270.

5. Subrogation.

1130a. Right not affected by release.—The right of action of an employer against the owner of a building for an industrial injury to his employee caused by being caught in the elevator of the building, is not affected by a release by the employee executed to such owner in consideration of money paid to such employee by such owner, without such employer's knowledge.—Papineau v. Industrial Accident Commission, (Cal. App.) 187 Pac. 988, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 246 (Miles v. Papineau, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 74).

1130b. Joint employers.—In the case of joint employers, where one is held liable and the other held not liable, section 26 of the act is construed to mean the employer who is held liable and not the one who is held not liable, and such employer is entitled to credit upon his indemnity liability for the amount paid the employee on a settlement by the other joint employer.—Robinson v. San Francisco, etc., Railway, 5 I. A. C. Dec. 182.

1130c. Employer and insurance carrier.—While it is true that as between an insurer and an employee the right of subrogation would be an equitable one arising out of the payment by the former of the latter's claim for damages, still when such payment has been made, and the assignment of Silva's cause of action against the tort-feasor consummated by subrogation, the right thus accrued in the insurer was the right, as assignee, of maintaining the same action that the employee could have maintained had no such assignment been made.—Massachusetts, etc., Co. v. San Francisco-Oakland Terminal Railways, 39 Cal. App. 388, 178 Pac. 974.

1130d. Insurance carrier bound by action of employer.—An insurance carrier is bound by the action of the assured employer in changing a physician furnished by the insurance carrier in the absence of proof of injury to assume his liability as a condition precedent to subrogation, and such carrier was liable for the reasonable value of the substituted physician's services.—Turner v. Cass-Smurr-Damerel Co., 5 I. A. C. Dec. 186.

1130e. Right of action of carrier against tort-feasor.—The right of action of an insurer who has paid the claim of an injured employee against the tort-feasor is legal and not equitable.—Massachusetts, etc., Co. v. San Francisco-Oakland Terminal Railways, 39 Cal. App. 388, 178 Pac. 974.

4. Election of remedies.

1130f. Election of remedy.—In the present case it was held that the applicant had made a lawful claim for compensation under the act, and was bound thereby.—Benjamin v. Garneau Co., 4 I. A. C. Dec. 124.

1131. Same.—Serious and willful misconduct as ground for action at law for damages.—Serious and willful misconduct of an employee as ground for action at law for damages is not predicated upon a failure to provide a safety guard for a saw as required by order No. 600 of the commission, there being no evidence that he knowingly or willfully refused to provide such guard.—Lucky v. Hammond Lumber Co., 6 I. A. C. Dec. 3.

1132. Serious and willful misconduct can not be imputed to an electric railway company from the act of a motorman starting a train standing in the company yards, without orders, without receiving or giving a signal or endeavoring to ascertain whether the track was clear, the train not being one of which he was in charge, all in violation of the express order of the company, it not being shown that any such violation of the rules was practiced with the approval or acquiescence of an executive or managing officer of defendant.—Nicholson v. San Francisco-Oakland Terminal Railways, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 10.

1133. An employee is innocent of any element of willfulness in employing a sixteen-year-old boy to operate a tin-pressing machine in violation of the child labor law of 1917, where at the time of the employment the boy presented a school certificate entitling him to be employed at a proper employment, and the foreman of such employer erroneously believed such certificate sufficient to authorize the employment.—Lundgren v. Hammer-Bray Co., 6 I. A. C. Dec. 17.

1134. The failure of the employer to place a guard on a saw according to general safety order of commission does not constitute, in the absence of inspection or instructions, serious or willful misconduct of the employer.—Burke v. Chandler Shipbuilding Co., 5 I. A. C. Dec. 237.

1135. Where a scaffold on a vessel under construction was not provided with railings or other enclosures, by reason of which the employee fell and was fatally injured, it was held that the scaffold was unsafe and improper within the meaning of section 402C of the Penal Code and section 35 of the act of 1917 and that its maintenance by the employer constituted serious and willful misconduct.—Davis v. Craig, etc., Co., 5 I. A. C. Dec. 118.

1136. The act of overweighing a roof undergoing repair by placing too many workmen thereon, is not serious and willful misconduct within the meaning of the act.—Butt v. Hampton & Co., 5 I. A. C. Dec. 159.

5. Action against tort-feasor.

1137. Parties to action.—Employer and carrier.—An action for the death of a minor son may be brought by his father against the person whose negligence caused the death, even though he may have received compensation for such death from his son's employer or insurance carrier; but if objection is made, the action can not be prosecuted without the employer and carrier being made parties.—Stackpole v. Pacific G. & E. Co., (Cal.) 186 Pac. 354, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 270.

Such objection must be made in the manner prescribed by the code for non-joiner of necessary parties.—Same v. Same.

1138. Same—Father.—In an action by the employer and insurance carrier against a third person for the death of a minor employee, the father of such minor, who has received compensation under the act, is interested in the recovery to the extent of the excess over the amount necessary to reimburse the employer or carrier.—Stackpole v. Pacific G. & E. Co., (Cal.) 186 Pac. 354, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 270.

1139. Settlement of claim—Credited on indemnity.—An amount paid the injured employee's widow by a third party in settlement of a claim for compensation for his death was ordered credited upon the indemnity due under the act from the employer.—Donald v. The Travelers, etc., Co., 5 I. A. C. Dec. 162.

1140. Judgment against tort-feasor—Offset against compensation award.—An employee who recovers a judgment against a third party in a personal injury action, may maintain a claim for compensation for the same injury, but the amount of the judgment will be offset against the compensation award.—Goody v. Daley, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 179.

6. Jurisdiction of state courts.

1141. Actions under federal employers' liability act.—The state courts may take jurisdiction of personal injury actions by employees against employers under the federal employers' liability act as well as under the state act, and in such an action, under the state act, if the defendant does not, as he may, specially plead the fact that he desires to invoke the federal statute, it will be presumed that plaintiff's employment was intrastate and not interstate.—Terry v. Southern Pacific Co., 34 Cal. App. 330, 169 Pac. 86.

1142. Equitable actions.—The inhibition contained in subsection (d) of section 84 of the act does not deny to the courts the jurisdiction upon equitable grounds to "suspend or delay the operation or execution" of any order, decision or award of the commission upon the proper application of a stranger to the proceedings before the commission.—Gamble v. Superior Court, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 26, 39 Cal. App. 661, 179 Pac. 717.

1143. Same—Enjoin collection of award.—An action to enjoin the collection by execution or otherwise of an award by the industrial accident commission, where the complaint alleges that the plaintiff is a large stockholder in the corporation against which the award was made, that the award was obtained by fraud, and that its enforcement would result in irreparable injury to plaintiff, is in form and nature of relief sought an equitable proceeding, of which courts of equity take cognizance and have power to grant relief.—Gamble v. Superior Court, 6 I. A. C. Dec. 26, 39 Cal. App. 661, 179 Pac. 717.

EMPLOYER'S CASUALTY REPORTS.

ACT 2782—An act to provide for the keeping by employers of a record of injuries suffered by their employees; the reporting of such injuries to the industrial accident board by employers and attending physicians; the keeping by employers and insurance companies of records of claims for injuries suffered by employees and of compromises and settlements made therefor and requiring the reporting thereof to said board; and fixing a penalty for refusal or neglect to keep such records or make such reports.

History: Approved January 10, 1912, Stats. 1911 (ex. sess.), p. 217.

Record of personal injury to employees. Report of employer to industrial accident board.

§ 1. Every employer of labor in this state shall keep a full, true and correct record of every personal injury suffered by his or its employees, arising out of or in the course of the employment, and resulting in death, or in disability extending over a period of a week or more. Within fifteen days after the happening of any such personal injury, a written report thereof shall be mailed by the employer to the industrial accident board informally, or on blanks to be provided by said board for this purpose. The said report shall contain the name of the employer, location of place of employment, nature of employment, name, address, age, nationality, sex and occupation of the injured person, length of time the injured person had worked at the particular employment previous to injury, date and hour of the day or night of the accident, the hour at which the injured employee began work on the date of the accident, nature of the injury, cause of the injury and rate of wages of the injured employee.

Supplemental report. Details of claim, payment, or settlement.

§ 2. Upon the termination of the disability of the injured employee or at the expiration of sixty days from the date of the accident, if the disability should extend beyond such period, the employer shall mail to the industrial accident board a supplemental report in relation to such disability, informally or on blanks to be provided by said board for this purpose. Such report must contain complete statements as to any claim made by the injured employee for indemnification for the injury sustained, payment made to him or in his behalf for medical, surgical or other care, claim for compensation or damages made for such injuries and any compromise or settlement of claim for compensation or damages entered into between the employer and such injured employee, his heirs, dependents or legal representative. In the event that any payment shall be made to such injured employee, or his dependents at any time thereafter, in compromise or settlement of a claim for compensation or damages, the amount of such payment shall be forthwith reported by the employer to the industrial accident board.

Report of attending physician.

§ 3. Every physician who attends any such injured employee shall keep a record of his case. Within ten days from the date of his first attendance upon the injured employee, he shall mail to the industrial accident board a report, informally or on blanks to be provided by the said board for this purpose. The said report shall contain the name and address of the employer, name, address, sex and age of the injured employee, date of accident, description of the injury, probable nature and extent of disability. Upon the termination of the disability of the injured employee or the termination of said physician's attendance upon his case, he shall forthwith mail to the industrial accident board a supplemental report in relation to such case describing the physical condition of the injured employee, his disability, convalescence or discharge from the doctor's care.

Report of insurance or indemnity companies.

§ 4. Every person, firm, association or corporation insuring against the liability of employers for damages or compensation for personal injury to employees or indemnifying any employer for, or on account of any such liability shall keep a record thereof, and shall within the first five days of each and every month, report in writing to the industrial accident board, informally or on blanks to be provided by said board for this purpose, every such injury to employees reported to it, every claim for damages or compensation for such injury filed with such person, firm, association or corporation and any settlement or compromise of any such claim for damages or compensation whether made with such injured employee, his heirs, dependents or legal representative.

Additional information.

§ 5. Every employer, physician or insurance company, firm or association, shall furnish to the industrial accident board all further information required by it in order to constitute a substantially complete and accurate history of each injury and the damages or compensation paid therefor.

Use of records or reports.

§ 6. The record required to be kept in pursuance of the provisions of this act shall at all times be open to inspection of the industrial accident board or any member thereof, or any examiner appointed thereby. Any statement contained in such report shall not be admissible as evidence in any action arising out of the death or injury of any employee by reason of the accident reported.

Penalty for failure to observe law.

§ 7. It shall be unlawful for any person, firm, corporation, agent or officer of a firm or corporation to fail, neglect or refuse to comply with any of the provisions of this act. Any person, firm, corporation, agent or officer of a firm or corporation that violates or omits to comply with any of the provisions of this act, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor for each and every offense and shall be, upon conviction thereof, punishable by fine of not less than ten dollars or more than one hundred dollars or by imprisonment for not more than thirty days, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

Not to apply to certain pursuits.

§ 8. Nothing in this act shall apply to employers of labor engaged in farming, dairying, agricultural or horticultural pursuits, in poultry raising or domestic service.

EMPLOYERS' HOSPITAL SERVICE.

ACT 2783—An act requiring employers who provide hospital service for their employees and who make a charge therefor, to keep books, records and accounts of all such charges, and to make an annual written report thereof; requiring each such charge to be just and reasonable and to be devoted to no other purpose than such hospital service; and prescribing penalties for violations of the provisions thereof.

History: Approved June 8, 1915. In effect August 8, 1915. Stats. 1915, p. 1310. Amended April 6, 1917. In effect July 27, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 83.

Definitions.

§ 1. The following terms, as used in this act, shall be construed as follows:

“Employer.”

(a) The term “employer” shall mean and include every person, partnership, company, association, joint stock association or corporation engaged in any business or enterprise in this state and hiring or employing five or more persons in such business.

“Charge.”

(b) The term “charge” shall mean and include any deduction from the salary or wage of an employee, or any collection from or contribution by an employee, whether such charge be made regularly at stated intervals or at the time of injury or illness of an employee, or at any other time or in any other manner.

Employer furnishing hospital service to make report.

§ 2. Every employer who affords or provides hospital service of any sort for his employees, for which service any charge is received or collected by such employer, or at his instance or request, shall in each year, on or before the thirtieth day of January thereof, file as hereinafter provided a written report for the next last preceding year, which report shall contain a statement showing (1) the total amount of hospital charges collected or received during the year, (2) an itemized account of all expenditures, investments or other disposition of such charges, and (3) a statement showing what balance, if any, remains. This report shall be verified by the employer, if an individual; by a member, if a partnership; by the secretary or president, if a corporation, company, association or joint stock association.

Hospital charges must be just.

§ 3. Every such hospital charge demanded, collected or received by an employer shall be just and reasonable. The railroad commission is hereby given authority to decide what is an unreasonable charge in all cases where such charge is made by a hospital maintained by a common carrier by rail, and in all cases where the charge is made by a hospital maintained by other than a common carrier by rail, the industrial accident commission is hereby given authority to decide what is an unreasonable charge. [Amendment of April 6, 1917. In effect July 27, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 83.]

Purpose of charges.

§ 4. No such hospital charge collected or received by an employer shall be devoted to any purpose other than bona fide hospital or medical service for the employees from whom the charge is demanded, collected or received.

Common carrier subject to railroad commission. Other employers under industrial accident commission.

§ 5. Every common carrier by rail employer who is under a duty to render the report referred to in section two of this act shall be subject to the jurisdiction, control and regulation of the railroad commission in respect to auditing and inspection of all books, records and accounts and to enforce its orders in the same manner and to the same extent as said commission now possesses over any public utility that is subject to the provisions of the "public utilities acts" of this state, approved December 23, 1911, as amended June 11, 1913, and June 14, 1913, and all acts amendatory thereof or supplemental thereto. Every employer coming under the provisions of this act shall be required to post a copy of this statement or report upon all bulletin boards at terminals or in a conspicuous place where employees can read such statement or report. Every employer other than a common carrier by rail, who is under a duty to render the report referred to in section two of this act, shall be subject to the jurisdiction, control and regulation of the industrial accident commission in respect to the auditing and inspection of all books, records and accounts and the authority is hereby conferred upon said industrial accident commission to enforce by appropriate orders and processes the provisions of this act. The written report required by section two hereof when made by a common carrier by rail shall be filed with the railroad commission. All other written reports required by section two hereof shall be filed with the industrial accident commission. [Amendment of April 6, 1917. In effect July 27, 1917. Stats. 1917, p. 83.]

Penalty.

§ 6. Every employer neglecting or failing to render or file the report required by section two of this act is guilty of a misdemeanor and is punishable by a fine not less than one hundred dollars or more than two thousand dollars for each offense.

VOCATIONAL RE-EDUCATION AND REHABILITATION.

ACT 2784—An act to provide for the support of vocational re-education and rehabilitation of workmen disabled in industry in this state, and to create a fund for these purposes to be known as the "industrial rehabilitation fund" by fixing an additional liability upon all employers liable under said act in cases where employees receive fatal compensable injury and leave no dependents.

History: Approved May 2, 1919. In effect July 22, 1919. Stats. 1919, p. 273.

"Industrial rehabilitation fund" created.

§ 1. Whenever any fatal compensable injury is suffered by any employee coming under the provisions of said compensation, insurance and safety act and such deceased employee does not leave surviving him any person entitled to a death benefit, the employer, or his insurance carrier, if he be insured under said compensation act, shall pay into the treasury of the state of California the sum of three hundred fifty dollars for each such fatal injury in addition to any other payments under the provisions of said compensation act; provided, that the total payments shall not exceed three times the average annual earnings of said deceased employee. Said moneys paid into the state treasury under the provisions of this section shall be covered into a special fund to be known as the "industrial rehabilitation fund," which fund is hereby created and appropriated for the purposes set forth in this act.

Purpose.

§ 2. The industrial accident commission may draw upon said fund for the promotion of vocational re-education and rehabilitation of persons disabled in industry in this state, in addition to any other money appropriated for such purposes. The controller is hereby ordered to draw his warrant on said fund from time to time in accordance with the direction of the commission, and the treasurer is hereby authorized and directed to pay the same.

Disposition of remainder.

§ 3. The treasurer shall place the remainder, if any, of the fund, after making the payments required by the preceding sections of this act, semi-annually, to the credit of the accident prevention fund, established by said compensation act.

Revolving fund. Expense of administration.

§ 4. As soon as the sum of five thousand dollars shall have accumulated in said fund, the treasurer shall, upon the order of the industrial accident commission, deposit the same with the state compensation insurance fund as a revolving fund. The state compensation insurance fund shall, upon the order or award of the industrial accident commission, make the payments required by sections two, three and four from said revolving fund, accounting therefor to the state board of control as in other cases, and the state treasurer shall from time to time, upon the order of the commission, reimburse said state compensation insurance fund from the industrial rehabilitation fund for expenditures made from said revolving fund. The reasonable expense of administration of the said state compensation insurance fund in carrying out the duties imposed by this act shall, upon the auditing and approval thereof by the state board of control, be paid from said industrial rehabilitation fund in the same manner as is provided in this section for other payments. The controller is hereby directed to draw his warrant from time to time in favor of the state compensation insurance fund in accordance with the direction of said commission, and the treasurer is hereby authorized and directed to pay the same.

Proceedings to collect amount or determine liability. If claim of dependency established.

§ 5. If any proceedings are necessary to collect from any employer the amount mentioned in the preceding section, or to determine the liability of any employer under said compensation act with respect to said amount, such proceedings shall be instituted before the industrial accident commission of its own motion or by the attorney general on behalf of the people of the state of California and such proceedings shall be tried and determined in the same manner and with the same effect as any other proceeding to collect compensation; provided, that if proceedings be instituted by any other person to collect benefits under the compensation act on account of such fatal injury, the commission may, if it finds said sum of three hundred fifty dollars payable to the state treasurer, award said sum to the state of California without the people of the state of California being a party to said proceedings; and provided, further, that if said sum of three hundred fifty dollars shall be paid into the treasury and at any time thereafter any person claiming to be a dependent of the deceased employee shall establish such dependency and secure an award therefor, the commission may make an award against the state of California in favor of said dependent for said sum of three hundred fifty dollars, or as much thereof as may be necessary to meet the claim of such dependent, said sum to be applied to said death benefit and to relieve to that extent the employer or his insurance carrier against liability therefor.

Authority of industrial accident commission.

§ 6. The industrial accident commission of the state of California is hereby vested with full jurisdiction and authority to hear and determine any and all questions and controversies arising under this act and to make and enter all orders and awards necessary to carry out the purposes herein set forth.
